Sandell Drive-In to mark 50th year

Fifty years ago, the late Gary Barnhill invited all of Donley County to enjoy "an evening of pleasure" for the formal opening of the Sandell Drive-In, and now John Morrow has reissued that same invitation as the theatre celebrates its golden anniversary this weekend.

It was Labor Day weekend in 1955 when Barnhill opened the Sandell, which he had named for his daughters, Sandra and Adele. THE DONLEY COUNTY LEADER reported that Barnhill had installed "the latest drive-in theatre equipment in order to offer the best in movie entertainment."

The drive-in actually opened a week earlier, but the Sandell's grand opening was held on September 11, 1955, with Shane, starring Alan Ladd and Jean Arthur, "in color," as its feature presentation.

"I wish I had something appropriate to pay tribute to Gary," Morrow said. "He did a whale of a job building the theatre. I've looked at a lot of other old drive-ins, and the only one that can compare to ours is in Midway, and I later learned that it was built patterned on the Sandell. There are 85 tons of steel in its structure."

The Sandell Drive-In Theatre was operated by Barnhill for 29 years, generating many fond memories before it was closed in 1984.

It then sat unused for 18 years, until Morrow reopened it in 2002 after a chance conversation in a Dallas restaurant named Sandella's and a string of events and conversations made it clear to him that he should be the one to open the theatre.

The façade got a fresh coat of pink paint, and a new ticket booth was installed. Morrow also installed new projection equipment, remodeled the concession stand, and reopened the drive-in on Labor Day weekend that year.

"This is our third anniversary too," Morrow said, "and I hope the people have enjoyed it as much as I have. I see the kids come out. Their faces just light up, and that makes me smile."

As Barnhill did in 1955, Morrow also invites visitors to the snack bar. Golden anniversary specials this weekend include 50-cent hot dogs, 50-cent soft drinks, and 50-cent popcorn.

Morrow said Barnhill gave him lots of advice as he worked to bring the drive-in back. "Don't put French fries in the concession stand; the grease is too much trouble. Stick with chips," the old manager told him. And also, "Don't charge by the carload."

Since the re-opening in 2002, the Sandell has welcomed new and former customers with a nostalgic atmosphere that harkens back to the simpler times when Elvis was the hottest thing in music and everybody liked Ike. Except now a transmitter allows move-goers to listen to the show on their car radio instead of hanging the speaker through a window.

"It's been pretty fun just to do it two nights a week," Morrow said.

