Domino Artists Have Heated Contests Defending Honors

Players Urgently Request That Tournament Be Made Monthly Affair

The first domino tournament to be held in this city was held last Thursday night at the Legion Hall with entries from all over Donley county. 36 entries started the play 24 being entered in the singles and 12 in the doubles.

The doubles were won by the team of O. D. Liesberg and J. D. McAdams winning straight sets throughout the meet never to be beaten in a set.

The singles went to G. L. Boykin with Carl Parsons as runner-up after a hot finish in which Boykin lucked out and won 7 straight sets to finish in the lead over the 24 entries. A beautiful set of ivory dominos were awarded the winners in doubles and the winner and runner-up in singles won the silver engraved loving cup presented for this event.

The cup will remain as a trophy for the following tournaments to be staged by the club and any man winning it three times will come into permanent possession.

Another tournament is being planned by the Cornwallis Domino Club in the near future and those interested are asked to watch for the next announcement.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Humphrey of Channing spent the week end with relatives here.

Man Jugged After Beating Woman With Full Beer Bottle

Both Jailed Here Pending Further Investigation of Past Records

A man giving his name as J. D. Adams and a woman hitch-hiker companion giving the name of Jackie Coleman were brought here from Claude Monday by Sheriff Pierce who is making further investigation of the past record of the man who claims to be an ex-convict.

The two were picked up near Memphis by Foster Rascoe and Tom Longshore Sunday afternoon. When this side of Lelia, Adams is said to have become jealous of the attentions being shown the driver by his woman companion, and struck her over the head and dragged her from the car.

The car ran into the ditch but was gotten out by the Memphis men who beat a hasty retreat. At this juncture, the woman alleges that Adams dragged her to a plum thicket and beat her over the head with a bottle of beer and stamped her neck.

The two had gotten back to the road when Mr. and Mrs. John Koeninger of Hedley came along and the woman stepped upon the running board of the Koeninger car. Adams is said to have made a "gun play" objection causing Koeninger to suddenly remember unfinished business elsewhere.

The next party to come along was W. D. Perry of Amarillo who found the woman bloody and badly beaten. Adams, her companion, claimed to have had a car wreck and asked that they be allowed to ride.

The three came through Clarendon, but after hearing the woman talk as they went towards Claude, Perry became suspicious and turned Adams and the woman over to the sheriff at Claude.

Sheriff Pierce went up and brought them down here Monday. He later brought Rascoe and Longshore up from Memphis, Rascoe pleading guilty to drunkenness. The testimony of these men is said to have corroborated that of the woman in most respects.

Adams is being held on a charge of assault and attempt to murder. The woman is being held on a drunk charge. Finger prints have been taken of Adams and an effort is being made to find out more about his past record.

Baptist Babies Are Defeated By Grocers Tuesday

In a hotly contested baseball game here Tuesday at the College Park, the Grocers succeeded in taking the all-day suckers from the Baptist Babies by a score of 11 to 15.

The teams to play Friday evening of this week promise a treat to ball fans. This contest will be waged by the Grocers and Dry-goods men, neither having ever been defeated in all history.

Undeclared rosters claim that the collision will be something like a cyclone striking a mountain side. Just who will be swept up remains to be seen. Sawed off shotguns are barred but the bats are not limited either as to length or size.

Misses Lois Wallace and Mary Naylor were Amarillo visitors Saturday.

Gardener of 72 Marketing Vegetables Home Grown

Most men at 72 would have retired. Not so with W. H. (Uncle Billy) Smith of this city who marketed his first home grown vegetables at local grocery stores Friday of last week.

Uncle Billy has been a truck grower here for many years. He is growing more truck this season to make up for the loss on his orchard resulting from the blizzard in March which destroyed his most promising fruit crop of years.

The fact that he paid a two thousand security debt recently as a matter of principle, set him back some, but he continues to carry on with the vigor of a much younger man.

University Men Find Rare Specimens Prehistoric Age

Priceless Relic is Located Near Rowe Ranch on Spade Flats in Rich Deposit

One of the richest deposits of prehistoric animal bones yet to be discovered in this section that has supplied specimens to America's largest museums over a period of a quarter of a century, was discovered on Spade Flats the past week.

Prof. Sturton and Sam Wells representing the University of California, have been here for the past several days collecting specimens for the museum department of that well known educational institution.

The most valuable discovery was that of a species of rhino, said to be the first to be found on the North American continent. Word from the field of operations Tuesday is to the effect that the second rhino head has been found.

Another rare specimen believed to belong to the giraffe species has also been found, but cannot be classified until sent to the museum for further and closer study.

The deposit where these rare specimens are being found was once an eddy in a large river that is said to have existed millions of years ago. Peat deposits north of the river indicates that there is no question of a tropical age since fern impressions have been found when the chunks of peat are broken.

The rhinoceros and giraffe, species resembling those of today, browsed through dense tropical forests in Donley county long before the advent of the human animal according to scientists who have studied this section.

Donley and Baylor counties have contributed more prehistoric animal specimens than any other sections of the United States by reason of the large variety to be found.

Work of exploration is in progress at this time and more valuable finds are expected daily. As these specimens are taken from the rock or clay, they are treated with shellac or other chemicals, crated and stored in a building near the Will Chamberlain home.

McKee Delivers Graduate Address at Alaneed

Rev. Robt. S. McKee, pastor of the Presbyterian church here, spoke to the High School graduates of the Alaneed public school at eleven o'clock Sunday morning.

While the graduating class was small, the work being done there is said to be up to the standard and on a parity with that being done in the other schools offering the same course of study.

Mrs. W. M. Cook was called to Dallas Monday night due to the serious illness of her sister there.

B. & P. Women In Gala Banquet Affair Tuesday Evening

Members of All Other Civic Bodies Are Invited To Share in Program

The most brilliant affair in woman's civic club affairs took place here Tuesday evening, the occasion being especially arranged to celebrate the receipt of a charter from the national organization, thus the Business and Professional Women's Club of Clarendon becomes affiliated with the National Federation of women's clubs.

The meeting was held in the main dining room of the Hotel Clarendon, beautifully decorated by the management with an artistic arrangement of ferns and flowers carrying out a pink and green color scheme.

Beautiful program of hand-drawn design unique in context and bearing the seal of the National Federation were used.

