

Green, Hallmark And Gaines Are County Winners

Charles H. Butler Defeats Commissioner Palmer in Saturday's Primary

Charles H. Butler defeated Charles B. Palmer for Commissioner, Precinct 4, in the most surprising upset of Saturday's Democratic primary in Brown county. Palmer had led the field of three candidates in the July primary, lacking only a few votes of securing a majority. The margin of victory was only 5 votes, the count being: Butler 754, Palmer, 749, in precinct 2, H. I. Stapp, who ran second in July, was re-nominated, and in Precinct 1, Ernest Thompson, present commissioner, defeated Lawrence Moore. Ben F. Hunt secured the nomination in precinct 3 without opposition, when J. A. Bettis withdrew.

In the three county races, Vernon Green was nominated county clerk, defeating Myron Embrey; Sheriff Jack Hallmark was re-nominated over Jule Allcorn and J. G. Gaines defeated R. A. Snider for county treasurer. Allcorn showed surprising strength in the run-off contest for sheriff, and already is being mentioned as a candidate two years from now. He had no comment to make upon his plans.

J. B. Weems, Sr., defeated Eastman Kitchen, veteran constable of precinct 1. Kitchen has held the office for nearly 50 years.

Brown county voters favored Ernest Thompson for railroad commissioner and J. E. McDonald for commissioner of agriculture in the only two state contests on the ticket. So did Texas voters, and they both were re-nominated.

The unofficial Brown county vote:

- For Railroad Commissioner: Thompson 2,342, Morris 2,597. For Agricultural Commissioner: McDonald 3,189, Terrel 2,603. For County Clerk: Vernon Green 2,312, Myron Embrey, 2,842. For County Treasurer: R. A. Snider 2,757, J. G. Gaines, 3,270. For Sheriff: J. J. Allcorn 2,789, W. E. Hallmark 3,376. For Commissioner, Precinct 1: Lawrence Moore, 735, E. S. Thompson, 798. For Commissioner, Precinct 2: James W. Phillips 791, H. I. Stapp 821. For Commissioner, Precinct 4: Chas. H. Butler 754, Chas. B. Palmer 749. For Constable, Precinct 1: J. B. Weems, Sr., 1,906, Eastman Kitchen, 1,585.

AVERAGE PER PUPIL COST CONTAINED IN CITY SCHOOL REPORT

According to figures contained in the annual report of Superintendent E. J. Woodward, recently approved by the school board, $39.39 was the average per pupil cost in Brownwood city schools for the 1935-36 term, including all grades and races. Exactly the same amount was shown for the average per pupil cost for the 1934-35 term. These figures are considerably lower in comparison with the figures of average per pupil costs for the past eight or ten years.

The cost is ascertained in accordance with the type of school. In the city system the cost varied as follows: elementary, $30.86; junior high, $49.66; senior high, $58.04.

The scholastic census, taken in March, 1935, showed 2,892 pupils in the district. Total enrollment in Brownwood schools for 1935-36 was 2,889, divided as follows: elementary, 1,718; junior high, 502; senior high, 568; and negro school, 101.

High school pupils are transported to and from the Brownwood schools in school buses. Three buses are operated, one by the Brownwood district, one by the Woodland Heights district and one by the Chapel Hill district.

Familiar Scene of Future

Judge Clyde L. Garrett of Eastland, shown above walking down the Capitol steps at Washington. This will be a familiar scene before long, for Judge Garrett defogated the veteran congressman, Tom Blanton, in a spectacular contest in the 17th district for the Democratic nomination. The Garrett vote reached landslide proportions, and when they stopped counting it was: Garrett, 33,419; Blanton, 18,454, with only a few votes out. The above picture was taken when Garrett, as president of the County Judges and Commissioners Association of Texas, was in Washington to aid in securing more WPA funds for Texas counties.

COMMODITIES VALUED AT NEARLY $5,000,000 HAVE BEEN DISTRIBUTED HERE

DISPOSITION of Federal Surplus commodities to relief clients in the district and county is carefully supervised by the Distribution Department operated under a WPA project sponsored by the Texas Relief Commission, according to John H. Allen, Jr., superintendent of Commodity Distribution for District 14.

During the period of January 1 to June 20, 1936, the Commodity Distribution Department distributed in District 14, which includes Brown county, 26,158,709 pounds of food consisting of canned beef, canned vegetables, canned fruit, apples, dry skim milk, evaporated milk, rolled oats, dried prunes, also 2,429,014 clothing and household articles consisting of men's, women's children's and infant's clothing, towels, pillow cases, sheets, comforts, and mattresses. The retail value of these commodities based on the present market is $4,425,258.64. The cost of distribution, wholesale and retail, was less than five and one-half per cent of the retail value of the commodities.

Directs Distribution It is the duty of the District Supervisor of Commodity Distribution to see that all commodities are equally distributed in each county in the district according to the case load.

