Turpen - McCracken

At 3 o'clock, January 3rd, in the chapel of the McLean Methodist Church, Miss Dixie Ann Turpen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cicero Turpen, RO Ranch south of McLean, became the bride of Lee Roy McCracken, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy McCracken of Marathon, formerly of McLean.

Rev. C. W. Parmenter, pastor, read the impressive double ring ceremony in the presence of a few close friends and relatives. Miss Donna Gail Stubblefield played the traditional wedding march.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a navy blue slub faille suit with pale blue and white accessories. She carried a white Bible topped with baby pink satin streamers.

Miss Betty Jean McClellan was the brides only attendant. She wore a blue taffeta dress with navy accessories and a white carnation corsage.

Johannie Joe Hutchison served as best man.

For her daughters marriage Mrs. Turpen chose a brown dress with brown and black accessories, and pink carnation corsage.

After the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlor. The serving table was covered with an ecru lace cloth and a centerpiece of pink carnations flanked by silver candelabra bearing lighted tapers.

Miss Larue Black served the tiered cake and Miss Lois Woodrum presided at the coffee service. Guests were registered by Miss Pat Shelton.

The couple left immediately for an extended trip to points of interest in south Texas, Old Mexico and New Mexico. On their return the couple will be at home on the RO Ranch where the groom is employed.

Mrs. McCracken was a junior in the McLean high school while the groom was a graduate of the McLean high school with the class of '49.

Out of town guests for the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Hayter, Lefors; Mr. and Mrs. Martin Bilderback, Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Bilderback, all of Amarillo.

The group enjoyed seeing Mrs. Watson's collection.

The Mountain Goat

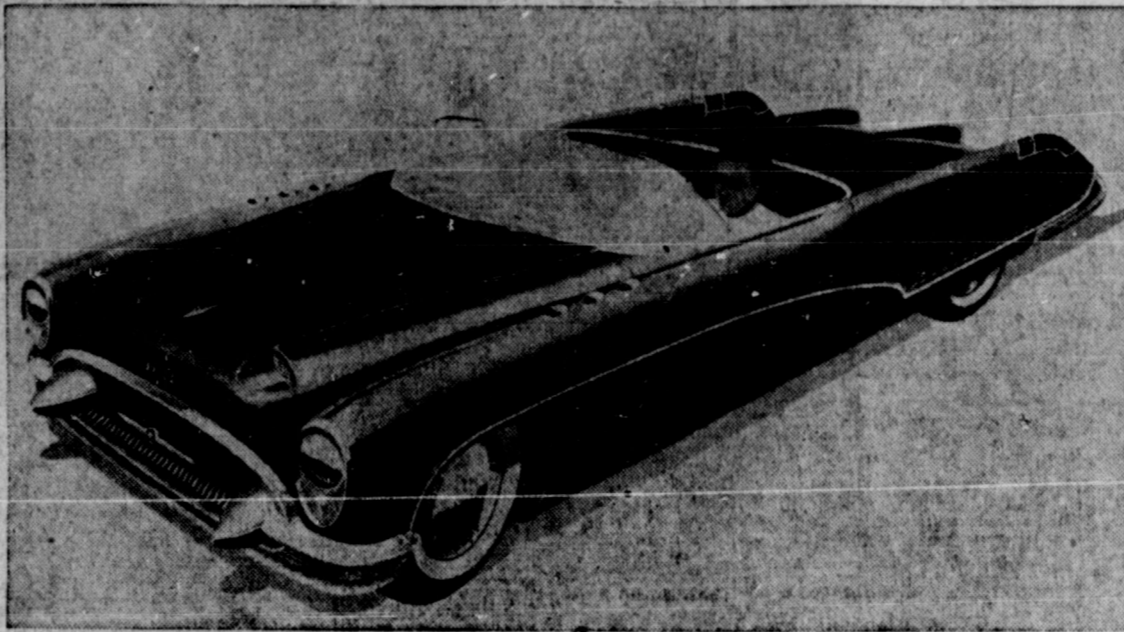

The mountain goat is living proof that American sportsmen are good sports, says the National Wildlife Federation.

