NEWS at a glance

Hedley calls off city's elections

Elections in Hedley were canceled last week by action of the Board of Aldermen.

Elections had been scheduled for May 5 but were canceled because all candidates were running unopposed.

City Secretary Randy Shaw presented a letter during the board's April 5 meeting certifying Bruce Howard, Abby O'Neal, and Jim Lollar as the only candidates. Those men will take office next month.

In other business, Gene Hommel and Monty Horton addressed the board about possibly purchasing the old city wells west of town.

Bye, bye bats

Abatement work was completed on the Donley County Courthouse last Wednesday.

Sun City Analytical operations manager Hector Diaz said workers have finished gathering up the bat guano and cleaning off furniture that had been stored in the third-floor attic.

Monday workers installed a metal screen around the edge of the roof. The screen should block the bats, which will soon be migrating north and looking to return to their old hang out in the historic building.

Services planned for Good Friday

There will be a Community Good Friday Service sponsored by the Donley County Ministerial Alliance on Friday at 7:00 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church.

All are invited to this service remembering the crucifixion and death of Jesus of Nazareth leading to Easter morning.

Inside:

- 2 Agriculture touches the life of every American every day of the week.
- 6 Some local youth placed during a recent 4-H contest.
- 7 The Bulldogs sweep their games with New Mexico Military.
- 8 A local boy meets an Olympian.
- 9 And the gang from Peanuts will be at CC next week.

All this and much more in this week's strutting edition!

CC unveils capital campaign

Clarendon College has unveiled a campaign to raise nearly $3.9 million over the next three years to meet the present and future needs of the Panhandle's oldest institution of higher learning.

The New Horizons Capital Campaign was well received during a luncheon held last Thursday for 65 local community leaders, faculty, alumni, and supporters of CC.

The campaign identifies four major goals for the college: a new library and learning resources center, a new livestock and equine center, additional funding for scholarships, and money for instructional equipment and emerging technologies.

The current CC Library, housed in approximately 4,000 square feet, is no longer adequate to serve the school's students. A new facility will cost the college approximately $2 million and would provide 15,000 to 18,000 square feet for library and learning resource purposes. This facility would be of great benefit to people in the college's service area and would enable the college to increase the number of holdings in the library and to better prepare students for university work and lifelong learning.

A livestock and equine center is needed because Clarendon College currently has no facilities at all for these programs or for the livestock competitions that are held here throughout the year. Some of these events draw upwards of 2,000 people to Clarendon. In addition to attracting visitors to various competitions, supporters say the center would allow the college to expand and enhance its agricultural programs. The center would encompass 66,000 square feet and would cost an estimated $1 million.

The campaign hopes to raise a $500,000 endowment to bolster the college's scholarship program. Another $390,000 is set as the goal for technology and equipment improvements to benefit both students and faculty.

CC President Myles Shelton says the New Horizons campaign has been well received by the public.

"We've got a lot of folks who believe in Clarendon College and who see the needs which exist," he said. "They want to see those needs met in a way that will service this area for a long time to come."

Shelton said it will ultimately be volunteers in the campaign who meet friend to friend to raise the money.

The campaign, which began last August, is broken into two phases. The first phase involved the Board of Regents, the CC Foundation Board, and the faculty and staff.

Shelton said the faculty/staff goal of $20,000 has been exceeded. That group has raised $32,000 and is still working, he said.

The boards are about halfway to their goal of raising $500,000.

The next phase of the campaign – the public phase – was launched at the luncheon. It will focus first on alumni and people in Donley County, then proceed to the college's seven-county service area and beyond. The final part of the public phase will be conducted through foundations and corporations.

Whoa, partner!

Rowdy Speed hangs on to the horse's lead as Adam Topper looks on during the annual Kindergarten Rodeo held last Friday. The Clarendon kindergarten class presented the program to their parents and enjoyed riding horses, roping, branding, Western games, Western music, and a Texas snack of beans and cornbread.

Lightning strikes sheriff's pickup

God lit up the life of Donley County's sheriff last week... literally.

Lightening struck the patrol truck of Sheriff Butch Blackburn the evening of last Friday, April 6, while he was storm chasing on the JA Ranch Road near the old Kent place.

Blackburn realized the pickup had been hit when the engine died, and he coasted to the side of the road. He said the bolt shook the truck but did not shock him.

"The instrument panel started doing all kinds of crazy stuff, and the headlights were burning very brightly and wouldn't turn off," he said.

The lightening apparently struck the antennae, vaporizing most of it and turning the remainder from black to purple. The aerial was located on the left front fender. The electricity went to ground by blowing out the right rear tire. The radio and other electrical instruments were fried.

Blackburn said he had been near another lightning strike several years ago. A bolt hit an electrical transformer about 80 feet from him, and he said that was plenty close.

The county pickup Blackburn was driving was brand new. He just signed the papers on it last month.

The storm Blackburn was chasing Friday brought 0.40" of rain to Clarendon, and high winds associated with the storm did a lot of damage throughout the Panhandle region.

CC alumni to meet April 21

The 63rd annual Clarendon College Alumni Reunion and Homecoming will be held April 21 and 22.

Registration will begin Saturday in the Bairfield Activity Center at 9 a.m., and a full day of events has been planned this year.

Tours will be available courtesy of the CC Student Ambassadors, and brunch will be served from 10:30 a.m. to noon.

The Bulldogs will face New Mexico Junior College in a double header homecoming game, and the spring intramural rodeo will also be held the same day.

An honor banquet will be held at 6:30 p.m. in the Bairfield Center. Tickets are $10 in advance or $15 at the door. Pre-registration is strongly encouraged.

The CC Fine Arts Dept. will produce "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown" on Saturday night, and a lunch and business meeting will be held on Sunday.

For more information, contact Darlene at the college at 874-3571.

PPA recognizes Enterprise with community service award

THE CLARENDON ENTERPRISE WAS the recipient of the Ken Towery Community Service Award when the Panhandle Press Association (PPA) met for its annual convention in Amarillo last Saturday.

The local paper was honored for its efforts in support of the restoration of the 1890 Donley County Courthouse.

Coverage of the courthouse project dates back to 1997 when the Texas Courthouse Alliance began documenting the problems facing the historic structure. But Saturday's award came for the work the ENTERPRISE did during calendar year 2000, the highlight of which was the March 9 issue that explained the project to local citizens. That same issue included the talked-about "Ghost from the Past" photo, which used digital imaging to superimpose the missing third story and dormers onto a modern picture of the courthouse.

The March 9 issue was included in the county's grant application to the Texas Historical Commission. In May of last year, Preservation Texas cited the photo when that group presented the ENTERPRISE with its Texas Media Award.

"We put a lot of hard work into that issue of the paper," said publisher Roger Estlack, "and we were honored to be recognized for that work by our peers."

The Towery Award is named after former Floydada publisher Ken Towery, a man who was devoted to community journalism during his career. Each year the PPA Board of Directors selects two recipients of the award, one in the weekly division and another in the semi-weekly/daily division. The winner receives a plaque and a $250 cash award.

Also during last week's convention, the ENTERPRISE was recognized with several awards in the weekly division of the annual Better Newspaper Contest.

A first place plaque was awarded in the Feature Writing category for stories written by Valerie Avery, Lindy Helms, and Roger Estlack. Avery's winning article was about the retirement of longtime Clarendon Junior High teacher Helen Estlack. Helms' story about Grace Leathers was very well received, and judges were also impressed with Roger Estlack's biographical sketch of Zell SoRelle.

Cynthia Hall and Christi Ross were the first and second place winners in the Humorous Columns category.

PPA Vice President Mary Dudley said judges from the Gulf Coast Press Association were so impressed with the winning column writers from the PPA that they asked for copies of the winning columns so they could show their writers the way it's done.

See 'Awards' on page 10.

Guys & Dolls re-opens after December fire

Four months after a fire practically gutted the local beauty shop, Guys & Dolls Salon held its grand re-opening Sunday afternoon.

Shop owner Brenda Chamberlain said over a hundred people attended the open house and toured the remodeled facility.

Door prizes were given away during the open house Sunday. Winners of the tanning certificates were Paula Shay and Stacy James. Red Davis, Bette Kramer, Jack Barton, and Felicia Powell won Donley County Afghans. And gift certificate winners were Clara Mae Carter, Judy Morris, Pat Archuleta, and Patsy Havens.

