Oil Interest Over Donley County Increases With New Activities

INTEREST CENTERS ON SOUTH BLOCK

OPERATORS OF HEDLEY TEST PLAN DEEP TEST SOUTH OF CLARENDON

Oil interest in Donley County rose to a new high this week when it was announced that work of assembling a lease block of 15,000 acres in the area south of Clarendon was near completion, and plans for the deep test were assured as soon after the block is completed as it is possible to work out detail papers.

George Ryan and D. T. Heath are assembling the block for H. C. Robinson and C. B. Jones, operators of the Hedley test. In an interview Wednesday morning Jones said, "R. H. Andrews, prominent geologist, who worked the structure on the Hedley block has mapped the area south of Clarendon and his tests thoroughly convince us there is a favorable structure in that vicinity."

Property owners in the area south of Clarendon have given unusual co-operation in the matter. Their interest has increased after the spotlight was focused on that area, because of failure in working up blocks or completing tests in this county several years ago.

Meanwhile work is progressing on the Robinson & Jones, Nellie Kutekman No. 1 south of Hedley. Drilling was stopped several days ago at 2,838 feet in order to set pipe for use of standard equipment to go into the big lime. The dolomite structure of the big lime level is 270 feet higher in the Hedley test than in wells to the north or Donley county, which looks promising for the well becoming a producer. Five showings of gas were encountered before the 2,838 feet depth.

Standard tools to be used on the change over from a rotary rig are to be brought from Gray county to the well site today. Drilling will be resumed as soon as the equipment is set up.

The Humble company recently took a lease of 1,190 acres in the block from Robinson & Jones after seeing cuttings from the hole. Earlier, the Texas Co. had bought a lease of 974 acres.

Other major oil companies are maintaining a close watch on the Hedley operations it was said.

CC EX-STUDENTS TO PLAN REUNION

CLYDE I. PRICE APPOINTED CHAIRMAN; DRENNAN, PORTER, COMMITTEE

A few ex-students of Clarendon College and other interested parties gathered Monday night at the Cozy Theatre for a meeting to discuss plans for a possible ex-students reunion some time in the fall. Clyde I. Price presided over the meeting which was opened by a round table discussion of what was thought of the matter of organizing an alumni association and projecting the reunion.

Everyone present agreed that they wanted such an association and reunion and that the first step would be to elect a chairman and executive committee.

Clyde I. Price was nominated and unanimously elected to serve as chairman. A motion was made and seconded and approved to elect two more committee members.

Accordingly, R. E. Drennan and Judge J. R. Porter were elected to assist Mr. Price. The work of this committee will consist in getting the names and present address of as many ex-students as possible, making plans for the reunion and putting it over.

The committee is asking the co-operation of all people in town in getting the names and addresses of ex-students so that they can be notified about the reunion as soon as the date is set and other matters worked out.

Those present at the meeting Monday night expressed the opinion that inasmuch as there were ex-students of Clarendon College, both the Methodist and the Junior colleges, scattered all over the United States, with a large number in the Panhandle, there would be much interest and a large attendance at a reunion here.

Continuance was ordered by District Judge A. S. Moss Saturday morning on an injunction suit filed by J. R. Porter August 16 against the Southwestern Associated Telephone Co., asking for restoration of service on his office telephone.

Service was discontinued by the telephone company on Aug. 16 because of a $77 disputed long distance telephone bill alleged by Porter to have been made over his office telephone by a stranger.

Counsel for the defendant company admitted that service had been restored the same day the injunction suit was filed, but was not made official until Porter was so advised by Roy L. Brewer, district manager of Memphis, on Aug. 18.

In view of the restoration of service Judge Moss continued the case under future orders of the court, or until the October term of district court.

Without a dissenting vote, the conference adopted a resolution asking him to make himself plain on the issue.

Trace of Thieves Fade At Childress

A clean getaway was probably made by two men, a woman and a small child, who, according to officers removed several tires and wheels from five automobiles and looted five other cars of small articles two weeks ago, Sheriff Guy Pierce said this week.

The thieves were traced to a camp ground east of the city but they had departed several hours earlier.

The party, traveling in a black 1934 four-door V8 sedan with yellow wire wheels bearing New Mexico license no. 23-122 later looted several cars and broke into a garage in Childress. They are wanted in New Mexico for 15 or 20 felonies, officers said.

Trace of the thieves faded after the Childress crimes.

SCS ENGINEERS ARE WORKING AT LELIA

CONCERTED ACTION TO BE TAKEN TO PREVENT FLOODS; SOIL WASHING

Interest in soil conservation centers in Lelia Lake this week as a large crew of water and soil engineers is working on a preliminary survey of the damagable watershed area south of Lelia Lake.

The survey is being made in an area approximately 30,000 acres. Engineering work at Lelia Lake is being done following organization of an association Aug. 2 of about 60 farmers and soil conservation officials, John Howard was made chairman of the group. H. M. Breedlove, county agent, is secretary. Elmer Kennedy, M. G. Cottingham, Harvey Shaw and Lamar Aten are other members of the association committee.

The organization was formed to secure aid from the government in relief from flood and soil washing problems, such as was suffered by the community June 15, when a 12-inch rain damaged practically every farm in the area and caused a flood on east Lelia Lake Creek.

Following the engineer's survey Soil Conservation Service workmen will terrace and contour land to prevent further flood destruction.

Labor will be furnished by the government. The farmer will only be required to pay for the machinery power.

