of Texas. In making his official statement, Mr. Sheppard said that he had sought the advice and support from hundreds of civic leaders throughout the district, and called the results "highly encouraging."

When asked about his plat-form, Mr. Sheppard said, "There are three major issues which I am interested in," and listed the sales tax, women's rights and academic advancements as primary. Of the sales tax, he said, "My opponent was on the Committee that wrote this outrage and I think it should either be repealed or made into a straight 2 per cent retail sales tax." Of women's rights, he said "It is not in keeping with a state as wealthy as ours, to have such obsolete laws concerning wo-men." And of academic ad-vancements. "The future of Texas lies in the education of the week end. our youth. We must continually improve our educational opportunities, and to do this, we must have a practical increase in teachers' salaries, so that our talented teachers will stay in the state." "As a constructive Democrat," Sheppard continued, "I wish to help Texas move forward into an area of growth and leadership -- I want to see Texas ad-mired as a state which wel-comes the future -- I want our people to have constructive, personal representation in the Sen-

The purpose of this return is to put you on a pay-as-you-go basis as income is earn-ed, where either the income you earn is not subject to withholding taxes are less than the net tax C which you will have to pay upon filing your return.

The failure to file this return might result in a 6 per cent charge on the underpayment of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Neil Tatom installments which you should have paid. It is also to your ad-vantage to file the return and pay your taxes on an install-ment basis so that you will not have a large amount of tax due Mr. and Mrs. M. E.