Mrs. Bessie Smith was toast-mistress. Miss Lorena Steagall gave the welcome address responded to by Mr. G. L. Boykin.

An especially invited committee from the Pathfinder Club composed of Mrs. J. L. McMurtry, Mrs. Fred W. Rathjen, Mrs. E. P. Shelton, Mrs. James Trent, Mrs. U. J. Boston and Mrs. O. T. Smith was introduced.

Mrs. McMurtry spoke in behalf of the Pathfinders welcoming the local club into the Federation. Other addresses were made offering congratulations, each of the several organizations of the city being represented.

The principal address of the evening was made by Mrs. Fay Gordon of Amarillo, who presented the Charter on behalf of the National Federation. "Making better business women for better business world" was the principal theme of her address.

Rev. and Mrs. E. B. Bowen visited in Pampa Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Kemp and daughter, Miss Elizabeth Kemp, were Amarillo visitors Monday afternoon.

Young Lady Has Narrow Escape in Auto Spill

As if by a miracle, four occupants escaped with their lives shortly after midnight Saturday morning when the auto in which they were going to Pampa missed the bridge at the long incline between Jericho and Pampa falling some 25 feet to the bottom of the arroyo.

Miss Jo Veta Wilson of this city was the only one to receive serious injury. She is said to have received lacerations on the face and a broken rib. She was taken to a hospital at Pampa and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wilson brought her to Clarendon Saturday afternoon where she is rapidly recovering from her injuries.

Federated Clubs in Meeting Here Saturday

Seven clubs of the county were represented in a meeting here at the Club Room Saturday afternoon. Twelve ladies were present when the meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Fred W. Rathjen.

The question of adopting a county flower was determined by the "Red Bud" being adopted as the tree and "perennial phlox" as the county flower. The Red Bud had already been adopted as the state tree.

Members of the various clubs of the county will be urged to grow the county selection of tree and flower where possible. The tree selected is cordially invited to be present whether you are patron or friend. Your presence will encourage the pupils and be appreciated by the entire neighborhood.

Mrs. Pool Is First In Living Room Contest in Donley Co.

District Judging in Progress to Determine Winner Over Panhandle District

Mrs. J. A. Pool of the Martin club has been adjudged winner of first place in the 1931 living room contest. She is entitled to a free trip to the A & M Short Course at College Station this summer, her expenses to be paid by the Clarendon Chamber of Commerce.

The second prize of lumber and paint for a pantry goes to Mrs. J. E. Ware of the Clarendon Club.

Third and fourth prizes entitles the winners to paper for a dining room. Mrs. J. D. Moss of the Ashtola club won third place and Mrs. C. G. Knox of Lelia Lake club fourth place.

The living room contests are under the supervision of the Extension Service of the state A & M college, the local County Home Demonstration agent having direct charge of the work.

The object of the contest is to encourage interest in better living rooms making them more attractive and comfortable. To further instruct in best methods of using the material at hand for best results at a minimum of expense.

The principal improvements were noted in the construction of and refinishing of furniture, painting and papering, and the making of home made rugs.

Quite a number purchased floor coverings, rugs, draperies and other articles that added materially to the appearance of the interior of their homes.

According to reports given in to the C H D agent, the smallest sum spent was twenty-five cents, the largest amount $275, and of the 132 women interested in the work in the county, they spent a total of $1300.30.

Miss Sallie B. Hill, District Agent, is expected here next week to judge the winners of Donley county in order to select the winners over the district.

Old Fiddlers May Enter Names Now In July 4th Contest

Must be Residents of Trade Territory to Clarendon And Over 40 Years Old

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce held here Tuesday afternoon the matter of having an old fiddlers contest during the 4th of July celebration, was definitely settled.

Entrants must reside in Donley or adjoining counties. That means that he must live in Donley, Hall, Briscoe, Gray, Armstrong or Collingsworth counties.

The entrants must be at least forty years of age. This age limit was set in order to give the older boys whose joints have stiffened a better chance.

Just what prizes will be offered, has not been definitely determined, but it will be well worth the time of the fiddler.

A square dance will be given on the street. Modern dancing will be barred according to information furnished the Leader. Rules for the fiddling contest and the dance will be announced in due time and rigidly followed.

Old fiddlers who wish to register now, may do so either with T. D. Nored at the office of the West Texas Utilities office, or with J. C. Estlack at the Leader office. Several have already expressed a strong desire to enter this contest, and the competition of skill will be lively.

Graduating.

You don't get a sheep skin from the school of experience. You get your own removed.

Resourceful.

A Butler Georgia exchange last week ran a watermelon advertisement illustrated with a pumpkin. We've often illustrated a Jersey cow ad with the picture of a jackass, but had never developed any vegetable ideas.

New Business.

The fact that intimation of an investigation of a certain state of office produced two suicides, does not mean that the undertakers were the instigators of a wholesale investigation of a number of state offices.

Prehistoric.

Arthur Blohm of Temple claims to have found a petrified ham while selecting odd shaped building stone on a farm near that city recently.

This is possibly the only specimen of a country ham extant or intact. Several years ago specimens of this species were common but gradually became extinct as gasoline fumes spread over the land causing them to succumb to carbon monoxide.

Eluding Whispers.

May Day was celebrated with a luncheon on the 86th floor of the new building in New York City recently completed for ex-Governor Alfred E. Smith and associates.

The building has a height of 1250 feet with a mooring mast for dirigibles. The windows number 6,400 and 63 elevators will serve comers and goers.

President Hoover pressed the button that turned on the lights; Governor Roosevelt sent congratulations and Mayor Walker expressed his in person.

Farms of the Future.

Farms of the future will be either factory or family farms. Machinery inventions may make the factory farm. Should this condition come to pass, will the worth and sterling qualities of the young people from this source become lost?

These questions are perplexing the ablest economic minds today. Again, will the influence of the American home on the growing generation become changed? What effect does machinery have upon the contented mind? These and a thousand other questions are being pondered over by our best educators.

False Alarm.

Thos. T. Waggoner in his Claude News of last week stated that "the telephone rates in Clarendon a year or two ago were reduced by the City Council."

We find no pleasure in shattering the delusion of a brother editor, but the Council had nothing to do with it, and instead of a rate reduction, it was raised, and instead of better service, it became rotten.

