ANOTHER STEP NEEDED

Texas folk are applauding the recent enactment of a law that puts a ban on the blatant beer signs that cluttered up our highways and added to road hazards. Our self-respect will come up a bit from elimination of this affront to good taste and citizenship.

Now, if we could only shake the breweries loose from certain otherwise desirable news broadcasts over the radio stations of the Southwest, we would be another step along the road to decency and better citizenship.

Thousands of Texans who detest the blatant claims of the breweries, are switching their radio sets to other programs when they would prefer to hear the news at the beer-dominated hours.

GLAMOUR OF PIONEER DAYS

Loyal citizens of the Southwest honor the bold, the good, the hospitality of the pioneer days of this great section of the nation, and rightly so. All over the area Celebrations such as Clarendon had last week attend the high reverence in which the fine attributes of the old days are held.

There is another companion thought, however, that some are prone to overlook, and it sometimes stands as a danger to progress under these modern conditions that face every community today. If the mind is turned back solely to the days and doings of the past, constructive thinking and planning for advancement of cultural and commercial advancement, is almost impossible to achieve.

Let us be sure that after we have enjoyed our annual tributes to the virtues and courage of the pioneer days, we switch our minds resolutely to the problems of today. Competition and pressure of modern conditions must enlist our best thought and energies if we are to go forward.

If we fail to measure up to present demands, we have shamed the pioneers, and proven ourselves unworthy of the heritage they left for us to enjoy.

LOYALTY, TRUTH—AND GOD

"In my early life I saw a wave of materialism sweep over the world. The publication of Darwin's works resulted in the blind rejection of the Holy Writ by many. Philosophers felt that there was an impossible barrier between science and religion.

"But the true religious man was not dismayed. He knew that what he believed was the truth, and the truth does not fear knowledge. The church stands for an absolute loyalty to truth and if it forswears that loyalty it is no longer the true church. Every fact which science and sound scholarship can discover or reveal is a part of the truth of God and should be welcomed as such.

"I have lived long enough to see the philosophers of today, the Jeanses, the Millikans and the Eddingtons, come to realize that there is something beyond that which materialism can explain. There is something higher than they, something beyond their comprehension. Faced by a stone wall, they are turning back to that religion at which their predecessors scoffed."—Bishop William T. Manning.

FINE FRUIT CROP IN DONLEY

1941 appears to have brought to Donley County its largest and most lucrative fruit crop in a decade. This is one of the many hopeful signs on the farm front which means better living in our country.

In spite of all the disappointments account of excessive rains to date, The News believes that Donley will likely harvest one of its best crops in feed and cotton this Fall.

We are pulling for a big crop year all over Donley County this Fall.

Economic Highlights

Happenings That Affected the Dinner Pails, Dividend Checks and Tax Bills of Every Individual. National and International Problems Inseparable From Local Welfare.

The government is making no bones about the fact that it has little faith in Soviet Russia, and holds extreme distaste for the Communist ideology. The British government has taken much the same position. However, both of the Democratic powers have welcomed Russia as an ally. They are working on the basis that when your house is in danger of burning down you must accept your neighbor's aid, whether you happen to like him or not. Big job now is to lick Hitler, and all other considerations and problem must be held in abeyance until that is done. In the view of Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill.

The President's official proclamation placing Russia under the lease-lend act is primarily a gesture. We have little to spare, in the light of our own needs plus England's appreciable quantity. And Russia, of course, has a far larger, far better equipped military machine than ours. Hope of many is that Russia and Germany may wear each other out—that the doctrines of both Communist and Nazism may perish on the Russian steps. In the view of military authorities, there is small chance of that happening. Most of them think that the German army is too efficient and too well organized for the Russians—even though the Red army is probably larger in man power, and may be larger in tanks, field pieces and other equipment. At the same time, they think that Russia, even though he eventually loses, may inflict staggering casualties on the Germans. Reports of the early days of the fighting indicate that is happening.

The German-Russian war is giving England a chance to tremendously increase her aerial raids on the continent, while Germany is preoccupied on the long Eastern front. British planes, say London sources, are going over in waves of 250 and 400. They are big, multi-engined planes, and they are laden with a new type of bomb which is supposed to be extraordinarily potent. Great damage is being done to German industrial and military areas.