The new beauty shop is modern throughout with an improved air filtration system and added safety features in the electrical system all designed to prevent another fire from ever happening. The use of wooden trim and cabinets was also minimized, and only metal trash containers will be used at each station.

"We essentially built a building inside a building," said Chamberlain's husband, Will.

On December 2, 2000, an early morning fire nearly gutted the beauty shop and caused smoke damage to the Rebekah Lodge on the south and the Newhouse Building on the north.

"We lost everything," Chamberlain said.

Chamberlain and former partner Linda Roberson purchased The Vogue, a beauty shop owned by Marjorie Winters, in 1980 and renamed it Guys & Dolls. Five years later they moved into their present location at 322 S. Kearney.

Chamberlain became the sole owner of the establishment about 2½ years ago.

Friends, relatives, and co-workers helped Chamberlain get her business re-established since the fire. Chamberlain is grateful to each of them and especially to Susie Dale, owner of Susie Q's Family Hair Care, who took in the homeless hairdressers from Guys & Dolls after the fire.

The ladies of Guys & Dolls Salon stand in their newly remodeled home. They are Carol Baxter, Ethie Uptergrove, Freida Siddle, and Brenda Chamberlain.

editor's Commentary

WARNING: The following column is an editorial (i.e. an opinion, a point of view) and may contain ideas or positions with which some readers may freely disagree. It could be harmful to liberals, socialists, and other small mammals. Read at your own risk.

Bush getting the right idea with budget

I can't say I've been 100 percent pleased with our new president. I don't believe his tax cut is big enough, and frankly I think he ought to take the Red Chinese by the throats on this plane deal and squeeze very slowly - figuratively of course - until they release their "guests" and apologize to us for the inconvenience. But when it comes to the budget, Bush may have hit the nail on the head.

I was listening to Fox News on Monday evening, when Brit Hume came on and said the president's new budget contains actual cuts in some areas. I just about fell out of my chair because this is unheard of in Washington. Usually, the only time something is cut is in the case of political retribution (i.e. the closure of the money-making helium plant in Amarillo).

The thing is far from perfect, though. It is still the biggest federal budget in the history of the Republic, $1.959 trillion. For those of you who aren't good at math, that is $1,959,000,000,000.00. To pay for this, the federal government will confiscate $2,192,000,000,000.00 from hard working American men and women. (In other words, we will be overtaxed on the order of $233,000,000,000.00, but that's another column.)

You'd think that government-loving Democrats would be elated that the budget is so big, but you would be wrong. They're unhappy. As one of them said, there isn't "nearly enough money for priorities like education, health care, clean water or a safe environment" in the Bush budget.

Of course, for a Democrat, the government can never spend too much money. They never met a government program they didn't like.

While a handful of programs would actually receive less funding under the president's plan, most would still increase. The difference between Bush and the Demos is that he wants an increase of about four percent in spending, and they want an eight percent increase. (A four percent increase is as good as a cut to a Democrat.)

In almost any instance, the louder the liberals scream, the better President Bush will be doing his job. With this budget, we will no doubt soon hear that children will starve, people will die of disease, and our environment will be destroyed for the sake of big business and the rich. None of which will happen.

I'm not going to hold my breath for this budget to pass through Congress, but wouldn't it be grand if it did? It's about time that somebody showed some fiscal responsibility in Washington. And that means cutting - and eventually closing - many government programs.

Hang up, please

Cellular phones are wonderful things. But the cost of convenience seems to be the loss of common courtesy.

At one time or another, we have all had a nice dinner or night at the movies disrupted by some idiot who did not turn off his or her phone. Most professional functions that I have attended have not had that problem though. That is until I attended a certain convention last week.

In the very first seminar on Friday morning, phones started going off. It happened again at the second seminar of the morning and again during the luncheon.

During the afternoon's first session, I leaned over to one of my colleagues and said, "Deb, I've never been to one of these where so many darn cell pho..." And before I could finish the sentence another phone went off. By the time that session was over six cell phones had started chirping at some point. We would all look around as the phone would ring two or three times until the nimrod who owned it figured out it was theirs.

It was aggravating to say the least. By the Friday evening banquet, I was not happy with this situation. Maybe I'm old fashioned, but I think it's rude to take your cell phone to a banquet. Sure I have one of the darn things, but as soon as I got to the hotel I turned mine off and stuck it in the suitcase.

As the meal was about to be served, I turned to my cohort again and said, "Boy, Deb, those cell..." And there went another one.

I wanted to tell the person with the phone, "Pardon me. But would you be so kind as to take that @#%* cellular telephone and get the @#%* out of here. Thank you."

But then I supposed that would be rude so I remained silent.

A few common sense rules are all that need apply here. If you're driving down the road minding your own business, feel free to talk your head off. Just please don't run over me. But if you're in a seminar or a banquet where people are trying to learn something or hear a speaker, turn that damn thing off!

This column is directed to no one in particular. But if you're sitting there thinking, "Is he talking about me?" then, yeah, I most certainly am.

Agriculture touches everyone's daily life

By Congressman Henry Bonilla

I had a meeting the other day with some folks from the Texas Farm Bureau. They're a great group of people, and I always look forward to talking with them. In our meetings, we discuss everything from the price of livestock to the latest cotton regulations to foot and mouth disease. An interesting point was brought up in our last discussion. Does the American public realize how often agriculture touches their daily lives?

It's not something we think about every day. You probably don't get up in the morning, put on your clothes, and consider who raised the sheep for your wool pants or who grew the cotton for your shirt. When we get to the breakfast table, we often forget about the corn that was harvested for our morning bowl of cereal or the cows milked for our tall glass of calcium. When our children arrive at school, we seldom think about the school lunch program they are provided each day. Nor do we think about the vaccinations that keep them safe from disease. And when we stop at the grocery store on our way home, how often do we take for granted the high quality of the products we purchase. The produce and meat are fresh, and the aisles are packed with availability and variety. Not many countries have this type of luxury.

I make this point because it's important we understand how fortunate we are to have a safe and successful agriculture industry. Agriculture affects so many aspects of our lives. Beyond food and clothing, the agriculture industry accounts for one in every six U.S. jobs. Farmers and ranchers are not the only people working for this huge industry. Agriculture supports your neighbor who works at the clothing production plant, your friend who manages the local grocery store, and even your family pharmacist.

No doubt about it - agriculture fuels our economy. The agriculture industry accounts for two percent of our nation's gross domestic product. It also accounts for $50 billion in exports each year. Let's not forget that farmers pay incredible sums of money to cover their business expenses. In recent years, farmers paid as much as $73 billion in purchases and over $25 billion in employee wages.

When you add up the products, the jobs, and the economic advantages, you can come to just one conclusion: the agriculture industry is literally the backbone of our country. This was true when the founding fathers met in Philadelphia, it was true during the industrial revolution of the 1800s, and it is still true today.

So the next time you're in the grocery store picking out apples or at a department store selecting a new shirt, think about the time and energy invested in every product you see. We may take these things for granted, but for thousands of people nation-wide these items are truly a necessity of life. Let's be thankful for our agriculture industry and for the men and women who work hard every day to keep it strong.

Congressman Henry Bonilla is chairman of the Agriculture Appropriations Subcommittee. As chairman, Mr. Bonilla oversees all the nation's agriculture funding, the nation's food supply, emergency disaster relief, and farm and ranch programs. Mr. Bonilla is in his fifth term as a Congressman from Texas' 23rd district.

Justification isn't needed to cut federal taxes

By Sheldon Richman

Tax cuts do not have to be justified. It's government spending that has to be justified.

I realize that is contrary to virtually every news report and analysis of President Bush's plan to cut income tax rates. To listen to the news media, you'd think the government creates the wealth in this country and then parcels it out to the people. Pundits and activists complain about tax cuts going to the rich as though money is being handed out.

But this is all exactly backward. The government doesn't create wealth. Individuals do through their work and ingenuity. What the government does is take it - by force - and give it to someone else.

A tax cut doesn't give money to anyone. It doesn't even give it back to anyone. When government cuts taxes, it merely abstains from taking it from its producers. The money never leaves the hands it originates in because it never goes to Washington in the first place.

