A Common Paper for Common People

INDIANS, RODEOS PARADES FEATURE JULY CELEBRATION

Knorrp U. S. O. County Head

A drive is being made to supply recreation centers for the various soldier camps of the Nation. This is being done through the United Service Organization, each state and county of the Nation being allotted certain sums to be raised by personal contributions.

Walter B. Knorrp of the Donley County State Bank has been appointed chairman of the Donley county forces by state chairman E. B. Germany of Dallas. Mr. Knorrp had not yet made his appointment of committees.

Those who wish to help raise Donley county's quota of $500, are directed to leave the money at either of the banks in the county. Texas' quota is $400,000.

As the matter now stands, there is little or no form of amusement for the soldier in any of the camps. The object of this movement is to provide wholesome amusement such as picture shows, gymnasium and game rooms for the boys serving the colors.

Two Charged With Liquor Hauling

Following a raid in the Giles country late Saturday, C. C. Fowler and George Carroll were picked up by Hall county officers and taken to Memphis. Sheriff Guy Wright and Deputy Truett Behrens were notified and brought the two men to Clarendon late Saturday night where they were each charged with transporting liquor.

Carroll made bond in the sum of $350 Sunday and his appearance date was set at July 11th. Fowler remains a guest of the county.

Hall county officers making the investigation stated the two men were riding in a pickup containing a case each of gin, beer and whiskey. Fowler is alleged to have been driving the vehicle.

Officers in the squad were Sheriff W. C. Anderson, police chief Ed McCreary, deputy sheriff A. B. Suetar, and Memphis night marshal C. B. Hume.

C. C. Fowler was taken before county judge R. Y. King early Tuesday when he entered a plea of guilt and was given the minimum fine of $100 and costs amounting to $126. He elected to lay it out in jail. Sheriff Wright stated.

EIGHT CITIZENS FROM BOYS RANCH PRESENT PROGRAM

Attracting no little attention was that big bus from Boys Ranch of Tascosa Tuesday having aboard Supt. A. G. Weeks and eight of the citizens of this celebrated institution.

They called on Doss Palmer at the Palmer motor company with whom they have a personal acquaintance after his frequent visits to the Boys Ranch headquarters.

Mr. Palmer escorted the group to the Lions club luncheon where the eight boys presented a varied program. Some of them sang,

CLARENDON'S MAIN STREET as it appeared fifty years ago. This photo is the property of F. A. White who came to Clarendon in 1890. Later trees were planted on the street where they were a civic attraction for many years, being removed in 1918 when street paving got under way. The 4th of July celebration here was a big day even then as a leading pioneer event.

CONG. GENE WORLEY

became congressman from this district in an election held in 1940 due to the resignation of Marvin Jones. Mr. Worley has acquitted himself with honor during this, his first term. He will always be just plain "Gene" to the thousands of Panhandle people who have unbounded faith in the character and ability of this young man who has endeared himself to all classes. Gene recently made his first speech in Congress, an account of which appears in this issue of your Donley County Leader.

PIERCE TAKES POLL

Receiving a telegram Tuesday from E. B. Germany, state manager of the O'Daniel campaign, S. A. Pierce was directed to "poll" the blacksmith shops, grocery stores and the postoffice, and wire the results to Gov. O'Daniel at Abilene as he was to speak there Tuesday night.

The results showed Dies 1, Johnson 2, O'Daniel 4, and Mann 9. Mr. Pierce, an ardent O'Daniel supporter, wired the results as directed.

W. H. PATRICK

CLEANING FIRM GOES MODERN AGAIN

Adding from time to time to their equipment, the Shaver & Whitlock firm of cleaners have a plant that will take care of any amount of business that comes their way, and with facilities for turning out good work.

A filter was added this week to clean the naphtha, the fluid with which the clothing is cleaned. "This fluid must be water white for best results," Mr. Whitlock stated. A modern extractor removes the odor and the naphtha after the cleaning process.

Rodeo Queen Contest Is Keenest

A tremendous amount of interest is being shown in the contest to select the rodeo queen. The votes were counted Tuesday night and the five sponsors with the greatest number of votes were selected to finish the contest. The voting will close next Tuesday afternoon and the sponsor receiving the greatest number of votes will be announced as the Queen of the Rodeo at the big Western Platform dance that night. All of the girls received a number of votes and everyone is urged to vote in the finals. The five sponsors receiving the highest number of votes were Mrs. Dick Shelton, Miss Laverne McMurtry, Miss Vera Noland, Miss Madeline Kelly, and Mrs. Murray Dodson. The Queen will be presented with a fine stetson hat.

Boys, the votes are only 10c each, so if you want your friend to be queen put your dime in the box to be found at Lees Cafe, Douglas & Goldston Drug and Norwood Drug Store.

Everyone is looking forward to the Western Platform Dance to be held in the City Park Tuesday night. Several out of town people have said they will be here. The Committee urges everyone to wear the western rodeo regalia. Price 50c per person.

GIRLS TO CONTEST IN RODEO HONORS EACH AFTERNOON

PIGGLY WIGGLY BUYS BETTER EQUIPMENT

Not only has the main store installed new equipment of modern design, but the meat market owned and operated by Fred Russell and Gilmer Ayers have installed a fourteen foot refrigerator display case that adds much to the appearance of the meat stock as well as a sanitary advantage.

The grocery stock is displayed on new shelving. The rack assembly displays fruits, potatoes, etc. The turnstile and railing as well as the push carts are of latest design and mean much to the convenience of handling the trade.

TO SHORT COURSE

Supt. Ruth M. Richerson was accompanied to College Station Sunday by Miss Marybelle Mitchell, county school Supt. of Childress county. The ladies will be two of the large number to study the Short Course in education this week.

DE VAULT INFANT IS INJURED MONDAY

James Edward De Vault, whose father is employed by a seismograph crew here at this time, was painfully injured early Monday. The little man of 18 months stepped off the curb in front of the former Wilder sanitarium just in time to be struck by a car being backed from the curb by Guy Durant. The accident was unavoidable as the car driver's view was obscured by the locust brush.

The injured infant was treated at Adair hospital for head and shoulder bruises and returned to his home Tuesday afternoon.

BACK FROM VACATION

Mrs. Hattie Palmer and son James Wesley returned home Wednesday from a three weeks visit with her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Norman McCrary at Silver City, New Mexico.

HENRY S. BISHOP

who will make the principal address on the Mulkey Day program here the 4th, has been a resident of the Panhandle for more than half a century. He served as district attorney and later as district judge during the formative period of the Panhandle's most crucial era. He has been strong for law enforcement, always tempering justice with mercy. His name is a household word and a badge of honor to the gentleman who bears it.

(By Pinch Hitter)

The show will likely open around 10 a. m. July 3rd, with Clarendon and Shamrock bands playing patriotic airs. More bands may show up at the last minute.

At 11:15 a. m. the Indians take over. The bunch will be directed by Chief Baldwin Parker of the Comanches. They won't get through until noon. That will give us time to eat. Look through the advertising columns of this paper to find out the best place to eat.

At one o'clock the parade will start. Old Buddy Knorrp and Flip Breedlove say their noise will start from the Antro hotel promptly at 1 p. m. A loud speaker will tell you what is happening in case you don't know.

The rodeo works starts at 2 p. m. This department is in charge of ranchers, cowboys and ex-cow-punchers. There are more men on the committee than can get inside the rodeo grounds. That's why they have divided up the jobs. It will be late in the afternoon before this show ends, and there will be plenty of excitement every minute.

The main men on seeing that the rodeo goes over in a big way are John McClellan, Geo. E. Norwood, John Blocker, Loyd Shelton, Joe McMurtry. You know it is bound to be a real humdinger—in the language of the old West.

One phase of the rodeo will be that of selecting a queen. Mrs. Joe McMurtry and Mrs. John McClellan will show-off their girls at 2 p. m. at the rodeo grounds. Local girls will do their stunts in the afternoon, and the girl entrants from out of town, will come in for their honors at the night rodeo at 8 p. m.

Around 10 p. m. each night Ernest "Toney" Kent will hold his street and square dance on the main street while the other folks will have a sponsors dance at the City Park.

July Fourth Program

The "Homer Mulkey Appreciation Day" service will be held on the main street from 10 a. m. to 12. W. H. Patrick will be master of ceremonies, and Judge Henry S. Bishop of Amarillo will deliver the address eulogy. A. L. Chase is chairman of the reception committee.

The rodeo will get under way at 2 p. m. In many respects, the program will be similar to that of the day before. The second session will be at 8 p. m.

Dancing will be in full swing at 10:30, or before in which teams from several points will show their skill in dancing, and musicians with their special skill.

EGG MARKET PEGGED AT 22 CENTS

The price of eggs will be 22 cents for the next 15 months, according to an announcement of Chicago produce market association. This is double the price of last year on this date, it is said.

$32,348 Damage Sustained By College

Insurance adjusters and the School Board, in a meeting Wednesday, agreed upon the damages sustained to the College buildings in the tornado of June 9th. The sum agreed upon is $32,348.18.

No agreement was reached on the equipment. Serious damage to furniture, chemical laboratory, typewriters of the commercial department and other valuable property was sustained.

A contractor has agreed to place the buildings in as good condition as before the tornado in exchange for the sum to be paid by the insurance company, Judge J. R. Porter, member of the Board, informed the Leader.

MEMBER OF
Panhandle Press Association

This editor is in receipt of a letter from a union mechanic giving his side of the strike situation. We quote:

"The laboring man often wonders why he is blamed every time a strike is called. If the public STRIKES AND DEFENSE would stop and think that food and clothing prices have steadily advanced. If I got five dollars a day last year, it would amount to about four and a quarter today, since the purchasing power is far less than it was a year ago. Then another thing! One aircraft manufacturer has refunded fifty percent of the contract price to the government. This firm said the price was exorbitant. Maybe it was. Today our government pays $125,000 for a fighter plane that Henry Ford offered to make for $15,000. And $40,000 is paid for an anti air craft gun that Ford offered to make for $8,000. Examples like this show why 'defense' is costing us so much. Yet the mechanics are expected to work harder to make more money for their bosses who are already making entirely too much. Who pays the bill? The taxpayer! Let's look at both sides of the labor question."

side of defense. We are told that we are short on Aluminum. In fact so short that this metal will have to be left out of the new cars coming along the next twelve months. At the same time, orders have been placed for millions of aluminum coffee pots and syrup pitchers for the army. And again, we have a few old heads in command in the army who want to stick to men and bayonets as a defense weapon. That's like trying to flag a streamlined Zephyr with a pickaxe. In modern war, by the time you get your bayonet fixed, you and your army have been blitzkrieged off the map. Speed is the main thing. Getting there first with the most planes and tanks is what gets the Germans over. Why not balance the modernism of the younger men with the experience and conservatism of the older men? Properly equipped, our American fighting units will make the Germans look like a bunch of Boy Scouts. May our army handle the strikes and get the other parts of the army fully equipped, prepared to meet any and all foes foolish enough to take a chance at us "over here."

Through the courtesy of Mr. J. C. Estlack, to whom we are indebted for many favors, we are permitted this means of saying "Thank You" to the good people of Clarendon for the cordial reception afforded upon our arrival in this City and the many kindnesses we have received during the entire time of our stay. We have enjoyed Clarendon and its people, and leave with many regrets, and the hope that our moving will not break the precious ties of friendship which have been formed, and which bind us together. We shall expect our Clarendon friends, who may from time to time visit Pampa, to look in at the Rectory.

A special word to brother Clergy. You are a grand group of men, and Mrs. Henshaw and I love both you and yours. Each of us has labored in his own field. Each of us hold different opinions on some things. We have respected each others opinions and together we have sought to work for the Master and the Kingdom of God as a whole. Wheat Loans Set At 94 Cents

Wheat quotas are now in effect and will apply on the 1941 wheat crop. Nollie Simmons, Chairman of the Donley County AAA committee announced this week.

Tabulations compiled in the local AAA office at Clarendon indicate that wheat farmers of the county approved marketing quotas by a vote of 939 to 2, a majority of 95.1 percent, when they voted in the nation-wide wheat referendum, Saturday May 31st.

Mr. Simmons also announced that preliminary but unofficial figures from the State AAA office indicate that Texas farmers approved quotas by a vote of 13,974 to 938, or 93.7 percent, while the United States voted 80.3 percent for quotas.