When a car of flour, canned beef, or oatmeal arrives, these cars are immediately re-allocated to each of the counties in the district. In the event that a surplus of any product exists in any one county and is needed in another county, a transfer of that commodity is made at once, thereby equalizing the load. Transfers from one county to another are made only in cases when a surplus actually exists or in case of emergency.

Invoices have been received at the Brown county district of Commodity Distribution covering a car of canned beef, a carload of flour, a carload of Bartlett pears and a portion of a car of evaporated peaches. These shipments are due to arrive any day, Mr. Allen said. These products will be re-allocated to each county in the district proportionate to the number of eligible recipients.

Commodities are issued only to families and persons who are certified as eligible recipients by the official case worker in each county and subject to the rules and regulations of the Texas Relief Commission. This list of eligible clients changes from day to day.

Need Is Established As the needs of families are established the case worker sends in additional lists to the Distribution Department. If conditions improve and it is found that a person or family can get along without further aid, a cancellation is effected and they are dropped from the eligible list of recipients.

Commodities are issued strictly on and over and above basis. It is not intended that commodities shall be a part of the budget but are issued to those eligible in amounts over and above their established budget. All commodities except food are issued.

Consideration of plans for a WPA project to drain, clean and straighten Adams branch in the city as a vital step toward improving the health and sanitation of Brownwood were taken up by city officials and Major Karl E. Wallace, district 14 WPA director, at a conference Thursday afternoon.

W. E. Sheppard, district supervisor of community sanitation and malaria control projects under the WPA program, discussed with councilmen Monday night the possibility of a WPA project to improve the branch. The branch in its present condition has been used as a place for dumping all kinds of rubbish and is a menace to public health.

At the Monday night meeting City Council passed an ordinance, with an emergency clause attached which makes it effective immediately, regulating the handling of shell-egg peans. Penalty for violation of the ordinance, which requires that any person who shells peans for public use must have a health certificate, and provides for inspection of places where peans are shelled, will be assessed fines ranging from $5 to $100.

Appointment of a committee to work on plans for submitting application for a WPA project to install an irrigation system on the 290-acre pecan orchard at the U. S. Field Pecan Experiment Station, also was made at the Monday meeting. Alderman T. H. Hart and Edward B. Henley, Jr., were named to draw up the plans. Water for irrigation has been promised by the city.

Progress Being Made in Pension Investigations

Four Investigators and Assistant Assigned To Brown County To Finish Job

"Work of investigating applications for Old Age Assistance is being pushed as rapidly as possible, and is now more than half completed, C. A. Trigg, district director of the Texas Old Age Assistance commission stated Thursday. Mr. Trigg was in Brownwood from the district offices in Brady to check up on the progress of the work in this county.

Mr. Trigg stated that four investigators and one assistant are at work in Brown county, and that they are making good progress. Approximately 900 cases have been investigated in this county, with some 700 more yet to be investigated, Mr. Trigg stated.

The county has furnished one typist to assist in the work, and this is an aid in speeding the investigations. Another typist is needed, however, and it is hoped that arrangements can be worked out to secure this additional help.

Mr. Trigg pointed out that the remaining cases would take some time yet, because of the difficulty experienced by investigators in contacting the applicants. With the four investigators, however, he anticipates that all cases in this county will be handled within a short time.

While here Mr. Trigg conferred with County Judge A. E. Nabors and members of the Commissioners Court.

CONSTITUTIONAL CHANGES TO BE BEFORE TEXAS VOTERS AT NOVEMBER GENERAL ELECTION

TEXAS voters will have opportunity this year to vote on the amendments to the State Constitution. This is the second group of amendments passed by the last session of the Legislature, the first group, including the liquor amendment, and the fee-abolishing amendment, were voted upon at a special election last August. Apparently, the Legislature felt it best to give the amendments to the voters in broken doses, and six amendments were designated to be voted upon in the November general elections.

Because of the interest in at least two of these — the state liquor dispensary proposal and the salary increase amendment — it is likely that a heavy vote will be recorded on these amendments in spite of the usual apathy of Texas voters with regard to constitutional changes and the November general elections.

First in public interest is the amendment proposing State control of the liquor business, and providing the authority to establish State dispensaries. If this system is inaugurated Texas will buy liquors wholesale and sell it through dispensaries. The passage of this amendment would give the Legislature authority to specify to what extent the retailing of liquor will be handled by private firms. Under the present set-up the liquor business in Texas is in private hands. The only part played by the State under the present system is to issue permits for the sale of liquors and to collect taxes thereof. The amendment protects territories now dry under local option, and makes provision for local option elections under conditions similar to those prevailing at this time.

Amendment to Section 26 proposes to limit the apportionment of any county to seven representatives unless the population of such a county exceeds 700,000 people, in which event such county would be entitled to one additional representative for each 100,000 population. This amendment tends to curb tion is received under this teachers' plan. All funds will be received by the Treasurer of the State for the establishment of the Retirement Fund and are to be invested in United States, State, County or municipal bonds.

