THIS WEEK

- 2 A shopping excursion turns into a full-blown furniture adventure.
- 3 One of Hedley's graduates signs to play ball for a community college.
- 5 The FSA is accepting emergency farm loan applications.
- 7 And find out who one the golf tournament last week.

All this and much more as The Enterprise reports in this week's juck pot edition!

Clarendon Fire Dept. to celebrate 100 years

The Clarendon Volunteer Fire Department is making preparations to celebrate its centennial during the Saints' Roost Celebration this year.

According to historical news articles, the department was organized by the City of Clarendon on June 23, 1906, after a large fire destroyed almost an entire block of businesses on the east side of Kearney Street.

To commemorate this occasion, the Clarendon Volunteer Fire Department will hold an open house at the Fire Hall on July 2 at 2 p.m. with food, giveaways, and recognition of special guests.

The public is invited to attend and be a part of this special occasion.

Clarendon sales tax receipts higher again

The City of Clarendon posted another gain in sales tax receipts when Texas Comptroller Carole Keeton Strayhorn released figures for May last Friday.

The city's sales tax allocation grew 6.85 percent to a total of $22,286.18, which is up from $20,857.12 in May 2005. Clarendon is now 8.15 percent ahead for the year to date.

Hedley also saw an increase with an allocation of $632.90, which was a 61.15 percent increase from the same time last year.

Howardwick's rebate dropped slightly by 0.79 percent to a total of $925.49, but that city is also still ahead for the year to date by a margin of 3.76 percent.

Strayhorn said the state received $1.54 billion in sales tax revenue in May, up 5.8 percent, compared to May 2005.

State sales tax collections in May and local sales tax allocations in June represent sales that occurred in April and were reported to the Comptroller in May.

Friendship Club will meet this Friday night

The Howardwick Friendship Club will meet Friday, June 16, at 6:30 p.m. in the Howardwick City Hall. Everyone is welcome and is invited to bring a dish for potluck.

City reminds residents about need for permits

City Hall reminds local residents that it is the homeowner's responsibility to get a building permit for any improvements costing more than $250.

Permits are required for plumbing, electrical, roofing, and other work. The cost is $10 for jobs costing $251 to $1,000 and $1 for each additional thousand dollars. Improvements of $250 or less do not require a permit.

For more information, call City Hall at 874-3438.

County enacts ban on fireworks

There will be no rockets' red glare or bombs bursting in air during the Fourth July in Donley County this year... not without a hefty fine anyway.

County commissioners banned the sale and use of all fireworks during their regular meeting Monday. Continuing dry conditions and the ever-present threat of wildfires were cited as the reasons for the ban.

"It's worse now than it was when we had the big fires (in January and March)," said Commissioner Ernest Johnston. "We don't have the high winds we had then, but we sure have the fuel."

The county did not, however, reinstate the burn ban. Campfires and outdoor grilling are legal.

County Judge Jack Hall said the commissioners' court initially wasn't going to ban all fireworks.

"We first just talked about bottle rockets and things that went into the air, but we felt that wouldn't be sufficient," Hall said.

While the ban will just put a damper on the fun of most folks, local fireworks vendors will feel a financial pinch.

Jesus Name Apostolic Church has been selling fireworks for more than 12 years, and the small congregation depends on the sales to see them through the year.

"That's our only fundraiser," said Pastor Calvin Burrow. "Now we will just do without."

To make matters worse, the church has already purchased its fireworks for the year and now must find some other outlet for the merchandise.

"We probably should have waited, but it was the only time I had off (to get the fireworks)," Burrow said. "We're looking for someone to take them, but I suspect it's going to be this way all over the Panhandle. All we can do now is pray for rain."

Kathleen Yankie is also affected by the ban but fortunately had not placed her order for this year.