"All farmers who have planted within their wheat allotments for this year," Simmons said, "may continue to sell or feed all they produce. They may also dispose of any old wheat carried over from previous years."

Since quotas are approved, wheat farmers who have planted within their allotments are eligible for a wheat loan which will approximate 94 cents per bushel net in most Texas counties for No. 2 wheat, although the rates have not been announced officially. The amount of excess wheat will be the smaller of actual production or normal yield on the overplanted acres for the farm, the committeeman explained.

Overplanted wheat farmers who have a marketing excess may dispose of it in one of three ways, (1) they may market it and pay the penalty, which will be 50 percent of the national average loan rate of 98c per bushel, (2) they may deliver it to the Secretary of Agriculture through the local AAA committee for relief purposes or other purposes that will divert it from the normal channels of trade, or (3) they may store it under bond, in which case the wheat is sealed in storage approved for government loans and the farmer will be eligible for a loan on it at 60 percent of the regular loan rate.

MISS JO ELLEN KENNEDY IS BRIDE OF GLENN E. HESS

Miss Jo Ellen Kennedy, daughter of Mrs. Holman Kennedy of Clarendon and Glenn Edward Hess, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Hess of Oklahoma City, were united in marriage in the auditorium of the First Presbyterian Church Saturday morning at 11 o'clock.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. M. M. Miller, local pastor, and the wedding marked the culmination of a college romance begun two years ago.

Woodwardia ferns, massed flowers and baskets of white peonies formed a decorative background. Overhanging from a Roman archway was a seven-branched candelabrum. Along the bridal path on either side, three-branched candelabra lighted the pews and tall white candles gleamed throughout the church. Clyde Slavin of Clarendon gave his cousin in marriage.

The bride wore white Chantilly lace over dutchess satin, with a train, and a full-length veil of white illusion attached to a pearl tiara. Her bouquet was of white gardenias.

The bridesmaids were attired in white chiffon, fashioned with long sleeves and high neck. Each wore a large hat of white horsehair braid with velvet streamers to the floor and carried fans of white gladioli.

The maid of honor was Miss Mary Anna Klett of Cheyenne, Wyo., who will reign as Miss Frontier at this year's annual Cheyenne Frontier Days celebration. Miss Klett is a college sorority sister of the bride. Other bridesmaids were Misses Joie Johnson of Lawton, Okla., and Dorothy Bet Ritzhaupt of Guthrie, also sorority sister and Betty and Patricia Hess, sisters of the bridegroom.

Acting as best man was Lieut. J. Clark of the United States Air Corps at West Palm Beach, Fla. Ushers were Lieut. Earl R. Foster, Fort Sill, Okla.; Louis K. Sharp, Checotah, Okla.; Clyde Harris and George Barnett, Oklahoma City; Arthur Cavenaugh, Lawton and Pat Slavin, Clarendon.

An impressive prelude to the ceremony was Miss Mary Howren's rendition of "Liebestraum," by Liszt. Completing the pre-nuptial concert were vocal duets by June and Millard Miller, who sang "I Love You Truly," by Bond and "At Dawning" by Cadman.

As the bridal party entered the church, the traditional strains from Wagner's "Lohengrin," swelled from the organ. Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" was played as the recessional.

Following the marriage was a reception at the home of Mrs. C. T. McMurtry.

The bride's mother wore a black and white ensemble with matching accessories. Her corsage was of white gardenias. The bridegroom's mother wore a blue and pink ensemble and a corsage of pink Camellias.

The bride's going-away suit was brown and white eyelet jersey with brown and white accessories, and she wore a corsage of Talisman roses.

Mrs. Hess, native of Clarendon, is a daughter of the late Holman Kennedy, Clarendon banker. She was educated at the Universities of Wyoming and Oklahoma. Active in student affairs at both schools, Mrs. Hess was a member of the Spurs Club, the Eta Sigma Phi honorary fraternity, the Panhellenic Council and the Kappa Kappa Gamma national college sorority.

Mr. Hess is a geological engineer. He was educated at Kemper Military Academy, Boonville, Mo., where he was a member of the Seaboard and Blade military society; and he is also a graduate of the University of Oklahoma school of engineering where he was a member of the Sigma Tau and Tau Beta Pi honor fraternities and a member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon national college fraternity.

The bridegroom is associated in business with his father in the Concho Sand and Gravel Company of Oklahoma with headquarters in Oklahoma City. The couple left on a trip to Grand Lake, Colo., and will be at home at Forty-fourth and Portland Streets, Oklahoma City, after July 1.

MUSEUM SIDELIGHTS

The friends and patrons of the Donley County Museum will be pleased to learn that the recent cyclone did no damage to the Museum. The room used for the exhibits is situated in the basement of the south wing of the dormitory, and this wing escaped the fury of the storm. But because of the reconstruction now in progress on the building, and because of the great amount of debris strewn around, the Museum will not be opened on July the Fourth. However, as soon as the condition of the building justifies, the Museum will be opened to the public each week as usual.

It is requested that those interested will not forget the collection being made of unusual buttons, and will also bring any other rare and interesting objects to Mrs. L. S. Bagby. The latest gift to the Museum, found and presented by the paleontologists Vaughan and Rawlis, is the foot and leg of a three-toed horse, a perfect specimen of this long extinct animal. The Museum authorities are very appreciative of this gift.

OLD LOVE

This has been a busy day cleaning out my heart; So many trifles buried there I found it hard to start.

First I blew the dream-dust off; The place was thickly spread With silver wings of lovely hours That long ago lay dead;

Wishes, odd and out of date; Plans, at least a score; And here and there a tangled heap Of worries on the floor.

Ruthlessly I brushed them out, Supposing I was through. When suddenly I came upon A little thought of you!

It was a wistful tender thought; I really didn't dare. I softly closed the crimson door And left it hidden there.

DALHART WOMAN UNITED WITH FAMILY AFTER LONG SEARCH

DALHART, June 23.—Mayme Alice Caldwell, 29 years old of Dalhart this week is enjoying the fruits of an age-long and disheartening search.

The story was learned from Mrs. J. W. Dawson of Dalhart.

The comely, red-haired, 29-year old girl, was born Mayme Townsend in Nashville, Tenn. Her mother, on her deathbed, called for an intimate friend and nurse, Mrs. Nora Fortner of Nashville, and asked her and her husband to adopt Mayme. They did, a week later.

But shortly thereafter Mrs. Fortner suffered a nervous breakdown. Convinced she was going to die, she sent Mayme to the Pentecostal Training Home in Nashville. In a few months, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Dawson, now of Dalhart, sent for her and raised her. She took their name but was never adopted.

Shortly after Mayme was taken from the training home it burned, and too late the Dawsons sought information about Mayme's folks. Records had been destroyed. Employes could not recall Mayme's ancestry. Tennessee state records revealed no birth certificate.

Mayme grew up, a charming young woman, and joined her efforts to those of Mr. and Mrs. Dawson.

In April of this year Mayme wrote her story to the Nazarene Weekly, a church publication of Nashville. Mrs. Fortner, still living there, read it. She was overjoyed. She had been searching for Mayme ever since she had got over her critical illness, but burning of the training home and records had balked every attempt.

She wrote that Mayme's father, Claude Townsend had left Nashville for Kentucky and that she had lost track of him. But, she added, Mayme's oldest sister, Mrs. Nellie Pope and, perhaps other sisters lived in or near Hammon, Okla.

Mayme addressed her sister, Nellie, at Hammon, but the letter came back. She was about to give up when Mrs. Ivy Bohannon, wife of the pastor of the Nazarene Church in Dalhart, to which Mayme belongs, suggested she write all ministers in Hammon. Again, bad news. The Baptist pastor wrote he had known Nellie Pope. But she had moved. He didn't know where.

Then the Assembly of God preacher at Hammon reported. He knew a Mrs. Maud Cole of Hammon; knew that she had a sister, Nellie Pope, and knew that the women's maiden name had been Townsend. He would contact Mrs. Cole. On the heels of his letter to Mayme came a wire from Mrs. Cole signed, "Your sister."

There isn't much to the rest of it. Mrs. Pope had moved to near Wichita, Kan. Mayme's father was located in Siloam Springs, Ark. This week Mayme is enjoying a visit with her father, her five sisters, their husbands and families in Hammon.

And she is to see Mr. and Mrs. Fortner and their grown son, 17 days older than Mayme, in Nashville as soon as she can arrange it.

GARDEN GLANCES
 "America beautiful lies in the hands of the gardeners."
 June with its abundance of flowers brings on insects to test the endurance of any gardener—so hurry and spray! The elder with its lacy blossoms can be seen in many yards. We especially admired the large clumps in the Bartlett's back yard.
 Trumpet vines with their reddish orange flowers are blooming with a riotous abandon on the fences at the Walter Taylor's, Francis Taylor's and Headrick's.
 Several small lawns are carefully worked and very attractive such as the Dawkin's, Bain's, Helton's and Brazille's. Gorgeous clumps of day lilies are flaunting their orange beauty at the Mongole's and Bill Weatherly's.

 In the Crockett Taylor's yard a mimosa tree with its feathery foliage and misty pink flowers attracts the attention of all who pass by.
 Have you ever seen such beautiful clumps of hollyhocks as are growing here? Notice those growing in the lot between the Shelton and Burton homes.
 "Flowers are as varied and interesting in character as people."
 Mrs. Cleo Johnson and children returned to their home at Giles Monday. They spent several days at the home of her brother, Heck Cope in Elreno, Okla.

Shelterbelts And National Defense

"Can Shelterbelts be an aid to National Defense?" was the question asked of Douglas S. Miller, the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Forest Service representative at Clarendon recently. "By all means, yes," replied Miller. "If you will concede that the success of any army depends upon its raw materials for a successful campaign."
 "The Shelterbelts," Miller went on to say, "will play a big part in stabilizing agriculture in the great plains states and will help to provide more food supplies and raw materials for clothing, etc., especially when the pattern as planned is completed. The importance of this statement is emphasized more when we consider that the great plains states are often times referred to as the "bread basket" of the United States and as such must supply all our defense forces including the army, navy, marines and home guard units."
 The shelterbelt program, which started in this area in 1936, and in Donley County in 1939, was planned to help stabilize agriculture in the wind swept areas of six plains states, including North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, and the Panhandle of Texas, long before there was any thought as to their benefits to a national defense program. These areas were suffering the effect of drought, wind erosion and the loss of much of the fertile top soil that is essential for crop success. There was a need for some system of protection that would be permanent and protect large areas of land from blowing. Long windbreaks of trees planted approximately one-half mile apart was the best answer to this problem.
 That this protection is highly desirable is evident from the statements of the shelterbelt owners themselves. Only recently W. I. Rains pointed out the reduced losses of his top soil and better growing conditions for his crops due to the protection from the trees. N. T. Myers, J. W. McPherson, Claude Nash, E. R. Myers, John Goldston, W. C. Quisenberry, J. H. McMurtry, R. M. Webb and Joe Goldston, all of whom have from one-half to three miles of shelterbelts, are enthusiastic in their praise of the trees.
 "These things add up to still another way in which shelterbelts will aid in National Defense, Mr. Miller said. "Look around at the abandoned fields from which some families once harvested good crops. These fields are now idle and these folks no longer there. Both are literally "gone with the wind." But a community pattern of shelterbelts will check the wind, make it possible to bring back both the fields and the folks, and help each to again be a productive part of the community."

