Lieut. W. George Bourland Tells of
JAP ATTACK ON PEARL HARBOR

The story of the raid on Pearl Harbor December 7 came first hand to Collingsworth County this week in a letter from Lieut. W. George Bourland, stationed in Hawaiian waters, to his father, W. M. Bourland of Quail. Lieut. Bourland was receiving treatment in a hospital on the day of the Japanese attack.

History will no doubt record the defeat of the Battle of Pearl Harbor due to our not having spotted the Japs before they got here, but I hope it also includes a few notes on the bravery and courage of these men attached to the ships, the workers in the Yard, and everybody else. As Secretary Knox said, none can be cited for particular bravery, since all stood up and fought as sailors should. I remember one kid who was brought in. He had had his right foot blown off, and was pretty well bloodied up. Although he had had no shots of any kind to ease the pain, there was not a murmur out of him. I picked up a blanket and spread it over him to keep warm, and as I did so, he looked up and murmured "Thanks." I felt pretty small to receive thanks for so little after what he had given. And he was one of plenty.

Mrs. Loader, whom he mentions in the letter, is a former Wellington resident and a sister of Mrs. John McClure of Wellington. She was before her marriage Miss Laura Jones, the daughter of Mrs. Carrie Jones. Her family and that of Lieut. Bourland's have been friends for many years.

Lieut. Bourland is a graduate of the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis with the class of 1938.

His letter follows:
Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, U. S. A.
Supply Department
Wednesday the 15th

Dear Dad,
Your letter to the Loaders came yesterday. I thought surely you had heard from me by now. I wrote a post card on the day following the raid, which I understood would go out via clipper. Then on the 23rd I received a letter from Sis dated the 18th, in which she said that it was certainly a relief to hear that I was all right, I assumed from that that you had received my card for the 8th and would worry no further. Since the card, I have written three clipper letters, one of which has surely reached you by now.

But to bring the news up to date, I will start all over. The hospital is here in the Pearl Harbor area, so I had a pretty good view of the raid. I heard the first plane, felt the earth shake a bit, then heard the explosion. I was at the time reading the President's appeal to the Emperor, and possibly that is why I realized right off the bat that the explosion was a bomb. At any rate, I jumped out of bed, ran over to the veranda, and got there just in time to see the first plane swerve off. Then the party really started. The first planes came mainly from only two directions, flying low, and all loaded with torpedoes. They were so low that you could almost count the teeth in the grinning pilot's mouth (Japs don't have very good or very many teeth). It is known that some planes were shot down by individual rifle fire. Well, to get on, they caught us very much by surprise, but it didn't take the boys in the ships long to open up, and in less than five minutes, they were downing Japs. One torpedo plane came in very low over the hospital. He would have been a sucker for a rifle shot, or even a shotgun, but I could only cuss for having neither. If my last quail hunt is any indication of my shooting ability, it probably wouldn't have done the Jap any harm if I had had a gun.

While getting dressed, which I started to do after I saw the first two or three planes come in, a plane was hit just after he had swerved up from having loosed his torpedo. He started burning, and jiggled his plane a little in an effort to lose the fire, I suppose, or maybe he was nervous (I certainly would have been). Then he lost control, and we thought he would hit the right wing of the hospital in his crash. He missed it though, by a few feet, and landed in a burning, spreading heap about 50 yards from where I was. This was as close as I got to the battle. The fire party from the hospital had the fire out in a matter of seconds, although it had already caught a house afire. (Censored).

The raid was over about a quarter of twelve, having consisted of torpedo bombing, dive bombing, and high altitude bombing, which came last. Since I hadn't eaten in over a week, I was plenty weak and had turned my place in the emergency-nurse line-up over to someone else. When the high altitude raid started, I went under cover. Up to that time the Japs had mercifully spared the hospital, but I didn't trust their high altitude efforts.

couldn't sleep, it was hot, and those four walls were damn bare. I began to call up everyone to see how they had fared during the raid. When I got to the Loaders, I called no more. Mrs. Loader came down and got me and bundled me up to their place.

I don't know whether I owe them my life or not, but surely the Loaders are responsible for my getting well so quickly and so completely. Before many days we had blacked out a couple of rooms and were able to sit up after dark. More rooms were added until now the whole house is blacked out, which means a lot. Life out here in the past has been so free and so much in the open. If one wanted to go all day long in a bathing suit, all over town, he had but to do so. Well, we, rather they, since service personnel now wear the uniform all the time, can wear the bathing suit all right, but if they do so after dark, it is in their own homes. No one is permitted on the streets after six except defense personnel going to and from work, doctors on calls, etc. And a person can't go far, either, even if he tried to disobey regulations. Buses don't run, and the basic gasoline allowance is ten gallons per month, and I don't think anyone would care to take a long stroll to any place after dark, not after the way these soldiers and Territorial Guards have shown their willingness to shoot. But no one tries to disobey regulations. This is one place where prohibition really works and one doesn't see many speedsters, either. Military justice is swift, but it is also damned just and efficient.

