THIS WEEK

- 2 Hospice workers provide a valuable service when a family needs support.
- 4 Retired teachers are still active and interested in local youth.
- 6 The Lady Broncos breeze through the district cross-country meet.
- 7 And the Donley County 4-H cleans up.

All this and much more as The Enterprise reports in this week's voter's edition!

Voters head to polls next Tuesday

Donley County voters will head to the polls next Tuesday to decide three local races and make their voices heard regarding several state positions.

In the only county-wide contested race, County/District Clerk Fay Vargas is facing a challenge from Janette Cox Wagner. Vargas is running on the Democratic ticket, and Wagner is on the Republican ticket.

Voters in Precincts 3&4 will choose a new Justice of the Peace to replace the retiring Ann Kennedy.

Democrat Colleen Owens will face Republican Denise Bertrand for that office.

Precinct 4 voters will also select a new commissioner to take the seat occupied by the retiring Bob Trout. Dan Sawyer is running for that office as a Republican, and Brad Dalton is running as a Democrat.

Other local officials are running without opposition, including County Judge Jack Hall, County Treasurer Wanda Smith, Precinct 1&2 Justice of the Peace Connie Havens, and Precinct 2 Commissioner Donnie Hall.

Precinct 3&4 voters also have an unopposed write-in candidate for the constable's job in that part of the county. Doug Wright is seeking that currently vacant position.

Also of local interest, Clarendon native and United States Congressman Mac Thornberry (R) is being challenged by Libertarian John T. Burwell, Jr., and independent candidate Keith Dyer.

Voters will also cast ballots for governor, lieutenant governor, attorney general, state comptroller, and several other offices.

A sample ballot for local voters is printed on page six of this week's ENTERPRISE.

Early voting continues through this Friday, October 29, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays in the Donley County Clerk's office in the Courthouse Annex.

Polling next Tuesday will take place from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m., and voters should check their voter's registration card to find out which of the following is their polling place:

Precinct 101 – Bairfield Activity Center – Clarendon College.

Precinct 102 – Howardwick City Hall.

Precinct 201 – County Courthouse.

Precinct 301 – Assembly of God Fellowship Hall.

Precinct 303 – Hedley Lions Club.

Precinct 401 – Family Life Center – Clarendon Church of Christ.

Local election results will be posted Tuesday night on www.ClarendonLive.com.

CC will offer MIP class next week

MIP classes will be offered November 3 and 4 from 6 to 9:30 p.m. in the Courson RFO Building on the Clarendon College campus.

These classes are taught by Jody Green and are certified by the Texas Department of State Health Services.

Attendance is required both days of classes. The class is limited to the first 25 students and the class must have three students in order to make.

Pre-enrollment is required. The cost of the class is $55 cash only.

Confederate widow to be memorialized

The Sabine Pass Chapter #2459 of the United Daughters of the Confederacy of Wellington will have a memorial for Betty Langford Smith on November 9 at 10 a.m. at Rowe Cemetery.

Smith's UDC grave marker will be dedicated at that time.

The widow of Captain Nat Smith, she was a charter member of the Julia Jackson Chapter #141 in Ft. Worth in 1915. She died in 1928 and is laid to rest beside her husband.

The public is invited to attend.

Meeting will plan Thanksgiving meal

A Community Thanksgiving Meal organization meeting will occur November 4 at 6:30 p.m. at the Donley County Senior Citizens Center in Clarendon. If you are interested in helping with the Community Thanksgiving Meal, please call 205-1038.

Republican Party to host election rally

Everyone is invited to an election night rally held by local Republicans on Tuesday, November 2, at the Bronco Burger from 8 to 10 p.m.

This event is an opportunity to visit with the Republican candidates and get updates on the election as state and national counts come in.

Agency to provide caregivers a day off

The Area Agency on Aging will host a Caregiver Fun Day on Thursday, November 11, from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The "break or respite" form your caregiver duties will be held at the Region 16 Education Service Center (ESC) at 5800 Bell Street in Amarillo, and lunch provided by Olivia's Angels, BSA Home Care & Hospice Registration is required by November 5. Respite care will be available, and the deadline to request respite care is October 31.

To RSVP or to inquire about respite care contact Teana Waller at the Area Agency on Aging at 806-331-2227 or 1-800-642-6008.

Up in the air

Former Clarendon High School athlete Danny McCampbell catches a pass for the Broncos during Sunday's alumni football game held here against Memphis. The game was very well attended by fans from both teams, and Memphis went home with the bragging rights and the 22-0 victory.

District court delivers three convictions

The 100th District Court heard three pleas resulting in convictions when it met in Clarendon October 7.

District Attorney Luke Inman, assisted by Greg Buckley, prosecuted the cases for the State of Texas with the Honorable Judge Stuart Messer presiding.

A total of $9,000 in fines was assessed as a result of the pleas that in addition to the fines, the defendants were required to pay a total of $1,128 in court costs.

Bradley Ray Southerland pleaded true to allegations listed in the State's Motion to Adjudicate Guilt of Defendant and was convicted and sentenced to ten years in the Institutional Division of the Texas Department of Criminal Justice.

Southerland, a 36-year-old Wellington resident, was originally indicted by the Collingsworth County Grand Jury on February 22, 2010.

On March 5, 2010, Southerland pleaded guilty to the second degree felony offense of aggravated assault with a deadly weapon that occurred on November 7, 2009, in Collingsworth County.

The 100th Judicial District Community Supervision Department forwarded a violation report to the District Attorney's office on September 2, 2010. The State filed the motion to adjudicate on September 16, 2010, alleging four violations of community supervision.

Aggravated assault with a deadly weapon is defined as a 3rd offense in the Texas Code of Criminal Procedure, requiring Southerland to complete at least 50 percent of the sentence before becoming parole eligible, according to Inman.

Southerland pleaded true to all violations contained in the State's motion and was sentenced to ten years in the TDCJ. Southerland is also required to pay $376 in court costs to Collingsworth County, and a $5,000 fine.

Jeffrey Neil Henson pleaded to two third degree felonies resulting in two, eight-year convictions.

Henson pleaded true to allegations listed in the State's Motion to Revoke Community Supervision and was convicted and sentenced to eight years in the Institutional Division of the Texas Department of Criminal Justice.

On March 8, 2010, Henson originally pleaded guilty to the third degree felony offense of driving while intoxicated 3rd or more that occurred on September 19, 2009, in Hall County.

Saddles take center stage at museum

CANYON – Horses and cowboys have a long history in the Panhandle Plains, from the earliest Spanish explorers and wild herds to the cowboys and working horses of today. The Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum presents an exhibit, Not Just for Show: Working Saddles from the Permanent Collection, and an event Wild Horses in the West, honoring both.

On Thursday, November 11, from 4:00 to 6:00 p.m., in the Hazlewood Lecture Hall, wild horse experts will discuss where wild horses came from, how they are surviving today and their influence on the land and people.

Following the program, PPHM will host a reception and gallery talk for "Not Just for Show: Working Saddles from the Permanent Collection."

For information or to RSVP call (806) 651-2233.

Art appreciation

Carol Hinton and Frances Skelton study "Sitting Brain" by Melanie Dunn of Amarillo during the second annual Clarendon Arts Festival last weekend at the Donley County Activity Center. Les Beaux Arts Club organized the festival and reports that $13,875 in art sales were generated by the gallery compared to $7,850 last year. Estimated attendance over the three-day event was 1,678, including more than 600 area students who attended the educational Fine Arts Day program on Friday.

Methodist Church to celebrate 100 years

The First United Methodist Church of Clarendon is inviting the public to attend a 100th anniversary celebration next weekend, November 6-7.

Established in 1888, the church started out at the southeast corner of Fourth and Kearney Streets, but the congregation quickly outgrew that wood frame building. So in 1910, the present building was erected at the corner of Fifth and Jefferson.

That same year, the building, which still serves the church today, was the birthplace of the present Northwest Texas and Central Texas annual Methodist Conferences.

To commemorate the opening of this beautiful structure and the organization of the two conferences, the First United Methodist Church will hold a celebration Saturday and Sunday, November 6 and 7.

The Saturday program will feature Dr. Tom Fuller, General Evangelist for the United Methodist Church, who will discuss the influence of John Wesley and how his teachings apply to Christianity today. The program begins at 6:30 p.m. and also will include a selection of music that will span the generations since 1910.

Sunday service on November 6 will begin at 9:45 a.m., and former pastors have been invited to attend and participate. Conference representatives will also be on hand as the church building is rededicated and a special message is brought by Dr. David Murrah, the author of "Are We Yet Alive?": The Centennial History of the Northwest Texas Conference.

Following the service, a meal will be served in the Fellowship Hall.

CC candidates interviewing

Clarendon College is winding up the search for its next president this week as finalists make visits to the campus and meet the public.

Dr. Steven Hilterbran of Baton Rouge Community College in Louisiana and Dr. Gary Stretcher of Lamar State College in Port Arthur were here earlier this week.

Two candidates will be on campus October 28 for interviews and receptions. Dr. David Smith, President of Brewton-Parker College in Mt. Vernon, Georgia, will be in an open forum at 11 a.m. in the Harned Sisters Fine Arts Center; and Dr. Phil E. Shirley, President of Southeast Arkansas College in Pine Bluff, Ark., and former CC dean of instruction, will meet the public at the Bairfield Activity Center at 9 a.m.

Dr. Roger Stacy, Immediate Past President of Northern Oklahoma College in Tonkawa, Okla., will close the week on Friday with a reception at the BAC at 11 a.m.

The CC Board of Regents will meet in called session next Thursday, November 4, to name the next president.

Republican win may only slow Progressives

By Dr. Marvin Folkertsma

Karl Marx once commented that voters' choices in a democracy constituted little more than deciding which bourgeois party would oppress them the most. The old misanthrope's views on such matters are usually worth ignoring, but he had a point with regard to American elections since the New Deal, because our two- and four-year rituals in choosing officeholders have affected only the rate that progressive-socialist policies have been enacted, and little more (except in foreign policy, which is a different matter).

Thus, during Democratic administrations, such as those of Lyndon Johnson and Barack Obama, federal government expansion speeds up; during Republican administrations, like that of Ronald Reagan, the rate of growth slows a bit. But trend lines remain the same, until finally the progressive dream of rendering elections irrelevant becomes a reality. Of course, political theatre will continue—the hoopla, marches, banners, balloons, and puerile advertisements—but none of it will matter. Indeed, elections already have about as much relevance to domestic policy as the two-minute hate in Orwell's "1984," in that they siphon off some of the mass's rage without having any effect on changing the social or political system in the direction that voters want.

This means that all the progressives have to do is to remain patient for a few years. They can snub their noses at those periodic voter rants that are ostensibly about "sending a message to Washington," to a cast of characters who issue commands but hear nothing and care only about their own jobs. Thus a Republican victory in November 2010 means that the progressive agenda is postponed a short time, perhaps giving American business a small window of opportunity to recover from two years of assaults against free enterprise by the federal government. The economy may recover enough for President Obama to take credit, enabling him to win a second term in 2012, possibly with new majorities in Congress. Then round two begins, with additional huge increases in the size and scope of the federal government, all supported by increased income taxes and a new Value Added Tax to stave off national bankruptcy.

