MODERN AERIAL WARRIOR—Surrounded by a multitude of necessary instruments and himself superbly equipped for high-speed, high-altitude aerial combat, this jet fighter pilot (left) has a minimum of space for the charts by which he navigates his F-84 jet fighter and makes safe landings when his mission is completed. It's the job of the Aeronautical Chart Service to provide him with charts of the right kinds and sizes. Right, Flight Leader Capt. James Brooks explains to Wingman Lieut. Heckman the instrument let-down procedure at their destination. These jet pilots examine a new, experimental type of jet arrival let-down chart which provides all the information necessary for safe landings despite its midget size. Only 4½ by 7 inches, it fits into the easily reached leg pocket of the pilot's flying suit, a great advantage in the limited space of a jet cockpit.