Price Adjustment Payments For U S Cotton Farmers Ordered Soon

DONLEY FARMERS TO RECEIVE THREE CENT PAYMENT ON 60c BASE

The Agricultural Adjustment Administration headquarters at Washington announced this week distribution of $127,000,000 in price adjustment payments of 1937 cotton would get under way in September.

In a telephone conversation with the Texas AAA office at College Station Tuesday County Agent H. M. Breedlove was advised that subsidies will be paid on approximately 8,788,000 bales of cotton, or 60 per cent of an eligible base production of 14,648,000 bales, to farmers complying with this year's acreage allotment program, at three cents per pound subsidy for Donley farmers.

The Washington AAA office estimated 1,400,000 applications will be handled and the average rate of payment would be 2.89 cents a pound.

Congress voted the price adjustment payments in 1937 and appropriated $130,000,000 for the purpose. Administrative expenses are estimated at 3,000,000.

The legislation provided a maximum rate of three cents a pound would apply to eligible cotton produced in 1937 and not sold by the producer prior to September 30, 1937, the date on which the spot market average first fell below nine cents during the 1937-38 marketing season.

This makes it possible for producers who are holding their cotton and who put it under the government loans to receive the subsidies without transferring title, AAA officials explained.

The payment rate for those who sold 1937 cotton before September 10, 1937, will be the amount by which the spot market average was below 12 cents on the date of sale, not to exceed three cents a pound, however.

Subsidy payments for Donley county farmers will be approximately $200,000 Breedlove said.

The last shipment of cotton subsidy papers from Donley county to the state board was made Wednesday and included a few non-resident landlord forms.

Monday evening at Pampa at the Schneider Hotel will be held a farewell dinner honoring Divisional Engineer W. D. Braswell, Clarendon, chairman; Van Stewart, Perryton; Elmer D. Elliott, Dalhart; Judge Noel McDade, Dumas; Reno Stinson, John Goss, Garnett Reeves, Pampa; Homer Mulkey, Clarendon; Homer Pruitt, Cy Apple, Bob Bradshaw, Borger, with P. S. From time to time, state results of the state races will be announced through the speaker as they are received by radio.

The three co-operating firms extend a general invitation to everyone in Donley county to attend the election party.

Dinner At Pampa Monday Night Honoring Divisional Engineer Van London, Leaving This Area

Monday evening at Pampa at the Schneider Hotel will be held a farewell dinner honoring Divisional Engineer W. D. Van London of the Texas Highway Department, who has just been transferred from Division 4 to the Houston Division as of Sept. 1st. The dinner will be given by the friends of Mr. Van London from all over the division.

Tuesday of this week a meeting was held at Borger where a committee laid plans and mapped a program for the dinner. The committee had been selected from over the territory and was composed of Sam M. Braswell, Clarendon, chairman; Van Stewart, Perryton; Elmer D. Elliott, Dalhart; Judge Noel McDade, Dumas; Reno Stinson, John Goss, Garnett Reeves, Pampa; Homer Mulkey, Clarendon; Homer Pruitt, Cy Apple, Bob Bradshaw, Borger, with P. S. Bailey, Maintenance Engineer of the division as an invited guest.

It is the plan of the affair to show appreciation of Mr. Van London's services to this division over a building era of unprecedented activity in spoken tribute and a farewell gift, the cost of which will be included in the price of the banquet plate.

A notable array of prominent men from over the Panhandle territory included in Mr. Van London's division will be present with some special entertainment features in the stag dinner program.

Odos Caraway, president of the 88-18 Highway Association says there will likely be a dozen men, friends of Mr. Van London, and interested in highway development in the delegation from this city.

Mr. Van London goes to the Houston division, and Jim Douglas, divisional engineer from that area will assume duties here on Sept. 1st.

TESTIMONY OUT OF EXPERIENCE

Throughout the centuries the power and authority of human testimony based on personal experience has held highest place in the establishment of fact and truth.

Just last week it was the privilege of this writer to sit in a service club luncheon and hear a remarkable example of personal testimony, just a little out of the ordinary for such an occasion. A wiry, old man—so old he is now starting in on his second hundred years of life—stood and calmly, yes, happily, told that gathering that he had passed the century milestone of life, secure and confident in the religious faith of a Christian. He declared that he had no malice against any living person, and in unusual strength he presses on, ready and unafraid to meet his Maker.

There is a wonderful lot of inspiration in witnessing and hearing such a testimony. Here is a man—an unusual physical strength at an unusual age—who has come down through a hundred years of life—labors, victories, defeats, sorrows, disillusionments, and yet in calm triumph he voices no pessimistic note, but a faith and hope worth all this world's tawdry wealth and honors.

Personal testimony out of experience is a wonderful power to draw, to strengthen, to inspire. There is no human activity so powerful, so convincing. It was Jesus' plan for the propagation of his philosophy and religion, and the reason Christianity isn't universally accepted today, is the failure of His people to bear witness—as they should.

Somehow, to this writer, there was an unusual message and power in this simple, spontaneous testimony to religious faith on the part of this hundred-year-old man, who in remarkable vigor still looks forward—serene and unafraid.

WALTER WOODUL DESERVES YOUR VOTE

Hon. Walter Woodul, leading candidate for attorney general in Saturday's primary deserves your vote and continued confidence. From all over Texas there comes reports that he will poll again one of the largest popular votes in this primary, as he has done before, for the people recognize that here is a public servant who has made an exceptional record in the service of his state, and a man in whom no unworthy trait of selfish actions is found.