SIDE GLANCES ON TEXAS HISTORY
 By Charles O. Hucker
 University of Texas Library

Of Philip Nolan: What Did He Want?
 In the mixture of racial stocks that makes up the American people, the Irish hold a rank which is justly celebrated, and part of their impressive American heritage is at the heart of the development of Texas. It may even be, perhaps, that it was a native Irishman who first dreamed of a free and independent Republic of Texas.
 This man was Philip Nolan, who is remembered in history as the first of the Anglo-Americans who led filibustering campaigns into Texas. The story of his expeditions is one of the most intriguing tales ever turned up in the Texas Collection of the University of Texas Library.
 In 1797 Nolan, who for twelve years had been trading illegally between San Antonio and Natchez, Miss., rounded up a herd of wild Texas mustangs for the United States cavalry, entering Texas this time with the written permission of Spanish officials in Mexico. And three years later returned, carrying his original passport and a blithe disdain for the objections of the Spanish consul at Natchez, who suspected his intentions.
The Spanish Object
 For months things went well with the eighteen men who crossed the Red River late in 1800. On the plains of northern Texas they found tremendous herds of mustangs and corralled hundreds. They won the friendship of various Indian tribes of the district, notably the powerful Comanches. They were prospering. But at last, on the 22nd of March, 1801, a troop of 150 Spanish soldiers laid siege to their little log enclosure on the plain, and shortly after dawn Philip Nolan lay dead with a rifle-ball in his head.
 Despite Nolan's death, however, the eleven surviving Americans fought on past noon under the command of 17 year old Ellis P. Bean. Around 3 o'clock in the afternoon they surrendered. They surrendered on two conditions: that they be allowed to keep their arms and that they be escorted safely to the Louisiana border. With such an understanding, they were marched off toward Nacogdoches.
 The Americans had one chance to escape. When they reached the flooded Trinity River, Bean fixed up a canoe and managed to maneuver the crossing so that at one time he had all of the Spanish soldiers on the east bank and their arms and their commander on the west bank with him and his followers; and he immediately proposed that the Americans send the Spanish officer across, dump the enemy arms into the river, and proceed back to the plains. But on the repeated promise of a safe return to the United States, the men chose to keep on toward Nacogdoches.
The Mystery
 There they waited a month for an official order releasing them, and then suddenly all were clapped in irons. Six years passed and they were still in irons deep in the interior, and the Nolan escapee was closed history. Yet it still needed a little unraveling; finally one of the men was hanged, and another—Bean—had a long and remarkable future in Mexico. What became of the others remains a mystery.
 The greatest mystery of all, however, concerns the original purpose of the expedition, for no one can prove definitely what it was. Perhaps, as some historians claim, it was only to get more horses. Perhaps, as has also been suggested, it was to seek rich gold mines in the land of the Comanches. But—and Spanish officials for years claimed they could prove this with documents—perhaps it was to separate Texas from Mexico.
 Well, what was dashing Philip Nolan, son of Ireland? Merely a fortune-hunter? Or ought he be remembered as the first in the long line of dreamers who ultimately set Texas free?

WHAT PEOPLE DID A HALF CENTURY AGO

They didn't celebrate Christmas until Dec. 25.
 The courting by the young folks was done in the girl's home in the parlor.
 The boy rode a mule on Sunday and was at home by sundown.
 The girls wore longer skirts and shorter heels on their shoes.
 The men wore their coats while in the presence of the ladies.
 The ladies spoke to men with whom they were acquainted, when and where they met them.
 There was not so much tableware but a lot to eat.
 There was not so much preaching but a heap of religion.
 There was less style and more fellowship.
 The mode of travel was simple but they always got there, without running over anybody.
 If a man told you he would vote for you, he meant it.
 Thanksgiving was observed on the last Thursday in November.
 There was always some cotton to pick after Christmas.
 You did not have to buy an office to get elected.
 It only cost a nominal sum to be born or to be buried.
 The seats were occupied in the amen corners in the churches.
 The ladies were not in politics.
 The children were in school long enough to miss them from home, and had to walk to and from school.
 There were but few divorces and no twin beds.
 There was cooperation among neighbors.
 There were no ladies smoking cigarettes nor painting their finger nails.
 There were no barmaids selling booze.
 There were no ladies patronizing barbershops.
 Silk stockings had not made their appearance.

The ladies did not bob their hair.
 The children had not found out who Santa Claus was.
 Practically all women and young ladies dipped snuff.

MRS. HALL GROWS FINE BEANS
 No finer gardens have ever been seen in Donley county than right now. Among those fine gardens is that of Mrs. Joe Hall who sent a sample of her product to the Leader office Tuesday. This sample consisted of pods of case-knife beans, a variety familiar to our folks of all ages since they have been grown since earliest times.
 The pods are extra large, some measuring almost a foot in length, and over an inch in width.
 Garden vegetables grown include English peas, snap beans, carrots, radishes, spinach, mustard, beets as a rule in most every garden. Others branch off on safsify, egg plant, broccoli and other side lines that do well when a rainy season comes along. Onions are an old favorite and are to be had the year round

FSA FAMILIES RAISE AVERAGE ANNUAL INCOME $549 to $788

West Texas farm families with standard rehabilitation loans from the Farm Security Administration have increased their average yearly net income from $549 to $788, according to Rex B. Baxter, state director of this agency's rural rehabilitation program.

The increase is 44 per cent and is based on the FSA's borrowers' 1940 status with their condition before coming into the program, was revealed in a nationwide survey just completed in Washington.

The survey showed that the purchasing power of the 4,435 standard rehabilitation borrowers in 47 West Texas counties was increased by $1,092,521.

Baxter said the families are making satisfactory progress in the repayment of their long-term loans. They have thus far paid $3,555,622 in loan installments out of $6,668,577 borrowed, although much of the money does not fall due for four or five years.

Tribute to Honesty

"We of the Farm Security Administration believe this repayment record is a tribute to the honesty and industry of needy farm people working with this agency," Baxter declared. "There is evidence that the majority of them are getting back on their feet and becoming permanently self-supporting."

The survey shows that on the basis of last year's operations, the average FSA borrower in West Texas produced $300 worth of goods for home consumption, as compared with $155 before coming into the FSA program.

Home produced goods include 429 gallons of milk per family; 386 pounds of meat; and 225 quarts of vegetables and fruit canned for the winter.

In addition to the rural rehabilitation program, Baxter explained that Farm Security is carrying out the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act, which provides a limited number of loans to competent tenants to enable them to buy family-type farms.

Low Interest
During the first three years of this program, FSA has made a large number of loans in West Texas. The purchase loans are made for periods of 40 years at 3 per cent interest.

Another important phase of FSA's rehabilitation program, Baxter explained, is the adjustment of the family's old debts in order that the farmers can continue operating and so that creditors may realize something on their investments.

Stress Living Standard
Stabilization of tenants to the land through long-term leases is another phase of the agency's broad program for helping landlords and tenants.

"While all governmental agencies are working hand in hand with the citizenry as a whole to make America strong in the present emergency," Baxter concluded, "the Department of Agriculture through the Farm Security Administration and other agencies is striving to improve the living standards, the health, sanitation and economic conditions of farm families and at the same time helping conserve the natural resources of this nation. Obviously the department is contributing much to the present National Defense program."

ALL TAX PAYERS

We have heard much of "hidden taxes" on various necessities of life but it remained for the Kansas Business Magazine to run down these levies and make a list of them for public information. Here is the result of the magazine's investigation:

Out of every $1 spent for new automobiles, 15c is tax.

Out of every $1 spent for furniture, 18c is tax.

Out of every $1 spent for rent 25c is tax.

Out of every $1 spent for wall paper, 10c is tax.

Out of every $1 spent for movie tickets, 12c is tax.

Out of every $1 spent for insurance, 3c is tax.

Out of every $1 spent for women's clothing, 10c is tax.

Out of every $1 spent for men's clothing 12c is tax.

Out of every $1 spent for shoes, 7c is tax.

Out of every $1 spent for electricity, 12c is tax; for gas, 15c.

Out of every $1 spent for bus fare, 6c is tax.

Out of every $1 spent for meat 8c is tax.

Out of every $1 spent for sugar 18c is tax; for matches, 13c; for vegetables, 9c; for canned goods 8c; for cocoa 20c.

Out of every $1 spent for proprietary medicine, beauty preparations, or shaving cream, 20c is tax.

Out of every $1 spent for bread 15c is tax.

Out of every $1 spent for diamond rings, 17c is tax.

Out of every $1 spent for railroad fare, 11c is tax.

Out of every $1 spent for guns and shells, 20c is tax.

Out of every $1 paid on telephone bills, 15c is tax.

Out of every $1 spent for milk and dairy products 10c is tax.

Out of every $1 spent for automobile upkeep, 37c is tax.

This is a pretty hefty list, but seems to be merely the beginning as the Federal government will have to make numerous other levies to take care of the defense program.

Mrs. Willard Skelton returned home Saturday after spending a week with her sister, Mrs. Bob Oswalt, in Vernon.

SIDE GLANCES ON TEXAS HISTORY

By Charles O. Hucker
University of Texas Library

AN INTRODUCTION TO COMANCHE ETHICS

There's an old belief that if you stand up for what you think are your rights you can make your way in the world under any conditions. In the Texas Collection of the University of Texas Library is evidence to back it up—to prove, for instance, that it was possible to get on even with the Comanches, possibly the fiercest of the North American Indians, if you only knew the trick.

The evidence is in J. W. Wilbarger's voluminous "Indian Depredations in Texas," which contains some of the most dramatic tales in all Southwestern literature. It's the story of Mrs. Rachel Plummer, who lived among the quarrelsome Comanches for eighteen months and eventually earned a place of respect among them, though at the cost of long misery and suffering.

Mrs. Plummer was among the settlers who came to Texas from Illinois in 1833 and established on the banks of the Navasota River a fortress which they called Parker's Fort after their leader, Elder John Parker. And she was present on May 19, 1836, when the fort witnessed an Indian raid which was to become famous in frontier history.

The Parker's Fort Raid

Early that May morning, some five hundred Indians, mostly Comanches and Kiowas, suddenly invaded the settlement. They swept into the fort, murdered five of its inhabitants, and carried another five off into captivity. Mrs. Plummer, together with her son John and her better-remembered kinswoman, Cynthia Ann Parker, who was then but a girl of 9 years, was among those taken alive.

When the various tribes later parted company, Mrs. Plummer, separated from the other captives, fell to the lot of a Comanche warrior and his squaw, who, during the coming months, taught her all the fabled terrors and rigors of Indian captivity. She was carried into the snow-covered Rocky Mountains of New Mexico and there, with little clothing and frequently no footwear, was required to dress buffalo hides by day and tend horses by night, often while suffering seriously from frostbite. She was despised, abused, and apparently destined to a future of servile futility.

After a year of such service, which she found she could do nothing to escape, she was passed on as personal servant and companion to a brutal old woman, under whom her life was even more miserable than it had been before.

She Learns Her Lesson
But by this time, however, Mrs. Plummer later told, she was so deep in despair that she quickly resolved no longer to be tormented by the old squaw, who held her in the greatest contempt. So one day, when the old woman began to beat her with a club, she snatched it from her and knocked her down in a rage.

As the incident had passed in full view of a number of Comanche warriors who, typically, were loitering about in the shade and telling tales, the unexpected turn of events brought them all rushing excitedly upon her. Quite naturally, Wilbarger wrote, "she fully expected to be killed." Instead, however, she met the warm approval of the warriors, who, thinking it all a huge joke, patted her gleefully on the back.

And thus, from personal experience, Mrs. Plummer learned the old "stand-up for our rights" lesson, and she learned it well. In a short time she was an established favorite in the camp—"the Fighting Squaw," they called her—and remained so until she was ransomed at last, eighteen months after her capture, and returned to her people.

Maurice Lane is visiting relatives in Ft. Worth and incidentally looking out for a good job that will fit his talents.

PROTECTION TO MAKE SANE FOURTH

Drunks on the 3rd and 4th of July will be given special attention, according to Sheriff Guy Wright. In addition to the regular force of the Sheriff's office and deputies over the county, highway patrolmen in number will be on the job early and stay late. "We want every one to have the best time ever, but we want them to stay sober and respect the lives and property of others while they are doing it," Sheriff Wright stated.

Yes, and Grandma is to get a break this time. No more will hoodlums follow her and throw torpedoes around her feet as in former celebrations. Fireworks will be backed off the main part of town. The nervous people will have a chance to enjoy the celebration without fear. City marshal R. T. Brown will be backed up in this enforcement by the sheriff's force and the highway patrolmen.

These officers are acting upon the urgent request of a large number of sane citizens, as well as discharging their sworn duties. You are kindly requested to lend them every cooperation possible.

PATRIOTIC HEN JOINS NATIONAL DEFENSE

Throughout the ages in song and story, the cow, sow and hen have been the principal means of paying off the mortgage and of making family needs an easy matter.

With the 22-cent a dozen price on eggs, a Rhode Island hen of the J. A. Stewart family near Goldston has joined the national defense forces, only she prefers that eggs be sold by weight rather than count.

The egg brought to the Leader office today measured eight inches over the ends, and was six and a half inches in circumference. Some egg!

