85 Registered Bulls Listed For Big Sale Here Dec. 8th

F. M. Breedlove, Secretary of the Rolling Plains Registered Beef Cattle Association and County Agent, says that the sale catalogs for the association's bull sale will be off the press this week end. Fifteen hundred copies of the catalog are being printed and will be mailed all over the country to registered breeders. W. H. Dean Abel Appointed To State Committee

Dean Abel of the Clarendon Junior College has been notified this week of his appointment for a three year term on the Professional Development Committee of the Texas Junior College Teachers Association. This appointment came just a week after Dean Abel had been appointed chairman of the Auditing Committee of Texas Junior College Association for the 1960-61 convention.

During the past five years, Dean Abel has served the Texas Junior College Teachers Association in various capacities. 1959-60 he was membership chairman for the association. 1958-59, he was president of the Business Education Section of the association. 1957-58, he served as a member of the Board of Directors of the association. 1956-57, he served as secretary to the business section of the association.

Dean Abel has taken a very active part in district, regional, and state associations which promote better standards for curriculum, stronger requirements for teacher certification, and closer cooperation within the profession itself.

The present appointment to the Professional Development Committee of the Texas Junior College Teachers Association for three years gives ample opportunity and ample time to promote better professional standards in our junior college personnel in the state of Texas.

McLean Tigers Defeat Bronchos 13-6 Friday

The McLean Tigers had the scoring punch that was necessary to drop the Bronchos 13-6 in the last conference game of the season for the Bronchos last Friday night in Tiger stadium.

The Tigers pushed over their two touchdowns with one conversion in the first and second quarters and were in control of the ball the greater portion of the first half. The Bronchos came back in the third quarter to score their lone tally with Jerry Elmore picking up the six points on a 36 yard run. The Bronchos were in scoring position two other times but were unable to capitalize on their position. The Tigers were on the Bronco goal line when the game ended.

"We felt that our boys put out the effort in this game as well as the other games we lost and were certainly not disappointed in them, but we needed more luck," Coach Jinks stated. "I want everyone to know that I take full responsibility for our losses and anyone not satisfied is invited to take it up with me," Jinks added.

Girl Scout Fund Drive Starts Monday, Nov. 14

Mrs. Carl M. Bennett has been named chairman with Clyde Price as assistant of the Girl Scout Fund Drive scheduled to open Monday, November 14, throughout Clarendon and this area, it was announced by Mrs. John Holt, Jr., President of the Juivira Girl Scout Council.

Over thirty volunteer workers under the leadership of Mrs. Bennett, Price, Mrs. Basil Smith, Mrs. Fred E. Chamberlain, and Miss Ruth Richerson, will seek to raise $1200.00 here in Clarendon. The council furnishes Clarendon with a professional district worker, many schools of instruction, literature and material necessary for running a troop successfully, and other methods of assistance.

A kickoff coffee at the Dixie Cafe Monday morning will begin an intensive drive which will be completed by Wednesday. Workers will attempt to contact everyone in town who wishes to help girl scouting here.

"A training meeting will be held for workers Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the Donley County ASC office," Mrs. Bennett said.

There are four Girl Scout troops active in Clarendon now and ten women, in addition to committee members, spend much time with the girls and their scouting work. These troops are for second, third, fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth graders. No leader has been found for fourth graders. Fifty-nine girls are active in scouting at the present time.—Rep.

Nixon-Lodge Carry Donley County With 941 Votes To Kennedy's 753

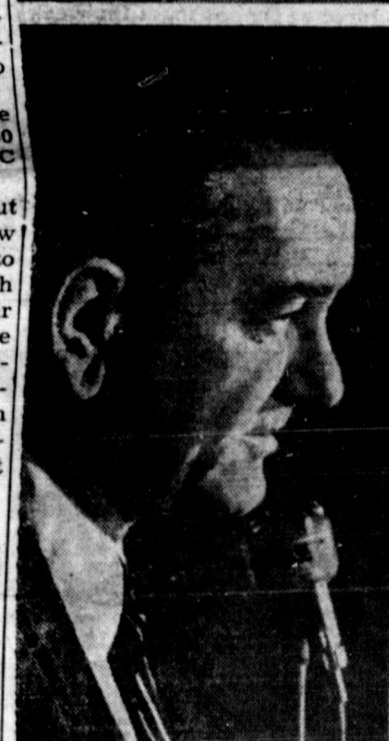

A report at noon Wednesday gave Sen. John F. Kennedy a majority of electoral votes to place him in the White House next January as our new president. Although Kennedy received the majority of electoral votes, he was leading Vice-President Nixon by only 457,430 popular votes when the count was made at noon Wednesday. This was one of the smallest margins in the history of a presidential election. Nixon sent a wire conceding the election to Kennedy Wednesday noon.