Thus all the talk about how much the Bush plan will "give" the rich is sheer balderdash. It "gives" nothing to anyone.

But here in America we have become so mired in welfare-state thinking that most people approach these issues as though tax revenues are a pot of cash that belongs to the government. Just look at the difference in the way tax cutting and government spending are treated. A number of people have proposed that any tax-cut plan contain "triggers," which would allow a phase of the cuts to be canceled if projected surpluses do not materialize.

Have you ever heard anyone propose a trigger for government spending? Increases in spending are considered so normal that if someone proposes a smaller increase than planned, it's called a budget cut.

As Thomas Sowell points out, somewhere along the line the burden of proof shifted from the politicians who confiscate our wealth to the people who produce it in the first place. The question is, how can we restore the proper moral perspective?

We can begin by using language clearly. In his famous essay, "Politics and the English Language," George Orwell noted that muddy language facilitates muddy thought. Perhaps if we clear up our language, our thinking will clear up also.

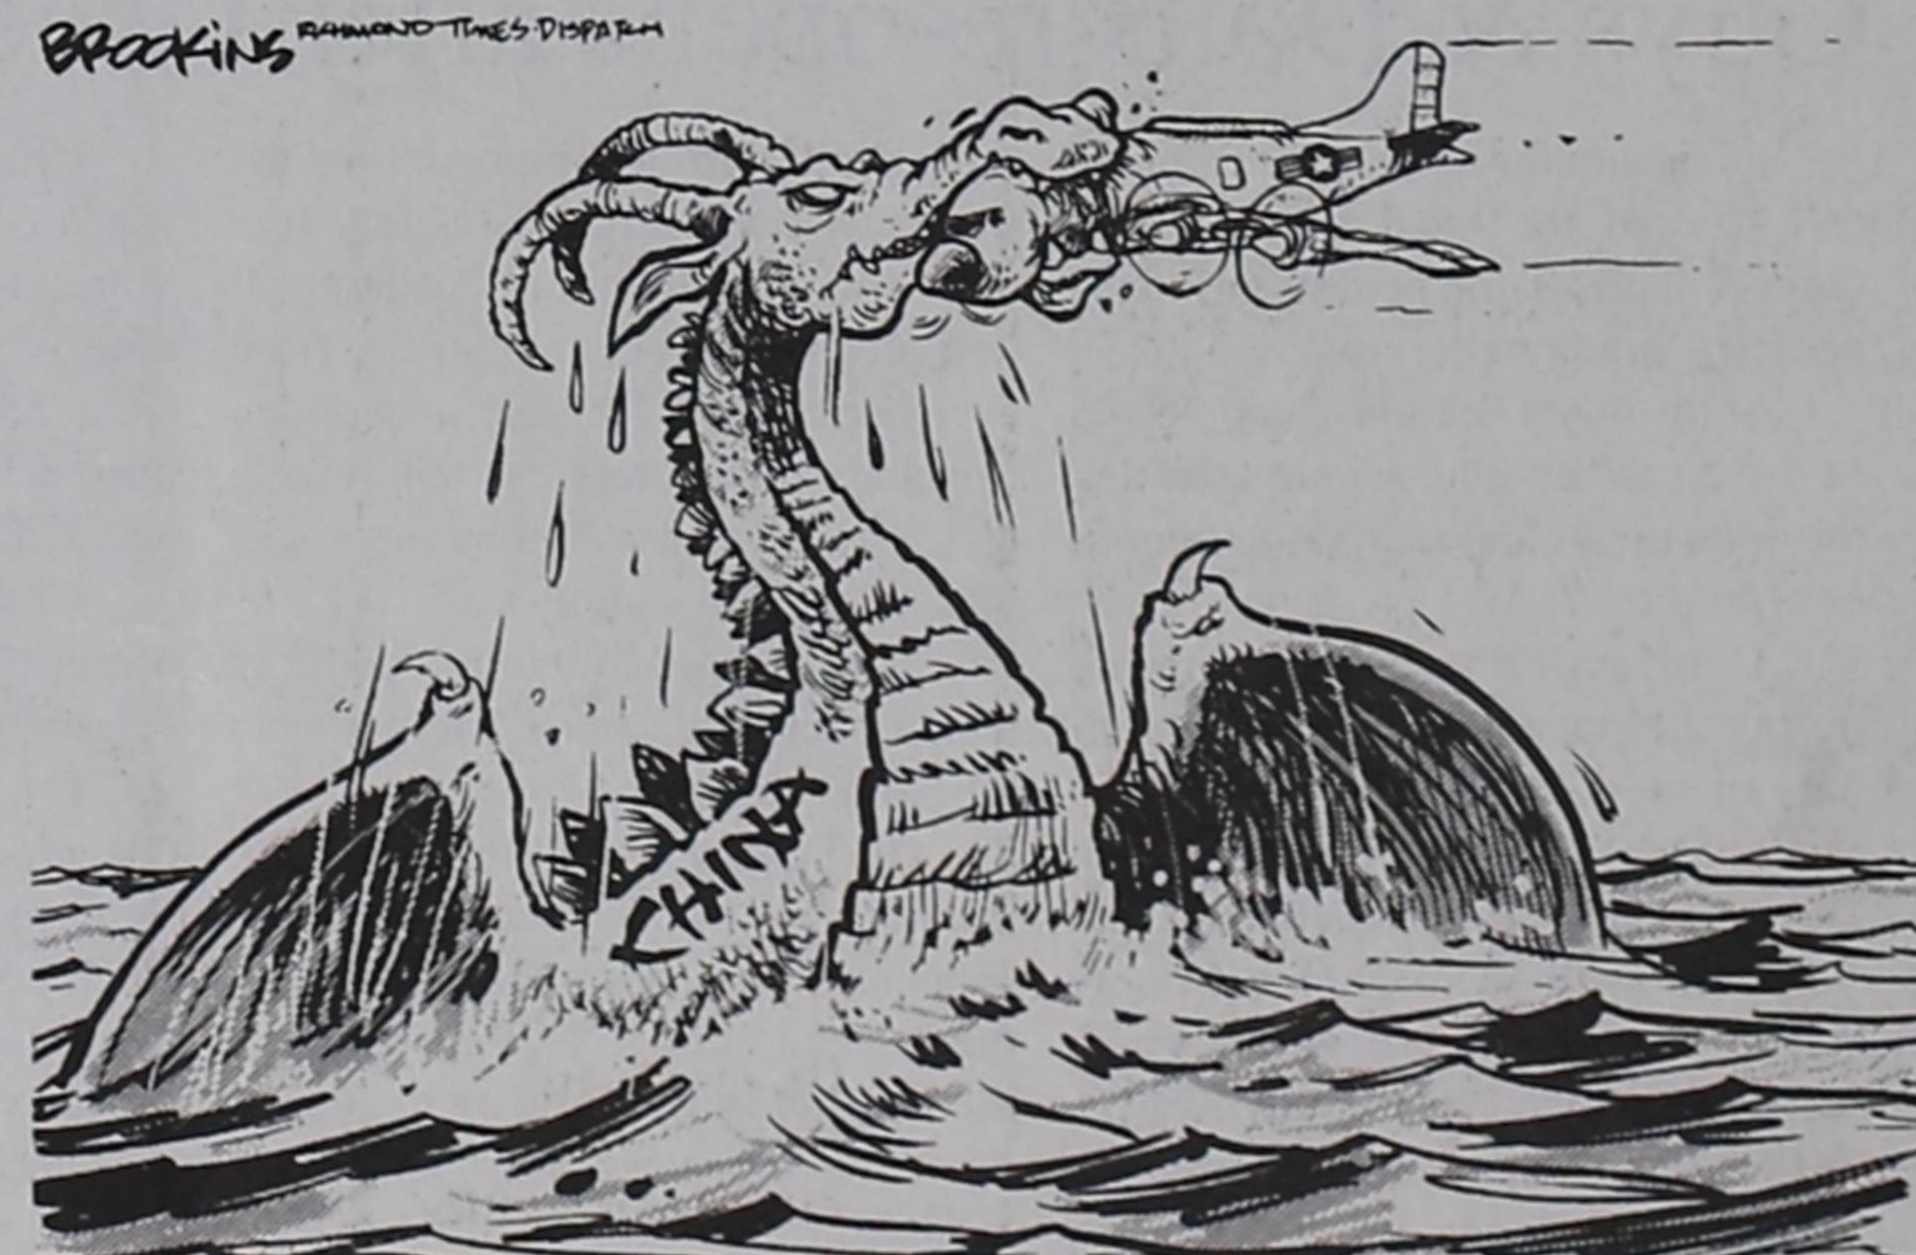

To tax is to take by force. Everything the government has, it has by virtue of its having threatened reprisals if the owners did not surrender it. No one who sweats over a 1040 form as April 15 approaches should be surprised by this. If you have any doubts, look up what the government has in store for you if you neglect to tell the IRS about some money you earned. There are people spending long terms in prison because they didn't give the government what it claimed it was entitled to.

