Miss Donley County Pageant is sponsored by the Alpha Upsilon Epsilon Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority.

Crop Insect Situation

Peanut producers need to be looking at peanuts very closely for the Rednecked Peanutworm. This worm has been picked up in some peanut fields in the area. The worm is small, greenish-white, with a crimson neck. The rednecked peanutworm will scar and perforate terminals (buds), destroying or deforming the young leaves and stunting growth.

According to area Entomologists, it takes a considerable amount of damage from the worm to warrant control measures. Most of the worms have been found in the flowers. Beneficial insect numbers remain good, and they will likely take care of the worm before they become a problem.

Cotton producers should continue to monitor cotton for thrips and fleahoppers. For the most part, insect problems in cotton have been light.

Fleahoppers are beginning to show up, and if they are going to be a problem, it will likely be in the next few weeks.

Grasshoppers are also beginning to build up numbers very rapidly, and farmers should be keeping a close watch for damaging numbers in fields.

Parents Are Legally Responsible for Damages

Area law enforcement officers are reminding area residents that they are legally responsible for any damage done by their children. This is a timely warning with the Fourth of July holiday season approaching.

Grass and weeds in the area are drying out, and--if the heat continues with no precipitation--this vegetation will soon be almost as flammable as gasoline. Any spark could set off fires much like those that raged north of Amarillo. Such grass fires burn down barns, homes or almost anything else in their path.

Fire or other actions that result in property damage of $750 or more are classed as a felony. If the person who destroys the property is an adult, he or she can face a penalty of two to ten years in prison and/or a fine of up to $5,000. The law also requires that the victim be compensated for his losses, which could easily cost hundreds of thousands of dollars. An adult--in the eyes of the court--is anyone seventeen years old or older.

If a juvenile damages or destroys property, he or she will probably be turned over to juvenile authorities, but his or her parents will have to pay for the damage and may face fines as well.

Younger children would be turned over to Child Welfare.

Many area residents are increasingly concerned about the number of young people who wander around town in the middle of the night without any adult supervision. The parents of these children are placing themselves in a very vulnerable position.

Traditions of 4th of July

by Vivian Taylor

Reprinted from The Clarendon News, June 26, 1941.

Many of Donley County's oldtimers recalled this week the Fourth of July celebrations of old. It seems that the celebrations that are had now are mild and tame compared to the old days when there were good horse races and free barbecues. Each one recalls most vividly the days when everyone took their lunches to the old Donley Court House lawn and had a real feed.

James Trent remembers well the first celebration he attended in Donley County because he was introduced to the woman who later became his wife. That was back in 1890 when big Fourth of July dances were held in the court room of the Donley Court House. Mr. Trent says that the celebration that the Donley people have now aren't celebrations at all because they have no free barbecues. "Up until 1912 and even after that, we killed twenty beeves and bought over four thousand pounds of packing house meat, and two thousand loaves of bread that we served free to the large crowds that thronged the town. We always took up a collection of the local merchants and usually made up $1200.00 or more. Those were the real celebratin days," Mr. Trent said.

Back in '83 and '84 when everyone went to McCullom Creek south of Ashtola on the Fourth of July, are C.W. Taylor's first recollections of the Fourth in the county. Perhaps the first celebration he remembers attending in Clarendon was in 1891 right after a flood. He recalls that Moris Rosenfield, who was chairman of the fireworks committee, and several persons were shooting fireworks from the lake when the boat caught fire and all were forced to jump out. He also recalls the pony races in which all the young men for miles around competed. Mr. Taylr says that the modern celebrations give the old times an opportunity to get together, renew friendships, and talk over the changes that have been made since the old days.

Summertime Pack Meeting Held

Cub Scouts of Pack 437 met June 21, 1990, at the City Park for their monthly Pack meeting.

The Scouts and their families were treated to a Pirate party. The party began with a Parent vs Scout Cannonball Fight with water balloons. Next came the obstacle course which included walking the plank, island hopping, man the lifeboat, shark attack, and fishing for snappers. At different stages of the obstacle course the Scouts received an item of the latest in pirate attire. Upon completion of the obstacle course each Scout was outfitted with a pirate bandanna hat, sword, earring, and earring, and eye patch. A treasure hunt helped to round out the activities. Hidden around the park were numerous "gold nuggets" which

Drive Safely

Major V.J. Cawthon, Regional Commander of the Texas Department of Public Safety said, "Everyone looks forward to happy holidays, especially the 4th of July; but the sad thing about all holidays is that a number of people will lose their lives in traffic accidents."

He stated that as in years past, the Department of Public Safety will conduct "Operation Motorcade", whereby, all available state troopers will be on the streets and highways attempting to make the a safe place for the Texas traffic to travel.

Cawthon Stated, "our troopers will be especially watchful for those hazardous drivers who refuse to slow down, run stop signs, pass in no passing zones, and who drink and drive."

He encouraged all driver and passengers to buckle up and to reduce the chances of death or injury in case of an accident. He stated that this practice should go hand in hand with the voluntary compliance of the traffic laws.

"If you, as a motorist, would drive and treat your fellow motorist as you would like to be treated on the roadway, you can help in making this a safe holiday. Remember to slow down and 'Drive Friendly, The Texas Way'", Stated Major Cawthon.