In tabulating electoral votes, Kennedy received or was leading in state with a total of 337 electoral votes to Nixon's 192. As far as states were concerned, Nixon carried 38 states to Kennedy's 22. The total popular vote Wednesday noon was 32,261,663 for Kennedy and 31,804,233 for Nixon.

Here in Donley County, Nixon led the ticket with a total of 941 votes to Kennedy's 753. In the Senate race, Lyndon Johnson received 958 to John Tower's 705. A total of 1818 ballots were cast, but a number were mutilated and not counted due to some voters not knowing how to mark their ballots. Nixon also carried the 18th Congressional District which includes the Panhandle counties, by a good margin. Kennedy carried the state of Texas with 1,017,000 votes to Nixon's 977,000.

In the House of Representatives, the Democrats hold the lead with 266 seats to the Republicans 171. In the Senate the Democrats will have 64 to the Republicans 36 if the final count pans out as indicated at noon Wednesday.

In the Senatorial race Johnson defeated Tower and announced Wednesday that he would not resign the office until after the inaugural in January. We understand that a special election will be called to fill the vacancy.

The street marker project sponsored here by the Chamber of Commerce and the City, is reporting progress, but not as much as it should be. Workers have not had time due to other civic functions, to cover their assigned areas but contacts should be more numerous this coming week.

Let's Have A "Taxpayer Day"

As we all know, an almost limitless number of "days" and "weeks" are observed in this country. They run a tremendous gamut, and are designed to honor and publicize just about everything from the Boy Scouts to eggs. Some are worthwhile, some are absurd. In either case, they seem to be a permanent institution.

However, as Citizens Public Expenditure Survey points out, one extremely important element in this country has no special day or week. That is the taxpayer. He keeps the country running, but no one formally honors him.

This situation certainly calls for a remedy. Let there be a "Taxpayer Day" or a "Taxpayer Week" or a "Taxpayer Month". Let it be formally proclaimed by all heads of government, from the President of the United States down to town mayors. A suitable badge for the occasion would be a black armband. For, in the present state of federal, state and local taxation, mourning for the taxpayers is certainly in order.

A few cocktails reduce sight like wearing dark glasses at night.

Martinez, Calif. Gazette: "At a moment when frenzied orations are urging that the government 'stimulate' the economy to an annual growth rate of five per cent, the statistics on 1959 finally have come out. The Gross National Product went up about seven per cent last year, it turns out.

"Government spending programs can't in themselves improve the real GNP. To spend, the government must take the money from some taxpayer and prevent him from spending or investing it. And it can never be a substitute for free enterprise. It can only provide the climate for business and industry which will provide the growth and the real Gross National Product."

You've never driven a heavy-weight that handled like this one!

HERE! EASIER GOING FOR THE DRIVER AND THE LOAD, LONGER LIFE FOR THE TRUCK!

'61 TORSION-SPRING CHEVROLETS

If you don't think scrapping the front axle has made a world of difference, you haven't driven a Chevy in a while. A few minutes behind the wheel and you can feel why drivers are happier and breakable loads are better protected. But the biggest advantage of all, you'll realize, is that the truck itself (sheet metal, tires, chassis components, everything) takes less abuse. With independent front suspension soaking up road shock and vibration, the truck lasts longer, goes extra thousands of miles before trade-in time. Add that to what everybody's always known about Chevy dependability and you find yourself looking at the soundest truck investment you could bet your business on.

and look! NEW REAR-ENGINE CORVAIR 95's

A panel and two pickups that put a thrifty air-cooled engine in the rear, the drive up front and as much as 1,900 pounds of load space in between! That's more capacity than a conventional half-tonner. Yet these Corvaire 95's are nearly two feet shorter from bumper to bumper. Highly maneuverable. Built to last and bound to save on a busy schedule!