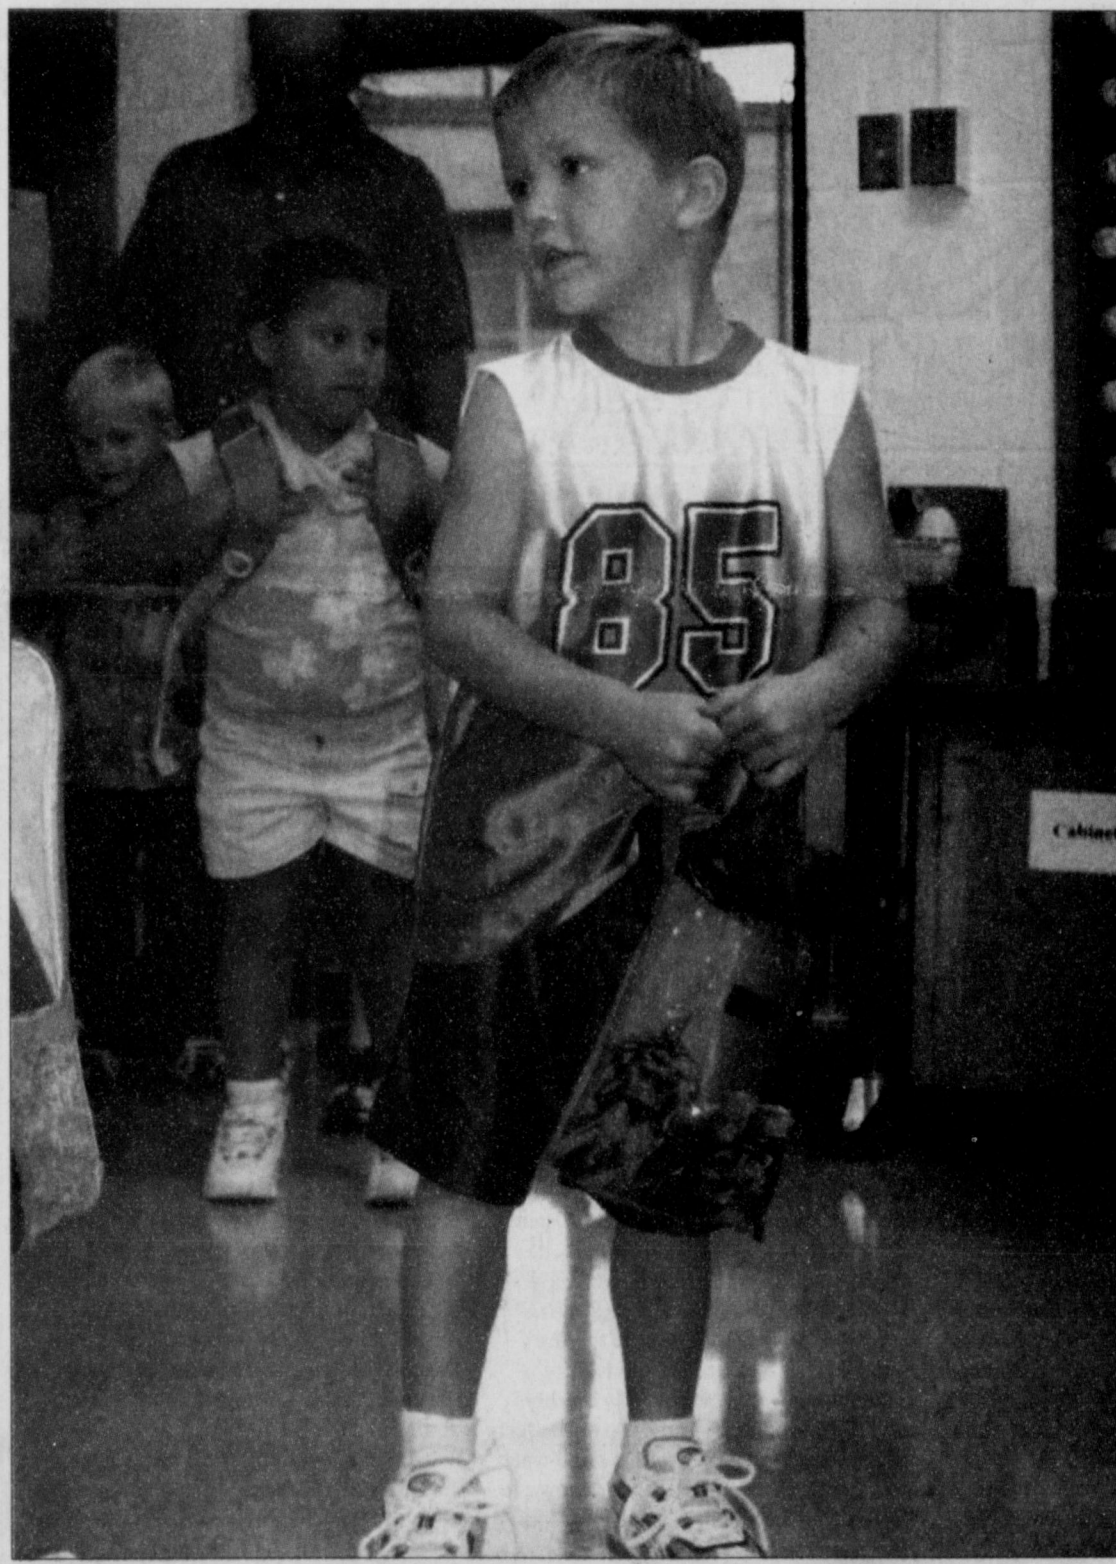

"I can't imagine what it was like for Gary to do it every night."

Morrow hopes everyone will come out to the drive-in this weekend and join the anniversary celebration, and he's got just the right movie to set the mood.

Acclaimed as the most successful Western of the 1950s and nominated for six Academy Awards, Shane will return to the Sandell's big screen this Friday and Saturday in a double feature with Warner Brothers' modern motion picture, The Dukes of Hazzard, starring Johnny Knoxville and Jessica Simpson.

Gates open at 8 p.m. this Friday and Saturday, Shane rolls at 9 p.m. Tickets for the show are $5 for adults and $4 for children under 12 and seniors over 65.

Aldermen look at raising taxes

Lower property valuations prompted the Clarendon Board of Aldermen to propose an increase in the city's property tax rate during their regular meeting last Tuesday.

If approved, the new rate would be one cent higher than last year at $0.49555 per $100 valuation and would generate approximately $3,800 in new revenue for the city.

Mayor Tex Selvidge told the board that keeping last year's rate would mean the city would lose money because property values in the city had fallen by more than $250,000. The Donley Appraisal District said the drop was largely due to changes in valuations for property owned by American Electric Power and Cebridge Communications.

Alderman Michael Tibbets expressed concern about raising the taxes too much, and Alderman Janice Knorpp said the city could not afford to go backwards when already facing a budget crunch.

Mayor Selvidge said he thought it was better for a local government to increase its tax rate a little bit every year rather than get in a situation where they had to go up a lot all at once. He told Tibbets that he may not like raising taxes, but future boards would thank him for doing it.

"I remember when I became mayor the first time [in the late 1970s], and we had to double the tax rate from 25 cents to 50 cents," Selvidge said. "I felt like Gary Cooper in High Noon."

The board unanimously approved proposing the higher rate. A public hearing will be held September 13 before finalizing the rate.

In other city business, aldermen approved Ordinance 357 increasing garbage rates. Effective October 1, 2005, residential garbage rates will increase $1 per account, commercial rates will increase $1 per Dumpster, and Greenbelt Water Authority's rate will be $2,500 per month.

The board also approved Ordinance 358, which increases the deposit for water service from $50 to $125. That new rate also takes effect October 1, and Alderman Tommy Hill opposed the increase.

Aldermen also awarded the bid for the city's workers' compensation, general liability, and other property insurance coverages to the Texas Municipal League Risk Pool.

Bob McCombs was on the agenda to discuss a complaint regarding dust from the street paving project, but he said his complaint had already been taken care of, and he thanked Alderman Mark White and City Superintendent Jim Roberts.

The aldermen approved Ordinance 359 as presented by City Attorney James Shelton, establishing a Municipal Court Building Security Fund as provided by state law. A fee of three dollars will be assessed on any defendant convicted of a misdemeanor in municipal court.

The aldermen approved Sharon Knox and Gail Shelton as members of the executive council of the Burton Library's advisory board. Freddie Jo Moreman will replace Jim Douglas as a lay representative.

The board considered and rejected an increase in the telephone access line rate.

Aldermen discussed taking the power of hiring, firing, and setting salaries away from the city administrator and returning that power permanently to the board.

Alderman Tibbets said he wanted to insure those powers remain with the board in the future, and Alderman Hill agreed, saying he thought five heads were better than one.

Alderman Bobbie Kidd disagreed, saying he wouldn't take the job if those powers weren't included, and he sided with Alderman White and Knorpp in defeating two motions by Tibbets to reserve all or part of those powers to the board.

Sheriff's office seeking clues to three break-ins

Three Clarendon businesses were burgled last week, and the Donley County Sheriff's Department is continuing its investigation.

Sheriff Butch Blackburn said his office was called at 6 a.m. last Wednesday, August 24, after Frank Hommel discovered his "Sam Hill" Pit BBQ restaurant had been robbed.

Blackburn said the suspects gained entry through the rear door and got away with a small amount of cash. Considerable damage was done to the restaurant's cash register, which contained no money.