Walter Woodul, has served notably as a state senator, as lieutenant governor, and as acting governor on many occasions during the past two years when Governor Allred was out of the state. In all these responsibilities he has exhibited a fine capacity and discrimination for the public weal, and now with a need for experience in the attorney-general's office, is the time to elect Walter Woodul—the man who has never disappointed his state.

Another potent reason is that the incoming governor is not a lawyer, and is not versed in legal matters pertaining to the executive's office. He needs Walter Woodul for his experience as a lawyer, as a legislator and as one who has had training for the duties of chief executive.

Walter Woodul deserves your vote for attorney-general.

That withdrawals of intoxicating liquor for consumption in 1937 were 62,000,000 gallons of wine (an increase of 300 per cent over 1933); 55,000,000 barrels of beer (an increase of 800 per cent over 1933); and 137,000,000 gallons of distilled liquors (an increase of 2200 per cent over 1933)?

That in 1937 the automobile traffic accident death toll was more than 40,000; (it was 26,350 in 1932, the last full year of prohibition, and that was less than for any one of the three preceding years), and that the number of injured in such accidents was almost 1,000,000?

That the three years immediately following the opening of the flood gates of liquor in 1933 were the same three years which J. Edgar Hoover of the United States Department of Justice described as "the most terrible period of criminal history in the life of America"?

That while in that "most terrible period" one murder was committed every 45 minutes, the record for 1937 was one every 39 minutes; also that during 1937 1,415,000 felonies were committed in the United States?

NOBODY'S BUSINESS

By JULIAN CAPERS JR.

AUSTIN—Three developments in Texas this week combined to focus the attention of a goodly portion of the population, which depends directly or indirectly upon the oil business for its living and its well-being, upon oil. They were:

The Statewide prororation hearing, at which Commissioners C. V. Terrell, Ernest Thompson and Lon Smith unanimously agreed it is necessary to continue Sunday shutdowns, and hinted broadly that the wells may have to be pinched in on Saturdays also, in the near future.

A cut of 15 cents a barrel in the price of crude in East Texas by one small buyer.

The arrival at Gulf ports of the first cargoes of Mexican oil, produced from the "expropriated" properties of American and British oil companies. "Expropriated" is a polite term used by the Mexicans to describe the process of seizing something belonging to foreigners, and not paying for it.

OIL FLOOD THREATENS DISASTER

Whatever effects the price of oil in Texas effects the livelihood of a large portion of the population. Oil money filters into every community. It effects the sales of merchants, the business of banks, the income of landowners and royalty owners, as well as the thousands directly employed in oil.

The Mexican government, having seized the properties of foreigners, has been desperately seeking a market for it. The Mexican oil can be shipped to Texas, duty paid, and still be sold at a price that is substantially below Texas oil, because it didn't cost those who seized it anything. Oil men here agree that the first few hundred thousand barrels of seized Mexican oil, landed this week at Houston, may be the forerunner of a flood of cut-price Mexican oil that may break the price in Texas and force further restriction of Texas production. Oil dollars have kept Texas a bright spot on the economic map of the nation for months, while Eastern states were building up huge relief rolls. A break in crude oil prices, from overproduction, from imports, or from both, would also hit the State and School fund revenues, as oil is taxed on a sliding scale based upon crude prices. The other side of the picture would probably mean a slash in retail gasoline prices, which wouldn't make the filling station patrons angry.

LEE PLUGS HIS TICKET

Taking cognizance of a considerable unfavorable sentiment aroused by his first endorsement of a slate of six runoff candidates, W. Lee O'Daniel, next governor, made two additional radio speeches during the week, plugging his selected slate. He "turned the heat on" when he called upon the voters to elect his nominees, and then hold him responsible for fulfillment of his pension payment pledges, but denied responsibility unless the voters go along with him. He declared payment of pensions would be his first concern when he takes office, but denied he has worked out any taxation plan to finance pensions as yet.

Observers here believed O'Daniel had strengthened the position of his slate considerably with his additional pleas for support for them, and reported antagonistic sentiment waning. A poll by the Dallas News listed 12,000 voters, showed a heavy majority opposed to O'Daniel's endorsement idea, but also showed opposition waning after the first few days. Many observers here expressed belief the entire blessed ticket would win, while some believed Bascom Giles, for Land Commissioner, would be unable to defeat the incumbent, Bill McDonald. In the Attorney General's race, publication of a purported photostatic copy of a letter alleged to have been written by one of Gerald Mann's campaign aides, soliciting funds from oil interests, created a hot issue in that race, and Walter Woodul forces claimed an easy victory would be theirs. Mann denied all knowledge of the letter.

FLOOD PROBE GOES ON

The development of the Colorado River Authority program already has resulted in potential savings of $3,500,000 a year on the electric light bills of consumers in cities within the 200-mile area available for service from the power developed, members of the Senate flood probe committee were told this week by Clarence McDonough, general manager of the CRA, who was the only witness. He cited reductions in rates granted in Fort Worth, Dallas and many smaller towns as evidence of the savings CRA has brought about. The week's sessions were filled with a mass of technical testimony, designed more to establish the ability of the CRA system to offer both flood protection and power generation, when its system of four dams is completed, than to fix responsibility for the flood which wiped out $15,000,000 worth of property in July.