The writer pays $4.20 a month for his office phone and $2.50 a month for his residence phone. Strange as it may seem, he can occasionally hear over the antiquated old rattle-trap equipment that otherwise good operators have to contend with in an attempt to make good with their home people.

Just Recognition.

In adding the best talent to the staff of the Amarillo News-Globe from time to time, no better selection could have been made in securing the services of Lyman E. Robbins of Memphis.

Mr. Robbins had held the position of manager of the Democrat for a number of years, and while some no doubt disagreed with his policy at times, the big majority of readers admired his straightforward method of telling the public facts it should know.

No other young man in West Texas newspaper circles commands a more outstanding place in the profession than does young Robbins. Here's luck to him and congratulations to the Amarillo Globe-News management.

Family Doctors.

For best results we are advised to carry our ailments to the family physician because of his intimate knowledge with our case, who will, if necessary, advise us what specialist we should choose.

This seems to be a correct diagnosis of the situation, but if the trend of specialization continues at the rate it has been going for the past twenty years, it will be difficult to find a family physician.

Doctors, like other folks, like short hours, very little night work and a higher scale of income, all of which more generally falls within the line of the specialist.

Many smaller communities at the present time are without a doctor of any kind. When one is really sick, there is nothing more comforting than to have a doctor in whom we have utmost confidence come directly to the home in quick response to our physical s. o. s.

Young at 72.

It has been aptly said that many old men of today who had a hard time getting a living in their young days, now have a son who finds it still harder to get a living out of the old father without earning anything.

In the person of W. H. (Uncle Billie) Smith who resides in the northeast part of town, many a young man may find much inspiration. This venerable citizen at 72 is an active market gardener. His first for this season being marketed Friday.

He follows this work neither from choice nor necessity. His means are ample to care for his needs, but having followed an active life all these years, he is not content to sit down and quit work. His small farm surroundings are a model of neatness. His home is among the best in that part of town. Flowers and fruits surround the home where he and his wife are spending their declining years.

Not Kicking.

The progressive merchant who at first saw ruination in the chain store system, today has adopted the method and finds his business greatly increased. The chain store method has taught the independent merchant to buy in smaller quantities and oftener thus keeping a fresh stock.

It also taught him to cut down his investment and interest charges. It taught him how to display his wares. It taught him sanitation, and more especially in a grocery line. The progressive independent merchant took a big step in the right direction when he learned to appropriate his advertising budget for the entire year.

Grocery merchants now teach their customers how and what to buy to effect a saving. The customer has learned to look upon the merchant as a counselor and seeks advice that is freely given, and of a nature to save him money which was squandered by the old-time methods of buying.

Country Hicks!

Every time this great country of ours needs some one to put over a big job, the country is drawn upon to furnish the material. He may not come from the rural section direct, but he laid a foundation there that gave him stamina, strength of character and determination to succeed.

Just recently the folks down at the Teacher's College at San Marcos wanted to send two students to the Student Volunteer convention at Detroit, Michigan. The records of dozens of pupils were carefully scanned. The fitness in general was given more careful study.

When the selection was finally made, it fell to the lot of two, a boy and a girl, to represent that great school up there among thousands. Miss Lois Gabriel of Staples and Clyde Nail of Kyle were the lucky winners. Both were born and practically reared in the country.

The small towns and the rural districts are practically the same. Most of our small town business men are made up from the farm. The only difference is that the ruralite has more liberty. The small town is made up principally of folks who are concerned in the other fellow's business.

Parental Love.

Parental love is a dominant force in the moulding of character if intelligently directed. At the same time parents make the serious mistake of protecting their children from unpleasant experiences that go a long way in the shaping of character.

In the school of hard knocks, the training is said to be superior and most lasting. This school issues no sleep skin at graduation time, but on the other hand it often takes skin off.

A strong mother love is a constant source of divine inspiration to the average child, but when carried to the extreme of offering excuses for misbehavior, sudden fits of temperment, determination to have one's way regardless of the consequences, it becomes a menace to the well-being of the object of that mother's affection.

Gangster warfare as we know it today, is recruited from the homes of lax discipline. It was unknown in the good old-fashioned American home. There are occasions in training children when the parent is compelled to appear cruel to be kind, when faults must be corrected with a firm hand or suffer from the sins of renegade offspring.

Mark Twain said that "the training of a child should begin two hundred years before it is born." There is a whole lot of truth in that statement too. Children from renegade parents must depend upon environment under such circumstances, and heredity is usually as strong or stronger than environment.

OUR WEEKLY CHURCH CHAT

"Procrastination."

The "putting off till some other time" habit is by no means rare, but always injurious. An old proverb says: "It is better to be idle, than to be doing, but to no purpose." That is so, but to be busy about things that really matter is the ideal attainment. Hosts of people intend well; they simply postpone the matter, and act as though unlimited time was theirs and countless opportunities would yet present themselves. The first need is to improve the present opportunities; the future will bring others.

It is well to cultivate the habit of economizing time. It is said that the more busy a man is, the more leisure does he apparently possess. This is paradoxical, but expresses a great truth.

It is said that the famous artist, Apelles, thought that day was lost upon which he did not use his pencil; hence the celebrated proverb:

No Monkey Business

Getting ahead in life and making provision for the day when income may be reduced is no monkey business.

Your income may be small—but so is the organ grinder's, still many of them have been found to have saved thousands of dollars and property too. Obviously they saved in small amounts, and saved and saved. Then made their money work for them.

Job Printing Department Working Nights

Incident to school closing time with the printing of numerous programs and cards in addition to the regular run of 'job printing', the Leader force has been forced to work nights.

Several large runs were made for out of town firms, a source from which much of the job printing comes. Two jobs were printed for a Dallas firm over the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Price of Wichita Falls spent the week end here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Price.

After suffering declining health for some three years, Rev. E. H. Kennedy recently spent some time in Baylor Hospital at Dallas where his trouble yielded to electrical treatment enabling him to return home in excellent spirits and health restored.

Geo. H. McCleskey left Monday to attend a state convention of mutual insurance agents at Dallas expecting to be away most of the week.

PART II

Day was beginning to break and I began to set things in order in the cabin. Several times I tip-toed over to the unconscious girl and saw that she was breathing regular and that she was improving. I knew that she would be much better when this stupor wore off.