Investigators checked the neighboring Asian Café to find that someone had also gained entry through that establishment's backdoor, but the owners could find nothing missing.

And at about 8 a.m., Blackburn said it was discovered that the burglaries had also hit the nearby Country Bloomers Flowers & Gifts and gotten away with a considerable amount of cash.

Blackburn said he believes the suspects will turn out to be locals, and he asks anyone with knowledge of these crimes to call his office at 874-3533.

Feds require kids to study Constitution

Sen. Robert Byrd is known for many things. The West Virginia Democrat is best known for bringing home the pork and for being an almost constant thorn in the side of the Bush administration.

He's lesser known as a former prominent member of the Ku Klux Klan half a century ago, but he has since seen the light and has been forgiven by his party.

But Sen. Byrd is also known for other things — namely being a fierce protector of the traditions of the US Senate and defending the US Constitution. It is related to that latter quality that Sen. Byrd is attracting some attention currently for something he did last December. He managed to insert into the omnibus spending bill a provision requiring all public schools receiving federal funding to set aside one day to commemorate the signing of the US Constitution on September 17, 1787.

"One will not protect what one does not value," Byrd said. "And one cannot value what one does not understand."

Sen. Byrd always has had a way with words, and for that this column admires him. His eloquence in this instance cannot be denied, and the logic of his statement cannot be disputed. Certainly, American youngsters need to be taught to understand and embrace one of the greatest documents ever to be penned by man.

In a world where our government encroaches on our basic freedoms and calls it a PATRIOT Act, it would do us all a lot of good to learn what said government is and is not permitted to do according to its founding document.

Setting aside the fact that September 17 falls on a Saturday this year (which makes it hard for school kids to study it at all on that day), one wonders how much you can really learn about the Constitution in one day. Would you focus on the freedom of speech, the freedom of the press, or the freedom of religion? That's just part of one amendment. There are 26 others to be considered plus the original seven articles.

Of course, you could just study the Preamble, which outlines in broad strokes the original intent of the Constitution. Coach Beck used to require us to memorize the Preamble (always reminding us that "Posterity" had nothing to do with our rear ends) along with a passage from the Declaration of Independence. I don't know if any of Clarendon's current teachers make students do that. It might be too much trouble what with having to juggle drug-sniffing dogs, security cameras, soda machines, French bakes, the TAKS test, and other important educational matters.

There are entire upper-level college courses that focus on each of the legislative, executive, and judicial branches and their powers under the Constitution. Clearly, any one-day study of the Constitution is going to have to be more focused, more concentrated — like a Cliff's Notes for the Constitution.

Maybe, since the study of the Constitution is being tied to federal funding, the day should be devoted to what the document has to say about public education.

Oh, wait a minute. The Constitution doesn't say a damn thing about education or the federal funding of it. In fact, according to the Constitution, the United States government has no authority whatsoever to expend tax dollars on schools, students, or teachers. Furthermore, the Constitution does explicitly say in the Tenth Amendment: "The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people."

In other words, under the Constitution, the United States cannot tell schools to study the Constitution.

The US Department of Education, the federal No Child Left Behind Act, and whole litany of federal rules and funds notwithstanding, schools are the purview of the states. (Whether the boys in Austin are up to that task is a whole other column.)

Here's one for the kids: In the real world, the federal government operates largely outside the original parameters set by the Constitution. And perhaps the best one-day lesson that teachers could give would be how Sen. Byrd and his colleagues regularly abuse their powers and blackmail state and local governments.

Congress gets states, cities, and schools hooked on federal funds (much like bad people get kids hooked on drugs) and then tie all kinds of strings to the money so that everybody moves according to the puppet masters on Capitol Hill.

For example, the feds dole out billions of dollars in highway funds (which Sen. Byrd loves), and then say if you want this money, you'll have to deny 18-, 19-, and 20-year-old citizens of your state their right to pursue happiness in the form of a Shiner Bock. Or, the feds lavish billions of dollars on state schools and then start saying what standardized tests have to be given and which kids have to be tested and what they can eat on their lunch breaks.

As it was written, the Constitution gives our government a few certain powers, but more importantly it limits what government can do and clearly defines certain things that it absolutely cannot do.

Yes, the US Constitution is a beautiful thing. Yes, the state should require school kids to study it and learn what it says. It's just too bad that Congress doesn't abide by its constraints, and that's the real lesson.

AWOL toenail illustrates moral lesson

Here's a little known fact about Carrie: I haven't worn closed toed shoes (outside of work) since the late 90s.

Socks make me feel all restricted and gross, so I've made it a habit to wear sandals or flip-flops year-round. The only problem is my toes get a lot of airtime, and they're ugly gnome-toes.

It sounds like a small thing, but toenails are the new cleavage. Toes can be just as sexy as a fabulous bust line. I don't have one of those either, but I've discovered it's much easier to paint your ugly toenails than to change your body shape.

A few months ago, it got a whole lot easier. I discovered the glory that is acrylic toenails. In five minutes or less I can glue on perfectly shaped, manicured, non-gnarly toenails. It's genius.

I have a perfect French-tip manicure on my normal-sized nails. I don't have to paint them or shape them. The paint never chips off, so I don't have to re-apply every two days.

Up to now, I've never lost one in public. I've had them break off in my work shoes and kind of scratch. I've lost them in bed and woken up with them stuck on my leg. I've found them in the bathroom or under the couch.

Last night I was over at the boyfriend's house, and we were sitting on the couch watching Law & Order re-runs, the only thing on TV we can agree on.

I happened to look down and noticed my right big toe was naked. I gasped in horror and quickly buried said nude toe under a cushion. I mentally retraced my steps. When did I last see the toenail?

I could have lost it in my work shoes... No, they were all there when I changed into sandals. In the car? No, I'm pretty sure I saw them all.

Or did I? I learned somewhere that sometimes your eye doesn't really see an object, but your brain knows it should be there, so it adds it without your permission. Maybe I lost the toenail earlier in the day, and it is only here in the cruel light of the TV that I can see clearly.