INSURANCE LEGISLATION MAY COME

Efforts will be made in the regular session in January to reform certain Texas insurance laws which are sadly defective, as a result of exposure of various insurance "rackets" during the past year. Reform will be sought in the laws regulating formation and operation of mutual assessment life insurance societies, some of which have gypped policy-holders and beneficiaries to the tune of millions of dollars.

Casualty insurance interests also will seek to tighten up regulation of their business also, it was learned, as a result of the failure this year of three large Texas reciprocal casualty organizations, in which hundreds of claimants, including injured workmen employed in industry, have been losers.

The first flowers developed on melon, cantaloupe, cucumber, and similar vines bear pollen only and cannot develop into fruit. Flowers that may set fruit are borne singly in the first and second axils of the fruiting branches which are produced after the vines have made some growth.

Vernon Livestock Commission Company To Open Sale On Horses And Mules Friday, September 2

The Vernon Livestock Commission Company, whose announcement of their opening sale is carried elsewhere in this edition was organized some three years ago with an open sale of about $500. Sales have continued each week since the opening until they are now reaching $60,000 and an annual volume of a MILLION DOLLARS. They have a wide trade many states and horses and mules have been shipped to many out-of-state markets and to foreign countries.

Their cattle sales the past season have been most successful in their history and is now considered to be one of the best and most stable markets to be found anywhere in the state. Prices are kept well up with the major markets at all times and buyers come here regularly for their requirements. These advantages make and insure a good market at all times for the stockmen throughout a wide territory.

The company was incorporated on October 1st, 1936 and among the original stockholders were Mr.

Harry Blair of Clarendon, Texas, who was well-known throughout the Panhandle and other parts as a large dealer in horses and mules and Mr. W. W. Smith and son, A. H. (Buzzy) Smith of Electra, Texas, also well known as large dealers in horses, mules and cattle. On April 20th, 1937 Messrs. Blair and Smith purchased the entire stock of the company, Mr. Blair assuming the management since that date. June 1st of this year Mr. Blair acquired the interest of Mr. Smith, which makes him the sole owner at this time. Mr. Blair will move his family to Vernon in the near future and will continue in active management of the company and in this connection states that he will be glad to have all of his old friends visit him and invites new ones to bring their stock to the Vernon sales where they will receive a hearty welcome and a fair and impartial deal and to especially, remember the special opening sale to be held Friday, September 2nd.

Star Spangled Banner Furor Is Unsettled

WASHINGTON—August 9 was the 158th birthday anniversary of Francis Scott Key, who gave his country a national anthem and an unending argument.

Just hum one bar of the Star Spangled Banner to historians at the library of Congress, and you have started something that rivals the battle of Fort McHenry in 1814, which inspired Key.

For instance you will be told: Key was not a prisoner on a British ship when he penned the song; he was being detained on an American ship.

He did not write the song on the back of an envelope, but on an old letter.

The music to the national anthem is not American—its either English or French.

Furthermore, The Star Spangled Banner was not the national anthem until 1931—and then only after a bitter battle of Capitol Hill during which it was described as a barroom tune.

Many folks complain about its high notes, and insist Congress should legislate them into a lower register. That is what angers musical historians.

Ginger Rogers And James Stewart In "Vivacious Lady"

Teamed romantically for the first time, Ginger Rogers and James Stewart are currently costarred in the highly romantic screen comedy, "Vivacious Lady." Miss Rogers, the top-ranking blonde of the screen today, who recently won new favor for her dramatic performance in "Stage Door," returns to the gay effervescent type of comedy which popularized her in the series of musical films in which she costarred with Fred Astaire.

Virtually an unknown two years ago, James Stewart has popularity as a result of his last soared to a high place in film three hits, "Seventh Heaven," "The Last Gangster" and "Navy Blue and Gold."

In "Vivacious Lady," Stewart essays the role of a repressed botany professor who encounters Ginger Rogers, featured entertainer at a night-club, falls madly in love with her and brings her back to his dignified home town as his secret bride. The efforts of the couple to keep the boy's family in ignorance of the marriage form the basis for most of the hilarious action.

"Vivacious Lady" will play at the Pastime Theatre Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

Seven Year Drouth Cycle Seems Ended No Recurrence Soon

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20—The generally dry cycle that lasted from 1930 through 1936 may be at an end, according to J. B. Kincaid of the U. S. Weather Bureau. He bases his prediction on plentiful rains this year following those in 1937.

"This suggests the possibility," Kincaid said, "that the long drouth has spent itself and that the years immediately ahead may bring more adequate rainfall to the country."

He compared the 1930-36 drouth with the one that extended from about 1886 through 1895. Following that period of deficient moisture came a series of years—1896 through 1909—when rainfall was generally abundant.

The first half of 1938 was outstanding for its precipitation. About 80 per cent of the United States had more than normal rainfall. The country as a whole averaged 12 per cent above normal. All states, excepting the tier extending from New York to Florida, and Washington had above normal rainfall.

The eastern tier of states, comparatively dry until about the middle of July, had abundant to excessive rainfall, with damaging floods in the latter part of July. The South also had heavy rainfall with more or less local flood damage. This condition, described by the Weather Bureau as rare in the history of America, and the abundant moisture last year, were in marked contrast with conditions in 1934 and 1936, with their wide-spread deficiencies in rain.

From January to June 1936, the great central part of the country did not have normal precipitation. Missouri and Arkansas, for example, had only 49 and 43 per cent, respectively, of normal rainfall. This great dry belt covered 25 states.