I came back to duty last Saturday, and so far, the tummy has held up fine. I have to watch my food, of course, but outside of that, I'm back to battery. I get off every other day at four, which leaves me some time with the Loaders. They have been really grand to me, and I will never be able to repay them in any way. Don't worry, we're all right, but you might save a little sympathy for the Little Brown Brothers, they're going to need it. Will write you all about Xmas and New Year's next time.

Yours,
George.
-Wellington Leader.

THE TEMPLE OF TRUTH

By the Apostle

A miser grows rich by seeming poor. The extravagant man grows poor by seeming rich.

OLD STUFF.

During the last World War, there was one among a thousand or more jokes going the rounds. It is repeated here because it will be repeated throughout the ages. "They named the baby Weather-strip, because he kept his dad out of war."

READY MONEY.

Another one of those ready money boys was in town a few days ago. He stuck individuals from $15 to $50 a head. He found it easy picking here. His business: Nothing much, just some time within two years he agreed on a contract to investigate gas and electric rates. The electric rates are set by the Federal Power Commission. He can't do anything much for his victims. In fact he can't do a thing for them and never promised to on paper. One man followed the city slicker outside his door and made him hand his check back. Another ran to the county authorities and asked for help. The sheriff held the smart boy and investigated. He apparently was given money by local people without promising anything in return. There was nothing that could be done about the matter. A hard-headed business man once said: "Any time I sign a contract involving as much as ten dollars, I have a lawyer ok the thing." Had that been done by our folks here last week, they would have saved $15 to $50 each. Oh yes, he had a range of prices. When he could not get $50, he jewed down to $15.

MORE OLD STUFF.

The rationing of tires is not new. Back in ancient times 760 years before the birth of Christ, Isaiah in 3:18 records tire rationing. Read it.

READ HIS LETTER.

In this issue there is a letter reprinted from the Wellington Leader that was written by Geo. Bourland. George grew up here. He went to Annapolis from here. Read his letter and get a better idea of the situation.

DOLLAR A YEAR.

The dollar-a-year men are the highest-priced boys of the lot. They hand a rake off in placing contracts and make thousands of dollars where the salaried man makes dollars.

It is our sincere hope that California's famous balmy weather will not be one of these days of bomy.

The object of "Daylight Saving" is to not be caught sleeping by the "Rising Sun."

In closing I might say "You can't pull wires to get yourself some tires."

"Grapes of Wrath" Goes In Reverse

"It's the 'Grapes of Wrath' in reverse," a west-bound traveler said during a stop recently, commenting on the homeward movement of hundreds of carloads of Oklahoma migratory workers who are not finding California any "land of promise" these days.
Definite Movement
Port of entry officers agreed that there was a definite "back home" movement among the families which not so long ago were heading in droves into the setting sun to seek fortunes.
It was estimated that immediately after the war declaration and threats of raids along the west coast, a hundred cars daily bore Oklahoma migrant workers back across New Mexico, together with probably that many more from other states in a general exodus.
Recently, heavy snows along the highway route through here has caused a sudden decrease in the eastward movement—due in all probability to use of the southern route.
Varying causes were found for this "reverse" migration—principally based on the effect of the United States' entrance into the war. "A lot of them were afraid of getting bombed if they stayed in California," one port officer said.
"Promised Land" Is Home
However, the offers of defense work at inland cities, many in the home state of the "Oakies" was responsible for many decisions that the "promised land" is at home.
Elderly men, especially, told port officers "there's no place for us old fellows out there on the coast—we'll have a better chance to get work if we go home."
Younger migrants said they were being transferred from coast defense projects to those inland.
Many of the travelers added that their "homes" in camping spots and "shelter" areas near defense industries had been "cleaned up" by guards about these plants and the transient residents ordered to "move on."
Anyway, it was the same scene—just heading another direction: ancient cars piled high with moveable household furniture and bearing loads of adults, youths and ragged children—all showing no signs that their migration westward had meant prosperity.—Holtbrook (Ariz.) News.