Entitled? By what right? You say the people authorized the tax laws? Not by a long shot. Tax laws are written in arcane language behind closed doors by a few tenured congressmen and their staffs. Government has myriad devices for mystifying its operations in order to keep John Q. Citizen at a safe distance. We the people no more authorized the tax-eating monster we live with than we authorized the tornadoes that tore through Arkansas and Mississippi recently.

But even if we did, that would not justify it. We'd all agree that I have no right to threaten my neighbor with fine or imprisonment if he doesn't give me 15 percent of his income. We'd further agree that a majority of my neighbors also does not have that right. So how did "the people," meaning a small band of politicians, get that right? The government can have no rights that are not possessed by individuals. To believe otherwise is to lapse back into the time before the American Revolution, when kings thought they ruled by divine right. It's sad to contemplate that the only apparent effect the American Revolution has had on the American people is in how they spend the Fourth of July.

Taxes should be cut - better, repealed! - because the money belongs to those who earn it. It's bad enough the politicians take our incomes from us. At least we should make them justify their morally felonious activity.

Jeter widens lead, may be impossible to stop

With just one week to go before the final votes are tallied, local banker Vic Jeter has widened his lead over Mayor Tex Selvidge, and he now appears to be unstoppable in his effort to be Donley County's first Turkey King.

Jeter was leading the Clarendon mayor by a margin of $27.32, according to this week's Enterprise / Gobbler Poll. That's nearly $10 ahead of where Jeter was this time last week.

Election judge Linda Gray said things have been relatively quiet at the polling place with the exception of campaign handbills appearing there. One was put on the door of Duckwall's, and another was placed right on the jar of the candidate in question - Mayor Tex Selvidge.

Electioneering within 100 feet of any polling place is a clear violation of the law, but when asked if she thought the Selvidge campaign was at fault, she said no.

"I think Vic [Jeter] was behind it," she said, "but don't quote me." Jeter denied any knowledge of the Selvidge posters and reacted angrily when told about the electioneering rules.

"Who's making up all these rules?" he exclaimed. "We need someone to write all this down. There ought to be a book or something."

A faceless committee known only as the "Don't Wanna Be Turkey King Campaign" might be responsible for the posters. That group has

Severe weather class to be held April 17

A severe weather training class will be held Tuesday, April 17, at 7:00 p.m. at the Clarendon Firestation. The class is sponsored by the Clarendon Fire Department and the Clarendon Fire Belles and will be given by the National Weather Service.

The severe weather class helps train spotters for our area and also promotes safety awareness for those not spotting. The class is informative about severe weather in our area and the safety precautions we need to take during this season.

The class is open to the public, and refreshments will be served.

also taken out an ad in this week's paper supporting Selvidge.

The Jeter forces aren't going to be outdone, however. "Birds of a Feather," the committee to elect the local banker, has also purchased print advertising this week.

Meanwhile, a confrontation erupted between candidate Jeter and Chamber of Commerce director Judy Burlin. According to witnesses, Burlin told Jeter he couldn't be present when the votes are counted next week.

"Haven't you ever learned about any election laws in your life?" she asked. "Candidates are never present when votes are counted."

Burlin continued and even stooped so low as to say that Jeter's real name is Vic Gore.

Local political analysts unanimously decried Burlin's comments and accused her of mudslinging and dirty politics.

"The politics of personal destruction must end," one analyst said. "Jeter may be a lowlife, cheating turkey, but he is no Al Gore. To say otherwise is an insult and a disservice to turkeys everywhere."

In other Turkey Festival news, anti-poultry forces have struck again - this time in the yard of Game Warden Gary Hunt.

Hunt finally received one of the pink and green wooden turkeys in his yard last Thursday. But then when no one was looking, the anti-poultry forces attacked.

"I was patrolling in Armstrong County when my wife called," Hunt said. "She said the turkey had gone to roost."

When he came home, Hunt found that someone had put the turkey up in the top of a maple tree about 30 feet off the ground. The bird was so scared of heights that it wouldn't come down and was reported to still be in the tree at press time.

Hunt said that while it's common for the Rio Grande turkey to roost that high in the wild, the Salt Fork plywood turkey generally does not like to be that far from terra firma.

At least Hunt's turkey still has his life though. One bird last week was not so lucky when he encountered the anti-poultry squad. Thomas Prescott Featherbottom was lynched in the front yard of Tessie Robinson last week.

No suspects have been identified as the attackers of Featherbottom, who was known as Tom to his friends.

The victim will lie in state at the Burton Memorial Library on April 19 from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m. A wake will be held at the same time, and refreshments will be served. Arrangements are under the direction of Robertson Funeral Directors and the library staff.

Memorials in Featherbottom's honor may be made to the Donley County Tourism Committee.

Anyone can have a turkey put in someone's yard for a birthday, anniversary, or gag gift for a $5 donation to the Tourism Council. Call Carolyn Blackerby at the Burton Library at 874-3685 for your order.

The election for Donley County's King Turkey continues, and pictures of all 12 turkey candidates are on money jars at Duckwall's. The winner will be the turkey with the most money at the end of the contest.

The king will be crowned during the Turkey Strut Festival on April 21-22.

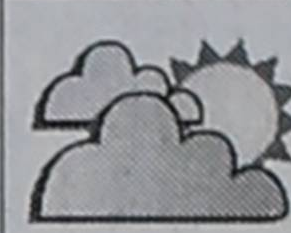

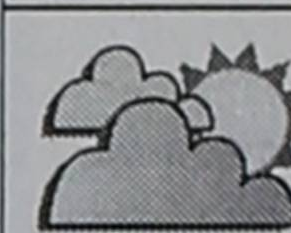

Money raised goes to the Donley County Tourism Council to help promote our fair county. Vote early and vote often.

Looking Back

20 Years Ago

THE CLARENDON PRESS, April 9, 1981
 • The voters of Clarendon made history last Saturday, April 4, when they elected Shirley Clifford as the first female mayor of this city. Tex Selvidge, Richard Bell, and Jimmy Kuhn were elected as aldermen.

50 Years Ago

THE DONLEY CO. LEADER, April 12, 1951
 • The big hurdle in the promotion of a permanent rodeo and celebration ground was cleared here Tuesday when the deed to 35 acres of land was recorded in the name of the Outdoor Entertainment Association. The additional space joins the present roping arena and was needed to have a first class entertainment ground. Blueprints for the new grounds have been drawn, and the pens from Broncho Stadium will probably be moved within the next week, and then the work can be started on the new bleachers and other equipment.

Luncheons keeping Clarendon folk satisfied

If anyone went away hungry from the barbecue dinner at the Lion's Club on Sunday after church, it can only be because of failure to lift a fork to the mouth.

Even hollow-legged teenagers pushed away from the tables groaning because they were stuffed full of food. I heard some folks swear that they wouldn't eat again for a week, and after all that wonderful barbecued beef (topped with James Ivey Edwards' special barbecue sauce) and fixings, not to mention the desserts ranging from banana pudding through peach cobbler to some sinfully sweet chocolate-cherry-pie thing, I believe it might be possible. Even better, the fundraising dinner raised over a thousand dollars for the Main Street Ministry. Air conditioning becomes a possibility.

Thoughts of last week bring memories of food. The Sunday dinner was only the last of the lunches I got to attend. Thursday, the college held a lunch to announce the opening of a campaign to raise money for several goals. They displayed pictures of the library and the livestock and equine center they hope to build as the first two goals. I was studying the arena drawing, thinking that it certainly looked flat, when I realized that the window-things around the edges of the building were not windows at all, but garage-sized doors. The building will cover an area the size of the rodeo arena behind Chamberlain's, and then some. It was exciting to see the plans and to see Clarendon folks on Channel 10 Thursday night talking about their dreams for the college.