So, the progressive establishment loses a battle—the 2010 election—but wins the war, which is ownership of a gargantuan central government that hovers over a defeated and dispirited population.

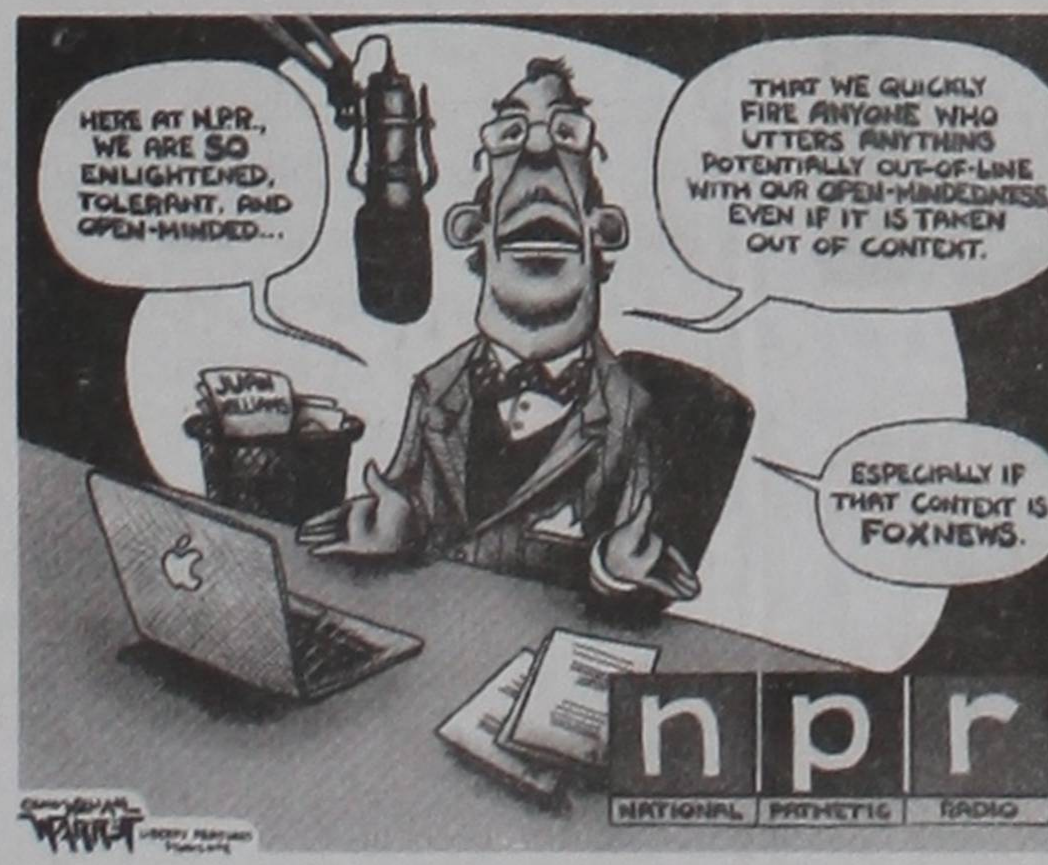

For their opponents, the sequence is win-lose, and for America and the world it's the extinguishing of the last best hope on earth. American exceptionalism dies, and the country becomes just another senescent welfare state in decline, only bigger.

An apocalyptic scenario for many Americans, to be sure, but one that is based on political realities that many adherents to constitutional government need to learn. For instance, political scientists often refer to an "iron triangle," which consists of a public agency, a private interest group, and a congressional subcommittee. The American social and political system is a colossal version of this, embracing government, media, and academia, a combination that is virtually impervious to change—absent, that is, a political revolution that replaces 90 percent of Congress instead of the paltry five or ten percent turnover that usually takes place. Then the transformation would have to be huge, not marginal, involving, for starters, a reduction of the federal establishment at the same rate of its explosive expansion over the past decade—in trillion-dollar hunks.

Resistance would be massive and vicious, employing the panoply of public-sector unions and the enviro-IRS regulatory complex, which are to the progressives what the Communist Party and KGB were to the Soviet leadership, and used for similar purposes—mobilization and intimidation. Media and academia would do their part, accusing progressives' opponents of being heartless, radical, and mentally deranged. And likely this establishment would win, because of its superior organizational skills and virtual monopoly of power at the heights of the American social and political system.

Of course, there's always another election in the offing for the country's disenfranchised subjects who still wish to "send a message to Washington." Two-minute hate, anyone?

— Dr. Marvin Folkertsma is a professor of political science and Fellow for American Studies with The Center for Vision & Values at Grove City College. The author of several books, his latest release is a high-energy novel titled "The Thirteenth Commandment."

Hospice workers fill a vital role

Hospice is not a place but a concept of care. It is designed to give supportive care to people in the final phase of a terminal illness and focuses on comfort, dignity, and quality of life, rather than cure. The goal is to enable patients to be comfortable and free of pain, so that they live each day as fully as possible.

Over the many years I've worked with hospice, I have heard managers of facilities state that they do not need our hospice services for their patients, saying that they will provide their own hospice. I always stop short and question, in my mind, what hospice care means to them. For hospice care isn't simply pain management at the end of a person's life, or a room set aside for a patient and their family, but a mosaic of services provided by an educated and well-trained team. This team is made up of doctors, nurses, hospice aides, social workers, chaplains, counselors, and trained volunteers who work together to focus on the dying person's needs. This team is designed to provide specialized care for the physical, emotional, social and spiritual needs of the patient—to care for the whole person.

The hospice team also recognizes the special needs of family members or loved ones. Hospice staff provides support for both patient and family during this difficult time. Support may include family or individual counseling, teaching of care giving skills, prayer, telephone calls to loved ones, companionship and help from volunteers, and much more.

If a facility aims to control pain and symptoms in a person with a limited life expectancy, that of course is necessary and desirable. But it alone is not hospice. While hospice does strive to control pain and symptoms, it provides a great deal more. Hospice is ideally brought in early enough to help the patient sort out what he wants the rest of his life to be about—to look at how he would like to spend his days. It would provide time for him to do the things that bring enjoyment, to say the things that need saying, to make peace with the end of the earthly and prepare for the eternal. If a facility sets a room aside and provides symptom management but doesn't provide a social worker to help with end of life decisions and final preparations, a chaplain to sit beside the person while he asks the often unanswerable questions, a counselor to help him review his life and make sense of paths taken and opportunities missed, then it isn't hospice in the pure sense of the word. If a team of professionals isn't available to talk straight but lovingly, to hold a hand or bathe a body if needed, to call a pastor to visit, then however helpful it may be, it is not hospice. Hospice is a team providing an array of services—a team that works together with patients and families to identify and solve problems, to explore options and open doors, to provide education about end of life issues.

And finally, if the effort to control pain and symptoms, or the room set aside is offered without extended bereavement care, then those left behind are short-changed. A life may end, but the living continue on without their loved one, and it is a long and lonely road. Hospice bereavement services extend a minimum of 13 months after a death—and often much, much longer—to support the family as they walk their grief journey. We recognize that the second year of grief is often extremely difficult and we remain available throughout that time. Programs are provided for children and families at no cost, and may include children's grief camps and individual or family counseling. Support groups, social luncheons and activities, holiday seminars, and annual Celebrations of Life to honor and remember loved ones are lovingly offered. Programs are as varied as the hospices that provide them, and are usually tailored to meet the needs of areas we serve.

I believe what sets hospice apart from other organizations and agencies that provide care at the end of life are:

- the team approach that provides educated and trained professionals to compassionately care for the whole person—physically, socially, emotionally, and spiritually
- specialists in pain and symptom management with state of the art practices,
- and compassionate and prolonged bereavement care.

If you are offered anything less than the services I've described, it is not hospice. It may be good, and it may be compassionately provided, but it is incomplete. And you and your loved one deserve more.

"SHOVEL-READY" JOB

New rule hurts small businesses

One tiny and unrelated provision that was tucked into the new health care law will cause a major paperwork burden for nearly 40 million American businesses beginning in 2012. Under the law, businesses large and small will be required to file an IRS 1099 reporting form for every business-to-business transaction that exceeds $600. This adds another layer of regulation for employers that are already struggling in this economy.

Prior to passage of the health care law, businesses had been required to file a 1099 form only when purchasing more than $600 worth of a service from unincorporated vendors, such as freelance graphic artists or self-employed consultants. This original tax law was written to make sure individuals working in service related industries or on a contract basis would report and pay taxes on their earnings.

But the provision in the health care law expands this reporting requirement to now cover all transactions with other businesses, including the purchase of both goods and services. So, when a company buys $600 worth of office supplies from Office Depot or Staples, it must file a form. If a small business owner purchases a plane ticket from Dallas to Denver for a meeting, she will have to submit a form if that ticket is more than $600. When a company pays its rent, invests in new equipment, or simply stocks up on paper towels and hand soap—it will have to account to the federal government. And so it will go for each and every purchase that exceeds the reporting threshold.

One study found that small businesses will go from filing an average of ten 1099 forms per year to 200—meaning the volume of paperwork would increase by 2,000 percent!

Unfortunately, those especially vulnerable to the negative impact of this requirement are the ones who are already hurting most in our economic climate—small businesses. Corporations and larger companies will see their operating costs rise, but many of them have dedicated bookkeepers or full accounting departments, enabling them to more easily take on the heavier workload. But most small businesses will not be so fortunate. Already scarce resources and stretched workforces will have to be diverted from productive business activities to cumbersome reporting tasks. Rather than focusing on company expansion, job creation, and wage growth, a business owner might find himself mired in the work of bureaucratic compliance. Ultimately, this provision will slow job creation at a time that we should be doing everything possible to encourage and accelerate it.

Even the IRS' own National Taxpayer Advocate division cautioned that the federal tax agency would face significant challenges in processing and capitol comment

by sen. kay bailey hutchison

analyzing the enormous volume of 1099 forms. In a report to Congress, the IRS predicted high incidences of improper penalty assessment resulting in wasted time and effort on the part of the agency and taxpayers alike.

Many business owners, rightly upset about the heavy burden of this excessive reporting requirement, have asked me what this tax provision has to do with health care. After all, the provision was slipped into the bill that proponents claimed would bring relief to small businesses struggling with rising health care costs. As far as I can tell, this has nothing to do with health care—except that the federal government is looking high and low for revenue to pay for the $2.6 trillion dollar bill. The Congressional Budget Office reports the expanded 1099 requirement will generate $17 billion in tax revenue over ten years. The rule, along with 17 other tax hikes written into the law, will together raise taxes in America by $500 billion over ten years.

This onerous provision inside a heavy-handed health care law is another example of an overgrown government that is becoming too intrusive and too expensive. I cosponsored an amendment to repeal the 1099 provision, but it failed to pass. I will work during the next Congress to reverse the effects of this disastrous bill. We must work toward the right reforms. Reforms that will actually lower costs for patients—not raise them. Reforms that will strengthen small businesses—not stifle them.