Keep in mind to slow down a little and live a lot, Don't Drink and Drive and Buckle Up at all times.

DPS Director colonel Joe Milner reminded motorists that the traffic volume increases during holidays, raising the chances for fatal collisions.

"Even though July 4th falls on Wednesday this year, we believe additional patrol hours are necessary," Milner said. "All available Troopers will be on duty, closely watching for the most life-threatening violations -- DWI and speeding over-the-limit."

Milner said that the DPS 30-hour fatality counting period will start at 6 p.m. on Tuesday, July 3, and continue until midnight on July 4th.

Last year, the Independence Day driving period ran 102 hours. Thirty-four traffic fatalities were reported during the extended counting time, far below the DPS estimate of 52.

beings and all warm-blooded animals are susceptible to rabies, a virus disease of the central nervous system that with out treatment is invariably fatal.

"But rabies can be controlled," he said, "if people understand the problem and know what to watch out for."

Lawhorn said to watch out for these situations:

-Bold, "friendly" or apparently tame" wild animals.

-Night animals such as skunks or foxes that are seen during the day.

-Pets that have difficulty walking, eating or drinking.

-Signs of excitement or viciousness in normally quiet animals.

He said a veterinarian should be consulted immediately if any of these signs are noted.

If a person is bitten by an animal, treat the bite as if the animal were rabid and follow these steps:

-Identify the animal - by kind, size, color and location. Caution children to seek the help of a policeman or other adult.

-Have the animal caught, and immediately report the incident to animal control officials or police. Keep the animal in sight until it is apprehended. Trying to catch the animal without professional help means added risk.

-Cleanse the wound immediately and thoroughly by washing with soap and water. Rinse well and disinfect with alcohol, iodine or other disinfectants. This lessens the chance of contracting the rabies virus.

-See a doctor immediately after washing the wound. The physician will decide on the need for treatment to prevent rabies.

-If possible, have the biting dog or cat tested for rabies or placed under observation. If it is alive and normal after 10 days of observation, the animal was not infective at the time of the bite. A veterinarian should be consulted concerning all aspects of this confinement period.

The 10-day observation period is not valid for animals other than dogs and cats. Wild animals such as skunks, bats, foxes and raccoons should be immediately submitted by a veterinarian for laboratory rabies examination.

Lawhorn said major steps toward community control of rabies can be achieved by:

-Immunizing all dogs and cats over three months of age annually.

-Registering and licensing all owned dogs and cats.

-Impounding stray dogs and cats.

-If there is no animal control officer, appoint one and provide pound or shelter facilities.

-Testing all biting dogs and cats or quarantining them for observation for a period of 10 days.

Buckle Up!

WOULD-BE BANKERS HAVE BEEN MULTIPLYING LIKE RABBITS.

Don't allow yourself to be misled by apparent similarities. Just because so many others are hopping to include the word "bank" in their names doesn't mean that they are actually bankers. "Savings Banks," "Thrift Banks," "stock-broker bank" accounts, etc., try to blur the difference between them and real bankers. But they don't always offer you the experience or, sometimes, the security of bankers. In fact, the only place you'll find a banker is The Bank, where your deposits are Federally insured up to $100,000. Carry Nation Back on Campus

Carry Nation, the anti-alcohol reformer from Kansas, visited the University of Texas campus two times at the invitation of students, the second trip coming in mid October 1904.

Several law students were in imminent danger of flunking their classes. Being less than enamored with the faculty, they invited Nation to a dinner in Austin where they complained vociferously about their instructors, who they decried as drunkards and gamblers Nation believed every word of it.

In particular the students criticized a specific teaching assistant, who they falsely claimed had been forcing them to stay up late drinking and wagering in order to pass their exams.

The next day Nation visited the campus and confronted the test grader in person. After listening to the erroneous accusations, the teaching assistant, who in reality was an officer in the local YMCA and a founder of the anti-saloon league on the campus, invited Nation to inspect his room so that she could see for herself that it was free of the trappings of loose living claimed by the law students.

In the meantime the prankish students had sneaked into the grader's room and filled it with cards, liquor bottles and dice. When the prohibitionist and the teaching assistant arrived, they found all the planted "evidence," leaving the grader to stammer while the reformer ranted and raved, calling him a "lying debauchee."

During her visit to the Austin campus, Nation was waging a campaign against football as a debasing pastime. Consequently the law students took her to a game being played that day against the Texas Agricultural and Mechanical College.

On the way to the game, the students pointed out engineering dean T.U. Taylor, who Nation had met on her earlier visit to the campus in 1902 but whom she had forgotten. They identified the dean as a leader of the drunkards on campus, to which Nation jeered at Taylor, "You old booze hound!"

Taylor was a favorite among the student body for practical jokes and certainly no fool. He realized the fun that the students were having at Nation's expense, so he turned her vitriol toward another academician, Judge W.S. Sinkins of the law school, who also was walking toward the football game.

"Hey, you old long-haired duck, take that cigar out of your mouth," Nation cried out. "If the Lord had intended you to use your nose for a smokestack, he would have turned it upside down."