Oh my God! It's in the kitchen! I lost a toenail in my boyfriend's kitchen. I can just see him going downstairs to get a life's lessons

by carrie helms

snack and stepping on my perfectly manicured orphaned toenail.

Jay noticed my sudden silence and the look of horror on my face and asked what was up? Did I want to change the channel? I thought it best to warn him before he came upon the toenail unawares.

"Jay," I said, "This is really disgusting, but I've lost a toenail."

"A toenail? How did you lose a toenail? Are you bleeding?"

"No. No, it was a fake toenail. I lost it somewhere. And it's probably in your house. Just don't be alarmed if you see it."

He assured me he would keep calm, but he was mystified that anyone would wear false toenails. As I was explaining it to him, I miraculously found the toenail peeking out from under the edge of the couch. I quickly rescued it and deposited it safely into my pocket.

The moral of the story: God made you beautiful just the way you are, and sometimes he smites you for trying to improve upon the product. That's why make-up gives you zits, and sometimes your hair color comes out with cheetah spots, or you lose a fake toenail in the most awkward locations.

Texas abounds with natural treasures

While there is so much I love about Texas, it is the connection between the people and the land that makes it special. The land influences everything from the crops our farmers cultivate to the way people think. I suspect our land, with its big skies and wide-open spaces, is one of the things that has contributed to so many Texans' turning big dreams into reality.

In past articles, I have written about our state's rich history, but Texas's natural beauty was the magnet that drew the early settlers. Texas holds a diverse collection of landscapes, from beautiful beaches on the coast to majestic mountains out west. One of the best ways to absorb a bit of the land is to go for a hike on one of our many trails.

The Panhandle and North Texas are known for their plains, but they are anything but plain. This is where many easterners first encounter the tumbleweeds and vistas that tell them they have finally reached the true West. The big skies make for some of the most beautiful sunsets in the world and make it possible to watch powerful storms roll in from a distance.

Some of the most breath-taking sites, and some of the most scenic trails, are in the canyons. The Caprock Canyons have over 90 miles of trails snaking through a landscape bursting with color: the whites, reds, and browns of the canyons contrast with the deep-blue sky and the green vegetation. There, you can hike and catch sight of the state's largest herd of bison. You can also venture out to Lake Meredith, which provides abundant bass and walleye fishing. Or you can mosey on over to Possum Kingdom Lake to fossil hunt or to watch the turkey vultures soar overhead near Morris Sheppard Dam.

Over to the east, in the Piney Woods, is a national treasure: Big Thicket. This area has been called "America's Ark" because of the great diversity of its wildlife. As a crossroads of many different environments, from deserts to swamps, Big Thicket may be the most biologically diverse area in the world. In fact, Big Thicket's abundant assets have earned it a spot on the United Nations' short list of Biosphere Reserves in the world that deserve protection. It has at least 85 different types of trees and over 300 different varieties of birds. Many others and I are working to increase this preserve by adding new land each year.

Down along the 600 miles of Texas's Gulf coastline are some incredible beaches. A gem of the Gulf of Mexico, Padre Island, has gorgeous sand dunes. One of my favorite childhood treks was also on the Gulf Coast. My family used to take the ferry from Galveston to Bolivar to visit my grandmother in Beaumont. My brothers and I would climb up to the top of the ferry and stand tall to let the wind and the water blow in our faces. If you venture down to Corpus Christi, a rainy day will not spoil your appreciation of nature because you can always take a hike in the Texas State Aquarium. Experienced divers can swim through Texas's aquatic beauty by taking a deep-water dive in the Flower Garden Banks, a series of pristine reefs south of Galveston Island.

On the way down to the Valley, Laguna Madre offers an opportunity to check out the lagoons and enjoy fly-fishing. In the Valley, the abundant wildlife provides both excellent bird-watching and great game hunting with everything from hares to javelinas. And no one should miss the quiet beauty of the desert around the Rio Grande.

In Central Texas, there are refreshing hikes in the Hill Country that showcase its greenery, rivers, and natural rock formations. During hot summer days, you can rest in the shade of the numerous cedar trees or go for a swim in the natural swimming pool at Barton Springs. In Enchanted Rock Natural Area, there is a nice four-mile hike through rock outcroppings. Some ancient tribes believed one of the outcroppings was haunted because of the strange noises heard from the granite at night.

Finally, out in far West Texas lies some of the most majestic mountains in the country. You can hike on some of the 280 miles of trails in Big Bend and Guadalupe National Parks. And there is even a way to appreciate Texas's natural beauty at night; just pay a visit to McDonald Observatory where you can enjoy the "darkest night skies in the continental" United States.

Even this relatively short hike through just a handful of the state's treasures reveals that Texans have been blessed with a great deal of natural beauty.

Robertsons announce new funeral associates

Robertson Funeral Directors, Inc., of Clarendon is pleased to announce the association of two additional licensed funeral service professionals to its staff, both of whom are third generation family members of the current owners.

Cameron Word and Chuck Robertson are both 2003 graduates of Clarendon High School and went on to receive their Associate of Applied Science Degrees in Mortuary Science from Amarillo College in May 2005. Following graduation, both young men sat for, and successfully passed, boards administered by the International Conference of Funeral Service Examining Boards and the Texas Funeral Service Commission. After completing and submitting all required case work reports, they received both their national and state professional licenses on August 15, 2005. Both Robertson and Word are now fully licensed funeral directors and embalmers at the state and national level, and both are licensed by the Texas Insurance Commission to write and administer funeral pre-need trust plans as well.

Greenbelt offers many amenities for guests

Like most folks in our community, we tend to stay away from the lake during the summer when it is so busy. But with school in session, we decided to check it out.

It was a beautiful day with blue sky, little wind, a lake that is full, and very few people. Greenbelt Water Authority has put in many improvements starting with trailer hookups at Sandy Beach and Kincaid Park that consist of a concrete slab, picnic table, barbeque grill, electricity, and water. At both places you will find covered picnic areas with barbeque grills, very nice play areas for the children, and a party sized covered picnic area with lights, water and grills. Bathrooms are strategically placed with chemical toilets used in more remote areas.