Court: Pleas result in several convictions

The State filed the motion to revoke on September 1, 2010, alleging five violations of community supervision after receiving the violation report on August 19, 2010.

One of those violations was for another DWI offense while on probation that occurred on July 15, 2010. Henson pleaded guilty to the complaint and information filed by Inman on October 6, 2010 for the additional third degree felony offense.

Henson pleaded true to all violations contained in the State's motion and was sentenced to eight years in the TDCJ, along with pleading guilty to the new DWI offense. Henson is required to pay $752 in court costs to Hall County, and a $4,000 fine.

On October 18, the court met in Panhandle and heard 13 pleas, resulting in eight convictions and five deferred adjudications.

Inman, assisted by Scott Sherwood, prosecuted the cases with Judge Messer presiding.

A total of $43,500 in fines was assessed as a result of the pleas that took place on October 18, $9,500 of which was paid in full to the Carson County Clerk's Office on that date. In addition to the fines, the defendants were required to pay a total of $4,321 in court costs and $840 in restitution.

Christopher Lee Allred pleaded true to allegations listed in the State's Motion to Adjudicate Guilt of Defendant and was convicted and sentenced to two, 10-year sentences in the Institutional Division of the Texas Department of Criminal Justice.

Marlon Dwayne Taylor was convicted of the Class A Misdemeanor offense of possession of marijuana. Taylor was convicted and sentenced to one day in the Carson County Jail.

Jesse Joseph Godinez Jr. was placed on probation for a period of four years for the third degree felony offense of possession of marihuana. Godinez pleaded guilty and was placed on deferred adjudication for the offense.

Shane Allen Nowka was placed on probation for a period of two years for the third degree felony offense of possession of marihuana. Nowka pleaded guilty and was placed on deferred adjudication for the offense.

Luis Alfonso Ruiz Vega was placed on probation for a period of five years for the state jail felony offense of money laundering. Vega was convicted and sentenced to two years in the State Jail Division of the TDCJ, but the sentence was probated for a period of five years.

Bilal Jamal Woodard was placed on probation for a period of two years for the second degree felony offense of possession of marihuana. Woodard was convicted and sentenced to ten years in the Institutional Division of the TDCJ, but the sentence was probated for a period of two years.

Kimberly Michelle Newman was placed on probation for a period of three years for the second degree felony offense of possession of certain chemicals with intent to manufacture a controlled substance. Newman pleaded guilty and was placed on deferred adjudication for the second degree felony offense.

Zachary Wade Skinner was placed on probation for a period of five years for the second degree felony offense of possession of certain chemicals with intent to manufacture a controlled substance. Skinner pleaded guilty and was placed on deferred adjudication for the second degree felony offense.

Joseph Ben Willis was convicted of the Class A Misdemeanor offense of assault. Willis was convicted and sentenced to six months in the Carson County Jail, but the sentence was probated for a period of one year.

Tyrone Woods Campbell was convicted of the Class A Misdemeanor offense of possession of marihuana. Campbell was convicted and sentenced to one day in the Carson County Jail.

Iris Ramona Douglas was placed on probation for a period of three years for the third degree felony offense of possession of marihuana. Douglas pleaded guilty and was placed on deferred adjudication for the offense.

Donnell Lamarris Spanks was placed on probation for a period of five years for the third degree felony offense of possession of marihuana. Spanks was convicted and sentenced to ten years in the Institutional Division of the TDCJ, but the sentence was probated for a period of five years.

Donley County Fire Meeting!

A prayer vigil for our country will be held Monday, November 1 • 12 - 12:30 p.m.
At the Donley County Courthouse Lawn

FOCUS: For forty days, starting September 20, leading up to the elections in November, please pray for our nation, its leaders and its people, to repent and turn back to the God this country once feared. Pray earnestly for the Holy Spirit to sweep across this nation and instill deep conviction in the hearts of many to stand firm in the Lord and His truth.

"Keep the Fire Burning"

1 Thessalonians 5:16-19 "Be joyful always; pray continually; give thanks in all circumstances, for this is God's will for you in Christ Jesus. Do not put out the Spirit's fire."

Retired School Personnel visits local schools

Gayle Hankins, on behalf of the Donley County Retired School Personnel Association, visited Mrs. Potts' Kindergarten class in Hedley and with Mrs. White's and Mrs. Starnes' Kindergarten classes in Clarendon last Tuesday.

She presented each student a book entitled Three Billy Goats Gruff, and while there, she also read to them The Very Friendly Firefly.

The members of the Donley County Retired School Personnel Association are still interested in the students of Donley County and their academic achievement.

So this local unit of retired teachers participates in the Children's Book Project each year.

This year they donated a new book to 43 Kindergarten students in this county.

Gayle Hankins reads to Mrs. Potts' Kindergarten class in Hedley.

CISD acception GT nominations

Clarendon High School and Clarendon Junior High are accepting nominations for their Gifted & Talented Programs through Friday, October 29.

Both programs, high school (grades 9-12) and junior high (grades 6-8), serve students who perform at or show the potential for performing at a remarkably high level of accomplishment.

The purpose of the Gifted and Talented program is to provide an educational climate in which gifted and talented students will develop mentally, socially, and emotionally.

If you wish to nominate a student for this program or would like more information, please contact Linde Shadle, Clarendon CISD Gifted & Talented Coordinator, at 874-3241.

All nomination forms must be completed and returned to the student's campus office by October 29, 2010.

CISD Board approves changes to GT prog.

The Clarendon ISD Board of Trustees met in regular session October 18.

Among the business on the board's agenda, trustees approved changes to the compensation and benefits policies as presented and also accepted changes to the school's Gifted & Talented program.

Administrative reports were given by Athletic Director Gary Jack, CHS Principal Larry Jeffers, CJH Principal John Taylor, Elementary Principal Mike Word, Guidance Counselor Ken Baxter, Special Programs Counselor Linde Shadle, and Superintendent Monty Hysinger.

The board also met in closed session for about nine minutes in a telephone conference with an attorney for a legal update.

4-H Fall Carnival to be held October 30

The Donley County 4-H Fall Carnival and All-You-Can-Eat Homemade Chili Supper will be held this Saturday, October 30, from 5 to 9 p.m. at the new Donley County Activity Center.

Come and have an old fashion spooky good time with lots of games and good eating, pop corn balls, and cake walks along with a haunted house.

Admission is free, and game tickets are five for $1. Tickets for the chili supper are $4 for kids and $6 for adults.

Halloween Carnival to be held at country club Sunday

Halloween is coming next weekend. Take the kids trick-or-treating in Clarendon Saturday night then bring them to the Country Club in Howardwick Sunday for a fun Halloween carnival. They will have a spookhouse and all kinds of games with a Halloween twist, such as pin the legs on a spider, catch-the-ghost, and also an eyeball hunt at 7:30. Make that short drive and have a fun night from 6-9 p.m. with your family.

Did you know Halloween is among the oldest holidays? The day has its ancient roots with the Celts over 2000 years ago.

November 1 was celebrated as their New Year and they believed the dead came to life the night of October 31, freely roaming the land, causing trouble, and ruining crops. They built huge sacred bonfires and dressed in costume with masks to disguise themselves and ward off these spirits. This holiday, known as Samhain, merged into the Roman Catholic holidays of All-Souls Day and All-Saints Day, then into Halloween.

Americans spend about 6.9 billion dollars a year on Halloween, making it the second largest commercial holiday. Keep your children safe and have fun.

Well, it is time to vote again, this time for governor. If you won't be here or simply want to vote before Tuesday, November 2, you may take advantage of early voting at the Courthouse Annex in Clarendon. Whatever you do, please vote. It is sad when a small majority of voters make decisions such as who will be governor, but there are local elections also, and they matter on a more personal level. You may think your vote doesn't count; but when 85 percent of the voters feel that way, then 15 percent have decided who will govern. So mark your calendar for November 2 to vote. The booths are open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. no excuses.

The weather-guessers on TV told us a week in advance it was going to rain, and this time they were right. It started Thursday afternoon and moved out Friday, leaving over three inches in the water bucket.

Hedley installing new water lines in town

New water lines are being installed at Hedley. We have no idea how old some of them are. This is wonderful for Hedley.

Also, the City Hall is selling cookie dough for the Rowe Cemetery Fund. Please call Jason or Holly at 856-5241 if you would like cookie dough.

The Hedley Methodist Church is growing and welcomes everyone. David O'Dell has been having a youth group on Wednesday nights with a meal, devotional, and games. Last Wednesday, they had about 50 kids there.

They got out and about town and did scavenger hunts and other games.

The Hedley Senior Citizens will be hosting flu shots on November 8, 2010 from 10:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m.

Recipe: Chicken & Broccoli Pasta : 3 tablespoons olive oil, 1 pound skinless, boneless chicken breast halves/cut into 1 inch pieces, 1 tablespoon chopped onion, 2 cloves garlic, chopped, 2 (14.5 ounce) cans diced tomatoes, 2 cups fresh broccoli florets, salt and pepper to taste, 1 pinch dried oregano, 18 ounces dry penne pasta, 1/4 cup fresh basil leaves, cut into thin strips, 2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese.

In a large skillet over medium heat, warm oil and add chicken; cook until slightly brown. Add onion and garlic to cook for about 5 minutes or until garlic is golden and onions are translucent.

Add tomatoes, broccoli, salt, pepper and oregano; stir well and bring to a boil. Cover and turn down heat to simmer for about 10 minutes. Meanwhile, bring a large pot of lightly salted water to a boil. Add pasta and cook for 8 to 10 minutes or until tender; drain and add back into pot. Pour chicken sauce into pot and mix well. Add basil and toss well; top with Parmesan cheese. Serve.

The Classy Class, Part 7

Seventh teenagers hit the awkward stage, 1955-56

Editor's Note: This is a continuation of the class history of the Clarendon High School Class of 1961 as compiled by Jo Shaller. Visit the Burton Memorial Library to read the complete, unabridged version of the history.

Simply seventh is an ironic title for this grade and age. Seventh graders are neither fish nor fowl. They don't know from day to day what or who they are. Hormones are turning them wrong side out. Back when we were seventh graders we certainly didn't have this wisdom. However, now that most of us have watched our own children and grandchildren at this strange age, we recognize the idiosyncrasies.

Looking over our class pictures I see two PKs (preachers' kids), Ruth Harmonson from Martin Baptist Church and Wanda Ryan from the Methodist Church. Juanita Matthews and Marvin Hall were back. Jerry Don Riley and Brenda Pool were new kids in town, and Barbara McBrayer and Jerry Hicks joined us. Johnny Rattan decided to spend the year attending the Ashtola school. Mrs. Nellie Grady Hoggatt and Mr. Christian were our class sponsors. Mrs. Hoggatt was the Art Teacher and while we enjoyed the leather tooling and paper mache, we gave her a hard time. During the lunch hour, Nellie kept the shades pulled on the south and west windows of her classroom. Scandalous stories circulated. Enough said. Mr. Christian was the football and boys' basketball coach. He also was supposed to be our Texas History teacher that year. I say "supposed to" because Mr. Christian had a medical problem of falling asleep midsentence. While he slept the class away, we went quietly about our own activities which were usually giggling and trying to see how loud we could get before he would wake up and pretend he hadn't missed out on half of the class. We didn't learn much Texas History, but he was a character for our own history. I also remember parents being concerned about him driving the bus to and from ball games.