Sinkins, a veteran of the Civil War, calmly walked on toward the stadium while Nation decried his purported drinking habits. The judge finally explained to the small audience that had gathered around him, "I only drink for medicinal purposes," to which Nation asked why he couldn't find a better cure than booze. Undisturbed, Sinkins answered simply, "Who would want anything better?"

Nation unsuccessfully attempted to address the crowd assembled for the game on the evils and cruelty of football, but after the kickoff its attention was diverted to the action on the field. The reformer left the school in a huff, headed for the streetcar to take her to the railway station.

The law students attempted to delay Mrs. Nation at Pat's, a nearby tavern frequented by campus types, so that they could observe her famous saloon-smashing hatchet at work. "Poor Pat was looking rather scared while shoving out a few glasses of the foamy liquid," the local press reported.

The students even pulled the trolley pickup from the overhead electrical wire on the streetcar, but the motorman restored the car to service and continued on with Nation to the station. There the prohibitionist boarded a northbound train headed for Morgan, Texas, where she was scheduled to speak that night, and things returned to normal in Austin.

Letters To Tarzan

"I can't think of any place I'd rather live," are the words Postmaster Doris McMorries used to describe her home of Tarzan, Texas.

We visited in the post office in the little town at the dead center of Martin County in West Texas.

The "town" itself consists of half a dozen occupied residences, the post office, a cotton gin, and a crossroads store. Surrounding Tarzan on all sides are wind-blown reddish brown fields for cotton and grain sorghum. On the plains of Martin County, the only trees are ones planted by man.

For the casual visitor, the only attraction for Tarzan is its placename. It's been know this way for over sixty years.

"Back when this country was being split apart from the big ranches," Mrs. McMorries related, "the people here decided that they needed a post office."

"The man who applied for the post office submitted several names, but the Post Office Department rejected all of them," she said, because other town already had chosen them.

In order to propose a name that no other Texas post office had received, according to Mrs. McMorries, "He sent in Tarzan and they accepted it."

I asked the postmaster how the man had come up with such a name with jungle-like associations for a dusty West Texas town.

"He enjoyed reading the Tarzan books by Edgar Rice Burroughs, so he sent in that name," she replied. "This was back about 1927. I'm not

Jerome Stocking says the first Fourth he can remember celebrating was in the year 1896. Incidents standing out vividly in his mind include the unusual skill of Buster Caldwell as champion tournament rider of the day. He remembers too how Henry Crawford, race horse man, would cry when he was beaten. One incident that he will never forget happened at a pop stand operated by George Morgan. Young Jerome, who was then only five, had just bought and eaten one dozen bananas and when he wanted a nickle worth more, Morgan refused to sell them to him saying that he had eaten enough. He, too, considers best the days of the free barbecues when you were given more than you could eat. Mr. Stocking says that our celebrations are worth every cent that are put into them because it gives and opportunity for old timers to meet and affords and opportunity to appreciate our independence which is celebrated on that day.

This year will be O.C. Watson's thirtieth year to witness a Fourth of July Celebration in Clarendon, his first one being in 1912, back in the days when they all used to anticipate a big rain on the night before. Mr. Watson says the biggest times he ever had during the Fourth of July were in 1915 and 1916 when they had big gatherings out on the old fair grounds northeast of the city. "Our celebrations today", Mr. Watson said, "are worth a lot in maintaining a feeling of western hospitality and friendship that Clarendon has long been known for."

Jim Robinson remembers coming to what he believes the first organized Clarendon celebration back in 1893. He was then a cowboy with the Scab-8s in Motley County of which J.D. Jefferies was then foreman. He and a detail of cowboys had trailed eighty head of condemned horses to turn loose in Donley pastures to fatten, die, or be shipped. He recalls with interest a patriotic speech made by the late A.M. Beville, but this was his first trip to Donley County and what impressed him most was the vast acreage of tall billowing grass. Mr. Robinson likes to see the Fourth of July roll around because he sees and talks with friends that he hasn't seen for many years.

The celebration this year will make the 42nd for Jim Patman in this county. Mr. Patman says that the biggest celebrations were in the days of the horse race meeting that was connected with the Fourth of July celebration. Everyone would come, everyone would participate and everyone had a good time. Mr. Patman still enjoys the celebrations as much as ever because they mean being able to meet and talk with old friends who come back to the annual reunion.

W.H. Patrick, who has attended every celebration that Clarendon has had in the last fifty-two years, tells of the celebrations of the early nineties. "As a rule we had harness horse races on the old track out east of Clarendon Lake. The horses were all local horses and the people took a great deal of interest. On these occasions we always had a big barbecue. The meat for these barbecues was usually donated by the ranches. The cowboys came from ranches within a radius of one hundred miles and as a rule were very well behaved. Sometimes they made a great deal of noise and shot their six-shooters, but it was all in fun. These celebrations usually lasted two or three days and everybody had a good time."

Walter Taylor recalls the pony races, baseball games, free barbecues, Bones Hooks riding the broncs, the Mollie Bailey Circus that led the parade, and political speeches made by Josepy Bailey in the big circus tent.