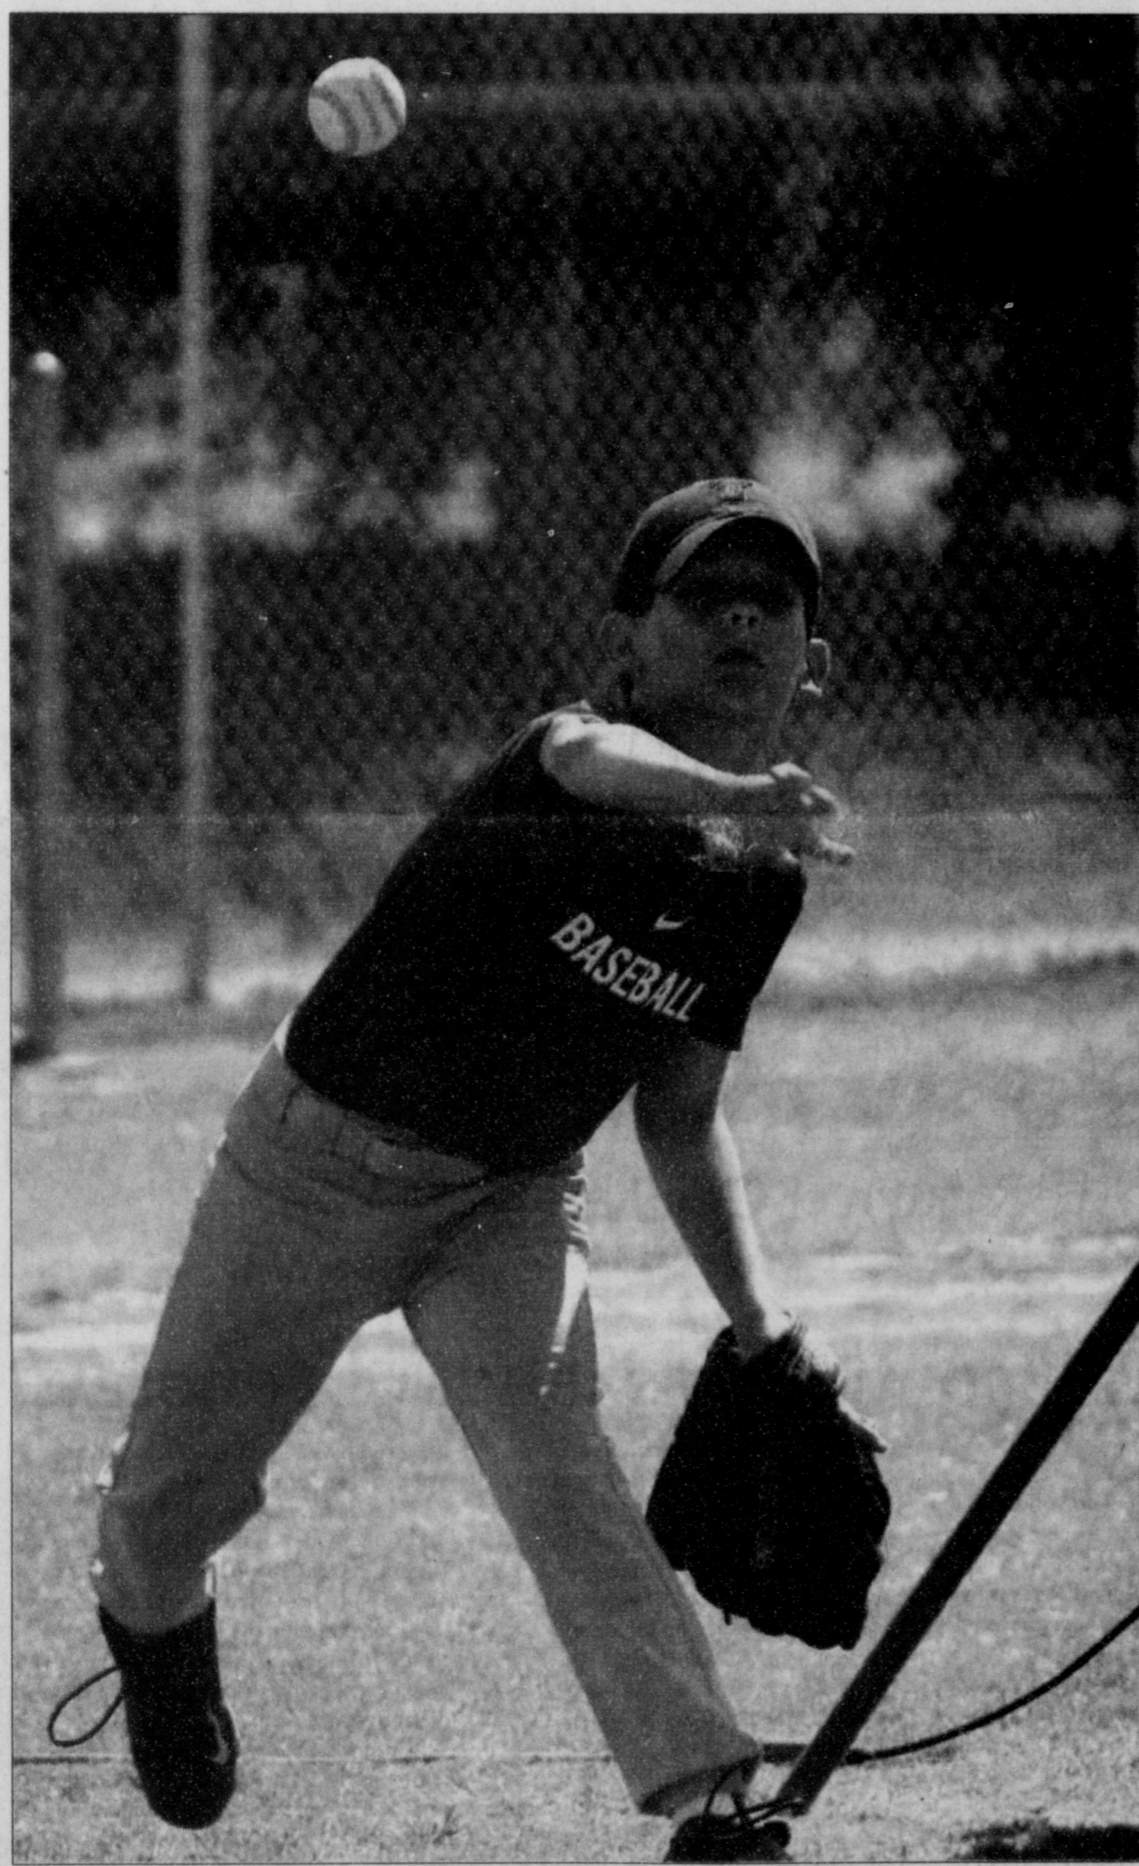

"It's for the good of the county, but I know the kids will be disappointed," said Yankie, who has been selling fireworks for 28 years. "There's nothing we can do about it, so I guess we'll live with it."

Chief Deputy Randy Bond says the Donley County Sheriff's Department will back the commissioners and will enforce as rigidly as it did the burn ban.

"Our concern is for the county," Bond said. "The grass is dry, and we're trying to prevent anymore fires."

Anyone who violates the fireworks ban will face a Class C misdemeanor and could get a $250 fine.

In other county business this week, the court received a plaque See 'County' on page three.

Citizens' questions spark discussions

An appearance by more than 30 concerned citizens sparked a lengthy discussion about salaries and other issues when the Donley Appraisal District Board met in regular session Monday night.

Brad Dalton spoke for the group, which calls itself the Donley County Concerned Citizens, and went through a list of questions for the board to answer.

"We're not here to fuss and fight," Dalton said. "We're just here to ask questions."

Board Chairman Dan Hall and Chief Appraiser Paula Lowrie answered some of the questions on the spot and said other information — such as data on delinquent taxes, collection rates, etc. — can be compiled and made available.

Dalton then read a statement requesting a timely reply to the group's questions and requested that any citizen be able to come to the appraisal office "with a question or complaint without fearing a confrontation or retaliation" and that the board give "impartial and unbiased review" and fair resolution to any complaint.

The citizens then left the building, and the board continued with its agenda, which included work on the proposed budget for fiscal year 2007.

Board member Jerry Gage said he thought the board should have a basis for setting salaries, which was one of the items of inquiry of the Concerned Citizens.

"They came here with questions, and they deserve answers," Gage said.

"These are the people who pay the taxes, and we need to address their concerns," board member Johnny Floyd said.

Board member Wayne Hardin recommended a three percent increase in salaries based on past raises and in an attempt to keep See 'Citizens' on page three.

City receives $300k to fix water pressure

Water pressure problems that have plagued residents in the west part of Clarendon for years may soon be alleviated thanks to a Texas Community Development block grant.

Officials with the Office of Rural Community Affairs informed the city last week that the grant had been awarded. It will provide $306,858 for supplies, administrative fees, and engineering costs. The city must provide the labor to install the improvements.

Chris Sharp, who is administering the grant through the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission, says the project calls for 12,000 feet of new pipe, new valves, a pressure tank with two boosters and a building, and ten fire hydrants.

City engineer Che Shadle said a booster system has helped pressure problems for some residences but said homes between the west water tower and the college campus are not on the system.

"The new pressure tank will keep the pressure at a constant level at all times," Shadle said.

But what about all the new paving that's been done in that part of town?

"The new lines will go behind the curb in the city's right of way, and we will bore under the intersections and bore under pavement to connect service lines," Shadle said.

"There shouldn't be any penetrations into the new pavement. Not that there won't be, but there shouldn't be."

The lines would go under driveways and sidewalks as well.

Shadle also said the project does not address the problem of dirty-looking water that is being experienced in the south part of the city.

Sharp said the project could get started in about six months and would likely be a yearlong project.

Forty-four garage sales to be held this Saturday

Bargain shoppers will be in for a treat during the first "Trash to Treasures" citywide garage sale to be held in Clarendon and nearby communities this Saturday, June 17.