By this time I noticed that she was extremely beautiful, she was young, not more than twenty-five, and I thought that her skin was the fairest that I had ever looked upon. Her lips, I could have sworn they were painted had not the cut of her belted dress and the way that her dark brown hair, was piled loose upon her head, told me that she was a girl that knew very little about modern civilization. She was a wild young thing of the woods, sweet and beautiful as the flowers that bloom in the sunny South.

Next I turned my gaze towards the dead man. I gave a shudder as I looked into his face. It was a round evil face, with black beard that fell almost to his great chest. His long shaggy eyebrows reminded me of the pictures of giants and goblins that I had seen in the story books while I was a boy. But it was his eyes that were so terrible, gleaming with the light of the devil. They were the eyes of a mad man, that would send a chill to one's backbone. His lips were parted, showing his teeth, in a hideous snarl, like a beast trapped and ready to fight. Never before in my life, had I seen such a man, surely he was not the father of that innocent young beauty that was now sleeping, unconscious of the fact that the North Winds had won another victory over mankind, claiming for its latest victim, her companion.

I carried the man out of the cabin and placed him in a shed. I did not want the girl to see him when she awoke and I did not fancy sitting around with that dead man staring at me with those cold, glassy eyes. I knew that I would feel better with him out of my sight.

By the time the sun was up, the wind had finished its howling, and the storm had finished its mad dance and had blown its self away. I was getting breakfast when I noticed that the girl was arousing from her coma. At first she just opened her eyes and would toss her head from one side to the other. Finally she realized that she was in a strange place, then she tried to get out of bed, but she soon discovered that her muscles were stiff and stubborn and that they would not respond to her will power and efforts to move. Every attempt to move wrung from her cries and sobs.

By this time I reached her bedside and began to plead with her to lie still. At the sound of my voice she began to shake like an aspen leaf, but in a moment or two her fears seemed to die away and she tried to speak. I knew that her throat was swollen and that it would be some time before she could talk without it paining her.

"Now don't try to talk too much, you are getting along fine," I remarked as I saw the agony that trying to talk was bringing on her. "Miss I believe if you will eat a little of this broth and try to drink this hot tea, that it will make you feel better. They will help to loosen the grip of the frost devils in your body and set the blood to flowing more freely in your veins."

I pulled up a chair and sat down beside her, and began to feed her as one feeds a baby. Just as soon as the hot broth and tea entered her mouth the muscles began to relax and become flexible.

"It is going to take several days to get you on your feet again, you had a close call, mighty close call, but you will get alright now."

She seemed to understand what I was saying, but made no more efforts to speak.

I knew that it would require several days for her to regain her strength, and perhaps it would be weeks before she would be rid of the swollen joints and stiffness that was sure to follow.

She had about finished her broth, when there was a cracking sound towards the door, her face turned deadly white, and she began to cry out.

"O, don't let him get me. Please O, please I don't want to go back." I was on my feet in an instant, turning towards the door I expected to see a man or beast of some kind waiting to devour the pair of us, but there was nothing in sight.

I stepped to the door, and saw that the noise had been caused by a section of snow sliding off the roof.

"There is nothing to get you miss," I assured her.

"I - - - I thought it was - - him. Don't let him carry me away again."

"He will not bother you any more, go to sleep, rest all you can, that is what you need now."

A faint smile crossed her lips, and she closed her big brown eyes. She seemed to trust me, to believe that I would let nothing harm her. I stood by watching her for a moment or two and saw that she was dropping off into another doze, so crossed the room and sat down by the fire.

Many things were on my mind, who were this strange pair that fate had directed to my cabin, to this lonely hut, in the middle of the night? Where were they from and where were they going? Travelers were very few in this part of the country, and during the winter months, no one ever thought of traveling very far at the time. It was about forty mile to the nearest trading post, and most of the trails were impassable at this time of the year. Who was this man? I had been located here in this country five years and had made several trips to the trading post at Beaver Creek and I had never seen this man, yet he seemed to be a trapper and a man who was used to this country and climate. He was no stranger to hardships, this was a known fact, because his clothes and looks told the story of hard usage and wear. Several things worried me and my mind could have rested if I could get an answer to a dozen or so of the problems that were pestering me at this time. There was one thing certain, and that was that this girl was not a willing companion of the man, no matter who he was or where he was from. There was something strange about the whole affair, but there was not but one thing to do and that was to wait until the lady was able to talk. At first I thought that I was going to have trouble when I told her that her companion was dead, that he was on his last long trail, the one that led into the dim eternity, but after seeing her frightened almost out of her senses by the crackling snow, I reached the conclusion that the news of his death would be welcomed by her and that the sooner I told her of it the better off she would be.

My reverie was broken by another snow slide from the roof, and as the mass of snow fell to the ground, with a crash, my patient aroused from her slumber. Her face went suddenly white, as the floating snow, and she cast a quick glance towards the door.

Cotton Garb Will Be All the Rage Swish It Spic-and-Span in a Jiff.

Cotton is "the thing" for spring and summer. The craze began last year; now it's stronger than ever. For social butterflies and for country mice the story is the same, there are clothes of every kind to delight them. Grandly, dotted swiss, voile, pique, crash and gingham are prominent in the new styles. Tweeds are imitated. There are attractive prints. Eyelet and embroidered materials are on the increase, and will be popular for evening dresses.

Keeping these cotton wardrobes immaculate will be easy. Clothes can be swished clean in a jiffy if the porcelain enamel tub of an ABC

Sprinner washer is used. Then they can be dried for the line even more quickly in the attached centrifugal water-extractor that has replaced the old-fashioned wringer.

In these photographs by Joel Feder the striking red and white terry-cloth pajamas typify the attractiveness of the new styles in cotton fabrics. Under this beach costume is a pique bathing suit of white shirt and red shorts. The gingham frock has a plaid pleated skirt and a white pique jacket blouse. The matching pique hat repeats the scalloped edging of the blouse. Cotton mesh hose carry out the spirit of this practical, washable summer outfit.

MOUTH TROUBLE

Silence is golden. Men have made money by knowing how to keep in check the "unruly member." Lots of men would be rich today if they had known enough to keep their tongues between their teeth. The story comes to mind on an undertaker who appreciated this point. The body of an unknown young man had been fished out of the water. It was discovered that he was the son of very well-to-do people. The father came from some distance and, after a hurried visit to the undertaker's, was satisfied that the dead body was that of his wayward son. He made arrangements for shipping it home. He called the next day for another look at the corpse. The jaw had dropped and disclosed a set of false teeth. He realized that he had made a mistake, and cancelled the arrangements. On his depart-the undertaker put the body in a pine shell and jammed down the lid with the remark: "There, you chump, you might have had a decent funeral if you had kept your mouth shut." —T. P. A. (Travelers) Magazine.