Mr. Taylor, who came to Donley County nearly fifty-eight years ago, says, "I was a small boy the first time I took in the Fourth of July celebration in Clarendon. About all I remember now is that my father gave all us boys four bits apiece and we left out early for town. People came in from far and near in wagons, buggies, trains, or horseback. The big event was a barbecue and baseball game, and bicycle endurance race and several cowboy pony races. It was before the days of soda pop so we spent our four bits mostly for red lemonade. Everybody had a good time and went home tired, broke, and dirty. I have attended nearly fifty Fourth of July celebrations since then."

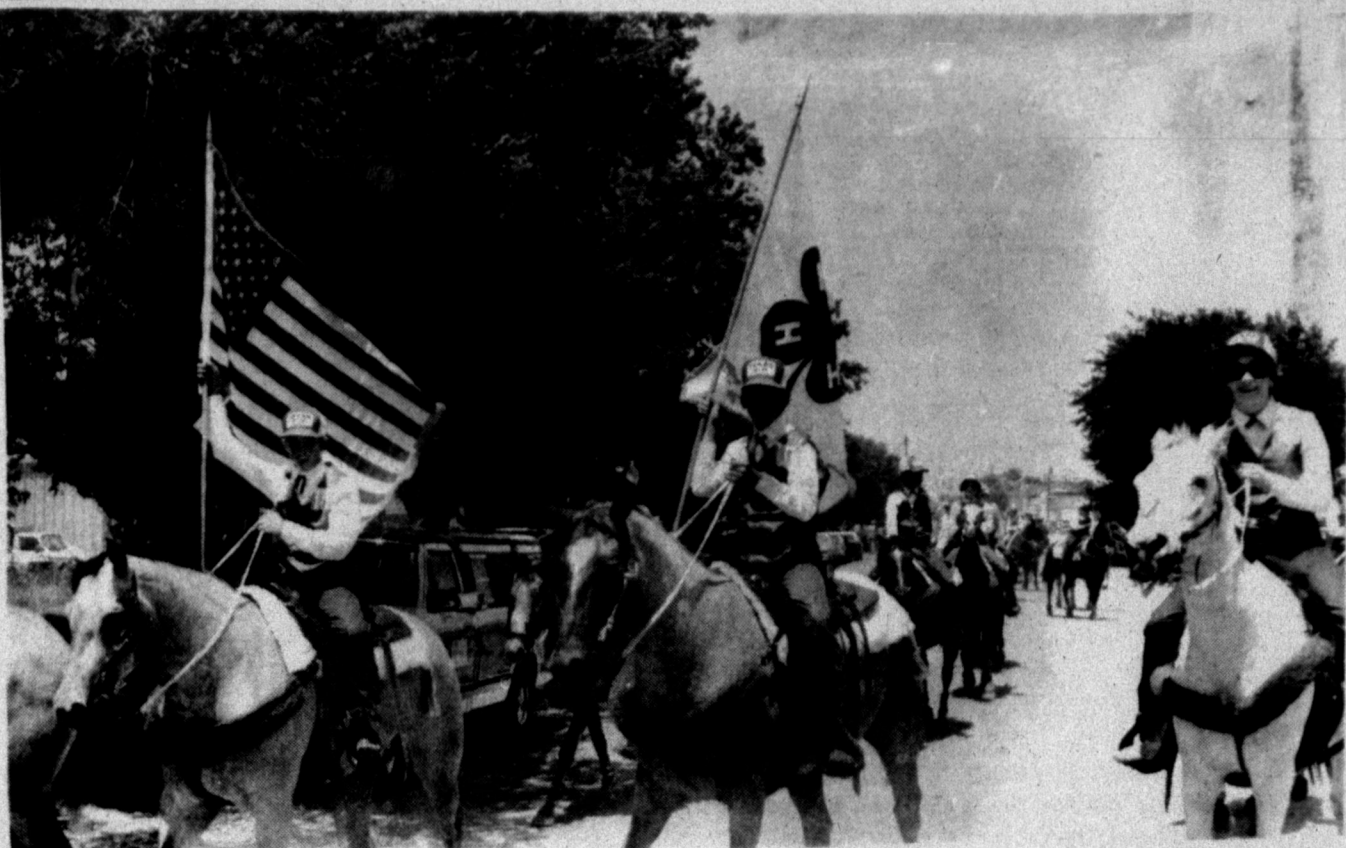

Mrs. Lena Antrobus says that about all she can remember is when they had the celebrations out on the old fair grounds. In those days the town was built mostly on the north side of the track. She remembers baking cakes and pies for days before the big day. She remembers, too, dressing up in red, white, and blue for the parade and how it would rain and the colors would fade and run.

Reminiscing over the celebration days of old, Mrs. Julia Beverly said that the celebrations then really meant something to the people. The women would prepare days ahead for the huge dinners that the men folk would expect. Finally when the day came, the town buzzed with excitement. The women dressed in their finest white dresses and the men in their finest breeches. A large platform was built out near the old fair grounds and people gathered round to hear the patriotic speeches of the day and to hear the band play. Ball games and horse race were about the only attractions other than the fact the Fourth of July meant coming to town and visiting with friends because then the women folk seldom came in more than once or twice a year. Perhaps the first Fourth that Mrs. Beverly remembers celebrating in New Clarendon was in 1889.

