Arrests Reported

According to records from the Sheriff's Department, there were four arrests last week.

Justin Grisinger and Brent Michael Pirkle were charged with disorderly conduct on April 7. Russell Wilson was charged with disorderly conduct on April 9, and, on the same day, John Russell Baird was charged with driving while intoxicated.

Under the Anglo-Saxon legal tradition—including Texas—an accused person is presumed innocent until proven guilty by a court of law. The above is nothing more than a report of who was arrested.

McKinney & McCampbell Honored

The District One-Act Play Contest was held at Highland Park High School March 21, 1995. Danny McCampbell was named to the All Star Cast. Michael McKinney received Honorable Mention All Star Cast. Congratulations to these young men for representing Clarendon so well.

Institute for Creation Research Sets Seminar in Amarillo

Henry Morris, Ph.D., will hold a seminar on creation research at the Cal Farelly coliseum at the Amarillo Civic Center on Friday, April 21. The doors will open at 6:15, and the program begins at 7:00 p.m. On Saturday, the doors open at 8:30 a.m. and the program begins at 9:00.

The program will address question like: What does the fossil record really tell us about evolution? What are the facts about the origin of man? Who can the eruption at Mt. St. Helens help us interpret data from the Grand Canyon?

Steve Austin will also be speaking at the seminar. Austin earned a Doctor of Philosophy degree in geology from Penn State University. He has done research on Mt. St. Helens and the Grand Canyon.

Morris is founder and president of the Institute for Creation Research. He earned his Ph.D. from the University of Minnesota. He will be joined by John Morris, Ph.D., University of Oklahoma, geology.

For more information and to make an appointment for enrollment, visit Mike Word, elementary principal or call the school at 874-3855.

Develop Landscape To Conserve Water

With hot, dry weather looming ahead, homeowners and others involved in landscape development should focus on water conservation.

Water conservation can be practiced in all areas of landscape development and maintenance, including plant selection, irrigation practices and equipment, and soil preparations. These practices can be aesthetic as well as practical.

Homeowners can lower their landscape water usage in several ways: Using native and adapted plants. Native plants often thrive on existing growth conditions and reduce the need for extra irrigation. Many plants have been introduced that show adaptability to soil, rainfall and temperature conditions.

Taking advantage of innovations in irrigation practices and equipment. The landscape irrigation business is experiencing a revolution, with new timing devices, low pressure systems, drip irrigation and other highly specialized water devices focusing on more efficient water usage. Irrigation systems and small ponds and fountains also can effectively use water as an aesthetic addition to a landscape.

Using mulches for insulation.

By providing an insulating layer between the sun and soil, mulches prevent rapid drying and lower soil temperature in hot weather, which keeps the top soil from crusting or hardening. Low-cost materials such as hay, grass clippings, bark and pine needles are excellent for mulching and can add appeal with texture and color.

Properly preparing the soil. When soil has been loosened and improved with plenty of organic material, such as peat, pine bark or compost, it will hold significantly more moisture and release it over a longer period of time. However, organic materials break down over

Members present were Viola Bones, Hazel Brandon, Helena Catoc, Virginia Christie, Pauline Hardin, Pearl Hermesmeyer, Dikki Howell, Evelyn Mann, Elvie Shields, Thelma Shields, Frieda Tucker, Dorothy Whitaker, Dorothy White, Susie Shields, and Sue Dunagan.

The meeting was adjourned by President Thelma Shields.

Check It Out

By Mary Beth Nelson

How about a BIG trip down Memory Lane? If nostalgic reminiscing is one of your favorite pastimes, you need go no further than Burton Memorial Library.

Last week, Assistant Librarian, Barbara Alexander, directed me upstairs to boxes containing issues of Clarendon newspapers dating back to the early 1900's. Anyone is welcome to enjoy them any day during library hours. I certainly intend to go back. Needless to say, this volume of interesting Clarendon happenings requires more than a single visit. The only request by the Library Staff to those who are interested in these periodical writings is that the papers are carefully handled and returned to their original boxes. The Staff thanks you in advance for complying. Additional Clarendon historical interest is available downstairs in the 1982 Donley County Centennial Book in which many community citizens have personal writings.