Forty-four individual garage sales are scheduled to be held. A complete description of each sale is printed in this week's Big E Classifieds, and a map of the sales is on the last page of this week's ENTERPRISE.

THE CLARENDON ENTERPRISE and A Fine Feathered Nest, Inc., have teamed up to sponsor "Trash To Treasures," which was the idea of Ashlee Estlack and Chriss Clifford.

The organizers had hoped to get 15 sales the first year, but were happy to have more than 20 by last Tuesday.

That number doubled by last Friday's deadline as sales steadily lined up one after the other.

"This is truly amazing for a first time event," ENTERPRISE publisher Roger Estlack said. "Claude has been having its citywide garage sale for several years, and we understand they had 43 sales this year. We had hoped to catch them in a year or two but never expected to do so the first year."

The sale was intended to just be in the City of Clarendon, but demanded the ENTERPRISE and A Fine Feathered Nest to agree to expand the event to other locations in Donley County to include sales on the south side of Greenbelt Lake, in rural areas, and in Hedley and Howardwick.

"We have some local merchants participating also," Estlack said. "We hope to attract several people from out of town to shop at the sales and to patronize our local businesses. We're also happy to see some non-profit organizations taking advantage of the opportunity that "Trash to Treasures" presents."

"Trash to Treasures" is being promoted in several area newspapers and with airtime on KEFH and KLSR radio.

Clifford sees widespread participation in "Trash To Treasures" as a way to encourage people to think about something before they toss it out. In fact, her company has its own line of products that are "Too Good To Be Threw."

"I'm interested in the whole ecology of the idea and encouraging recycling of old items," Clifford said.

"I also want to see people find artful ways to put objects to new uses."

Future "Trash To Treasures" will coincide with A Fine Feathered Nest's annual Too Good To Be Threw sale, and Clifford also has long-range plans for classes on giving lamps, furniture, and other things new lives.

Market forces only real cure for oil prices

By Robert L. Bradley Jr.

Little has changed in the 75 years since Spanish philosopher José Ortega y Gasset wrote, "In disturbances caused by scarcity of food, the mob goes in search of bread, and the means it employs is generally to wreck the bakeries."

Revised for the crisis du jour, that sentence would read, "Whenever the price of oil jumps, the first thing the people's congressmen do is demonize and punish Big Oil."

Because worldwide demand for oil is rising, and a quarter of the world's oil is being produced by sabre-rattling socialist/nationalist governments, the price of crude has more than doubled from its historic average.

Fortunately, with higher prices comes increased economic incentive to find, produce, refine and market oil, all of which brings prices down. The cure for high prices is high prices — if market forces are allowed to turn today's problem into tomorrow's solution.

Of course, Congress doesn't see it that way. Instead, trying to reverse cause and effect, lawmakers assert that high prices are the problem, not uncertain supply in the face of increasing demand.

One "solution," therefore, is to impose back-door price controls via laws against "price gouging." But trying to address increased oil scarcity by forcing prices down is like trying to cure a fever by adjusting the thermometer. It eliminates the feedback that prices provide to consumers and suppliers.

With artificially low prices for gasoline, consumers use more of the limited supply than they otherwise would, while suppliers (including gasoline importers) do not receive the economic signal to bring in a greater supply. Soon, the artificially cheap commodity runs short. People begin wasting time in gasoline lines, and burning fuel while they wait.

Another popular "solution" is to impose a "wind-fall" profits tax. But why, in times of acute scarcity, should money be taken from those who can alleviate the abnormal scarcity and given to politicians?

Congress is not going to drill wells but redistribute tax dollars. Increasing taxes only gives a congressman the appearance of "doing something about this crisis" during an election year. With any luck, by the time the crisis has passed and his "something" has clearly made the problem worse, he will have been safely re-elected.

Today's petroleum problem is not a shortage of energy resources but a surplus of government. Oil is not the problem, government control of oil is. America is not "addicted" to oil; too many oil-rich countries are addicted to socialism and nationalism, by which problem-solving entrepreneurship is hampered or criminalized.

The solution is not to stop using petroleum — a physically impossible, economically ruinous response. The solution is to start the educational and political reform needed to promote capitalist institutions in the impoverished, resource-rich areas of the world.

A capitalistic transformation would assign private property titles to the subsoil. Such a privatization will promote greater supply and efficiency, and will demote politicians who are the enemies of oil consumers the world over. Ordinary citizens, having become royalty owners, will be the ones to obtain wealth as oil and gas is found and produced.

And these individuals — let there be many thousands of them — will rise from poverty to become part of the investor class, and even philanthropists to their fellow man. Witness the work of oil- and gas-endowed foundations in the United States, for example.

Effecting this transformation will take a lot of hard work. Counting Iraq, a country with a history of repression, three-quarters of the world's proven oil reserves are controlled by countries that the Heritage Foundation rates as "repressed" (Nigeria, Venezuela, Libya, Iran, Iraq) or "mostly unfree" (e.g., Russia, China, Qatar, Algeria, Brazil, and Kazakhstan).

In all of these lands, the spectre of Karl Marx must be replaced with the spirit of Ludwig von Mises, F.A. Hayek, and Hernando De Soto. The Hugo Chavezes of the world must be replaced with leaders who know that socialism is a dry hole, while capitalism empowers citizens, promotes savings, increases investment, and produces wealth that redounds to the masses.

The United States has a government energy problem too. Witness our folly in mandating quotas for inferior energies and blocking access to (government owned) hydrocarbon-rich areas offshore and in Alaska.

Yet there is a silver lining to this folly, for it means that our government can lead the world through example, ending energy subsidies across the board and privatizing public resource holdings.

To blaze a path away from oil statism, our government's leaders must let our own oil industry invest the capital it has earned and thereby increase infrastructure. And they must tell the world why they are doing so: because they have learned that the solution to a bread shortage lies in building more bakeries, not in wrecking them.

Shopping trip becomes big adventure

Ikea. What is it? A word from some tribal language? What I said when I saw a spider in my drain?

In the movie Fight Club, it was Ikea that drove the main character to develop multiple personalities, blow up his own apartment, and to create a cult of men who beat each other up for fun.

Ikea is the biggest home decor store I have ever seen. It's only the biggest home decor store in the world.

This weekend I went to the metroplex to meet up with a bunch of friends and go to Ikea to buy stuff for my apartment. I've been buying garage sale junk for months. Now that I have a real paying job, I think I deserve real furniture.

That means I have to get rid of my cinder block and plywood bookshelves. They were leftover from my dorm life and completely out of place in my swank grown-ups-only crib. More than anything, I needed a real bookcase.

I made a budget. I got a catalog and made a list of the names and numbers of products I liked. I made scale drawings of my bedroom with the furniture in different arrangements. I shopped around smaller local stores and compared prices.

On the day of the trip, I woke up and stretched. I put on my walking shoes and drove 2½ hours to Fort Worth. Then I met up with a friend, and we drove for an hour before we had stop and go to the bathroom, then another hour (including an interesting and unnecessary detour through DFW International Airport) to Ikea.

