Cattlemen Convention Postponed

The Government through War Mobilization Director Byrnes, has recently issued a directive by the terms of which all associations and trade organizations are requested not to hold conventions or meetings during the present war emergency. Transportation facilities and hotel accommodations are being utilized in the war effort to such an extent that they cannot carry the additional burden that would be imposed on them by conventions.

The Executive Committee of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers' Association, desiring to cooperate with the Government's request, has taken the responsibility of cancelling all plans for the Annual Convention of the Association that had been called to meet on March 20th-21st, 1945, in San Antonio, Texas. The convention will not be held at that time.

It is hoped that conditions will improve so that the 1945 annual convention can be held later in the year and, in such event notice of the time for the holding of such convention will be duly published in "The Cattleman."

REV. JOHN ELLIS IS SPEAKER AT P.T.A.

Rev. John Ellis, pastor of the Presbyterian church, addressed the Parent-Teachers Association Thursday afternoon, on the subject, "Wholesome Community Entertainment." His speech was a very timely one, and much enjoyed by all members present.

The next meeting will be Thursday, Feb. 15. This will be the "Founders Day" program. Every parent, who possibly can, should attend and prove to the teachers and your children that you are behind them.

Sometime during the basketball tournament at Claude January 6th, the local team lost their one and only ball. This was really distressing to the local coach and players, for Coach Naylor had been trying all fall to buy a new ball from several Sporting Goods firms with no success.

J. R. Gillham, local Vocational Agriculture instructor, wrote an article and sent it to the Star Telegram stating the local teams plight. It was picked up and sent out on the Associated Press wire on January 17 and that is when the local team began to profit.

Saturday morning Coach Naylor went to the post office and received two separate packages, each containing a basketball. One of them was from the C&S Sporting Goods Company of Ft. Worth and had the AP article stuck on top of the ball. The other was from another branch house of the same company located at San Antonio and the following letter, also received Saturday morning, explains why the ball was sent from there.

"Dear Coach Naylor: This morning when I read an Associated Press dispatch concerning the loss of Clarendon High School's basketball, I recalled with stricken conscience the last basketball game I participated in. This was in 1919 when I was attempting to play guard on Clarendon High team and Wellington High school beat us 76 to 2. I think it was Jim Noble who tossed in two free throws for our two points, and I know that I didn't locate my forward during the entire game. At any rate, it grieves me to think of Clarendon High without a basketball team, and of all things, without a basketball. I have, therefore, prevailed upon my friends, the C&S Sporting Goods Co. to ship you a basketball today. Here's hoping that this will constitute atonement for the atrocious basketball I once played there. Cordially yours, Leon O. Lewis."

Mr. Lewis is a Certified Public Accountant of San Antonio and a former resident of our fair city. Coach Naylor is very happy over the ball situation now and expects the above mentioned incident to put new life into the team and fans alike.

Your 1944
Income Tax

By J. A. WARREN
Income Tax Accountant,

(Series 6)

There appears yet to be a great deal of confusion among salaried workers as to their exact status regarding filing of Annual Income Tax Reports for 1944. It seems that, since the government is withholding their taxes from salaries, they have the idea that is all there is to it. This is in error.
I wish I were able to get the fact over to such workers that you must file your Annual Reports

ly) to the Collector of Internal Revenue, Dallas, and he will figure it for you and send you state-

LELIA LAKE WHIRLWIND

GOSSIP

It seems as if a few Clarendon boys were doing OK at skating Friday night. How about that, Catherine, which one was you with? We couldn't tell by looking.

The Juniors and Seniors started practicing on their play last Monday. They are going to put it on as soon as possible.

Our basketball boys were defeated by the Clarendon boys last Thursday night by 13-31, but our girls made up for that. They beat their girls two out of two, in volleyball.

Jack Lewis looks very happy since June Kelley has returned to Lelia Lake. Well, we can't say as we blame him.

Several of the girls were really having a good time at skating Friday night. Say, gals, what was all the fun about?

We hear more compliments on "Chicken" and his basketball playing than any other player. No wonder; he is the best we have seen since F. G. Crawford's time in 1942.

Why was "Tena" so down hearted Friday night. Was it because she received a postal card telling her that O'Neill Weatherly was being shipped overseas.

Buster must have popped the question last Wednesday night, because Bobbie Vaughne was wearing a diamond ring on the left hand, third finger.

Lois Marie was seen Saturday afternoon with a boy in the Navy Coast Guard. It was a pretty good show Williams, or did you notice?