On a lower shelf in the Reference Section, Three large "wallpaper books" are completely full of Amarillo newspapers dating back to the 1950's. A few photographs are also included. These periodicals were donated to the library by Ben Andis of Amarillo. What a wealth of intriguing knowledge is offered in these Clarendon and Amarillo papers! Panhandle residents will enjoy recalling memorable events and people while reading or just glancing through them. Elementary through College age students will discover the papers to be an excellent source of research for various themes, essays, and reports.

If you or your relatives lived in Donley County and were in the Service during World War II, you may recognize you picture in the Victory Edition published by the Donley County Leader in October 1943. This valuable tribute to area Veterans is a bound copy entitled Donley County Men And Women In Service.

Were you in Clarendon High School's Class of '42? You may want to take another look at you 50th Reunion pictures which are on a library shelf with several High School and Clarendon College annuals from the 1980's.

A BIG nostalgic trip down Memory Lane? You bet! Why not check it out and enjoy?

High Plains Health Notes

Robert E. Powell PA-C
Donley County Rural Health Clinic

In a recent journal article, I read, with interest, that eating leafy greens such as spinach and collards may reduce the risk of blindness in the elderly.

A team of researchers found that people who ate greens once a month were half as likely to develop age-related macular degenerations (AMD). AMD is a leading cause of blindness in people older than 65 years of age. It develops when the macula, located in the center of the eye's retina, loses its yellow pigment. The cause is unknown.

Five ophthalmology centers took part in the study in which 365 patients with advanced AMD were compared to 520 patients with other eye diseases. Patients who ate large quantities of vegetables rich in carotenoid (which is responsible for their green, yellow, or orange colors) had a 43 percent lower risk of developing AMD.

The researchers indicated that the two most effective carotenoids are lutein and zeaxanthin, did not have any effect on reducing the risk. Other green vegetables that are beneficial are Kale, Mustard greens and turnip greens.

Maybe, mom wasn't wrong when she insisted that I should always eat my spinach.

Survivors include her mother, Mamie Cunningham of Amarillo; two daughters, Glenda Pulliam of Vega and Sandra Woods of Amarillo; two brother, Darrel Brogdon of Amarillo and Coy Lee Brogdon of Whitewright; one sister, Sue Beach of Wichita Falls; twelve grandchildren, and sixteen great grandchildren.

She is survived by a host of family and friends, and also by a very special friend, Richard Hays of Amarillo.

The family will be at 3102 S. Pittsburgh in Amarillo.

The family would like memorials to be made to Saint Anthony's Hospice in Amarillo.

Nursing Home News

Spring has started to show up around the Medical Center Nursing Home. Residents are enjoying the beautiful warm days.

Wednesday, April 5, after Residents spent the morning bowling and pitching horseshoes, they needed a rest. Residents went outside that afternoon on the Patio to enjoy homemade cookies and punch. There was a lot of laughter to be heard coming from staff and the resident and everyone enjoyed the beautiful warm sunshine and fellowship.

Resident Council meeting was held on Friday, April 7, 1995. Charlotte Roan Ombudsman was present for the meeting. There were 23 residents present for the meeting.

Up coming events for the Medical Center Nursing Home will be: Easter Egg Stuffing on Friday April 14. Afterwards the residents will enjoy coke floats. They will hold their annual Easter Egg Hunt Saturday, April 15, starting at 2:00 p.m. Bring lots of smiles and eager kids. Residents will be outside (weather permitting) to enjoy the Easter Egg Hunt.

The staff and residents would like to extend an invitation to the sunrise service, Sunday Morning at 6:30 a.m. The service will be held in the dining room at the Medical Center. The First Baptist Church will be conducting the service.

Residents have given their list of flower they want to plant and also a list for the garden vegetables. Anyone who has extra flower pots they would like to donate, just drop them by the Medical Center.

Every one is looking forward to the spring planting and lots o time outdoors.

Health Notes

Claude Medical Clinic
A Service of High Plains Baptist Hospital
Tom White, PAC

The last two weeks we've looked at a new model for health care reform called a Community Action Network. This week we'll continue our four week series in which we'll look at the four major characteristics of such a network program.