Removal of the Governor's power to pardon and parole convicts is set forth in the fifth amendment to be voted upon. Provision is made for the setting up of a Board of Pardons and Paroles, composed of three members, each elected for a six-year term. One of these is to be appointed by the Governor, one by the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court and one by the presiding Justice of the Court of Criminal Appeals. All appointments will require confirmation of the Senate. The Board will have the power to grant reprieves, commutations of punishment and pardons, with the Governor serving in the capacity of an adviser. The Governor would have the power to grant one reprieve in any capital case for a period of not to exceed 30 days. He would also have the power to revoke paroles and conditional pardons. In cases of treason, he would have the authority to grant reprieves, commutations of punishment and pardons with the advice and consent of the Legislature. The regulations of procedure and the keeping of a record of the action of the Board of Pardons would be dominated by the Legislature including the authorities to enact parole laws.

The final amendment for consideration by the voters would authorize the Legislature to provide for a Workmen's Compensation Insurance System to be set up for employees of the State. Payment of all costs, charges and premiums on policies of insurance would be made by the State, providing, however, that the State shall never be required to purchase insurance for any employee. This amendment, if passed, would give protection to State employees which would coin-

DROUGHT EMPHASIZES NEED OF STORAGE OF MORE FEED IN SILOS

As a result of drought and near-drought this year in many parts of the country, the necessity of storing more silage and feed on farms has been forcibly brought to farm owners. Faced with the problem of either buying expensive feed or selling their valuable cattle at a loss, the owners' thoughts turn to building more silos for feed storage purposes.

While one may think of corn as being confined to the great corn belt of Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Minnesota, and Wisconsin, whose combined corn crop in 1934 produced $528,169,000 it is also one of the principal crops of the nation. Kentucky ranked seventh with a corn crop valued at $44,611,000; Tennessee had a corn crop worth $41,155,000. From Vermont with a $2,758,000 crop to Florida with one of $4,665,000, and from Oregon with a crop valued at $1,537,000 to Texas with a $39,451,000 crop, corn is an important farm product. But the outlook this year is not so bright. Withered by 3 months of scorching sun, the corn harvest probably will not total more than 1,573,000-900 bushels this year, private crop experts state. Their estimate is 673,000,000 bushels less than the Government's July 1st estimate and nearly a billion less than a normal crop.

With more silos as a storage place for feed during good crop years, the problem of high priced feed during lean years would be somewhat solved. The silo is becoming more and more one of the important farm buildings and one that can be built of material usually found at the local lumber dealer's yard.

FARMER EXPOSES TYPE OF STRAW VOTE BEING TAKEN BY FARM PAPER

The true position of the Farm Journal's non-partisan Presidential poll of American farmers, was brought to light in an article in The New York Post. It develops now that the poll conducted by the farm paper is non-partisan only in a Pickwickian sense.

This interesting revelation was made to The Post by Walter A. Hoenes, thirty-two, a farmer of Colosne, N. J. Mr. Hoenes is a Democrat, in fact, a blatant Democrat. He subscribed for the Farm Journal in October, 1935. When he read about the publication's poll of its readers, he naturally expected to receive a ballot. When he didn't he was chagrined. He wanted his vote for President Roosevelt to count in the poll, so he drew up his own ballot. He sent it to the Farm Journal with a letter freely expressing his pro-Roosevelt sentiments. Shortly thereafter he received the following letter from the Farm Journal, bearing the editor's signature:

"Dear Mr. Hoenes: You seem to believe very thoroughly in Mr. Roosevelt and his methods and if so, I am sure you are going to be very unhappy if you continue to read the Farm Journal. We expect to do our best to stop Mr. Roosevelt's borrowing, spending, budget deficits and increasing taxes which about the only contribution that Mr. Roosevelt has made to returning prosperity.

"Would you not be happier reading some other farm magazine which supports Mr. Roosevelt if you can find one? Very truly yours, Arthur H. Jenkins, Editor."

In addition to suffering this affront to his political sentiments, Mr. Hoenes complains that he has received no more copies of the magazine, though he asserts his subscription had three months to run.

Altogether Mr. Hoenes is somewhat skeptical of the "fair and impartial" character of the Farm Journal's poll, especially as he since has learned that control of the Farm Journal recently passed to Joseph N. Pew, Jr., who is one of the three Republican bosses in Pennsylvania and a financial angel of the party in that state.

THANKS A LOT

I want to thank all those that helped me in anyway in my campaign and I want to specially thank my friends that stayed with me and done all they could for me.

I made a clean race and ask my friend's not to say anything that would reflect on my opponents in any way.

I think I made a good showing not to be before the public any more than I was at the beginning and am sure I made lots of new friends.