O'Daniel Talks To Big Crowd

Delayed by rain as he left Amarillo, Governor O'Daniel, his family and musicians were unable to reach here at the announced 2:45 speaking hour Monday afternoon. His crowd, made up largely of the aged, women and children, waited with breathless excitement. Several business men went out to hear him.

The Governor is fully aware that his old supporters fear that his successor, Hon. Coke Stevenson, who will become governor automatically upon the election of O'Daniel to the senate, is unfriendly to the pension idea. The

GOV. W. LEE O'DANIEL

Governor told his crowd that "after I serve as senator 18 months, if the people of Texas are not being treated properly, I will return to Texas as your governor for a third term."

Legislature Acted Up
"It has been 'us governor' since 1938," said the man who has broken all political precedents in Texas. "For the first time since the administration of the immortal James Stephen Hogg the people have had their say so in their state government. After Hogg went out, the professional politicians stepped in, and they were in until 1938 when the common citizens got together behind one man. Since then, it's been 'us governor'."

The governor said he wouldn't have run for the U. S. Senate to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Morris Sheppard if the Legislature hadn't acted up. The House, he pointed out, passed a resolution urging him to run for the Senate. "They wanted me to resign and catch a train or plane and whizz off to Washington to take Senator Sheppard's place. It was a flowery resolution. It made me feel mighty good. Well, I'd told the people there was little chance for social security legislation this time. So when the house urged me to rush to Washington, I sent them a message telling them what I wanted done—and explained my decision about the Senate race depended on their action. Boy, they passed everything through in a hurry; in such a hurry, in fact, some of the members didn't know what they'd done until they read about it in the newspapers two or three days later."

The governor lashed the Legislature—particularly the house—for remaining in session; he carved with a verbal knife the "professional politicians;" he ripped into the lobbyists; he praised the common people.

"You Know Who"
"You know who will be elected to the Senate," he said. "So do the professional politicians. The Legislature has spent about a million dollars of public money. We're going to have the longest session in history. Austin seems to have become a health resort."

It was a typical O'Daniel show. The Hill-billies played a few tunes; Molly and the boys passed the flour barrels, taking up money to pay the campaign expenses.

"We pay our own way on small contributions," remarked the governor. "We have no piles of money coming in from various sources to pay for our campaign."

No estimate was made of the enthusiastic crowd, but it was the largest of any to greet a senatorial candidate here to date.

SCHOOL BOARD WILL REMIT DELINQUENT TAX PENALTIES

According to a tax notice appearing in last issue of your Donley County Leader, the local tax board is, under authority of the new law, remitting certain penalties on delinquent tax payments if such taxes are paid before November 1, 1941.

Those owing back taxes may effect a big saving by paying up within the required limit of the law.

Dr. and Mrs. Fred Tyree of Wayne, Kansas visited Mrs. H. Tyree and other relatives here Monday.

CLARENDON, DONLEY COUNTY, TEXAS, JUNE 26, 1941

A Common Paper for Common People

SOLDIER SPIRITUAL LIFE IS NOT NEGLECTED

FORT SAM HOUSTON, Texas.—Fifty-seven regimental chapels are soon to be erected at Army posts and camps in Texas, Oklahoma and Arizona to serve the religious needs of the soldiers stationed there, according to Colonel Edwin V. Dunstan, Constructing Quartermaster, Eighth Construction Zone. The 57 chapels to be erected in the Eighth Construction Zone are slightly more than ten per cent of the 555 that will be built in the United States at an estimated cost of $13,000,000. The bulk of the construction will be handled under lump-sum contracts by the Construction Division of the Office of the Quartermaster General under the supervision of the Zone Constructing Quartermasters.

Each chapel will be 95 feet, 7 inches long and 37 feet wide, and the construction will conform with other camp buildings. Built with a slanting roof, the peaks of the chapels will be 29 feet, 6 inches high, with a 52 foot spire.

Designed to serve all faiths, each chapel will have a movable altar so constructed as to be adaptable for use by the several religious groups. A series of doors and panels in the altars will provide the essential requirements for each kind of service. Both pulpit and lectern are designed to serve particular needs, and like the altar both are movable. There are two chaplain's rooms, one on each side of the altar.

Entrance is from the front of the building through a vestibule with a consultation room on one side and a cloakroom on the other. From this vestibule, a flight of stairs leads to a balcony where the electric organ, with which every chapel is to be provided, is installed.

ed, and where there are seats for 57 persons.

The main floor will seat 300 persons. The seats will be of the long bench type with a center aisle between the two rows. Kneeling benches will be provided those who use them in worship.

The plans call for these chapels to be built entirely of wood, of substantial construction, but they are not intended to be of a permanent nature.

The number of chapels to be built at each camp is as follows:

Fort Sill, Okla., 6; Camp Barkley, Tex., 9; Fort Bliss, Tex., 6; Camp Bowie, Tex., 11; Fort Brown, Tex., 1; Fort Clark, Tex., 1; Fort Crockett, Tex., 1; Camp Hulen, Tex., 4; Fort Sam Houston, Tex., 6; Normoyle Quartermaster Depot, Tex., 1; Camp Wallace, Tex., 3; Camp Wolters, Tex., 6.

Approximately $10,000,000 of other Army construction has also been authorized in the Eighth Zone. Work has already started at many camps and, in general, all will be completed by early fall.

SCHOOLS GET FULL AMOUNT

AUSTIN.—The department of education announced today the state would pay the full $22.50 scholastic apportionment to public schools this year.

Coinciding with the announcement the department released warrants in payment of $1 per capita, aggregating $1,537,688, bringing total payment to $20.50.

Supt. L. A. Woods said the remaining $2 should reach the depository bank late next month or early in August.

J. W. MORRISON

resident of the Panhandle for more than forty years, having first been postmaster and village merchant in Hall county. Later he engaged in ranching and banking. At present he owns extensive ranch interests in Texas and New Mexico, and is chairman of the Board of Directors of the Farmers State Bank in Clarendon where he and Mrs. Morrison have maintained a family home for more than thirty years, and educated their children. Contrary to custom, he continues to look after his business interests in person, long after the average man of his age would have retired from active duties.

BACK TO WICHITA

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Sprinkles returned to their home at Wichita Falls Saturday. They had spent the past month here with her sisters, Miss Cora Farris and Mrs. T. Jones.

The Sprinkles visit relatives here frequently.

Arizona Bans All Fire Works

Nervous people will get a break in Arizona. That state has a law effective June 16 preventing the sale, use or possession of fireworks.

The only exception is public display granted by a proper official in an incorporated city. There is said to be only one penalty for violation. That is $100 fine and 90 days in jail.

Next to a holiday staging fireworks, a motorcade of a noisy type is the worst so far as affecting the sick and afflicted.

JOE HORN

a typical western cowboy of the old days, is possibly the Panhandle's oldest resident in an 'endurance' contest since he came with a herd of cattle from south Texas in 1878. He dates his acquaintance with Clarendon on Salt Fork around 1880, and has resided here in new Clarendon for more than twenty years.

CHURCH CONFERENCE

True Barbee and G. D. Shelley are attending the Christian Church Senior Conference at Ceta Glen this week. The local pastor, Bro. Harvey is there also acting as Assistant Director. They will be gone a week.

WILL J. LEWIS

whose name has been linked with the big ranching business of West Texas for almost a half century, is one of the few ranchmen to dress and conduct his business much as a corporation official. Herofords are his hobby of which he owns thousands of the best grade. He owns and operates the famous Rowe ranch, one of the few remaining big ranches in the Texas Panhandle.

"DAGO" AND "WINKS" GETS BIG HAND

One of the finest attractions at the Memphis Rodeo last week was Winks Adams and his trained horse, Dago.

Winks has trained this fine looking fellow to bring Winks' hat to him, untie a rope, catch a handkerchief in his mouth and many other tricks. One of the best is when this beautiful horse goes to the auto and gives his master signals by honking the auto horn. In many respects, this horse is said to have a lot more common sense than a man. The horse at least has temperate habits since he neither smokes, drinks, gambles or keeps late hours.

Jim Patton of the Memphis veterans camp was a week end guest of Mrs. O. L. Fink and daughter, Mrs. Florence Brittain.

Chuck Wagon Dinner 3-4th

To add further to the attractions here the 3rd and 4th of July, the Bain Brothers cafe people have consented to serve a typical "chuck wagon dinner" redolent of the old West.

Have you never eaten sour dough biscuits? If not, you have missed a whole lot.

On this chuck wagon dinner menu will be sour dough biscuits, beans, beef and coffee. It will be made up just like the old ranch hands had to endure and yet found it a delight and fattened and fed on to do a lot of real hard work.

When the noon hour is nearing, get over on the south side of the Piggly Wiggly grocery and get a swell feed for a very nominal price. If you are a 'tenderfoot,' you will appreciate it. If you are a regular old-time westerner, you will appreciate one more feed like it was served up in the old days.

RURAL NEWS WRITERS PLEASE NOTICE

Due to the fact that your Donley County Leader will be out a day earlier next week, it will be necessary to mail your rural news items on Monday.

Please bear this in mind. Your kindly cooperation will be most gratefully appreciated.

If you skipped last week, please remember that your own folks like to see their community news. Do not disappoint them.

This is a busy time of the year, and time is precious after so much rain. On the other hand, your folks have not had time to get around much, and will appreciate your timely news items all the more. It works both ways.

Skeletons Are Washed Out

Skeletal remains in three locations of the Panhandle were brought to light by the heavy rains recently. Each is presumed to be that of an Indian.

The most important is one found near Buffalo lake. With the bones was found a quantity of beads, bracelets and knives. This fellow is presumed to be a modern-day Indian. The recovery is now in the Panhandle-Plains Museum at Canyon.

A skull and bone fragments were found on the Coon ranch near Dumas at the site of a large stock tank. Opinion is divided as to whether this is an Indian or white man since a large hole in the skull would indicate the cause of death. The skull was taken in charge by Sheriff Younger who stated that the bones evidently had been in the earth a long time.

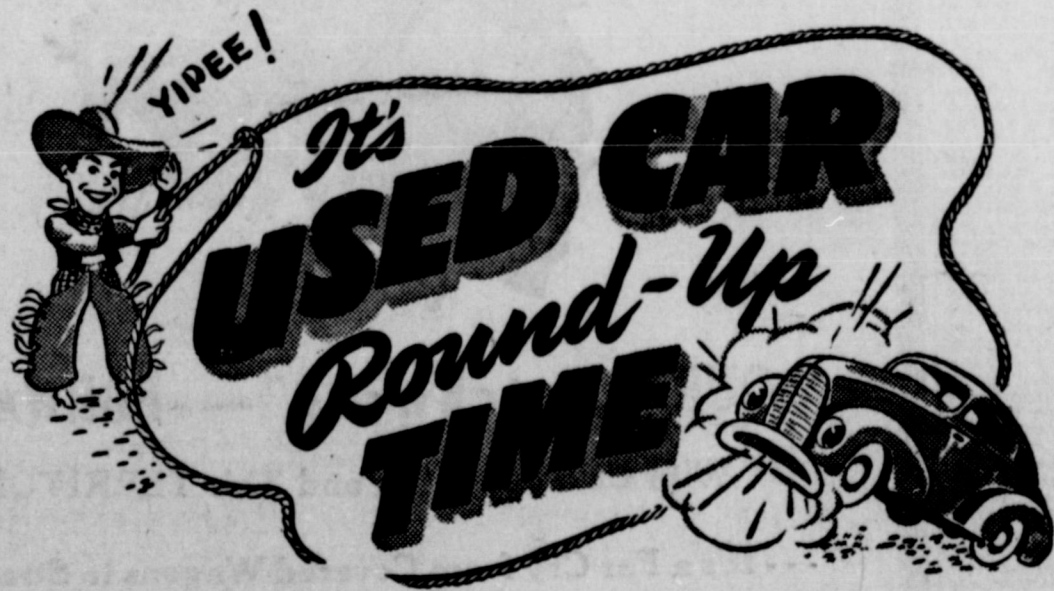

Southwest of Muleshoe under the edge of a rock cliff on the head of Running-water draw, a skeleton caved out. Beads, flint artifacts and stone and shell beads would indicate an Indian. This location is near the site where Spanish artifacts were found some years ago which included a portion of a chain helmet, sword and other articles believed to have been the property of a member of Coronado's expedition some 400 years ago.