Marilyn Stewart was elected seventh grade cheerleader to join sixth grader Sue Yankee and the big girls Judy Johnson and Jo Ann Woods from down Brice way. They led a large pep squad all dressed in maroon skirts and white tops. We yelled for our valiant football team. Members of the squad included: Dennis Bradshaw and Bill Hermes-meyer as fullbacks; Kenneth Housden, Neel Carter and Ronnie Hall, quarterbacks; Lowell Hall, Dewey Wiison, Don Hudgins, Steve Mills, Kenneth Morris and James Kay as half backs; Lee Phillips, W. N. Elam, Ronnie Tyra, Tommy Messer, tackles; Jerry Allen, Sandy Skelton, Billy Neal Spier, George Mays, Jerry Hicks, Bobby Hutton, Larry King, Robbie Selvidge, Wayne McAnear, James McAnear, Bob Shull, Charles Percival as guards; Butch Emmons, Lynn Spier, Gary Longan, Jackie Phillips as centers; Wayne Mann, Jerry McBrayer, Howard Talley, Martin Head, Mike McClesley, Marvin Hall, ends; Duane Phillips and Jerry Tom Riley as backs.

And then Basketball season started. Remember that girl who from the first grade was the tallest in our class. Alice Johnson and basketball discovered each other, and it was love at first sight. Alice and Maggie Morrow were chosen captains of the 1956 girls' basketball team. Members of the girls' team were Maggie Morrow, Judy Johnson, Ann Slavin, Betty Parker, Alice Johnson, Barbara McBrayer, Patricia Owens, Brenda Putman, Jackie McClellan, Marilyn Stewart, Jacque Bell, Sherry Montgomery, Janie Smith and Beth Johnson.

We girls won district. Lakeview was the single defeat we experienced that season and we bragged about it all summer not knowing that the best was yet to come.

Perhaps this would be a good place to discuss Bus No. 5. The infamous Bus No. 5 affected everyone in junior high because regularly an announcement came over the PA (public address system) for all of the students who rode Bus 5 to come immediately to Mr. Cain's office. Bus 5 covered Naylor Route east of town. Bus 5 always held twice as many students as the law allowed. Bus 5, like other buses in the 1950s, often transported college students as well as public school students. Bus 5 was the transportation means for The Longan Gang. The ride home was a means for The Longan gang and various other rowdies to let off steam after a stressful day of sitting relatively still in class. They were either rough housing with each other or anyone else who made eye contact. Regularly Mr. Cain gave his talk to all of the riders of Bus

5 about how riders were supposed to behave on school buses. Riders were not supposed "to pants" other riders and play keep away with the pants nor were they to hold the pants out of the window teasing about letting the pants loose to fly down the highway. Riders were not supposed to throw other riders' books out of the window as a joke. Riders were not supposed to steal homework and make it into paper airplanes. I am sure the length of these "not supposed to" talks increased as the year went by and the riders of Bus 5 came up with new means of creating havoc. I always thought that Janie Smith earned a star in her crown for having to ride Bus 5. Once or twice I rode Bus 5 when I spent the night with Janie. She nervously tried to prepare me for entering the war zone. The experience of riding Bus 5 made me thankful for the peace and calm of Bus No.16 that delivered those of us in the Martin Community.

Can you believe that this sweet group of kids would grow up to be the Bus 5 Mafia?

Speaking of traumatic experiences-did I mention that Mrs. Gillham (1912-1990) was our math teacher all three years of junior high?

That woman was a strong believer in giving daily homework. She was an even stronger believer in her students making a 100 per cent effort to do every stinking problem on that daily homework. The coat hall just outside her door was a dandy place for eyeball-to-eyeball, finger shaking in your face, mean voiced discussions about that homework.

Those discussions were always very one sided because Mrs. Gillham wouldn't accept excuses, reasons, or justifications for not turning in homework. She was so considerate of Mr. Cain that rather than bother him with giving a few licks to impress upon a student the correctness of math class behavior, she would happily swat away.

Miss Blankenship was another interesting feature of our junior high years. She was a rather rotund lady who loved food. She brought deserts to school often. One spring Saturday Mrs. Todd and Miss Blankenship took Janie and me to White Deer to participate in UIL events.

On the way over Miss Blankenship talked on and on about the fried chicken and chocolate cake that she had in the huge picnic lunch in the trunk of the car. By the time we arrived, Janie and I were starved and eagerly planning to hurry through our events so we could chow down.

However when we got out of the car and Miss Blankenship waddled off, Mrs. Todd put her arms around us and confided that she hoped we didn't misunderstand. The picnic was only for them. And, yes, she was sorry that Miss Blankenship mentioned it. The lady didn't just mention it, she raved on and on. Being seventh graders was not simple.

But that summer of 1956 would lead us into our very best year of junior high when we were the big kids on campus.

Broncos continue stellar season, 7 -1

By Sandy Anderberg

Great seasons are determined by great players and the 2010 Bronco football team continues to rack up victory after victory in their quest for a super season. Their latest win came at home against a very physical and tough Quanah team in their District opener at 35-14. The Broncos are at 7-1 overall and 1-0 in District play.

After a first possession score by the Indians, which has not happened all year, the Broncos settled into what has worked for them all season, and they quickly scored 28 unanswered points in the first three quarters of play.

The first score came when quarterback Johnny Gaines hit Trevor Cobb with a pass for a 37-yard touchdown. Before the time ran out in the first period Gaines put up another six on a one-yard run and added another in the second on a 53-yard run. Clarendon's signal caller racked up 111 yards on 16 carries and threw eight for twelve times for 164 yards in the air. The Broncos had 427 total yards to only 269 for Quanah.

According to Jack, the offensive line blocked well for their quarterback and several players were able to make great catches. Bradley Watson made a lot of really good catches, Jack said. Wes Williams scored on a nine-yard run in the third, and Chris Crump took it in from 23 yards out for the last score of the game.

"We played a solid game," head coach Gary Jack said.

"I was pleased with the win and the performance. We made very few mistakes.

"We moved the ball well and did what we needed to do."

Defensively, the Broncos were on target once again and held the Indians to only 14 points.

"This is the first time Quanah has been held to under 22 points all year," Jack said. "Overall it was a good performance and the better team won."

Wes Williams recorded 15 tackles; one caused fumble and one recovered fumble in the game. Mike Crump had a big game for the Broncos, and Charleston Harris registered 11 tackles.

The Broncos will play Lockney at home Friday, October 30, in their last home game of the season beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Senior Chris Crump runs the ball for the Broncos during last Friday's game against Quanah. The Broncos defeated the Indians 35 - 14, leaving Clarendon 1 - 0 in District play.

Bronco JV lights up Indians, 8 -0

After a short time off, the Bronco junior varsity came back strong against Quanah on the road Thursday night. They stayed strong throughout the first half of play and defeated the Indians 8-0. The game was called at halftime due to lightning.

Coach Brad Elam thought the Broncos played well, but had set backs in the game.

"We played really well at times, but the game reminds me of the Dallas Cowboys," Elam said. "We do some good things, but then shoot ourselves in the foot."

On their first possession of the game, things were going well for Clarendon, but they turned the ball over close to scoring.

On the second drive of the night, quarterback Chance McAnear hit Trajen Johnson who ran 40 yards for the only Bronco score. McAnear then teamed up with Cole Ward for the two-point bonus.

"We had a drive going in the second quarter, but penalties killed us," Elam said. "Defensively, we played well again. Rowdy Speed had two sacks and Tres Hommel had some good hits as well."

As of press time, the Bronco JV will not have a game at Lockney.