A girl from Clarendon started to school down here Monday morning. We hope that she likes it, as well as we do.

We were expecting to see Jack Lewis at school Monday morning, as June Kelley has started back. What's the matter, Jack, or should we just give you a little more time?

Mrs. Dale Rush Jr. and son Larry Dale Jr. from Crossroads, New Mex. are visiting 1st Lt. Chas. Speed and wife for a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Speed.

Better—or Just as Good?
MOST of us aren't satisfied with buying—or growing or manufacturing—something that's "just as good." We want something better. And, in most cases, that something better comes through competition. For competition—real competition—is something besides two people making, or offering for sale, the same goods or services. It involves a lot more. And anybody who serves the public prospers because he has something better to offer—whether it's quality, prices, service, or just a clean appearance and a pleasant smile. Real competition doesn't come from punitive taxes, or subsidies, or any other sort of horse-race handicapping to make everybody in business start even. For it isn't equality that's needed; it's the inequalities that are the true measure of progress. Real competition is the kind that encourages the manufacturer, the farmer, or business man to get his quality up, his costs down, and to develop new things his customers want. It's this kind of competition that produces something better rather than something just as good—that insures to the public a steady increase in the value it gets for its money. Sunday school at 9:45. Let each one be in his place. Bro. Landreth will preach for us at the morning hour. The Intermediates meet at seven. Preaching at 7:30.

As most of you know our Methodism is in the midst of a Crusade for Christ. This is a five point program covering a period of four years. Our present task is to raise twenty-five million dollars for war relief and world reconstruction. Our part of that sum is two thousand and forty dollars. We hope to raise not less than twenty-five hundred dollars. We hope there are at least ten families who will pay one hundred dollars each. We hope there are 12 families who will pay fifty dollars each. We believe there are 12 families who will pay twenty-five dollars each. Surely there are 40 persons who will pay ten dollars each. There must be 40 persons who will pay five dollars each. We do not plan to take any public offering. We are presenting the cause. We feel that our people will be glad to have a part in so worthy a cause. We want to increase attendance in all our services. We want to reach the unsaved in our community. So let each of us consecrate ourselves to do the work of our Lord.

Lelia Lake Man Has 2 Jap Planes To His Credit

7th AAF HEADQUARTERS, CENTRAL PACIFIC, Gray haired, 39-year-old Staff Sergeant Monte B. Woodford, Sr., Lelia Lake, Texas, the oldest aerial gunner in the 7th AAF, went to a lot of trouble to satisfy a desire to shoot Jap planes out of the sky—and he's had his desire fulfilled.

He has bagged two Jap fighters—one over Truk and the other over Iwo Jima.

But, because of his age, Sergeant Woodford had to talk his 7th AAF commanding officer and his flight surgeon into giving him a waiver allowing him to fly as a combat crew member.

The sergeant, father of a 16-year-old son, sent the enemy planes plunging to destruction with 50 caliber bullets from the lower ball turret machine guns of the 7th AAF Liberator bomber, "That She Blows."

The gray haired sergeant probably is proudest of his second "kill," because he got the Jap who plugged "That She Blows" with a 20 millimeter shell which burst inside the craft's waist, wounding the two waist gunners and shredding four elevator and control cables.

Sergeant Woodford tells the story like this: "We had just dropped our bombs when a Zero, one of a half dozen Jap fighters which attacked our squadron, made a pass at us from above. I couldn't see the Jap from my position down in the ball turret, but the boys up above were calling him as he dived between us and the next plane in the flight. I had my guns pointed down and was ready for him.

"I got a glimpse of him diving down. He must have been going 500 miles an hour, I started shooting—leading with my fire. He came into my tracers and I kept shooting. I poured burst after burst into him. About 400 yards below he suddenly blew up into little pieces."

During his dive the Jap hit 7th AAF "That She Blows" with the shell that exploded in the waist. "I knew when we were hit," said Sergeant Woodford. "The explosion had so much force that I thought the plane had been blown in two. I couldn't find out what happened because the blast had knocked out the interphones. For all I knew I was hanging in mid-air in just part of an airplane. It was a funny feeling for a time."

Sergeant Woodford then told how, a few seconds after he bumped off the Zero, the 7th AAF plane's top turret gunner, Technical Sergeant Sebastian F. Krup, 2650 East Buckis Street, Philadelphia, Penn., shot down a second Zero. Krup had helped call position on the first ill-fated enemy plane. The Zero which Krup destroyed flew straight in towards "That She Blows" in the face of his fire only to drop away at 150 yards in a smoking spin. In a few seconds the Zero burst into flames.