Thanks again to all,

WRINKLES OF SAFETY

Why do your tires slip and slide? Because they have stiff, unyielding tread ribs that act like sled runners when you try to stop. To eliminate this sled-runner sliding, General invented the Dual-10—a tire with tread so flexible it wrinkles when brakes are applied. The wrinkles squeeze wet pavements dry—they sweep aside loose dust and greasy traffic film on dry roads—GRIP and STOP right now!

Advertising Texas

Lieutenant Governor Walter F. Woodul has been serving during the past year as chairman of the State Centennial Commission of Control. He has had ample opportunity to see the advantages to the State of the Centennial celebrations, and he comes forward with a far-sighted suggestion that Texas spend one million dollars a year for the next five years in advertising the State.

The suggestion is not a spectacular publicity gesture by any means, but a well thought out plan, based upon sound logic. The world today is Texas-conscious. Much good will have been built up by the State through the medium of the Centennial. How best to capitalize on this good will, to keep it alive, is the problem confronting Texas today. "It is infinitely more simple to keep a project rolling and crackling than to let the momentum die and try to recapture it again later," Mr. Woodul wisely observes.

Mr. Woodul points out that many states and sections have profited much through judicious advertising. New Mexico, for example, that has a sane advertising program, estimates that every dollar spent for advertising results in $80 being spent within the state. California, of course, is a pioneer in municipal advertising, but few know that Arizona has a larger advertising budget, that New Hampshire and Maine spend sizeable amounts each year to attract tourists and permanent residents; that Canada has a huge advertising appropriation and that Germany, Italy and many foreign countries are in the advertising business in a big way. We are familiar, of course, with Mexico's profitable experience in drawing some 2,000 motorists a week into that country through efficient advertising.

It is estimated that, due to the start obtained through the Centennial advertising, Texas could push 25 years of development of the state into the next five years through systematically going after it. Mr. Woodul estimates that a five-year advertising program would increase Texas' population 20 per cent in the next five years, and wisely points out that "such an accelerated growth would help the farmer, the laboring man, the manufacturing industries in Texas, bring in new industries, increase the prospects for everyone."

There is one weak point in Mr. Woodul's presentation. Where is the money coming from? His answer to this question is through a constitutional amendment, and he pledges himself to work for adoption of such a measure. It is extremely doubtful, however, whether such an amendment could find its way through the legislature, and once past that obstacle, would be adopted by the people of Texas. Five million dollars is a lot of money, and in spite of the fact that it would be returned to the people through increased gasoline consumption — which now means increased revenues — people are slow to authorize such gigantic appropriations. To secure such a sum by private subscriptions is out of the question. Some workable means of securing the money must be advanced before much can be done with such a program.

Figures secured from State Comptroller George H. Sheppard, and released by Director General Harry Olmsted of the Texas Centennial Exposition, prove conclusively that increased gasoline tax payments from tourists already have reimbursed the State more than the three million dollars appropriated for Texas Centennial celebrations. The figures prove that advertising such as Texas has done this year is profitable in dollars and cents returns, and possibly offer an argument for Governor Woodul's proposed advertising appropriation.

Paying For The Centennial

The total increase of state gasoline taxes from January 1 to July 31, 1936 over the corresponding period in 1935 amounts to $3,148,749. Of course, some of this is due to increased use of automobiles and increased travel by Texans themselves, but let's look at the figures since the opening day of the Centennial Central Exposition at Dallas. During June the increase in gasoline tax payments was $469,876 and during July, when Centennial visiting reached its peak, the increase was $713,919. Indications are that the increase in August will correspond closely to the July increase, and the best months are yet to come. The state, incidentally, receives 4 cents a gallon tax on gasoline.

Commenting on the increased State revenues, Director General Olmsted says:

"The interest created throughout the United States by the Exposition undoubtedly will create an increase in gasoline tax collections for the year of some $6,000,000 which will show the taxpayers a $3,000,000 profit on the legislative appropriation for the Texas Centennial as a whole." And he points out that the Dallas exposition received only $1,250,000 of the three million tax dollars.

Not counted in these figures are the daily expenditures of the hundreds of thousands of tourists attracted to all parts of Texas by the various Centennial celebrations and those who have been attracted to Texas through Centennial advertising.

The figures are very satisfying to those who in advocating adoption of the constitutional amendment predicted that gasoline tax revenues would repay the money appropriated for the Centennial.

BANGS GINS SEASON'S FIRST BALE OF COTTON

The first bale of cotton to be ginned in Brown county for the 1936 season was brought in by Grady Buse of Concord, Tuesday, August 18. The bale was ginned in Bangs, by the Producers Gin and bought by the Modern Way Grocery at 13 cents a pound. The cotton graded as good middling and the bale weighed 465 pounds. A premium of $26.50 was made up by business men of Bangs.

Brownwood's first bale of cotton was ginned Monday afternoon at the McDonald and Funderburk gin. M. E. Linton, who lives three miles from town on Highway 23, picked over ten acres of cotton to get the bale. He brought 1,750 pounds of cotton in the bale to the gin. The bale weighed 465 pounds and graded strict middling.

