Performance, Beauty and Safety Mark Chevrolet's Completely New Cars

Chevrolet's 1937 engine is completely new, but adheres closely to time-proved Chevrolet engineering principles. It is of six-cylinder valve-in-head type, smoother, more powerful, more economical, and lighter.

A representative model from Chevrolet's new line, typifying its beauty and grace—the Master De Luxe Sport Sedan with trunk. Note the distinctive "speed line" extending back from the side of the hood.

Beauty and utility mark the new Chevrolet instrument panel. The windshield is of greater area, with narrow corner posts, affording better vision.

United construction joins the floor, cowl assembly, panels, and Turret Top of Chevrolet's all-steel body, to form one integral structure, welded in all joints, and reinforced and braced for permanent silence and safety.

New power, economy, durability, safety and comfort, coupled with striking new beauty, characterize Chevrolet's new models for 1937. They are offered in two series, Master and Master De Luxe, virtually identical in appearance.

Chevrolet's fully-enclosed Knee-Action is furnished at no extra cost on the Master De Luxe models; and new Syncro-Mesh transmission, and safety plate glass all around at no extra cost, feature all models of both series.

DRUNK DRIVING AND FORGERY SCORED BY MILLER IN CHARGE

The crimes of driving while drunk and forgery were called to the attention of the Brown county grand jury by Judge E. J. Miller at the opening of the November term of the 35th district court Monday morning.

Judge Miller said of drunken drivers "there is no more dangerous man to life and property than the man who comes roaring down the street in a modern, high powered automobile, too drunk to control it, or know, or care." He also called attention to the fact that a man who forges a check even for a small sum as fifty cents, may be sent to the penitentiary.

Grand jurors selected and impaneled were: Luther McDonald, Bangs; J. K. McMurray, Winchell; H. L. Moore, Blanket; Walter Watson, Brownwood; C. B. McBride, Indian Creek; Jim McCulley, Brownwood; Walter Payne, Thrifty; J. S. Hart, Owens; Joe Cates, Bangs; Roy Locke, Zephyr; W. R. Chambers, May; and Fred Smith, Brownwood.

Judge's Charge

Judge Miller's charge to the grand jury was in part:

"We do not seem to have a very great many bound over cases this morning; I believe fourteen is all. Of these 14 cases, nine are for forgery, I am sure it is not necessary for me to urge you to act upon any of the matters presented to you but I would pause to remark that we have more forgery possibly than any other crime we have to deal with. Forgery and burglary are always in the lead, and the forgery is usually ahead of burglary. It is so easy to forge a check and get a man's money. But it is also a crime very easy to detect and prove up.

"Unless a man steals fifty dollars or more you cannot send him to the penitentiary, but if he make as forgery for fifty cents that will send him to the penitentiary. At least three-fourth of the forgeries are for amounts less than ten dollars and a great many of them are just for a dollar or two or maybe three to five dollars.

"We have one case of 'failure to render assistance' in an automobile collision; one for theft of property over the value of fifty dollars and one for burglary.

"Burglary, forgery and theft, in a general way all go back to the same motive: To get something they are not entitled to and that does not belong to them and to get it illegitimately.

"To render assistance is an essential duty of humanity that the Legislature has seen fit to render a crime. A man who fails to stop and render aid or assistance is guilty of a crime.

Drunk Driving Charges

"We have two cases of driving an automobile while intoxicated. That is a character of crime that it is a little hard for jurors, either grand jurors or petit jurors to realize the gravity of. The man driving an automobile while drunk may be one of the best and most inoffensive of men and with no malice in his heart. Some of the best men you will find will get drunk and drive their automobile, but the purpose of the law and of all government is to protect life and property, and there is no more dangerous man to life and property than the man who comes roaring down the street in a modern high powered automobile too drunk to control it or know or care. It is not unusual to find a car under those circumstances causing two, three or four wrecks in as many seconds. Such things are more dangerous than dynamite. I would rather a man was shooting at me than coming at me with one of these modern cars with a drunk and helpless driver at the wheel."