In the meantime, it is interesting to speculate on what the historians will say about this war. Never in the history of conflict has there been such a shift of loyalties. A few weeks ago Russia was regarded by most as an enemy and a German ally—now it looks as if she will sink or swim with the Democracies. Finland used to be much admired in this country—now she is to all purposes a German ally. So is France, which was an American friend for almost two centuries. The small Balkan powers have all sided with Germany—Croatia, Slovakia, Hungary, Rumania, etc. These little countries have no love for Germany. But they have intense hate for Russia. Big question, yet unanswered, is what stand Japan will ultimately take. She is a member of the Axis, yet she has a peace treaty with Russia, and she can't keep both agreements. Some optimists think she will eventually desert Germany and join hands with Britain and the U. S. Japanese statements of policy so far have been vague in the extreme. A good argument can be made to the effect that Japan could secure more for herself by "cooperating" with this country than by keeping tied to the apron strings of nations which have their hands full thousands of miles away.

Still another subject of speculation is what influence the German-Russian embroglio will have on this country's possible entry into the war. Most seem to believe that it has postponed our becoming an actual belligerent. Reason for this stand is that American policy will be to wait and see what happens in Russia before jumping in. Also, the new war has given England a breathing spell, and has made an immediate attempt at invasion of the Isles out of the question.

According to W. W. Chaplin, I. N. S. defense expert, "By the first of the year, barring acute shortage of such materials as aluminum or major delays due to new strikes, the American warplane industry will have achieved such mass output that one American company will virtually be duplicating the entire German production of combat planes." This company is Curtiss Wright, which plans production of 1,500 aircraft monthly. And the production of other factories is being similarly stepped up.

So much for quantity. So far as quality is concerned, our new American ships are said to equal and in some cases exceed Europe's finest. They are suitably armored, have self-sealing gas tanks, power driven gun turrets, etc. The grave weaknesses which existed in the first American fighting planes sent abroad have thus been overcome.

Someone has said, "Advertising begins when the crying child advertises his wants to his mother and ends only with the epitaph on the headstone in the village cemetery."

One of the highlights of a visit to Grandma's was a visit to town on Saturday. Sometimes, Grandpa hitched up the horses and we rode to Rector in the wagon—but, otherwise, the young grandson walked. It was three miles but it was broken up into such easy tages that it didn't seem very long. First, you strolled from the farmhouse to the hill and down the hill and across the bridge and up another hill and down it, and there you were on the big road. A half a mile down the road and you came to the railroad track and then you strolled down the track, looking back every once in a while to make sure that a train didn't catch you unawares. Past fields and through thick, dark woods that came right down to the right-of-way and then to the long trestle (a look down would make you dizzy) and then the mill with its mound of fresh sawdust and the whine of a saw biting into a log, the drone being broken by a snarl as the teeth hit a knot—and there was the town with its plank walks and its streets with white dust.

The first order of business was a milk-shake. Yes, strawberry—how did you guess? The man behind the counter poured the milk and the pink flavor into a glass, added a few chunks of ice, then carefully placed a metal shaker over the glass, inverted it and began the shaking. The ice made a rhythmic sound and then, after a minute of violent agitating, the contents of the shaker were poured into the chilled glass. My hearties, there was a drink! Not one of the insipid milk-shakes of these latter days when the shaking is done, not by hand, but by an insensate machine that whips the contents in a deceptive froth.

Then came a tour of the business section—all four blocks; a pause in front of the newspaper office to smell the printer's ink and peer through the cob-webbed and dusty window at the editor; a visit to the home of Uncle Tom who had a wonderful workshop in which he actually made bicycles, and dinner (at noon, of course) with his family, then another stop at the confectioner's for a second of those heavenly milk-shakes, and then the walk back to the farm—a walk, which for some reason, was always somewhat longer than the morning one into town.