Men 17-21 May Get In Navy

School and college men between the ages of 17 and 21 years now have a chance to do their part for Uncle Sam and still continue their school courses until this present semester is completed.
Lieutenant W. B. Cranston, Officer-in-Charge, Dallas Recruiting Station, received an announcement to this effect from the Navy Department.
The men will be enlisted in the U. S. Naval Reserve, Class V-1, for the duration of the emergency. The applicant at the time he enlists may ask to be placed on the inactive list until their present school semester is completed or he may ask for immediate duty.
The qualifications are: be 17 years of age and not past their 21st birthday; be of good character; possess the moral, educational, and physical requirements specified for enlistment in the Regular Navy and must have no dependents.
Schools and colleges where these men attend will be encouraged to give extra physical and scholastic training by recommendation from the Bureau of Navigation.
Advancement will be fast for the man that applies himself.
Men who desire to enter the Naval Service or wish further information, it will be their advantage to apply in person at the nearest Navy Recruiting Station. North Texas is covered by the following Navy Recruiting Stations: Abilene, Amarillo, Big Springs, Dallas, Fort Worth, Longview, Lubbock, Paris, San Angelo, Waco, and Wichita Falls.

Getting jobs in other public offices has done more than the war to cut the rolls of the legislature, according to reports available in Austin of members of the last legislature who have resigned.

Most Helpless Offer Most Help Now

AUSTIN — Declining to cut grants of assistance at the request of the recipients themselves, J. S. Murchison, Executive Director of the State Department of Public Welfare, revealed today that many old people are writing him requesting such cuts as an aid to national defense.
"These requests do not appear to be coming from persons who have other means of support, but from the helpless aged who feel that they can aid the cause in no other way," Mr. Murchison said.
"We have received several hundred letters in the last few days in response to a leaflet mailed to our 163,910 recipients with their January checks. If the nation as a whole has the willingness to sacrifice evidenced in these letters, then the morale of America is in a very healthy condition indeed."

SIDE GLANCES ON TEXAS HISTORY

By Charles Sansom, Jr.
University of Texas Library

A Pig Meddles In Diplomacy

In February, 1841, while Texas was still a Republic, an amusing incident almost caused a severance of the friendly relations between France and Texas.

D. W. C. Baker, in his book, "A Texas Scrap Book," one of the many original narratives of Texas history and adventure in the University of Texas Library's Texas Collection, tells the story:

"One of the pigs of Mr. Bullock, an Austin landlord, found his way into the stable of M. De Saligny, the French charge d'affaires, and proceeded to appropriate a portion of the corn of the minister's horses. For this offense a servant slew the swinish invader, whereupon the irate landlord horse-whipped the dependent of the French ambassador.

Houston Heals Wounded Dignity

"Saligny thereupon complained, and Bullock was arrested and bound over to next term of court. Afterward the landlord ordered the envoy off his premises. These indignities to French honor were not to be put up with, and the Texas government failing to give satisfaction, the French minister abandoned his post. A conciliatory letter from President Houston afterward healed the breach and brought the testy Frenchman back."

Julia Hahn returned home Saturday night after a weeks visit with her sister, Mrs. Andrew Watkins at McLean.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Hurn and granddaughter Inelle Cox spent the week end visiting their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Van Zandt at Tulla.

Duncan Coffee Company Announces New Defense Plan For Employees

To encourage the purchase of more defense savings bonds by their employees, announcement was made today by Herschel M. Duncan, President of the Duncan Coffee Company, of a new plan whereby the Company will participate with each of its 450 employees in making the purchase of bonds.

The plan offered by Mr. Duncan makes it possible for each employee to purchase the first $25.00 bond for $15.00, with the Duncan Coffee Company contributing the remaining portion of $3.75 to make the total of $18.75. On the purchase of the second bond by the employee, the Company will also contribute 10%, or $1.88, which makes the bond actually cost the employee only $16.87.

In announcing the Company's offer to its employees, Mr. Duncan said, "To win this war, America needs men, materials, and money. The military branches are taking care of the first; the factories are operating day and night to take care of the second; you and I can, and will, do our share toward taking care of the third. It is the indispensable duty of you and I to join with other individuals in making available the money needed for planes, tanks, ammunition, supplies — all those things with which our nation must be equipped in order to win our fight for freedom."

TEXAS NYA YOUTH MAKE 65,000 ITEMS FOR U. S. ARMY

AUSTIN—Boys employed in Texas NYA Defense Shops produced 65,000 essential articles for the United States Army during the months of October, November, and December, according to J. C. Kellam, state NYA administrator.