Sandy Beach had two trailers at waters edge with a couple playing in the water. Little Sandy, below the Marina, had one trailer at the water's edge with one person seen sitting in the shade reading. A few pickups with boat trailer attached were at the boat launching pads, but we had Kincaid Park to ourselves. Lady, the dog, had lots of fun running the beach and following scents.

In general the park was well maintained, the main roads were in excellent condition, and most of the secondary roads had been graded since the rains. The mowers had been busy, but there are still wild flowers to enjoy and wildlife abounds. We saw numerous wild turkey with coveys ranging in size from two to eight adults to 15 babies. We also saw four deer, squirrels, roadrunners, several coveys of quail, woodpeckers, and other birds.

Past Kincaid Park is primitive camping (no facilities except a few chemical toilets), and no one was there. The cottonwood trees have grown and provide shade, roads have been opened, and the area is kept mowed so lots of camping space is available. The main road was maintained all the way around, but some camping roads were hazardous to your health so check them out before pulling a trailer down there. The Boy Scout camp, Camp Tommie Saye, was in excellent condition, and I know those scouts still have lots of fun.

Labor Day weekend will be very busy at the lake, but after that, what could be nicer than a picnic and dipping a line in the lake? At $3 per person it is an affordable place to be.

We are still bragging about the graduates. Taylor Ryan West, grandson of Clovis and Billie West of Saints' Roost, graduated June 1, 2005, from Western High School in Florida. He played football and was offered scholarships from several colleges, but he has chosen to become a fireman.

Taylor has enrolled at Boward Community College in Davie, Florida, for his EMT and paramedic courses. He is the son of Skeeter West of Miami, Florida, the youngest son of Clovis and Billie. They all survived the latest hurricane, and Taylor will be spending next week in Texas. Maybe they will check out the lake while he is here.

Trooper Bobby Chambless

Chambless training with DPS in Clarendon

Bobby W. Chambless graduated from the Texas Department of Public Safety's recruiting school on August 5 and will be training in Clarendon for the next six months as a state trooper.

Chambless, who graduated from Clarendon High School in 1990, is married to the former Brandi Stroup, also formerly of Clarendon. The couple's family includes five children, four of whom will attend school in Hedley.

The family will reside in Memphis, where Chambless will be stationed following his training period.

Daisy Troop 425 will be led by Laura Hommel and Kirsten Bertrand. Brownie Troop 118 will follow Crystal Fulton, Buffie Smith, and Andrea Hall; and Brownie Troop 379 will be guided by Laura Hommel and Kirsten Bertrand.

Junior Troop 576 is following Jeannie Miller, who is looking for an assistant; Misti Laroe is also looking for an assistant for her Junior Troop, and Senior Troop 433 is being led by Polly McAfee and Terry Askew.

Leaders are still needed for the Cadet Troop.

The annual Girl Scout membership fee is $10, and financial assistance is available. For more information or to volunteer, call Denise Bertrand at 874-3372.

Messer a mainstay of Hedley's barbecue

By Kari Lindsey

The annual Community Chicken BBQ was held in Hedley last Thursday, August 25, and helping with the event was Doyle Messer, a life long Hedley resident, was one of the first ones to start the chicken barbecue in 1960.

"It started out being a celebration for the Lions Club members only. I thought it would be nice to honor everyone in the community that helped support the Cotton Festival," stated Doyle Messer.

Henry Moore was the one who mainly did the cooking, but Doyle was there to help. A few years later, Doyle took the head responsibility of the barbecue. The barbecue goes on rain or shine. Long ago tickets cost $1.50, and they broke even on the price. They had no sponsors back then, just a group of men wanting to do nice things for others. This year over twenty sponsors helped to make the day complete. Doyle and his crew cooked 700 chicken halves on Thursday.

Messer, now 82 years old, has been a part of every single barbecue.

He recently turned over the head responsibilities to fellow Lions Club member, Lon Adams; but Doyle is still there to help. The chicken barbecue now has sponsors that help make the event possible.

By no means is this endeavor a one-day event. There are days of preparation getting ready for the barbecue. Doyle was there preparing in 1960, and he spent the entire day at Hedley School on Thursday, making sure the barbecue was a huge success.

Also helping make the barbecue a huge success this year were sponsors White Farms, Herring Bank, Donley County Gin, Greenbelt Peanut, Scooter's, Messer Law Firm, Moffitt Hardware, Reynolds Machine, Memphis Thriftway, Ward Electric, Community Bank, Donley County State Bank, Evans Fertilizer, J&W Lumber, Koetting Automotive, Western Equipment, First Bank & Trust, Fowler Insurance, Memphis Compress, and Red River Irrigation. Hedley Lion Lon Adams stated, "We really appreciate all the support given to the Lions Club and to the community of Hedley."

Close to 550 people attended the barbecue this year.

The chickens are turned every 15 minutes unless Mr. Messer tells them different. When you start losing at dominoes, it is time turn the chickens quickly. If you are winning, the time between might be a little longer.

Many hands go into the preparation of the chicken barbecue. Workers come from Clarendon, Hedley, Lelia Lake and surrounding areas to prepare the meal. Many students of Hedley High School also spend a great part of the day helping out.

Burton's youth library among best in region

I continue to marvel at the quality of Burton Memorial Library's Youth library, one of the best of its size in the Panhandle.

Teachers: I personally know, from my previous 30 years of teaching, how busy you've been with preparation for another challenging year with great students. I remember the uplifting experience in sharing anticipation with each individual student. What an exciting time for all! Even though Clarendon's excellent schools are well-equipped with exceptional elementary through high school libraries, Burton Memorial Library hopes you will also include its assistance in supplementing regular classroom needs.