The store is huge. It has its own street, Ikea Drive. It has a "bistro." It has a day care. It has a map.

You start out on the second floor with a map. On the back, it has a place for you to write down items that you are interested in. The floor is set up in showrooms. You walk through the rooms, see what things look like in real places, and make a list of things you like.

They give a paper tape measure so you can measure things. It's kind of silly because measurements and everything else you could ever want to know about the product is listed on a big laminated tag in five languages.

Ikea caters to small spaces and slash rooms: kitchen-slash-dining rooms, living room-slash-offices. They set up entire 300 square foot apartments. Everything in them from the silverware to the sheets to the chalk on the chalkboard cabinets to the knobs on the drawers can be purchased in the store.

But not on the second floor.

You can't pick up anything on that floor. You have to get everything on the ground floor. That's where it gets hairy.

On Saturday afternoon, it is bumper to bumper shopping carts down there. People are everywhere. You're constantly apologizing and waiting for someone to pass and then hurrying up to pass in front of someone else.

It's actually pretty nerve wracking. I found myself tightening my jaw and gripping my cart and feeling very anxious. While my friend wrestled with the eternal question of "big or small black ceramic candle tray," I was crossing things off my list.

The side table can wait. I don't need the big mirror. I don't have room in my car for the desk chair. I want to get my tall skinny bookcases and get out of here!

Luckily, my style of bookcases were named "Billy;" and, as the store was organized alphabetically, they were one of the first famous flat Ikea boxes in the giant ground floor warehouse.

We loaded them up on the cart, stood in line forever, and got sucked in by the "point of purchase" impulse buys by the register. I got two seven-foot bookcases, two lamps, two pillows, a bath mat, and a cheese grater all for less than $150.

I got them in my friend's car by sheer willpower. We laid down the backseat, and the boxes ran almost the entire length of her SUV.

My tiny Malibu was much easier. I leaned the passenger seat all the way back and laid them neatly across the seat from the floorboard to the back window. It took a little finesse to get them in and then out again at my apartment, but it was worth it.

I have furniture from Ikea. I put it together myself. I am a woman of style and class and independence. Just ask my bookcases. They are screaming sophistication.

The Return of Chicken Little

Texas will continue as leader in energy

By US Sen. John Cornyn

For more than 100 years, starting with the legendary Spindletop oil field near Beaumont, Texas has been a leading energy producer in the US and the world. Now, a page is turning — and Texas is again in the forefront of global energy developments.

Two Texas cities — Odessa and Jewett — are among the 12 national finalists to host the design, construction, and operation of "FutureGen," the world's first near-zero-emissions coal-powered generation plant.

FutureGen is a demonstration project launched by President Bush in 2003 to test new technology in refining coal and generating electricity. If successful, FutureGen technologies could help lower energy costs, increase domestic energy resources and eliminate sources of harmful air pollutants.

Last month, the US Department of Energy selected Odessa and Jewett to compete with cities from our nation's leading coal-producing states, including West Virginia, Illinois and Wyoming. The winning site will be announced next summer.

FutureGen may sound complex, but its concept is fairly simple. It uses a chemical process to release the energy from coal — known as gasification — rather than burning the coal to achieve the same result.

More specifically, coal gasification is an innovative way to chemically break down coal using heat and pressure. The chemical reactions produce clean-burning gases that are used to generate electricity as well as other valuable by-products that can be sold for industrial use.

The FutureGen plant will also use technology to capture and safely store harmful carbon dioxide emissions before their release into the atmosphere. The carbon dioxide can be piped to oilfields, where it can then be used to help extract valuable fossil fuels.

FutureGen, and projects like it, represent a scientific attempt to meet our energy needs. By contrast, Texas' previous success in energy often relied on big dreams and a large dollop of good fortune.

The TYLER MORNING TELEGRAPH newspaper described how one major East Texas oil field was discovered:

"Columbus Marion 'Dad' Joiner, a man in his 60s, was broke and depressed when he went to sleep along a seawall in Galveston one night in 1926 and had a vision that he would find the biggest oil field in the world in East Texas.

"When he awoke, he sketched the topography of the place he saw in his dream. He later walked and hitchhiked his way to Rusk County and believed he had found that visionary place on Daisy Bradford's land.

"She leased him the land, and he drilled three wells, and the third one finally came in — and it was the biggest oil field in the world." The field ultimately supplied vast amounts of energy to the Allies in World War II.

Another believer, Rupert Ricker, a lawyer in Big Lake, picked a spot to drill in Reagan County where local folks just knew that no oil existed. Well, it did after all.

Santa Rita Number 1 came in on May 28, 1923, giving birth to another Texas behemoth, the Big Lake oilfield, and launching production in the legendary Permian Basin. The state has benefited greatly. Over the years, Santa Rita Number 1 has provided about $1 billion to the state's Permanent University Fund.

Now a new generation of visionaries, which includes local and state leaders and scientists at the University of Texas at Austin, are turning their eyes toward another abundant Texas resource: our coal.

Either Odessa or Jewett is a perfect fit for FutureGen. The Odessa site boasts a strong West Texas expertise in the storage and transportation of carbon dioxide and its use in enhanced oil recovery. The Jewett site, in east-central Texas, offers an abundant supply of coal.

Many people would be surprised to learn that Texas is the nation's fifth-largest producer of coal, the top consumer of coal in the US and has a 200-year reserve of lignite coal. A carbon dioxide storage facility in Texas would help unearth more of our oil and gas reserves, which in turn could boost much-needed domestic production.

Texas is no stranger to alternative fuel technology. Earlier this month, Abilene hosted the nation's largest-ever conference on wind power. With our turbine fields in West Texas, our state runs a close second only to California in generating wind-produced megawatts of electricity.

We're also poised to tap solar power as a serious source of energy. With our vast acreage and sunny climate, Texas solar-resource potential ranks first in the nation. The energy from sunshine falling on a single acre of land in West Texas is capable of producing the energy equivalent of 800 barrels of oil each year.

Texas has long provided America with valuable energy resources. Even as oil and gas reserves in major Texas fields have gradually declined over the years, Texas remains the headquarters of the world's energy industry. It would be entirely fitting if the technology that fuels future generations of our global energy supply is developed in Texas as well — in Jewett, Odessa, or elsewhere.

up with cost of living increases. Floyd and board member Anthony Knowles said raises should be based on whether a person is doing a good job.

"Then obviously they are because we get audited by the state every year and get good reports," Hardin said.

The board agreed to put a three percent salary increase in the proposed budget and to meet in August before their next regular meeting in September to discuss salaries further.

Later in the meeting, the board discussed the issues presented by the Concerned Citizens again.

"Complaints about tax rates or personal property taxes should be directed to these other boards," Gage said, referring to the nine taxing entities in Donley County. "No one in this office should have to defend themselves over things outside their control."

Other board members noted that the appraisal district only sets the value of property and collects taxes levied by other boards.

