WRECK WEATHER COMING

Summer approaches, the pulse of nature quickens, life begins, and shortly the country's motorists will start slowing up one another's pulses and ending their lives.

Traffic cops know that good weather breeds bad accidents. The safest time to take a spin is at the height of a rain storm or the tag end of a thick blizzard. Most people are more than ordinary cautious then. When the sun comes out and the roads dry off, everybody does a little relaxing, lets it out, and turns his car into a kind of traveling nut house.

The season, therefore, is ripe for taking stock . . . of your own assets and liabilities as a driver, the ones that appear to be those of the average driver you encounter, and those of your car as something to entrust your life to.

How long will it take to make the nation's highways as safe as its sidewalks nobody cares to guess, but the problems of traffic have never commanded such concerted country wide study as they are now receiving. National organizations, community groups, city, county state and federal officials are going after satisfactory solutions from every conceivable angle.

Highway improvement is one idea. The chairman of Connecticut's Highway Safety Commission has recently expressed a hope, as others have, for compulsory car inspection prior to any transfer of ownership of a second-hand automobile. The imposition of driving tests and other examinations on license applicants is growing.

A Chicago traffic court judge has gone to the extent of having traffic violators examined by psychiatrists, and induced to take treatments whose purpose is the correction of the "personality twists" responsible for their abnormal behavior at the wheel.

The greatest movement and the most effective one, is the safety education campaign among children and adults. Figures on traffic deaths and injuries in cities all over the country show startling reductions where such campaigns have been pursued.

If present efforts in the direction of highway safety are kept up with continued interest, a traffic death in the future will really be news.

CAUSE FOR OPTIMISM

Apparently there is no issue between the two leading candidates for governor on the question of economy and tax relief. Both have expressed the view that the State's business in all its ramifications, can be carried out without new or increased taxes. Both recognize the need for reduction in the administrative costs of State government. So nearly together are these leading candidates on the economy issue, that both have given approval to the economy recommendation of State Auditor Tom King.

Despite the merits and activities of others in the gubernatorial campaign, it is generally conceded that either Attorney General McCraw or Railroad Commissioner Thompson will win the democratic nomination. Whatever may be their other differences, these two stand together for economy and a tax holiday. And that fact furnishes a reason for optimism on the part of citizens able to perceive that the greatest threat to their State's prosperity is the possibility of a heavier tax burden.—Austin Times.

RUSSIAN PROSPERITY

"To earn a pound of butter the unskilled worker in Moscow must labor almost two days. His wages will be about 150 rubles a month, a ruble being 20 cents. (That's $30 a month.) Butter costs ten rubles a pound. The skilled worker may earn a pound of butter in a single day. The cheapest shoes to be had in Moscow, of a quality probably the worst in Europe, will cost the unskilled worker the equivalent of one month of toil.

"For a decent pair of shoes the skilled worker also must invest his earnings of a month. For any sort of respectable suit of clothes a college trained employee, paid from 600 to 1,000 rubles a month, must hand over the wages of six weeks.

"These comparisons, however, make no allowance for the deductions from the wages of every toiler. He will have to work many more hours and days for his butter, shoes and clothes because, one ruble in every five goes for trade union dues, association subscriptions, taxes and loans, all of which are collected under compulsion.

"These comparisons are from the correspondence of the Manchester Guardian, in an article reproduced in the Baltimore Sun. Lately returned from a prolonged residence in Russia, the writer pictures conditions there as anything but alluring. Everybody is entitled to employment but nobody has any freedom to go and come as he pleases, or any control over his rates of pay. The low level of real wages, the worker's income, not in rubles and kopeks but in their exchange value for the necessities of life, is an unsolved problem in the Soviet republic.

"The writer holds that the technique of production somehow must be mastered before long or else the very existence of the Soviet system will be jeopardized. What is happening is what may be expected to happen anywhere when private initiative is abolished. Nobody who works in any sort of occupation in Russia takes any genuine interest in the quality or the quantity of his output." —From The Boston Herald.

NOBODY'S BUSINESS

BY JULIAN CAPERS JR.