CORVAIR—Side doors open a full 48" wide. Loading height is a low 14" lift!

Eureka Springs, Arkansas — Visiting here in the autumn has added another interesting characteristic to its many unusual features, that of the beauty of its colorful hills. On other trips we have marvelled at its quaintness.

By many it is called The Little Switzerland of America. Others call it the stair-step town. It is claimed that Robert Ripley referred to it more often than any other town in America. It has 63 springs within the city limits. The elevation is only 1600 feet above sea level and drops to around 900 at the lowest point. There are 234 named streets, none of which cross each other at right angles but follow the contour of the mountains.

Eureka Springs is built on the sides of east and west mountains overlooking the business section in the valley between. It has a permanent population of around 1800 but around 150,000 visit here each year. We get the impression of being on a mountain looking down in a valley. By contrast in the mountain valley of Red River, New Mexico, we look out upon the mountains. Likely one of the best visited spots in town is St. Elizabeth's Church once written up by Mr. Ripley as the church entered through the steeple. Actually one enters through the bell tower but the auditorium is some two stories beneath. Nearby is the famous Crescent Hotel also an oddity in that it is built on the side of the mountain in such a way that all eight stories can be entered at ground level.

We find many tributes to booze fighting Carrie Nation whose last home was here at Eureka Springs. A private museum holds many of her belongings along with the colorful history of her life.

Eureka Springs is colorful in any season. Its many large buildings stair-stepped up the side of the beautiful mountains create a picture of houses built on top of each other. To us, the maple trees which grow in many yards can not be equalled for beauty of their fall foliage. Most all of the houses face to the lower street level while many have back entrances into the second story from the ground.

Most of the thousands of visitors come to see the natural beauty of the Ozarks and of this unusual town. Some come to drink water from the springs. In the past strong claims have been made by promoters as to its medicinal value. Many just come to rest and relax in this pleasant mountain climate. To those in the south it is a cool place in the summer. To those in the far northern states it is a warm place in the winter. Neither extremes are severe.

Artists come from far and near to capture the beauty of both the mountains and the town. Writers come for inspiration and here and there we find both selling or talking about his work. The old come here to retire in the hopes of having greater health for they have heard the story of one drinking from the springs and exclaiming "Eureka."

After spending a few days "Up North," in north Arkansas, that is, we have changed our guess for the three electoral college votes from Democratic to Republican. Funny thing, they pay their poll tax here from October to October. Knowing who the candidates were and not liking either the best in the world, many just held on to their dollar. This section is definitely two party.

Sign on a shopping center; "We have almost everything."

Sign on a church; "The Free Church of Jesus Christ."

On a cafe; "Twinkle, twinkle, little star - Come and eat whatever you are."

"Son, we don't have much to give you'll, We got practically no money a'tall. But we done what we could, me and yore Paw, We borned you in the state of Arkansas."

We most popped our sides laughing at the poems, jokes, and plain and fancy folks music at the Ozark Folk Festival. This was the crowning finish to our wonderful vacation in Arkansas. Each fall just at the height of the beautiful colors of the Chamber of Commerce of Eureka Springs sponsors this Folk Festival with its parades and other forms of mountain folks atmosphere.

How many of you are familiar

GEORGE'S WIFE

By "Sarah"

In the October 8th issue of the Amarillo Daily News there is an article which says; "Let's Tell the Story." Then they list a number of attractions we have in this marvelous region in which we live. At the end they say, we are open for suggestions. We have one . . . let's promote abroad as well as at home "The American Tour." Or better still "The Golden Spread Tour." Along with the other attractions mentioned, let us not forget the cattle business. And that this region is able to support the largest cattle auction in the world. Because of the amazing development in hybrid grains, new grasses and fertilizers, we now can finish cattle for market just as well as they do in the corn belt. Since cattle is about the only thing left out of government control, it enables many family type farms to stay in business. About this time of year hundreds of two crop farmers are delivering their small calf crop, combined with the large ranches in this area, amounting to thousands of head going to the wheat fields on the plains. An attraction of no little means, and best be kept secret, is the cattle drives, not just one but several during the year, right down the roads that lead to the stock pens in our small city.

