WHEN HUMOR SAVED A WAR

The Christ of the Andes is a gigantic statue that for 25 years has stood with extended arm on the boundary bullets at the instigation of a group of peace-loving women. Today it stands as a symbol of peace between two countries that for so long were enemies.

But the direction in which the great arm points almost provoked a fight, threatening to undo all that had been done to get the statue made and erected. The statue E. T. Weir, one of the leaders of the steel industry. was set up with its arm pointing toward Argentina. The Chileans took this as a personal affront. A Santiago newspaper solved the difficulty and brought about a spirit of Weir asked in a recent radio address. And his answer good feeling when it said it was an act of Providence that was—"Mainly to business and industry." good feeling when it said it was an act of Providence that faced The Christ toward Argentina because that country needed watching more than Chili. This brought fourth a great laugh from every one, Argentina along with the rest, and the matter was amicably settled.

ALL SHOULD HAVE WORK TO DO

If man ever sees a world that is completely and wholesomely happy, it will be a world wherein it is necessary that all men have work to do which is worth doing and men are happy. For if the work one does is in itself pleasant, and done under conditions that are neither over-wearisome nor over-anxious, man will inevitably be happy.

Under these ideal conditions, discontent and strife would end. To feel that we are doing work useful to others and pleasant to ourselves, and to feel that such work and its due reward would not fail us, would end the discord and suspicion that grips the world.

Let a human being throw the energies of his soul into the making of something or the doing of something that means benefit to others and pleasure to himself, and you do not have to preach honesty to him. The instinct of workmanship will take care of that. When the time comes not because duty says he should not, but because honesty county, your state. It is an endeavor all too often negsays he could not, the discord and greed that troubles the world today will disappear.—The Sunshine Monthly.

FOR EFFICIENCY OR-

The American people, through the constitution, have specifically given to congress the control over expenditures of federal money. They aren't willing for it to just be spent by anybody. And if the people don't like the way it is being spent, then every two years they have a chance to kick out of office a third of the senators and all of the representatives.

Congress has guarded that responsibility very careful-It has first passed bills saying that money shall be spent for the authorized purposes.

Now, however, the administrators reorganization bill has been placed back in the hopper and is about to be brought up for debate. If it passes-on the plea of its suporters or government efficiency—the office of the comptroller general will be abolished. Instead of letting the comptroller general say whether the money is being properly spent before it is spent, the bill would establish a so-called "post audit" system. In other words, it would let a minor branch of the treasury determine after the money had been sent, whether it was properly spent.

That is not unlike locking the stable door after the horse has been stolen,

SYSTEM NECESSARY

Very little can be accomplished in life without some method or system. In big or little matters there must be systematic plan faithfully followed in order to bring things to pass. Once in a while real feats are accomplished by accident or inspiration, but in the main methods and system must be adopted if anything worthwhile is achieved.

Slipshod ways of going about the business of life usually lead to chaos, confusion and failure. Efforts put forth without some definite sim is like firing a rifle in the air without taking aim. The good marksman or the successful hunter aims at something and gets results.

The law of systematic effort is in harmony with the universe in which we live. If it were not for law and order the solar system and other systems of space would soon be in chaos and their life would come to an end. As it is the stars and planets move for ages in their orbits, season follows season, night follows day and this good old earth is habitable by man. If mankind has the good sense to work in systematic harmony with the great forces about him, he will be happier and his life more successful.

Apply system and order to your life if you expect to anything in the brief span allotted to human beings re on earth.—Kerrville Times.

IT CAN BE DONE

To say that the crying need of the moment for the Nation is the raising of the national income is to speak a simple truth with which all will agree. National income of $90,000,000,000 has been estimated as necessary to between Chile and Argentina. It was made from melted bring full employment at a rising standard of living. This would be at least $10,000,000,000 more than the 1929 income peak, and about 30 billions beyond 1937. But, the question is asked-where is such a sum to come from, without using the destructive forces of inflation.

The answer to that question is ably put forward by

"Where are we to look for this added income?" Mr.

In his address, Mr. Weir pointed out that the annual national income is the money value of everything manufactured, mined and grown, plus every service performed during the year. This being the case, if the national income is to be increased we must have greater production the primary elections. Bill Mcin business and industry and on the farms.

To insure this increase, the obstacles and regimentations now preventing it must be removed. Professional ernor, which already knew, then stirrers of hate against business must be brought to see underwent a two-hour questioning that large business, small buisness and labor are all in the at the hands of Chairman Holsame position and attacks on any part of business hurts the whole. At the same time we must ignore those who would bring a false raising of the national income through inflation by the simple expedient of just printing more paper money that only buys less.

68,599 Persons Are

AUSTIN-The State Government is by far the biggest employer in Texas. The latest available figures show that there are 68,599 on the State's payrolls. Public school teachers are in the lead, for there are 53,978 of them.

The Highway Department comes second, having 7,000 employes in the various divisions and 427 in the main office in Austin. Tex-as A. & M. College leads other educational institutions in employes, they numbering 1,009. Those on the payroll of the University of Texas total 923.

In the Capitol group of state departments the Old Age Assistance Board leads with 495. The Livestock Sanitary Commission, with headquarters in Fort Worth, has 521 employes and the Texas prison system, 583.

While the Railroad Commission is set down as having 556, oil and gas companies pay a special administrative levy for enforcement of their laws, and this fund goes to support of such payroll. Other Large Employers

Capitol Overcrowded The Capitol in recent years has been overcrowded with boards, bureaus and employes and to house them quarters have been rented. Tr Forty-fifth Legislature was asked to appropriate a large sum for a new state office building but the bill failed to pass. For support of all departments, boards, bureaus and institutions the State Government is now expending $150,000,000 a year, this including highways. It represents an increase of 2,900 per cent in government costs in the last 30

The State has 96 boards of all types and 25 were added in the last decade.

If federal, county and city employes are added to the State's list, the number of government workers in Texas would approximate 150,000, which would form a city with a population much larger than that of Austin. While candidates for Governor Some of the other large employers in state service include: fond of urging in platforms con-

TEXAS SELECTS THE BEST

The dust homas thick upon the trail And the horns and the hoofs are clashing, While off at the side through the chaparral The mon and the strays go crashing But in right good cheer the cowboy sings, For the work of the fall is ending, And then it's ride for the old home ranch Where a maid love's light is tending.

Then it's crack! crack! crack! On the beet steer's back, And it's run, you slow-foot devil; For I'm soon to turn back where through the black Love's lamp gleams along the level.

He's trailed them far o'er the trackless range, Has this knight of the saddle leather; He has risked his life in the mad stampede, And has breasted all kinds of weather But now is the end of the trail in sight, And the hours on wings are sliding; For it's back to the home and the only girl When the foreman O K's the option.

Then it's quirt! quirt! quirt! And it's run or git hurt, You hang-back, bawlin' critter For a man who's in love with a turtle dove Ain't got no time to fritter.