Friday, the Arts Club met and learned how to make mosaics from Lori Howard. (After food, of course.) She brought clay pots for the foundation, broken dishes, glass and marbles (the marbles weren't broken), and Liquid Nails to glue the broken pieces to the pots. Everyone also got a bag of grout to take home to finish the project after the glue dried for twenty-four hours. Those who had to return to work took their supplies with them; those who stayed behind got to play with the glue and stuff. It did get a bit messy (especially when the marbles fell off and bounced on ladies' nice club-meeting clothes), but it was lots of fun, and the pots were looking mighty pretty by the time

Bunny's pranks were worth Mama's cooking

I've never really understood the Easter Bunny. As a child, I was completely into Santa Claus. It didn't strike me as odd at all that a fat man, dressed in red velvet, would enter our home in the dark of night and leave presents. I cheerfully set out milk and cookies for this midnight visitor and didn't worry at all about a man coming down our chimney.

It seemed completely reasonable that this yearly caller lived at the North Pole and employed strangely dressed elves. There was nothing unusual about him flying through the air in a sleigh or having a vocabulary that consisted mainly of "HoHoHo." And his airborne reindeer? No problem. It made perfect sense to me.

And then there was the Tooth Fairy. Nothing could have been more believable than the mysterious Tooth Fairy who paid darn good money for teeth. When a tooth fell out, I simply put it under my pillow that night and waited to cash in. I knew that the minute I fell asleep, that sneaky fellow would show up and leave a nice, new quarter where my tooth had been. Since he did this for all my friends too, I figured he was really into teeth! Maybe he was making designer jewelry or something out of all those molars - who knows? All I know is that I never once questioned his existence or the payoff for a nice bicuspid.

Cinderella was a favorite of mine, and I was continually on the look out for my Fairy Godmother to show up. I found nothing strange about talking mice or magic pumpkins either. They all made perfect sense to me.

I loved wearing green on St. Patrick's Day and always wished I might actually see a Leprechaun. Just because I never saw one, certainly didn't mean they weren't really there. The same held true for the goblins roaming around on Halloween. While my brother and I trick-or-treated, I wouldn't have been a bit surprised to see a green-faced witch flying high on her broom.

No sir, each and every one of those things was clearly understandable. The Easter Bunny, however, was another ball of wax.

I think maybe the first problem I had with the funny Bunny was the egg thing. Now, I wasn't a particularly brilliant child, but I did know that I had never seen a rabbit lay any eggs - brightly colored or otherwise. At the petting zoo I had seen rabbits and their "deposits", and believe you me, those were not eggs. And if the Easter Bunny was responsible for bringing me a basket of brightly colored eggs, how come they looked just like the ones my brother and I had spent four hours dying in bowls of vinegar smelling stuff the day before? And not to put too fine a point on it, how come my mother brought home four dozen eggs from the grocery store every year just before Easter? Huh? How about that one? No, I think the Easter Bunny had nothing to do with the eggs.

And what about all those chocolate eggs and treats in our Easter baskets? The bunnies I know about leave something dark colored behind, but it sure ain't chocolate! No... that just didn't jive for me. Another thing that always puzzled me was why, after we spent so much time hard-boiling and dyeing eggs, did the Easter Bunny take them out of our baskets and hide them all over the yard? What kind of a trick was that? After all our hard work, to steal our eggs, everything was glued on. I just hope it's okay to let things dry more than twenty-four hours because it may be next Friday, or the one after that, before I get my grout mixed.

And I haven't even mentioned the reception for National Library Week at the college library after the lunch on Thursday. Given the small area available, librarian Jewel Austin has done wonders with the space. There are computers available for the students to use for research, to check e-mail, or write papers, as well as the research books and other materials one would expect to find at a college library. And on Thursday, they had punch and cookies. I believe that the students must have been able to smell the cookies. Either that, or word spread through mental telepathy, or maybe grapevine, because the library had plenty of business all day.

High wind interrupts week of good weather

The weather here had been good most of the week; then on Friday afternoon we had some high wind and sand. There was enough rain to almost wet the sidewalk.

I went with Keith to Memphis last week, and the wild plum bushes are solid masses of white blooms. I called my little great-niece, Faith Mullins, and told her if she'd come up about the Fourth of July, the plums would be ripe and we'd make some jelly. She made some grape jelly last year and brought me a jar. I'm not supposed to eat sweets, but I really enjoyed that jar of jelly. It lasted me about all winter.

I went down to the house at Giles Saturday and looked around. I was afraid the wind had blown some of the roof off the house, but I didn't see any damage. As a matter of fact, it looked pretty good, just like home should look. There were lots of elm limbs in the yard that had broken off during the ice storms, but inside the house everything was just like I left it almost a year ago. The curtains need washing, and there's some dust, but there was some dust most of the time when I lived there.

Early Sunday morning I heard lawn mowers running all over town. After lunch, Terry Collins mowed our lawn. The weeds were almost knee high and he didn't come any too soon. The tulips and iris are blooming. I hope he missed them when he mowed.

I watched the first half of Meet The Press Sunday while I was waiting to go to church.

Vice President Dick Cheney was the guest, and he spent almost ten minutes not saying why President Bush refused to apologize to China for the accident.

I never heard it takes so long for a person to say less in all my life. When the moderator asked another question, he continued to use the same meaningless rhetoric.

If one of my sons was one of the servicemen being held, I'd darn sure want to know why he didn't just say "I'm sorry" and be done with it. Sorry the accident had happened. Sorry the Chinese plane was flying too close. Sorry the Chinese pilot lost his life.

Colin Powell was on the Fox Sunday News, and he was just as bad as Mr. Cheney.

I read with interest the Editor's comments last week in THE CLARENDON ENTERPRISE. I said almost the same thing a few months ago, just not so well. You have a way with words, Boss.

The Methodist Church in Hedley will hold sunrise Easter services at sunrise on Sunday, April 15. Bill and Helen Combs of Memphis will bring some special music, and Rev. Neeley Lambert will bring the Easter mes-

Students study Texas

Clarendon first graders had a Texas field day on Friday, April 6.

The students came to school dressed like cowboys and cowgirls. They were given a tour of the Saints Roost Museum by Willard Skelton.

The students then went to the Bar H Dude Ranch.

Ted Shaller talked to them about cowboy gear, and Frank Hommel and William Barton gave each child a ride on a horse.

Bud White and Jimmy Adams played cowboy songs while the students danced to the music. Frank and Terri Hommel served chili on hot dogs with chips.

Next the kids went to James Owens' Boot Shop, where Jim Owens talked to them about the process used in making boots. The last stop was Faith Saddlery, where Jeff Anderson described the steps for making a saddle.

Mrs. Gribble's first grade class was part of a group of Clarendon Elementary students who have been studying Texas culture during recent field trips.

HNB Buckaroos not in a sharing mood

By Sue Church, County FCS Agent

For the second straight week the Herring National Bank Buckaroos team, led by captain Gayle Edes, has garnered the Walk Across Texas traveling t-shirt.

The t-shirt is awarded weekly to the team with the greatest weighted miles which is calculated by deducting the most and least miles walked by a team's members. The Buckaroos reported 145 total miles with 109 miles being weighted. Not far behind was the Community Bank Walkers with 122 miles (87 weighted) and Texas Trotters with 108.2 miles (85 weighted).

With 120 participants enrolled in the Walk Across Texas campaign, a total of 2072 miles has been walked the first two weeks by the individuals representing 15 teams. This equates into a round trip to South Padre Island from Clarendon and coming within 138 miles of reaching South Padre Island a second time.

With two very active weight watcher teams enrolled in the program, we hope to report some pounds lost and muscles firmed within the next couple of weeks.

For more information on how you can form a Walk Across Texas team, contact the Donley County Extension Office at 201 E. Third Street or by calling 874-2141.

Local youth place second in contest

By Sue Church, County FCS Agent

Four fifth graders from Clarendon Elementary, Paul Goetze, Sade Cobb, Abby Patten, and Keifer Burton, put their thinking skills together and placed second as a team at the District 1 Consumer Decision Making Judging Contest in Amarillo.