SMALL STONE HOMES AT LOW COST

Stone houses are no longer beyond the realm of the small home builder. In other days, only the palatial residence was built of stone. Today, quantity production methods developed by the Indiana Limestone company, have made Ilco Ripstone facings available at moderate cost.

This cozy limestone home, Dutch Colonial type of architecture, has charm, comfort, compactness and is economical to build. On the first floor is a pleasant arrangement of living room, dining room, kitchen, breakfast room and garage. Three large bedrooms, with dressing room off the master chamber, and bathroom comprise the second floor.

As an indication of how inexpensively a stone house of distinction and permanence may be obtained, enough stone to build the house illustrated was shipped from the limestone quarries at Bedford, Ind., to its destination, about 375 miles, at a total cost of only $252. This modest investment, together with a minimum upkeep cost, makes a house of this character attractive from an economical as well as beauty standpoint.

This and similar types of small homes are becoming more and more popular throughout the country according to the Home Builders Service Bureau, Bedford, Ind., where many designs may be obtained free of charge.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Massie, Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Wood, Mesdames M. W. Cook, A. W. McLean, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Mongole, Mary Frances Powell, Louise and Mary Wood, Nell Cook, Misses Mable and Edgar Mae Mongole.

THREE ACES GET TOGETHER

Clarence Chamberlin, ace of the air, only aviator to fly from New York to Germany; Martin L. Davey, former congressman and ace of tree surgery; Chandler Goldthwaite, ace of organ melody. Photographed at the annual banquet of the Davey Tree Expert Co. Did Chamberlin worry because he brought no Tuxedo? He did not.

When the Davey Tree Expert Co. held its annual convention banquet at Kent, Ohio, Martin L. Davey, energetic president, wanted the artists of the Davey radio hour to entertain employees and guests. The entertainers were in New York occupied with many engagements; he was in Kent directing convention activities. How to get together without undue loss of time was the problem. Chandler Goldthwaite, renowned organist and musical director, found the answer. He and the other artists of the air took to the air. They came by airplane with Clarence Chamberlin, the only aviator who ever flew from New York to Germany, as pilot. Goldthwaite, who is a close personal friend of Chamberlin and an amateur pilot of considerable skill, was at the controls most of the time on the trip westward. Returning all of Chamberlin's resourcefulness as a pilot was needed when the flyers encountered snow, sleet and fog. Their ship was finally forced down in a field in New Jersey which Chamberlin located by the lights of a bus en route to New York. Approximately one thousand Davey tree surgeons, plus sales representatives, executives and office workers, heard President Davey assert at the banquet that he expected 1931 to be a good business year for them, despite anything that might be said by prophets of gloom. The Davey company established something of a record in the depression of 1930 by equaling its sales volume of 1929.

Citizens Sentiment Should Back Peace Officers

The Donley County Leader: Have the word of a sheriff of a wonderful county of the Panhandle that the abandoned "nigger" wench that Sheriff Pierce, last week gave a resenting blow to her head with his six gun, four years ago tried to cut an Amarillo policeman with a razor and said policeman felled her to the sidewalk with his six gun, and said policeman is still on his job. Every law abiding citizen in Amarillo, takes his hat off to this officer and every law abiding citizen of Donley County, takes his hat off to our county sheriff. There are always a few people wanting to harass, persecute, prosecute and execute any good officer trying to do his duty. "Nuff sed" T. Jones.

They returned to resume their studies in the University at Austin Tuesday.

Piercy Orders 2000 Pounds Orange Top Cane Seed

Cane makes a good roughage for feeding stock. It is a good producer in old Donley county. C. R. Piercy, rancher on the J A holdings, has placed an order for 2000 pounds, or what he believes will plant about 200 acres. He had a feed shortage this past winter. Weather had a lot to do with it but he will take no chances by planting a plenty this season. What he does not happen to need, he can find a ready market for orange top cane. He is one of dozens who are planning to plant plenty of feed stuff. It is now possible to bring the bundles in to the mill here and get it beaten into a bran-like state, sacked and stored away. Stock eat every bit of the stalk by this method, without any waste.

Clarendonite Writes From Poke Salad Belt

A letter received recently from our esteemed fellow townsman, R. F. Morris, locates him at Willington, South Carolina where he is superintending his farming operations. Mrs. Morris is also there with him. He writes that conditions there are not so good as here, though weather conditions and crop prospects are all that could be desired. While he mentioned the beauty of trees in blossom and the fact that whip-poor-wills had been chased out by the "chuck-wills-window", whatever that is, he said nothing about the condition of poke salad, a recognized delicacy of that state. Miss Clara Rigglin of Pampa spent the week end here with home folks. Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Arnold and daughter Frances and Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Liesberg visited in the Bob Lynch home at McLean Sunday. Mrs. W. S. Bagby returned home Monday after a lengthy visit with her mother and other relatives at Clarksville.

If baby has COLIC

A Chry in the night. Colic! No cause for alarm if Castoria is handy. This pure vegetable preparation brings quick comfort, and can never harm. It is the sensible thing when children are ailing. Whether it's the stomach, or the little bowels; colic or constipation; or diarrhea. When tiny tongues are coated, or the breath is bad. Whenever there's need of gentle regulation. Children love the taste of Castoria, and its mildness makes it safe for frequent use. And a more liberal dose of Castoria is always better for growing children than strong medicine meant only for adult use.