Today we'll look at the portion of the model that covers coordinating medical care - what these people refer to as the seamless continuum of care characteristic.

Last week we saw that as the focus of health care changes from disease to health in the community, many other things also change. Among those changes, we saw that the focus of the system becomes health rather than disease; the importance of social services in supporting health becomes more apparent; and, the central role of the community members is emphasized.

One of the exciting parts of this whole network idea is that the goal is to encourage health care organizations in a community to cooperate in reforming health care delivery in their own community. The seamless continuum of care idea deals directly with this cooperation issue.

We are fortunate in the Panhandle to have strong, committed social service support for our communities. This program would help to even further coordinate the activities of the social service organizations and medical care providers to improve the outcomes we experience as patients in the system. This is particularly good news since each of us will benefit from this approach as we are all patients at one time or another. Once fully integrated, a community's health care system would include what we usually think of as medical services, an insurance program, and community-based planning. A person would also be able to access all the health related services in the community, regardless of the point at which they enter the health system, because all of the community resources would be linked together in a common communication system. Both the providers and the recipients would have comprehensive, easy access to every service in the system, from social services to complex intensive medical care, from health education to skilled nursing care, for instance.

Part of the emphasis here is to structure the delivery system so that the recipient's needs determine the care received rather than having their insurance coverage determine the services available. Decisions about individual patient care would continue to be made at the caregiver level but resource allocation and planning would be done by the network of providers and the community working together.

We are fortunate in the Panhandle to have many of the elements of this type of program in place already. We have the opportunity now to build on the work that so many have already done and develop even more cooperation in the health care system.

The Lions Tale

The Clarendon Lions Club held its regular meeting at noon on Tuesday, April 4, 1995 at the Lions Hall. Sixteen members, one guest, and Lion Sweetheart Dee Williams enjoyed a very delicious meal before the meeting was called to order by Boss Lion Garland. Following the regular opening ceremony, Liontamer Henson introduced Gary Sutherland, who is in the real estate business and who was the guest of Lion Jim Hayes. A bingo report was given by Lion Alderson. There was no program and the meeting was adjourned.

The Lions Club also held its regular meeting at noon on Tuesday, April 11, 1995 at the Lions Hall. A barbecue dinner was enjoyed by sixteen members and six visitors. Opening the meeting in due form, the Boss Lion called on Lion Henson to introduce our guests. Guests of the Lions Club included: Dr. Stockton of Clarendon College, G. Davis, College assistant coach, W.D. Knorpp, of Clarendon, R. Estlack, Student and G. Southerland, real estate agent with Hayes Co. After dinner, a slide program was presented by Jim Howard of Clarendon College, of his travel in Botswana, Africa, where he taught veterinary medicine. Upon completion of his program the meeting was adjourned by Boss Lion J. Garland.

Girls Basketball Receives Honors

KELLEY LAXSON received Honorable Mention All-District basketball team.

Several members of the Clarendon girls basketball team received All-District honors. Korey Knorpp made first team All-District. Mandy Floyd and Kelly Laxson were given Honorable Mentions. Congratulations to these girls and to the rest of the team for a great season.

Words of Thanks

Note: The Clarendon Chamber of Commerce brought in the following thank-you letters. By hosting the play-off game between Wheeler and Claude, Clarendon Independent School District helped both teams. They also brought in business to local restaurants and other businesses.

Dear Chamber:

Wheeler ISD wishes to thank the Clarendon Chamber of Commerce for helping to host our two playoff games at Bronco Stadium. The donation of the trophies for the contests was an impressive gesture. It certainly helped in our decision to play in Clarendon.

We were impressed with the professional and positive manner with which we were treated during our visits. Our teams and band also were thrilled wit their meals at the concession stand and the Hilltop Cafe.

Your booster clubs and merchants certainly should have benefitted from your efforts.

Clarendon provided a professional place to play. Thanks again for everything.