Mrs. J.D. Stocking recalls the first celebration held in Clarendon in the early nineties. People came from all parts of the county, brought their lunches and spread them on the Court House lawn. The celebrations then were principally social

July 4th Celebrations Of The Past

Reprinted in part from The Donley County Leader, July 13, 1933.

Celebration of the fourth of July 1879 at Clarendon was successful beyond expectations. Nearly one hundred persons, men, women and children enjoyed the day together. Last year the assemblage was small and very much inferior to the present. H.B. Hawkins was chief of the management and wore his eagles. Mrs. Goodnight, Osborn, Kimbal, Hefflebower and others managed the public feast and spread, probably, the best table ever set in the Pan Handle. Miss Dora Hefflebower with her piano rendered invaluable aid, supported by the choir. Mr. and Mrs. Allan, Hawkins, Copland, Sibert, Osborn, Reckerd and Loogle superintended the salute of 38 guns. The tables were spread in a large unfinished house, and the exercises held beneath a fine arbor or canopy engineered by Mr. Compeland in front of the school house. The day was fair and all manifested an interest in the occasion and in the happiness of others. At nine o'clock the people gathered at the ringing of the bell. E.M. Lyness presided. The crowd sang heartily the old "America". Rev. Mr. Ames and Mr. Allan delivered addresses of more than ordinary interest. "Bugle Blasts" and other appropriate music was well rendered. After the dinner which was free, and of which all partook, followed a racy program of toasts proposed by James T. Otey, Esq., of which the following is an outline:

1. Our nation's birthday - the day we celebrate - Response by Mr. Ames.
2. The president of the United States-Response by Rev. W. A. Allan.
3. Texas the state of our adoption-Jas. H. Parks.
4. The ladies of the frontier-Mrs. N.D. Freeman.

5. Progress; past, present and future-J.S. Rockwell.
 6. The friends we left behind us-David Hefflebower.
 7. Our mothers-J.W. Reckerd.
 8. The future of the Pan Handle of Texas-Wm Bonnyman.
 9. The red man, his destiny-Norman Holcome.
 10. The children, our country's future hope-E.M.Lyness.
- Probably nowhere in the state the "Glorious Fourth" celebrated more of decorum and loyalty and less of whiskey and nonsense than at Clarendon.
- A copy of this, is on file in the Museum at Canyon, Texas.

From 7 affairs, the women being dressed in their best finery and carrying parasols to protect them from the sun. The women who rode horseback all were riding side-saddle. There was no riding astride those days. Pink lemonade stands were everywhere, with the lemonade cooling in huge barrels and dipped out with large iron dippers. The town was always well decorated with flags and a brilliant fireworks display was always had for the nights entertainment.

Interviewing some of the business men and women of the town as to their ideas of our celebrations, there were some differences of opinion, but mostly along the same line of promoting the welfare of the town itself.

Joe Holland says that when he came here twenty-nine years ago, that Clarendon had the best Fourth of July celebration of any town its size anywhere, and that the celebrations now cannot compare with those gone by because they are on a much higher scale. Mr. Holland says that if the free barbecue days could be recalled, that additional crowds could be drawn, that people expect something free wherever they are. "However", Mr. Holland said, "the modern celebrations are improving each year, and they are worth quite a little bit in boosting the town."

Rhoda Weidman is of the opinion that the celebrations really are a good idea. It keeps Clarendon from "getting in a rut," so to speak, and it does stimulate business for two or three weeks before.