Canada's Confederation Railway Celebrates Golden Jubilee

The year 1931 marks the Golden Jubilee of the Canadian Pacific Railway, with 21,134 miles of owned and controlled lines in the United States and Canada. The Confederation of the various far-flung provinces into what is now the Dominion of Canada was contingent upon the building of a railway spanning the country from the Atlantic to the Pacific. This was promised the Canadian Government by the builders of the railroad, and so well was the task performed that the project was completed in half the specified time. The first sod was cut on May 2, 1881, and the last spike was driven at the little mountain station of Craigellachie, B. C., on Nov. 7, 1885. In the above photo depicting this dramatic milestone in Canada's history, the bearded gentleman driving the final spike is Donald

A. Smith, who afterwards became Lord Strathcona. George Stephen, afterwards Lord Mount Stephen, was the first president and William C. Van Horne, afterward Sir William, was the second. The building of the Canadian Pacific was the more difficult because of the wild nature of the country—so vast an undertaking that the Canadian Government, which began the project gave it up in despair just before the Canadian Pacific syndicate undertook its construction. Today the Canadian Pacific Railway, under the presidency and chairmanship of Edward Wentworth Beatty, is not only a railway company but the greatest transportation system in the world. It is a steamship company, an express company, a telegraph company, a hotel company. The Canadian Pacific Steamships red-and-white checkerboard house-flag is known throughout the world, and is flown by such great new liners as the 26,000-ton Empress of Japan, the largest and fastest vessel spanning the Pacific between North America and the Orient; the 21,850 gross-ton Empress of Australia, now on a cruise around the world; the 18,350 gross-ton Empress of France, favorite ship of the Prince of Wales; four distinguished "Duchess" liners which have proven so popular on the St. Lawrence route to Europe and with West Indies cruise members; and the new 42,500 gross-ton Empress of Britain, the largest ship to ply between intra-Empire ports. Every day in the year the Canadian Pacific is called upon to handle 59 varieties of money from all countries on the seven seas, which fact prompted its president, Mr. Beatty, to remark that the company is, in golfing parlance, "on up on the celebrated Mr. Heinz."

Chevrolet Motor Company Production Nears 1930 Output

April production of the Chevrolet Motor Company was 106,096 cars and trucks, more than 20,000 units above the original schedule for the month and within a few thousand units of the output in May, 1930, the biggest production month of last year, W. S. Knudsen, president and general manager, announced today.

The April output falls only 4,000 units below the comparable figure for April, 1930, which was one of the two biggest months of 1930, and compares with 79,603 cars and trucks built in March this year, Mr. Knudsen said.

The output for the month just ended was the first in eleven months that crossed the 100,000 mark. Repeated increases in schedules had to be made during April to keep production in step with the demands of the sales department, as dealer commitments were increased to meet the opening up of retail outlets.

While no schedule for May was announced, it is understood that the company expects to maintain the present high rate of output for at least the current month, with prospects excellent for running ahead of last year's production during the later spring and summer months.

As a result of the schedule increases during April, a full six-day week, including Saturday afternoon, had to be maintained at certain assembly points. All plants of the company are now operating at a normal average of five and one-half days a week. Employment increased 1,500 men in the month, bringing the current payrolls to above 35,000 men, working on an average week of fifty hours.

April output is believed to have led the industry, and placed Chevrolet in the position of the world's largest manufacturer. A comparable position has been maintained in the domestic passenger car market, where for the past four months for which registration figures are available Chevrolet sales led all other makes of passenger cars.

Rev. and Mrs. John Crow of McLean visited Friday with Rev. and Mrs. W. M. Murrell.

Mr. and Mrs. Neaves of LeFors spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. McAdams of this city.

* CHAMBERLAIN *

Sunday school was held at the regular hour with a fair attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Johnston spent the week end in Amarillo. Quite a few from this community attended the school play at Hudgins Friday night.

If you don't have plenty of Sand in your Anatomy it's all because you stayed close within your domicile Friday.

In answer to the call of the wild a company of boys spent Saturday night in a camp near sandy in the J A ranch. After supper the gathering was turned into a Pow Wow meeting. Indian dances and play was indulged in until late, then all went under blankets and the dreams of our pioneer fathers were reality. After being awakened Sunday morning by the shining face of old Sol, each camper arose and partook of a hearty breakfast of bacon, eggs, and coffee, every one reporting a wonderful time.

Before departure for home the following answered to roll call: Jimmie and Woodrow Millsap, Hawley Harrison, Howard and Royce Hughes, Frank Behinger, Lonnie Smith, Maon Johnston, Amos Yates and J. E. Duckett.

Our school board met with the County Board Saturday in a meeting held to classify the schools of the county. We are glad to note Chamberlain was permitted to teach up to and including the tenth grade for the coming term. Because of the character of work done in the Chamberlain school, and the demand for this grade caused the County Board to believe they were justified in promoting this school from the ninth to the tenth grade.

Sunday being Mother's Day, we wonder of the proper reverence was rendered to our best friend. If our mother is living, let's plant a kiss on her brow, or write her a line reminding her that she is the best mother in all the world. To those of us who have lost our mothers our mind goes back to the day when we sat at her knee receiving her caresses and listening to her advice and counsel.

Those were the good old days, and in our meditation, we are made to exclaim, Backward turn backward, oh time in its flight, Make me a child again just for tonight.

However careful one may be, dust will enter the finest fabrics, cut the threads, soil and discolor. This means that to last, your clothing must stand an emory stone test.
The lasting qualities of your clothing is measured by the care you take in seeing that they are clean. Clothing should be pressed often as well as cleaned to give them that appearance of "newness" that is so much desired.

Temple of Truth
By the Apostle

This is a fast world. Postmaster Chas. H. Bugbee informs the Apostle that a letter mailed here in the afternoon to go by air mail is picked up by a plane at Amarillo and could reach Los Angeles the same day.

Many, many years ago back east a stump was often the post-office serving two love-sick youngsters, each taking a letter and depositing a reply in the hollow stump. Not a bad idea. Many great men and women came from the marriage of couples who used the stump as a trysting place after an extended correspondence. John H. Reagan often spoke of having employed such a method in his bashful days after the close of the little country school.

Heard a good story this week. Two boys and a dog were on a hunt in the home pasture and becoming tired the three stopped to rest. Sitting on a log, one of the boys with face buried in his palms forlornly said: "Gee! I wish I had a million dollars." The second boy voiced his wishes by saying, "I wish I had everything in the world." The little dog wagged his tail gleefully and yelped: "Give me a butcher shop and a live cat."

You just can't take the country out of a kid no matter how old he gets, and there is no reason why you should. Barr Palmer, a leading professional man of Shreveport, Louisiana visited with the Apostle Sunday.

