Demonstrating the Need of Public Ownership.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—In accordance with his previously announced plans, President Roosevelt has had withdrawn from public entry 6,000,000 acres of western land known to be underlaid with coal deposits.

The idea in withdrawing the lands was to prevent their being gobbled up by the combine, which President Roosevelt fears is fast getting control of all workable coal fields of the United States. Another idea was to prevent a fuel coal famine in case of a general coal strike, like that threatened last spring. In the event of such a strike the mines on the lands withdrawn could be operated under Government supervision.

Sometime ago it came to the attention of President Roosevelt that the Standard Oil Company and affiliated interests were getting control of all mineral lands they could in the southwest.

He at once suggested that Congress enact legislation preventing the alienation of any more such land, but no action was taken.

Investigation by the geological survey indicated there were approximately 56,000,000 acres of coal lands, much of which, however, was entered under agricultural lands.

President Roosevelt, without specific action by Congress, proceeds now to withdraw the 6,000,000 acres upon his own authority.

The lands withdrawn are situated in Colorado, Montana, New Mexico, North Dakota, Utah, Wyoming, Washington and Oregon.

To Oust Taggart.

The trouble over gambling at French Lick is to force the resignation of Taggart as chairman of the national democratic committee and with this rumor comes another that Senator W. J. Stone is to succeed him. Tariff modification is to be made the issue combatting the president's plan for republican campaign.

The papers are now discussing the question as to which country has the best dressed citizens. There can hardly be any discussion over the fact that they are the most comfortably dressed in the heart of Africa, for this season of the year.—Dallas News.

Strayed.

From home pasture in Clarendon, on Tuesday 17, instant, one light bay horse, white star in forehead, four years old, unbranded. Horse was bought from Hoodenpyle (five miles northeast of Clarendon) about a year ago. Suitable reward for his return. J. B. McCLELLAND

The Hot Time Not Over.

Speaking of the coming democratic state convention, the Dallas News says:

"There is every prospect that the convention to be held in Dallas will go down in history as a sensational meeting of the party. Under the law specifications are set out by which the convention must be guided. There is no discretion permitted. The law must be literally complied with, if the nominees do not find themselves selected in violation of such law. It is not believed by some that a candidate can be kept out of the race, even after he is dropped on the first ballot, but has the right to re-enter after the second ballot has been taken. Each candidate is entitled to his proportion of the vote cast for him in each county, and he can not be deprived of it. After he is dropped the representative of that vote has the right to give it to any candidate, and the majority of the delegates from a county can not prevent it. In other words, if there is one vote on a delegation for a candidate and that candidate gets out of the race, the rest of the delegation can not take that one vote and do with it as it pleases. The man who voted it has the right to place it where he wishes. The majority on the delegation is not going to submit to this if it can help it. But these are only a few of the things that may make the convention seismic. After the governor's race is disposed of, if it is disposed of by the convention, the other races may not attract much attention. For the main race will have so exhausted the delegates that they will be ready to quit in a hurry."

Farm wives have little cause to envy their village sisters. They live an immeasurably higher life among the beauties and riches of nature than can be found elsewhere. True, they may not spend their few leisure hours running from house to house, retailing gossip of a more or less harmful nature, or by brooding over the fact that somebody else has a few more belongings than they have; but, as to intelligence, and a sound common-sense way of showing it, the farm woman will compare favorably with the women of other classes, and, in many instances, is the superior of the seemingly more favored one.—Ex.

It is very evident that Japan has been making a close study of New Zealand. A cablegram announces that the Japanese government is preparing to nationalize all the industries of the country, as is indicated by advices received by the bureau of manufactures. This move, which is one of the greatest experiments in the world's history, includes the protection, supervision and development of the various lines of business, all under the direct charge of the government. The provision for the nationalization of the railways is only a single step in the great plan.—Ex.

Near Texmo, Okla., Edward Wallace shot at a dog. He missed the animal, but killed one of his children and critically wounded two others.

Wheat is reported damaged by the recent heavy rains. There are not enough threshing machines in the county: only 25 per cent of the wheat having been threshed.—Quanah Tribune.

State Prohibition Convention.