CUBA BLACKWELL BACK

A resident here for some forty years, Cuba Blackwell moved his family to California during the panic in 1922. Cuba says he never has learned to like it out there. He says the climate here is much better, but that he is making good wages directing an electric crane. He stopped here two days to see old friends.

DOES ROUTED COYOTE

Imagine the surprise of a Texas game warden when he topped a rise on a ranch west of Webb, in southwest Texas, the other evening when he saw two does and a yearling deer chasing a coyote across the country. "And that coyote was really leaving there," the warden reported to the Austin office of the Game Department. "I have often seen coyotes chasing deer, but this is the first time I have ever seen the tables reversed, and I have been in the out-of-doors practically all my life."

Last year a similar report reached the Game Department office, but in that case it was a doe with a fawn giving chase to a coyote. Her fawn was extremely young and the maternal instinct undoubtedly produced that phenomenon. There is no such explanation for the latest deer-chasing coyote incident.

NEW TEXAS ALMANAC IS BIGGER AND BETTER

A book of 576 pages, The Texas Almanac for 1941-42, just off the press, is the largest volume in the long history of this biennial publication of The Dallas Morning News. A number of new features are included in addition to the usual chapters and statistical tables on such topics as agriculture, industry, population, history, soil and water resources, weather, minerals, manufacturing, transportation, wholesaling and retailing, government, education and civic affairs.

New census figures on population, manufacturing, agriculture, wholesale and retail trade and service businesses are included. The historical chapter has been supplemented by a number of supplementary topics including a long list of Texas historical landmarks. There are especially complete chapters on highways and parks in anticipation of increased tourist trade in Texas during the next two years. The usual large folded maps, showing railroads and highways respectively, have been brought up to date, and there is an individual map of each of the 254 counties of Texas accompanying the county articles. New developments in Texas, including the defense industries, chemistry, conservation programs, changes in farm and farm tenantry, aviation, new army and navy camps and posts, and political activities are covered. There are more than 50,000 separate and distinct facts about Texas in this "Encyclopedia of Texas."

Texas business, steadily gaining, will hit the highest peak in its history during the next year, University of Texas business experts declare.

Fishing Opens Too Early

Either the Texas fishing season opens too early or the executives of almost all of the southern states are wrong. The majority of the bass fishing seasons in southern states open from two weeks to a month later than the May 1 date prescribed for Texas by the Legislature. The Game, Fish and Oyster Commission does not have the authority to regulate the season on game and fish in the Lone Star State.

It is known by aquatic biologists of the Game Department that almost every species of fish is still spawning in all Texas waters when the season opens May 1. In the northern part of the state many fish continue to spawn through the early part of June. Thus millions of eggs are destroyed each spring.

Two southern states, according to the executive secretary of the Texas Department, have opening dates the same as Texas. They are Louisiana and Mississippi. In contrast Arkansas opens May 16; Florida, May 20; Georgia, June 1; North Carolina, June 10; Tennessee, May 30; Virginia, June 15; and West Virginia June 28.

Employees Get First Aid Protection

The first aid training which United Gas Pipe Line company makes available to each of its 3000 employees was commended this week by Dr. G. A. Russell of Bogalusa, Miss., after an accident in which Dudley S. Walker of Picayune, United crew truck driver, saved the life of a non-employee who had been injured in an auto accident.

"Dudley Walker brought a victim suffering arterial and venous bleeding, which he had controlled successfully, to the Elizabeth Sulzberger Memorial hospital."

"If all organizations were trained to this extent, it would be more worthwhile to the public. I appreciate this service your employee rendered," said Dr. Russell's letter.

The accident occurred when a brick, thrown from the dual wheels of a truck crashed through the window of a passenger car, inflicting a severe laceration above the forearm of a passenger. The driver of the car stopped to ask Mr. Walker the direction to the nearest hospital. Mr. Walker recognized the serious condition of the injured man and checked the bleeding by applying pressure until the car arrived at the hospital four miles away where medical assistance was obtained. It is believed that the victim would have died from loss of blood if he had not received this emergency treatment.

Mr. Walker completed the company's first aid course in May and holds certificates issued by the American Petroleum Institute and the United States Bureau of Mines attesting to his ability to render first aid in emergencies.

The first aid training program which United Gas Pipe Line company carries on among its employees has had its value proved by many such cases. Every one of the 562 cars and trucks which carry the United insignia is a mobile first aid unit, driven by a graduate of the company's first aid course. Beneath the dashboard of every car is a large cartridge holding the major essentials for emergency treatment, antiseptics, bandages, burn ointments, and other supplies.

There are about 13,500,000 persons in the United States who depend directly upon cotton for a living.

Twenty-one letters by Sam Houston—each of them more than 100 years old—have recently been acquired by the University of Texas library.

SCIENTISTS TO HUNT FOSSILS IN GREENLAND

BERKELEY, Calif.— With the United States exercising a protectorate over Greenland, two American scientists plan to conduct a fossil hunting expedition there this summer. The search assertedly will be one of the most important of its kind in recent years.

Dr. Ralph W. Chaney, professor of paleontology at the University of California and Dr. Erling Dorf, paleobotanist of Princeton, the two scientists projected the expedition some time ago.

They expect to leave in June for Disco Island, off the west coast of Greenland, and then push on to the mainland later.

Dr. Chaney specifically hopes to obtain fossils of plants common in Greenland about 125,000,000 years ago. Descendants of these "agio-sperms" dominate the modern plant world, it is said.

Man Batters Mule— But Then Again It Can Be Debated

Over the hill trailed a man behind a mule drawing a plow. Said the man to the mule:

"Bill, you are a mule, the son of a jackass, and I am a man made in the image of God. Yet here we work, hitched up together year in and year out. I often wonder if you work for me or I work for you. Verily I think it is a partnership between a mule and a fool, for surely I work as hard as you, if not harder. Plowing or cultivating, we cover the same distance, but you do it on four legs and I on two. I, therefore, do twice as much work per leg as you do.

"Soon we'll be preparing for a corn crop. When the crop is harvested, I give one-third to the landlord for being so kind as to let me use this small speck of God's universe. One-third goes to you and the balance is mine. You consume all of your portion with the exception of the cobs, while I divide mine among seven children, six hens, two ducks, and a banker. If we both need shoes, you get 'em. Bill, you are getting the best of me, and I ask you, is it fair for a mule, a son of a jackass, to swindle a man—a lord of creation—out of his sustenance?

"Why you only help to plow and cultivate the ground, and I alone must cut, shock and husk the corn while you look over the pasture fence and hee-haw at me.

"About the only time I am your better is on election day, for I can vote and you can't. And after election I realize that I was fully as great a jackass as your papa. Verily I am prone to wonder if politics were made for men or jackasses, or to make jackasses of men.

Gene Worley's First Speech In Congress Beats GOP Amendments

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Rep. Gene Worley made his first speech in congress during debate on legislation to extend the president's power to devalue the dollar.

It was very perplexing legislation, confusing to most congressmen as well as the layman. Because he was on the committee which considered the measure, Worley spent a great deal of time reading up on the subject.

Before starting to talk, he frankly confessed that before his recent studies he knew little or nothing of the very confounding angles in international monetary problems and that he still did not profess to know a great deal. However, he talked so convincingly that the majority followed his recommendations in defeating two amendments sponsored by Republicans.

University of Texas chemists have discovered a new process for making plaster, which results in a product triple the strength of plasters now known. Also devised in University laboratories is a new kind of plaster "wall board", also of superior strength to products now used.

OUTDOOR LIFE

Have you slept in a tent alone— Tent out under the desert sky— Where a thousand, thousand desert miles

All silent 'round you lie? The dust of the aeon of ages dead And the peoples that tramped by..

Have you looked in the desert's painted cup?

Have you smelled at dawn the wild sage musk?

Have you seen the lightning flashing 'up

From the ground in the desert dusk?

Have you heard the song in the desert rain?

(Like the undertone of a wordless rhyme.)

Have you watched the glory of colors flame

In its marvel of blossom time?

If you have, then you know, for you've felt its spell.

The lure of the desert land.

If you have not, then I could not tell—

For you could not understand.

Army Recruiting Representative at Pampa, Texas is giving the Army Classification Test to Boys between the ages of 18 and 35 who wish to get in the Army Air Corps and who have less than a high school education to determine their eligibility for enlistment in that particular branch of the Service.

Augusta, Georgia has brought suit against the producers of "Tobacco Road" because, as they allege, the picture depicts Augusta as having dirt streets, wholly unpaved and hardly neat.

Leaves are said to turn red in the fall from blushing to think how green they were all summer.

LIVING MONUMENTS.
Arthur Curtis James, 74, died recently in New York City. He inherited copper, silver and gold mines as well as railroad stock.

GREAT CHARACTERS.
Among the great couples to have lived in Texas were Mr. and Mrs. Hardin who richly endowed Hardin-Simmons University, Baylor Hospital and the Hardin Junior College of Wichita Falls, Hundreds of needy boys and girls as well as the afflicted benefitted from their wealth. What those two good people did while living, will cause them to be remembered for centuries. Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Perkins of Wichita Falls are of the same type. They are giving thousands of dollars to good causes while living just as the Hardins did. Wealthy people are valued only to the extent of their value to humanity, measured by the same yardstick as the every-day individual in a community.

GYPS LAUNDRIES.
The latest fad in men's clothing is the new shirt of the hard-boiled type of plastic front. It's termed a "Dickie" in trade parlance. It may be cleaned with a wet rag. Way back east it is said to be finding a ready sale during hot weather. All of which supplies the motif for—

WASN'T IN JULY.
A bunch of punchers the other day swapping stories about cold weather here "way back yonder" just kept pouring it on. One fellow told of the "bray" of a burro being frozen. He said it looked worse than it sounded after it broke off and fell to the ground. John McClellan, typical cowpuncher of the old west listened attentively until the bunch ran out of timber. Then he told of the time it got down to 40 below and he put chili powder in his boots to keep his feet warm. "Yes sir", he said, "that powder actually got hot. It got so hot that it cooked my bunions and popped my corns, but didn't hurt my toes. They just pulled themselves up out of danger by hanging to their nails." They handed John the dog and adjourned.

PUZZLEOLOGY.
What? No drug store cowboy? An old-time cowpuncher got off something new Tuesday in commenting upon our modern fads of gay colors for "cowboying." He summed it up by saying, "the fellow who wore the loudest shirt never rode a calf as a kid or a pony as a woman!" Now I am wondering just what he meant. Maybe styles have changed and he doesn't like it.

DEFINITION.
The difference in a bachelor and a married man is that when the bachelor has his baby in his arms, he's dancing.

SHE-MUGGY.
Much of the wild oats is sown at night, much of it under the light of a full moon.

Dear Sir: For ten years I was totally deaf, and after using your ear salve ten days, I heard from my brother in Portales.

News From the Camps.
"Once upon a time," said the drill sergeant after a two-hour drill fest, "when I was a little boy I had a set of wooden soldiers. Mother persuaded me to give them to a poor boy. I was soft enough to do so. Then when I wanted them back, mother said, 'Don't cry, Bertie, some day you can have your wooden soldiers back!'"
"Ah, believe me, you lopsided, mutton-headed, goofus-brained set of certified rollin' pins, that day has come!"

CONDITIONS.
Recession is that period when you tighten your belt. A depression is the period when you have no belt to tighten. When you have no pants to hold up, boy that is a panic.
You don't have to tax your memory to recall either stage. While there is a tax on most everything these days, there is no tax on memory just yet.

PIE-BITER TALES.
My good friend, W. E. Davis of the Brice country, was in talking old times a few days ago. We swapped stories of the old cowhands of the 90's and later. We each happened to know Bill Curtis. Bill was from Clay county and ranched somewhere north of Giles too. Bill had a cook working for his outfit by the name of "Pie-Biter." Mr. Davis says this cook told some great stories, one of which had to do with cooking without wood. Pie-Biter placed his meat in one skillet and his dough in another, then set the prairie on fire. He held the skillets over the blazing grass and kept up with the fire. The scheme worked out in great shape. Pie-Biter would say, except that he was "five miles from camp when his stuff got cooked."

HEAVY RAINS SUNDAY
A 6-inch rain is said to have fallen in the Memphis area late Sunday afternoon washing the newly planted fields badly. A shower at Claude left roads practically impassable about the same hour, and delayed the wheat harvest two days.