There still was work on the way home, however. Besides the shredded cables the plane had been hit in a wing, severing the hydraulic system, causing the fluid to leak and robbing the plane of full use of its brakes.

Sergeant Krup repaired the most frayed control cable by cutting a piece out of another cable which wasn't being used and splicing in a new section to strengthen the weakened part. He also kept pouring fluid from emergency cans into the hydraulic system to keep as much pressure built up as possible, thus enabling the pilot to use the elevators and rudder.

In the meantime, the wounded waist gunners were being attended by two of the plane's officers, First Lieutenant Richard Efker, 416 West Berchard Avenue, Santa Ana, California, the navigator, and First Lieutenant Donald W. Bellard, 415 North 9th Avenue, Esterville, Iowa, the bombardier.

"They administered first aid all the way home," said Sergeant Woodford. "Lieutenant Bellard unquestionably saved the life of one of the men. He was suffering from shock. His pulse went way down. Lieutenant Bellard kept working on him, talking to him and waking him up when he'd lapse into a coma. He kept him conscious until we could get medical attention at the base. Both of the wounded men recovered, thanks to the first aid of the lieutenants."

The plane landed without mishap at its 7th AAF base, aided by two parachutes billowing from its tail to check its speed. Sergeant Woodford had anchored the parachutes to the tail gun mounts 50 miles from base in anticipation of an emergency landing.

Although the use of parachutes to slow down a plane is a standard practice with the 7th AAF, the idea of billowing parachutes from the tail was an innovation, Sergeant Woodford explained.

"It was a precaution," said Sergeant Woodford. "I figured that, if we followed the usual procedure and billowed the 'chutes from each waist, one might open before the other and we'd be spun around. I knew that if we broke them from the tail we'd keep on a straight course. We did. Just as straight as a string."

Sergeant Woodford was a maintenance turret specialist until he decided to take up a combat gunner's career.

"I liked to fly and knew how to shoot the guns," he said, "so I wanted to give it a try."

The sergeant has been in combat gunnery nearly a year. He has flown 30 7th AAF combat missions over such targets as Wotje, Maloelap, Truk, Wake, Saipan, Tinian, Iwo Jima, Chichi Jima and Haha Jima.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Woodford, and his son, Monte Ray Jr., reside at Lelia Lake. He enlisted in December, 1941, and was on anti-submarine patrol off the Atlantic Coast for two years. He has been with the 7th AAF in the Central Pacific for a year. Prior to entering the service, he was production superintendent of a laundry in Abilene, Texas.

BOOK OF THE MONTH SELECTIONS

The January "Book of the Month" selections are: "Anything Can Happen", by George and Helen Papashvily, and "Story of a Secret State," by Jan Karaki.

"Anything Can Happen" is the story George Papashvily who made his home in America after coming from Georgia in Russia. The many experiences he went through before he became accustomed to American ways and life are both exciting and wonderful, humorous and moving. The adjustment of a newcomer to America is no easy thing, and the rare humor of this book is very often close to tears.

"Story of a Secret State" discloses the growth of a secret democratic state in Poland, and it tells the story of a people who have lived for four years in this secret state. Through the eyes of Jan Karaki we see the blitz of September, 1939, followed by the chaotic retreat and humiliating retreat, the Warsaw Ghetto and the Jewish death camps, the wholesale slaughter of enviocent men, women, and children, and most important of all, the growth and success of the Warsaw underground.

MOOS OF THE MOMENT
 BY UNCLE BOB
 of the Kraft Dairy Farm Service

If you think that cartoon is just another funny picture, draw up an easy chair alongside of me and I'll prove that it makes sense. A well planned pasture system really puts dollars in the dairyman's pockets.

To prove how true that is, an extension bulletin I read recently reports a survey made in seven dairy areas. This survey showed that one-third of the cows' actual food came from pastures, but that this third cost only one-seventh of the total feed bill.

In addition to your permanent pasture, you need temporary pastures to provide forage from the earliest possible date in spring to the latest date in the fall.

Emergency pastures take up the slack in mid-summer when permanent pastures burn. They also give you grazing in the fall which will postpone barn feeding.

I have just received a new pasture handbook from the Extension Service at the University of Illinois, Urbana, Ill. It is Bulletin 506 which covers rotation pastures in detail.

One of the many interesting things it contains is a table showing the total number of days of pasturing from various pasture crops. It will help you plan the best pasture system for your herd.