This likable "Old Man of the Mountain" is a relatively easy target for modern high powered rifles with telescopic sights, yet there are nearly as many today as there were in early times. Modern hunters want hard-to-get trophies. Furthermore, outdoorsmen and mountaineers have developed a great admiration for the courage of the white goat. It never runs from sudden danger, but trots off with solemn dignity. Its bearing, white hair and chin whiskers command respect. It is not pugnacious, but will fight for a mate, and stand its ground to the death when need be to defend itself or its young. With dagger-like horns it has held its own against a pack of wolves, hunting dogs or even the ferocious grizzly bear.

Mountain goats are comparatively abundant in British Columbia, and their territory extends south into Washington, Idaho, Montana, and north through the Yukin into Alaska. They dwell by choice high above timberline in a bleak land of scant vegetation, cutting winds, and the most dramatic scenery in our hemisphere. Even in mid-winter they are loath to descend as other animals do to the valleys where food and shelter are plentiful. They survive on lichens, moss and alpine growth that can be uncovered among the wind-swept rocks.

A thick coat of perpetually white wool, like fine cashmere is protection against the bitterest weather. White reflects the heat of summer sun and is camouflage during the long snow season. The nanny and billy goat look alike, both having horns about nine

Buick Unveils New Sports Car

THIS single-seat sports convertible of futuristic design is the Buick Wildcat which will be unveiled at the General Motors Motorama of 1953 at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York City this week. The experimental model has a fiberglass body and is powered by Buick's new 188-horsepower V-8 engine with the new Twin Turbine Dynaflo. The interior is trimmed in brilliant green leather. A special feature of the car is the "roto-static" front wheel discs which remain stationary while the wheels revolve about them. The Wildcat, designed by the General Motors Styling Section, was built to test the use of fiberglass in automobile bodies.

inches long. Although those of the female are more slender, the world's record head with 12½-inch horns is that of a nanny.

Early explorers often referred to the mountain goat as a small white buffalo and the resemblance is considerable. Like the bison its shoulders are high, head low, neck short and there is a beard of long hairs on the chin. But it is not a buffalo. In fact, it is not a goat. The neck of a true goat is rather long and head held high. Scientists tell us it actually is a goat-like antelope, like the chamois of Asia, having no close relatives in America.

The goat stands 3½ feet at the shoulder and weighs up to 276 pounds. It mates in the fall and is probably monogamous. The kid, born six months after breeding, jumps in 30 minutes and at one month is an able climber.

Stories of harrowing climbs of the mountain goat are legion. It can outdo the cougar and even the nimble mountain sheep. Hunters tell of watching in rapt admiration as a goat, like a "human fly" on a skyscraper works its way across what appears a sheer cliff. The men held their fire.

Congratulations, says the National Wildlife Federation, to the sportsmanlike hunters who have spared this stout-headed "Old Man of the Mountains."

American Cheddar Is Best Selling Cheese In Texas

COLLEGE STATION—American Cheddar is the best selling cheese in Texas, according to a consumer preference study made recently in San Antonio and Houston by Stanley Rosental, June graduate in dairy husbandry from the Texas A&M College.

A cross-section of the information gathered from retail grocers indicates that the preference of natural or processed types of cheese is governed somewhat by the consumer's income.

Buyers in the higher income brackets purchase more natural cheese, those with medium or low income purchase more processed types.

Definite popularity placings could not be assigned to the next three cheeses—Cottage, Cream and Swiss—but Cottage is a better seller to medium and low income groups.

Brick cheese was fifth in popularity, representing about 8 per

Calvary Baptist Church

We are meeting for the first time this Sunday in our new location; formerly the Nu-Deal Laundry. Our Church has bought this property and is going about the task of remodeling and obtaining pews. Mrs. Jordan's brother of Jasper, Texas is donating the lumber for the pews and the Jordons and Mr. Aten are going after it and the men of the church are to build them. The Lord is certainly opening the way for this new undertaking. Several people have graciously donated to our material needs without solicitation for which we are very grateful. (Mark 9:40-41). Clarendon is being known as a Town of Churches; for which we are very thankful. There is not a reason for any person to stay away from church in our little city. Enjoy your "Religious Freedom," to Worship God according to the dictates of your own heart. Find a church that preaches the Word of God as you like it to be preached and worship with them; be loyal to your Maker and of service to your fellow-man; Pray for our Sin-sick world and help to get men ready for the World to come.

A Record Of The Weather

In the meteorological station of G. E.'s Research Laboratory there is now a pen that writes down the weather. It writes in its own language, of course, but this is easily translated in terms of rain and shine for the garden and for the week end.