In the same period in 1938 only 10 states were without normal rainfall, as follows: New York, Pennsylvania, Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Mississippi, North Dakota and Washington.

For the same period in 1937 a like number of states lacked normal precipitation. They were: Michigan, Wisconsin, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, Colorado, Montana and Nevada.

In comparison with the wet years following the drouth of the 1890s, only six states were recorded with below normal precipitation. They were: Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas, Arizona, New Mexico and California.

SHIRLEY TEMPLE'S PLAYROOM

MISS SHIRLEY TEMPLE, a small girl with yellow curls and clear, blue eyes, has just completed a vacation trip to the East Coast with her family.

She was welcomed by the President of the Republic, governors of states, mayors of cities, and had hot dogs and went swimming with Slatte and Buzzie Dall at the Krum Elbow estate of the Roosevelts.

The amazing interest taken in the life of this talented youngster is the subject of an illustrated sketch in the August issue of House Beautiful. Shirley lives in a rambling stone house on a wooded hill in Santa Monica, overlooking the Pacific. Both the outside and the inside of the rambling home are completely charming.

Shirley has a bedroom and a nursery of her own. Her favorite colors are red and white and they are carried out in the decorative scheme. Both rooms are full of sun and toys and color and are gay and bright in keeping with the charming child who lives in them.

In less than 5 years the cold storage locker system for fruits, meats, and vegetables has grown until community units are in operation in 24 states. Many families who use the lockers prefer them to canning or curing.

DOUGLAS & GOLDSTON

The summary of highway development in the 19 counties comprising the Panhandle division of State Highway Department, which has given this area one of the finest road systems in the state, was brought to light following the announcement that W. J. Van London, division engineer in the Panhandle for the past seven years, next week is to be transferred to Houston.

A testimonial dinner honoring Mr. Van London will be given at the Schneider Hotel at Pampa Monday night.

The far-flung road-building program, starting in earnest in 1930 has averaged 100 miles and costing $2,000,000 a year up to the present.

Major road projects during the seven years under Van London's supervision, include:

Two hundred miles on No. 5 between Memphis and Texline; 109 miles on U. S. 60 across the Panhandle; 137 miles on U. S. 66 across the Panhandle; 103 miles on U. S. 83 from Shamrock north to Oklahoma line; 17 miles on 87 from Canyon to Happy; 25 miles on 54 in Dallam County; 80 miles on 117 from Claude north to Oklahoma line; 67 miles on 152 from between Wheeler and Borger and 12 miles on Palo Duro Park Park east of Canyon.

In addition, various other state roads have been taken over and improved and $890,000 has been expended on underpasses in this district, including the Buchanan Street and Sixth Avenue structures in Amarillo.

Of the total 1,328 miles of state and federal highways in this division, 961 miles are now paved. When the big paving program was launched in 1931 total paving stood at 186 miles.

Replacing Van London in Amarillo as division engineer will be Jim Douglas of Houston, who has been in a similar capacity there.

Spots from the INK WELL

By B. P. Brents

On a recent tour through Colorado I was amazed at two outstanding and paramount thoughts—the preservation of natural history in the Colorado Museum of Natural History at Denver and the progress of modern civilization through the use of water for irrigation purposes in the Arkansas valley, north of the so-called Dust Bowl.

In the museum there is displayed for the benefit of visitors, animal and bird life in all their forms, and exhibits from widely scattered places are shown. Predominating, however, is bird and animal life of Colorado mounted in natural positions in conjunction with ores of all kinds and paleontology specimens from various sections of the state. Exhibits from other states and some foreign countries are given some choice positions.

Thus can one view the many exhibits in the museum and picture in ones mind the life of an early settler. Fine highways through the state and principally through the mountains were unknown. Wild game was plentiful, and the pioneer did not have to go far to get a full supply of his table. Now—fine highways and irrigation systems confront us on all sides.

Outstanding in the Arkansas Valley is the use of water to enable the farmers to grow many kinds of crops, and to view the numerous modern farm homes and the cleanliness of fields the thought of progressiveness in that area is easily realized.

Water is brought into the valley by gravity flow from two sources. The Trans-Mountain Irrigation Canal carries water, obtained on the western slope of the Continental Divide, possibly 250 miles away, for irrigation uses as far east in Colorado as Lamar. This canal was first surveyed in 1898, but was not built for many years. It was completed approximately three years ago.

Water flowing through the Ft. Lyon Canal is obtained from the Arkansas River a short distance east of Pueblo and is carried as far east as Ft. Lyon, five miles east of Las Animas.

Crops of cantaloupes, peas, beans, cucumbers, sugar beets, Zinnias (for seed), alfalfa, wheat, corn, tomatoes, and many others are grown in the fertile Arkansas Valley. Texas receives a big share of the vegetable products of this area.

The thought occurred to me on the trip that with plenty of sunshine and fertile soil the same crops would be harvested in the Texas Panhandle if an adequate water supply was obtainable, be it either from reservoirs or rivers near or far, or from wells on the land to be irrigated.

Noticeable on the trip was the fact that irrigation in that valley is not confined to level land. Rolling land as well received its share of water from branch canals by gravity flow.

Naturally the engineering problem incident to completion of such a project in this country would be like the one in Colorado, an expensive one. Such is the case in all irrigation projects. THE WATER MUST BE OBTAINED FIRST! The canal method of carrying water must be solved later.