The event which was held Saturday, April 7, involved eighty-nine youth from the 21-county area. The products researched and rated by the youth included bottled water, luggage, watches, on-line shopping, cameras, and fruit juice drinks. To prepare for the contest, the youth studied consumer guides, magazines, and websites to learn about specific products.

This team competed last year earning recognition as the third place overall team. Next year they are setting their sites on placing first. Congratulations, Paul, Sade, Abby and Keifer!

Use time wisely

By Mary Beth Nelson

"There isn't enough time to do everything that needs to be accomplished today!" Sound familiar?

When I remember my own occasional utterances of those same words, I recall how quickly frustration began to dominate most of that particular day, to say noting of the tiredness it produced.

Before those feelings surface too much now, I try to remind myself that today is truly a gift from God. He provides abundant time of 24 hours each day in which to accomplish necessary things in a manner pleasing to Him.

He has even surrounded me with lovely "relief" resources when self-inflicting stress occurs. Warmth of sunshine, a bird's melody, twinkling stars in a black velvet sky, a tissue-paper moon still visible during a morning's flaming sunrise, sweet fragrance of lilacs, the feel of a summer breeze, change of fall colors, elegant winter snowflakes are only a fraction of abundant gifts God willingly supplies. If I think I am too busy to reflect and enjoy these blessings, it is my loss. Daily acknowledgment of His refreshing pleasures, even if only for a few minutes, can replenish calmness and serenity essential in handling a busy day more prudently.

Someone has said, "Yesterday is like a canceled check. Tomorrow is a promissory note. Today is like ready cash. Use it wisely, for today is the most precious possession you have." I couldn't agree more.

Mary Beth Nelson is freelance writer in Clarendon.

CHS athletes receives area accolades

By Sandy Anderberg

Sam Holton, a Bronco senior, was selected to play for the East in the 31st Annual Golden Spread All-Star Game, which took place April 5-7 in Amarillo.

Put on by officials, the tournament is a showcase for top senior basketball players from the area who have been selected for their basketball abilities.

The Golden Spread All-Star Game started in 1970 as a girls' basketball game. It expanded in 1988 to include boys. All proceeds are donated to area college basketball programs.

Sam is a 3-time All District player and was selected to the 6 2-A All-District team his sophomore, junior, and senior years.

He averaged 8 points, 9 rebounds, 3 assists, and 2 steals a game this year as he helped the Broncos to the District play offs.

Sam is the son of Van and Patty Holton.

Senior Josh Williams was selected to the All-Region 2A Second Team by the T.A.B.C. (Texas Association of Basketball Coaches) for the second year in a row.

Josh has recently competed in the Zebra Round-Up, which showcased high school seniors.

According to Coach Mike Ray,

Those receiving honors from Clarendon High School were Geri Butler, Sam Holton, Josh Williams, and Kelley Lemley.

Josh has also been invited to a "Shoot Around" at Wayland Baptist University this Friday, April 13.

Josh is the son of Roy and Barbara Williams.

Junior Kelley Lemley has also been selected to the All-Region 2A Second Team by the T.A.B.C.

"This is a very big honor for Kelley," said Coach Steve Schmidt. "They don't often honor an underclassman."

Kelley is the daughter of Joe and Rose Lemley.

Geri Butler has gained many post-season basketball honors. She was selected to the All-Region 2A First Team and the All-State team by the T.A.B.C. She was an All-Star selection but will not be able to play in the game. Another honor for Geri was being named to the T.G.C.A. (Texas Girls Coaches Association) All-State 1st team. She will participate in the All-Star game, which will be played in Austin on July 12. This game includes players from 1A-3A schools.

Wednesday, April 11, Geri will sign a letter of intent with South Plains College to play basketball on a full-ride scholarship.

Geri is the daughter of Pearly Butler.

Congratulations to all our Broncos and Lady Broncos!

Lady Broncos 1-0 in district

By Sandy Anderberg

Coming on strong like a team who has played for several years, the Lady Broncos dominated West Texas High in their first game of district play Monday, April 9, defeating the Lady Comanches, 14-8.

West Texas is in their 2nd year of UIL softball.

The Lady Broncos had their bats going strong as they had 23 hits to only 19 for West Texas. WT jumped out to an early lead in the first inning. Clarendon answered back in the second, taking a one-run lead. The Lady Broncos continued to show their strength at bat scoring 10 unanswered runs in 3 innings.

"We are not the same team that played WT in March," said Head Coach Kathy Barton. "They run-ruled us in the 5th inning and beat us 10-17."

The Lady Broncos not only defeated the Lady Comanches once, they defeated them twice. The JV team bested WT 12-2 in the 2nd game. Clarendon scored 5 runs in the 2nd inning and went on to hold the Lady Comanches scoreless for the rest of the game. The Lady Broncos had 21 hits to WT's 5.

"I am so proud of these girls and all of the work they have put into this," said Barton.

The Lady Broncos will continue District play Friday, April 13, against West Texas High. Monday the Lady Broncos play West Texas at home.

Hall meets Olympic gold medalist Slay

By Sandy Anderberg

Thad Hall had the opportunity of a lifetime April 3 as he shared center stage with Olympic gold medalist Brandon Slay.

Brandon, who wrestled in the 167.5-pound division at Sydney, received the gold when his opponent tested positive for the steroid, nandrolone, and was stripped of his gold medal.

Brandon and Thad were photographed together for a publication of the Texas Panhandle Mental Health and Mental Retardation Association that will be released the end of May.

The two became fast friends, and they enjoyed working together. Brandon spent a lot of time with the children, and Thad had a great time showing his muscles to him.

Thad has been very involved in Special Olympics and has won several gold medals of his own. The pair took turns showing off their gold medals to each other.

Thad was accompanied by his parents, Dan and Andrea Hall, and also by his sisters, Candice, Britney, and MaRae.

Thad is a 4th grader at Clarendon Elementary. His teachers are Mrs. Christy Christopher and Mrs. Gayle Hankins.

Since Slay's return from the Olympics, he has started a new company called The Greater Gold Foundation. This foundation is in the business of training young athletes how to be better competitors and better individuals.

The Greater Gold Foundation is a non-profit organization designed to give something back to the community. According to Slay, his greatest joy continues to be sharing his faith with others, and "that there is a greater gold, which is having Jesus Christ in your heart." He wants to help to create opportunities for young people to realize their fullest life potential.

Edwards captures district golf title in Pampa

By Sandy Anderberg

Sophomore golfer Ronna Edwards shot a two-round total of 203 to capture the District Championship Tuesday, April 3, at Hidden Hills Golf Course in Pampa. Edwards poured on the heat the 2nd day of the competition to win the tournament.

"Ronna played really well," said golf coach Mike Ray. "She came from seven strokes down to win District."

The District meet, which consists of two 18-hole rounds, was played at Borger and Pampa.

Ronna will represent Clarendon at the Regional Meet in Abilene April 23 and 24.

Senior Courtney Newhouse made a gallant attempt at qualifying for the Regional Tournament, also. Down five strokes, Courtney came back to finish with a 204 and a two-way tie for second with Haley Lombard of Spearman. Because only two golfers can qualify for the Regional tournament, a play off hole had to be played to break the tie. Courtney lost her bid for 2nd place on the play off hole.

"Courtney did a great job," said Ray. "It was a real disappointment for her. She will still be going to the Regional Tournament as an alternate."

The Lady Bronco team finished in 3rd place behind Sunray and Canadian.

"All the girls played well," said

Ray. "They did a good job."

The Bronco golf team played the same week as the girls, and they finished in 6th place overall, shooting a team score of 735. Canadian won the meet with Spearman in 2nd and Sunray 3rd.

Sam Holton shot a 170 for the two rounds, David Hall 180, Colt Floyd 181, Derek Gourley 204, and Nickless Devin 232.

B team members were Aaron Kidd, Greg Leeper, Jared Hartman, Brian Thompson, Jeremy Howard, and Tim Leeper.