The prohibitionists of Texas are hereby called to meet in state convention at Terrell, Texas, Tuesday Aug. 14th 1906, at 10 o'clock a. m. The meeting will be held in a large centrally located tabernacle. Convention rates will be granted on all railroads, tickets on sale Aug. 13th and 14th, good until Aug 15th. Ex Governor John P. St. John of Kansas, will address the convention both afternoon and night of the 14th. Every prohibitionist in Texas owes it to himself and his constituency to attend this convention if possible.

Let it be understood that the convention is a mass convention and any number of prohibitionists can attend from any county in the State and they will be recognized as a delegate; provided however, that each delegate must be legally qualified voter in his own county, holding poll tax receipt or exemption certificate. The committee earnestly insists that prohibitionists from all sections of the state unite with us in making this convention the greatest in our history. There certainly never was a time that called more than now for earnest, consecrated men who stand for the principle. E. H. CONIBEAR, Ch'm.

P. F. PAIGE, Sec.

Sage's Will.

Except for a few small bequests to relatives, the fortune of Russell Sage is left to his widow. There is no charitable bequests in the will.

There was nothing in the will to indicate the value of the Sage estate. Each of Mr. Sage's nephews and nieces are left $25,000. There is also a bequest of $10,000 to Mr Sage's sister, Mrs. Chapin, now deceased. A section bequeathing the bulk of the estate to Mrs. Sage reads that she is to have and to hold the same absolutely and forever.

Just Like Jones.

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch says: "If the new government bonds will inflate the national bank currency lower prices are again to be postponed." Commenting upon this editorial statement a reader of The Commoner writes: "Colonel Charles H. Jones was driven from the Post-Dispatch because he believed in the 'quantitative theory.' Will not Mr. Pulitzer have to hire a new editor for the P. D.?"—Commoner.

STATE NEWS.

Web worms are seriously damaging alfalfa fields in Grayson county. The farmers are puzzled, as the appearance of this pest is something new on alfalfa.

Cattlemen report the ticks in the Red river bottoms below Vernon worse this season than for many years and many cattle are reported as dying from the effects of the pests.

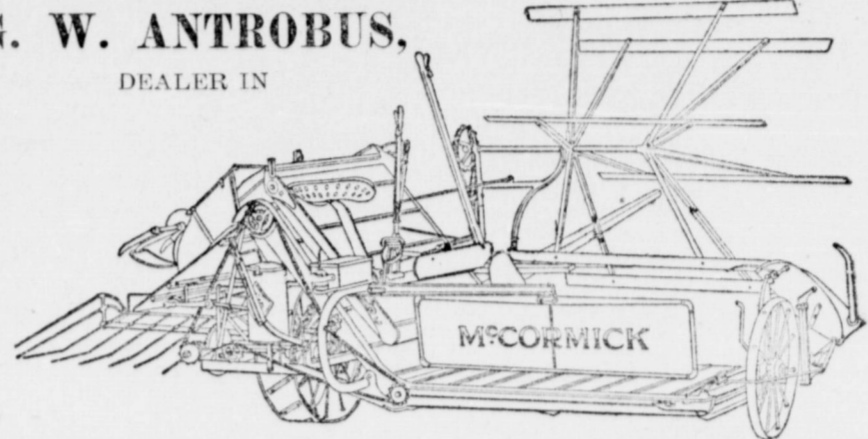

The three-year-old daughter of F. R. Stoval, who lives about six miles north of Anson, was bitten by a rattlesnake Thursday morning and died in the evening. A physician was called, but came too late to save the child.

The republican campaign committee expects to raise $750,000 by $1 contributions.

His First Customer.

Schwartz had just taken possession of the little book shop which he had purchased with the idea that there would be an ideal occupation for him, permitting him to sit around and smoke his long pipe all the time. His first patron, or would be patron, on the first morning of his advent as a book dealer was a young woman who wanted to get a book dealing with arctic romance. "Good morning," she said. "Have you got 'Frozen Dog Tales?'" "Yes, madam. Dare iss nobody in dis store but myselluf. Schmidt wanted to take half, but I wouldn't let him in on it, un?" "But you don't understand me. I mean"— "I never heard of frozen dog tails yet. Meppe dey are someding dose fillingjeeno beebles eats. But nod here, lady, nod here. Dis is a book store."