One thing that impresses me about numerous additions to the Youth collection are several appealing series to spark special interest in Science and Social Studies areas. That interest can be "sparked" in grade levels K-6 from the same book. That's right! Unusual, isn't it? The books, containing a wealth of information, can serve as a basis for extended research for grades 4-6. Grades 2 and 3 will enjoy reading many for themselves, but they will need guidance with others. Loaded with attractive photographs, K-1 students will delight as teacher simplifies information to their level.

Each of a 10-book Wonders of the World series includes fascinating information concerning nature's extravaganzas. Volcanoes, deserts, caves, earthquakes, and six other amazing natural elements are vividly narrated with intriguing illustrations.

Stephen Savage presents a charming and informative series, Adaptation for Survival with individual titles "Noses," "Eyes," "Ears," "Mouths," "Skin," "Hands and Feet." They emphasize the initial sense on which certain animals depend to detect danger, food, and other things which may possibly surprise readers.

Each Science Discovery series book by Ian McKenzie tells a story of an important scientific area relating advances that have changed the world in electricity, genetics, communication, optics, and more. One of these books, The History of Criminal Investigation, traces development of modern investigating from ancient Babylon 4000 years ago to new tech-

Through all advanced technology, I hope we still take time to instill love and respect for history of our country. What better place to start than with the Indians?

Author Bill Lund's Native Peoples series, predominately written on second and third grade levels, introduces students to various Indian tribes. Each book includes maps, fast facts, culture and practices, a legend of that particular tribe, an Indian game, words to know, additional references, addresses, Internet sites, and index. Internet sites will also benefit older age groups.

A lovely geography readiness book for pre-school, kindergarten, and first grade is demonstrated in Lynne Cherry's The Armadillo from Amarillo. A "Veggiecational Book" from Big Ideas Production of Veggie Tales by Phil Vischer entertainingly introduces numbers, colors, shapes, check it out

by Mary Beth Nelson

and letters.

Masterfully told Legend of the Indian Paintbrush and Texas Tale, Legend of the Bluebonnet, by Tomie de Paola, author of other wildflower legends, can easily become favorites of teachers and students.

The Cowboy and the Black-Eyed Pea, cleverly written by Tony Johnston, is a western version of the well-known fairy tale, The Princess and the Pea. Just as the pea identified the true princess, the black-eyed pea reveals the true cowboy. Colorful, western language combined with Warren Ludwig's outstanding illustrations humorously depict characters.

World Book Encyclopedia 2005 has been added to other references for use in library only.

Library field trips are always available. Librarian Jerri Shields will gladly arrange a field trip, including a formal orientation, at your convenience. Just let her know. What a great favor you'll be doing for your students. They'll love it! Why not check it out?

Best wishes for a successful and productive school year.

4-H encourages youth to reach their full potential

By MaryRuth Bishop

The Texas 4-H Creed is "Learn By Doing," which is what Donley County 4-H is all about. The common theme for 4-H is youth learning and growing in citizenship, leadership, and life skills. 4-H enables youth to have fun, meet new people, learn new life skills, build self-confidence, learn responsibility, and set and achieve goals!

4-H is available to all boys and girls in the 3rd through 12th grades. First, you join 4-H by attending a club meeting or coming to the Donley County Extension office located at 414 S. Kearney. The first meeting this year is September 6 at the Family Life Center beginning at 6:00 p.m.

Second, you choose one or more projects that you would like to work on through out the upcoming year. In a project group, such as Clothing and Textiles or Livestock Judging, all members work on the same project area together. In the community club, members of various ages work on a variety of projects and support the activities of members. Projects are chosen from among 100 project areas offered; or if you don't see the one you like, you can create your own.

Third, you attend club meetings, project meetings, and meet together to learn and have fun. Donley County 4-H Club explores many different 4-H activities, events, and trips. In 4-H there are events happening all year round.

Projects popular in Donley County include: Livestock Judging; Steer, Swine, Goat, and Sheep Projects; Public Speaking; Photography; Community Service; Leadership Activities; Clothing and Textiles; Food and Nutrition; Method Demonstration; Wood Working; and Grass Identification. If these do not meet your interests, there are over 90 others to choose from.

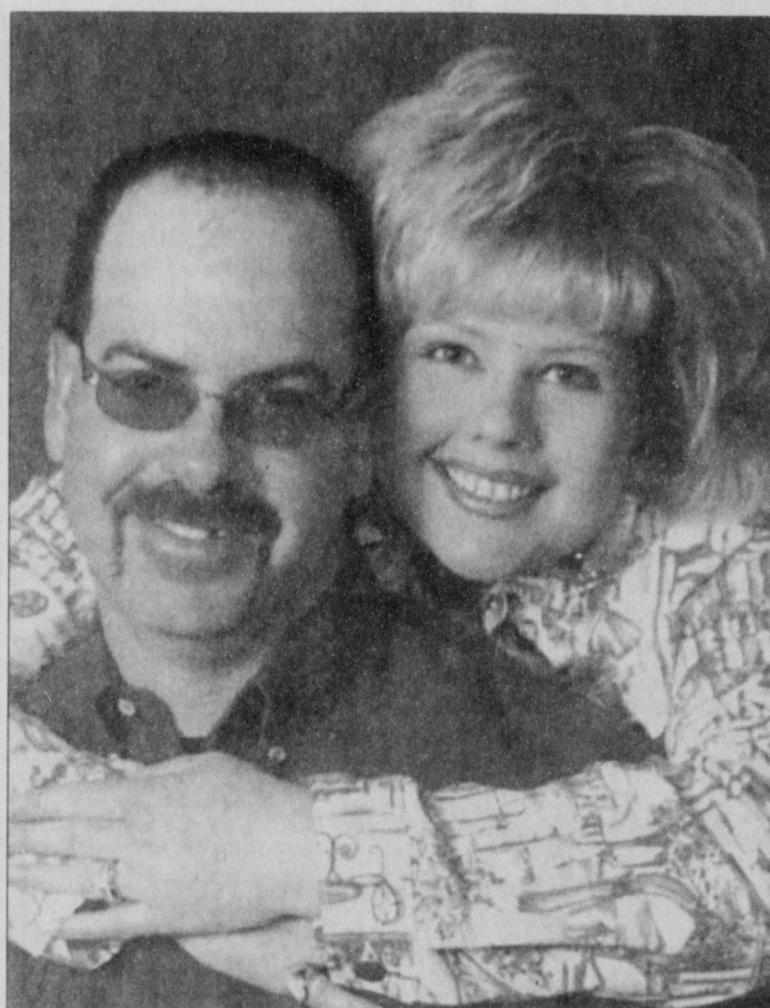

Project leaders, parents and community leaders serve as volunteers sharing their knowledge and expertise in small project groups. There are no fees to join 4-H. The only costs incurred will be through the expenses of the projects in which you sign up to participate.