Sincerely,
Glyndon Holland, Superintendents
Wheeler ISD

Dear Coach Allison:

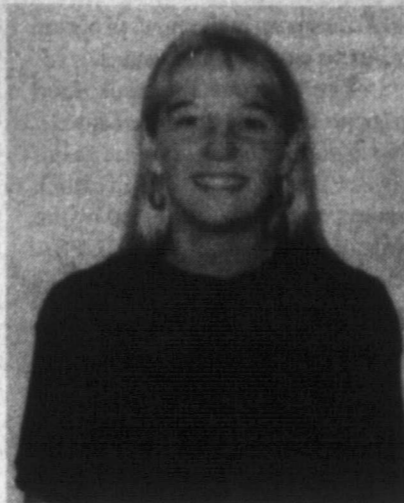

We here at Claude High School would like to express our sincere appreciation for the outstanding job that you and your people did in hosting our playoff game with Wheeler. Your preparation of the field and dressing room facilities was top-notch and we know you put in man hours on items like game programs and press box preparation for our game.

Your help in providing equipment such as your headphones during the game showed your willingness to do whatever it took to run a top-notch game and you have our gratitude.

You were able to make this a special experience for our young men who were new to a playoff situation and you were able to make it exciting for them.

You were a super host and we most certainly will consider you again the upcoming years as a playoff site for our teams. Thank you again.

Sincerely
Donnie Snodgrass

Tactics To Stop Teen Smoking

Houston - To discourage teen smoking, use three tactics: Start early, Don't nag and "get them thinking."

"Never, never nag," said Dr. Larry Laufman, a cancer-control education expert at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston. "Harassment is sure-fire way to keep them smoking."

Others agree. Baylor doctors Rebecca Hill, an adolescent medicine specialist, and Alan Blum, a family physician, both believe that if teenagers have their minds firmly set to smoke, it is difficult to dissuade them.

"You cannot make people do something they do not want to do," Hill said. Blum feels even stronger, believing that success can be further hampered by the influences of tobacco advertising.

All agree, however, that parents can begin early to get across the message about smoking's dangers. Hill advocates a family environment that encourages open discussion.

"That may not stop them from smoking, but it will pave the way for honest talk when the time comes," she said.

Laufman says to build teen self-esteem, reward success throughout life instead of punishing failure.

"With the tremendous peer pressure to smoke, self-esteem is crucial," he said. "Parents should reward success, not punish failure."

Here are the rest of the results. The 1600 relay team of Melissa Campbell, Korey Knorpp, Laura Finch, and Kasi Ashcraft placed fourth with a time of 4:48. Stephanie Floyd placed sixth in Discus with a throw of 86'. Laura Finch placed sixth in the 100 hurdles with a time of 18.6 and fourth in the 300 hurdles with a time of 53.2. In the 100 meters, Lashonda Smith placed fifth with a time of 13.7. Kathy Bryley placed third with a time of 27.7 and Tangelia Smith placed fifth with a time of 28.5 in the 200 meters. Congratulations to all these girls for a job well done and good luck to those going to Regionals.

This builds the ability to say I can do it."

Blum believes parents can take steps when children are young to "poke fun" at the whole idea of smoking.

"We should let them know just how silly smoking looks," he said. "If they see smoking as something uncool, it may help." Blum, Hill and Laufman concur with statistics that show children of smokers are more likely to smoke.

When teens smoke, parents may feel helpless, but, Hill said, parents can let teens know that while they cannot control smoking, they can control smoking in the house and car. Also, be aware of the teen's nature.

"If their child is someone who runs left when they say right, then it may seem impossible to dissuade them. But if their child responds to frank talk, then it's worth a try."

Laufman says the "contemplation ladder" may help.

"It's a behavior modification tool in which you get people to change behavior by moving up a ladder one rung at a time," he said. "The first rung is not thinking about their problem. The second rung is thinking about their problem. From there, they eventually move form thinking about the problem to action."

"To get them thinking may be as simple as a serious discussion or have them read a brochure," he said. "Even if the seed is only planted, it's a start."

Blum advocates parental involvement by influencing tobacco companies, government officials and lawmakers to prevent tobacco companies from targeting younger smokers.

One thing on which all three agree: Anticipate the problem and when it occurs, don't ignore it.

Track Competes In Relays

The Clarendon boys track team competed in the San Angelo Relays on March 24-25 and in the Amarillo relays March 31-April 1.