Ranging from gun racks to fluorescent lamp fixtures, among the articles made were iron map display racks, military skids, inter-communication sets, machine gun tials, sighting devices for anti-airk guns, 81 millimeter mortar aids, sheet metal megaphones, sun sighting bars and targets, metal signs, army lockers, sheet metal air vents, executive desks, gun sighting angles, holders for automatic machine guns, office desks, typewriter desks and stands, chairs, tables, platforms, packing boxes, and public address systems with microphones and phonographs. Repair work also was done on ammunition trailers, cars, trucks, and army lockers.

Gas Association Makes Drive for Scrap Metal

FORT WORTH—Charles F. Roeser of Fort Worth, general chairman for District Three of the national petroleum co-ordination set-up, today was named chairman of the Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association drive for collection of scrap metal and rubber in the oil industry.

Mr. Roeser, in accepting the chairmanship, extended the drive to cover not only Texas, but also all other States of District Three, including Louisiana, New Mexico, Arkansas, Mississippi and Alabama.

"The collection of the scrap of the oil industry is too important to confine merely to Texas," Mr. Roeser said. "I am therefore enlarging our drive to cover all six States of District Three, and am asking the Texas Mid-Continent to co-ordinate the campaign over this entire area through its affiliated organizations."

The collection of oil field scrap iron, steel, aluminum and rubber was undertaken by the association at the request of the Federal Government through its Bureau of Industrial Conservation.

"Federal conservation authorities have asked us to get together for re-processing all the scrap metal and rubber now on the leases, in the yards and at the plants of the oil industry," Mr. Roeser said. "It is a patriotic duty which the oilmen gladly assume as part of our industry's program of war-time co-operation."

"Also, it can prove to be of benefit to our industry in its efforts to drill new wells and make the other expansions which the increased demands upon our industry make necessary. Some of this scrap doubtless will be re-used in making oil field goods which are vitally needed to supply the additional oil and find the new reserves called for by the Nation's victory program."

Truck and Bus Owner Lag In Reports

AUSTIN, January 28.—Texas is about to be branded a slacker in one phase of its National Defense effort, State Police Director Homer Garrison declared today.

The War Department has set Jan. 31 as the deadline for completion of its nationwide inventory of trucks and buses. Thus far only 60 per cent of Texas truck and bus owners have returned their questionnaires, Garrison said. This means that the owners of 100,000 commercial vehicles in Texas have failed or refused to cooperate with the War Department.

"This inventory is essential to intelligent planning for emergency transportation needs," Garrison said. "The press, the radio and state and local officials have given it wide publicity. Inventory forms have been sent to the owners of all vehicles, and duplicate forms have been sent to those whose reports have not yet been received. It is inconceivable that anyone concerned has not been informed of the survey and of its purposes and significance. The inevitable conclusion is that a very large number of supposedly patriotic people in Texas have refused to cooperate in the survey because they are afraid that by doing so they might subject their vehicles to requisition by the Army. As a matter of fact, however, the Army has registration lists of all commercial vehicles, and if forced to do so could requisition vehicles indiscriminately. Therefore, the person who holds out is accomplishing nothing but confusion.

"Every County Judge in Texas has a supply of blank inventory cards. Any truck or bus owner who has failed to receive his card, or who has lost it, should exercise his patriotic duty immediately by obtaining one of these cards and mailing it to the War Department, 1222 West Commerce, San Antonio.

"Persuasion and appeals to patriotic duty having failed, I know of but one remaining method short of legal force by which this task can be accomplished. That is to call upon every peace officer, every service station and garage man, every truck or bus owner and driver and the citizenship at large to take upon himself the duty of helping to save our State from being branded a slacker by the War Department. I urge all these people to ask every truck and bus driver and owner they come in contact with if he has returned his inventory card; and, if he has not, to tell him that he can get one from his County Judge, and urge him to send it in immediately."

Paul Slaton, who has been ill for several days, is again holding down his regular job.

Mr. and Mrs. Rufus White and Mr. and Mrs. Frank White Sr. went to Shamrock Sunday to be with Mrs. Glen White who is in hospital very ill.

FARMERS - RANCHERS

We are making our rounds again this Spring building TERRACES, and if everyone would see me within the next three weeks that wanted work done, even though they were not ready we could make a deal. Little jobs would be impossible to do unless it was on our route, due to having to move heavy equipment.

Anyone in Donley County wishing this kind of work should see me within Three Weeks whether you are ready to do the work or not. It might be possible that we can do all the jobs by using this method.

This work can be done by the hour or by contract, which will be some higher than in the past.