SCHOOL STADIUM IS CALLED OUTSTANDING JOB IN DISTRICT 14

The Brownwood High School athletic stadium, home of the Brownwood Lions, is rated as one of the outstanding Works Progress Administration projects in the 12-county area comprising District 14, according to District Director Karl E. Wallace.

This reinforced concrete structure, located adjacent to the Junior and Senior High School campus, has a seating capacity of approximately 2,500 people and is equipped with dressing rooms and show-ers, press box, and ticket booths.

A 7-foot mesh steel fence, aggregating 1700 lineal feet, with steel posts set on 10-foot concrete centers, surrounds the playing field. Shrubbery has been planted along the length of the fence to keep people from seeing the football games and other athletic events from the outside.

The entire cost of the stadium, not including the lights which were erected by the school board, was $18,945.24. The WPA grant amounted to $10,984.27 while the school board furnished $7,960.24. An average of 35 men, unable to find employment in private industry, were given work on this structure during the winter months.

Another WPA project to construct curbs and sidewalks, a large bandstand beneath the stadium, a cinder track, temporary bleachers, sodding of the field and similar finishing touches, is awaiting presidential approval. On account of the fact that the sodding of the field and the temporary bleachers was an immediate necessity for the present gridiron season the Brownwood school board has already completed these features.

This concrete stadium, tapering down in 21 tiers, covered with wooden seats, from a height of 26 feet to the level of the football field, is 180 feet long.

Proceeds from football and other athletic events, for which more adequate facilities are provided by the construction of this modern stadium, will repay the entire cost of the money expended long before any major repairs will be necessary in this permanently constructed building, it is estimated.

Here's the craft in a test run, pounding along at 80 miles an hour. It is capable of 150, its designer states.

San Angelo, meanwhile, was over the hardest hurdle, Breckenridge, and faced fairly easy coasting, playing the Eastland county teams and Abilene, their only tough opponent ahead.

Abilene, meanwhile, is not out of the running. They have lost only to Brownwood, but must face Breckenridge, Sweetwater and San Angelo, all three of whom have chalked up victories over the Brownwood team. ### CENTENNIAL TO BE REOPENED IN 1937 OFFICIALS DECIDE Reopening of the Texas Centennial Exposition for a five months' period in 1937 was assured this week. The Exposition, through its president, Fred F. Florence, served formal notice on the City of Dallas it would exercise its option for the use of the Exposition grounds during the coming year.

Tentative plans for the 1937 World's Fair are for its opening June 12 with closing set for October 31.

The decision of the Board of Directors of the Texas Centennial Exposition to reopen next year is the result of a general demand by the business interests of Dallas and Texas that the Exposition should carry on during 1937.

It is the plan of the Exposition management to make many drastic changes at the Exposition grounds. Only in its general layout will the 1937 World's Fair resemble that of 1936. There will be new shows, new concessions, new exhibits and new buildings. A majority of the large exhibitors are anxious to continue through the coming year. They point out that during the year 1937 there will not be any major Exposition in the United States with the exception of the Exposition at Dallas.

"We are going to reopen in 1937 with a better and more extensive 'World's Fair,'" said Director General Harry Olmsted. "It will be an entirely new show, better and more smoothly run by virtue of experience gained through the operation of 1936. Immediately after the close of the Texas Centennial Exposition November 29 full plans for the 1937 World's Fair will be announced."

BROWNWOOD BOY TELLS STUDENTS OF INDIAN CUSTOMS

Stephenville—Indian tribal customs, Indian writing, especially that on the Paint Rock cliff, Indian dances, and Indian friends—Lowell Pouncey, Brownwood Eagle Scout and student of Indian life, spoke on these things when he appeared before sociology students at John Tarleton College.