Did not the Arkansas Valley section have their first problem? Did not the Rio Grande Valley of Texas, the Hereford area, the Medina Valley area and all other irrigated sections have their first problem?—a source of water and method of flow to the affected farms.

But those problems were worked out, many harmoniously, by all interested persons putting their shoulder to the wheel and pushing together, all striving for early completion of a united object.

Several large dams for conservation of water in the Panhandle are being built, by government money. A large dam on McClellan Creek just across the Gray county line is being built for conservation of water and some irrigation in that area. Recently, efforts were made in Donley county to obtain a project to build a dam to be used for irrigation purposes west of Goldston. Tentative failure was recorded for those efforts. Work along that problem was not exactly futile, and before many years an irrigation project in Donley county may be built in that area or in some other area, as a direct result of that seemingly futile work. Then, will be realized the importance of time and energy spent on that project.

Yes! Irrigation can and some day will come to Donley county. Some old timers say that underground water is plentiful in the Ashtola section. If so, the terrain is adaptable to gravity flow of water at little expense. It is also said, and easily observed, that somewhere underground there is an abundant water supply in the Lelia Lake region. Fine fruits and vegetables and alfalfa have been grown for sometime near Lelia Lake because of subsoil moisture, provided by nature. The supply of fruits and vegetables and other farm products could be made more abundant by a man-made increase in the water supply. That has been done in other irrigation regions, why not Lelia Lake? Goldston? Ashtola? Or any part of the county?

Donley county vegetables have taken many prizes in past years at the Tri-State Fair. Finer products can be raised with more water, so lets all work together when an irrigation project can be brought to our front door. Work for the good of Donley county, then fruit and vegetable trucks will be stopping in Donley county to buy Donley County products instead of passing through the county to get to another area where an abundant supply of

Ashtola Needle Club Meets

The Ashtola Needle Club met August 18 with Mrs. Lloyd Reed. The meeting was opened with a prayer by Mrs. Doyce Graham. During the business meeting, plans were made for furnishing a club room. A needle work exhibit was admired by the guests.

The hostess served refreshments to Mesdames Ruel Nichols, C. C. Barker, J. R. Brandon, J. M. Graham, Clarence Cobb, Harold Cobb, W. D. Holley, W. A. Poovey, H. A. Rhoades, Doyce Graham, F. M. Watson, Van Knox and a visitor, Miss Gladys Holley.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Rhodes of Mangum, Okla. spent the week-end with relatives here.

FARM HINTS AND NEWS OF INTEREST TO DONLEY FARM FAMILIES

Fifty Years of Locomotive Development

(Above)—Santa Fe Railway's new 5001-class of freight locomotives is illustrated here in contrast to the modern automobile which appears small enough to fit easily into the engine's firebox. Ten of these mammoth power units capable of 70-mile-per-hour speeds are being placed in service. Their tenders carry 20,000 gallons of water and 23 tons of coal or 7,000 gallons of fuel oil. Nickered steel boilers enable these locomotives to carry a steam pressure of 310 pounds. The engine weighs 440 tons.

Fifty years ago, No. 684 was the latest thing in Santa Fe freight power. She served her heyday when freight train speeds averaged 10 miles per hour and 30 cars made a big train. Today, she is the last survivor of her class. At the Topeka shops she puffs mightily as she shoves her modern sisters, as shown above, around the locomotive shop yards. She came from the Baldwin locomotive works in 1888 just 50 years ahead of No. 5004, which represents the latest engineering developments in steam freight engines.

Leisure For Planning Ahead

By T. C. RICHARDSON, Secretary
Texas Breeder-Feeder Association

At this season, between final cultivation and fall harvest, there is more leisure for both pleasure and profit than for several months to come. It is a mighty good time to visit around and see what other farmers are doing, to gather ideas and useful information, to digest it and adapt it to use at home, to make plans for next year's operations. If planning is delayed until after the rush of fall harvesting it is too late to get ready for some of the things one may want to do next year.

Nobody can convince E. C. Davis, tenant farmer of Conway county, Arkansas, that it doesn't pay to plan far ahead and set down the steps necessary to reach certain goals. Sitting down with his county and home agent and the farm management specialist Mr. and Mrs. Davis worked out a plan which called for 16 definite things to be done within the year, in order to improve their living conditions and provide a more dependable income. They set their goals pretty high; it scarcely looked possible to carry out every point in the plan. But they found planning each step far ahead helped get the job done at the proper time, and they fulfilled the entire 16 parts of the plan the first year. Now they can raise their goals.

It would have been too late to "plant two acres of grain for chickens" if the Davis family had waited until after Christmas to plan the year's work; or to "sow 36 acres of cotton land in vetch to be plowed under next spring." These are only two items of the 16, but serve to illustrate why forehandness in planning is essential to good farming practices.

Every farm family and its farm is a different problem. Some families are satisfied with less than others, some want one thing, some another and the problem is to make the farm give the family what it wants. Vague hoping for a lucky break with big yields and high prices doesn't usually bring results. Weather or something else beyond control may defeat the best plans, but working without a definite plan is responsible for more defeats than weather.

Do we want a fall garden, a good table and full pantry next winter? It's time to get the ground ready and buy the seed. Do we need winter grazing for livestock and poultry? It's time to decide where it is going to be and get ready for sowing on the fall rains. Do we want the best prices for Thanksgiving and Christmas turkeys? The grain for fattening must be in the bin several weeks before marketing time. Does the land need a winter cover? Seed can usually be bought more cheaply ahead of planting season than when everybody wants them.