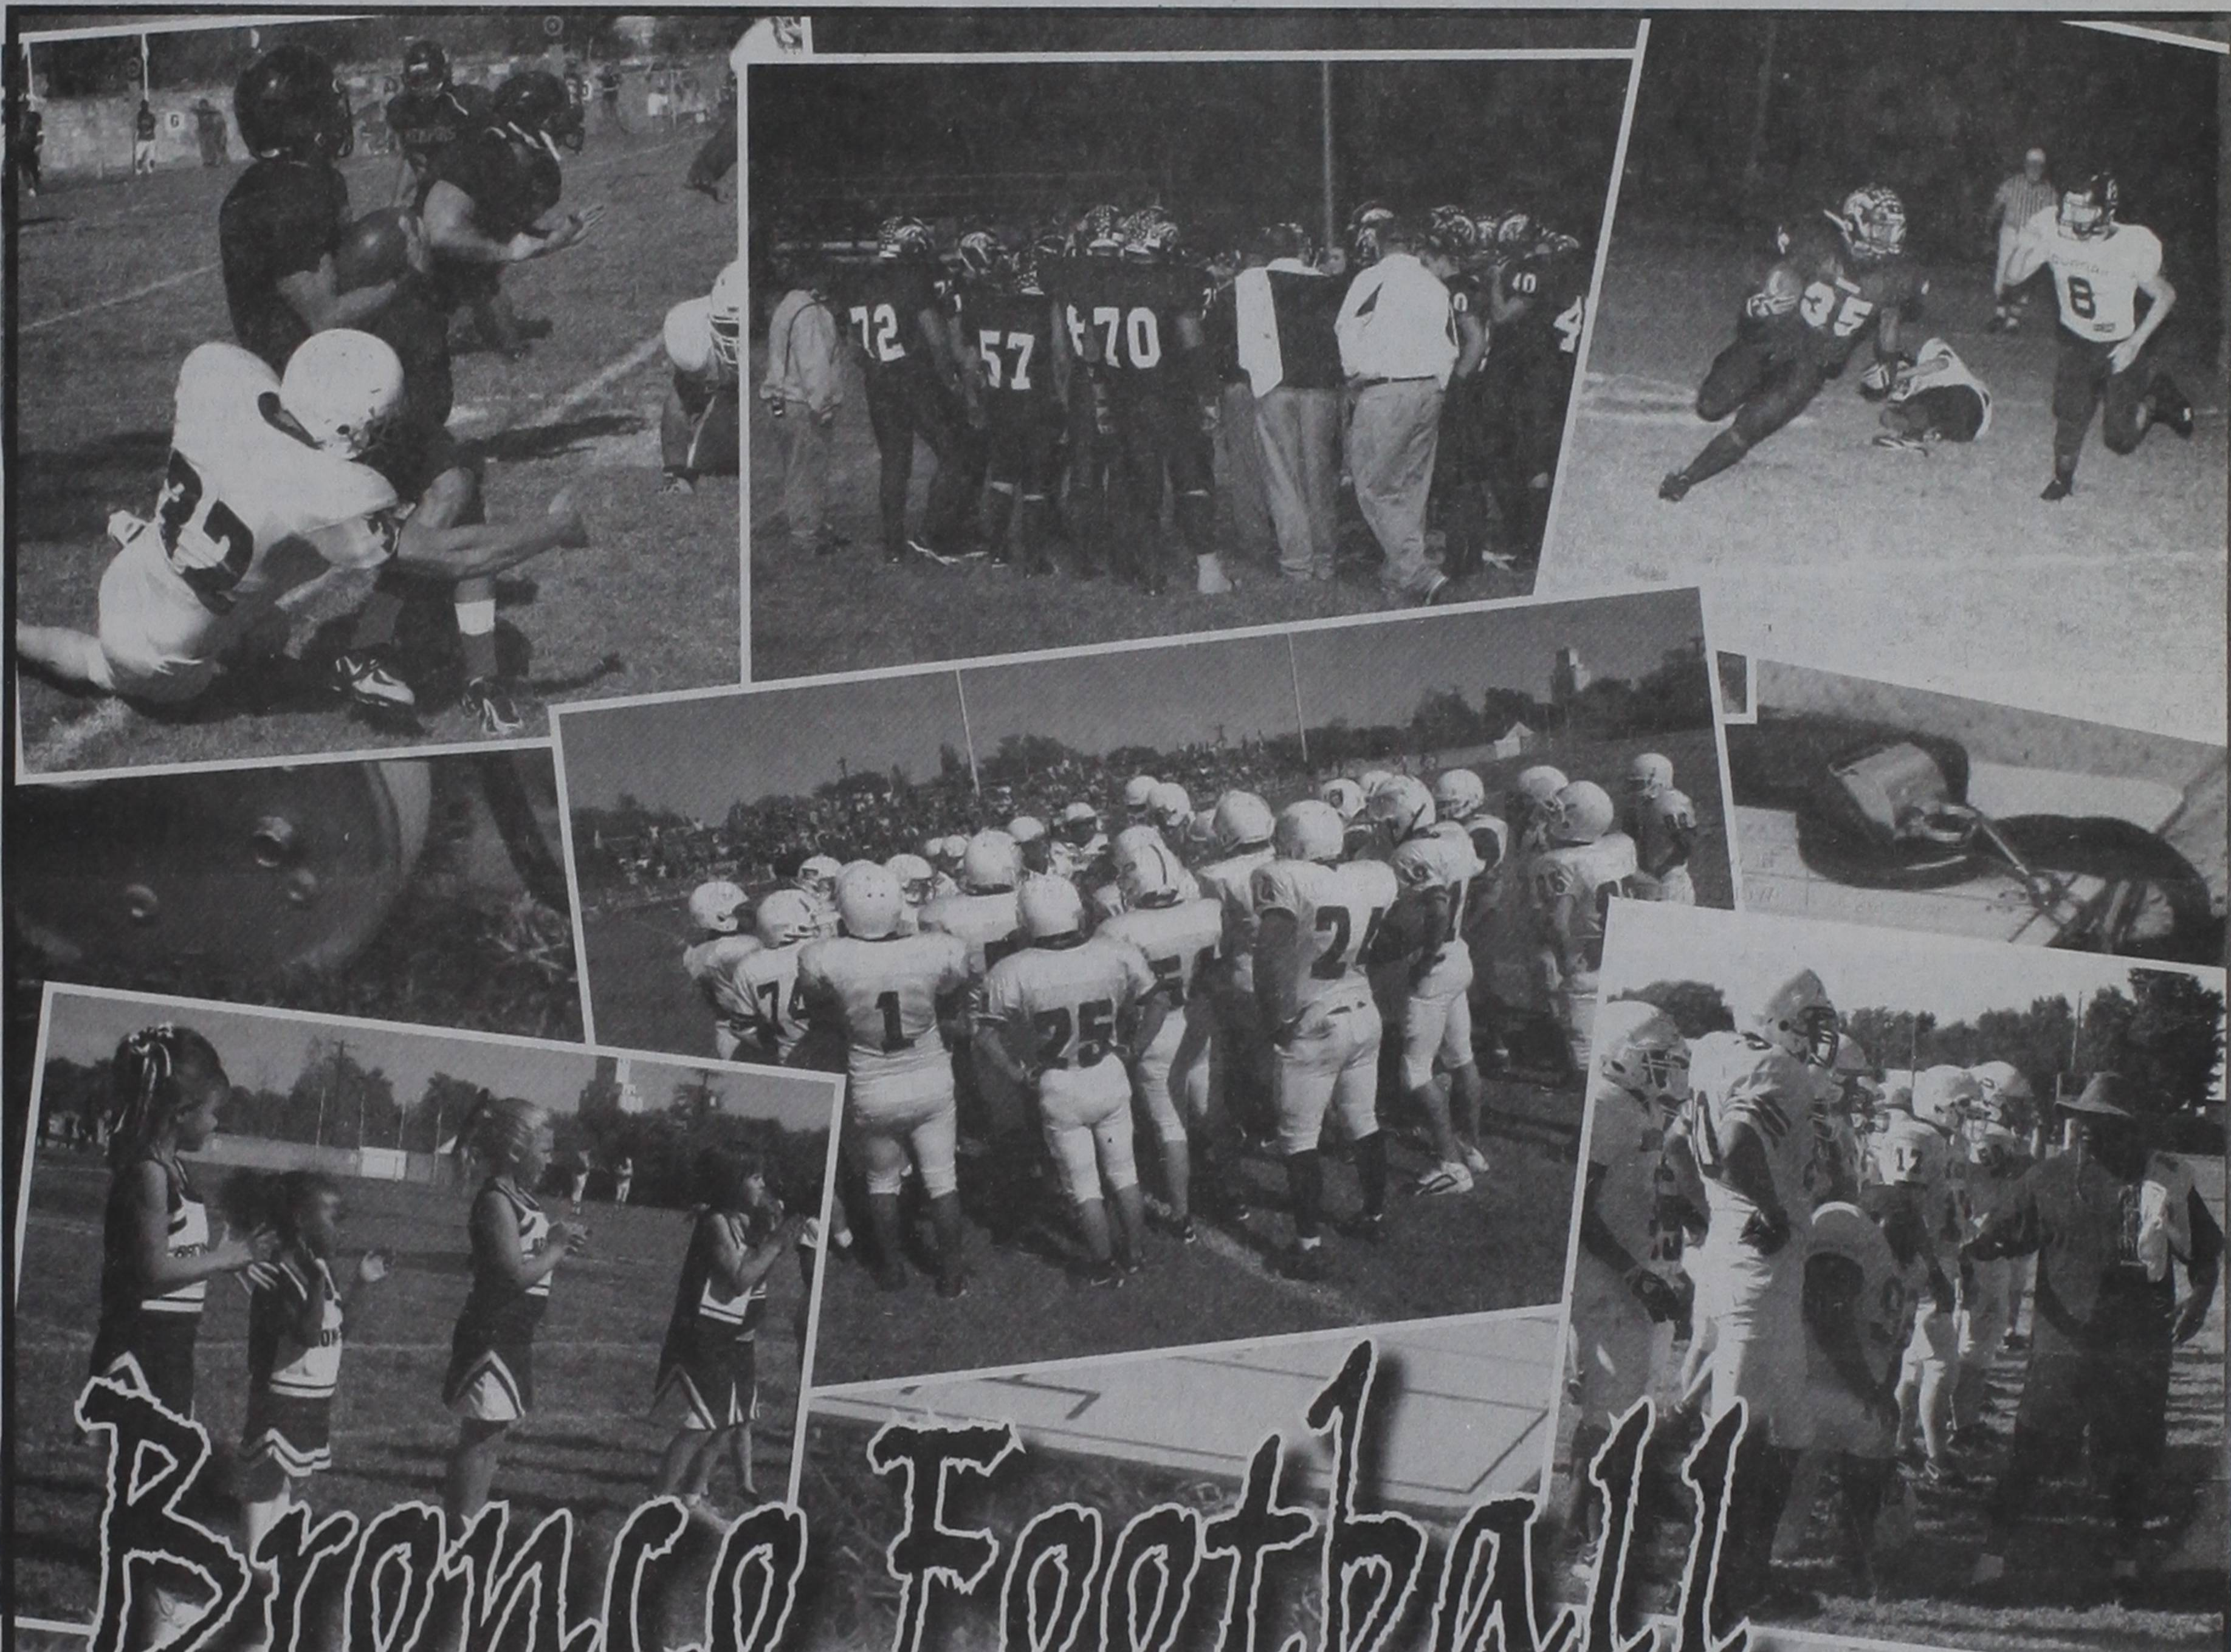

CJH Colts winning streak stopped

The Clarendon Junior High Colts were handed their first loss of the season on the road against Quanah Thursday night. The 14-28 loss ended a great winning streak for the Colts, but they are determined to grab a win against Lockney this week.

Clarendon trailed at the break, as they were held scoreless by the Indians.

But the 20-0 deficit was erased in the second half of play as the Colts charged back. Charles Mason was able to find the end zone for both Colt scores and Romello Smith added the bonus each time.

The Colts will travel to Lockney, Thursday, October 29, to take on the Lockney 8th grade team. The game will begin at 6:30 p.m.

Lady Broncos breeze through District C-C meet

By Sandy Anderberg

The Lady Bronco cross-country team found their stride recently when they competed in the District Cross-Country Meet held in Plainview.

The team was impressive as they competed and was led to a second-place finish by Audrey Shelton.

The second-place finish will allow the ladies to advance to the Regional Meet that will be held November 6 in Lubbock at noon. Shelton, who has been running well all season long, ran the two-mile course in a time of 13:39.31, which was good enough for third place.

Sarah Luttrell ran a great race as well and finished 10th with a time of 13:10.55.

Deborah Howard was 17th at 13:39.31 and Haley Ferguson was 20th with a time of 13:49.85.

Jessica Cenicerros ran the course in a time of 14:18.17 for 23rd place, and Phara Berry and Maci

White also participated.

The junior varsity Lady Broncos also made a good showing and finished third as a team.

Trevela Dronzek crossed the line in fourth place, and Jentry Shadle came in at 10th. McKayla Cartwright finished 21st, Amanda Powell 21st, and Jacy Hill 24th. Anna Cenicerros and Ryann Starnes also competed.

No times were available on the JV runners.

Javier Gobas was the only one that ran for the junior varsity Broncos and came in third place on the three-mile course.

Colt runner Caleb Cobb won the boy's junior high division and Leroy Buckhaults was fourth. The Lady Colts came in fifth as a team, and Kelsey McAnear ran 16th. Skyler White was 32nd, Amelia Weatheron was 32nd, Taylor Gaines was 35th, and Tessa Buckhaults was 37th.

Claude man to be honored at ceremony

THE WOODLANDS - Claude natives and recipient of the Congressional Medal of Honor Charles Howard Roan will be among those honored at the United States Marine Corps 235th birthday celebration from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. on Wednesday, November 10.

The event will take place at the only monument in the Lone Star State that honors all Texas Marine recipients of this country's highest honor, located in Town Green Park in the Woodlands, north of Houston.

Roan is one of 17 Texas Marines whose names are listed on the monument for their service in the nation's armed forces during World War II, Korea and Vietnam.

Most of the Medals, including Roan's, were awarded posthumously. He received his Medal of Honor for his actions in 1944 at Peleliu. He was 21 years old at the time.