COMANCHE INDIANS TO RETURN TO OLD HUNTING GROUNDS

Fifty to Sixty years ago, Clarendon was well known to the Comanche Indians and the famous Chief Quannah Parker frequently camped here, and according to Chief Baldwin Parker he often visited with Col. Charles Goodnight, a close friend of his.

During the celebration, Chief Baldwin Parker, a son of Quannah Parker, and a group of 15 Comanche Indians, will return to the land of his father not on the trail of buffalo or to seek revenge on his white brother, but to participate in the parade, to dance the war dance, the scalp dance, and to sing the Indian Love Songs, and to dramatize the colorful lives of Quannah Parker and his mother Cynthia Ann Parker, who as a child was kidnapped and raised in an Indian camp to become the wife of old Chief Pete Nocona.

The Comanches will pitch camp near the city park and will live in their tepees while here. They will participate in the parade and rodeos each day.

Baldwin Parker and his band are from Cache, Oklahoma, where he was raised. They plan to arrive in Clarendon in advance of the opening of the Celebration.

TEXAS! DECLARE WAR!

Dear Texans:

You people in Texas have been insulted. Not once, but hundreds of times. You have seen planes from New Mexico's state line sail over your state to Houston. One of my trusted CIO organizers has the dope. He keeps me informed every day. Another fellow told me that a Russian plane flew across my line and I promptly declared war. We have to protect our honor, don't we? I am further informed that your Pike's Peak is being scrambled over by the enemy. Your governor Jimmy Allred lifted that off Colorado's governor Teller Ammons in a bet on a bug flight—or something. Make 'em bring it home. I have spies in every camp and on every highway ready to help you start a war on short notice. I give you this friendly tip as to your rights because I love your United States. You have all along been swelled to my spies.

Lovinely,

Trucking gasoline out to an airplane east of town Wednesday morning was a novel experience for "Tub" Tidwell. Driving the truck for Frank Hommel, he followed orders and filled the plane. About that moment, the plane driver kicked off and left Tub Tidwell without paying for the gas. He also left two hitch-hikers, a man and a woman, who rode to town on the truck and then headed west. Tub forgot to get the plane number.

In addition to business sessions, highlights of the convention will include a cowboy parade featuring three hundred real ranch cowboys, appearances of motion picture stars, New Mexico Governor John E. Miles, motion picture stars and relatives of Will Rogers, a cowboy barbecue and boating and fishing on Conchas lake which now impounds 6,000,000 acre feet of water.

Claremore, Oklahoma better known as "Will Rogers home town" is now the site of the Will Rogers Memorial to which Mr. Rogers' remains will soon be transferred from California.

"With Highway 66 now showing the greatest percentage gains in travel volume of any major highway in the west, this route is rapidly becoming another real memorial to one of the greatest of all Americans," Woodward said. He said further that plans for the additional exploitation of the Will Rogers Highway would be formulated at the Tucumcari convention.

A new crop, safflower, is almost sure to become an important crop in Northwest Texas, following tests at the Chillicothe Experiment Station. There will be about 200 acres of safflower in Hardeman County this year, and station workers expect to mill 40 to 50 tons of this oil-seed crop so that the value of the products may be determined.

Donley County Farmers Grow Shelterbelts

"More than 150 farmers in Donley County have shelterbelts planted on their farms," reported D. S. Miller, Forest Service Officer of the Prairie States Forestry Project. Since the first shelterbelts were planted six years ago in six different counties, this planting program has spread to 32 counties, blocking in areas with belts of trees which are rapidly giving protection to numerous communities in this portion of the State.

Favorable weather has given new and old trees alike a great spurt in growth. Even the slower growing pine and cedar are growing much more rapidly than normally. A number of tree species which struggled through several years of drought have come back with a bang. Cottonwood, particularly is showing a wonderful recovery. Other trees like Chinese Elm, black and honey locust, mulberry, green ash, walnut and many others, have already put out from 12 to 24 inches of growth this year, with the growing season barely underway.

Miller predicts unusual increase in growth. He also stated that many of those shelterbelts which in past years did not receive proper care, are now being cultivated. Apparently, the unusual amount of moisture has given many farmers a different and more optimistic outlook on things, and they are trying their best to keep their trees the chance they deserve.

WHO MADE THE RAINBOW?

When drops of rain fall earthward
From up in the mystic blue
If I chance to glimpse a rainbow
With colors of every hue.
Then on this thought I ponder
As I gaze into the infinite sky:
Who could have made this rainbow?
And what was the reason why?
Did drops of mist fall from the sky
To catch the bits of sunset suspended in the air
And piece them all together
To make a picture rare?
Or did the angels dip their brushes
Into paints of every hue
And paint this wonderful masterpiece
To be judged by critics like you?

European "Weeds" Invade America

WASHINGTON — Dr. M. L. Fernald of Harvard university in the annual report of the Smithsonian institutions says that more than a thousand European 'weeds' have invaded America in the past three centuries.

In their native lands many of them were lovely flowers, but in this country they have become pests. Dr. Fernald said an example is the St. James-wort, one of the most beautiful plants of the British hillsides. About 50 years ago this species appeared in Nova Scotia, and by 1900 it had become one of the worst weeds of the countryside. Farmers in that locality rechristened it "Stinking Willie" and now it has reached as far south as Massachusetts.

"The weed army enters the United States with every arrival of uncleaned European seeds, in stockings, trouser bottoms, skirts, hats, and blankets of immigrants and travelers, also in the litter and old straw used in packing from abroad," Dr. Fernald said. The "devil's paintbrush" a lovely plant with orange and scarlet blossoms, which was highly prized in New England gardens a half century ago, now is a weed.

Dr. Fernald said, "devil's paintbrush," has ruined thousands of acres of field and clearing from the tip of the Gaspé peninsula in Quebec to Michigan and southward to Pennsylvania.

"These weeds are more of a menace than common, but purely native species, such as poison ivy, fireweed and pennyroyal, which are relatively harmless by comparison with many of the European invaders," he said.

If the diet of everyone in the United States could be raised to what is accepted as a good diet, approximately 20 percent more milk, 35 percent more eggs, 70 percent more citrus fruit, and 100 percent more of some types of vegetables would be consumed than have been used in recent years.

Hitler's Conquest Record Reviewed

Beginning with the occupation of Austria under threat of force in 1938, Hitler now dominates 14 countries which enjoyed independence prior to his setting out to conquer the world. To these 14 nations we may as well add Italy, for her course is now being dictated from Berlin. This is the record:

Czechoslovakia—Partitioned and dominated after Munich pact of September 29, 1938.
 Poland—Conquered and partitioned, after a month of fighting, October 1, 1939.
 Denmark—Occupied April 9, 1940.
 Norway—Occupied after fighting one month, July 8, 1940.
 The Netherlands—Occupied after four days of fighting May 14, 1940.
 Belgium—Occupied after 18 days of fighting, May 28, 1940.

Luxembourg—Occupied May 10, 1940.
 France—Fell in 53 days after invasion began, and surrendered June 22, 1940.
 Hungary—Joined Axis November 20, 1940.
 Rumania—Joined Axis March 1, 1941.
 Yugoslavia—Conquered after 12 days fighting April 19, 1941.
 Greece—Athens, the capital, occupied April 27, 1941.

Synthetic May Have Place In Rubber Program

As an important contribution toward fortifying the nation's needs, The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company has made increases in its facilities for manufacturing its synthetic rubber, Chemigum, according to Mr. H. L. McElvany, local Goodyear dealer.

For three and a half years the company developed and produced its own type of chemical rubber in its laboratories, and production began last fall.

First plant for production of synthetic rubber by any rubber company was completed in May, near Goodyear's tire plants in Akron. This company was one of four named by the Federal Defense Plant Corp. to build factories costing $1,250,000 each which will have initial production of 2,500 tons yearly, later capable of being stepped up to 10,000 tons output.

Chemigum resulted from the exploration of more than 300 different compounds involving thousands of tests. Cooperating in these experiments which now have produced a highly satisfactory synthetic rubber were a score of skilled chemists, engineers and rubber compounders.

Tested in a rigorous program conducted by Goodyear since 1937, Chemigum tires have given a superior performance to those made of German Buna and equal to those made of natural rubber.

Important among its advantages are its increased tensile strength, resistance to ageing, abrasion and oils, and utilization of the same production methods and equipment currently in use with natural rubber. The synthetic rubber is much more resistant to oxidation than natural rubber.

In its first uses, Chemigum demonstrated definite superiority over natural rubber in the manufacture of Goodyear gasoline hose, airplane brakes, gaskets, sealing rings and other products. Then began its satisfying performance in the making of synthetic rubber tires.

WOMAN RESCUES BABY FROM 40-FOOT WELL

TUPELO, Miss. — When her baby fell into 11 feet of water in a 40-foot well, 25-year-old Mrs. Boyd Goodson—who can't swim—plunged in and held the infant afloat until rescuers came.

The mother squeezed through a foot-square opening to go after the 2-year-old girl, which she snatched from under the water. Lying on her back with feet braced against one side of the concrete shaft and her shoulders against the other, she shook the child until its breath was restored.

A youth descended and the mother and child were pulled to safety.

More and more are the favorites of radio proving to be the favorites of the screen.

Just a short time ago, Abbott and Costello, radio performers, startled the cinema world with "Buck Privates," a comedy that took Hollywood by surprise and turned in unlooked-for profits to its makers, Universal Studios.

Now the same studio has completed a picture with another highly popular radio organization, The Merry Macs, featured in "San Antonio Rose," which comes July 3rd to the Cozy Theatre.

Have Important Roles

It isn't the first picture in which The Merry Macs have worked, but neither was "Buck Privates" the first for Abbott and Costello. But in "San Antonio Rose" the four unique music makers are given much larger roles than they've ever before attempted.

Another who gets a larger than usual share of the spotlight in "San Antonio Rose" is Shemp Howard, Shemp, a comedian, was the late Ted Healy's first stooge. He brought his brothers, Moe and Curly, into the stooging business, practically inventing a new type of comedy in so doing.

Are Famous Stooges

The brothers, with Larry Fine, are now the Three Stooges of the screen. Shemp, in "San Antonio Rose" is teamed with Lon Chaney, Jr., to form a pair of baffled, frustrated and hungry racketeers. Other feature players heading the cast of "San Antonio Rose" are Jane Frazee, Robert Paige, Eve Arden, Richard Lane and Luis Alberni.

"LOOK BEFORE YOU LEAP" IS SERMON TOPIC

"Look Before You Leap" is to be the sermon topic of Bro. Harvey at the evening service at the First Christian Church Sunday. This sermon, the fourth in the church's "Happy Homes and Successful Marriages" campaign will stress the marry in haste and repent at leisure adage.

Knowledge of certain factors which will be set forth in the message, will, the pastor believes, make for happier homes and more successful marriages. This message rounds out the principles set forth in the messages pertaining to the period before the wedding day, and those who have heard the first three are urged to attend this service.

The services begin at 8 p. m. and everyone is welcomed to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Parker spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Tom Perkins in McLean.

BILL ADAMS BUYS BARBER SHOP

The Newman barber shop under that name since 1924, was sold by Mrs. Newman to Bill Adams who has been operating it for some six years. The shop is located in the Donley county bank building.

Mr. Adams is assisted by W. L. Stewart of Hedley, better known as the "midget" since he is 22 years old and weighs 90 pounds. "He is really a good barber," Mr. Adams stated, "and gets the best of jobs done in short order."

P. A. BUNTIN

is Donley county's oldest citizen, having become 92 years of age March 7, 1941. He is the last surviving member first board of stewards of the Methodist church here, and only surviving charter member of the Masonic lodge. He has resided here for more than fifty years. "Dad" Buntin's legion of sincere friends have been his greatest source of pleasure in his sunset of life.

ATTEND CHURCH MEET AT KIRKLAND

The Church of Christ at Kirkland had its annual "home-coming" affair Sunday. Several hundred were in attendance, among them Mr. and Mrs. Bill Adams and children of Clarendon. The noon dinner was served picnic style.

"The wheat being harvested is running from seven to thirty bushels to the acre," Mr. Adams stated.

Death To Ride Highways On July 4th

AUSTIN, June 26.—The Fourth of July will bring the biggest traffic jam in the state's history, the Texas Safety Association predicted today.

More important, it also will bring the biggest holiday traffic toll of the year, the Association warned—unless the extra hazard is met by extra caution.