Your columnist remembers hearing William Jennings Bryan say, "The speaker who needs an introduction doesn't deserve it and the one who deserves an introduction doesn't need it." Bryan liked to tell about the quiet little business man who always contributed generously to the Democratic Party and so he was nominated for mayor. There happened to be a Democratic landslide that year and he was elected. When Bryan came to town, the mayor was scheduled to introduce him and somebody wrote out a speech which "his honor" memorized but when he saw the big crowd, he forgot it and blurted out: "I have been asked to introduce William Jennings Bryan, who is to speak to you. I have now done so and he will now do so."

Byron Utecht, Fort Worth Star-Telegram correspondent in Austin, was a war correspondent in Mexico, riding side by side with Pancho Villa. There is a tradition that the newspaper correspondent in the motion picture, "Viva Villa", who was such a friend of the Mexican hero, actually was based on Utecht.

An old-time tramp printer was given two pieces of "copy"—an account of a wedding and an auction of a farmer's property. In the absence of the editor from the office, the typesetter partook freely of a bottle of whisky, with the following result:

"William Smith and Lucy Jones were disposed of at public auction at my farm one mile east of a beautiful cluster of roses and two white calves before a background of farm implements too numerous to mention in the presence of about sixty guests including two milch cows, six mules and one wagon. Rev. Jackson tied the nuptial knot, with about 200 feet of hay rope and the bridal party left on one good John Deere gang plow for an extended trip with terms to suit purchasers."

Two-thirds of all the motor fuel consumed in the United States is used in connection with earning a livelihood, studies of the federal government indicate.

Donley County Citizens Asked To Give Bricks for Panhandle-Plains Museum

A plea to all Donley County citizens on behalf of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society was voiced this week by W. H. Patrick, past president and director of the organization which already has made remarkable progress in establishing a museum of real historical and cultural value at Canyon. The museum received a generous helping hand from the State of Texas recently, when Governor O'Daniel signed a bill appropriating $10,000 toward the construction of a second unit to the museum. The present need is for bricks to be used in construction, Mr. Patrick said, and his plea for donations of bricks and more bricks by Donley County folks follows:

"The Panhandle Plains Historical Society through the far sighted and deep interest of our Governor, W. Lee O'Daniel, who recently approved an appropriation of ten thousand dollars ($10,000.00) toward the completion of the Societies' second unit that is so badly needed to house the invaluable records, artifacts and a host of other very valuable materials that can never be replaced. "The present beautiful first unit of the museum building was built largely by our people from all over the Panhandle by generous donations of money, materials, etc., supplemented by W. P. A. labor.

"All of our people are now given an opportunity to assist in completing the second unit by donating something toward this very worthy enterprise in order to perpetuate the records and other museum materials that otherwise would be lost to future generations. "What is most needed at this time in addition to funds is all kinds of brick. In order that every school child, and every other person in Clarendon and Donley county may have a personal interest in this wonderful museum I ask that each one donate what bricks they can, and bring, or send them to the First National Bank on or before July 26th. Stack them in a neat manner on the lot west of the bank just north of the sidewalk. A receipt will be given to each donor. Trucks will be provided to haul them to Canyon. A meeting will be held of all day newspaper editor of Donley County, visited with friends here during the celebration. Naoh Meads and family of Vernon were in this city Friday. Mr. Meads is an old C. DEFERMENT OF MEN ORDERED IN AIR INDUSTRIES