Your county agent also can assist you greatly since he knows what crops will do best in your own county. In addition here are some other booklets to get: Extension Circular 193, University of Missouri, Columbia, Mo., and Extension Bulletin B-69, Texas A&M College, College Station, Texas.

Here it is near the end of January and I haven't mentioned cooling milk yet—one of my favorite subjects of conversation. If the temperature is sliding way down there as you read this, it may sound funny to talk about cooling milk, but it should be done after every milking.

Bacteria don't seem to pay much attention to what the thermometer reads outside the milkhouse. As long as the milk temperature holds from 60 to 80, bacteria multiply rapidly.

The only way to protect your milk is to get its temperature down near 50 as fast as possible. The USDA figures millions of pounds of milk are spoiled every year because of lack of proper cooling.

That's bad any year, but it's worse this year. You know we are asked to produce 120 billions of pounds of milk in 1945. We'll have to do everything we can to meet that goal.

And by the way—you'll see some fine articles on pastures in the January-February issue of the Kraftman, now being distributed. It devotes a lot of space to a pasture-hay program for 1945. Drop me a card at 600 Presidio Court, Chicago 90, Ill., and I'll mail you a copy.

NOTE: There usually is a 5c charge for pamphlets mailed to non-residents of a state; but possibly your own state has a free pamphlet on the same subject. Ask your county agent.

The famed 36th "Texas" Division which fought so heroically in Italy, is picking up new laurels in France, where it already has taken more than 17,000 German prisoners—an average of more than one and a half prisoners for each member of the Division. The figures count only live Nazis actually in the hands of the Texans, and not the several thousand killed outright.

Most recent news reports say the 36th is in a new offensive. Apparently the Texas boys just don't know how to retreat!

And, speaking of Texas boys, here's a tip that may help you make them mighty happy at little cost: send them your hometown newspaper. Better still, enter a subscription for your son, husband or friend, so that the paper will go to them direct from the newspaper office each week. Nothing makes a better gift, for every soldier wants to read all the home-town news. The boys abroad would rather have the New York Times plus all the current magazines!

But back to the 36th Division—Sgt. Fred Hall of Mansfield, Texas, who weighs 202 pounds and is the biggest man in his headquarters battery, recently was forced to sleep in a baby crib while fighting along the Seventh Army front in France. It was the only available sleeping place in the house where he was billeted—and Fred reports that it was lots more comfortable than a fox-hole in the cold!

IT'S NO CIRCUS!

They may look like two daring young men on the flying trapeze. But they're really electric linemen, working fifty feet in the air, with no net underneath.

It's tough enough up there on a sunny summer day. It's much worse on a wet black night—or when everything's slippery with sleet. But the job must be done. It's part of giving you good electric service.

Fortunately, there are men who have the courage and skill to do it. Just as there are other men who control complicated switch-boards in lightning storms, or keep a careful watch on giant turbines, or crawl in hot boilers to make repairs.

These folks know what to do because they've been doing it a long time. Men and women grow up in the electric light and power business. It takes years to become a power-plant engineer. Lineman—load dispatcher—service man—almost every job is specialized and technical.

The value of this experience—and of sound business management—has been dramatically proved by war. In spite of shortages of many essentials, there is no shortage of electricity—and it is still sold at pre-war prices!

Predicts Peak Sales For Auto Dealers In State When The War Ends

Automobile retailers in the state of Texas will smash all previous records by selling approximately 282,380 new cars in the first year of unrestricted production after the war — 62 per cent more than were sold in the peak year of 1941.

That prediction was made recently in Detroit by Joseph W. Frazer, chairman of Graham-Paige Motors, who said his figures for this state are computed on the basis of nationwide estimates developed by his organization.

"Our study shows that during the first year of automobile production the state's new car market will total approximately $338,866,800," he said, "and the total volume for the next four years should exceed $1,118,260,440."

The auto executive estimated that 6,900,000 passenger cars will be sold in the nation during the first 12 months of unlimited output and that dealers will enjoy a "series of ten-billion-dollar years" in the postwar period.

During the first year, he said, "aggressive selling" of automobiles and trucks will create a national advertising expenditure of approximately $160,000,000—a 30 per cent increase over the record-breaking outlay of 1941. Of this amount, he estimated that 50 per cent or $80,000,000 will be allocated to newspapers.

Frazer forecast "hot and heavy" competition among dealers in the state, "particularly in the second year of full production when new companies with unique models will undoubtedly enter the field."