Nearly all farm families plan ahead to some extent, but too few take the time and trouble to work out their needs and the plans to meet them in definite form. Merely doing this and getting them down on paper is no job for a half-hour's casual conversation. It takes time to discuss, adjust and work out the details, and there is no better time than the few weeks just about now. The first plan will usually be revised several times by study and discussion, and it is therefore a good idea to lay it aside for a few days while everybody thinks it over. Then bring it out and work it over at intervals until all its weaknesses are ruled out.

A great deal of help can be had from county agents, home demonstration agents, farm management specialists in extension service, and vocational teachers who are technically trained in the

IN BUILDING TERRACES BUILD OUTLETS FIRST

Planning field terraces for the control of soil erosion is one place where it generally pays to "put the cart before the horse," according to the Soil Conservation Service of the United States Department of Agriculture.

In the past farmers usually built terraces without much regard for taking care of the water that emptied out of the terrace channels. And when water from the channels started washing and gullying on adjacent fields, pastures, or in roadside ditches, there wasn't much they could do except provide makeshift outlets.

Modern terrace planning reverses the old procedure. Instead of building terraces and then worrying about safe outlets, Service engineers now put the outlets first—anywhere from one to four years in advance of actual terrace construction.

They select two or three natural waterways, soq them down, or seed them to grass or other types of close growing vegetation, and then build terraces from year to year as the outlets become established. This makes possible a systematic terracing program over a period of years and at the same time cuts down the cost of terracing by doing away with the necessity for expensive concrete and masonry outlet structures.

Flood Unearths Coin Dated 1730

Menard Messenger, Jess Simmons and his son, Roger, found what is believed to be the only dated museum piece to be found on the site of the museum San Saba.

Crossing part of the old wall near the east gate of the Mission, Roger Simmons noticed part of a small pan that had been unearthened by flood waters. Digging it out, he found it to be an old copper pan that had been lodged in the wall.

The two Simmons began digging around the place and they soon found two small pieces that had been washed out of the mud. One of the pieces was what looks like a button made of quartz and in a bronze setting. Through the button, two interlocking initials can be seen.

The third and most interesting piece that was found 30 feet inside the enclosure was an old coin with the date, 1730, clearly showing on it.

The coin is smaller than a dime and is apparently a piece of Spanish money because it has "uno" on one side of it.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. McAnear returned to Clarendon Saturday after spending a ten-day vacation in Stephenville with Mrs. McAnear's parents.

This demonstration is being sponsored through the courtesy of Ball Bros. Company, who, for over fifty years, have been manufacturing the World famous Mason Jars for canning of fruits, meats and vegetables, under the U. S. Government approved methods of steam pressure, hot water bath and open kettle canning.

CLARENDON NEGRO SHOTS DUSKY SHAMROCK GUNMAN

Information was received here by law officers late Saturday night that "Red" Wells, Clarendon negro, was implicated in a shooting scrape in Shamrock earlier that night.

Wells used a pistol against his dusky opponent who used a rifle, but the wielder of the rifle received wounds in both legs. Wells came to Clarendon and surrendered to Sheriff Guy Pierce, who delivered him to Wheeler County officers.

Miss Ineva Headrick returned to Clarendon Friday after spending the summer in Colorado Springs, and visiting in Amarillo.

Legion To Picnic At McClellan Lake Labor Day, Sept. 5

All Panhandle roads will lead to McClellan lake in the south part of Gray county on Labor Day September 5th when the second annual free community picnic will be held.

The National holiday has been chosen by Kerley-Crossman Post of the American Legion at Pampa sponsors of the Panhandle-Wide affair, as the best and the last day of the vacation season for all the folks for miles around to have a good old-fashioned basket picnic.

Besides the old fashioned games and tobacco spitting contest, rolling pin throwing contest, greased pig catching and numerous other fun stunts there will be a mass wedding ceremony.

It is hoped to have 25 couples get married at the largest wedding ceremony ever held in the Panhandle of Texas. The licenses, marriage ceremony and gifts will be presented to each couple that volunteers to be married on this momentous occasion. A secret retreat known as Honeymoon Hotel will be turned over to the newlyweds on their nuptial night.

This picnic is for "everybody everywhere" said Charlie Maisel, general chairman of the picnic committee, "and we want everybody to come, bring their own baskets and make a day of it. This is the kind of picnic that the grown-ups attended as kids on the forks of the creek."

Particularly are the picnic sponsors anxious to get a large attendance from the neighboring towns and communities in order to cement the bonds of community neighborliness and restore the good neighbor policy among the Panhandle communities which have so much in common.

Last year over 12,000 people attended the community picnic and everyone expressed they would be back again this year. The day was turned over to fun for all last year and the crowd roared at the husband calling contest and pie and cracker eating contest and hundreds of other stunts on the program last year.

Everyone everywhere is guaranteed one of the biggest fun days of their life. Legion officials point out that the picnic is not merely a picnic for Legionnaires, but a gala event planned for all the people of this section of this country. All businesses in practically all the cities will be suspended for the day to give all an opportunity to attend this second annual Panhandle-wide community picnic.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Alderson have returned from a business and vacation trip to Colorado.

Highway Of The Future Will Permit Auto Trip Across U. S. In 23 Hours

NEW YORK—From coast to coast, by auto, in 23 hours.

A highway in which this can be done has been designated to be shown at the World Fair here.

It shows cars running at 100 miles and house with more safety than anything possible today. It is called the Highway of the Future.