Declaring that the production, operation and maintenance of aircraft and the training of men necessary for those activities are vital to the success of the national Defense Program, General J. Watt Page, State Selective Service Director, today called upon all local boards to give serious consideration to the deferment of Selective Service registrants in such civilian occupations. General Page announced that National Headquarters of the Selective Service system, which is cooperating with the United States Departments of War, Navy, and Commerce to prevent any serious interruption or delay in the aviation phase of the National Defense Program, has listed the following as important in that connection: (1) Persons necessary to the operation of primary and basic civilian flying schools under contract to the Army; (2) Civilians necessary to the operation of Naval training stations, and Naval Reserve bases; (3) Men receiving training in accredited civilian flying schools; (4) Men receiving training in accredited trade schools where instructions essential to the aircraft production industry are given; (5) Students in college courses in aeronautical engineering, airplane designing and kindred courses; (6) Necessary men in the operation of the aid transport industry. To assist local boards in considering deferment of registrants who are in training for the production, operation and maintenance of aircraft, General Page said that State Headquarters has been provided with a list of civilian institutions and schools giving technical training and flying instructions under War Department contract. ALL MEN OVER 28 DEFERRED FROM SERVICE General J. Watt Page, State Selective Service Director, today announced that all Texas local boards have been instructed to defer induction of men who, on July 1, 1941, had reached the age of twenty-eight years. General Page said that National Selective Service Headquarters has been assured by Congressional leaders that the age provisions of the bill to defer men who had attained the age of twenty-eight years on or before July 1, 1941, will be passed in substantially their present form since there is no difference of opinion as to the merits of these provisions of the bill. As the bill is now written, General Page pointed out, such men will be subject to discharge if inducted on or after July 1, 1941. "Based on the statements of Congressional leaders and the provisions making the bill retroactive to July 1, 1941, for discharge, Texas local boards have today been informed by State Headquarters that the induction of all men who had attained the age of twenty-eight years on or before July 1, 1941, shall be postponed for a period of thirty days pending final action on the bill. "Of course, in the event the bill is not passed," General Page added, "such men will be subject to induction in the normal manner upon the expiration of the period of postponement." In Texas, it is estimated, approximately 400,000 of the 825,429 men who registered last October are affected by this order. Lee Bell was in Dallas the first of the week on business.

DUSTING RECOMMENDED TO STOP MILDEW ON ROSES

COLLEGE STATION, JULY 8 -Mildew on roses may be controlled by spraying with bordeaux mixture or by dusting the bushes with a good coat of finely ground sulphur. Sadie Hatfield, extension specialist in landscape gardening, says that because some home gardeners object to marring their plants with yellow dust, it now is possible to obtain in some places sulphur which has been dyed green. The symptoms of mildew, which is encouraged by excess moisture, is the grayish-white appearance of the leaves. They look as though they had been dusted with flour or ashes, and curl up and eventually die. Buds often fail to open and if they do open the blossoms are malformed. Some varieties of roses have strong resistance to mildew while others, like the Dorothy Perkins for instance, are very susceptible to it. Shade and the sprinkling of water on the leaves encourage attack in years of normal rainfall. Infestation also is encouraged by growing susceptible varieties near resistant varieties.

The Low Down FROM HICKORY GROVE

Time kinda tempers things. Maybe you were a Democrat 20 years ago and didn't think that Cal Coolidge, as Governor of Mass., was so much. But today, Democrat (or Republican, you would like to see some old-fashioned Coolidge common sense and back-bone come back into operation. Like when he told 'em there in Boston who was who and what was what, when they were proposing a policeman's walk-out. They didn't walk out. You take these present-day wild-cat strikes. We been trying to cure them by social science and psychology versus a hay-maker. Mr. Freud had some grand ideas on velvety handling of your off-spring without an open door to the woodshed. It was a fizzle. You have maybe seen some of the youngsters brought up via the Freud doctrine. We been trying the same on our sit-downers. Yours with the low down, JO SERRA

LIBRARY NOTES

By MRS. C. A. BURTON

"O, for a book and a shady nook" seems to have reached a responsive chord in many minds through June. 1206 books were checked out, though June lacks a day of being a long month. It is gratifying to know that that many people forgot the worries of "too much rain" and similar problems in the absorption of a book.

Day by day as the war clouds hang lower, the output of the press reflects this fact. Yet such a book is scarcely in print until it is out of date and is superseded by another which claims to more nearly represent the true situation. So it seems useless for a small library to attempt to keep up-to-date, but instead to invest in things of permanent interest.

One of the latest of the type of books just mentioned is "Berlin Dairy" by William L. Shiver. It is the July selection of the Book-of-the-Month club, and is the uncensored record of what Shiver saw during seven years in Hitler's Germany when he was correspondent for the Chicago Tribune, and since 1934 he has been broadcasting from Berlin. In H. R. Knickerbocker's review of "Berlin Dairy" he says, "If after finishing "Berlin Dairy" a man is still an isolationist, then he deserves to be considered a sincere Nazi, who may be honored for his honesty but who must be regarded as an enemy of the United States."