AUSTIN—The political pinwheel, set off by the Governor's race, whirled merrily on in Texas, and the week-end found these newsworthy developments: Mootings of Ferguson supporters, demanding full payment of $15 pensions to everybody in Texas over 65, regardless of need, carefully staged in San Antonio and Dallas had caused several hundred letters and telegrams to be sent "MA," seeking to draft her, but spokesman Jim repeated she "is not a candidate" . . . Best guessers here believed the build-up was to place Jim in a position to throw his support advantageously to some other candidate, and did not think the Ferguson's would switch their decision not to enter "Ma" . . . Gov. Alfred told reporters he wouldn't get in, even if the Ferguson's did, and said he would be enjoying Gulf breezes at Galveston during the summer while other candidates were prespiring and belaboring each other. . . . Tom Hunter had not yet produced his promised platform . . . Karl Crowley, the Washington candidate, is NOT being supported by the national Democratic party organization in his race for Governor of Texas, according to a telegram which Bob Baker, secretary of the Senate, sent Jim Farley, asking the direct question, which Farley promptly answered in the negative . . . Bill McCraw resumed campaigning with talks in Northeast Texas . . . Ernest Thompson was out of the State to attend to an interstate oil compact commission meeting at Wichita Kansas . . . Welly Hopkins, former Senator from Gonzales, and lately a special assistant U. S. Attorney General in Washington, resigned to accept appointment as first first assistant attorney general under McCraw, succeeding Scott Gaines, who becomes Texas University's legal representative.

ALL INCUMBENTS OPPOSED
 Every State official seeking re-election, with the possible exception of some of the higher court judges, will have opposition, according to announcements which may, or may not be backed up with filing fees, when the time comes to put up the money . . . Judge Harry Graves of Court of Criminal Appeals, whose eligibility has been questioned in a lawsuit dismissed by the court, filed for re-election, and will be opposed by C. A. Pippen, of Dallas, a veteran former judge of the Criminal District Bench there . . . Gerald C. Mann, former Secretary of State, opened his campaign for Attorney General before a generous crowd at his birthplace, Sulphur Springs . . . Mann is generally believed by observers here to be the best bet for a runoff in this race against Lt. Gov. Walter Woodul, whose campaign reports here indicate, has been going so well that many doubt a runoff will be necessary . . . Bascom Giles, opposing Land Commissioner Bill McDonald for re-election, swung into active campaign and organization work, indicating he will vigorously make an issue of McDonald's conduct of the Land Office during the past two years . . . Coke Stevenson, twice speaker, and candidate for Lt. Governor, is conducting a unique hand-shaking campaign, making few speeches, but visiting many hundreds of voters, while Sen. G. H. Nelson, his chief opponent, is vigorously advocating a unicameral legislature as an issue.

FAMOUS EDITOR VISITOR

Texas was honored at the week-end by the visit of Barry Faris, editor-in-chief of the International News Service, whose job in New York is to keep his finger on the pulse of imminent news events in a hundred nations of the world, and direct a staff of several hundred foreign and domestic correspondents. "News services of the world have been working on a wartime basis for five years, since Hitler invaded the Ruhr basin, and tore up the Versailles treaty," he said, "Hourly, we have been expecting the match that would set off the tinder-box of another world war. It will come whenever the democracies of the world demand a showdown with the dictators, and it is inevitable." Faris flew from New York to Dallas to address Southwestern members of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity, and to renew old acquaintances with Texas newsmen. He got some of his early training in this state. Sigma Delta Chi conferred the

Lima Beans No "Has Beens"

By BETTY BARCLAY

Some foods that were favorites with our grandparents are now "has beens" seldom seen on our tables. This does not apply to the dried Lima bean which is an "is'er" there ever was one. Grandmother probably never heard of this food, but our generation is consuming more and more each year.

And why not? The dried Lima bean is remarkably rich in protein and ranks with other legumes as the highest of all popular vegetables in carbohydrates. It contains both Vitamins A and B. As for such necessary food ingredients as sodium, magnesium, potassium, sodium, phosphorus, chlorine, sulfur and iron, you will best appreciate the dried Lima bean by comparing it with such common foods as lean beef, eggs, fish, milk and potatoes. In iron, potassium and magnesium, the Lima bean ranks higher than the five foods mentioned. In sodium and phosphorus it ranks second—and in calcium, third. Quite a showing for a comparatively new food, is it not?

As with all other products of the soil, the Lima bean attains its maximum food value and flavor only when fully developed on the plant. Today we have thousands of acres devoted to growing these beans. Cooked, dried Limas are available anywhere in cans. Another food has come into its own on this side of the Atlantic.

Try both recipes below and see how delicious properly-prepared dried Lima bean dishes may be:

- Limas en Casserole
2 cups cooked, dried Limas (Seaside brand)
2 cups milk
2 tablespoons flour
1 pimiento, chopped fine
6 thin slices bacon cooked until crisp

Cut cooked bacon into small pieces. Place a layer of Limas in a buttered casserole; sprinkle with salt, flour, bacon and pimiento; repeat. Cover and bake in a moderate oven (375° F.) about 30 minutes or until milk is all absorbed. Serve from the casserole, garnishing top with strips of crisp fried bacon and strips of pimiento.