A wreath-laying ceremony will commemorate the actions of these valiant Texas Marines. In addition, the birthday celebration will honor the Marines of the First Marine Division, represented by members of the Houston Chapter of the First Marine Division Association, and former Marine and author of Islands of the Damned, R. V. Burgin.

Burgin, of Lancaster, was featured in the HBO series, "The Pacific." He was a member of Company K, Third Battalion, Fifth Marine Regiment, and First Marine Division during WWII, and served in action against the Japanese in New Britain, Peleliu, and Okinawa. He received the Bronze Star and the Purple Heart for his actions in these battles.

The Marine Corps First Division was activated aboard the USS Texas on February 1, 1941. Its members served at Guadalcanal, Peleliu, Okinawa, Inchon, Chosin Reservoir, Viet Nam, Desert Storm, Iraqi Freedom, and Enduring Freedom (Afghanistan). Eight of the 17 Texas Marines who received the Medal of Honor served in this Division.

All Marines, Marine families, and friends are welcome to attend this free event, which is sponsored by the Texas Marines Medals of Honor Fund, a non-profit volunteer organization dedicated to commemorating the service of all Marines, especially the ultimate sacrifice of the 17 Texas Marines whose names are now carved in granite.

The Monument was placed in 2009 following years of planning and effort by members of the establishment of the monument in The Woodlands' Town Green Park, contact Tom Early at (713)882-0603.

WTAMU Music Dept. to host world renowned soloist Oct. 31

CANYON - The Department of Music at West Texas A&M University will present world renowned soloist Emily Pulley in recital at 3 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 31, in Northern Recital Hall on campus.

The afternoon recital will feature Pulley in variety of solo pieces as well as duets with Dr. Joe Ella Cansler, associate professor of music, and with Dr. Cloyce Kuhnert, associate professor of music. The program also will include several Rodgers and Hammerstein songs, and all members of the WTAMU voice faculty will join Pulley on a Stephen Sondheim number.

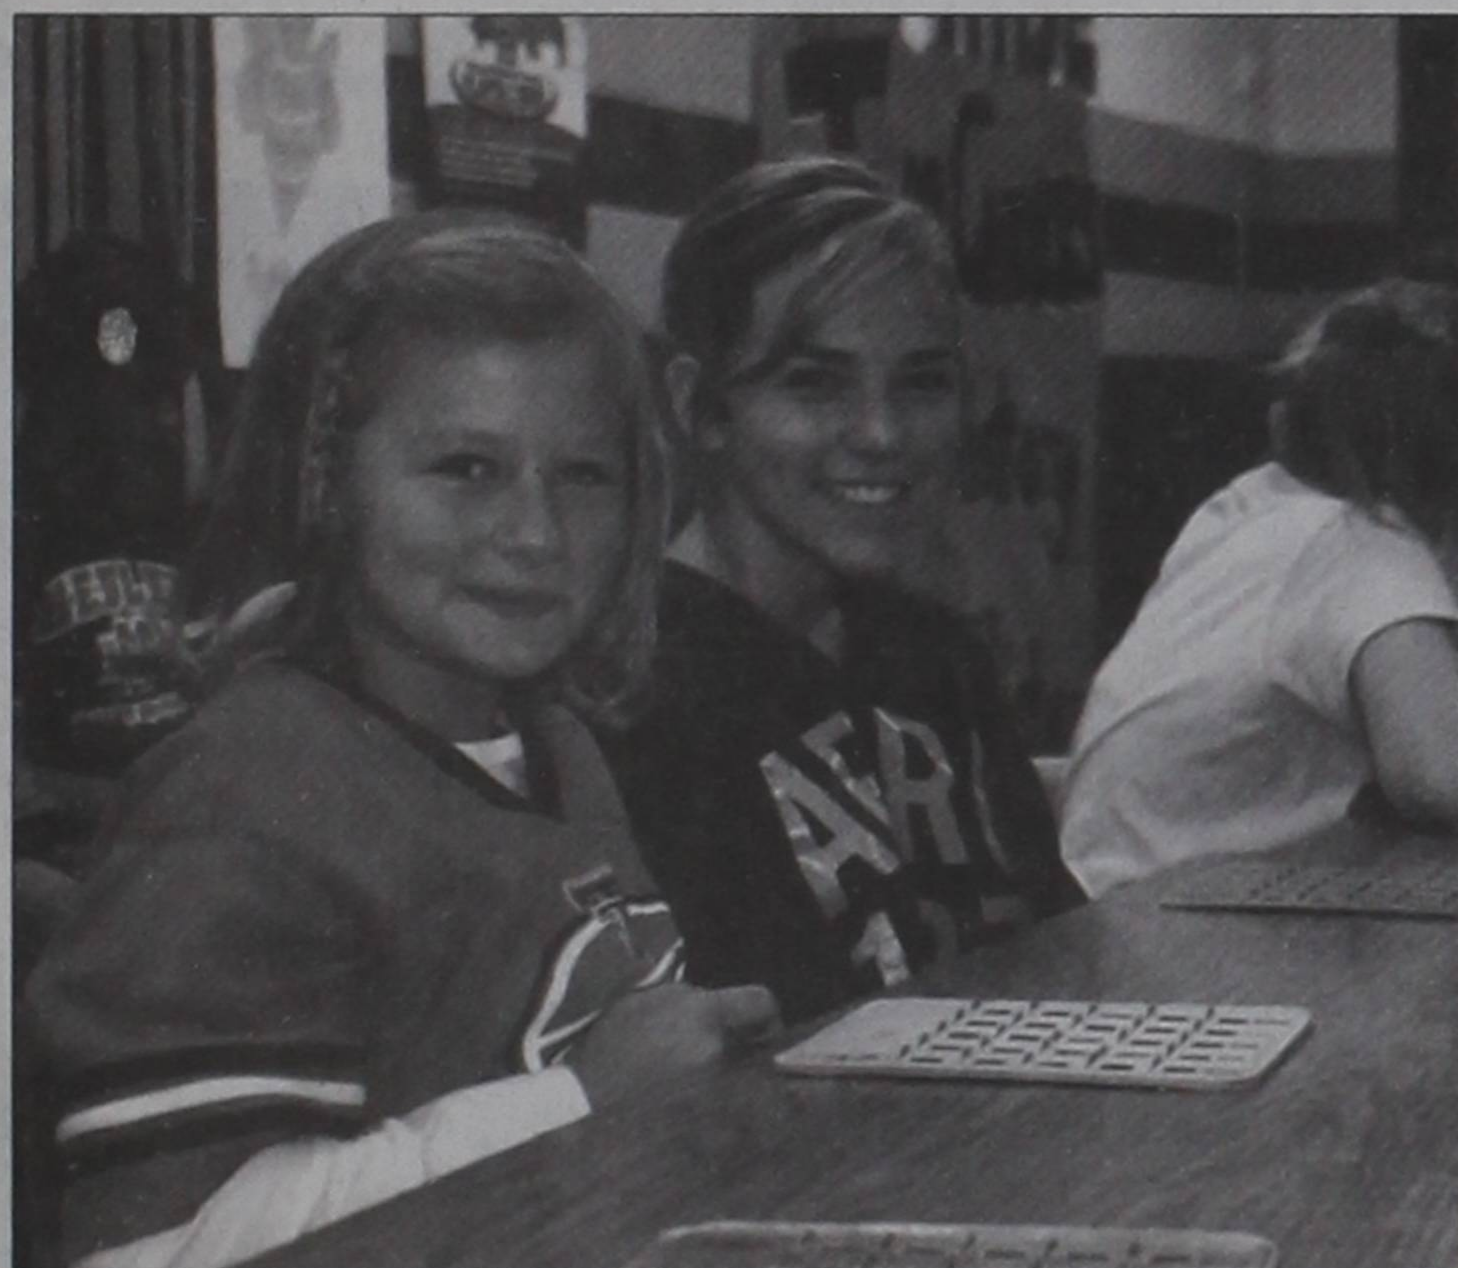

Pulley is currently working with WTAMU voice students in private lessons and master classes as the University's artist in residence through Nov. 3. She graduated summa cum laude from WTAMU in 1989 and received her M.A. in music from the University of North Texas. She has performed on stages around the world and is a frequent soloist at the Metropolitan Opera.

Pulley's roles include Marguerite in Faust, Musetta in La Boheme, the title role in Susannah and Rosalinda in Die Fiedermaus, to name a few. She won the New York City Opera Richard F. Gold Debut Artist Award in 2004 and the 2006 New York City Opera's Christopher Keene Award.

A "Lunch with Emily" event is planned for 12:30 p.m. Friday, Oct. 29 in the Jack B. Kelley Student Center, Legends Club.

For more information, call Dr. Cloyce Kuhnert at 806-651-2856 or ckuhnert@wtamu.edu.

VOTE FOR
Janette Cox Wagner
November 2, 2010
Candidate for District/ Donley County Clerk

Your vote November 2 would be greatly appreciated.

My family, friends, and I are making calls and walking giving out cards. It has been a pleasure talking to the folks of Donley County.

- I'm very computer literate and used computers in the Legal System for legal documentation.
- I know the importance of certifying and filing documents.
- I'm very organized and know how important it is in legal matters.
- The State requires all District/County clerks to attend yearly continuing education classes, which if elected, I will attend.
- I operated my own business and now the company I work for with as little waste of time and money as possible. It's good economics.

"I will be at the front desk in the Clerk's Office and will work hard for you, the people of Donley County."

New exhibits on display at Canyon museum

CANYON – Horses and cowboys have a long history in the Panhandle Plains, from the earliest Spanish explorers and wild herds to the cowboys and working horses of today.

The Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum presents an exhibit, Not Just for Show: Working Saddles from the Permanent Collection, and an event Wild Horses in the West, honoring both.

On Thursday, November 11, from 4:00 to 6:00 p.m., in the Hazlewood Lecture Hall, wild horse experts will discuss where wild horses came from, how they are surviving today and their influence on the land and people.

Panelists include Patti Colbert from the Mustang Heritage Foundation, Crystal Cowan from the Wild Horse and Burro Program and Gerry Gesell from 88 Ranch.

Following the program, PPHM will host a reception and gallery talk for Not Just for Show: Working Saddles from the Permanent Collection with curator Michael Grauer, PPHM Associate Director for Curatorial Affairs/Curator of Art.

Cost of either or both events is $10 per person or free for PPHM members.

RSVP to (806) 651-2233 or adavid@pphm.wtamu.edu. Both Wild Horses in the West and the reception are stamp events for the PPHM Passport. This provides two of the five needed to enter the drawing for a trip to Paris, France.

Saddles, bits, spurs, stirrups and other tack will comprise Not Just for Show: Working Saddles from the Permanent Collection which opens in the Mary E. Bivins Gallery November 6, 2010, and runs through November 2011.

Part of the saddle collection was last on display in 2006; the new exhibition will have three times the number of saddles used in the last exhibition.

16-for-webThe saddle collection runs the gamut from a crocodile-skin-covered North African saddle with carved wooden stirrups to a silver-mounted saddle given to Charles Goodnight by a Mexican government official about 1900. Like the saddles, PPHM's stirrup collection tells the story of the horse culture across the world with examples from Asia, Europe and America.