In 2005, the Texas 4-H Youth Development Foundation and Texas 4-H and Youth Development Program awarded more than $1 million in scholarships to 170 Texas 4-H graduating high school seniors.

For information contact county agents, MaryRuth Bishop or Leonard Haynes at 806-874-2141.

USDA office asking for input on upcoming federal farm bill

The U.S. Department of Agriculture is asking for your help in identifying ways to address agricultural issues in the next Farm Bill.

The 2002 Farm Bill (officially entitled the Farm Security and Rural Investment Act of 2002) authorizes many USDA programs, including farm price and income support programs. New legislation will need to be enacted prior to the bill's expiration in 2007.

USDA intends to develop recommendations for the new farm bill and believes that public input is essential to this process. Written comments may be submitted to USDA online at www.usda.gov/farmbill. Select "Comment on the 2007 Farm Bill", which is the last item located in the middle section, to send your message.

You can also send your written comments by mail to the following address: USDA Farm Bill, Secretary of Agriculture Mike Johanns, Office of the Executive Secretariat, Room 116-A, Jamie L. Whitten Federal Building, 1400 Independence Avenue SW., Washington, DC 20250-3355.

In order for your input to be considered, please send your responses no later than December 30, 2005.

Comments should address one or more of these six questions:

How should farm policy address any unintended consequences and ensure that such consequences do not discourage new farmers and the next generation of farmers from entering production agriculture?

How should farm policy be designed to maximize U.S. competitiveness and our country's ability to effectively compete in global markets?

How should farm policy be designed to effectively and fairly distribute assistance to producers?

How can farm policy best achieve conservation and environmental goals?

How can Federal rural and farm programs provide effective assistance in rural areas?

How should agricultural product development, marketing and research-related issues be addressed in the next farm bill?

Senior USDA officials will host issue-specific forums throughout the nation focusing on these six questions. Other forums will address conservation, rural development, and nutrition issues.

During these specialty forums, the public will be asked to respond to questions that are tailored to those subject areas. These questions will be announced prior to the specialty forums and published on the USDA website.

The dates, locations, and times of the forums will be announced as they are scheduled and posted on the USDA website. Information on the forums can also be obtained by calling any USDA office.

All comments, including names and addresses, provided by respondents are a matter of public record.

The Clarendon Lions Club held their regular Tuesday noon meeting August 30, 2005, with Boss Lion Mark C. White in charge. We had 19 members present.

The Pledge of Allegiance was led by birthday girl Lion Bobbie Thornberry. Lion Jim Shelton gave the invocation.

The Boss Lion reported progress on the dove hunt and said he would work with Lion Shelton to write an agreement with the landowners.

The public school has 505 students, and classes are going well. The Broncos will play Sunray this Friday. The college is having registration now, classes start this Wednesday, and the dorms are full. The college ice cream social is this Tuesday.

We tentatively set the date for our annual charter banquet for Tuesday, October 25. And the annual Pancake Supper will be held October 7 at the school cafeteria.

With no further business, we were adjourned.

Drugs in the News

More People Could Benefit from Taking Statins

Researchers at the Stanford University School of Medicine concluded recently that more people could benefit from taking one of the cholesterol-lowering drugs that are commonly referred to as statins. Examples of drugs in this group include simvastatin (Zocor), lova-statin (Mevacor), and atorvastatin (Lipitor). Those conducting the evaluation reviewed patient visits to doctors' offices and hospitals during a 10 year period (1992 to 2002). They looked at the number and type of prescriptions written for these cholesterol-lowering drugs. They found that for the group determined to be at moderate to high risk for heart disease, no prescriptions were either written or filled during more than half of all outpatient visits. Other findings from their research are published in the May 31st issue of the journal Public Library of Medicine.

Although not approved for general use, in clinical trials, statin drugs have also been found to be of benefit to people with type II diabetes and rheumatoid arthritis.

Owl football starts with big victory

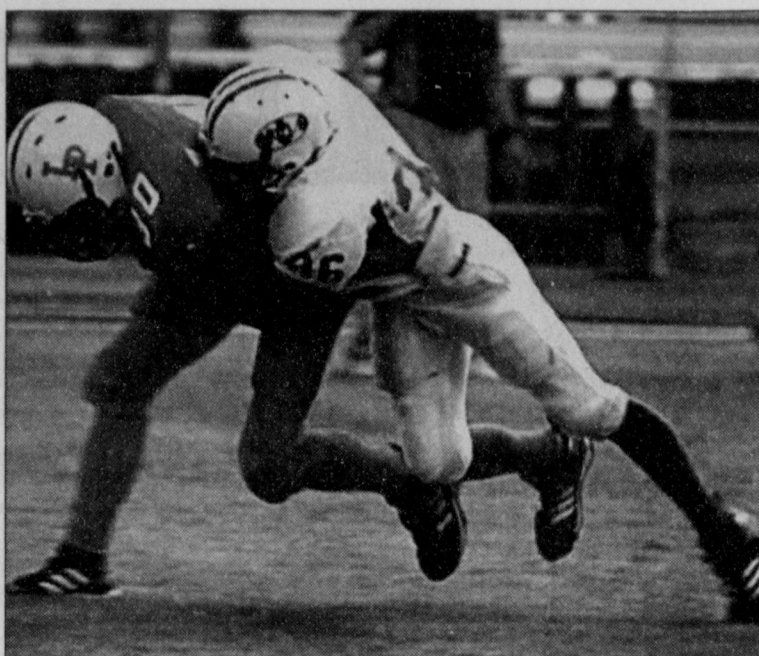

By Tangela Copelin

The Hedley Owls were predicted to lose in Friday night's game by 40 points, but once again the intensity that the Owls projected onto the field carried them to a 60 to 33 victory over the Lefors Pirates.