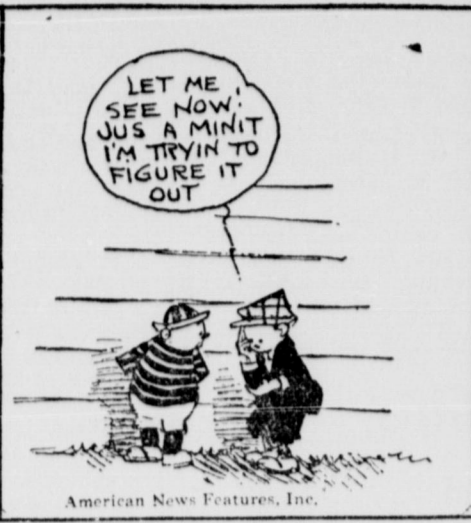

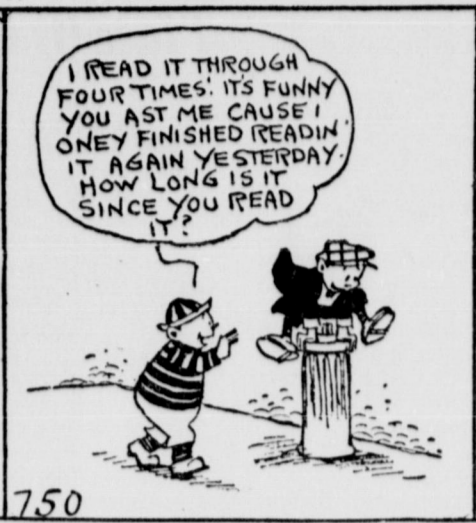

- Lima Loaf
2 cups cooked, dried Limas
2 tablespoons minced onion
2 tablespoons tomato catsup
3 tablespoons melted butter
1 egg, well beaten
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 cup soft bread crumbs

Combine ingredients and turn into a buttered bread pan. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) about 25 minutes. To serve, unmold in center of platter, place strips of crisp bacon over the top and garnish with slices of fried tomatoes.

Cream Separator Makes Money For Man Who Keeps Even Few Cows; Easy To Run

BY MAGGIE GRIMES

Written Especially for the Semi-Weekly Farm News

At this season of the year more than any other the farmer who has four or five dairy cows can find many good reasons for wanting a good new cream separator to help take care of the milk. Many of these reasons will be based on the fact that this machine is a great time saver and there are forty reasons for saving time right now. The time of every one who is able to do any farm work right now is very valuable.

The ground has been so wet we are late with the plowing and the seed ought to be in the ground. The corn needs cultivating and more weeds are coming up every day. The garden ought to be planted this very day, or if one has good luck and got the seed in early. The crust should be broken and more weeds put out of business. Broken terraces must be fixed before another rain comes or the whole system may go out and the newly terraced field all ruined. There's a thousand things to do and all need attention at once.

It is a great temptation to turn the cows and all the work that goes with them over to the farm woman. But this is not right because this is too big a job for a woman who probably already has her hands full taking care of the little chickens, trailing turkey hens to the nests they are so careful to hide, seeing that the sitting hens get back on the right nest, keeping the ones with little chicks from scratching in the flower beds and all of the regular run of household that she never can get done like she wants to. A woman may be able to take care of the garden at odd times between other chores during the planting season, but adding the work with the milk to her day is just too much.

Turning a cream separator is not much work and any child old enough to have any responsibility can operate the machine so far as that goes. With the aid of a cream separator any housewife can take care of the milk after it is brought from the barn if she has the time. Only a few minutes is required to run the milk thru and the cream is ready to be marketed or stored in a small container.

The fact that the chores with the milk are over all at one time ton allotments, according to Slaughter. Meanwhile state AAA workers announced that they had certified 146,963 applications for grant under the 1937 Agricultural Conservation Program for payments totaling $24,850,327.85. The total number of applications is expected to reach 200,000, and the total payments will be approximately 37 million dollars.

and the utensils put away at once means a considerable saving in time as well as work. The weather will soon be quite warm and milk always requires refrigeration to keep it any length of time. If the cream is left to raise naturally by gravity the milk will be sour before it is skimmed and the cream will not become sweet again even though it is set in a good refrigerator.

A very large refrigerator will be needed to cool off a great quantity of whole milk, whereas the cream from that same amount of milk could all go in a small vessel.

Some farm women try to churn off the milk because they know there is always some cream left in it even after the most careful hand skimming. If the milk is kept cool and allowed to become hard clabber the greater part of the cream may be removed by hand. This method of handling milk makes more trouble because it must be kept so long and there must be enough crocks or other vessels to hold it until it is ready to be churned and then all these vessels must be washed and scalded and they ought to be kept in the sunshine all day to keep them clean and sweet. Just think how many vessels it would take to hold all the milk from several cows until the last of the cream rises and there is a big skimming job and washing of vessels twice a day.