We noticed the other day another attraction we have hereabouts that could be capitalized upon, and that is the natural habitat for wildlife. The SCDA says for us to not forget the harrassed and frustrated businessman from large cities are willing and anxious to pay premium prices for good hunting. Guess we don't know any that bad off, or nobody had put such a thing in our heads yet, give us time though and we will forget friends, and ride the range with a change maker tied around our waist. We only ask that when the brochures are made up for "The Golden Spread Tour" The Cattleman be given a place along with, the firsts, the biggest and the only's, in which our area is so fortunate to have.

Drop us a line on this paper if you have enjoyed our account of this trip. We hope we haven't bored you with it.

COTTON STRIPPING IN BLACKLANDS STUDIED

College Station - Studies conducted recently by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station indicate that on the Blackland Prairies, harvesting cotton with mechanical strippers is more economical than hiring labor crews to pull or snap by hand.

These studies covered the growing seasons of 1952-56. This five year period included two "good" years and three "bad" years. During this period, the increased returns with machine stripping averaged $14 per bale, but varied from $10 to $25. The smaller return was received in seasons of poor crops and the larger return was realized in good crop seasons. In good and bad seasons alike, the growers who used improved production methods throughout the season obtained the best results.

If a grower has 50 or more acres of cotton that will average at least 1 1/2 bale per acre, he can afford to own his own stripper.

This would be more economical than hiring custom stripping at $1.00 cwt. hauled to the gin.

The Texas Agricultural Experiment Station has published a bulletin which contains a complete analysis of these studies. This bulletin, B-949, may be obtained from the Agricultural Information Office, College Station, Texas.

C.W.M.S. ENJOYS AUTUMN TEA

The Christian Women's Missionary Society of the First Christian Church held an Autumn Tea and missionary study in the home of Rev. Paul Hancock. The rooms were decorated with fall flowers and colorful autumn leaves.

Exhibits from Turkey, Japan, Italy, Mexico, Germany, India, Arabia, and the Good Ole U.S.A. were displayed in the den.

Mrs. Charles H. Darling, President of the Missionary Society, led the opening song, "Send the Light." The Lord's Prayer was repeated in unison. Rev. Hancock, accompanied by Mrs. Dee Williams on the piano, sang Charles Humphrey's masterpiece taken from Psalms 119, "I Will Lift Up Mine Eyes Unto the Hills."

Mrs. Darling welcomed the guests and introduced Mrs. Frank White, Sr., who gave a history of the Christian Church from the time of its establishment to the present time. Those who brought exhibits gave short talks about the countries and their exhibits.

Rev. Hancock introduced Ronnie Gardner of Clarendon who has been recently discharged from the army after several months service overseas. He was stationed in Germany and on leaves visited many other nearby countries. He showed colored slides of his visits, which included the Holy Lands, the Isle of Capri, the ruins of the Coliseum in Rome, the ruins of Pompei, the tulip gardens of Holland, and many cathedrals of Europe.

Mrs. Isaac Hancock, mother of Rev. Hancock, presided at the silver service. The table was laid with a white linen cloth and the centerpiece was a lovely arrangement of autumn flowers accented with colorful maple leaves. Specialty candies and cookies from England, Germany, France, Holland, and Denmark were served with coffee or tea. Refreshments were served to approximately thirty guests and members. —Rep.

TO THE PEOPLE OF THE 18TH DISTRICT

By Congressman Walter Rogers

The Federal Power Commission, The American Constitution, for all its blessings, presents two persistent and troublesome problems which almost seem to be inherent within the system it establishes. The first of these problems concerns the coordination of certain overlapping activities within the central government itself. The second involves that much-debated matter of protecting a State's proper position within the Federal structure operated in Washington. The most crucial domestic questions ever faced by the people of the United States have revolved about these two central issues.

One of the less sensational aspects of this pair of problems involved the development and use of the nation's power sources. Three executive departments of the Federal government — War, Interior, and Agriculture — were concerned with the effective use of water power. Also, a dispute concerning jurisdiction over rivers and power lines had simmered for some time between the States and the central government. Then, soon after the country lurched into World War I, a serious coal shortage arose which hydroelectric resources could not meet because of the inefficient administration of water power grants.