Barr is a top-notch down in Louisiana, and a former school-mate of the writer. He walked in and attempted to shake hands like a boy bridling a mule. He had changed a lot but I knew he had lived out in the sticks by his awkward actions. He sat down like he expected to start milking a cow. He got up like a fellow who would pour slop into a hog pen. He spoke in a loud, clear voice as though to call stock from the woods pasture. That's Barr Palmer all over. He lives in town where he says ninety percent of the population of men worth while are merely "country hicks" moved to town.

He's proud of his raising. He's glad of that rail-splitting, stump-pulling experience of his younger days—it gave him grit to keep on keeping on. He beats his opponents two to one every time one bobs up, and then makes the folks glad they voted for him. His parents still live out on a little piney woods farm and like it.

Speaking of being short! A local young man who wears a face that looks like an accident looking for a place to happen, swiped one of Jack Jones' pictures and sent it to a girl back east to get a better estimation in the girl's opinion. She entered the picture in a beauty prize contest and won. Now Jack has gone back there to collect what belongs to him, both the prize money and the girl.

The folks here during the jam of traffic Saturday were law-abiding if nothing else. Marshall Pyle stood on the street all afternoon to direct traffic and was not bumped over a single time.

If Donley county needs anything she needs some lick mills. Cane grows here to perfection and we have a variety of soils to make any shade of syrup. Several of our citizens know how to make it and we need it. The Apostle will advertise the lick free of charge and do anything to help market the product if some one will get busy ahead of the season and take care of this matter.

Here's an advertisement that is running in a Virginia exchange: "Just received a new shipment of Rest-Ezy caskets. Better get one now and let the heirs worry about the payments. Joe M. Perry, Undertaker."

A doctor in this town forgot to make sure of the name thinking he recognized the voice of a regular patron, and went to the wrong home. He never could answer the sick call and still is wondering who the party happens to be. He told me about it and asked me not to say anything about it, and I agreed. Clarendon has the only man who ever chewed up his own coat and didn't know it. He forgot to remove his false teeth from the pocket before sending it to a cleaner. The girl who sits around, home wishing for a new dress probably has a small brother who wishes he were an elephant so he could squirt water through his nose. While fishing in Colorado a few years ago, Lester Boykin was suddenly surprised by the appearance of a woolly looking stranger. Boykin dropped his pole and folding his arms said: "Mister I have come a thousand miles to view your beautiful sunrise." "Ah gawan," the stranger said, "somebody's been stringin' you, it aint mine."

MRS. WILLIE MAUDE VINEYARD

Mrs. John Vineyard, whose maiden name was Willie Maude Dye, passed away at St. Anthony's Hospital Monday night, April 27, 1931, where she had been taken only a few hours before, with the hope something more might be done for her. If human effort could arrest the messenger of death, our friends would never die.

We exhaust every means within our power to stay the hand of the destroyer, but it is all in vain. Maude (as we know her best) was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Dye. She was born at Gainsville, Texas, Oct. 16, 1887 and moved to Claude, Armstrong county, when three years of age. She received her education in the Lakeview school, the Claude public school and Goodnight College.

When only fourteen years of age her mother died, being the eldest of the family naturally her brothers and sisters childish cares and tribulations fell upon her young shoulders, but she was always equal to the occasion and this same trait of kindness was so embedded in her character that carried all through life. At this time Mrs. Amanda Dye Alwood came to assist in the home and these children will never forget the tender care and loving kindness of this dear aunt. Later another mother came into the home, Mrs. Ida E. Dye. At an early age Maude joined the Mt. Pleasant Baptist church soon after it was built on land given by her father which was a part of his farm. It was a great sorrow to her, as well as many others of that community, when this building was struck by lightning and burned.

Mr. and Mrs. Vineyard were married on Nov. 24, 1907 and in the same community where they had spent their boyhood and girlhood days they started their new home. To this father and mother were born four children, Mrs. Jesse Lowe of Miami, Texas, Willie, J. O., Jr. and George Henry Vineyard of Claude. Mr. and Mrs. Vineyard spent a number of years at Goodnight and Clarendon, Texas, while at Clarendon she had charge of the Dormitory at Clarendon College and many of the young men and women of that institution will be grieved to hear of her passing. Her devotion to home and family stands out as one of her most endearing qualities. She was a faithful and steadfast friend, always willing to give her share of service. Her life has left its imprint on a host of friends whose lives are better for the privilege they had of knowing and associating with her.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon, April 28, in the Baptist church of Claude, where she held her membership. Services were in charge of a former pastor and friend of the family, the Rev. Robert Pryde of Amarillo, assisted by Dr. M. T. Tucker and Rev. B. W. Wilkins of Claude. The casket attendants were J. M. Crain, T. F. Brunson, Charles Stewart, Charles Bagwell, John McClure and J. R. Green. Mrs. Vineyard leaves a devoted husband, two daughters and two sons, one grandchild, Rita Jeanella Lowe, the stepmother, Mrs. Ida E. Dye, Claude, two sisters, Mrs. O. L. Brunson, Claude, Mrs. Collier Corbin, Dallas, six brothers, Jesse Dye, Corona, New Mexico, H. B. Dye, Carr, Delton, Howell and Vernon Dye all of Claude. The remains were laid to rest in the Claude cemetery. A large company of friends were present to pay respects, and beautiful flowers were in profusion.

Dempsey's Downfall as Champion Due to Slender, Brown-Haired Girl

The world is well aware that when Jack Dempsey lost the world's heavyweight boxing championship on September 23, 1926, the title passed to Gene Tunney. But only a few on the inside know that Dempsey's real defeat was at the hands of a slender, brown-haired girl whose hardest blow, if delivered full on the point of the former champion's chin, wouldn't have caused him to bat an eye. The fists that failed Dempsey throughout that 10-round bout in which the championship changed hands were, true enough, the fists of Tunney. But the driving force behind the blows, the uncanny, ice-cold deliberation with which the bookish Marine met every assault by the "Manassa Mauler," were due to Polly Lauder. It was the inspiration of this multimillionaire social-register—the belief that only as a champion might he successfully aspire to be hand in marriage—that put craftiness into Tunney's boxing and wallop into his punch that day.

MRS. POLLY LAUDER TUNNEY

This often-hinted-at but heretofore untold chapter in Tunney's career is revealed in the May Cosmopolitan magazine by Steve Hannagan, constant companion and contact man between Gene and the press during the period of his climb to fame heights. Tunney's entire pugilistic career is shown to have been deliberately engineered merely as a means to an end—a short cut to the wealth and prestige that would enable him to meet and woo the girl of his dreams. This explains, also, the almost contemptuous disregard with which Tunney, those ends achieved, tossed the championship into the scrapheap for more mundane-minded pugs to fight over. The championship, as such, had no value to him. It had served his purpose; he was through with it.