Practically all of this work is eliminated when a cream separator is used. The warm sweet milk, freed of its cream, may be carried right back to the barnyard in the same vessels used to bring it in without any in-between washing. You will only need two vessels to hold what you keep for use, one for the cream and one for the whole milk you save for the family to use sweet.

Most people who have never used a cream separator wonder how much trouble they are to clean. This depends on which particular machine you are working with, but every manufacturer of separators has made a special point of making this work as easy as possible. The bowls are all about alike and as easy to clean as a china dish, but they are lighter to handle than a dish that size and they will not break if dropped. In fact they are very durable and will last for years and be as serviceable as ever.

The disks which do the actual work of separating the milk are perfectly smooth and may be separated instantly for a thorough cleaning, if desired. They may all be lifted out at one time, rinsed in cool water, dangled in hot soap suds, and then scalded without even handling the individual disks, and hung out in the sunshine together.

The disks are very important and so when buying a cream separator be sure you are getting the best grade of stainless steel. This will not rust and it will not wear enough worth noticing in many years. All polished steel looks alike to the layman, but there is a lot of difference in the several grades depending upon the amount of iron and other metals which make up the special alloy. The only way I have ever found to be able to depend on merchandise is to get the product of reliable manufacturers, or if I do not do not know anything about the manufacturer, I want to do business with a local dealer whom I can trust and who will guarantee the product he sells.

We are so busy these days we think more of time-saving devices than anything else, but cream separators save a lot of money too. Every ounce of cream saved that would otherwise be lost is just that much. If you only save a teaspoonful of a milking that would be a pound a day. There will be off seasons and we may not save that much every day, but we ought to average that much at least 300 days in a year. Figure the price of cream and see how long it will take to make the cream separator pay for itself. It will not be long and the more milk you have for it to work on the shorter time will be.

Dairymen who raise calves have a lot to say about the value of giving skim milk to the calves while it is still warm and fresh. It is entirely too expensive to raise calves on whole milk, but young calves will not do well on cold, partly sour milk, and you will either have to give them cream or use a cream separator. Give calves fresh warm skim milk and supplement with a good commercial calf feed and it will pay to raise all your heifer calves. It will even pay to raise beef calves if you don't give them cream and have a pasture to finish them.

There is no way to get out of all the work about caring for milk, but the best cream separators will go a long way in that direction. There is no one way to make all the money on a farm, but a small herd of good cows will bring in a lot of money if you make use of a cream separator and have a reasonably convenient market.

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them! Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living-life fluid—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out. Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance. The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. ### Appeal For Funds To Mark Burial Place Of Col. Chas. Goodnight Made

The things that engage our time and attention in every day life make us prone to overlook, times, the finer things that make for a better citizenship and a sense of having done honor to those who have gone before and paved the way that we might en- joy living in a fair land we call our own surrounded by family and friends.

Charles Goodnight came to the Panhandle in 1876, blazed the trail and experienced, with his wife, all the attendant hardships of a pioneer of that time. He died on December 12, 1929 and is buried at Goodnight, Texas.

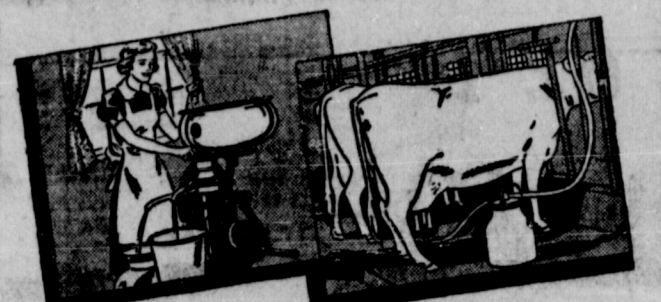

Up to the present date his grave is not even marked. Every resi- dent of the entire Panhandle of Texas and all of those who had the privilege of knowing this wonderful character should re- lieve their conscience by making, at least, a small contribution toward erecting a suitable monu- ment and provide for its care in the years to come. It was my pleasure and privi- lege to have known Mr. Goodnight for the past forty years and I was granted the honor of being made chairman of an association to see that a too long delayed duty we owe him be discharged. The last years of his life were spent in Donley county and every resident of the county should feel proud of contributing at least one dollar to this worthy cause.

The total amount contributed to this morning, May 5, is $416.00, a little more than one-third of the goal.

Any contributions may be left with Mrs. Harold D. Bugbee, the treasurer, at the First National Bank in Clarendon.

Political Rally At Martin Tonight

The only political rally and get-together to be held in the immed- iate vicinity of Clarendon this week will be held tonight at Mar- tin.

The gathering will be served ice cream and a program will be rendered by the Martin Junior and Senior classes.

Several candidates plan to at- tend and present their campaign to this group.