Coach Danny Mejia said he was very pleased with the efforts his boys put into Friday's game, and he never doubted their ability to play with such intensity.

The game began with the Lefors Pirates winning the coin toss and electing to receive. With that, the Pirates were able to pull off a touchdown, but the Owls did not let this deter them as they answered with one of their own and then pulled ahead in the second quarter, 42 to 19.

Senior Eli Luna rushed for 162 yards and scored five touchdowns to lead Hedley in their first victory of the season. Senior Wesley Shields added 85 yards and one touchdown to the game, and junior Seth Koetting put three touchdowns on the board. The Owl offense had lots of help from their defense, who caused the Pirates to have seven turnovers including five fumbles.

Of those playing defense, several boys had a really good night. Leading the Owls in solo tackles were Luna 7, Jose Equia 6, Koetting 5, Cody Glasgow 3, Derek Evans and Jody Hinton 2 apiece, and Will Verstuyft and Jon Giffin each had one apiece. Equia and Jesse Cariveau each had an interception to help lead the Owls to a successful game.

The Owls will be traveling to Wichita Falls to take on Wichita Christian Academy on Friday, September 2, at 7:30 p.m.

Broncos fall short to Ralls

By Sandy Anderberg

The Broncos put on a great show before a big home-field crowd Friday as the maroon and white took on Ralls in the Broncos' 2005 season opener. Despite the loss on scoreboard, the Broncos dominated their opponent on the field much of the game.

According to head coach Gary Jack, the Broncos were in it until the final seconds ticked off the clock.

"It was a wild game," Jack said. "The crowd definitely got their money's worth. We had several chances to defeat Ralls, but it just didn't work for us. We missed a pass in the final seconds of the game to get the win. We were up and down the field all night. The guys played hard."

The Broncos dominated the second half of play and took over the lead in the fourth quarter. The Broncos held the Jackrabbits to two touchdowns, which came late in the game. After Clarendon led by 10 points with four and a half minutes left in the game, Ralls scored on a pass play to make it a three-point game. The Broncos fumbled the ball on the first play of the series to give it back to the Jackrabbits who took advantage of the turnover, taking the ball into the end zone to take the lead.

A final effort by the Broncos to regain the lead and get the win failed as quarterback Quentin West attempted to connect with Will Betts deep in Ralls territory. The pass fell incomplete as the final seconds ticked off the scoreboard to give the Broncos a 41-45 loss.

"The guys played hard for us," Jack said. "We were up and down the field and really all over it. We moved the ball on the ground, but we didn't fair as well in the air. Three of our players were right around 100 yards rushing."

"Will Betts racked up 125 yards, and Quentin added about 109 yards. Brad Sell ran the ball for about 88 yards. I am very proud of the guys; they gave a good effort. We were down by nine at the half, and the guys could have given up, but they didn't."

Jack credited several Broncos with great play.

"Jeremy Utsey returned a kickoff 76 yards for a touchdown," Jack said. "Will Betts scored three times for us, and Quentin West scored once. Our offensive line was outstanding. They blocked great for our running game and gave us super pass protection."

Those on the line are Jon Vaught, Michael Henderson, Ladez Captain, Cody Scrivner, Ty White, Will Drackley, and Steven Fowler. Morgan Robinson made two great catches, according to Jack, and receivers Jesse Rodriguez, Stephen Ford, and Michael Bruce did a good job as well.

"Stephen Ford had 10 tackles and a knocked-down pass," Jack said. "Betts also had 10 tackles plus an interception. Wes Christopher made seven tackles, and Will Drackley and Jon Vaught teamed up for four and seven tackles respectively. Henderson had a good game and had 7 tackles, and Danny Derry put a lot of pressure on the quarterback with one sack and also had six other tackles."

Christopher, Drackley, Captain, and Bruce each recovered fumbles.

Jack and the Broncos will take from their loss and prepare for their next game at Sunray.

"Sunray doesn't have as many skill people this year as they did last year, but they are still a good, solid team. It will be a tough game, but I feel like they (Sunray) will see a little different team than they did last year."

The Broncos will travel to Sunray Friday, September 2, to take on the Bobcats at 7:30 p.m. The junior varsity will begin their season at home Thursday, September 1, against Wellington. The junior high will play as well that same day, beginning at 5:00 p.m.

Quentin West runs the ball for the Broncos during Clarendon's game against Ralls here last Friday. The wascally wabbits managed to get the best of the Broncos, 45-41.

Clarendon graduate home again

By Sandy Anderberg

Last year Clarendon graduate Gary Jack came home to take the helm of the Broncos as Athletic Director and head football coach, and this year another Clarendon graduate followed his lead.

A CHS graduate of 2000, Brandon Word accepted a position in the junior high where he will be teaching Texas History and Geography. Word will also assist the Bronco coaches in varsity, junior varsity, and junior high sports.

Word moved to Clarendon in the late 1980s with his family when his father, Mike Word, was hired as the elementary principal. While at Clarendon, Word was active in several sports and extracurricular activities.

His love for the game of football took him to Ottawa College in Kansas, where he played one year of football.

Word then transferred to West Texas A&M University at Canyon to finish his degree. He graduated in the spring of 2005.

Word hopes to create a new love for history while teaching the CJHS students.

"I want each student to really enjoy studying history and geography," Word said. "I hope to change things up from the way they have been taught and make history fun to learn."

Word resides in Clarendon with his wife Valerie and two-year-old son Julian. He is glad to be back on familiar ground and is enjoying his time so far.