Tunney's ring career, as revealed by Hannagan, was no sordid affair of fluff, cuffs, blood and bruises. Instead, it was the height of Romance. Love for a girl and ambition for the culture and refinements that would enable him to approach her gave strength to his arm. Love fought Jack Dempsey to a standstill and licked him—thus proving that even in the prize ring Romance is stronger than the killer instinct.

Wake Up Your Liver Bile —Without Calomel

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Beware a substitute.

IN MEMORIAM
(Mrs. John Vineyard)

Our friend Mrs. Vineyard has from us gone, To rest from her labor in her heavenly home.

While here on earth she did what she could, To rear her children to be kind and good.

She is now free from all pain and from all care In the Mansion above the Lord did prepare.

We can't call her back, we must to her go, It can't be very long we all know.

Let's not grieve for her, we know she laid Her work for a bright starry crown. She was a dear friend and too a dear neighbor, Now Jesus has called her to rest from her labor. Now father and children look ever to Him, Who is able to heal every sorrow within. For her, let's hold back every sigh, It won't be long until we meet her in the Sweet Bye and Bye.

A Friend.

Poppy Day Sale Is Set For Saturday May Twenty-Third

American Legion Auxiliary Will Sell Poppies Made By Disabled Veterans

"When can we make more poppies?" That is the question being asked by the disabled World War veterans of Kerrville, Texas, where the big hospital is located, where they have completed the hand manufacture of 140,000 poppies for the Poppy Sale on Saturday, May 23rd.

These disabled veterans get one-tenth of a cent each for making these poppies. This is their pastime and the only means by which they may secure funds for incidental expenses. Just as soon as one sale day passes, they begin looking forward to the next annual poppy day.

After the poppies are made, the veterans look to the Auxiliary to market the product. They have no other method. How soon they may again begin making poppies depends upon the response of the public in purchasing those that will be offered for sale the 23rd.

Veterans of the Kerrville hospital made 132,000 last year and 140,000 this season. If the Auxiliary meets with a ready response when it offers poppies to the public this year to be worn in honor of the World War dead, the organization will feel justified in placing larger orders for next year.

What the poppy sale means to the disabled veteran can only be determined by an actual visit to the hospital in the convalescent work rooms maintained by the Auxiliary where the poppies are made.

The prospect of sale brings cheer to the man who is sick. It gives him encouragement and in this small way gives him more hope and possibly paves the way for a brighter day after endless months as a shut-in.

The poppy sale is a continuation of the work of mercy and relief carried on by the women during the war period. Through the sale of poppies the Auxiliary is enabled to raise funds to relieve the distressed veteran, his dependents and the dependents of those who have died.

Instead of growing smaller, the demands are increasing from year to year because the veterans are passing on leaving dependents. Others are breaking as a result of the hardships in war service and become totally disabled to the extent that they can no longer make even poppies.

This constantly growing task of the Legion and Auxiliary will be in charge of Mrs. James Trent and Mrs. B. C. Antrobus here, president and secretary respectively of the Auxiliary of Aubyn E. Clark Post of the American Legion of Clarendon.

Colloidal Chemistry Develops Revolutionary Oil for Motors

CHICAGO—Colloidal chemistry, a practically new branch of science has made possible the perfection of a revolutionary lubricant for gasoline motors that is starting automotive and aviation engineers throughout the country says a bulletin of the Bureau of Scientific Research just made public here.

The new fluid is a concentrated extract to be introduced into a motor with the regular lubricating oil and with the gasoline, the bulletin states. Its chief ingredient is a liquefied colloidal graphite that attaches itself to the metal surfaces and is rubbed into the bearings under pressure forming a thin dry lubricating film which cannot be burned or washed away according to the inventor W. V. Kidder La Crosse, Wis., newspaperman. Once covered the metal loses its attraction for the graphitic element, he claims, and the coating never becomes thicker than 1-100,000 of an inch, thus not interfering with clearances at any time. Tests made by automotive and aviation engineers are said to have demonstrated that after a motor has been conditioned with this fluid an automobile or airplane may be driven for many miles absolutely without lubricating oil.

The colloidal graphite is produced in a special electric arc furnace at a temperature of 7,500 degrees Fahrenheit. At this temperature, it is declared, impurities such as iron, silica etc., sublime or pass off into gases, leaving a center core of 99.9 pure graphite. This product is then subjected to a special process which makes of it a virtual fluid that the inventor claims will pass through any filtering device, even filter paper and chamols skin, and will not precipitate in or clog oil leads.

Rotarians Are Harangued With Two Political Speeches

Extravagant Claims Made High Points in Attempt to Mislead Voters

The program at the Friday luncheon period was devoted to an allotment of time whereby Rotarians Paxson and Oscar Jenkins, neither of whom have opponents in the election to be held next Friday might make an appeal to the voters for support. The time was especially requested and freely given.

Rotarian Paxson in stentorian tones personally vouched for his qualifications for the office of treasurer for the Club. His remarks were punctuated frequently by applause and pleas to sit down. His main plea was based on the fact that he had held all kinds of official positions at various times, but had never been able to establish a reputation such as to be entrusted with any funds.

Rotarian Oscar Jenkins stated at the outset of his remarks that he had been nominated for an office that did not exist, and had therefore been double-crossed by those whom he believed to be his friends.

Rotarian Cole arose not to a point of order, but in the interest of peace and propriety, and asked that speakers desist from further remarks as nothing had been said by either of them that would justify his support.

Other members appeared to be of the opinion that there are times which call for formal eulogy when the kindest tribute is understanding silence.

Rotarian Allan J. Bryan announced the community trip to be made to Chamberlain on the following Wednesday and insisted that a large number turn out for the first effort of the season.

Rotarian Drennon announced a number of programs and dates incident to the closing of the public schools.

President Jenkins called attention to Ladies Night to be observed on Friday night of the 29th. He also announced that Pampa's Rotary club would share in the festivities of this occasion.

Mrs. John Carter and daughter, Miss Ella of Ft. Worth, visited in the home of her sister, Mrs. M. C. Reid over the week.