Science has already made all the necessary "parts." The cars and materials are either on the today or in experimental shops. The highway, a nearly straight line that passes all cities, was designed by Norman Bel Geddes.

Among authorities who have approved it as an exhibit of what can be done, Mr. Geddes names Dr. Miller McClintock, chairman of the Harvard Traffic Bureau, the following chief engineers, Col. Henry Waite, Cincinnati railway terminal; A. E. Howland, Long Island park commission; J. J. Darcy, New York City public works; J. C. Evans, port of New York Authority, and Charles F. Kettering, director of research of General Motors.

The first of these new roads which may ultimately web the country is designed to start in New York and Philadelphia, pass midway between Chicago and St. Louis, across southern Wyoming and into California north of San Francisco. Its length is 2300 miles.

At first glance its construction would look novel. But a motorist who had driven across the United States this summer would find in it not one feature which he had not seen on his trip, either in practical use or in a "baby" stage of experiment on some main highway.

But the way of fitting these innovations together would be entirely different. Two scenes would strike him as extraordinary.

One would be traffic lanes separated by three-foot-high walls curving concavely outward and upward from the roadbed. He would recall that in Iowa and many other places he had driven over miles of roads bordered by similar structures only six inches high. And that when at 70 miles an hour he veered dangerously close to the outside edge of the road the "concave" turned him back to safety automatically.

The other would be at night. No headlights lighted. But on the pavement, ahead of the car for 400 feet, and moving at the car's speed, a flat sheet of light. This would be the most novel thing, yet something already suggested by reflectors along highways.

The moving light would come from tubes inlaid at the tops of the walls, so as to shine only down on the pavement and to light, under radio control, only the 400 feet in front of the car. The highway is double, one way east, one way west, the two roads either side by side, or swinging apart as economic and building conditions dictate.

Its new speed principal is three tracks of "must" speeds. There is a single lane at one edge for 100 miles an hour, a middle track of two lanes for 70 miles and an outer track of two lanes for 50 miles an hour. The speeds allowed are not over five miles more or less than the "must."

There are switch lanes, their roadbeds in red, for changing from one speed or road to another. They are long enough to allow a car to pick up or drop down to the speed of the lane its driver wishes to enter.

Here is where, in addition to road structure, radio gadgets now only on experimental cars play a new role for safety. The radio controls can be installed, Mr. Geddes says, for not more than $5, by the manufacturers.

They flash red and green lights on the dash; they give the driver spoken instructions from automatic stations set along the road so that he can tune in, as phone users in big cities dial their phones to let an automatic voice tell them the time.

The radio will, he says, carry a short wave zone of safety which warns the driver when he is too close to a car ahead or when he is a safe distance to one side for passing.

The Low Down FROM HICKORY GROVE

The latest thing just off the griddle—red hot—it is a U. S. broadcasting system. So I reckon the mails, they must be too slow.

And the Govt. with a radio, it could clamp down quick on a farmer in Illinois or some place, if he is objecting to some person with a slide-rule telling him just where and how to plant a couple hills of corn.

They could have a farmer in jail, via radio, lots quicker than by R. F. D.

And if they send out word on Monday to plant more, because the weather is dry and then it rains and they want the farmer to plant less, you see how hard it is to get something done—by mail!

But the Govt., it is getting its foot into everybody's door—and it is not just the farmer they are after.

If they can tell a farmer when to wean a calf, what is to keep them from telling me when to change my underwear—if I may be happen to have some, sometime.

So my neighbor says to me, he says, Jo, I am mighty glad to see you are half-way beginning to wake up.

Yours, for the low down. JO SERRA

For Your Family's Sake...

KEEP MILK SAFE! ...IT IS THE FIRST RULE

OF ALL-WEATHER FOOD-KEEPING

Keep milk fresh and pure, if your family is to have one of Nature's most wholesome foods. To be sure milk is as fresh as the minute it's delivered to you, the U. S. Government recommends that you store it in a refrigerator, where the temperature is 50 degrees or less. Above 50 degrees, milk spoils rapidly, curdles, gets sour. Other food, not so easily detected as milk, spoils too in higher temperatures. Below 50 degrees, milk and other food is safe. Check your refrigeration now!

Apartments Much In Demand Here

The demand for apartments in Clarendon has increased in the past months until there are only three available, one in Mrs. Latson's one in the Seldon Bagby duplex and one in Mrs. Kennedy's house. Every day almost there calls for apartments.

This fact, unusual for a small town and never before seen in Clarendon, seems to be due to the fact that young couples with only one child or none, prefer an apartment, especially a furnished one, for financial reasons usually. Many of them are uncertain as to the length of their jobs and prefer not to rent a house. Most of them have no furniture and it is very difficult to find a furnished house in Clarendon, so that they are forced to take apartments. In cases where both husband and wife are employed, it is easier and even necessary to have a small place as they are never there in the day and keeping an apartment is much more easily and quickly done than a house.

The modern attitude seems to be that a home is much more expensive and troublesome than an apartment, and it is true in some cases. In an apartment house when the lights, water or gas do not function or something happens to the apartment itself, the occupant merely has to report it to the owner or manager and has no more worry about the matter; in a home the occupant must see to such things himself, causing expense, delay, and discomfort. And always there are taxes. Of course, in renting an apartment, one pays part of the taxes, but it is not realized as in the home.

The people who rent apartments are school teachers, highway workers and business employees who are new in the town as well as couples who both work.