In the early summer of 1930, Congress established the Water Power Commission, an agency composed of the Secretaries from the three executive departments involved. Supporters of this curious scheme believed that it would solve the regulatory problems without creating another agency. Alas, the business of government, even then, was not so easily disposed of. Aside from the serious question of delegating legislative powers to the executive branch, the three Departments were overwhelmed with the task and quickly lost enthusiasm upon discovering there would be no increase of appropriations to cover their new responsibilities. The Secretaries, it is said, found about five hours a year to devote to Commission meetings and soon gained a reputation for failure to protect the government from power interests.

Almost ten years to the day after formation of the Water Power Commission, Herbert Hoover signed the act of June 23, 1930, which created the Federal Power Commission. This act retained the regulatory duties of the old commission, but revolutionized its membership. Members would now be appointed by the President with consent of the Senate, and would supposedly provide the nation with a bipartisan and full time agency. The era of experimentation with cabinet rank members was over.

The Commission soon was exerting full regulatory power over electric and natural gas companies which operated in interstate commerce. These two broad areas of interest are still the Commission's major concerns. As was, and still is, the case with most independent agencies, the FPC supporters believed that: (1) the nation's power resources in large measure belonged to the people and must not be abused for private gain; (2) efficiency would have been impaired by an unlimited number of companies operating in a single community; and (3) only a central body could effectively determine what constituted the best private use of a public resource. Time and again this line of reasoning has led directly to a Federal interest in various activities which is crossing State boundaries more and more. This is not good.

In the realm of electric power, the FPC is charged with protecting the consumer from any unfair charges and seeks to ensure that each utility under its jurisdiction will be capable of meeting the needs of those customers involved. What is perhaps more important in the long run is that the Commission conducts broad surveys of the nation's electric potential in an effort to steer private and public companies toward the most farsighted development programs. The FPC's licensing powers enable it to estalish standards for power projects and installations. The same activities, more or less, are conducted with respect to natural gas. Could the power problems of the nation have been solved in some other way than the establishment of another agency? Apparently, sincere efforts were made in this direction during the 1920s, but today the question is largely moot. Since the Federal government has in fact entered this field, it is fairly safe to assume that it will not withdraw. The important question facing us today is simply whether the FPC is doing its job. This can only be determined by the people, through their elected representatives in Congress, and any action which would impair the hand of the legislative branch is the major threat to be guarded against today. Federal interest should be confined to interstate operations, closely defined. It should not be allowed to violate State jurisdictions.

TURKEYS AND CRANBERRIES FOR THANKSGIVING

College Station — Farmers have produced another record harvest, filling Texas food stores with a bounty of good things to eat.

Turkeys and cranberries will be particularly abundant, reports the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, College Station.

These festive items, traditional for Thanksgiving Day dinners, head the November list of plentiful foods, as determined by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Also available in heavy supply throughout the month will be onions, cabbage, dates, pork, beef, potatoes, sweetpotatoes and vegetable fats and oils.

These items have been given the "plentiful" tag by USDA's

Both beef and pork are on the November list to provide meat variety for hearty meals. Total meat production has been running considerably higher than a year ago.

ter American homes in the 1920s — it was radio, a delightfully new and thoroughly enchanting medium of communication destined within a few short years to revolutionize the nation's entertainment and news. With the aid of a simple crystal set and a pair of earphones, the early listener could hear a variety of sounds broadcast, in many cases, by business or educational institutions within range. The idea of a station independent within the community came later.

The first broadcasting was done on a shoestring, and since radio required only a fraction of what it does today, more and more stations went into operation. Soon two and even more broadcasters were trying to employ the same frequencies, with the result that listeners were treated only to a confusing, chaotic mixture. Although it was recognized that the airwaves belonged to the public, existing law was inadequate when it came to controlling the bedlam which arose as stations began jumping all over the frequencies and raising their power at will.

Calvin Coolidge asked the Congress to do something, and in 1927 the Dill-White Radio Act was passed. This law established the Federal Radio Commission, which was to exert regulatory power in terms of licensing and personnel of the stations as well as frequency allocation and control of power. When this Commission came into being, there were 732 stations on the air. About 150 of them surrendered their licenses under the new rules and regulations of the law, and the Commission then devoted much of its time to straightening out those who were left.