High up on the laboratory's roof, a radio-active point collects electric charges from the atmosphere. These are measured below by an extremely sensitive G-E photoelectric recorder and are marked by a stylus on a slowly moving chart. From its patterns scientists can tell quickly enough whether they'll have a fine day. In clear weather a thin red line stays close to the center of the chart, but so sensitive is the mechanism that it will show, by small deflections, the outbreak of showers within a 450-mile radius. An approaching storm builds up a negative charge, sending the line way over to the left; each flash of lightning is marked by a sharp swing to the center. Sharper short-range forecasts may result from the use of networks of these devices throughout the country. They can indicate cold or warm fronts high up in the atmosphere which would go undetected by most instruments now used in ordinary weather stations and can pinpoint disturbances which could otherwise be spotted only by radar.

FARM NEWS
From the County PMA Committee

1953 APPROVALS:

Since the complete 1953 ACP Program is entirely different from the 1952 Program, some explanations need to be made. During the first part of October and continuing through the 10th day of December, Community Committees visited each farm in communities over the county and asked each and every farmer to sign-up a request for assistance form. The ones interested in the 1953 ACP Program did so. Each farmer was supposed to put down on the Form what he would like to do on his farm in 1953 with the help of PMA. Several farmers did not understand this method of requests too well, and did not sign-up all they wanted. Since December the 10th was the deadline, they were too late. A large majority of the farmers in Donley County signed up on the Forms.

Several farmers don't seem to understand that when they signed up on the Request for Assistance Form, they were through signing up until they had carried out their practices and were ready to report them. However, some farmers possibly signed up for assistance on practices that they now do not wish to carry out. If that is so, please mail back the approvals that you do not wish to carry out.

There also has seemed to be some misunderstanding concerning the 1953 Program. Since the amount requested on request for assistance Forms, exceeded the amount allocated to Donley County, adjustments had to be made to fit the allocation for Donley County. The main adjustment that seems to be worrying several farmers is the adjustment made on deep plowing. Several are under the impression that since only $72.00 can be guaranteed to each producer requesting deep plowing that he doesn't have a chance to have but about 14.0 acres deep plowed. It is true that only $72.00 can be guaranteed, but in several cases money will be turned back for the practices that were not carried out. It is quite possible that by the end of the program year that there will be enough money to assist every producer who went ahead and carried out more acreage on his own will.

If there are further problems concerning the 1953 ACP Program, come to the County Office and get these things straightened out.

Approvals will be mailed out by January 15th.

Importance of Legumes

Now is the time to make plans for those fall legume plantings.

It doesn't take a student of the soil to know that legumes properly fertilized and inoculated have excellent effects on the soil. Every farmer knows legumes are important in improving soil structure and condition.

Texas A&M agronomists depict the best soil structure as being crumbly or granular to allow for deep penetration by roots and water. Proper air circulation between the small particles of soil is also necessary.

Some Texas soil is so packed and tight that very little water or air can penetrate it. Deep rooted legumes such as sweet clover and alfalfa on these "tight" soils can help to improve this fault. Legumes which add good organic matter and nitrogen to the soil content, but which do not necessarily open sub-soils are vetch, winter peas, annual yellow sweet clover and crimson clover.

Another farming "bug-a-boo" is the type of land which has a heavy, dense sub-soil at a comparatively shallow depth. These sub-soils restrict the movement of plant roots and hinder circulation of water and air. Good remedies for this condition are deep rooted legumes or grasses which will punch holes in the sub-soil and aid the water-air-root conditions.

When plowed under the soil as a green manure crop, legumes increase the organic matter of the land. This matter helps hold the small soil particles together and improves the granular quality of the soil structure. High organic matter in the soil almost assures the best type of air circulation and absorption of water which is so essential to plant life.

The farmer who is unsure of the qualities of his soil can get professional help and advice. Soil samples taken from fields where legumes are to be grown should be sent to the Soils Laboratory, College Station, Texas, for analysis. This analysis will determine what kind and the amounts of fertilizers needed to make legume growing more successful in the various soil-type areas of Texas.

PLOWIN' Out the CORNERS by Uncle Zeb

Speaking of the mumps again; Carl Appling, our local postmaster and Uncle Claude who writes the column It Sez Here, both insist that the recent election and the way that I acted had something to do with my having this disease. Anyway, they can prove beyond a doubt that I never had such a thing happen to me while the Democrats were going good. Oh me, I just don't feel like arguing with them.