Stork Derby
Helen's Party
Sing a song of Landon
A pocket full of Hokum
The more Bill Murray sings his praise
The more smart folk will Soak 'em.

With Alfalfa Bill taking the stump against the New Deal and Roosevelt, folk feel more convinced than ever that November will bring satisfying results for the Democrats. A fellow has respect for a real Republican's views, but to a Democrat a turn coat is the most despicable of all creatures. Lots of folk are that way, though, if they can't be the bell cow they won't fall in behind. Anyway the drought cut Bill's crop short and he just had to think up something.

If there's any of you girls interested in the "stork derby" which to me is most revolting, you might be glad to know that Mrs. Graziano is among the leaders, having given birth recently to a ninth child. The derby ends October 31 and to the winner goes a fortune willed by Charles Vance Miller, Toronto lawyer.

A man named Floyd Caskey is in a fair way to become rich. He has received a patent, and started production, on a radio choker that tunes out crooners and commercial announcers. The first order has been received and the choker isn't generally known to exist yet. Think what will happen when people find out about it.

Some time ago I told you girls all about Dr. Homer C. House's book, "Sun Dance" which I had received to review but I didn't tell you much about the writer, because I didn't know so much to tell. However, it seems that my old rabbit foot has been working overtime this summer. I've had some of the nicest ones was a telephone call from Helen McMahon, state chairman of poetry telling me that Dr. House was to be her guest and to "come on over."

Of course, I was expecting him to be my guest and was a little disappointed that he didn't get to come on down, but the minute I arrived at Pond Creek, home of Helen and her delightful husband and also the home of that petite newspaper lady, Nina Pond, I forgot everything but what a grand time, what a grand place to be and what grand people to meet.

Helen had invited a merry group for the afternoon and another for the evening. The mayor, even, extended the keys of the city in no uncertain terms and made everybody welcome and happy. Dr. House was at once and at all times surrounded by old time friends from every place and new ones who wanted to become closer friends on sight. A jolly, handsome, scholarly gentleman who loved to sing, who enjoyed a good joke and had the happy faculty of putting every one at ease at once, was Dr. House of Maryland.

Before I tell you about the party I must place the setting in your mind. Helen's house . . . it is in a place all its own. I called it "Green Arches" right away. But it wasn't how many rooms, nor how many baths but all the personality of a really great person that every room expressed. It was a liberal education to browse through rooms whose walls held so much of tender sentiment, of framed mottoes, of wood blocks, of etchings, of artistic verse, illustrators, of all the great folks of our present day literature and art. The book shelves lined every room and held autographed volumes from all over the world. Scrap books galore showed Helen's appreciation of her friends, photographs and mementoes of past triumphs of not only herself but those whom she loves . . . but it can't be described . . . you'll have to see it.

In the afternoon Dr. House read most graciously, sang and otherwise entertained the guests while Helen kept things lively with her spontaneous wit, her performances on the piano, her songs and her guitar.

In the evening more guests came from every place. The Enid Writers' Club was there in a group and their charming president, Miss Bess Trutt, a poet in her own right, added much to the party with her GARLAND—Approximately 4,900 pounds of Hubam clover seed have been harvested and threshed on 12.5 acres of land on five farms in the Duck Creek Soil Conservation Service Project Area. The clover was planted in February in strips and on steep eroded areas for erosion control.

Hubam, unlike the biennial white sweet clover, is an annual, and produces a seed crop each year while the biennial variety does not seed until the second year after planting. The clover has a tap root system with numerous lateral roots, making it an excellent crop for erosion control when planted in broadcast on the contour.

As a soil building crop, Hubam should compare favorably with the biennial sweet clover. According to P. B. Dunkle, of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Denton, wheat rotated with sweet clover increased its yield 117% over continuous cropping; oats 66%; corn 13%, and cotton 22%.

The Hubam crop may be cut early for hay, and a second cutting may be made later for seed, or an early cutting for hay with the second crop turned under for soil building purposes. Hubam seed production offers some possibilities as a paying enterprise for the black land of Texas.

R. L. Hargrove of the New Hope Community reports that Hubam planted on eroded Johnson grass land made fair growth. The crop was cut after the Johnson grass headed, and fed to work stock. Albert Corney of the Handley community stated that hay cut early in June made good forage and was readily consumed by livestock. He expects to harvest considerable seed from his second crop and turn little speech of appreciation to Dr. House.

Dr. House entertained for more than an hour, reading selections from "Sun Dance" in such a dramatic manner that the audience would scarcely let him stop. His rendition of the long "name" poem of Sun Dance was marvelous, while "Dreams O' Home," "A Mood," "Dark Rival" and "When Jessie Pours the Tea," were favorites called for by his responsive audience.