One of our books which has been appreciated by discriminating readers is "The Years" by Virginia Woolf, brilliant English novelist, granddaughter of Thackeray. Recently her husband, Leonard Woolf, made the statement that she was "presumed to be dead". She had been missing for some weeks and is believed to have drowned herself. She had a violent hatred of war and all the forces that bring it about, and it is assumed that she was unable to stand the shock of the present conflict.

"On the Staked Plains" by Eric P. Kelly is a Panhandle story, by the winner of the Newbery medal in 1929 with his "Trumpeter of Knakow." Mr. Kelly spent quite a good deal of time in this Panhandle country getting material, and as a result he paints a vivid authentic picture of the West, its pioneers and its history, in a story which is full of action. The author has quite a list of books to his credit—both for children and grown ups.

Alice Duer Miller whose "White Cliffs" has been so popular among our readers as well as everywhere else has given the reading public a little new volume which took its title from the first line in "White Cliffs"—"I Have Loved England." It is largely made up of handsome photographs of England, ninety of them in all, each one made personal by Mrs. Miller.

A non-fiction book of unusual interest which is one of our late purchases is "40,000 Against the Arctic" by H. P. Smolca. It is described as "an amazing human story of the last pioneers, 40,000 men and women living in modern towns with factories, airplanes, orchards next door to polar bears and reindeer." It promises a northeast passage for shipping between Europe, Asia, and America, and is a land of oil wells, coal mines, incredible stores of gold, silver, platinum, nickel and tin in this Siberian land north of the 62nd parallel. The author traveled 20,000 miles by airplane and ice-breaker—the first non-Soviet journalist to cover this field.

Another Texas story which is getting favorable publicity is "Quincl Boliver" by Mary King—a story of the Texas oil fields. It is said to be a remarkable first novel—and was awarded a Houghton Mifflin Literary Fellowship.

Every reader of that astonishingly interesting book, "The Lives of a Bengal Lancer", knew that back one day to India. And so Francis Yeats Brown would go fifteen years later he has revisited the scenes and people of his first book and he gives us the story in "Lancer-At-Large." A different India greeted him and he saw it with different eyes, giving a vivid picture of the new, more modern India. He is quite at home in India, knows where he wants to go and what he wants to see. He gives an insight into Hindu mysticism which is rarely found because India has accepted Yeats Brown as she rarely accepts a stranger.

PEACEFUL CELEBRATION REPORTED BY OFFICERS

Except for the difficulties of handling traffic which jammed up in the city at intervals, local law enforcement officers had a very quiet time during the Celebration, they reported this week.

Traffic problems were made simpler during the Celebration by the location here of two State Highway patrolmen during both days, to assist sheriff's department and city officers in regulating Celebration drivers. No serious traffic violations were reported, nor were there any serious automobile accidents in the city or its immediate vicinity during the entire week end.

Several celebrants were arrested for drunkenness, paying fines in Justice Weatherly's court, and Grading on Highway 18 south of Pampa toward Clarendon is progressing at a good rate at present, after some delay on account of recent rains, G. K. Reading, resident engineer of the Texas Highway Department said this week.

A two-mile strip has been graded, extending from a point 3 1-2 miles south of Pampa. Bridge work is as far as advanced as possible, pending arrival of a shipment of steel. The shipment has been ordered for some time, but has been delayed for some reason and is due at present. One large bridge is included in the 6-mile road project. This structure, across the north fork of the Red River, 8 miles south of Pampa, will be 175 feet long.

Work started on the project in April. About 40 men are employed.

Two Donley County men pleaded guilty to driving while intoxicated, paying fines of $60.40 each under the new misdemeanor law, Sheriff Guy Wright reported.

MISS VIVIAN TAYLOR

Coffee And Ranch Dinner Honors Local And Out-Of-Town Sponsors

Mrs. John Knorpp, Mrs. Ira Merchant, Mrs. Harold Bugbee, and Miss Charlotte Molesworth, entertainment committee for the Celebration, were hostesses to the local and out-of-town cow-girl sponsors at a coffee at the women's club rooms on Thursday morning, July 3rd.