If we can remember when you could buy sticky flypaper as a means to rid our homes of flies, we don't have to worry about the draft anymore.

Every once in awhile I remind Mama that she should always be real nice to me because if she were to lose me she would have a hard time finding another man just like me. You know, sometimes I think she looks relieved.

It is something pretty wonderful to have a fine home and a fine car and a lot of those things, and to have these things make us happy. But you know I get to thinking sometimes that just about the most wonderful thing in the world is to be happy with the car and the home that we have. I guess what I am trying to say is it's alright to try to have more and more things in order to be happier, but it is just about the secret of life when we can find happiness in whatever portion that has been given us in life.

I guess you could sum it up something like this: it could be wonderful to be happy in a mansion, but it would be even more wonderful to be happy if we could not have one.

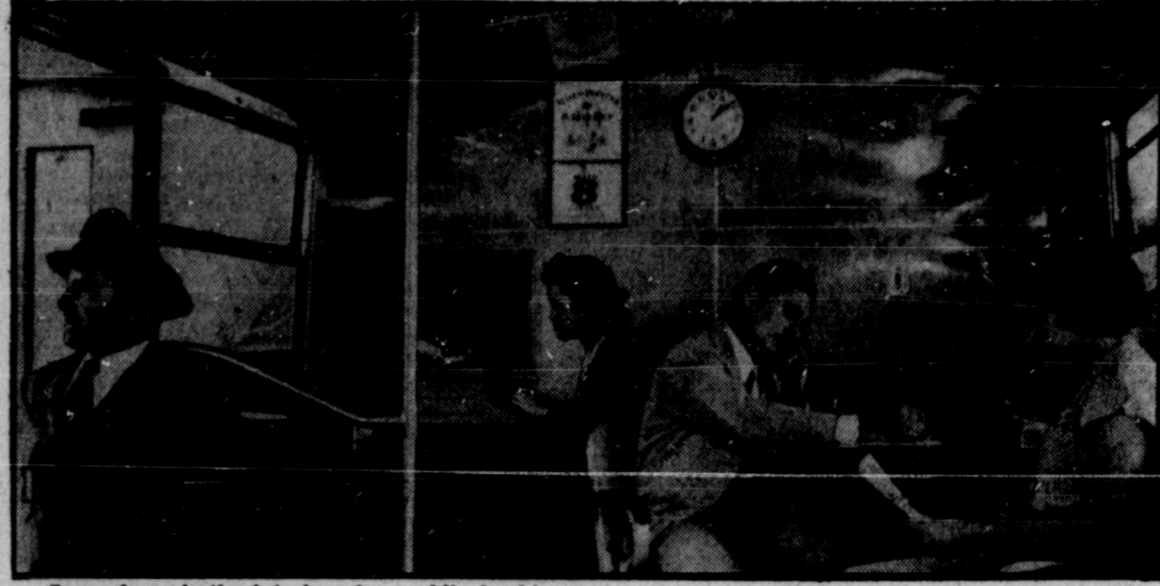

New member in the ASRNS for this week is Paul Hood. Also, reinstated in the club on Right Now basis is John Butler and Alfred Reck. Neither of these two will agree to anything permanent. Glad to have Paul as a new member, and to have these old brothers back.

I know we were all sort of proud that Cal Farley was chosen for the Man of The Year for Amarillo, because of his great work for Boys Ranch. He sure had it coming and all of us join in shouting Hurrah for their choice. Another wonderful person and wonderful work along this line is also located right here in West Texas. It is Girlstown, located near White Face, Texas. It has made great progress in the few years since its founding by Miss Amelia Anthony. There is now 76 girls who live in this home and call this wonderful woman "Mother". If we have any desire to take part in this kind of work we have two organizations right near us that are the very best. Congratulations, to both of these great humanitarians.

Please be sure and read our column in the Southwestern Crop & Stock, a relatively new farm magazine published right here close to home at Lubbock. We are sending them mostly new material and are going to try to furnish them at least one article per month about this part of the Panhandle. If you liked the magazine, or our feeble efforts in it just wouldn't be a bit mad if you would drop a card to the editor. It would be a good boost for us. If you failed to get on their subscription list any other way we would actually send it in for you or help you in any way. You can read Uncle Zeb and all the rest of this fine paper a whole year

World's newest V8 with a million miles behind it

HERE, in literal fact, is the most advanced V8 engine ever placed in a standard-production American automobile.