Pouncey first became interested in Indian life in 1928, when he attended a Boy Scout camp in Uvalde county. An Apache chief, Red Eagle, taught Indian hunting and trail lore and demonstrated tribal dances. Pouncey's troop burlesqued his dancing and so pleased Red Eagle that he gave more time to three of the boys: Pouncey, Stewart Painter, and Gaither Browning, all of Brownwood. That instigated the boy's love for all things Indian. They began reading, and searching for artifacts of Indian civilization in Texas. Pouncey's father, C. L. Pouncey, became interested and joined the boys in an eight-year devotion to Indian culture.

They learned to shoot with bow and arrow. They set aside each Saturday and Sunday for "going Indian," for hunting with Indian weapons of their own construction. They looked for traces of the Red Man. They explored. They excavated. Certain nights of each month were held inviolate for Indian dancing and signaling.

Other boys became interested, so that the Tribe of the Black Arrow was formed with about one hundred boys as members. Each one was a Scout. Prime purpose of the organization, Pouncey says, was, and remains, body building and fostering interest in Indian life.

The three boys around whom the tribe was built have grown increasingly interested. Their intensive study of Indian lore has fitted them to teach bead work, Indian customs, hunting and woodsmen's secrets, dancing and archery. Last Summer Painter and Browning taught in Boy Scout camps in New York. Pouncey remained in Texas. He has been associated with about forty-three camps of the state.

He, his father, and his two fellow warriors have learned from Indian friends, from books, from experience, to reproduce many Indian dances, using the exact steps of braves and warriors who danced in the years before their glory faded. Study of Indian sign language enabled them to decipher the writing on the Concho County Paint Rock. The Star Telegram carried an account of their complete interpretation.

Lowell Pouncey is a senior at Tarleton College now. He will speak during the year over the John Tarleton News Hour, Station KFPL, explaining the customs of American Indian Tribes.

60TH ANNIVERSARY IS BEING CELEBRATED THIS MONTH BY WEAKLEY-WATSON-MILLER CO.

Weakley-Watson-Miller Hardware Company, oldest business firm in Brownwood, is celebrating its 60th anniversary this month with a sale announced in this issue of The Bulletin.

The firm was established here in 1876 by the late J. C. Weakley, well known Brownwood pioneer. Lee Watson, president and manager of the company, became associated with Mr. Weakley in 1893. This partnership continued until 1904 when Mr. Watson withdrew.

Mr. Watson returned to the business in 1909 when it was reorganized and the firm name, Weakley-Watson-Miller Hardware Company, was adopted. Mr. Watson assumed management of the company at that time and has continued in that capacity until the present time, also serving as president of the concern.

The company operated under this organization until 1918 when W. Lee Watson purchased the interest of Bob Miller and actively entered the business as secretary and treasurer, the position he still holds. In 1919 Walter W. Watson bought the J. C. Weakley interest and has been associated with the business since as active vice-president.

Weakley-Watson-Miller Hardware Company has been located in the building it now occupies since 1909. Prior to 1909 the company was located in what was then known as the Starr block, their building being located on the ground now occupied by the Hotel Brownwood coffee shop. In 1909, when the present company was formed, the Jackson & Hughes hardware store was bought and the present location occupied. However, since 1909 the store has expanded until now it occupies the entire block at Fisk

High School Lions Meet Eastland Here On Next Wednesday

Brownwood High School's football team, idle this week, will tangle with the Eastland Mavericks in Brownwood Wednesday, Nov. 11, in one of the feature attractions of an Armistice Day program. This will be the Lions' final appearance before home fans this season, unless their game with Cisco, scheduled for Thanksgiving, is transferred to Brownwood.

Last week the Lions ran rough shod over Ranger High by a 59 to 0 score, and indications are that they will do equally as well against Eastland and Cisco in the two remaining games.

SCHOOL CHILDREN OF TEXAS ARE VISITING DALLAS CENTENNIAL

One hundred thousand Texas school children have visited the Texas Centennial Exposition in Dallas since the opening of the campaign to bring half a million or more to the World's Fair before its close on November 29th.