The board also agreed that questions presented at the meeting were matters of open record and directed Lowrie to prepare answers to the questions to be made available to the media.

100% Organic, Unrefined Virgin Oil

Flaxseed oil is derived from the seeds of the flax plant. Flaxseed oil is rich in healthful omega-3 and omega-6 fatty acids. Adequate intake of these important fatty acids, especially omega-3 fatty acids, helps to ensure a balanced cholesterol level as well as good cardiovascular health. Flaxseeds are one of the most abundant sources of lignans. Lignans are compounds found in plants that have special health benefits. Lignans bind to estrogen receptor sites, thus helping to balance menopausal symptoms as well as helping good breast health. Lignans also aid in fighting off unwanted microbes for our good health.

Sleep apnea often undiagnosed disorder

By Mary Ruth Bishop, County FCS Agent

Do you find yourself excessively sleepy in the daytime – even after a proper amount of sleep? Does your bed partner keep you awake with loud snoring, snorting, gasping, or choking sounds during the night? These are just some of the symptoms that may be associated with a treatable disorder known as sleep apnea. Sleep apnea is clinically defined in adults as a cessation of breath that lasts at least 10 seconds and in children as a cessation of breath that lasts the equivalent of two-and-a-half missed breaths.

People who suffer from sleep apnea may go without breath 10 or more seconds per episode and may have episode after episode throughout the night, every night. In fact, apnea is a Greek word meaning "without breath." Those with apnea literally stop breathing in their sleep or have very shallow breathing (known as hypopnea) while sleeping – all of which can lead to a reduction in airflow, struggle to breathe, and dropped levels of oxygen in the blood. Sleep apnea is very common, as common as adult diabetes. It is estimated that 12 to 18 million Americans have sleep apnea. Though sleep apnea is a common disorder, many people don't know they have it because they awaken and start breathing again over and over during the night, but they are not aware of these events. Unless a bed partner or other household member notices it, the person may not recognize that their daytime symptoms are tied to their sleep. One to three percent of children ages 2 – 18 are also estimated to have sleep apnea; however, because children do not typically complain of tiredness during the day and do not display overly "sleepy" behaviors, such as yawning, the disorder may be missed. Left undiagnosed and/or untreated, sleep apnea can have a multitude of consequences for adults and children – it can, in fact, be life-threatening.

Types of Sleep Apnea: Three possibilities

When we are awake and normally when we sleep, our throat muscles keep the throat open, and air flows into our lungs. Sleep apnea occurs when enough air cannot move into the lungs while a person is sleeping. When this happens, the amount of oxygen in the blood may drop. Normal breaths may start again with a loud snort, gasp, or choking sound.

There are three types of sleep apnea.

Obstructive sleep apnea is the most common type of sleep apnea.

It accounts for more than 95 percent of cases of sleep apnea. In OSA, the throat briefly collapses, causing pauses in your breathing. This collapse may occur in the following conditions: the throat muscles and tongue relax more than usual; the tonsils and adenoids are large; excess weight results in extra soft tissue in the throat, making it harder to keep the throat area open; the shape of the head and neck (body structure) results in a smaller airway size in the mouth and throat area.

Central sleep apnea is a rare type of sleep apnea. In CSA, the area of the brain that controls breathing doesn't send the correct signals to the breathing muscles. As a result, there is no effort to breathe at all for brief periods. In people with CSA, snoring does not typically occur.

Combination or mixed sleep apnea: Combination or mixed sleep apnea is exactly as the words describe – it is a combination or mix of obstructive and central sleep apnea, which is partly due to throat collapse and partly due to controls in the brain.

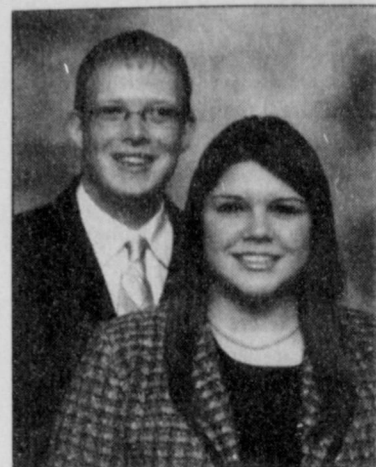

Despite the difference in the root cause of each type, in all three, people with untreated sleep apnea stop breathing repeatedly during their sleep, sometimes hundreds of times during the night and often for a minute or longer.

A major problem in sleep apnea diagnosis is that the person who has it often does not associate awake hour symptoms with sleep problems – unless someone else calls their attention to it. As a family member or friend, you may be able to help someone with sleep apnea or discover it in yourself by looking for the signs and symptoms described below.

Symptoms include excessive daytime sleepiness and frequent episodes of obstructed breathing during sleep. Associated signs are loud snoring; nocturnal snorting, gasping, choking (may wake self up); morning headaches; unrefreshing sleep; dry mouth upon awakening; chest retraction during sleep in young children (chest pulls in); high blood pressure; excess weight; irritability; mood swings or change in personality; depression; difficulty concentrating; excessive perspiring during sleep; heartburn; insomnia; frequent nocturnal urination (nocturia); and restless sleep.

If you or someone you know experiences signs and symptoms on a regular basis, sleep apnea may be the reason. Consult your doctor immediately. For more information contact the Donley County Extension.

Assembly of God welcomes new pastor to church

The congregation of the First Assembly of God would like to welcome Matthew and Fran Stidman to Clarendon as their new pastors.

Matthew and Fran were both raised in Quanah, where Matthew was Youth Pastor for four years. Matthew and Fran come to us from Wichita Falls, where Fran was a substitute teacher and Matthew worked as a physical therapy technician manager. Matthew was also Associate Pastor at Gospel Temple Assembly of God, Fort Worth.

After graduating from MSU, Matthew received his credentials with the Assemblies of God, and Fran received her Bachelor's of Business Administration and teaching certificate.

Matthew and Fran would like to extend an invitation for everyone to come and join them in worship services on Sundays with Sunday school at 9:45 a.m., Worship Service at 10 a.m., and Evening Services at 6 p.m. and on Wednesday night with Bible Study at 7:00 p.m.

Center requests hiatus on donations of clothes

Due to renovations and activities, the First Baptist Church requests that no new donations be given to the Downtown Ministry Center's Clothes Closet until August 1.

The church appreciates the community's continued support in its ministry to serve those in need.

Honor society selects Lemley as new member

ATLANTA – The National Society of High School Scholars (NSHSS) today announced that Clarendon High School student Regan J. Lemley from Clarendon has been selected for membership.

The Society recognizes the top scholars in the nation and invites only those students who have achieved superior academic excellence. The announcement was made by NSHSS founder and Chairman Claes Nobel, senior member of the Nobel Prize family.

"On behalf of NSHSS, I am honored to recognize the hard work, sacrifice, and commitment that Regan has demonstrated to achieve this exceptional level of academic excellence," said Mr. Nobel. "Regan is now a member of a unique community of scholars—a community that represents our very best hope for the future."