It is the first such V8 to reach an 8.5 to 1 compression ratio, and the first with a dynamic flow muffler that cuts power loss to zero.

It is the first V8 to utilize vertical valves together with a 12-volt electrical system instead of the usual 6. It is also the first designed with new "T" type intake manifold to replace the "Y" type conventionally used in V8s.

It is, quite simply, the first V8 Fireball Engine—the engine that brings electrifying performance to the greatest Buicks in fifty great years—the engine that powers the 1953 Buick ROADMASTER with 188 hp., and the 1953 Buick SUPER with up to 170.

Naturally, this spectacular new V8 has been proved—by eight years of developing, testing, improving, perfecting—and by more than a million miles of driving through desert, mountains, cities and plains. Only then did Buick engineers mark it: Released for Production.

But these hard-to-please engineers gave these Golden Anniversary Buicks far more than new power.

They gave them, too, a still finer ride, more superb comfort, new braking power and handling ease—and a sensational new Twin-Turbine Dynaflo Drive* that adds new quiet and whip-fast getaway to absolute smoothness.

Nothing, we believe, will do more justice to your automobile dollars—or to your love of magnificent motoring—than a visit to us right now.

The Soil Saving Argument

For a great number of years, much time, effort and money have been expended on a vast educational and promotional program devoted to improving soil saving practices.

This program is gradually taking effect. Farmers in Texas, especially are becoming increasingly more aware of the importance of saving our soil for future generations. But every major undertaking has its obstacles. And the soil conservation movement is no exception.

Four major reasons loom as to why the farmers are not applying all the beneficial practices recommended for their farms. They claim:

1. Mortgage debts and high operating and living costs make it necessary to borrow money to establish these practices.
2. Many rental agreements do not provide for sharing costs of soil conservation with owners of the land.
3. Many farmers do not expect to live on their farms very long. This group includes renters with short-term agreements and owners who expect to sell or retire so soon that they could not benefit from these practices.
4. If these soil saving practices were established, farmers would have to change their major farm enterprise.

To elaborate on these reasons, many farmers said adoption of all

KNIGHTS OF THE ROAD IN TOWN

When winter comes and the snow piles deep along the highroad, Soapy and Gimpy, and others of their independent breed, retreat to the warm towns and cities to wait for spring. Frugal to a fault, Gimpy at left counts his meager hoard of nickel and dime handouts before taking a chance on an advertised "Special Dinner" being served in a Chicago beanery catering to uppercrust transient trade. Soapy, at right, busy on a New York City park bench, stitches a patch where it will do his wardrobe the most good. "Because," recalls Soapy, "a stitch in time saves nine." To seamstresses Soapy advises, "Use string when sewing. It lasts longer."

A Colorful Life

Matching colors of materials or room decorations can be an exasperating job, but chances are you have never even guessed just how complicated it really is. G-E experts tell us that the average person can see about half a million colors. Three things go to make up a specific color, they say—hue, brightness and purity. Variations in these three can produce many thousands of different shades.

Although this year marked the 175th anniversary of the adoption of the flag of the United States, it was not until just over ten years ago that anybody knew exactly what colors went to make it up. Up till then, hardly any two flag-makers had produced the same shades; now they have official standard colors to guide them, so that the same red, white and blue may appear everywhere.

An instrument called the spectrophotometer helps to turn the distinguishing of colors into an exact science. This ensures that G-E products made in large numbers will have an even quality of color.

Every day when we arise we're more surprised than ever—when we raise the shades, look out the window, and find the world is still present.

ments did not provide the share-the-cost clause. This was especially true in crop-share rental contracts. Nearly half the owner-operators had a mortgage debt which averaged about $4,000. Other farmers said high fixed costs kept them from making additional cash soil outlays.

These arguments have valid points. As a result, continued technical assistance on how to overcome these obstacles may be necessary. It may also be desirable in some cases to give financial assistance where it is requested and definitely needed.

But those who adhere to the short-sighted policy of neglecting soil work because the land will not be in their hands much longer have nothing to recommend them.

The land will be here long after we are gone. We should pass it on to the next generation of farmers in a better condition than we found it. — Texas Dept. of Agriculture.