The rooms which were arranged to resemble an old style ranch house, were cleverly decorated with bales of hay, dutch oven, coyote rugs, and old fashioned coffee mills.

Coffee and doughnuts were served in buffet style to approximately sixty girls.

The entertainment committee was again hostess at an old-time ranch style dinner honoring the rodeo and celebration officials, the queen and her attendants, the out-of-town sponsors, and other out of town guests at the women's club rooms on the morning of the Fourth.

The table was laid in regular "mess hall" fashion with heavy crockery plates turned face down. An old fashioned caster with a ribbon tied to it was in the center of the table. The ribbon signified that "dessert was coming up."

A menu of beef, beans, bread, and black coffee was enjoyed by about sixty guests.

Local and Out-Of-Town Sponsor Events Were Celebration's Best

Seventeen entries in the former winner and out-of-town event under the direction of Mrs. George B. Bagby proved to be one of the most interesting features of the Annual Rodeo and Celebration. This event, which was a chair sitting contest played after a fashion of the old game "fruit basket turn over", was won by Miss Nancy Binford, Sweetheart of the Will Rogers Range Riders of Amarillo. Mrs. Ed Clifton of McLean and Elizabeth Ann Beverly representing the J. A. Ranch finished second and third respectively. Cash premiums of $40, $25, and $15 were awarded the winners.

Other members of the group competing in this event were Barbara Bell, winner of the sponsor event in Clarendon in 1940; Bess Browder, Memphis; Irene Reimer, winner of the contests at Claude and Memphis last year; Mrs. George Shouse, LeFors; Alice Cockrell, Pampa; Mrs. J. E. Cook, McLean; Jo Garnet, Paloduro; Dean Beth Gilbert, IX Ranch, Amarillo; Mrs. G. R. Giles, XIT Ranch.

"America the beautiful lies in the hands of the gardeners"

"When the hours are so still that time forgets them and lets them lie 'neath petals pink till night stars wink at the sunset in the sky it is July."—Susan Swett.

The roads leading out of our town in all directions have much to offer. The drives that meander about our schools present hills of gold and white for the mere looking.

One of the most attractive yards is the Gentry's Daisies and vari-colored phlox seem doubly bright against the green of the luxuriant shrubbery. The home of the Parsons certainly shows the care of real flower lovers, all the tints and colors of the rainbow are there.

The lawn of the City Hall is very restful with its velvety grass and lovely canna beds. The Wadsworths and Huffmans are other gardeners who are carrying the standard for prettier yards.

The L. L. Taylor's lawn is very colorful flower beds, numerous shrubs and trees. The Dawkins yard not only boasts a cape jasmine shrub, but it is in bloom. At the Douglas' a vitex with its long spikes of lavender is making a marvelous garden display.—Contributed

"WHITE FLOWER" CUSTOM BEGAN IN CLARENDON NEARLY 50 YEARS AGO

"Bones" Hooks, the well-known pioneer colored cowboy of the Panhandle area, now leading citizen of his race in Amarillo, was here for the two-day Celebration last week, a highly interested spectator of all the activities. Bones loves the white folks of the Panhandle, and in turn is held in high esteem by the hundreds who have known him through the years.

Presenting his 297th white flower here July 4th to Mrs. Homer Mulkey, Bones says it has been his pleasure to make such presentations for nearly fifty years, and that he began the custom here in Clarendon in the pioneer days.

Bones holds a deep interest for the colored children of Amarillo and the Panhandle, and devotes much of his time to teaching them the rudiments of good citizenship.

In conversation with the News editor, Bones declared that he loved Clarendon as "home", even if he did now live in Amarillo, and that no community, anywhere, had produced more citizens of fine, Christian character than Clarendon.

THIS BUSINESS OF Living

BY SUSAN THAYER

Toward "Even Greater Opportunity"

Drive out along "the river road" some evening soon or follow the "old turnpike," widened and paved now but the same road your great grandparents knew. The country looks the same. The corn in even rows is growing tall as it has in early summer ever since you can remember. The meadows are all ready for cutting and Snively's grove is being groomed for the 4th of July picnic.