"Our vision is to build a dynamic international organization that connects members with meaningful content, resources, and opportunities," stated NSHSS President James Lewis.

PPHM offering free admission for Father's Day

In honor of Fathers Day, the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum will waive the general admission charge for all fathers, when accompanied by one paid admission. The paid admission can be an adult, senior, or child ticket. This offer is good for both Saturday, June 17, and Sunday, June 18.

When visiting the rest of the museum, families are encouraged to see "People of the Plains: Experiments in Living," illustrating how people have met their need for food, clothing, shelter, trade, and transportation over the past 14,000 years.

Also, "Palo Duro: The Grand Canyon of Texas" commemorates the grand opening of Palo Duro Park, the forerunner of Palo Duro Canyon State Park, on May 17, 1931. The multidisciplinary exhibit focuses on the natural history, Indian occupation, ranching, and development of the park.

See a real cable tool drilling rig; experience a feeling of nostalgia at Cal's Filling Station, and follow the board sidewalk of Pioneer Town for a look at life in a small Panhandle community in the early 1900s.

The museum houses one of the finest art collections in the Southwest and features extensive works by nationally recognized artists. Currently on display, "Picturing Palo Duro" comprises the first known images of the canyon to the present day.

Other exhibits include Sharp Horns, Soft Seats: The Art of Horned Furniture; Glamour, Elegance and Style: Dressing During the Depression; and Masterpieces of American Indian Art.

Catch a glimpse of the past – from the geographical development of the Plains to the lives of the people who made this country what it is today. Bring your father and come visit the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum! Museum hours are 9 a.m. – 6 p.m., Monday through Saturday, and Sundays from 1 p.m. – 6 p.m. Admission is $7 adults, $6 seniors 65+, and $3 children 4-12.

FSA taking emergency loan applications

Applications for emergency farm loans for damages and losses caused by wildfire on March 5, 2006, are being accepted at the Farm Service Agency (FSA) office located at 321 Sully Street in Clarendon, Larry Goetze said today.

Donley County is one of 8 recently named by the Secretary of Agriculture eligible for loans to cover physical and production losses resulting from the wildfire.

FSA Farm Loan Manager Larry Goetze said farmers may be eligible for loans of up to 100 percent of their actual losses or the operating loan needed to continue the agriculture business, whichever is less. For farmers unable to obtain credit from private commercial lenders, the interest is 3.75 percent.

"As a general rule, a farmer must have suffered at least a 30 percent loss of production to be eligible for an FSA emergency loan", Goetze said.

Farmers participating in the Federal Crop Insurance program will have to consider proceeds from those programs in determining their loss.

"Applications for loans under this emergency designation will be accepted until January 31, 2007, but farmers should apply as soon as possible. Delays in applying could create backlogs in processing, with possible delays into the new farming season", Goetze said.

The FSA office is open from 7:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday thru Friday and the phone is 806-874-3561.

House approves wildfire relief in spending bill

The US House of Representatives Tuesday gave its final approval to an Emergency Supplemental spending bill. The vote was 351 to 67.

The bill focuses on providing needed resources for troops engaged in fighting the War on Terrorism in Iraq and Afghanistan. It also includes additional funds for relief and reconstruction of the Gulf region affected by last year's hurricanes and communicates Congress's intent that any unused agricultural assistance for hurricane relief be used to provide assistance for Texas wildfire losses involving livestock.

"As with most pieces of legislation, this bill is not exactly the way I would like it," said Rep. Mac

Thornberry (R-Clarendon). "But my primary goal is to get help to those who need it as soon as possible, and this bill helps do that."

Thornberry expressed his appreciation to Senator Kay Bailey Hutchinson and especially to Agriculture Subcommittee Chairman Henry Bonilla and his staff who worked to include the directive.

FEMA storm shelter grants now available

AMARILLO - Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) $2,500 grants are now available to 750 homeowners and builders throughout the Texas Panhandle.

John Kiehl, Panhandle Regional Planning Commission's (PRPC) Regional Services Director, announced the region-wide Safe Room Rebate program funding availability recently.

"This rebate program will provide (single family homeowners) funding to cover one-half the expense of installing a certified safe room/tornado shelter in a home up to a maximum of $2,500 per unit installed. Contractors and builders will also be eligible to apply for these rebates."

Grant information and applications will be available online at www.prpc.cog.tx.us/ or by calling (806) 372-3381.

A New Stop-Smoking Drug is Approved

Last month the US Food and Drug Administration (FDA) approved another treatment to help smokers kick the habit. The drug, called Chantix (varenicline), becomes only the second drug that does not contain nicotine, approved by the FDA for this purpose. The first such antismoking drug approved was Zyban (bupropion), a drug that was first approved as antidepressant. In clinical trials 44% of those who Chantix twice daily for 12 weeks were able to stop smoking compared to 30% who quit after taking Zyban for the same length of time. Data presented last year at a meeting of the American Heart Association indicated that abstinence rates after one year were over 20% for those who took Chantix and only 8% for those who took a placebo pill.

Chantix reduces the pleasure that is derived from smoking. It also appears to reduce the withdrawal that smoker's experience. Chantix works on the same receptors in the brain that nicotine also binds to. Apparently, the new drug blocks inhaled nicotine from reaching these receptors. The manufacturer of Chantix hopes to start selling it in the second half of this year.

Helton

Fred Harvey Helton died Friday, June 9, 2006 in Amarillo at the age of 89.

Services were held at 2 p.m. Monday, June 12, 2006, in the Robertson Chapel of Memories with Rev. Bruce Howard, Pastor of the First Baptist Church in Hedley, officiating. Services were under the direction of Robertson Funeral Directors, Inc., of Clarendon. Burial was at Memorial Park Cemetery in Amarillo.

Mr. Helton was born November 1, 1916, in Norman, Oklahoma, to John H. and Bessie Helton. He married Fay Ruth "Sally" Gill on May 28, 1938, in Clarendon. He worked a variety of jobs to support his family, including work on dairy farms around Clarendon in his early years, sacking groceries for Piggly Wiggly in Amarillo to retiring from M K Chamberlain Truss Company as a supervisor in 1978. After retirement he moved to Lelia Lake to follow his lifelong dream of owning a farm where he could grow a garden and raise livestock. He had to give up his dream at 85 years of age because of health problems and moved to the Canyons Retirement Center in Amarillo. Special thanks to all the Skip-Bo card players, 84 players as well as all the wonderful staff and volunteers at the Canyons Retirement Center.

Mr. Helton was preceded in death by his wife on September 28,

Helton

1992, after 54 years of marriage; a son, Randall Dean in 1961; 2 brothers, Forrest Helton and Freeman Helton, his parents, and a special friend Opal Clendennan.

The family requests memorials be to the Canyons Retirement Center, 2200 West 7th Street, Amarillo, TX 79106.

Stout

Charles Leon "Chuck" Stout died Thursday, June 8, 2006 in Clarendon at the age of 61.