The results from the San Angelo Relays were: Danny McCampbell placed first in the Triple Jump with a jump of 44'02 1/2" and second in the High Jump with a jump of 6' 4". In the 400-meters, Roy Williams places first with a time of 49.64. The team placed ninth out of thirty-one teams with a total of 28 points.

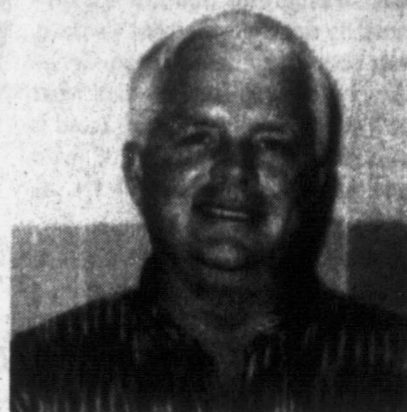

The results from the Amarillo Relays were: The 400 meter relay team of Danny McCampbell, Cory Fields, Jeremy Hicks, and Roy Williams placed third with a time of 44.35. In the 400 meter dash, Roy Williams placed first and set a school record in prelims with a time of 48.88. The record was formerly held by David Weatherston. The 1600 meter relay team of Danny McCampbell, Cory Fields, Drew Jeffers, and Roy Williams placed fourth with a time of 3:28:64. The winning time in that event was 3:28:06. Roy Williams placed first in the Long Jump with a jump of 22' 2 7/8 and Cory Fields place third with a jump of 21' 5 7/8. In the Triple Jump, Cory Fields placed first with a jump of 44'6 and Danny McCampbell placed second with a jump of 44'3. Danny also placed second in the High Jump with a jump of 6'0.

The J.V. boys results from Amarillo were: The team of Evan Williams, Lorenzo Moore, Clint Green, and Dean Stanzione set the meet record with a time of 45.3. Dean Stanzione placed first in the Long Jump with a jump of 19'8".

Farm Service News

Producers of wheat, oats, barley, and rye should be aware that the crop reporting date has changed from May 15 to April 28. If you plant these crops for any purpose, such as grain, grazing, baling, etc., you should certify these crops in the CFSA office for program eligibility if participating or carrying insurance and for history credit if not participating. These crops must be substantially destroyed (if not for grain) by the April 28 deadline. Producers wishing to hay or graze small grains that are not substantially destroyed after this date, must request to do so at the CFSA office before April 28. Wheat that is not substantially destroyed and is baled or grazed after April 28, with no request on file at the CFSA office, is considered harvested grain and will count toward your total harvested acres.

Producers of wheat, grain sorghum, peanuts, and cotton must purchase at least the catastrophic level of crop insurance (CAT) to remain eligible for USDA program benefits, price support, production adjustments, certain FmHA loans, and disaster assistance on crops that are not insurable. The sales closing date has passed, but the CFSA office can accept late filed requests for CAT coverage until April 28, 1995. Producers must have a program linkage requirement and certify that the crop is not planted yet or is in good condition (capable of producing 90 percent of the APH yield for the crop.) Actual production history (APH) will be used to determine your crop insurance yield. If you have production records for your insured crops you should bring it to the CFSA office within 45 days of the sales closing date of March 15, 1995.

APH yields will be a minimum of four years and a maximum of ten years records. Transitional yields will be used for the year when no actual production is provided, no T yields will be used.

Producers must report any failed crop to this office within 15 days of the date the disaster caused the crop to fail. Do not destroy the crop prior to notifying the CFSA office. Your insurance agent should be contacted about the failed acres. Form ASCS-574 must be filed in the CFSA office. The County Committee can only approve the ASCS-574 for failed acreage when assigned or appraised yield is equal to or below the de minimus yield and the loss is due to an eligible disaster condition. The de minimus yield for wheat is four bushels/ac. If appraised at greater than four bu/ac. the crop could be approved for low yield but not failed. If the crop cannot be approved as failed, the acreage is not eligible for a "ghost" acreage of another crop, such as cotton.