"Well, probably you do not quite understand me. I wanted to get some book that had stories of the north in it. Perhaps you have 'Pardners?'" "No, ma'am. Dare iss nobody in dis store but myselluf. Schmidt wanted to take half, but I wouldn't let him in on it, un?" "But the young woman was hurrying out.—Cleveland Leader.

A Spelling Test.

The catch question has often been asked, "How many words in the English language end in dous?" The common answer is four—hazardous, jeopardous, tremendous and stupendous. As a matter of fact, however, there are five, and the word often overlooked is hybridous, meaning mongrel or of mixed sort.

Driven From Home.

"Jinx had to put up at the hotel last night. He had quarreled with his cook." "Why, the idea! What was Mrs. Jinx doing, to stand for a thing like that?" "Mrs. Jinx is his cook."—Fort Worth Record.

The primary election law is not going to lesson strife in the state convention, and the chances are that the coming convention will be an exceeding hot number.

Upton Sinclair, author of "The Jungle," was nominated by the socialists of Mercer, Hunterdon and Somerset counties, N. J., for Congress. Sinclair says he will win.

John D. Rockefeller arrived on the steamship Amerika from Europe Saturday. No attempt was made to serve any legal papers on him. Had he been a law-breaker in more humble circumstances would it have been thus?

Col. F. B. Baillio, of Dallas, spent Saturday here. He spent a day around the Amarillo printing offices, and he says there is a pretty general opinion there that the new dailey paper is virtually owned by Wayland, of Girard, Kan., publisher of the Appeal to Reason, the socialist paper.

State Press, in the Dallas News, says, in referring to all the hard things said about the various candidates by partisan papers, it will depend on the kind of paper as to the length of time required to cool off. If they are of the "organ" kind they will cool off in a minute. In fact, one of the most remarkable things in life is the ability of the "organ" to change its tune. One of them may abuse a candidate as a horse thief and the moment he is nominated he becomes with such organ one of the most reputable of men, and, besides, a towering genius.

Only in two or three counties in the Panhandle did the county candidates submit their name to the democratic primaries. It seems the law provides that where candidates do not go into primaries the only manner in which they can get their names on the official ballot at the general election is by the county candidates obtaining 5 per cent of the number of qualified voters at last election on a petition. Now, won't they have to go on an independent ticket, as under the law a party ticket at the November election can only have the names of one candidate for each office—the one who has been nominated?

Judge Landis in the United States district court Friday gave his decision in the controversy between the adherents of John Alexander Dowie and Wilbur Voliva over the property at Zion City. The court holds that Zion City and the industries do not belong to Dowie; that while the contributors did not express the formal declaration of a trust, just created, and Dowie had no right to treat the property as his own.

The first steamboat arrived at St. Louis 89 years ago to-morrow.

Twenty years ago to-day Colorado was admitted into the Union. Forty-two years ago to-day Gen. Sherman began his siege of Atlanta.

The northbound passenger train Monday was derailed near Henrietta and passed here yesterday morning eleven hours late. No one hurt. Yesterday morning No. 7 was derailed three miles north of town and it took them all day to clear it up. No one hurt. Soft roadbed and rotten ties give way under the heavy engines and trains.

The Money Supply and Prices.

That the increased supply of money has run up prices is no longer disputed, one only has to read the public prints to be convinced. In Sunday's Dallas News you will find the following sent out from Washington:

"An explanation of the fact that the cost of living has advanced so rapidly is given by an official, who says he has made a close study of the subject for years. He attributes it to the increase of gold production within the last decade and a half—to a glut of gold. The supply of money has increased at a rate greater than the supply of necessities of life. Money being more plentiful, people will pay more for an article than it would bring years ago, when the per capita of money was not nearly so great. It is said that the annual production of gold in the world from 1800 to 1850 was only $16,000,000. From 1850 to 1890 it was $120,000,000. From 1890 to 1900 the yearly production of gold was $210,000,000. From 1900 to 1905 the yearly production increased to $320,000,000, and last year it was $379,000,000. It is believed that the total gold production of the world will reach over $400,000,000 this year. The gold crop is not consumed. It remains in the world as permanent stock, to increase the world's supply of money. For every dollar in circulation in this country ten years ago there are nearly $2 today. The per capita circulation of the United States is estimated at a little more than $32. This means that if the entire stock of money in America was divided equally among the citizens every man, woman and child in the country would have more than $32.