Of this gigantic number, not one has been lost from his group, no piece of baggage has been lost and there have been no accidents, according to Centennial officials. Each boy or girl has been housed in a comfortable and high class environment. Special guides, employed by the Exposition, have been at their disposal at all times. Careful watch over them is maintained not only during the hours they are on the Exposition grounds, but also during the hours they are in the quarters assigned to them.

The railroads have granted a rate of one-half cent a mile for these students and their sponsors. More than two-score special trains have been operated. Not only has there not been an accident on the grounds, but none en transit in either direction. Cafes on the grounds have made special rates for these students. Meals are furnished them, in well balanced proportions, at prices not in excess of 35 cents for the most elaborate.

The school children see the historic Cavalcade of Texas at half price. Most concessions have granted them special rates. Educational tours, which are not obligatory, have been arranged. They are not in the nature of class room lectures. They are full of thrills and excitement. Texas history, as it was made, is seen.

The movement has been endorsed in an official proclamation by Governor James V. Allred and by State Superintendent L. A. Woods. Twenty-four administrative districts have been created. Schools do not have to appear on the dates designated for their districts. The same concessions apply to them at any time they appear.

The Victoria Rezia, or giant water lily of British Guiana in the West Indies, frequently has leaf pads six feet across. These will support the weight of a forty-pound child.

DANIEL BAKER GAME FRIDAY MAY DECIDE CONFERENCE TITLE

Eyes of the entire Texas Conference will be on Brownwood Friday night awaiting return from the all-important "ridiron" battle between Daniel Baker, current conference leaders, and McMurry's Indians, the major hurdle between the Hill Billies and this year's championship.

The crucial battle of speed and brawn will be presented before an anticipated capacity crowd at the new Brownwood High School athletic plant with hostilities to get under way promptly at 8 o'clock.

The Friday night game will climax Daniel Baker's annual homecoming celebration. Hundreds of former students of the Brownwood college are expected for the day and plans have been perfected to assure one and all a full day of entertainment, including ample opportunity for all to renew old acquaintances.

Chief Attraction
But the football game will be the chief attraction in that the winning club will be favored to grab off this year's championship. The Billies are out front in the 1936 race with a record of three victories in as many starts with conference opponents. The Indians are only a half-step behind with three wins and one tie game in four starts.

Jackets Play St. Edward's
Howard Payne's Yellow Jackets, tied with McMurry in conference standings, meets St. Edward's University in Austin Friday night and unless the Austin outfit shows a decided reversal of form, the Jackets will chalk up another victory to keep them much in the championship picture. Coach Keaton's club, with three victories and one tie game, cannot win the title unless McMurry and Daniel Baker are stopped during the remainder of the season. Should the Billies and Indians play to a tie Friday night, the Jackets and Billies would tie for this year's championship by taking their remaining games.

DEBATE SQUAD HAS BEGUN YEAR'S WORK

Having organized for the season, the Brownwood High School Debate squads have started to work on a program which will include a number of tournaments and the annual Interscholastic League contests.

Members of the Debate squad are: Moody Bettis, 2-year debator; Fred Abney, 2-year debator; Bobby Wilkes, 4-year debator; Robert Allman, 2-year debator; Marshall Robinson, Ray Morgan, Herschel Rodgers, Juanita Ellis, Zella Mae Reynolds and Rayoma Tomlinson, all first year debators. Larry Hillier, Jr., Charles Rice and Jean Wilder are junior high school debators who have also begun work for the year.

J. Fred McGaughey, coach, expects Brownwood teams to meet stiff competition in the county meet this year from teams at May and Bangs schools. Other schools expected to have strong teams in the district meet are Coleman, Mullin, and San Saba.

President Roosevelt and Vice President Garner were given the most overwhelming vote ever accorded national candidates in the Presidential election of Tuesday. With reports practically complete, the Republican ticket has carried only two New England States, Maine and Vermont. The remainder of the 46 States seem safely in the Democratic fold.