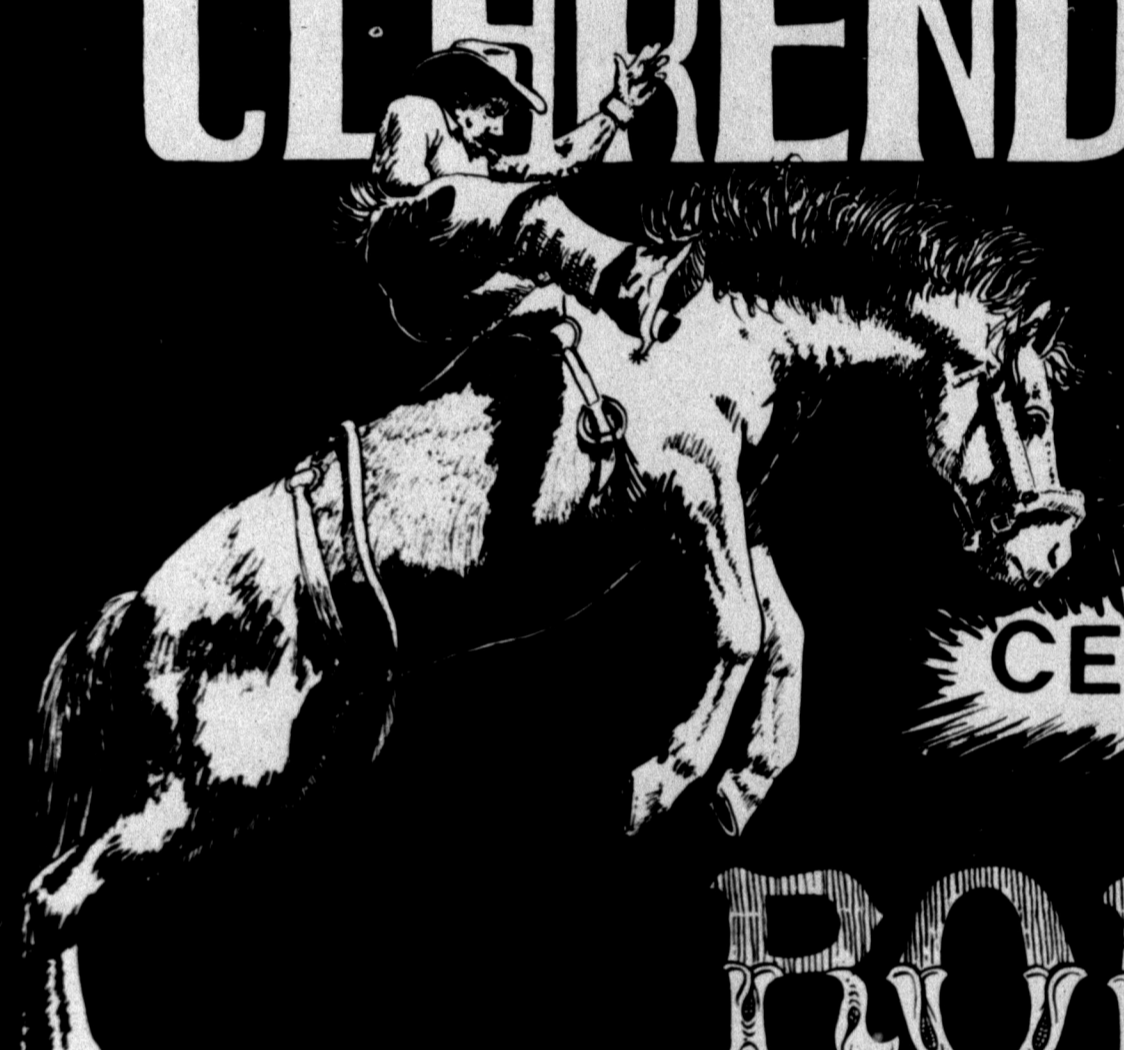

"It's a good thing for the town," Louie Thompson said, many of the business houses derive benefits from it. It makes people know that we are still her, helps to keep the town going."

Mrs. Dick Allen, who has attended every celebration since 1900, says that the celebrations now are just as good as they were then. They are on a larger and different scale but they still stand for the same purpose. Mrs. Allan thinks that the chuck wagon dinner that will be given this year is a good idea. Takes the old time cowboy back many years in memory.

Keeping Clarendon before the people is the main reason that Mrs. Carl Saye is in favor of Clarendon's famous celebrations. Mrs. Saye says that it brings back to Clarendon people who lived here many years ago and have no real opportunity to come back other than to attend these celebrations. She also thinks that they are improving each year and that "they are a very good idea."

And thus we have a picture of Donley County's Fourth of July Celebrations long ago. These colorful celebrations of the past were made successful through the willingness of local people to cooperate in making them so. 1941 holds in store still greater gayety, excitement, and thrills, and promises to be a history-maker for the future "old timers."

sure about the exact date, but that's pretty close."

Since that time people from all over the world have written to Tarzan, Texas, asking for information on the town or sometimes just asking for a postmark.

"I wish I'd started keeping these letters when I started working here," the postmaster commented.

Even so, Mrs. McMorries showed me a two-inch stack of inquiries she had received, some of them from as far away as New Zealand.

Pulled from beneath the rubber band holding the stack of letters together, I looked at one that seemed typical which had been sent by Mike Gray from Stockton, California, on May 20, 1980. He addressed the envelope to "Director, Chamber of Commerce, Tarzan, Texas." Since the hamlet doesn't have any such organization, Postmaster McMorries ended up with the query.

"I am a second grade student at Village Oaks School," the handwritten missal began. "As part of a recent class assignment, I was asked to make up a story telling how your town got its name. I am sending you my paper."

After looking back in the envelope, I did find Master Gray's school paper entitled "How Tarzan, Texas Got Its Name."

With a fertile imagination, the young Californian wrote, "Tarzan went to Texas and the people tried to drown him." Although the Texans in the story didn't seem very hospitable toward their African visitor, I continued reading and to my relief discovered, "It didn't work. They believed he was a god and named the town Tarzan, Texas."

In the accompanying letter, young Mike asked, "Please write to me and explain the real reason for your town's name. Did my story come close to what really happened?"

Taking Mike's letter as I handed it back, Postmaster McMorries remarked, "You'd be surprised how many of these that I get."

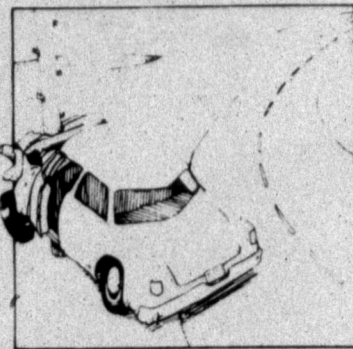

Fishing Report

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department reports that conditions are good at Lake Greenbelt. The water is clear, at normal level at about 79° F. Black bass are biting well on waterdogs, running up to 5 pounds. Crappie are slow to fair at 1 1/2 pounds with eight fish per stringer, taking minnows and nightcrawlers. Catfish are biting well, running up to nine pounds. They are biting water dogs, shrimp and liver near the dam face. TP&W also reports that there are a good number of keeping-size walleyes, running three to seven pounds or 21 to 28 inches in length. Walleyes seem to like drifting or trolled live minnows.