Services were held at 10:00 a.m. Monday, June 12, 2006 in the First Baptist Church with Rev. Dave Stout, Rev. Scott Jones, and Rev. Mark Metzger, family members, officiating. Services were under the direction of Robertson Funeral Directors, Inc., of Clarendon. Burial followed in Citizens Cemetery.

Mr. Stout was born March 18, 1945, in Goodnight and was a resident of DeSoto before moving to Clarendon approximately 7 years ago. He had been a coach and teacher for much of his life in Clovis, NM, Muleshoe, DeSoto, Corsicana, Weimar, Clarendon, and at Clarendon College. He was a member of the Clarendon Rotary Club and a member of the First Baptist Church.

Mr. Stout was preceded in death by his father, Rev. John Henry Stout, on December 11, 1986, and his mother, Jonnie Dillehay Stout, on January 3, 2006.

Survivors include two sisters, Linda Babcock and husband Kenneth of Groom, Nell Jones of Clovis, NM; and 2 brothers, Dave Stout and wife Linda of Clarendon and James E. Stout and wife Betty of San Antonio.

The family requests memorials to be to the Susan Babcock Harp Memorial Scholarship c/o WTAMU Alumni ASSN, WTAMU Box 60753, Canyon, TX 79016; or the Clarendon Library.

Sanders

Judith Marie (Hathaway) Sanders, 63, died Sunday, June 11, in Boise City, Okla., after a very brave battle with Lou Gehrig's Disease (ALS).

Judy was born August, 19, 1942, in Boise City and was a member of a non-denominational fellowship that met in the home. She was an artist of many mediums and enjoyed playing the piano.

She is survived by her husband,

Sanders

Kenneth Sanders, of Boise City; three daughters, Kenna and husband, Harold Dodds of Texarkana, Myrna and husband Tim Johnson of Cheyenne, Wyo., and Beth Burd of Palm Springs, Calif., who has resided in Boise City since January taking care of her mother; two sisters, Rosa Lee and husband George Emrick of Colorado Springs, Colo., Vicky and husband Charles Hahn of Texarkana; and two brothers, Kenny and wife Alma Hathaway of Mullan, ID, and William and wife Ute Hathaway of Post Falls, ID; eight grandchildren, Clint Wright, Kurt Wright, and Warren Dodds of Texarkana, Justin Johnson of Cheyenne, Wyo., Jocelyn (Johnson) Leithead of Torrington, Wyo., and Dalton Rosado, Caitlyn Price, and David Burd of Palm Springs, Calif.; two great-grandchildren: Jaylin and Kayden Wright, of Texarkana; and many cousins, nieces, and nephews.

CISD Trustees approve remodeling contracts

The Clarendon ISD Board of Trustees met in regular session May 18 in the Administration Building.

Among the items on the board's agenda, Mary White administered the oath of office to Joe Lemley and Wayne Hardin, and the board approved a motion electing officers as follows - Hardin, President; Weldon Sears, Vice President; and Jim Shelton, Secretary.

The board voted in favor of revisions to the 2006-2007 school calendar and approved the sale of tax delinquent property in Clarendon.

Trustees approved entering into a participation support agreement for the new Texas Scholars - High School and Beyond Initiative.

An increase in the district's breakfast and lunch prices for 2006-2007 was considered and approved by trustees.

The board voted to contract with Allen Hardwood of Holiday for $12,200 for sanding, screening, painting, and refinishing of gym floors. The board also approved contracting with ElectroCoat to completely refurbish the exterior and interior of the lockers in the elementary and junior high buildings and classrooms for $14,056.

Trustees also considered and approved contracting with Jim Shadle Construction of Clarendon to repair wood cabinetry; clean and sand walk-through doors throughout; replace classroom and office counter tops and back splashes; install new cabinet doors, hinges, and pulls; and finish all woodwork for a total of $70,800.

Administrative reports were given by Superintendent Monty Hysinger, CHS Principal Larry Jeffers, CJH Principal Marvin Elam, Elementary Principal Mike Ward, and Athletic Director Gary Jack.

The board acknowledged the resignations of Wade and Bethany Callaway and Cara Hathaway and approved the hiring of Colby Waldrop as the basketball coach and math teacher and Tammi Lewis as the high school science teacher.

Thornberry backs boosting refineries

WASHINGTON, DC - With the backing of Congressman Mac Thornberry (R-Clarendon), the U.S. House of Representatives last week approved legislation to help speed the construction of new oil refineries.

H.R. 5254, titled "The Refinery Permit Process Schedule Act" now goes to the Senate for consideration.

"We have neglected our energy needs for too long. We must produce more energy of all kinds here at home, and we must get it to consumers," Thornberry said.

On an average daily basis, American consumers use more than 21 million barrels of refined products. But, U.S. refineries produce just 17 million barrels of refined products a day.

"There are lots of reasons for the higher energy prices for consumers. But, even if we produce all of the oil we need, we still have to turn it into gasoline, diesel, and other useable products. Not having enough refineries is one of our biggest weaknesses," said Thornberry. "We need to encourage the construction of new refineries."

"Hopefully, this coordination will speed up the program. If we can get to where applicants only have to wait a year or two to get a permit, there may be a lot more interest in building the new refineries we need," said Thornberry.

Johnson, Johnston take top honors at CCC

By Sandy Anderberg
R.O. Johnson and Slick Johnston took the top honors at the weekly men's game at the Clarendon Country Club with a score of 67. Travis Wilson shot a 68 for third place. The women's Thursday winner was Wanda Nazworth with a 65, and Sherol Johnston was second with a 69. Quida Gage and Ruth Jackson tied for third with a 70. Wanda Nazworth also won the women's game on Saturday with a 64, and Quida Gage was second with a 68. Ruth Jackson and Sherol Johnston tied for third shooting a 69. The team of Redell Johnston, Jeff Hatley, Lea Ferguson, Arlis Thomas, and Jarad Lax won the Friday night nine-hole scramble at seven under par. Three other teams participated and turned in scores of six under, five under, and three under. The nine-hole scrambles will be held each Friday night at 6:00, and the CCC is offering free green fees on Friday with a paid price of a cart. The CCC will be having an equipment fundraiser next Saturday, June 25. The cost of the four-person 18-hole tournament is $20 per person. You may come with your team already made up, or you can be placed on a team. All money will go to the equipment fund at the CCC. Various merchants will award special prizes, and you may call the Pro Shop at 874-2166 for more information.

Panhandle Chamber to host big car show

The first annual Panhandle Pair-A-Dice Car Show will be this Saturday in Panhandle. The show is sponsored by the Panhandle Chamber of Commerce and Panther Pizza and will begin at 10 a.m.

Events planned for the day include the Car Show from 10 a.m. to 3:00 p.m., including vehicles of all kinds from antique, classic, custom, hot rod and lowrider cars and trucks, to Harleys. The winner of the People's Choice Award will win a trip to Cripple Creek, Colorado.