One of the highlights of the program was the rendition of a song to Dr. House written by Helen McMahon and played and sung in a most artistic manner by a little artist from Medford, Catherine Janecek. Although a child she played the piano-acordian and sang like a little trouser and captivated her audience with her sweetness and talent.

the stubble under. J. R. Sezanian is well pleased with Hubam clover planted on strips for erosion control. He plans to double his acreage next year, and states that planting Hubam in strips offers an excellent opportunity for making a complete crop rotation on the farm.

EDINBURG — "Ventilating my old pantry and adding two shelves makes the storage space more serviceable," says Mrs. M. A. Shields of the Lone Star home demonstration club in Hidalgo county.

The ventilation was added to the old pantry by cutting an opening in the floor one and one-half by two and one-half feet and in the ceiling one foot by one foot. The openings were screened to prevent insects from entering. The shelves were made of two-inch strips with three-fourths of an inch between so the air could pass through.

Mrs. Shields' pantry holds 744 pints of food at present valued at $111.98. She assisted 20 non-club members during the past year, according to Miss Mattie Wilroy, Hidalgo county home demonstration agent.

GEORGE WEST—From her flock of 200 white leghorn hens, Mrs. John Dunn of Live Oak county made $180.10 during a six months' period, according to Miss Linda Sears, county home demonstration agent. This is an increase of $64.94 over the profit she made from the same number of hens during the same six months of the previous year.

During the first six months' period, the hens produced 959 dozen eggs and during the second period they produced 1634 dozen, showing an increase of 675 dozen.

She attributes the increase to the fact that she has built a new poultry house, thus giving more room for her flock, and that she has increased the size of her poultry yard, thus giving the hens more green feed for the entire year.

VEGA—Floyd Mitchell of Wildorado in Oldham county reports that he harvested 1,600 bushels of wheat from 60 acres of land last month, according to R. T. Alexander, Jr.

"This is as large as any yield that has been reported in Oldham county for this year, as ninety per cent of the wheat failed entirely while the remaining acres produced only

"Texas Empire Builders of '36"

Every man, woman and child in Texas should know the principal events of the momentous period of Texas history from March 1 to April 21, 1836 — events that changed the shape and the destiny of the United States.

The facts essential to this understanding are briefly set forth in a 32 page booklet entitled "Texas Empire Builders of '36," telling of the stirring days which all Texans, native and adopted, are celebrating in 1936. The booklet will be mailed postpaid for 10 cents. Send all orders to Will H. Mayes, Austin, Texas.

light yields because of drought," Alexander reported.

Mitchell attributes this yield to the fact that the land was worked continuously on a contour last year and was drilled the same way last fall so as to conserve all moisture, that has fallen in the last 12 months.

In addition, two short terraces were built where a small draw enters his field and these terraces have tended to spread the water from the draw all over the field.

ANGLETON—Pasture land mowed for the first time in 1935 and cleared of small brush has more than tripled its carrying capacity on the R. H. Carr farm near Angleton in Brazoria county, according to J. H. Sandlin, county agricultural agent.

In March, 1936, Carr had to double the number of head of stock in the pasture in order to get the grasses and clover grazed down satisfactorily, and again in May another group of cows was moved in on the pasture. Now the total number of stock carried in the pasture is more than three times as many as had been carried in previous years.

A GUIDE FOR THOSE WHO MAKE OR HAVE THEIR GARMENTS MADE

Fabrics for the new fall season are the subject for this discussion—and we recommend that every dressmaker read the article carefully—as it is information that will be of value to you for the new season.

Want to say we are genuinely thrilled with the new silks and wools that are fashioning the dresses and coats this fall. As this is a silk discussion, we are mainly discussing silk of course.

When we say silks we mean artificial mixtures as well as pure silk since the dividing barrier was swept away some time ago. We take our hats off to silk manufacturers for giving us fabrics that are definitely suitable to fall dress trends. We find that they have developed silks that are rich, new and with more variety than in many seasons. The word "Quality" is definitely in. The public in general is truly interested in the world "QUALITY"—and incidentally they are more interested in what they are buying than the price they are paying—the fineness of the fabric, the detail and trimming are of importance. Price naturally enters into the picture, but it isn't everything.

The new slogan is a good one: "pay enough to get your money's worth."

Those who make their dresses or have them made want to be just as smart as the next persons and to do so they are turning to quality materials, fabrics that are new and different. People everywhere are learning the meaning of the word QUALITY.

Now before we go into the different types of fall silks, let's review the general trends that have direct bearing on fall silks.

In the first place the princess silhouette is definitely established this season and skirts swing with an easy freedom. The tunic looms large with shorter variations very prominent. The classic, pencil slim silhouette, is still with us. Skirts are shorter, varying from fifteen to twelve inches from the floor. Shoulders are definitely treated to give width and to accent small waists.

So you can see from all this that silks must be drapable, that they hang beautifully without being heavy, and that they also have a richness which is in keeping with a more formalized mode.