More than 1,726,200 vehicles will pack the highways over the three-day holiday period, the Association said. They will travel 130,000,000 miles—the greatest total ever rolled up on the state's speedometers in any one week-end.

An estimated 30 persons will be killed and 360 suffer injuries in the annual jamboree of carelessness which marks Texas' observance of Independence Day.

This all-time high will result from the fact that defense production means full pocketbooks and full gas tanks. More people are driving more cars more miles. And over the Fourth thousands of soldiers will be going home on leave.

The vacation season will be in full swing. Traffic will be rolling in high.

To meet the threat of a record-breaking traffic toll, the Texas Safety Association called on every driver and every pedestrian to enlist in a statewide effort to avoid accidents. City officials and civic organizations were asked to join in the campaign to cut the holiday toll.

Miss Joyce Link visited friends in Wichita Falls the past week.

ENNIS FAVORS

the brilliant young attorney of Pampa, is serving his first term as legislative representative from this district, having succeeded Gene Worley who resigned to make his successful race for Congress. Mr. Favors' intense interest in behalf of the rights of the big middle class, and his accurate judgment in regulating big business while encouraging development of the vast resources of his district, has attracted many admirers. A former attorney in the office of Secretary of State, Mr. Favors was familiar with most of the details of state's business when he first went to Austin to work for his folks "back home," and the state in general.

OPEN HOUSE TO CELEBRATE NYA SIXTH ANNIVERSARY

FROM OKLAHOMA CITY

Mr. and Mrs. Tren Stargel and daughter, Janice, were here the week end visiting her mother, Mrs. Lena Antrobus and other relatives. They left Monday on a tour of south Texas accompanied by Marilyn Maher.

GRADY HAZLEWOOD

farm boy of the Silverton country, graduated from West Texas College and the State University law school. He served as assistant, then was elected district attorney with headquarters in Amarillo. He was elected state senator in 1940, and has represented this district with much credit and distinction. It is freely predicted by his large following of staunch admirers, that he will become one of the big men of Texas as the years pass on.

Commemorating the sixth anniversary of the Executive Order issued by President Roosevelt creating the National Youth Administration, the Clarendon girls NYA resident center will hold open house, Sunday, June 29, from 2 until five o'clock, it was announced this week.

Although the President's order was issued June 26, 1935, the local anniversary celebration will be postponed until Sunday because of Clarendon's Fourth of July celebration booster trips which will take a large number of residents from the city June 26th.

Six years ago this Thursday, the President created the NYA as an agency to enable boys and girls to continue their education in the school or college of their choice through part-time NYA jobs and to provide work experience for young people who are out of school and unemployed.

J. R. Gillham of Clarendon, chairman of the local NYA advisory committee and Harold V. Hamilton, NYA area director, today urged all who can to take advantage of the "open house" to be held at the Clarendon project.

The Donley County resident center for girls was founded July 28, 1938, and has served as an educational and work experience project since that time. The State Board of Vocational Education cooperates with the National Youth Administration in supplying an instructor for related training classes.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Whitlock and grand daughter Frankie Garrison visited Mr. and Mrs. "Heavy" Whitlock and son, Larry Tom, at Sweetwater Sunday.

SOUTHERN BELLE PLAYS "SIS" IN REPUBLIC'S NEW HIT FILM

"My dear, did you learn to yodel in Switzerland?" the sweet old lady asked Judy Canova.

"Well, if Switzerland is in Georgia, I reckon so," Judy replied.

And Georgia, indeed, is where the madcap comedienne learned all the rib-tickling antics which have made her one of the most popular funsters of the day. In "Scatterbrain," in which she made her Republic debut, she initiated an entirely new brand of comedy which she has most effectively followed up in "Sis Hopkins," showing July 4th & 5th at The Pastime Theatre.

Judy was born in Jacksonville, Florida, of artistic parentage. Her father, Joe Canova, an architect and cotton broker, was a direct descendant of Antonio Canova, sculptor of the Three Graces. Her mother, a direct descendant of Commodore Perry, was musically inclined, and guided the children Judy, Ann, Pete and Zeke, into musical pursuits, including the practice of piano, mandolin and voice.

Judy wanted to become an opera singer, but summer vacations spent in Georgia with the "crackers" and their fascinating folk-lore switched her to hillbilly comedy. One of her most effective comedy routines is to combine her high soprano operatic notes (she can reach the G above high C) with her backwoods songs; a trick she uses to good advantage in all her pictures.

When the family suffered financial reverses Judy took a job as a teacher in a Florida dancing school; she saved her money and when she had accumulated enough for railroad fare alone, she packed up and went to New York. Rudy Valee was impressed with her possibilities as an entertainer, and Rudy being almost 100% right in his prognostications, night clubs were more than willing to give her a chance. She became a sensation overnight and was soon offered lucrative vaudeville and stage engagements.

She toured the United States in RKO vaudeville, headlining the unit, and returned to Broadway to appear in "Calling All Stars." Other Broadway productions in which she was featured or starred include the Ziegfeld Follies of 1937 and "Yokel Boy."

Meanwhile, Judy had been highly successful on various radio programs including the Fleischmann Yeast program, the Ford program, Hollywood Hotel, Paul Whiteman, Woodbury and the Chase and Sanborn radio show. She made a trip to London to appear at the Cafe de Paree and stayed long enough to endear herself and her hillbilly music to the European public.

Returning to America, she journeyed to Hollywood and met with indifferent success in the few pictures in which she was featured, including "In Caliente," "Broadway Gondoliers," "Going High-brow," "Artists and Models" and "Thrill of a Lifetime." The same producers who were blind to her possibilities then are gnashing their teeth over her phenomenal public reception after such successful productions as "Scatterbrain" and the new "Sis Hopkins." "Puddin'head" is the title for her next vehicle, now in preparation.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Lane and babe of Lubbock returned home Sunday after spending the week here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cap Lane.

ELECTRA MAN CATCHES "PREHISTORIC MONSTER"

AUSTIN.—Catching of a twenty-five pound paddle fish, commonly, but erroneously called a shovelbill catfish, by H. F. Sims, an interior decorator of Electra, Texas, in Diversion Lake near Wichita Falls, not only created much comment in that part of the state, but caused considerable interesting data to be unearthed concerning this strange-looking fish.

The paddle, or snout, of the paddlefish is shaped exactly like a duck's bill. The snout on the fish caught by Mr. Sims was fourteen inches long. The mouth was about six inches in diameter and the hooded gills made the head appear almost a foot wide.

Paddlefish formerly were common, but due to the fact that their eggs are used as domestic caviar and that their flesh brings the highest premium on the eastern markets the species is becoming more rare each year, the executive secretary of the Texas Game, Fish and Oyster Commission points out. The flesh of the paddlefish, when smoked, tastes much like sturgeon. Too, the fish have no bones in their bodies, cartilage replacing bones.

Paddlefish, along with gar, sturgeon and grindle, have survived all stages of evolution. Each is still shaped exactly as it was during prehistoric days when mastadons and saber-toothed tigers roamed the world.

The unusual-appearing fish have been recorded as weighing as much as 162 pounds. One that size was caught in Indiana. It was six feet, two inches long and had a circumference of 4 feet.

Naval News

NEW ORLEANS, La., June 16.—As part of the nation-wide drive to increase the United States Navy strength to 400,000, young men are being sought today in the South for training as aviation cadets, officials of the Eighth Naval District announced at headquarters here.

Naval aviation cadets from the district customarily receive their preliminary training at Naval Reserve bases at New Orleans and Dallas, after which they may be sent to Corpus Christi, Pensacola or Jacksonville for advanced training.

General requirements for enlistment as Naval aviation cadets include United States citizenship for at least 10 years and completion of at least two full years of college, with not less than one-half of the credits for a degree which normally requires four years to acquire. However, this latter requirement is waived if the applicant has completed one-quarter of the requirements for college graduation and has been employed at least three years in a responsible position in civic life subsequent to completion of college work.

Cadet trainees must agree to remain on active duty four years, unless released sooner by the Navy Department. They also must be unmarried, must not previously have been married and must agree not to wed until at least two years after date of enlistment.

Further information regarding this branch of training may be obtained from any Navy Recruiting Station, or from the Naval Aviation Selection Boards, which are located in Dallas at 524 Allen Building.

PENSIONERS SHOW 14 PERCENT JUMP

Old age pension recipients show an increase of 14 per cent since January 1, according to figures presented the Texas Senate by the State Department of Public Welfare.

On Jan. 1, there were 122,059 pensioners on the rolls, while on June 1, this number had been increased to 139,307. Funds available for pensions, meanwhile, had not shown a comparable increase since revenues from the new tax bill will not be available in any great amount until September.

This 14 per cent increase, therefore, was directly responsible for the cut in the amounts paid to pensioners, which necessitated an emergency appropriation of $1,750,000 a month by the Legislature.

June Moreman of Brice spent last week here with Mrs. Gilbert Lane.

SCHOOL MONEY BILL GOES TO GOVERNOR

The Texas Senate last week adopted and sent to the Governor the biennial appropriation bill for state colleges.

Senator A. M. Aikin of Paris told the Senate that he felt the bill appropriated too much money, but "we did the best we could." Total appropriations were $22,602,000 for the biennium, as compared with an appropriation of $17,323,000 two years ago.

"The enrollment at state colleges has increased from 37,875 to 42,907," Aikin said. "This increased enrollment alone would have called for a boost of $2,300,000 in appropriations, not counting the new buildings and repairs."

"We appropriated $1,825,000 for new buildings and repairs, and the University Medical School at Galveston gets a substantial increase because its work is directly tied in with the national defense efforts," he declared.

The House already has adopted the conference report on the bill which goes to the Governor.

RAILWAY LABOR UNION DEMANDS WOULD COST 900 Million Dollars A YEAR

THE labor unions have made their demands upon the railways of the United States—and through the railways upon the PUBLIC. These demands are vastly larger in proportion than any they have ever made. The economical and efficient operation of the railways is vital to the nation's defense effort. Therefore, the Western Railways present to the public the following facts:

The labor unions representing engineers, firemen, conductors, brakemen and switchmen are demanding a 30 per cent increase in wages, amounting to 190 million dollars a year—although their present rates of pay are the highest in history.

Other unions representing a greater number of railway employees are demanding wage increases ranging as high as 95 per cent—averaging 47 per cent—and amounting to 500 million dollars a year—although their present rates of pay also are the highest in history.

Thus the wage increases being demanded by the labor unions amount to 770 million dollars a year, an average increase in excess of 41 per cent.

In addition, certain of these labor unions have demanded advances in their pay not included in the above figures, and more rules for the creation of unnecessary jobs.

The situation, then, is this: The total cost of complying with all the demands made would be approximately 900 million dollars a year!

The average weekly earnings of railway employees are now 15 per cent higher than in the peak year 1929, while the cost of living is 12 per cent less.

The demands of the railway labor unions are being made when the entire nation has just been asked to make a supreme effort for National Defense.

The railways cannot meet these demands without a great increase in the cost of transportation. They exceed by more than 700 million dollars the income that the railways had left after paying their annual expenses, taxes and charges in 1940.

The railways have a vitally important job before them. They need all their resources to continue adequately to serve you and contribute effectively toward the National Defense Program.

Air Corps Is Higher Pay Branch

"It's everyone's job!" Thus Corporal Harvey M. Gist, U. S. Army Recruiting Officer located in the basement of the Post Office building at Pampa, Texas today described the gigantic task of building the power of the U. S. Army Air Corps to match any in the world—a task being emphasized by the current Army drive to secure pilots to man the planes of the rapidly expanding air force. "The Air Corps needs all the pilots it can get, and before anyone is a pilot he's just a young man—a young man who lives in a town like Clarendon. Why, there's probably a dozen future Flying Cadets walking around the streets here while I'm talking, or working in stores and offices and so forth," Corporal Gist said. "These men will be Flying Cadets only after someone has told them that the Air Corps needs them, that they can get in on the ground floor of aviation right now, and get paid for it, too. They'll have to know about the need for Flying Cadets and they'll have to know what a Flying Cadet is, before they decide to try it. The only way they'll know about these things, is thru someone's telling them, either by word of mouth, or by writing them letters or giving them printed matter." "That's why it's everyone's job." And this, Corporal Gist said, is also why the Air Corps is now advertising the slogan "Keep 'em Flying." He said it is up to everyone to see that young men who might be eligible to become Flying Cadets knew what it is all about. "Any young man who is healthy, unmarried and between the ages of 20 and 27 can apply. The Army will determine if he is physically fit to fly, and the educational requirements are simply that he show proficiency in certain required subjects. He can either show that he has completed these subjects in college, or take an examination in the ones for which he does not have college credits." Flying Cadets are paid $75 a month while they are training, Corporal Gist pointed out, and receive quarters, clothing, food and shelter, dental and medical care at the expense of the Government. Upon completion of approximately seven and one half months of training, they receive from $205.50 to $245.50 a month on active duty as a commissioned officer in the Air Corps Reserve. "When the Air Corps says 'Keep 'em Flying' it doesn't just mean potential Flying Cadets. The Air Corps says it to everyone—to the families, the friends and the employers of young men who could be Flying Cadets and would want to be, if someone got the message to them." "There's one other thing," he said. "The tag line on that 'Keep 'em Flying' is—'Let's Go!'"