COOKING

From the Armenian shish kabob to the yakitori of Japan, virtually every culture has its favorite version of grilled meat and vegetables on a skewer. What sets these "Hot and Sweet Pepper Beef Kabobs" apart is the spicy basting sauce of bottled Kikkoman Teriyaki Baste & Glaze, onion powder, ginger, chili powder and hot pepper sauce. The teriyaki baste & glaze provides a rich flavor base for the zesty seasonings. And, the sauce gives the meat a deep, rich color, seals in the natural juices and adds a lively "kick" to both the beef and sweet peppers.

HOT AND SWEET PEPPER BEEF KABOBS

- 1 1/2 pounds boneless tender beef, 1 inch thick
- 1 large red bell pepper
- 1 large green bell pepper
- 1/2 cup Kikkoman Teriyaki Baste & Glaze
- 1 teaspoon onion powder
- 1/2 teaspoon ground ginger
- 1/2 teaspoon chili powder
- 1/4 teaspoon hot pepper sauce
- 8 10-inch metal skewers

Cut beef into 1-inch cubes and each bell pepper into 16 pieces. Combine teriyaki baste & glaze, onion powder, ginger, chili powder and hot pepper sauce. Remove and pour 1/3 cup baste & glaze mixture over beef and peppers in large bowl; toss to coat. Thread beef and peppers alternately on skewers, leaving space between pieces. Place skewers on grill 5 inches from hot coals. Cook about 4 minutes on each side (for rare), or to desired doneness, brushing occasionally with remaining baste & glaze mixture. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Tracking Trends

Many entrepreneurs keep an eye on the bottom line and an ear turned to their customers. They sniff out new opportunities and eventually taste success. Then, along comes a trend that ruins their business.

Failure to see a trend early in its formation can cause a business to decline or fail completely. However, recognizing the trend and understanding its potential impact can allow great opportunities for growth and profits. Understanding may be the most important factor.

Trends are often confused with fads. Trends are long-term shifts or movements in demographic or social condition that are measurable over time. Trends may take years to develop and usually make meaningful changes in our lives.

Fads, on the other hand are short lived and usually have no significant impact on our lives. Mini skirts, pet rocks and hot pink windshield wiper blades are examples of fads.

Working Women

A recent report prepared by The Wall Street Journal and American Demographics magazine discusses several current trends. According to the study, working women may have the biggest social trend of the 20th Century. Seventy-eight percent of the women age 35-44 work outside of the home. There are more working women today in every age group than in 1980.

If your business caters to or depends on female shoppers, you may wish to examine your methods of operation. If, for example, you are open from 9 to 5, you may need to change your business hours. Convenient hours is one of the factors necessary for consumers to develop regular buying habits.

Over the last 20 years, I have observed the gradual demise of hundreds of downtown business districts. I believe that the failure of many retail districts to adjust their hours for customer convenience has contributed to the decline.

Retailers are not the only ones who need to watch trends. Manufacturers, wholesalers, distributors and service businesses can benefit from trend identification and analysis. There are many current products and services that are directly attributable to the "working women" trend.

Microwave ovens, day care for children, telephone answering machines and maid services were once considered luxuries. Now, they have become necessities due to the homemaker's hectic schedule, find a way to make the home front a little less frantic and you have a business building strategy.

Growing older

Another trend is the aging of our nation. The segment of our population age 65 and older is growing more than twice as rapidly as the population as a whole. The number of people 65 plus has increased by nearly 23 percent since 1980.

In the next few decades, the baby boom generation will push up the senior citizen count considerably. Some experts predict that more than one-third of the population will be over age 65 by the year 2020. I will be...how about you?

As a natural part of the aging process, the eyesight dims, joints stiffen and reactions slow. Yet, today, seniors are more active than ever. They have time and money to spend. Can you take advantage of these opportunities? Some businesses, because of ignorance or apathy, are actually making senior citizens' lives more difficult. Let me share an example.

A few weeks ago, I visited a small town in the Texas Panhandle. As I sat in the car preparing paperwork from a client visit, I watched the following scene unfold. An elderly shopper struggled up several steep steps without the aid of a handrail and proceeded to pick her way carefully down the buckled and deteriorating sidewalk. The steep steps and uneven sidewalk posed quite a challenge for the failing eyes and frail body.

My immediate concern was the potential injury and possible medical and legal expenses. Later, I realized that the situation also represented one more reason to enjoy the convenience of the nearest chain store.

Every trend offers opportunities for profit or loss. Learn to spot trends early and grow in your business.

DOORPOSTS Follow Me, If You Don't Mind

by Perry Mack Garrison

Hypothetical situation: (an unreal paraphrase of Matthew 9:9) Jesus had just stilled the raging waves of the sea and then had forgiven a man of his sins and healed him of the palsy, all the while being rebuked by the big, bad scribes. He then left the place and saw a man sitting in the tax office; his name was Matthew. Jesus looked at the man and after getting his attention by standing there for long minutes, spoke to him. Jesus said, "Uuuh-hh." He cleared his throat and continued, "Matthew? Uh, if you don't...I mean...if you would like to, well, I'd kind of like you to, uh, follow me. But, if it's too much trouble, I'll understand. Your probably very busy anyway."