We find these specific indications in fall dress silks:

First: Indefinite weave interest manifested in semi-rough surfaces. Rough interpretations for fall 1936 are subdued and discreet for both high style and popular selling. The exaggerated roufs, you will see, are smoothing out and even matelasses are refined of surface.

Second: Dull finishes prevail for general acceptance, but satin back types are very significant since the contrast between dull and shiny is very smart. Shiny finishes will have popularity for evening fashions.

NOW for the different types of silks which are highlighted in the different dress collections.

Wool like types are very important this fall and are new—these are admitted into sports and dressier silks as well.

Basket weaves, hairy surfaces, mossy types, nubs and indefinite patterns are all importantly placed.

Crepes tend toward rough surfaces, but with a more subtle weave used than before. These continue very significant as a basic group and are seen in all price dress lines. Dull surfaces prevail but reversible satin backs are smart.

Alpaca and twill type silks are definitely back into the mode. The mid-season French collections featured them and we have taken to them, too.

COLORS: Black stands at the head of the color list, being in greater evidence than for years, in fact black will account for more than 50 per cent of the volume business in dresses. Next in the color lineup are the greens, following are the rusts, and then the wines, browns especially in the reddish casts, such as red earth. Blue is not as important this season, although there are some shades creating considerable talk. Evening shades cite black first, then the pastels and following the deeper, richer shades.

In closing may we repeat the word "QUALITY" and permit us to say that through the years this store has stood for quality—we have always believed in it—That new slogan which is really new with

INTENSIVE DRIVE IN TEXAS FOR NATIONAL TICKET IS LAUNCHED

With the second Democratic primary concluded, plans for an intensive, state-wide campaign for Roosevelt and Garner were being rapidly shaped up this week, drives for campaign funds, drives for votes, and already there has been much response, Texans realizing the people of this state must help out in the National picture even if Roosevelt is assured of carrying Texas.

James Farley, Democratic National Committeeman, is expected to be in Texas in September for a round of conferences and will attend the Democratic convention in Fort Worth September 8. The Young Democrats will hold a National conclave or conference in Fort Worth and Dallas immediately after the convention, while O. C. Christie, heading the Young Democratic drive, announces that three sound trucks will be used over the state and that his organization has set out to obtain $50,000 for Roosevelt and Garner's war chest.

In the meantime, due to certain remarks made by John D. M. Hamilton at Dallas, Texas Confederate veterans have become aroused. Hamilton is National Republican National Chairman, and in his Texas speech compared Roosevelt with Santa Anna, saying the Republicans are fighting Roosevelt as the early Texans did Santa Anna and the Mexican yoke.

Veterans Want Fight
This displeased the old veterans, and despite their years, (all over 60), they came to state headquarters for the National campaign, supported by crutches and canes, but the fighting spirit still existed in their breasts, for they insisted on all Texas taking up the fight on Hamilton and Landon.

The veterans from the Confederate Home here were J. M. Prescott, 82; M. L. McCurdy, 94, and J. H.

Kennedy, 92. All of them gave $1 in cash and a million dollars in fighting spirit.

"The least we can say about Hamilton is that he doesn't know anything about Texas history," McCurdy said. "Santa Anna oppressed and tyrannized the Texas farmers and ranchers until they had to revolt, while Roosevelt saved them during the depression. There is a great contrast, but Hamilton doesn't know it. Some one ought to send him a history of Texas."

"Roosevelt preserved states rights because he sent Texas and other states relief and other monies on which to live in our most trying times. We are ready for another fight, if need be, for Texas, and we don't like to see ourselves and Roosevelt misrepresented. If no one else takes the lead merely because they think this state will go Democratic anyway, then we will gladly take up the scrap where we left off back in the sixties. Everybody should contribute something to the Roosevelt - Garner campaign."

Whereupon McCurdy, Prescott and Kennedy pressed dollar bills into the hand of Miss Amelia Mallory, secretary of the campaign committee.

There have been other notable events the past week. Down at Galveston, Paul Page, Jr., fourth assistant Postmaster General, made the principal address at the cornerstone laying of the new Federal building, in which speech he paid high tribute to Roosevelt. Page is a native born Texan. He told the crowd, as a reminder, that while Roosevelt has been President only eight banks over the United States failed, while during Hoover's administration 1242 banks failed. "Andrew Jackson himself showed no more courage than has Roosevelt," Page said. Attending the ceremony was Governor Allred who asked for a copy of Page's address. Allred is to campaign in other states for Roosevelt and Garner.

Creager Is Optimist
Now, while Allred and Page were at Galveston, R. B. Creager was in Houston addressing a small Republican gathering, and believe it or not, as Ripley would say, Creager said Texas is going Republican.

Creager is Republican National Committeeman for Texas, and strangely enough, told his Republican friends that Texas Democrats ought to bolt. He overlooked saying that many Texas Republicans will bolt to the Democratic camp. In gratitude for the benefits Roosevelt extended to Texas, regardless of politics.