He cited his company as "at least one concern which will depart from conventional design and build a postwar automobile utilizing plastics, light metals and other recent wartime developments."

"In addition, businesses in Texas indirectly associated with the automobile should experience a boom in the postwar years when the nation embarks upon an era of touring unprecedented in the nation's history." For example, Frazer predicted that the state's tourist and resort businesses will experience an all-time high.

J. Thomas Davis Presented With Walking Sticks

Mr. B. Reagan, veteran West Texan, owner of the drug store which furnished the setting for Shine Phillip's book "Big Spring," and who has recently retired from a long tenure of service as a director of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, has presented two Soto plant walking sticks to J. Thomas Davis, dean of John Tarleton Agricultural College at Stephenville, and former associate of Mr. Reagan in Chamber of Commerce work. The walking sticks are made from Soto plant stems used to mark the Old Spanish Trail across West Texas.

According to Mr. Reagan, in the early days of travel across the plains from Chihuahua, Mexico to the Indian Nation (now Oklahoma), the absence of trees or other permanent markers, and the shifting sands, made it necessary to mark the trail for the return trip. Stems of the Soto plant were cut to desired lengths and driven into the ground along the route. From this practice the region got its name "Llano Estacado."

When the Texas and Pacific Railway was built westward in the eighties, L. F. McKay, now of Big Spring, was a construction engineer for the road and gathered large numbers of these stakes which were still standing in the region near Barstow where the railway near the old Spanish Trail. The two canes presented to Dean Davis by Mr. Reagan are from the collection made by Mr. McKay. His collection is believed to contain the majority of the original stakes now extant.

Dean Davis has placed one of the canes in the Tarleton exhibit in the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Museum at Abilene and the other will be placed in the Lt. Col. Edwin Dyess Museum at John Tarleton College.

VOLUNTEER SERVICE

HOME SERVICE
By Mrs. C. A. Burton

Transmission of letter mail to and from American prisoners of war in Germany will be expedited by arrangements completed with the Swedish and Swiss government whereby prisoner of war mail addressed to American prisoners of war will be dispatched by air on alternate routes via Sweden and Switzerland following its arrival in Europe. This will considerably reduce the time, as this will be a daily schedule from the U. S. to Europe. One of the heart-breaking things about mail to German prisoners has been its slowness—a letter usually being three or four months in transit.

A portion of the prisoner of war mail for American prisoners of war in Japan will now be carried on Soviet ships and will be transported across the Pacific to Soviet ports, then transferred to the Japanese for delivery to prisoner of war groups. Heretofore all this mail has been sent by air to Iran and trans-shipped from that country to Japan.

The new issue of the prisoner of war invalid food package contains a special cook book to help with the preparation of the food. The contents of the package are: roast beef, tuna fish, cheese, butter, spread, peach jam, dates, oat cereal, milk powder, dried eggs, edible starch, coffee, chocolate, vanilla tablets, salt and pepper mixture, biscuits, sugar, as well as cigarettes. One hundred thousand of these packages were packed in November and materials for more have been ordered.

Volunteer speakers from National Headquarters of American Red Cross who address meetings of relatives of prisoners of war report numerous instances where interpreters are necessary. In the Southwest, meetings have been held where the whole speech was translated into American Indian, French, or Spanish. One meeting in Louisiana was repeated in French, sentence by sentence. In other meetings, friends came and helped the family to ask questions, translating from Polish, Italian, Czech, and Lithuanian.

The report adds that continuation of the decline in hog production in the state to about prewar levels is indicated by farmers' reports on breeding intentions for the 1945 spring crop. The number of Texas sows to farrow from December 1 to June 1 is indicated at 187,000 compared with 240,000 spring season farrowings in 1944, and 364,000 in 1943.

FALL PIG FARROWING DECLINE

Production of pigs in Texas during 1944 declined sharply from the record yield of 1943. The Bureau of Agricultural Economics, Austin, reports that the state's pig crop, estimated at 2,460,000 head by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, was about 41 per cent below the all-time high in the preceding year. But in spite of the falling off the total 1944 crop still was about 11 per cent above average production for the 10 years, 1933-1942.

Breaking down the production seasonally, the report says that fall farrowing, June 1 - December 1st, were estimated at 181,000 sows, averaging 5.9 pigs per litter saved, or a total of 1,068,000 pigs. This was a reduction of 48 per cent from the fall crop of 1943, and equalled a ten year average for the fall season. The Texas spring pig crop of 1,392,000 head represented a 35 per cent reduction from the previous year.