The Museum's collection of braided horsehair tack has beautiful examples of headstalls, bridles and ropes, including a bridle awarded at a Miller Brothers 101 Ranch Wild West Show in Amarillo about 1910. Leading bit and spur makers represented in the exhibit are J. R. McChesney, J. O. Bass, Kelly Brothers, G. A. Bischoff & Company, J. C. Petmecky and Pate Boone.

A section of the exhibit will be devoted to wild horses in our region. Southern Plains tribes caught and tamed the descendants of horses brought to the New World by Spanish conquistadores in the 1540s. By the 1870s, ranches such as the T Anchor Ranch caught mustangs and either tried to make them part of their regular horse herds or sold them as stock. Because Texas had so little public land, by the time most ranches had fenced their lands with barbed wire by about 1890, mustangs could no longer roam the Llano Estacado.

Recent saddle donations by area people have added to the collection. Richard Oliver recently donated the first saddles from Oliver Saddle Shop to PPHM. One is a saddle by his grandfather, Claude W. Oliver, and the other is by his father, Bill Oliver.

The most decorated saddle maker from our region, Bob Marrs, has donated his personal saddle, and Pam and Myrl Goodwin of Canyon gave three rodeo saddles: a Circle Y roping saddle, a Donaho barrel-racing saddle and a Running P roping saddle.

Originally founded to collect and preserve "relics" of the pioneer days, PPHM began acquiring saddles in the late 1920s, years before the doors opened in 1933. The Western stock saddle collection is exemplary with examples by some of the finest saddle makers in the United States, including F. A. Meanea, H. H. Heiser, R. T. Frazier, C. P. Shipley, F. M. Stern and S. D. Myers.

The exhibit sponsored in part by the Bureau of Land Management, Mustang Heritage Foundation and Wild Horse and Burro Program.

2010 show dedicated to Robinsons

The 2010 Rotational P.A.C.E. Shorthorn Show at the Tri-State Fair in Amarillo was dedicated to Don and Maxine Robinson of Clarendon.

The Robinsons operate a small wheat, cotton, and cattle operation. They maintain a herd of registered Shorthorn cows numbering from 70 to 100 mother cows producing show steers and heifers, replacement females, and a few select bulls. They have three children: Mona, Clint and Lori; four grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren.

Don is a past member of the Clarendon School Board, Federal Land Bank Board, Co-op Gin Board and a director of the Texas Shorthorn Association. In 2009, Robinson Shorthorns was a host herd for the Shorthorn University.

Their start in the Shorthorn business was in 1973, when Don purchased 20 beef type registered Shorthorn cows and a Shorthorn x Limousin bull from Mervin Deason of Ft. Cobb, Oklahoma. Some years later he found he could enroll the herd in the American Shorthorn Association appendix registry program.

Heifers were maintained in the herd and new bulls were brought in starting with W O Deerpark Improver 163L; BGR Improver 106

G; Greenbelt Chess 516; WF Deerpark 4110; 7M Explosion Winsom Jo and Greenbelt Explosion 154. The use of these bulls brought the Shorthorn blood percentage up to 15/16 or better.

In 1987 Don and Maxine Robinson traveled to Alberta, Canada, and purchased Poplar Haven 7W, sired by Winalot Howie and out of a Maine Anjou heifer. This purchase, and subsequent use, renewed their appendix program.

Throughout the years, Robinson Shorthorns sold many steers. They were active in feeder pen shows and sales in Denver, Phoenix, Fort Worth, and Kansas City for 20 years. Travel became less exciting and sales increased off the farm as well as consignments to the Texas State Shorthorn Sale each spring. In the past years, they have bred several of their own bulls – Robinson Cannonball, Robinson Tuff Stuff, Robinson Scrapper, and Robinson On Star.

Robinson Shorthorns are now embarked on a new venture – the Durham Red program. Don is breeding part of the herd to a Red Angus bull. He has great enthusiasm for Shorthorn cattle and believes that if better cattle are bred, Shorthorns will be a part of them.

Vaccine Protects for Mothers and Their Babies

According to results from a recent study, published in the Archives of Pediatric and Adolescent Medicine journal, the risk of infants developing influenza is reduced when their mothers receive influenza vaccination during pregnancy. Influenza vaccines are generally indicated for infants six months and older. Infants younger than six months of age who are often at high risk for influenza complication are left without adequate coverage. Data from this study showed that babies had a remarkable 41% reduction in the risk of developing influenza within the initial six months of life, when their mothers had received influenza vaccination. The vaccinated mothers were compared with mothers who did not receive influenza vaccination during pregnancy. Researchers state that influenza vaccination is recommended for pregnant women by the Centers for Disease Control and protection. Vaccination not only protects mothers from the risk of complications, but also provides protection for their infants, up to six months before eligibility for influenza vaccination begins.

Stay safe this Halloween with these tips

If you are worried about the safety and security of your neighborhood, consider taking your children to an organized Trick-or-Treat or Halloween event at your local mall, school or church. Some towns and neighborhoods sponsor events and set a curfew. These events are often sponsored by the local police department, and officers can be seen patrolling the streets during Trick-or-Treat hours. Curfews are set to avoid strangers wandering the streets after hours.

Young children should always be accompanied by an adult; however, if your children are old enough to head out alone, be sure you know the route they are taking. They should check in with you every hour and you should establish a set time by which they should return home. Children should never be out alone, and should Trick-or-Treat with a group of friends or with a trusted adult. Only Trick-or-Treat at homes that are well-lit, and never enter a stranger's home.

Review pedestrian safety rules with your children, including looking both ways before crossing the street, and not crossing between parked cars. Children should walk on sidewalks and not on the street. If your community does not have sidewalks, children should walk on the left side of the road, facing traffic. Small children should never cross the street without an adult. At busy intersections, wait at a crosswalk.

Parents and children should carry flashlights and have their clothes and costumes trimmed with reflective tape. The Trick-or-Treat route you choose should be well-lit and well populated. Consider adding something unique to your child's costume so that they can be easily spotted in large groups of people. For example, add a glow necklace or bracelet, or design a brightly-colored and unique treat bag.

With groups of ghosts and goblins flooding the streets, moving from house to house, drivers may be easily distracted. According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, the potential for automobile-related accidents with young pedestrians increases four times on Halloween. If you must drive during Trick-or-Treat hours, pay extra attention to cross walks, intersections and the sides of the road. Stay under the speed limit and do not pass any vehicles parked or stopped along the road. Children may be exiting these vehicles and may not be aware of oncoming traffic. If you are dropping off or picking up your child, pull off the road into a safe spot and use your hazard lights to alert other motorists.

When it comes to candy, your children may want to dig in immediately. It is important that you instruct them to not eat any candy until they are home and you have thoroughly inspected it. Any homemade snacks should be thrown away. Avoid giving treats that can be harmful to young children, including gum, snacks with peanuts, hard candy and any small toys. Additionally, some communities require residents to label the treats they distribute with their name and contact information. Check with your local neighborhood group for any special parameters you may need to follow this year.

When designing or choosing your Halloween costume, be sure all materials are fire retardant. If the costume is homemade, you can use a fire retardant spray to treat the fabric. Consider using face paint instead of a mask that could impair vision. If your child's costume does include a mask, be sure it has large holes for the eyes and mouth. Any accessories, including knives and swords, should be made from cardboard or other flexible materials. Sharp toys can present dangers, including injuring your child if he or she trips and falls on it. Falls are the leading cause of unintentional injuries on Halloween.

Halloween is second to Christmas in popularity of yard and home decorations. When decorating your yard for Halloween, consider the path children may take to get to your door. Do not sit pumpkins or luminaries too close to the walkway. Be sure to leave enough room for groups of children to get through. Make sure your home and yard are well lit, especially if you have a number of "spooky" lawn ornaments. Instead of using candles to light your jack-o-lanterns or luminaries, consider using battery-powered lights.

Through preparation, planning and a safety-conscious effort by parents and children alike, Trick-or-Treating can be a safe and fun event for you each year.

Clarendon Church of Christ HOPE AND CHANGE COMING, HOPEFULLY

There is change in the air! Read the papers and watch the news and you will get a sense that our country is looking for something different. It's not all political either. Many citizens have lived long enough to see what once was the greatest country in the world to one teetering at a crossroads. Either our country will become a Godless and socialistic country like most in the world, or we will turn back to God and take our country back.

Some have asked, "Take it back from what?" Those who promote evolution as a religion; homosexuality as normal; abortion as a simple medical procedure instead of what is and that is murder; give away programs for those who are irresponsible; taking away our freedoms; taking over private business and government running it; etc. The list could go on forever! We simply want our country back so that we will always be able to live simple lives and worship God in the way we wish. Don't be mistaken, our religious freedoms have been slowly chipped away. There are many who would love to take away public worship and drive us all into hiding as many across the world are forced to do.

To turn our country back to a God-fearing nation, we must, individually, becoming God-fearing once again. We must be better people if we want a better country. We must teach people to fish and quit just handing out fish. We must demand responsibility from one another. We must quit justifying sinful behavior!

Matt. 6:33 tells us to seek first the Kingdom of God, and if we do that He will take care of us. Our country used to experience His care, I don't think that He is too interested in us right now. We've turned away from Him in the pursuit of "things." Our idols are: Popularity, that new car or house, etc. Folks, that's just as bad as our forefathers bowing down to idols made of stone or wood!

Recently I saw a police show where pimps and prostitutes were being arrested for their "trade." It was revolting. But, as I got to thinking about it, we've been pimping our children out for a few decades! A pimp and prostitute on the street sell themselves for money or drugs. As a nation, we pimp out our children to receive popularity. We buy clothes we can't afford to keep them in their cliques. We put our daughters on birth control and give our sons condoms and let them sell their bodies to stay in these cliques. Where is our shame, friends?

I pray that we would hit our knees and ask God for forgiveness and individually ask for His blessings and protection on our country once again. Our country and our eternal lives depend upon it.

Hunting outlook optimistic for quail season in Texas

AUSTIN – Wildlife biologists at Texas Parks and Wildlife Department are cautiously optimistic about quail prospects this season, which gets under way Saturday, Oct. 30 statewide.

This past winter a two-year drought in the major quail hunting areas of the state was finally broken. Range conditions and more importantly, according to TPWD, nesting and brood rearing habitat greatly improved, setting the stage for a marked increase in production. Unfortunately, after two years of unfavorable weather, the number of quail available to breed had become quite low. In general, quail rebound fastest from the remaining pockets of survivors from last season.

"Low carryover is the biggest obstacle to recovering quail populations," said Robert Perez, TPWD upland game bird program leader. "Quail species are hardwired to take advantage of good reproductive environmental conditions. It's part of their survival strategy. So many are consumed each year, the species relies on a high reproductive output in order to persist on the landscape. We expect a greatly improved season over last year but a hen can only do so much in one year. Given another wet winter and spring we could expect a much stronger rebound next season."

Perez indicated those ranches that managed habitat for quail during the extended dry spell will likely see more birds this season, which runs Oct. 30-Feb. 27.