Stop a moment in the soft summer evening. Turn off the motor and listen and look and breathe the country air. Here are comfortably familiar sounds and sights and smells—all peaceful. You can almost make yourself believe that nothing unusual is happening to the world and that wars and rumors of wars are some terrible nightmare.

Then a great plane roars overhead breaking in on your reverie. A line of trucks rumbles by and you drive on. You go a little way and see the outlines of a great factory that wasn't there last summer. Still further on you see the lights of an old plant that is working now 24 hours a day. You are brought face to face with the knowledge that things aren't the same. Something tremendous is happening in America as she builds the armaments necessary to defend our chosen way of life.

Our skill as mechanics... our genius for mass production... our vast resources have made us the world's greatest industrial nation. But until now we have never really "done our stuff." We have never gone "all out" for any one production job.

World events have changed all that and are making us go to work in earnest. Before long we are going to discover what the greatest industrial nation in the world can do when it devotes itself to the building of planes and tanks and gun and ammunition. We're going to learn at long last what our capacity for production really is!

Eventually, after the emergency is over and there is no longer any necessity for producing the implement of war we will be left with the equipment and organization for producing a greater amount of peacetime goods than we have ever dreamed was possible. This frightens many people and the changeover from defense to peace-time productivity will be difficult. But already industrial leaders are getting ready for this time of readjustment and laying plans for manufacturing more of the good thing of life and for getting them to more people than ever before.

If we cling to our system of free private enterprise we will be able to adjust in an American way to the post emergency period. Then by using our production facilities, expanded by this defense effort, for turning out an even greater quantity of peace-time commodities, our already high standard of living can become even higher and there can be still greater opportunities for every individual in this great, free land.

SUMMER SEASON IS PERIOD INFANTILE DISEASE STRIKES

AUSTIN, Texas, July 8—Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, states that infantile paralysis is largely a summer disease. Although cases may occur during any time of the year, over half the total number of cases occur from July to October. Through June 30 thirty-one cases of poliomyelitis (infantile paralysis) have been reported to the State Health Department from city and county health officers over the state.

Direct contact between persons form the chief factor in the spread of infantile paralysis. Because of the seasonal prevalence of the disease, flies and other insects have been suspected of conveying the virus or germ. Insect transmission has not, however, been scientifically demonstrated. Although animals are subject to paralysis, they are seemingly not susceptible to the human type of this paralysis disease. Carriers are difficult to determine and this fact makes it advisable to reduce to a minimum all human contacts during any outbreak of the disease.

Early symptoms of infantile paralysis are headache, fever, vomiting, drowsiness and irritability followed by stiffness in the neck and back. Prompt medical care, early recognition of the disease, and reporting of cases to local health authorities make possible the use of preventive and control measures.

After the acute state of the disease has passed and the patient is permitted to walk, it is most important that the affected part of the body not be fatigued. The secret of rehabilitation lies in the continuance of professional medical care and large doses of patience.

Children under five years are most susceptible to the disease and all children under twelve should be watched for suspicious symptoms. Your family physician should be called immediately if infantile paralysis is indicated. Local health authorities should be contacted immediately and patients isolated for at least twenty-one days.

Children should not visit homes where the disease or symptoms of the disease exist. Promptness in diagnosis of poliomyelitis is one of the most important factors in its control measures.

AAA PAYMENTS GO TO SMALL FARMERS

COLLEGE STATION, July 8—So called "small" farmers are cashing the bulk of the AAA's conservation and parity payment checks. B. F. Vance, administrative officer in charge of the AAA in Texas, declared here this week.

Studying a report made to Congress by the United States Department of Agriculture on the distribution of payments under the 1939 farm program, Vance said that 92 percent of the agricultural conservation payments and 98 percent of the price adjustment, or parity, payments were for less than $200. The report to Congress, listing the names of cooperators who earned payments of $1,000 or more, showed approximately eight-tenths of one percent of the total number of payees under the program were in that classification, he said.

"Increasing attention has been given the small farmer in the development of the AAA program," Vance declared. "As provided in the Act, automatic increases are made in conservation payments to farmers when the amounts earned are less than $200, the smaller payments being increased proportionately more than the larger ones. Also, any cooperator may earn a minimum of $20, with an additional allowance of $15 for forest tree practices, making a total of $35 which may be earned on any farm. This $35 payment would be increased to $46 under the provisions for increasing small payments."