Tires will squeal; and the smoke will fly starting at 3:30 p.m., as the Burn-Out Contest hits the bricks just off Main Street. A cruise on Main Street will be held from 6:00 until 8 p.m., followed by a dance featuring the music of Insufficient Funds from 8:30 to 11:00 p.m. in front of the Carson County Courthouse on Main Street. There will be a Swap Meet area, and vendors will be on hand with food and beverages as well as craft, and other items.

Admission is $2 for adults, and children twelve and under are free. Vehicle entrants will be accepted until noon on Saturday.

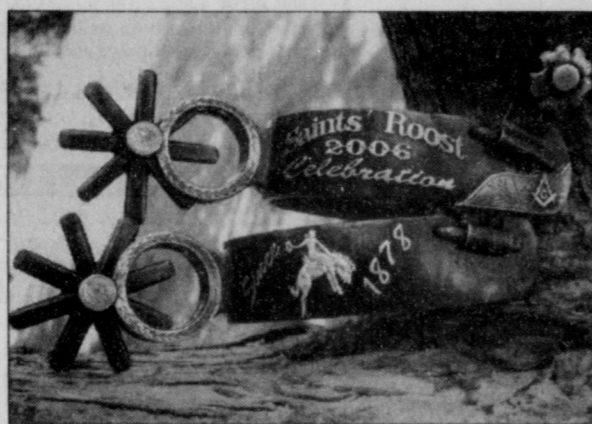

For more information or entry forms, please call the Panhandle Chamber of Commerce at (806) 537-4325 or download an entry form at panhandletx.com.

2005 Annual Drinking Water Quality Report

(Consumer Confidence Report)
CITY OF CLARENDON
Phone No: 806-874-3438

Special Notice for the ELDERLY, INFANTS, CANCER PATIENTS, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune problems:

Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immuno-compromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly, and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. The EPA/Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by Cryptosporidium and other microbial contaminants are available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline (1-800-426-4791).

Public Participation Opportunities

Date: Monday - Friday
Time: 8:00 am - 5:00pm
Location: City Hall 119 S. Sully
Phone No: 806-874-3438
To learn about future public meetings (concerning your drinking water), or to request to schedule one, please call us.

Where do we get our drinking water?

Our drinking water is obtained from SURFACE water sources. It comes from the following Lake/River/Reservoir/Aquifer: GREENBELT RESERVOIR. A Source Water Susceptibility Assessment for our drinking water source(s) is currently being conducted by the TCEQ and should be provided to us this year. The report will describe the susceptibility and types of constituents that may come into contact with your drinking water source based on human activities and natural conditions. The information in this assessment will allow us to focus our source water protection strategies.

ALL drinking water may contain contaminants.

When drinking water meets federal standards there may not be any health based benefits to purchasing bottled water or point of use devices. Drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects can be obtained by calling the EPA's Safe Drinking Water Hotline (1-800-426-4791).

Secondary Constituents

Many constituents (such as calcium, sodium, or iron) which are often found in drinking water, can cause taste, color, and odor problems. The taste and odor constituents are called secondary constituents and are regulated by the State of Texas, not the EPA. These constituents are not causes for health concern. Therefore, secondaries are not required to be reported in this document but they may greatly affect the appearance and taste of your water.

Our Drinking Water Meets or Exceeds All Federal (EPA) Drinking Water Requirements

This report is a summary of the quality of the water we provide our customers. The analysis was made by using the data from the most recent U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) required tests and is presented in the attached pages. We hope this information helps you become more knowledgeable about what's in your drinking water.

WATER SOURCES: The sources of drinking water (both tap water and bottled water) include rivers, lakes, streams, ponds, reservoirs, springs, and wells. As water travels over the surface of the land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally-occurring minerals, and in some cases, radioactive material, and can pick up substances resulting from the presence of animals or from human activity. Contaminants that may be present in source water before treatment include: microbes, inorganic contaminants, pesticides, herbicides, radioactive contaminants, and organic chemical contaminants.

En Español
Este informe incluye información importante sobre el agua potable. Si tiene preguntas o comentarios sobre este informe en español, favor de llamar al tel. ( ) - para hablar con una persona bilingüe en español.

About The Following Pages

The pages that follow list all of the federally regulated or monitored contaminants which have been found in your drinking water. The U.S. EPA requires water systems to test for up to 97 contaminants.

DEFINITIONS

Maximum Contaminant Level (MCL)
The highest permissible level of a contaminant in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology.

Maximum Contaminant Level Goal (MCLG)
The level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected health risk. MCLGs allow for a margin of safety.

Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level (MRDL)
The highest level of disinfectant allowed in drinking water. There is convincing evidence that addition of a disinfectant is necessary for control of microbial contaminants.

Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level Goal (MRDLG)
The level of a drinking water disinfectant below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MRDLGs do not reflect the benefits of the use of disinfectants to control microbial contamination.

Treatment Technique (TT)
A required process intended to reduce the level of a contaminant in drinking water.

Action Level (AL)
The concentration of a contaminant which, if exceeded, triggers treatment or other requirements which a water system must follow.

THANK YOU

The Clifford and Patten families wish to thank all of those who were so kind and thoughtful to Jack during his long illness. So many of you helped in ways that brought him so much comfort. Friends from everywhere came by to visit and share an encouraging word. We will all miss Jack, but each of us knows that he knew we loved him. He's home now. Thank God for your mercy. Please also accept our gratitude and appreciation for your overwhelming display of love and support during his time of passing. Thank you for the visits, food, cards, generous contributions, and abundance of beautiful flowers, all of which meant more than you can believe to the family. Thank you, friends, Clifford and Patten Families.

44. EPISODETHREE: THE REVENGE OF THE SINK - Spurned by shoppers in Episode One and separated from its mate in Episode Two, the stainless steel kitchen sink is back with a vengeance this year as it looks for a new home during the garage sale you've been waiting for. The former newlyweds have a baby on the way, so it's time to clear out and make room. All the junk has been trashed; there's nothing but treasures left for you including some hot, hot items like these: hundreds - maybe thousands - of comic books priced to sell; a solid oak custom entertainment center; a TV stand, the entire series of Star Trek: The Next Generation on VHS; mason jars; clothes; a great assortment of Star Trek novels in - TOS, TNG, and DS9; shoes; more clothes; a 17" computer monitor; a dysfunctional computer; a cordless phone; three DirecTV satellite receivers with remotes to expand your current system; one office chair; a George Foreman Grilling Machine; still more clothes; planting pots; practically new coverlet and pillow sham set with matching bed skirt; comforters; sheet sets; and more! Plus, in-laws on both sides are bringing their stuff. And don't miss the first appearance of the Son of the Sink, who has teamed up with his long-lost daddy to find a new home in someone's bathroom or workshop! The excitement starts Saturday at 8 a.m. Follow the treasure map in this week's Enterprise to 501 S. Leroy to discover the things you know you want and need.