"The foregoing explanation is somewhat whimsical, and will hardly be accepted generally as being satisfactory. The contention that the wealth of the country, under republican tariff laws and financial laws, is not fairly distributed, is encountered whenever the poor man or the man of moderate means is a party to the conversation."

For fully fifteen minutes before the great California earthquake the horses in a certain stable in Palo Alto were exhibiting every sign of the most frantic terror, screaming wildly and plunging about in their stalls in a manner which was perfectly unaccountable. The trembling of the ground and the rocking of the houses finally suggested the possible explanation that the animals had been sensible of the approach of the impending calamity before the duller preceptive faculties of the people in the neighborhood enabled them to realize the fact.—Ex.

A Missouri paper finds that "e" is the most unfortunate letter in the English alphabet "because it's out of cash and forever in debt," to which the Hale Leader replied: "Unfortunate did you say? We don't think so. Why bless your life it at the end of time and at the beginning of eternity, first in everything, always in sunshine and never in shadow, in the middle of bed, doubled up in sleep and always at rest."

Shattering An Idol.

Marshall Field, at the time of his death, was heralded as one of the millionaires who was to be commended for his business methods and whose financial career was an honest one. He probably came as near to deserving the praise that was accorded him along this line as any other immensely wealthy man who has lived—and died.

The executors of the Marshall Field estate have found that his assessable personalty in Chicago amount to $25,000,000. A princely fortune that, and one which surely is ample enough to overcome the temptation for resort to subterfuge. Yet the records show that the Field estate paid taxes on a rendition of only $2,500,000. Just one-tenth of the value of the aggregation of wealth which was making its possessor wealthier every day and which was protected by the machinery of the government from which he habitually withheld 90 per cent of that which was due it. The equivalent of that 90 per cent which was filched for the swelling of the Field estate of necessity had to come from some other source and it is not hard to find the source from which it came.

The small merchant, who could not hide his stock; the home-builder, whose little all stood upon the modest street, and the artisan, who possessed not the art to secrete his possessions, were the ones who year by year made up the deficit caused by the magnificence of the Field fortune.

It is a pity that these things are true. The world was inclined to look upon Mr. Field as a noble man, as a philanthropist and one who loved his fellow-man nor wished to do him wrong. No one disputes that his benefactions were most liberal, no one doubts that he performed many deeds of charity and that without ostentation, too; yet no one can deny the fact that when he dodged his just share of the taxation for the support of the government which made his possession of his millions secure, he perpetrated an injustice upon his fellow-man which more than balanced either in cash or in motive all the spasmodic acts of charity which he might have performed.—Ft. Worth Record.

The people of the United States who believe that government ownership is the only solution of private monopolies may rest in perfect confidence. The economic conditions growing out of cheap power, the spread of intelligence by electricity and modern business methods is driving the government by an irresistible force to take over monopolies. The government of the United States already owns a railroad, telegraph lines, cable and various other monopolies. The powder trust has forced the government to go into the manufacture of powder. A powder factory is to be built at Rock Island, and after the government begins to make powder, if the trust does not abandon its extortions, the plant will be enlarged and the government will make all its powder. Government ownership was the only way to solve that problem and it solved it, although the head of the powder trust was recently elected to the United States senate.—The Investigator.

A. M. Beville was elected county chairman and H. B. White precinct chairman. Bowman was elected as candidate for the legislature, but it is not yet known who came out ahead for Senator or district judge, but Webster seems to be in the lead for judge.

The county convention will be held Saturday to elect delegates to the district and state conventions.

Panhandle Normal.

One of the most, if not the most, successful Summer Normal which has yet been conducted in the Panhandle was brought to a close this week in this city. The attendance at the Hereford Summer Normal was made up from the leading teachers from all parts of the Panhandle and we are told by the instructors that results have been all that could have been desired.

Prof. W. B. Quigley, of the Clarendon College and one of the Panhandle's foremost educators, has had the work in charge with the able assistance of Profs. Silvey and Johnston, also of Clarendon.

The entire enrollment for the session has been about 75 teachers, 40 of whom took the state examination Wednesday and Thursday, the closing days.

The Normal has been a big thing for Hereford and we are glad to have had the refining influence of the child-trainers with us.—Hereford Brand.