The Act also provides that no individual can earn more than $10,000 in agricultural conservation payments, but this provision does not apply to parity payments, the AAA official said.

the State's special contribution to the public schools. Thirty-two percent, or virtually one-third, of the entire state apportionment for each child was borne by the petroleum industry, the report shows. Petroleum paid the same percentage of rural aid funds and about one-fifth of rural high school funds.

"Every school child in Texas is able to get a better education today because of Texas petroleum," the association report points out.

Although the figures show that the average cost of educating a Texas boy or girl last year was $58.12, many independent school districts in or near oil fields spend several times that amount. Some of these expended as much as $185, or $240 or even $271 for each pupil.

When a motorist spends $1 for gasoline, he must pay an average additional 47c in state and federal taxes.

LARGE PORTION OF TAX LOAD BORNE BY OIL INDUSTRY

DALLAS, Texas, July 10—If your boy or girl went to public school in Texas last year, one-fourth of the cost of his or her education came from the Texas petroleum industry.

In terms of school children, that is what a report just compiled by the Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association shows. Or to put it another way, if a family has four children, the entire expense of schooling one of them last year was paid by Texas oilmen. On a state-wide basis that means that one-fourth, or nearly 390,000 Texas school children out of the state's 1,436,910, were educated last year entirely by taxes paid by the petroleum industry.

The association's report, compiled from official records of the State Comptroller and assessor-collectors of Texas independent school districts, shows that last year petroleum paid $22,652,912, in taxes used for school purposes. That's 25.36 per cent, or slightly over one-fourth, of Texas public school taxes amounting to $89,320,415.

Petroleum's percentage was even higher in the matter of

TEXAS OUT-O'-DOORS

AUSTIN, Texas, July 8—Not only will the Texas Game, Fish and Oyster Commission restock lakes and streams of the state with millions of fish this summer, but food in the form of tadpoles, crayfish and minnows, which are also being raised in the ten hatcheries of the Department...

All three species of food are highly desirable to many types of fish. It has been found that all three species can be raised in large numbers in hatchery ponds without slowing down the production of fish.

Present indications are that the Game Department will increase its production of fish in the ten hatcheries by 5,000,000 this year. Last season there was an increase in production of more than a million and a half.

NATIONAL DEFENSE IN AGRICULTURE IS DISCUSSED

Agriculture's part in the national defense program was the dominant thought at the national AAA conference held in Washington recently, Texas delegates to the meeting pointed out on their return, according to Walter J. Flynt, chairman of the Donley county AAA committee.

In developing recommendations for the 1942 National Farm program must play in the defense program by encouraging greater conservation of the soil, giving greater assistance to the smaller farmer, and encouraging production of ample supplies of the foods needed both in this country and in other countries.

The committee chairman declared that the conference gave a practical demonstration of the unity of agriculture in its determination to do its full share in the defense of the nation.

The conference, which was attended by farmer state committeemen and AAA officials from every state in the nation, adopted a number of resolutions relating to defense, including a recommendation that farmers avoid speculative expansion and reduce debts, and build up reserves of cash and farm commodities during the present period of industrial activity.

The national conference proposed a change in the method of computing farm payments, which would eliminate the payment made on general crops such as oats, barley and rye, and would make funds formerly used for this purpose available for carrying out additional soil conservation work.

Strengthening of the Ever-Normal Granary and marketing quota provisions of the national farm program also were recommended, and new soil-building practices were proposed, including a special practice by which low-income families may receive seeds, plants, and fertilizers for use in increasing home food production. The cost of the materials would be deducted from the payments earned by such families. Under the practice low-income families also would earn additional payments for live-at-home practices.

The recommendations of the national conference were taken from suggestions made by farmers from all over the country through their community and county committees. All recommendations are subject to the approval of the Secretary of Agriculture.

The federal and state governments now are collecting gasoline taxes at the rate of $1,250,000,000 annually. That amount is more than what was collected by the federal, state and all local governments in all taxes during the horse and buggy days.