Insecticides And Herbicides

Which is the greater hazard— insects or insecticides?

Alarmists are telling the American people that insecticides are greater danger. They claim—and they're getting a lot of space in the newspapers and magazines—that we're being poisoned by new chemicals.

This problem was pointed out recently by Dr. Edward F. Knippling, president of the American Association of Economic Entomologists. Dr. Knippling maintains that such fears result from cases where insecticides were misused, with no regard for recommendations of entomologists. The toxicity hazard of any chemical is in direct proportion to how it is used, he claims.

Federal and Texas Department of Agriculture entomologists are aware that they must never underestimate their responsibility to the public in seeing that insecticides are used safely. When a new chemical is developed, they assume it is potentially hazardous to man and animal until adequate investigations prove otherwise. When tests are complete then recommendations are made for the safest methods of application.

When we consider that insecticides are man and crop savers rather than man and crop killers, it calls for an entirely different outlook on the insect control chemicals. We must realize that many diseases are transmitted by insects. Millions of dollars worth of crops are destroyed yearly by other types. Effective control programs, carried out through proper use of insecticides, then, are invaluable.

But there is another phase of control work carried out by the Texas Department of Agriculture which is sometimes confused with insect elimination. This is the regulation by law of hormone-type herbicides.

Herbicides, such as 2, 4-D and 2, 4, 5-T, are used primarily in the eradication of weeds and brush. These herbicides are NOT poisonous, although their use is controlled by Texas Herbicide Law, House Bill 591 (1951). This law is designed to protect crops which are susceptible to the chemical.

Hormone-type herbicides differ from insect poisons in that they energize a broad-leaf plant, causing it to "grow itself to death." Careless use of the chemical can cause severe damage to crops such as cotton. Because of this, permits for its use must be obtained from the department in Austin. Officials act as advisers in chemical application and also estimate the value of crops accidentally damaged for future settlement.

MAN AND BOY UNDER THE McCARRAN ACT—Polish alien Henry Kernkraut, of New York, holds his two-month-old son in his arms as he reads rules regulating his registration under the McCarran Act. The law became effective Dec. 24 and requires all aliens to register between Jan. 1 and 31 or face deportation.

such as cotton. Because of this, permits for its use must be obtained from the department in Austin. Officials act as advisers in chemical application and also estimate the value of crops accidentally damaged for future settlement.

The worth of herbicides, like insecticides, is only as great as its effective use makes it. It can be a boon to agriculture when used properly, or a disaster when misused. Farmers who wish to take full advantage of the chemical are urged to obtain complete information on herbicides and pesticides by writing John C. White, Commissioner of Agriculture, Capitol Station, Austin, Texas.—Released by Texas Dept. of Agriculture.

Health Notes

AUSTIN—It is an illogical fact that many people complain about the heat of Texas summers and yet sit indoors during the winter months in a temperature about as high as that about which they complained in the summer season, is the view of Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

"If the average person would realize the definite hazard in developing and maintaining an indoor temperature about 70 degrees, or at most 72 degrees, when the outside thermometer registers around freezing," he said, "there would be fewer colds, less bronchial conditions, and less pneumonia than there are today.

"Fresh air is one of the body's basic needs and no amount of luxury or artificial pleasure can be substituted for it. It may be a comfortable feeling to be warm, especially with the consciousness of the tough weather outdoors, but it is quite another matter to achieve this comfort at the probable cost of health.

"Winters in the Temperate Zone are sufficiently trying upon the human system with their sudden and sharp temperature changes, without adding to the burden by making a hothouse of one's home. Of course, colds and other respiratory affections can be acquired in many different ways, but one of the easiest methods of becoming victims of such hazards is the overheated house.

"To become overheated and perspire, though the latter condition may not be perceived, and in this softened state to brave the cold winter blasts, is to take a thoroughly unwarranted chance with health.

"The wise householder therefore will check up on his artificial heat problem. He will resolve to keep his thermometer within safe limits."

RADIOACTIVITY-DETECTION EQUIPMENT PURCHASED BY UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS

AUSTIN—The University of Texas has purchased radioactivity-detection equipment for determining the age of archeological specimens.

The instruments, which measure the rays given off by radioactive carbon in an artifact, are expected to be the first of their kind in the Southwest, Alex D. Krieger, anthropology researcher said.

When the equipment arrives, it will be made available to other institutions in the area, he added.