Endorsing A Principle

The result, of course, was a surprise even to the most enthusiastic Democrat; or, rather, the unanimous nature of it. In spite of the vigorous, bitter, and expensive campaign launched by the Republican National Committee, the mass of the voters endorsed the President and the New Deal.

The victory should not be taken entirely as a personal endorsement of Franklin D. Roosevelt, however. Rather, it is a victory for a form of government which he has introduced, and which, in the minds of the American voters, he represents. For the first time in recent years, the common people have had a representative in the White House, and no amount of propaganda could shake them from the determination to keep that representation.

The Republican party, more especially in this campaign than in any other, represented the interests of the moneyed class, as opposed directly to the great bulk of American people not so fortunately endowed with worldly goods. Through the force of money, financial leaders have been able to spread propaganda during each election, with the result that their candidates have received the popular vote. Tuesday's election is a warning that America no longer is in control of entrenched financial interests of the East; emphatic proof that American voters in the future will cast their votes for their own best interests, regardless of the interests of big business.

President Roosevelt has introduced into the American system of government humanity and feeling for his fellow man. In making such radical changes as he wrought during his first term in office, he naturally made mistakes. He was the first to point to this possibility and the first to take steps to correct mistakes as they appeared.

There is no need for alarm that President Roosevelt during his second term will be swayed by the thought of his impressive endorsement into a desire for greater personal power. Rather, there is reason to believe that during the coming four years he will lean toward a more conservative course as business continues to show improvement, and that his second term will show fewer innovations in government than has the past four year period.

It is significant that in the minds of the voting American public, President Roosevelt has been directing his energies in the right direction and that the people approve of his efforts in their behalf.

Dallas county this week pioneered a movement that is destined to prove popular in Texas. Voting was done by machines in Dallas county this year for the first time in Texas; and while Dallas voters manipulated the simple but intricate looking voting machines, officials of several other Texas counties and the Acting Governor looked on with interest.

Voting By Machines

Voting machines first were advocated as a means of purifying the ballot box, for it is impossible to falsify election returns where the machines are used unless dishonest election officials are in charge of them, and even then falsification becomes immediately apparent. In Texas, fortunately, there has been little tampering with the election machinery, and if this were the only merit of the machines they would not be worth their cost.

The machines, however, have other merits. They speed up election returns by making the results immediately available when the polls close, without the necessity of tedious counting, and they drastically reduce the cost of holding an election. The cost item comes from two sources; they require no printed ballot, and they do not entail employment of as many clerks to hold an election. Further, there is no need for expensive overtime pay for counting long ballots.

The machines cost approximately $1,000 each, and this initial cost has made their adoption slow. Their life is practically indefinite, however, and their use permits larger voting groups to form a voting precinct, a desirable feature in these days of rapid transportation. Their use should spread to many Texas counties if the Dallas experiment proves satisfactory.

In the last 12 months, approximately 10,000 persons have been burned to death. One-third of them were children.

The Human Barbecue

Two-thirds of all the victims perished in residence and apartment fires. Read that over again. If anything can awaken the American people to the gravity of the fire problem, that brief statement should. If you have a strong stomach; think of those 10,000 roasted bodies. And then realize that at least eighty per cent of fires, big and little fires alike, could easily have been prevented.

It is a human frailty to read such a statement as this, reflect for a moment on the horror of it, and then forget it with the mentally-made observation that "Well, my home is safe." Perhaps your home is. But there's better than an even chance that it contains hazards that you don't know about.

An up-to-date house is not necessarily a safe house, from the standpoint of fire - many a $50,000 mansion has gone up in flames. Expensive furniture will burn as easily as cheap furniture - and the finest interior fabrics and woodwork will burn as easily as a piece of cotton cloth and a pine board.

Whether you live in a four-room bungalow, or an elaborate home, inspect your property regularly, or have it inspected by someone who understands fire hazards and their prevention. Once hazards are found, do away with them and make sure they don't reappear. Help reduce the national human barbecue!