Sign up for the 1995 farm program will continue from now until April 28, 1995. The 0/85/92 program will continue to be available. The deficiency payment rate will generally be based on the difference between the target price and the national average price received by producers during the designated five month marketing period. Producers must have a crop acreage base and comply with the 1995 provisions to be eligible for deficiency payments. Most of the 1995's are the same as or similar to the 1994 ARP provision. Call the CFSA office for an appointment to sign up in the farm program and/or to certify small grains.

The current livestock feed program will run through May 31, 1995 or until grazing conditions improve. Remember that livestock changes need to be reported by the tenth of each month at the CFSA office.

Applying Herbicides Requires Permit

Austin - It's the time of year when pesticide applicators start using regulated herbicides on crop and pasture land. If spraying will occur in one of the state's 66 regulated counties, applicators must obtain a permit from the Texas Department of Agriculture.

"The Texas Herbicide Law requires applicators to have the permit in hand before they can begin spraying," said Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry.

The herbicide law gives counties the option of being regulated. The decision is made by the commissioner's court and enforced by TDA.

Regulation provides additional restrictions on the use of five regulated herbicides and their derivatives, mainly to help prevent adverse effect from occurring on sensitive vegetation. In regulated counties, herbicides cannot be sprayed when the wind exceeds 10 miles per hour.

Regulated herbicides, which include 2, 4-D, control broad-leaf target plant species and have the potential to damage valuable non-target crops if care isn't taken to prevent drift of the chemical and its vapor.

"Texas agriculture is so diverse, a herbicide being sprayed to control mesquite or pasture woods might drift onto cotton, soybeans, or another crop, causing extensive loss," Perry said. "The permit requirement acts as an added safeguard to prevent this from happening."

To apply for a permit, applicators should contact the nearest TDA regional office. TDA recommends that applicators apply for the permit up to two weeks before spraying will take place. TDA has the authority to approve, deny, modify, or revoke a permit. If the pesticide staff questions an application, a pesticide specialist may inspect the application site before making a decision. Allowing ample time for processing will eliminate any reason for delaying the permit.

Once approved, permits are good for 180 days or until the acreage covered by the permit has been sprayed, whichever comes first.

When violations of the Texas Herbicide Law occur, TDA can assess penalties up to $2,000 per violation with a $4,000 maximum for all violations related to a single incident.

For more information, call the nearest TDA regional office. Offices re located in Lubbock, (806) 799-8555; Dallas, (214) 631-0265; Houston (713) 666-8491; San Antonio, (210) 820-0288; and San Juan, (210) 787-8866.

LEGAL MATTERS

BY TEXAS ATTORNEY GENERAL DAN MORALES

DESIGNED TO PREVENT CRIME

You may not have noticed it, but convenience stores have changed in recent years. Well-designed shops place cashiers near large front windows, and feature height-measuring tapes on the doorframes, tamper-proof safes and limited amounts of money in the cash drawers.

Why the changes? In a word, crime. Too many stores have been held up too often. So businesses collaborated with police and architects, and came up with ways to design safety into structure. This new approach is called Crime Prevention Through Environmental Design (CPTED).

HOW CPTED WORKS

CPTED (pronounced sep-ted) seeks to reduce opportunities for criminals rather than responding to problems after they materialize. It integrates building design, traffic flow, neighborhood planning and other important factors.

At the Office of the Attorney General, we are actively promoting the use of CPTED to reduce crime in schools, communities, and commercial areas. While strict law enforcement and swift punishment play an important role in crime fighting, prevention is the real key to clamping down on crime.

CPTED BENEFITS BUSINESSES

After studying the research about crime and criminal behavior, many businesses have redesigned their facilities along the same lines as convenience stores. They have increased lighting, mounted video cameras, and installed safes with timers. Armed robbers expecting to steal a large sum of cash will be disappointed. It takes about two to three minutes before each $20 bill can be dispensed from a safe.

Although the initial costs of implementing these improvements may be expensive, they are well worth it in the long run. It is less expensive, of course, if the design principles are incorporated into new construction as opposed to applying them to an existing building.

In stores that make these changes, crime goes down. Well-lit parking lots, lobbies with limited or controlled access, and reception desks or guard booths with a clear view of entrances and elevators, all tell criminals that they are not welcome.