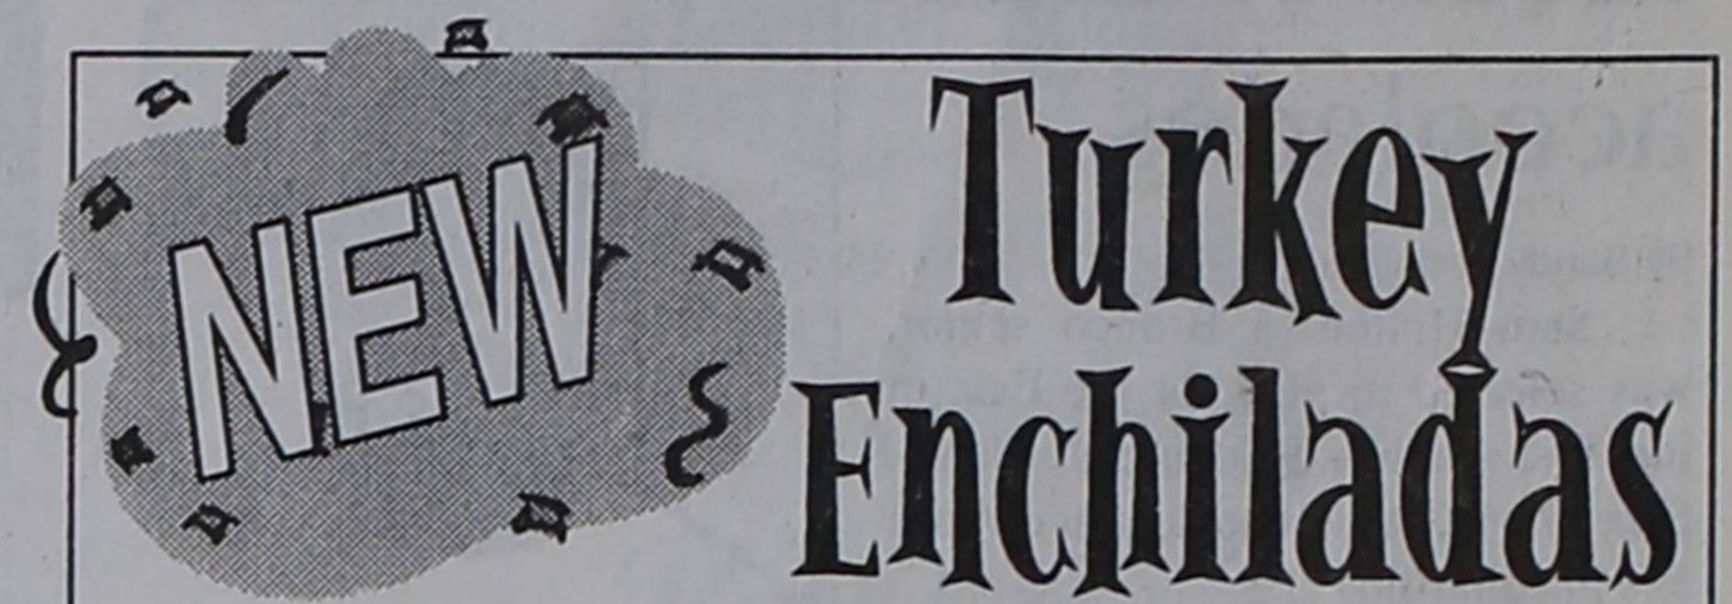

"Everyone played real well," said Ray. "Bad weather and other commitments kept the guys from doing as well as they could have."

CC theatre to present 'Charlie Brown'

The Clarendon College Music Theatre Company is pleased to present You're A Good Man, Charlie Brown April 19-23, 2001, in the Harned Sisters Auditorium.

Evening performances on Thursday, Friday, Saturday, and Monday begin at 8:00 p.m. The Sunday matinee begins at 2:30 p.m.

You're A Good Man, Charlie Brown unfolds in a kaleidoscopic series of songs and scenes that bring the world of Charlie Brown and the Peanuts gang to theatrical life.

You're A Good Man, Charlie Brown premiered in New York in 1967 and charmed critics and audiences alike for over five years. It has since become one of the world's most popular musicals. Familiar songs from the score include "You're A Good Man, Charlie Brown," "Supper Time,"

The CC production is under the Music Direction of Jim Stewart, Staging and Technical Direction by Bill Huey, and Costume Design and Construction by Judy Stewart.

The cast includes Ian Jones as Charlie Brown, Clay Stewart as Linus, Josh Talley as Schroeder, Aubrey Nichols as Lucy, Ashley Toys as Patty, Laura Snow as Sally, Doug Stewart as Snoopy, Mari Carter as Marcie, Amber Fontenot as Frieda,

James Garza as Pig Pen, Donny Owens as Sherry, Jason Myers as Rerun, Christi Jackson as Woodstock, Catrina Burrows as Violet, and Donna Davis as Eudora. Technical staff includes Susan Grecian, Christy Cox, Aaron Shannon, Jason Cloyd, Amanda Lorenz, and Jason Myers. ## Tourism council to raffle off wildlife painting

Wow. Spring Turkey season eve came in like a lion. The high winds and sheets of rain really changed our turkeys' patterns for this past weekend. The strange weather in March has kept the hen turkeys from really turning on. While time will always make the girls receptive, warm days for a week will certainly hurry the process along.

I had four hunters from the Dallas area all weekend; and although we were successful, it was very difficult. The boys were strutting their stuff; but with hens all around, decoys, and store bought calls fell pretty much on deaf ears. We were able to at least hold the guys' interest long enough to slip up on them.

If you experience the same thing next weekend, I heartily recommend ambushes. Try setting up between food sources and roost or you can make a stalk. They are tough. "Mr. Long Beard" may not be paying much attention, but the surrounding hens keep a sharp look out. Remember - keep your head and tail down.

Wildlife art has always been important to the hunting world; it's an opportunity to bring the beauty we see in the outdoors to the indoors. The Donley County Tourism Council has provided a way to own a beautiful James Ivy Edwards original art work or perhaps you need a new pair of binoculars to enhance your wildlife and bird watching, or maybe you'd like to kick back with the nice folks at Autry's Bed & Breakfast for a few days. Yes, folks, for a $5 donation you'll have a chance to win your choice of the three aforementioned items. Better yet, for a $10 donation you'll receive three chances, plus there are nine other prizes to win. Tickets are available at the library or from your friends and neighbors on the Council.

The Tourism Council is looking for a few good cooks for the Turkey Cook-off. This is the first event of its kind so this may be the easiest year to win cash and trophies. Your friends and family can even be the judges. Get involved - support Donley County; it's a great place to live.

So until next time, may the good Lord richly bless you and keep you safe.

Ken Mayer is an award winning member of the Texas Outdoor Writers Assn. and owns All-American Hunting here in Clarendon. Send photos and comments to Box 416, Clarendon, TX 79226, or drop them by the Enterprise office.

Donley County VFW elects new leadership

J.D. Hopper, a long time resident of Donley County who now lives in Amarillo, has been elected to be the local VFW Post Commander.

"J.D. brings many years of leadership within the VFW and knows the 'book' when it comes to VFW procedure and law," said Bill Holden, reelected Post Quartermaster.

"Commander Elect Hopper said he will make changes, but he assured the members present that the changes would be in the best interest of the veterans and community alike."

"I run a tight ship," Hopper said, "and if you do not want to serve the community and the veterans as we are required to do so, then get off the ship. Our programs are the VFW; if we cannot serve the community with the programs our charter requires, then we are just another coffee clutch. We must continue to raise the necessary funds to continue and expand the VFW's programs within our community.

"I know some members will be upset and some may quit because they don't want any change, but sometimes change is good, and the only change (updating) that I want to make is to conduct our Post as we are expected to do so by the VFW."

Another new officer elected was Eric DeMar, a teacher and coach at Clarendon High School; he was elected Senior Vice Commander.

New officers and the regulars will be installed Tuesday, May 8, at the regular meeting and will take office in June.

The VFW members at the last meeting voted to start a Bingo open to the public. They are in the planning stages and anticipate having their first bingo session around July or August.

Awards: Enterprise is runner-up for general excellence award

The ENTERPRISE received a second place plaque for Best Editorials. The judge said the editor's remarks on November 9 regarding a local cross burning were handled nicely. "It deserved a comment, and the writer was on the mark." And the judge described an October editorial as "excellent." That column was about a local student who was suspended as a result of a federal gun law.

The ENTERPRISE was also awarded a second place plaque in Best Feature Photo, second place for Front Page Layout, a third place plaque for Best Special Edition, and an honorable mention for Headline Writing.