Soon after Franklin Roosevelt assumed office in 1933, it was decided to combine the regulation of all communications in a single body. This would include not only radio, but telephone, telegraph, and — later — television as well. Some aspects of communications regulation had been administered by the Interstate Commerce Commission after its formation in 1887. But the new Federal Communications Commission, which replaced the Radio Commission in 1934, accepted responsibility for applying the law to all forms of electrical communication.

The FCC does approximately the same things with telephone and telegraph companies (not with radio and television) that the Federal Trade Commission does with business in general. It requires the maintenance of certain activities in the public interest and thus prevents, say, a telephone company from arbitrarily suspending a community's service. Telephone and telegraph companies cannot alter their interstate rates without the Commission's approval, nor may the companies, as public utilities, deny reasonable service to anyone.

Most of us are more closely involved with the FCC's regulation of commercial radio and television. Here the Commission's work falls into two major categories. First, it supervises the highly technical engineering and traffic problems such as construction of equipment, assignment of call letters and frequencies, hours of service, and amount of power a station may use in its signal. Since radio and television stations are not classed as common carriers there is no regulation of time changes, salaries, or profits.

Second, the FCC tries to insure that radio and television stations, in the broadcast sense, are regulated for the public good. It does not censor programs, nor does it require that any certain types of programs be aired. Nevertheless, there is a fine line of distinction here in that broadcasters must secure renewal of their licenses every three years. The FCC can refuse this renewal if it believes the station has not lived up to its broadcasting responsibilities. It also applies standards of fairness under the law such as the famous equal time ruling on political broadcasts.

The future of FCC regulations may well present an even greater challenge than has the past. Americans are coming to expect more and more of broadcasters in the type and scope of their programs. Furthermore, the need for more radio and television stations on standard dials is becoming increasingly acute and will eventually demand concerted attention. We can therefore expect that the FCC's research and regulatory functions will become a matter of even greater importance than they were when the Commission began its activities more than 25 years ago.

GUARD AGAINST FIRE DAMAGE

College Station — What would you and your family do in case of a fire? Do you have any emergency plan? The Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council says that if every member of the family knows what to do in case of fire, severe property damage or even loss of life may be prevented.

The Councilmen urge families to work out a simple emergency plan that is understood, and even rehearsed periodically, by all members of the family. Basically, the plan should involve calling the fire department, getting the family to safety and saving animals or farm livestock.

The more isolated your place is, the more important it is to have fire-fighting equipment on hand. Such common tools as rakes, axes, shovels, a ladder and garden hoses are valuable for fighting small fires. It is also a good idea to have commercial fire extinguishers handy. Dry chemical or carbon dioxide extinguishers should be available for use on flammable liquid or electric fires, the Council says.

Another valuable fire-fighting aid is the farm pond or irrigation canal. If pumps are available, water sources such as these could mean the difference between light or heavy losses. High-pressure orchard sprayers can also double as fire-fighting equipment.

Avoiding fire hazards is also a vital part of safeguarding your home from damage, the Council points out. Care should be taken in house planning and construction, in installation and use of electrical appliances, and in such everyday activities as trash disposal, use of flammable liquids, and power equipment operation.

During the 1950's petroleum demand in the United States increased by 69 per cent. Petroleum now provides more than 72 per cent of the nation's motive and mechanical power.

PROPER RANGE USE
Are you really getting the maximum amount of grazing from your grass over a period of years? Stop for just a few minutes and analyze your own grazing practices. Numerous experiments have shown beyond a doubt that to produce the most pounds of beef, the grass should not be grazed any more than 50% of its weight. You have probably heard the saying, "It takes grass to grow grass". This is very true. The grass plant must have plenty of green leaves and a large root system in order to grow more leaves. If the plant is grazed down to the ground, it doesn't have a chance. As the stems and leaves get smaller, the roots get smaller. Experiments have shown that when cattle are on an overgrazed pasture, their nutrition balance is affected. This is only to be expected when they don't have enough grass to eat. When this happens, the weight of the cows will drop 150-350 pounds, the calves at weaning time will weigh as much as 100-150 pounds less, and the percent calf crop will drop down to as low as 40 percent. Have you checked your livestock records lately? A good cover of grass will keep out worthless weeds, poisonous plants, brush, and undesirable grasses. Harmful gullies will also be prevented. Keep all of this in mind the next time you want to throw those extra cows into a pasture.