Roy Miller, State Campaign Director, is expected back from New York in a few days where he was called by Jim Farley to take part in a conference of Democratic leaders from all over the Union. While in the East Miller made this laconic statement:

"Well, I reckon Texas is a doubtful state as the Republicans claim. Sure, it is doubtful whether the vote will be seven to one or six to one in favor of Roosevelt."

HOWARD PAYNE WILL OPEN 47TH SESSION ON SEPTEMBER 7TH

The 47th session of Howard Payne College, Brownwood, will begin September 7, 1936. The growing West Texas college confidently expects the largest enrollment in the history of the institution. Last year, when nearly 1,100 students were in attendance, marked the highest point in enrollment reached by the college since it was established September 16, 1890.

The record of growth of this institution during the depression years is considered remarkable. As the depression began to make heavy inroads into educational institutions, the board of trustees of Howard Payne began a study of the situation. As a result of policies introduced under the direction of President Thomas H. Taylor attendance grew from 674 in 1929 to 1065 in 1935-36. To take care of the increased attendance, the faculty of the college has been almost doubled in the past three years. At present there are 26 members of the faculty, with training in more than forty different colleges and universities. The faculty has an average teaching experience of twelve years.

Departments
Two hundred and sixty-nine courses of study are offered under the semester plan in 27 major departments. Special instructors are employed in physical education for both men and women. Seven teachers trained in the best conservatories of America and Europe offer a major for the B. A. degree in each of the several fine arts. Large classes are enrolled in public school music. Prospective teachers are required to learn to lead in singing. A wide range of practical commercial subjects are offered not only for degree students but for those who specialize in business. The college is classified for extension and correspondence work. On the campus are conducted both Saturday and night classes. Students can enroll any time for correspondence work to be completed in a minimum forty-five days. A regular summer session of nine weeks and an intermission of five weeks are regular features. The college is open to students every week in the year except Christmas.

In activities students are taught the winning spirit in the battles of life. McAdoo Keaton and Clarence McCarver are coaches of the Yellow Jacket Athletic teams. In seven years the football team has won five championships and tied for another. Several championships have been won by the track team and the basketball team is in high five. The college has tennis, playground ball and other sports. In seven years the team has won 52 games, lost nine and tied seven. A large number of successful writers and editors received their training in the college pre-journalistic school. The band is a live organization.

Board of Trustees
The Board of Trustees is composed of fifty members from 29 Texas cities, twenty-five business and professional men and from twenty-five lines of business and twenty-five ministers. Brooke S. Ramey is president of the board and Douglas Coalson is active on the finance committee. The trustees are active in business, civic and religious lines.

Requirements for Degrees
Degrees will be conferred publicly on commencement days in May and August. No degree will be conferred without a residence of at least one year at the college. The student must be in attendance during the last semester of his senior year. Candidates for degrees must be present in person to receive them.

Howard Payne College confers the degrees of Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Science upon the completion of four years of work.

In each of the twelve counties comprising District 14 which includes Brown county, there is a commodity storeroom in charge of a county commodity supervisor. The amounts of food to be given clients are not set in the district office.

Clothing Fabricated
All clothing is fabricated in the sewing room conducted as a WPA project. When the garments are completed, they are bundled and tagged and then transferred to the Commodity Department for distribution. The same method is used in distributing canned products from the various county canning plants likewise operated as WPA projects.

The number of cases eligible at the present time to receive commodities in District 14, according to records show 1,180 families, totaling 4,783 persons.

All commodities are shipped into the state in unbroken carload lots to centrally located distribution points to the different county warehouses. Perishable commodities are not shipped to cities and counties not having proper cold storage facilities.

The Federal Surplus Commodity Corporation receives its supplies chiefly from purchases made by the Commodity Purchase Section of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration with funds made available by Congress from customs duties collected in the preceding fiscal year. The Distribution Department is responsible to the Works Progress Administration for the efficient use of men, materials, equipment and for the proper expenditure of the funds allotted.

The Federal Surplus Commodity Corporation was organized with a view to increase returns to the producers, to prevent waste of farm products, to provide a more balanced and adequate diet for the undernourished and to develop domestic consumption through the diversion of surpluses from the normal channels of trade and commerce. If these large surpluses of agricultural commodities were sold on commercial market, the would seriously depress prices, and in many cases these surpluses would be unharvested and wasted.

Buy From Surplus
The question is often asked by relief clients and various public officials why certain commodities are available instead of other commodities, that, in their opinion, would be more suitable for distribution to relief clients. The reason for this, Mr. Allen explained, is that "the primary purpose of the purchase of surplus commodities is not to furnish food for relief clients but to relieve the growers of surpluses that would depress the market and to increase domestic consumption. Only these commodities which have been determined as surpluses in some part of the United States are made available for relief distribution."

On instructions from Washington the commissary system of distribution is being done away with, and in its place the door-to-door, and point-to-point systems of distribution which are believed will be more satisfactory from the social as well as the economical viewpoint will be established.