The General Excellence Award went to the CASTRO COUNTY NEWS this year. THE CLARENDON ENTERPRISE was second, and the CANADIAN RECORD was third.

Also during this year's convention, four distinguished members of the press were inducted into the PPA Hall of Fame on Friday night.

The late Herschel A. Combs of the MEMPHIS DEMOCRAT, the late Van Stewart of the OCHILTREE COUNTY HERALD, Sue Cannon of the OLTON ENTERPRISE and the HART BEAT, and Bill Ellis of the FRIONA STAR and the BOVINA BLADE.

Combs published the DEMOCRAT for 28 years and was PPA President in 1951-52. Ellis made PPA history when he became the youngest man to be president of the association in 1969. He held that record until Roger Estlack was elected to that position in 1997.

PPA officers for the coming year are President Mary Dudley of the PERRYTON HERALD, Vice President Kayla Parvin of THE BOOKER NEWS, Secretary Beki Lightfoot of the AMARILLO GLOBE-NEWS, Mike Haynes of AMARILLO COLLEGE, Ron Carr of the FRIONA

STAR, Jessica Brooks of the [Wheeler] COUNTY STAR-NEWS, John Kanelis of the AMARILLO GLOBE-NEWS, Dianna Dandridge of the HEREFORD BRAND, and Past President Doug McDonough of the PLAINVIEW DAILY HERALD.

Teachers win prizes with presentations

Sixteen Clarendon CISD teachers and staff members have won a prize in a contest resulting from a two-day training session on making PowerPoint presentations, which was taught by Pam Denney at Clarendon College last summer.

Under the technology training aspect of the "Teaching an Old Town New Tricks" Technology in Education grant award from the Texas Education Agency, all teachers and staff members were required to create a PowerPoint presentation pertaining to their field of knowledge and then use the presentations in their classrooms. Those presentations were judged by the Region 16 Service Center.

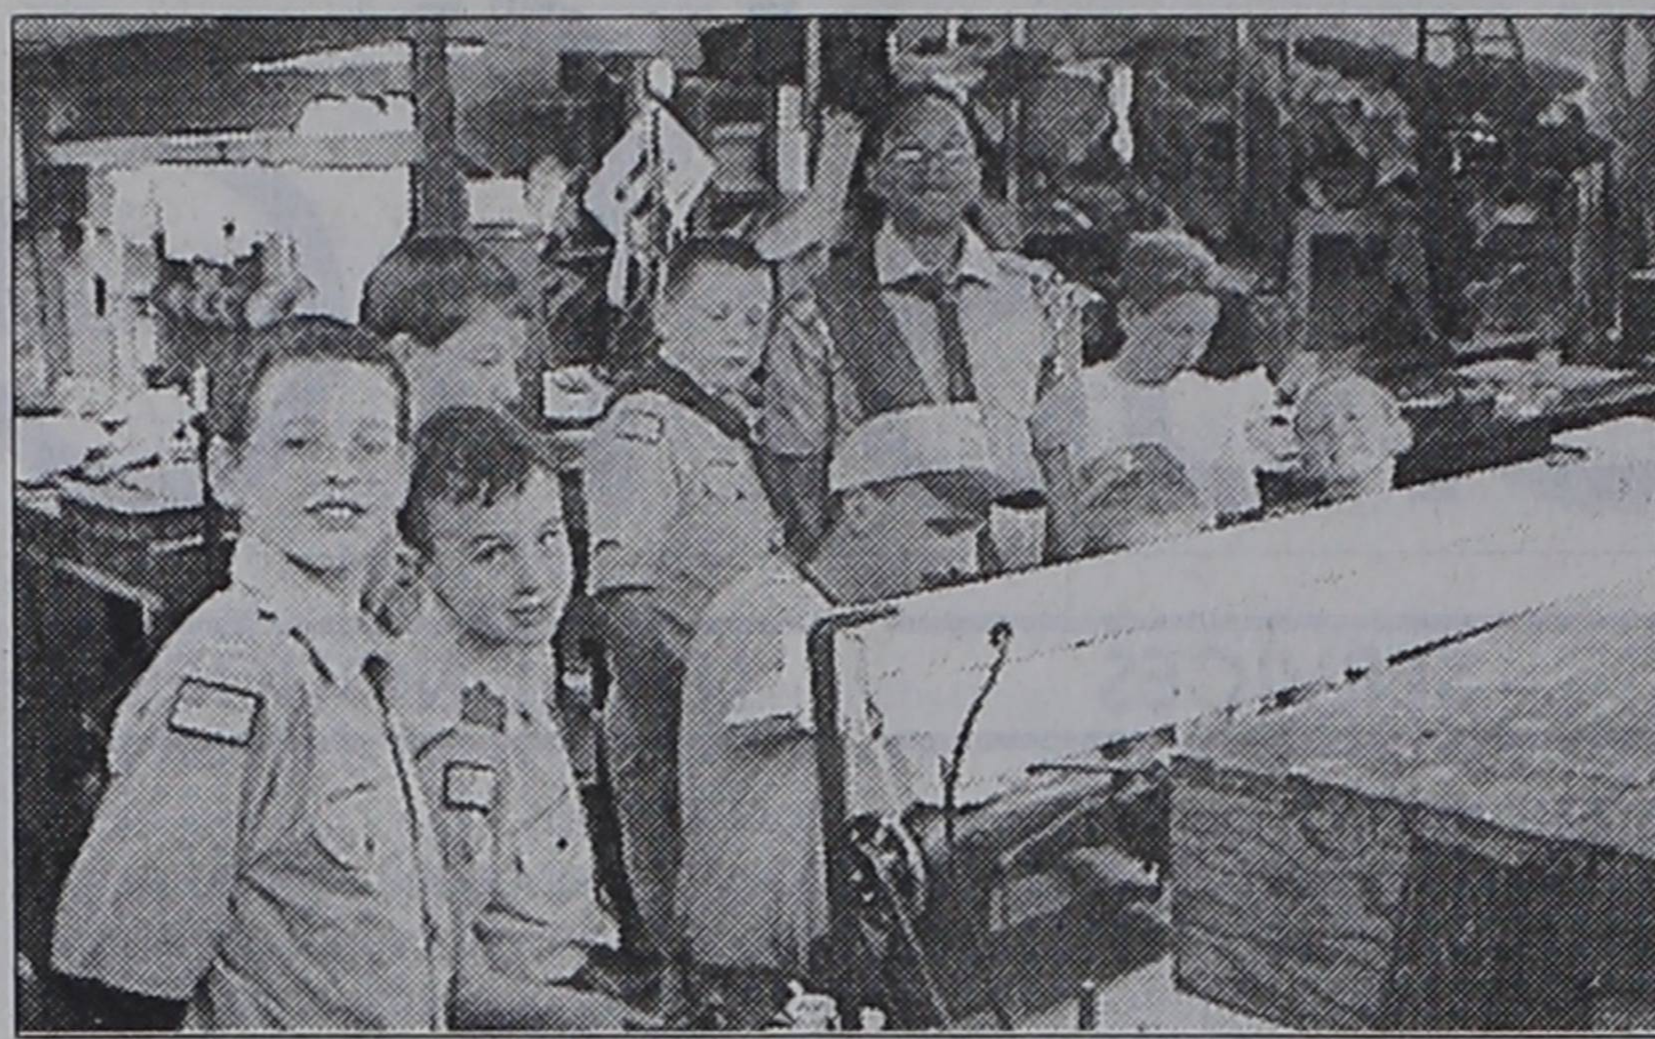

Receiving a "comp" day for being a PowerPoint winner are Eric DeMar, Lyndal Gillen, Andrea Hall, Glenda Hawkins, Lynne Mathiason, and Judy Thornberry.

Runners-up receiving $20 gift certificates from "Sam Hill" BBQ are Kim Petrie, Karen Simmons, and Jamie Ward. Honorable mention entries being awarded $10 gift certificates from JAMZ are Sandy Anderson, Kathy Benavidez, Joe Gifford, Joburta Helms, Larry Jeffers, DeeAnn Sears, and Kelly Thompson.

The prizes were provided by the TIE grant funds.

Marva Thomas, technology coordinator for CISD, said she was "very impressed and happy with the overall quality of [their] PowerPoints" and that "[they've] come a long way in less than a year."