If your pasture is in bad shape right now, deferred grazing and maybe reseeding should be considered. Under proper use the pasture will improve more slowly. This year many ranchers in the county are practicing proper range use on their ranches. The local Soil Conservation Service personnel will be glad to make an inventory of your rangeland and help you to decide what stocking rate you should have to get proper use. Remember, proper range use doesn't cost, it pays.

Police in Osaka, Japan, are trying a new experiment: they are playing "The Blue Danube" at busy street intersections to try to calm motorists while waiting for the traffic lights to change.

AUSTIN — For years a high chain link fence marked the back boundary of the Austin State Hospital grounds. Sturdy and forbidding, with in-turned barbed wire at the top, it was a fence that suggested the plight of the people it confined. It was a depressing, prison-like, mile-long fence that paralleled Lamar, one of Austin's busiest boulevards. Now, each spring, Austinites make a point of driving out Lamar to see the mass of climbing red roses covering the fence. Today this long stretch of roses is a symbol of the change that has come to state hospitals during the past 10 years as a result of volunteer services. University engineering students donated and planted the rose bushes. Thousands of people over the state have landscaped the grounds, redecorated the dining halls and reception rooms, built swimming pools, given parties, conducted classes, wrapped gifts and in hundreds of other ways brought beauty and warmth to state hospitals and schools.

Only the November bid letting will be affected, said Greer.
This month the Highway Department tabulated low bids totaling $19,030,137 for highway work. Next month the contracts are expected to total only about $12,000,000, but by December the total should be increased again to about $17,000,000 or $18,000,000.
This will mean fewer workers laid off for the winter by contractors doing state highway work.

Very few drivers seem to mind paying higher accident insurance rates because they are involved in accidents. But many do resent the assessment of a penalty based on traffic tickets issued. Especially tickets they feel were not warranted.
Still others contend that they are insuring their cars against accidents and not insuring themselves against traffic fines. Therefore if they are paying a premium for fines they should be reimbursed for those fines.

A "Living Experience" of the U.S. Army First Infantry Division...

CANTIGNY WAR MEMORIAL MUSEUM of the Fighting First Division. At right, a flaming replica of the "Big Red 1," the Division's insignia, inlaid in the museum floor just opposite the main entrance. The museum is named for the battle of Cantigny, France, the first World War I action in which American troops fought as a unit. Dramatic presentation of authentic details of the history of the First Division gives a visitor the illusion of being present at the historic battles of the first and second World Wars.

T.S.E.A. OBSERVES AMERICAN ED. WEEK

Kick-off program in tribute to American Education Week was held Monday, November 7, 1960. The Texas Student Education Association of Clarendon Jr. College sponsored the program. T.S.E.A. is a counterpart of the High School Future Teachers' Association. Mrs. Nelson Seago is the sponsor of the local T.S.E.A.

Sandra Pinkerton, President of the local T.S.E.A. introduced the guest speaker, Senator Andy Rogers. Senator Rogers made an interesting talk on the subject, "The First Line of Education is a Necessity for the Survival of Our Nation." The statement he made to develop was that our nation cannot survive as a second rate nation. That our nation is as strong as the education of the citizens that make up our nation. Therefore, we must maintain first place educationally among the nations of the world.

He further stated that in 1950, after all the two hundred fifty-four candidates made a report on education representing the studies of fifty thousand citizens of the state of Texas, the state legislature passed legislation in behalf of the school in granting an income in teachers pay, which moved Texas to the nineteenth position among the forty-eight states in educational backing. However, during the last eleven years, because of the apathy of the citizens, and their atti-titude of "let George do it" has allowed the state of Texas to slip back to the thirty-second position among fifty states in support of education within the states.

He further suggested that only the people of the state of Texas acting as a lobbyist can secure legislation that will support our educational institution in such a way to get back in number one position.

The T.S.E.A. hopes it can help fulfill the needs Senator Rogers has pointed out. —Rep.