When building or leasing an office, a businessperson would be well advised to consider these and other factors to reduce the cost of security equipment and insurance liability.

REDUCING CRIME IN RESIDENTIAL AREAS

Crime Prevention Through Environmental Design benefits not only businesses, but residences and schools as well. For example:

- Too many large shrubs or bushes in a neighborhood can provide places of concealment for potential muggers.

- Low walls, textured pavement, and playgrounds can establish territories that subtly, but effectively, warn off those who don't belong in the area.

- Adequate external lighting has been shown to deter criminals from breaking into houses.

Many neighborhoods also are experimenting with street barriers or neighborhood gates to reduce traffic flow. Easy access and exit routes have been shown to be attractive to potential burglars.

Schools can be designed for greater safety, too. Studies have identified areas where assaults and other offenses are most likely to occur. Careful planning can help ensure that stairways, restrooms, and parking lots are all accessible to supervision, visibility, and safety.

CPTED benefits the community by enhancing cooperation between neighborhoods and local police, which in turn helps police do a more effective job of patrolling residential communities. Whether they are remodeling an elementary school, building a mall, landscaping a park, or directing traffic in a quiet residential neighborhood, planners and architects can work together with trained law enforcement professionals to create safer environments.

FOR MORE INFORMATION

This summer, our Juvenile Crime Intervention Division, in cooperation with the National Crime Prevention Council, will offer a training conference in Austin on CPTED. Participants will include law enforcement personnel, city planners, architects, and developers, as well as municipal, county and school officials. For more information about the conference, write to: Office of the Attorney General, Conference Unit, P.O. Box 12548, Austin, TX, 78711-2548.

For more information about CPTED, contact local law enforcement officials or Dr. Will Rykert of the National Crime Prevention Institute, University of Louisville (Kentucky) at (502) 852-6987.

BUSINESS MATTERS

¡Export Texas! — opportunity for small Texas manufacturers

Where can small Texas manufacturers exhibit their products and/or services?

More and more, small Texas manufacturers realize that their continued success is tied to their ability to export. However, many small businesses and producers in Texas do not have the experience or resources when it comes to exporting. ¡Export Texas! gives these small manufacturers the ability to export by introducing them to trade intermediaries.

The Texas Department of Commerce's Office of International Business encourages small Texas manufacturers to attend the second annual ¡Export Texas! international trade show. This year's show will be held at the Houston Convention Center June 12 & 13. ¡Export Texas! is designed to expose small Texas manufacturers and producers to the world of international trade.

Last year's event in San Antonio attracted 75 small Texas businesses as exhibitors, along with 225 exporters, importers, buyers, agents, representatives, and various other trade professionals. Of the 1994 exhibitors, 25 percent report export sales as a direct result of their participation.

Because of support and cooperation from various public and private organizations, ¡Export Texas! is able to offer the help small businesses need at an affordable exhibitor cost of $255 and $20 for visitors. The event is not open to the public. If you are interested in participating in ¡Export Texas!, call Barron Lozano at 713/752-8404.

Soup to Nuts

Walk down memory lane. Perhaps the path will lead to an old recipe for Pineapple UpsideDown Cake.

Roberta Pittman remembers that her mother used to make a cake using real butter. She has lost the original recipe and wonders if anyone might have a similar one. There are lots of more modern versions out, but she has not been able to reproduce the flavor and richness of that old recipe.

Several years ago I asked my kids to get me a new Better Homes and Gardens Cook Book to replace the one I bought with Green Stamps when I was still in highschool. Mine was splattered and dirty. Much to my delight, they made my dreams come true.

However, after throwing my old one away, I discovered that the recipes were not the same and I lost many of our family standbys. Newer recipes, probably wisely, have had much of the fat content cut back and are lower in sugar and may have fewer eggs.

As politically correct as that may be, they just don't taste as good. Maybe smaller servings of something really delicious would be a better than a large serving of something less satisfying.

Now that the days are warmer and the flowers are blooming, a walk around the block could delete some of the butter off of our buns, improve our circulation, and increase our energy levels.

If you are looking for a special recipe or would like to see one of yours in print, drop it by the Newspaper office or send it to Lynne Williams, Box 807, Clarendon, TX 79226.