I quit bellowing at traffic violators 20 years ago because all I got was a sore throat. -Walter C. Bender, traffic policeman.

Retire? There's only one way to retire. That's to retire every night in time to get up early to go to work again. -Henry Ford.

However, don't get excited, even though people from all over the world will be there, I suppose I can play "Coming 'Round the Mountain" in several different languages. That's the grand thing about music (if you would call my kind of playing music) it is an international tongue.

What a grand and glorious and heartwarming experience has been mine the past week-end. To go back over a ribbon of concrete which wound in and around the old place of my childhood haunts, to pass by the very old house, high on a hill, overlooking a rolling expanse where once white faced Herefords grazed contentedly, to cross over the little creek where I once knew every "bog hole," every shallow, and every hole big enough to play "baptizing;" to see the same old barn, grey with age now, but once the scene of some of the greatest circuses and wild west shows ever staged in make-believe land, when a "passel" of kids had to make their own fun, to go on into town over a beautiful road but all the time remembering the rutted red earth over which I had ridden horseback to take my music lesson. Ah, those music lessons were the red letter days for me. . . . This week I stayed with the lovely and unforgettable lady who was "teach-ur" then and perhaps the inspiration of my lifetime. A personality which is as shining and beautiful today as it was then, whose voice has only become more melodic with sweetness and deepened with experiences since the old days. I was guest in my old home town . . . many, many changes, but so many old friends, so many happy memories walked with me through the week-end. A soft rainbow of happiness settled about my heart and will stay there. Sad days, bitter days, days of frustration, may come to me, yet if I can bring the rainbow out and look at it again, that rainbow made by the sweet memory of these past few days can line any cloud for me.

Farmers To Receive Resettlement Checks

George O. Green, of the Resettlement Administration, has announced that the checks have arrived for families of Brown County who were stricken by the recent Colorado flood. A few months ago, loans were made by the administration to farmers, who have already paid most of them back. Jack Mercer, Winchell, was the first farmer to entirely repay his loan to the Resettlement Administration.

COLLEGE STATION—In 57 Texas counties 947 Texas boys will go to work on November 1 as employees of the NYA under the supervision of the Texas Extension Service to speed up terracing during the season when crops are off the land. The project is to run through November, December, and January, according to a statement issued here by Jack Shelton, vice director and state agent of the Extension Service.

The boys will work with county agricultural agents, running terrace lines on the land of farmers and ranchmen who have scheduled this fall and winter to get that job done. In some of the counties, county agricultural agents and their assistants will be able actively to supervise this terracing. In other counties where the demand is greater the NYA will provide a supervisor who is trained in terracing. And for a third class of counties the Extension Service will employ an additional person who will act as supervisor.

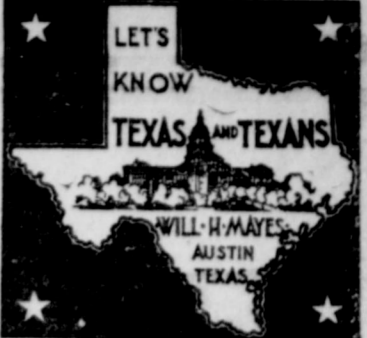

Reports from county agricultural agents from all over Texas indicate that farmers are making heavy schedules of this type of work and are anxious to have the land on their places protected with terraces and contours as soon as possible. The following counties are to get NYA help: In the Panhandle: Dallam, Hansford, Lipscomb, Roberts, Oldham, Gray, Wheeler, Armstrong, Donley, and Deaf Smith. On the South Plains: Swisher, Lamb, Floyd, Motter, Hoekley, Crosby, Dickens, and Kent. In North Texas: Hardeman, Wilbarger, Wichita, Montague, and Wise. In Northeast Texas: Lamar, Bowie, Rains, Upshur, and Smith. In Central West Texas: Coke, Jones, Shackelford, Stephens, Taylor, Callahan, Eastland, Erath, Coleman, Comanche, McCulloch, San Saba.

month's magazines so we'll just have to let it go at that. From seeing demure, dark-eyed Teresa Black, you'd never think of her writing the following bold thing which actually appeared in a man's column this week: "If you fall, rise and whistle a tune. Do not whimper and growl like a bear. Just wink back at the man in the moon. And be glad that your pants did not tear."