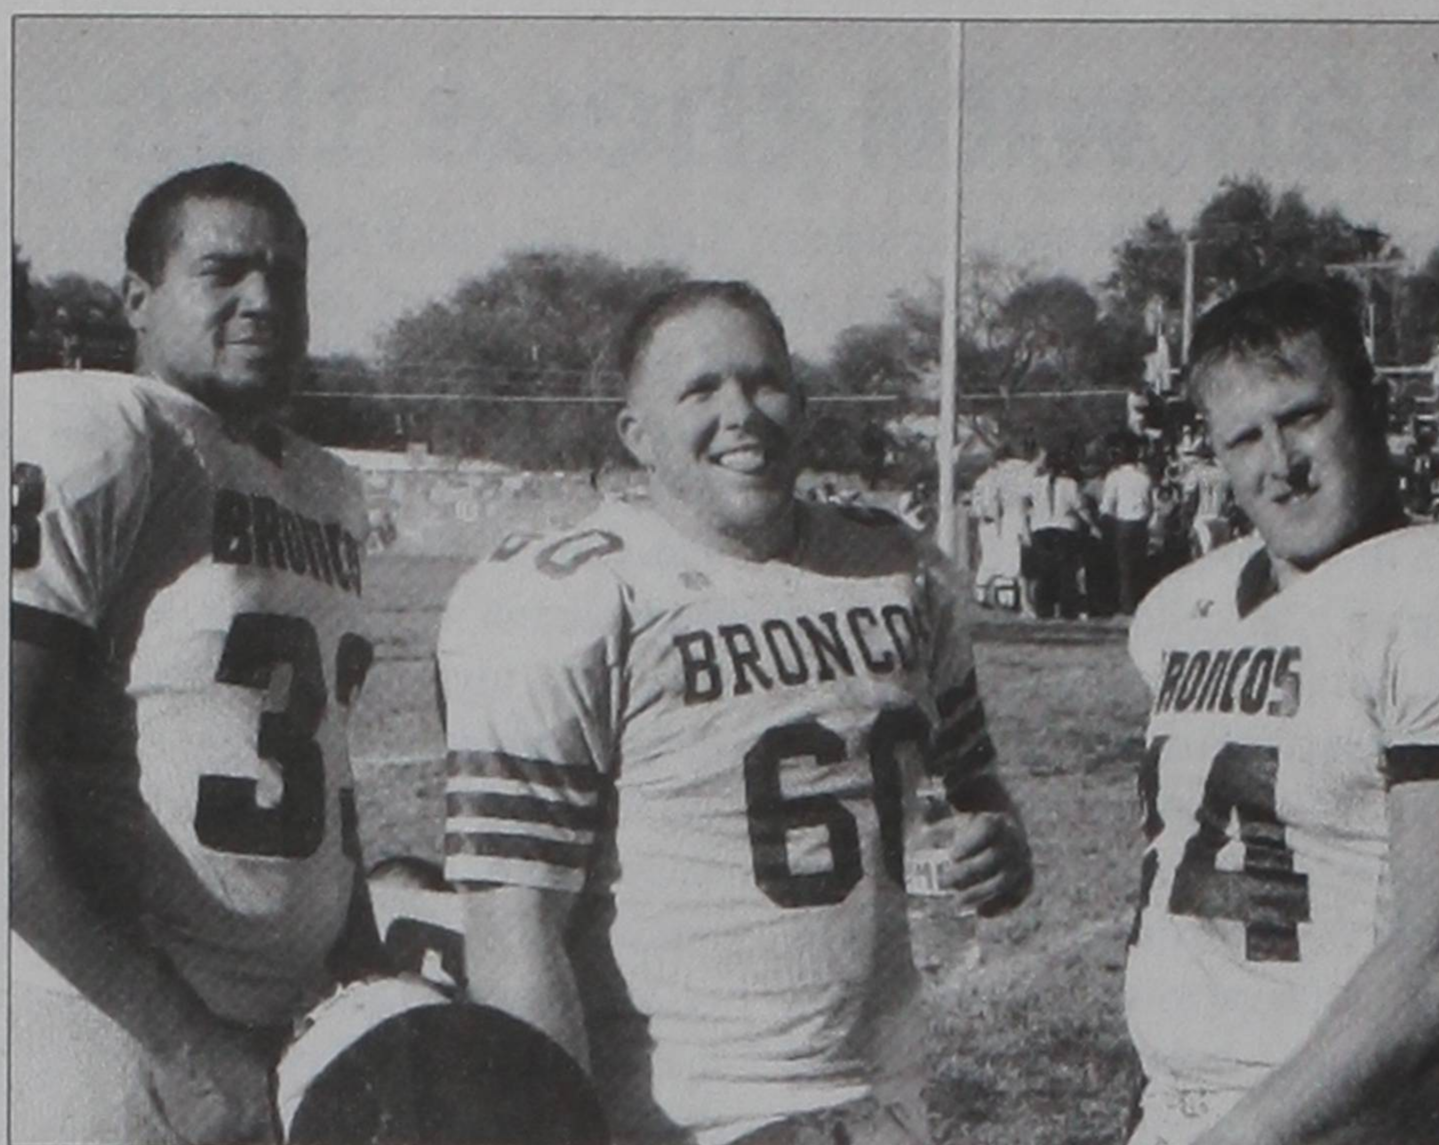

The daily bag limit for quail is 15, with 45 in possession. Legal shooting hours for all non-migratory game birds are 30 minutes before sunrise to 30 minutes after sunset. The bag limit is the maximum number that may be killed during the legal shooting hours in one day.

Since 1978, TPWD has conducted annual statewide quail surveys to track population trends. This index uses randomly selected, 20-mile roadside survey lines to determine annual quail population trends by ecological region. This trend information helps determine relative quail populations among the regions of Texas. Comparisons can be made between the average number of quail observed per route this year and the long term average for quail seen within an ecological region. The quail survey was not designed to predict relative abundance for any area smaller than the ecological region.

The Rolling Plains region received timely winter, spring and summer rainfall resulting in excellent breeding conditions for bobwhite quail. The summer rains extended the window of opportunity for nesting. If a hen failed in her first attempt, there was ample time for a second attempt. The limiting factor was the number of birds available to breed. Field reports indicate that quail have made a strong comeback in areas that held birds last year. Other areas have improved as well but to a lesser extent. It's a good idea to scout ahead to be sure the areas you plan to hunt are holding birds.

The average number of bobwhites observed per route was 8.0 compared to 6.6 last year. This is well below the Long Term Mean of 21.5. Despite low counts, enough young birds and coveys have been anecdotally reported that we suspect hunters will be able to find birds. Public hunting opportunities can be found at the Matador and the Gene Howe Wildlife Management Areas.

I am the spokesperson for a group called Concerned Citizens for Donley County. I have addressed every taxing entity in Donley County to drop the personal property tax on vehicles and recreational vehicles. Each entity turned us down. Later the Clarendon Independent School District and the City of Hedley decided not to tax vehicles that are used for business or work. If you have a vehicle that is used in your work you can go to the Appraisal District office and get an exemption. I think this is a step in the right direction for lowering taxes in Donley County.

I am retired from SPS Co. I was the local manager at Olton, TX, when I retired. While working in this capacity, I was sent to Texas A&M for a five day Economic Development Seminar. There were students and instructors from all over the U.S. It was very informative and I received an enormous amount of information about Economic Development. I believe this knowledge would help Clarendon grow.

We have a great community. Our schools are top-notch; we have a community college; churches of all faiths; a clean city; good police, fire and ambulance service; plenty of recreation; doctors and a medical clinic; good shopping; and abundant housing. Clarendon is primed and ready to grow. We need lower taxes and to be discovered.

Perry recognizes state principals

Texas Governor Rick Perry recognized school principals this week, according to information from Clarendon Consolidated Independent School District.

The Texas Association of Secondary School Principals and the Texas Elementary Principals and Supervisors Association announced the receipt of a proclamation from the governor's office encouraging all Texans to "...recognize the important role principals play in ensuring that every child has access to a high-quality education..." and proclaiming October 2010 as Principals Month.

The associations ask everyone to congratulate school principals for their hard work and positive contributions by providing skillful leadership at local campuses throughout Texas.

LEGAL NOTICES

NOTICE OF RATE CHANGE
On September 30, 2010, GreenLight Gas ("GreenLight"), in accordance with the Gas Utility Regulatory Act, filed an application with the Texas Railroad Commission to change GreenLight's city gate gas transportation rate for gas utility service to the following cities and nearby unincorporated areas: REVISED NOTICE OF RATE CHANGE

On September 30, 2010, GreenLight Gas ("GreenLight"), in accordance with the Gas Utility Regulatory Act, filed an application with the Texas Railroad Commission to change GreenLight's city gate gas transportation rate for gas utility service to the following cities and nearby unincorporated areas: Clarendon, Dodson, Dozier, Estelline, Hedley, Lakeview, Lelia Lake, Lutie, Memphis, Newlin, Paducah, Samnorwood and Wellington. A revision to the application was filed with the Railroad Commission. The proposed rate is $2.628 per mcf. GreenLight proposes to recover rate case expenses through a $0.046 per mcf surcharge which will be in effect for three years. The combination of the rate plus the surcharge results in a rate of $2.674 which reflects an increase of $0.254 per mcf and is expected to increase GreenLight's revenue by about 2.7%. About 3,255 residential and 523 commercial customers would be affected. An average residential monthly bill (4.5 mcf) would see an increase of $1.14 per month. An average commercial monthly bill (31.3 mcf) would see an increase of $7.95 per month. This rate change requested by GreenLight, which is organized as a not-for-profit company constitutes a major increase as defined by Section 104.101 of the Texas Utilities Code. The effective date of this proposed rate change is December 1, 2010. Information concerning the application may be obtained from GreenLight's main office at: 116 South 6th Street, Memphis, Texas 79245

Any affected person may, on or before November 29, 2010, file written comments or a protest concerning the application with: Docket Services, Office of General Counsel, Railroad Commission of Texas, P.O. Box 12967, Capitol Station, Austin, Texas 78711-2967, 44-4tc

THANK YOU

I want to thank each one of you who has prayed for me, sent cards, or visited during my illness.

Please continue to pray as I still have a ways to go. I am so proud of my children. They have walked every step of the way with me, and we will walk together as we continue on. Again I say thank you and may God bless you as you have blessed me.

THANK YOU

I don't know how to start to thank everyone for so many blessings except to say I love you all and hope we all can repay you for all the love you have shown J.T.'s family.

Wonderland

Clarendon College employees took a trip through the looking glass on Tuesday in the spirit of Halloween. The Vera Dial Dickey Library was Wonderland and the cast of characters included Dr. Jeremy Sane as the Hatter, Rachel Wade as the Ace of Hearts, Dean Tex Buckhaults as the Knave of Hearts, Amanda Smith as Alice, Jamie Ward as the Cheshire Cat, Ashlee Estlack as split personality TweedleDee/Dum, Nancy Kidd as the White Rabbit, Karen Wortham as the Joker of Hearts, and Martha Smith also as the Hatter.