WHAT ARE YOU BUILDING?

Just build a fine mansion—
Not merely a shack.

Soldier Hazard Is On Highway

AUSTIN.—Soldiers in Texas are meeting death now in a preview of man against mechanized monster.

Forty seven persons were killed and 358 injured in Texas traffic collisions involving military personnel during the first four months of this year.

In 445 accidents involving soldiers either as drivers, passengers or pedestrians, damage to vehicles alone amounted to $65,271. But the total economic loss—including lost life and expense to the injured—amounted to $2,115,000.

These facts were announced today by Col. Homer Garrison Jr., State Police Director, who revealed completion of a statewide survey designed to provide information upon which preventive measures may be based.

"The defense traffic problem in Texas falls into three separate phases," Garrison said. "Cities are coping with the urban accidents. The Highway Patrol has worked out a method of controlling accidents in areas immediately adjacent to military establishments, and the results have been highly satisfactory. This survey reveals the third phase—rural accidents occurring on Saturdays and Sundays, an average distance of 60 miles from any army camps, and caused by the 'rush to get home' on week-end leaves.

"Principal violations figuring in these collisions are driving too fast for conditions, driving on the wrong side of the road or passing without sufficient clearance, and driving while drinking.

"The significance of speed is shown by the fact that, out of 170 rural collisions, 31 resulted in deaths and 90 in injuries."

Garrison said the State Police are working with Eighth Corps Area officials at Fort Sam Houston "toward a mutual solution to these problems." As an example of army co-operation, he pointed to Camp Bowie, Brownwood, where these regulations have been set up: cars must be inspected for safety before making trips; the number of passengers is limited; no trip longer than 300 miles from the camp may be undertaken on a 72-hour leave.

Observing that neither all the victims nor all the violators involved in these collisions are military men, Garrison declared that "it is as much the civilian's duty to compensate for increased traffic hazards as it is the soldier's."

Indians Say Mural 'Unfair'

WATONGA, Okla.— Cheyenne Indians started picketing the post office here lately in protest against a new mural depicting their forbears.

Attired in full tribal regalia, they bore placards saying: "Post office mural unfair to Cheyenne Indians."

The action came at the instance of Red Bird, 71-year-old chief of the Cheyenne tribe who, after studying the mural, proclaimed: "It stinks!"

The mural was painted by Miss Edith Mahier of the University of Oklahoma art department. It represents the Cheyenne Indians of Roman Nose canyon, now a state park, at the time of the coming of the settlers.

Chief Henry Roman Nose, tribal chief at the time and predecessor of the picketing Red Bird, is the predominant figure in the mural.

Chief Red Nose, speaking thru his interpreter, explained his displeasure by saying:

"Picture not like Roman Nose. Chief wears feather farther back on head, not tied on with store-bought string. Breech-clout too short, look like Navajo. Ponies Indians riding look like hobby horses with swan necks. Cheyennes like spotted ponies. Roman Nose's baby looks like stumpy pig, cornmeal-bloated. Roman Nose had fine boys. Our Chief Roman Nose wearing Navajo clothes. No good. It stinks."

Asked if he intended to scalp the artist, he replied through interpreter Yellow Eyes:

"Bow - and - arrow, horse - and - buggy business no good. Cheyenne streamlined. We picket post office."

So full-blooded Indian pickets, youngsters along with big bucks and squaws, took up their task over remonstrances of Postmaster Clarence Knappenberger.

The postmaster appealed to Mayor A. E. Goerke to forbid the picketing but the mayor replied: "Our Cheyenne Indians are peace-loving and upright citizens. They're picketing for what they believe is an injustice. They, by their picketing are not holding up national defense contracts, so I'm for them 100 per cent."

Mayor Goerke explained neither the city nor state had any jurisdiction; the Cheyennes are wards of the government.

LOMAX CASE GOES BACK FOR TRIAL

Texas' Court of Criminal Appeals last week sent back to Walker County, for a new trial, the case of J. C. Lomax, negro, saved by the United States Supreme Court from execution for a criminal assault upon a white woman in Montgomery County in 1938.

The court issued its mandate in compliance with the U. S. court's judgment, reserving the Texas courts' affirmation of the death penalty.

The court also overruled motions for rehearing from previous approvals of two other death penalties: Rogers Lee King, convicted of murder in a holdup in Johnson County; and Alvin F. Reese, convicted of the murder of a woman in Johnson County.

SANITY TROUBLE STOPS FINE

Milton Irons of Upshur County won't have to pay a $100 fine for possessing untaxed liquor because, the Court of Criminal Appeals held last week in reversing his conviction, he is legally insane.

The record disclosed that he was committed to a state hospital in 1936 after a jury verdict that he was of unsound mind. But in 1937 he was released on a court finding that he was sane. The 1937 verdict, however, was returned before a judge who was related by marriage to Irons, therefore, the judgment was void, said the court.

Hence, before Irons could be convicted on other charges, he must be proved sane, the court ruled.

Buy Pressure Cooker Now

COLLEGE STATION.— If you have a pressure cooker, your biggest contribution to defense may be keeping it safe and in working order and using it for a more abundant food supply.

Because the country's supply of virgin aluminum is being used for defense needs faster than it can be produced, there may not be "any aluminum pressure cookers available in 1941," one manufacturer and dealer has written to Mildred Horton, vice director of the Extension Service and chairman of the Texas State Nutrition Committee. Since most Texas orders were placed early this year, Texas distributors have been able to meet the seasonal demand for 1941.

Companies manufacturing their cookers from virgin sheet aluminum have been particularly hard hit this spring, since the only metal available has been scrap or "secondary aluminum." Now, even scrap supplies are not obtainable.

A recent statement from the consumer representative on minerals and metals for the national defense commission explains that "although it appeared some time ago supplies of aluminum in the form of scrap would be made available to the manufacturers of cooking utensils, it now develops that supplies may be restricted to a much greater extent than hitherto foreseen. Since the defense needs are increasing much more rapidly than production, it appears secondary scrap metal will be taken over for defense needs. While it may be that a pool of material may be set up for emergency use, this does not mean any of this will be made available to the manufacturers of consumer goods."

Steam-pressure cookers need to be rechecked each year to see that the pressure gauge registers correctly.

SIDE GLANCES ON TEXAS HISTORY

By Charles O. Hucker
University of Texas Library

The Sage of Ellis Bean: Of, The Art of Adventure

It will probably not come soon, but eventually, when Texas is old and rich and settled, there will come a great awakening of the literary spirit in the Southwest. Then the colorful heritage that will have been kept alive through the years primarily by such institutions as the University of Texas Library and the Texas State Historical Association will at last come into its own in the literature of the world.

When that cultural awakening comes, someone drowsing among the records of old Texas—perhaps—will come upon the outline of a story, and of it he will make a great novel. For imbedded in the Texas-Mexican heritage is a great true tale of wonderful adventure, almost complete in outline, which equals "Anthony Adverse" or anything that Alexander Dumas ever wrote. It is the life story of Ellis P. Bean, in his own words.

Last week in this column was told the history of Philip Nolan's filibustering expedition into Texas, to the command of which 17-year-old Ellis P. Bean succeeded at Nolan's death March 21, 1801. That story of the expedition proper ended sometime before 1807; Bean's story—the beginning of which will be sketched here—is its sequel.

A Dice Game For Keeps
After Bean and his followers were clapped in irons at Nacogdoches by the Spanish in 1801, they were taken to San Antonio, to San Luis Potosi, and finally to Chihuahua, in the Mexican interior. Years passed, and Bean's life alternated between comparative freedom and close confinement, punishment for his repeated attempts to escape. Then at last came a royal decree that one of every five of the surviving Nolan prisoners be hanged.

By then—November, 1807—only nine of the company remained alive. It was decided that only one must die, that one to be determined by the throwing of dice. Bean threw a five; the low man had a four. After the execution three of the men were released, but Bean and the other four were carried off to Mexico City in chains, hardly guessing what lay in store for them.

At every little village along the way people flocked to see them, probably never having seen an American so deep in the interior before. And among the curious at the town of Salamanca was one Senora Maria Baldonada—who was very young, married to a very rich but very old man, and therefore very unhappy.

The Sad Senora
The Senora came to Bean, talked with him, liked him, and offered to help him escape—promised, indeed, to flee with him to America and be his wife. Everything was prepared for the getaway; but at the last moment Bean declined her offer. He would not desert his men, he said; and, moreover, he fully expected to be set free at the capital. So he went on with his guard.

Bean remarks in his memoirs that he cursed himself for years for this blunder; for, instead of being released at Mexico City, he and his men were sent on to Acapulco, a fortified castle on the Pacific coast, and there he was locked up in solitary confinement in a windowless cell of three by seven feet, with stone walls twelve feet thick. Double irons were on his arms. Once a day he got a pot of water, some beef and a little bread. He was not allowed to talk with anyone. And so he lived—all alone with a tame lizard named Bill—for a total of two years and four months.

Once, after three weeks of torture in the town hospital, he made an escape and was free for a short time; and during the remaining seventeen months of his confinement, he wrote later, "I consoled myself with the thought that I had enjoyed a few hours of liberty, and had heard the birds sing, and perhaps might hear them again."

Ralph Stewart of Canyon visited home folks over the week end.

Approximately 146 pounds of wool are required for the peacetime uniform equipment of every man in the U. S. Army. This represents the wool of approximately 18 sheep.

WOOD SMOKE
Sheer wisps of gray drift idly on the breeze;
Odors from burning logs old scenes evoke
As through a labyrinth of cedar trees
Rises to heaven the camp fire's pungent smoke.
Recalled to mind are days that are no more:
Adventurings in distant golden lands;
Strange altar fires upon a lonely shore;
Music of temple bells across the sands.

And as I watch the wood smoke's filigree
A long closed door of memory unbars
Bringing in shining sequence back to me
Dreams shared with you under a roof of stars.

Mountain Sheep Get Break

Saving the dwindling bighorn mountain sheep of west Texas is one of the problems of the Game Department. Those sure-footed residents of the mountain peaks got a break recently when the Yates Ranch, within which are located the Beach Mountains, one of the best ranges of the bighorns, was leased by an El Paso development company which does not intend to run domestic sheep or goats on the ranch. Domestic sheep and goats are constantly encroaching upon more of the bighorn's range high in the mountains.

As a result of the development company's policy of not running sheep and goats on the ranch, bighorn sheep will have two and possibly three years in which they will be free of competition for food by domestic sheep and goats and of their diseases.

The bighorns, of which there are, according to a recent survey by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, fewer than 14,000 in the entire country, are far from safe. Most of the Texas bighorns frequently move from the Beach Mountains to the Diablo Mountains. There is now only one sheep-proof fence between the two ranges and the bighorns can skirt it. However, more sheep raisers are moving into that section each year and it is feared by Game Department biologists that sheep-proof fences will stretch across the entire section. Then it will remain to be seen whether bighorn ewes and large lambs can jump it. It is very doubtful if a bighorn ram can jump a four-foot fence. A former mountain sheep inspector for the Department found a large ram dying after attempting to jump a four-foot fence. It got hung on the top wires.

Bighorn sheep are now found only in twelve western states. Encroachment of domestic stock and over-hunting have depleted their ranks until few authorities are optimistic enough to believe that excellent game animal can ever be brought back in sufficient numbers to ever again allow hunting of them.