Then Matthew sighed and threw down his W-2 and 1040 forms and got up and followed Jesus.

What's wrong with this picture? A. It's a paraphrase, but then I said it would be.

B. It's also written very strangely. C. It just isn't correct, at all. D. All of the above.

If you picked "D" you're absolutely right. But doesn't it sound a bit like today's thinking: "I'll follow Jesus when I'm ready to follow Jesus" or "I just don't have time to follow Jesus right now". You see, Jesus is not a wishy-washy sort of a God/man and never has been. He knows what he wants and knows what he owns. He also knows the thoughts of your heart, explicitly.

Have you ever wondered what caused a very educated, worldly man to just leave his office, forsaking all his duties, and follow a man he didn't know. The possibilities are endless: You could say that he knew who Jesus was and had seen His miracles and had decided beforehand to become a follower of His. Or we could assume that Matthew had some ulterior motive for following Jesus at first.

Now, myself, I see it this way: Matthew had surely heard of this man's miracles but was very confused as to what to believe. So when Jesus walked up to him that day, Matthew was probably very shocked and delighted. Then Jesus looked into Matthew's soul. Matthew knew that instant that He was God. Then when Jesus said "Follow Me," that's all that Matthew needed to hear. The Bible says: "...he arose and followed him." No questions asked!

Jesus is still asking us to "Follow Me", and to be sure, let us understand one thing: It's a commitment; It's a challenge; It's a pleasure. But Jesus will never beg us, He will only love us. He will never trick us, He will only trust us with His name. He will never leave us nor forsake us. And although we never lose our free, God-given choice to accept Him and His life, we must never let it retreat from our minds that "Follow Me" is a commandment.

"Follow you where, Lord?" I said in query.

"What did you call me?" Jesus asked.

"I...I called you Lord."

"Then why ask me where, just follow me!"

Hedley News

by Jon Leggitt

Hedley news is scant this week, due to the early publication of the paper. Have a safe, cool Fourth of July, and tell us about your holiday activities for next week's edition.

Several Hedley High School students attended Cheerleading Camp held at Texas Tech University, June 10-14. Making the trip were cheerleaders Amanda Ward, Angie Longan, and Dena Moore; mascot Angel "Ollie the Owl" Bramblett; and faculty sponsor Jan Farris. In spite of suffering a bit of homesickness on the second day, the girls reported having lots of fun and learning new techniques for the upcoming basketball season. The cheerleaders won eight ribbons; the mascot received four-two in the "outstanding" and two in the "excellent" category.

We're glad to see Joyce Boliver out and about again after suffering a foot injury in a fall.

First Baptist Church moved last week's Wednesday evening service to Panfork Baptist Encampment north of Wellington, where Pastor Rob Lackey and several of the church's youth were spending the week. It was the first time that most of the Hedleyans had seen, and worshiped in, the beautiful new tabernacle at the camp.

Gina Bolin from Texhoma, granddaughter of Margaret and Otis Holland, also attended the camp. She visited in Hedley for several days afterward. Margaret visited relatives in Amarillo on Friday and Saturday.

Members of the Hedley Fire Department enjoyed a supper at the John Lee Bell ranch Thursday evening. The supper was held in recognition of the fine work of the fire departments and law-enforcement officers of the county.

Cody Yandell from Amarillo and Nolie Moore from Lelia Lake visited with Mr. and Mrs. Edgel Tisdale on Friday.

THANK YOU

We would like to express our appreciation to each and everyone of you who showed caring and concern by the telephone calls, visits, sympathy cards, food, flowers, and especially your prayers during the loss of our mother and grandmother. A special thanks to Dr. Gilkey, his nurses, and our wonderful paramedics.

Also our special thanks to the ladies of the First Christian Church and the Senior Citizens for the love they showed.

We are very grateful for your friendship and love.

The Myrtle Hill Family

Tracie Shields and family would like to express their gratitude to our Emergency Medical Team and Rescue Unit Personal who responded to the accident on June 24th.

We appreciate your prompt action and moral support at that time. We also want to thank our family and friends who showed their concern and love. We appreciate all who helped in any way, more than we can ever say.

Shields family
We would like to thank everyone who visited, sent cards, and took the time to let us know they were thinking of us these last few days. The back surgery went well, and the patient lived! He's home - stop by and say hello.

Sincerely,
Elinor and Stanlev McKee

We would like to thank everyone for making our 80th birthday party for Mrs. G.L. Leeper a big success. Many friends, relatives and acquaintances attended. We are grateful for a great time by all.

Thanks again,
Mrs. G.L. Leeper, and family, grandchildren, and great grandchildren

We wish to thank everyone for their kind expressions of sympathy in the loss of my mother, Rose Osburn. Your prayers, visits, cards, flowers and food were appreciated more than words can ever express. Thanks again to all our many friends.

B.B. Osburn and the family of Rose Osburn