Ge. I have so many things to tell you this week that even single spacing makes the end of this column come too quickly. However, here's a dirty dozen that I clipped from J. C. Pond's clever column that I know you'll all want to clip and pin on the curtain above your kitchen sink where you can see it often: "Don't say I said so, but—" "Isn't it awful—" "Haven't you heard—" "Did you hear about—" "Sh—Don't breathe a word—" "Keep this to yourself—" "Somebody whispered to me—" "I don't like to say it, but—" "This is on the quiet—" "It's current gossip that—" "Get a load of this—" "Mum's the word—"

Recruiting Office Of Field Artillery In Operation Here

A recruiting station of the 15th Field Artillery, Fort Sam Houston, San Antonio, was established in Brownwood Tuesday in the Memorial Hall and will be here through Friday. The station will receive for enlistment single, white men between the ages of 18 and 35. The party includes ten men and is under the command of Lieutenant U. P. Williams. A camp has been set up on a lot at the corner of Lee and Hawkins streets. The camp consists of two tents and a field kitchen. Visitors, whether interested in enlisting or not, will be welcome, according to Lieutenant Williams. The 15th Field Artillery is a motorized, light field artillery regiment equipped with French 75 mm. guns. The party hopes to enlist several recruits from the Brownwood territory while here.

60 Celebrating Our BIRTHDAY 60

The covered wagon is typical of the early days of this business. All the building material and merchandise of that day were hauled great distances by wagon trains that took weeks to make the trip over rough trails and swollen rivers.

A feathered Indian Chief, astride a paint pony rode wearily to the top of a hill. He halted his mount and gazed across a valley beyond. His eyes fell upon a little village, a village known as Brownwood. He slowly shook his head and rode away. Later in the day he saw a wagon drawn by four mules. It was Bob Routh freighting buffalo hides.

He had just learned that the Sioux under Sitting Bull had completely wiped out General George Custer and his entire command in the valley of the Little Big Horn. He concluded the redskins were having better luck holding their own in the north, so he decided to move his tribe in that direction.

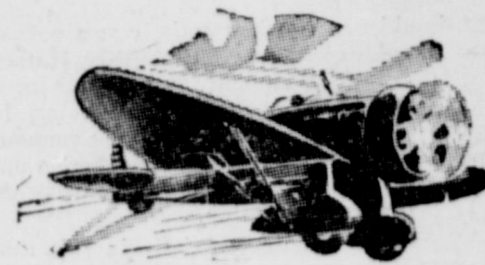

Ulysses S. Grant was serving his 2nd term as president and Diaz had just been made chief executive of Mexico.

An International Industrial Exposition was being held in Philadelphia to celebrate the 100th year of America's freedom.

Returning to the little village in the valley, J. Robert Brown was postmaster and Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Son were operating the Son Hotel, a log structure near where the county jail now stands.

Brooke Smith had moved to the village and decided to settle there. The Rev. J. M. Perry united Miss Kate Hardin and Mr. W. N. Adams in holy wedlock. One Presbyterian, one Methodist and five Baptist Churches were being organized and the scholastic population of the county was 976.

This, the year in which the above events transpired, was the year of 1876, the year in which Mr. J. C. Weakley, a tinsmith of Indiana, moved into the little village in the valley known as Brownwood and opened up a hardware store, a store that is today one of the leading business houses of West Texas, The Weakley-Watson-Miller Hardware Co.

As modern as the high speed aeroplane are the business methods of today. Up to the minute merchandise from all parts of the world, prompt service, quick deliveries, get through it all the friendly spirit of those early pioneers is maintained.
