Marvin Jones Has Practical Viewpoint In Graduate Talk

Touches Upon Incidents Of His Own Experience For Illustrating Points

Congressman Marvin Jones' address to the graduating class of Clarendon Junior College here Thursday night was characteristic of the man—plain practical and simple in both manner and speech. He made a decided hit with the class in avoiding flights of oratory and getting down to practical illustrations, many of them being personal handicaps that beset him as a farmer boy working his way to a higher plane of usefulness. His talk hinged upon "the pathway of life" without giving advice, paying his respects principally to results that might be expected from choosing between the good and evil that must be encountered at some time by every individual. Jones, who was introduced by W. A. Clark, Jr., Dean of the College, spoke for an hour basing the whole of his address on the requirements for good citizenship. At the close of the ceremonies, he was immediately surrounded by friends in all walks of life attesting the popularity of the man whose duties at Washington, and the service rendered the Nation, has made his name known to millions.

Mrs. Bill Bently and son Bobbie of McLean are visiting her mother, Mrs. O. W. Latson.

Dean Clark And Sister Get Away to Yellowstone

Following out plans of many months, Dean Clark, Jr. of the College and his sister, Miss Pauline Clark, left Friday for an extended trip into the northwest through Yellowstone National Park.

Should they find traveling pleasant, it is their intention to visit the British Columbia district before returning home.

Parent-Teachers Purchase Books For Younger Readers

Library Committees Selected For Reading Period Through Summer

During the past school year a large number of suitable books for outside reading for children of the different grades in the South Ward were purchased by the Sims Parent Teacher Association and added to the library in that building. As the books were received rather late in the year, many of them have not been read. At the last meeting of the P. T. A. it was voted to open the library to the children of the city one afternoon every two weeks through the summer.

The books have all been placed in the small health room on the first floor. This room will be used as a library. Children may go here every other Thursday afternoon, beginning with May 28th, from 5:00 to 6:30 p. m. and secure books to read without paying any fee of any sort. The books must be returned in two weeks. To save expense different members of the association are to have charge of the library on the different dates as follows:

- May 28th—Mrs. U. J. Boston—Mrs. J. D. Swift.
- June 11th—Mrs. H. T. Burton—Mrs. Rayburn Smith.
- June 25th—Mrs. Paul Shelton—Mrs. I. O. Noble.
- July 9th—Mrs. J. S. McMurtry—Mrs. Tom Pruitt.
- July 23rd—Mrs. J. H. Headrick—Mrs. Will McDonald.
- Aug. 6th—Mrs. Floyd Keener—Mrs. John Bass.
- Aug. 20th—Mrs. T. D. Nored—Miss Mongole.

During the time the library is open, a supervised play period has been planned for children out on the grounds where the swings and other play ground equipment may be enjoyed.

Next Saturday Is Your Chance To Help With Poppy Sales

Clarendon Folks Are Being Asked to Buy 500 Poppies to Help Ex-Veterans

Beginning Saturday morning, a number of little girls will be busy offering memorial poppies to every one whom they chance to meet. Every poppy you buy means one cent to the ex-veteran who can do nothing but make the paper flowers.

The poppy sale will be in charge of the Womans' Auxiliary of the American Legion as is the custom all over the States. The sale has a two-fold purpose, honoring the dead and helping the disabled.

While five hundred have been ordered for sale here, the annual sales over the entire nation average near ten million. Reports from the hospital at Kerville where the poppies are made, state that 142,000 have been made for sale in Texas this season. These will be sold next Saturday and on Memorial Day, the 30th.

Amarillo Paper Of Ancient Date Is Found Local Office Vault

Paper is Found in Vault of Sheriff's Office After Lapse of 27 Years

Volume 1, Number 272 of the Amarillo Star, a daily dated Friday, May 7, 1904 was found in the vault at the Sheriff's office by I. E. Pierce last week where it had evidently been laid some twenty-seven years ago when a bankrupt sale notice was marked up with I. W. Carhart as referee.

The paper carries a masthead with Mrs. R. W. Morgan as editor and her husband as publisher. It will be seen that the women had begun to step out and take the (continued to back page)

Mule Found And Godevil Sold For Sixty Cents

Noel Harvey advertised his godevil in last issue and found plenty of chances to get rid of it. Something he did not need but found plenty who did need a godevil by using our Classified Column. It cost him only 30 cents, too.

J. H. Hutto's mule was located within 24 hours after the paper came out. This mule had been lost several weeks and he had given the mule up as lost for good. The Leader's Classified Column found his mule, and one little notice did it.

If you have something you don't need, get the cash out of it. If you had rather trade it, you can talk to hundreds of men each week through the Classified Column. Try it like dozens of others have.

Charges Against Adams Has Been Changed to Fine

J. D. Adams who was being held on an assault to murder charge as stated in the Leader last week was fined for drunkenness and is spending time in the county bastille.

His woman companion was liberated after paying a fine. When she wrote a letter back to Adams using endearing terms, the officers evidently thought she would not make a very desirable witness for the state, hence the charge against Adams was changed to a lighter offense.

Boy is Seriously Injured When Kicked by Horse

Late Sunday afternoon while doing chores at his home, Raymond, 14 years of age and son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Shannon, was kicked by a horse seriously injuring his intestines.

A doctor was called and late Monday afternoon an operation was deemed advisable. The surgeon found that the intestines had been ruptured and it is said that a gangrene condition had begun.

The boy has been a patient at Adair hospital since shortly after the accident, and is said to be getting along as well as could be expected at this time.

Near Half Inch of Rain Fell Here Last Night

Intermittent showers over the week followed by four-tenths of an inch Wednesday night will be a big help to the wheat and crops already up.

Planting will be largely finished up the coming week, farmers taking advantage of the excellent soil conditions. Most of the melon crops have already been planted.

Dean of Tarleton College Addresses The Rotary Members Fri.

Members And Guests Enjoy One of the Best Talks Made Before Club

Dr. J. Thomas Davis, Dean of Tarleton Junior Agricultural College of Stephenville, made the principal address at the Rotary luncheon hour at the Hotel Clarendon Friday.

Dr. Davis is a thorough-going school man with more than twenty years of experience to his credit. In his talk, he discussed schools, pupils and parents at many different angles.

Going back to the days of the McGuffey readers, he traced the progress of school work and achievements. He spoke of the various stages of life during the pupil's school age, and helps, and hindrances that make or mar a successful career.

Dr. Davis' talk was plain, practical and convincing. He has a happy faculty of taking his hearers into his confidence explaining his thoughts in simple language with a most telling effect.

He spoke to the pupils at the Junior High graduating exercises in the morning, and to the pupils of the Senior High at their graduating exercises that night.

Sam Braswell, Jr., Supt. H. T. Burton and J. Roy Wells were guests of the Club.

President Jenkins announced Ladies Night on Friday night of the 29th. Rotarian Drennon announced the graduating exercises of the High School Seniors for Friday night.

Daughter of Local Couple Killed by Husband

J. H. Graham, residing on the Lott farm south of Ashtola, received a message from California Tuesday bearing the information that his daughter had been shot and killed by her husband who then shot and killed himself.

The daughter was married to Ed Newton some months ago at Pampa. They went to California soon afterwards where they had been making their home since that time.

Mr. and Mrs. Graham have instructed authorities to ship the body of their daughter back to Memphis for burial. The Grahams formerly lived at Estelline, but are at present living near Ashtola where they have the sympathy of their many friends over the grief that a deranged relative has brought upon them.

Cows Paying Bills Despite Low Price of Cream

With farming as an avocation, and all-round hustling as a vocation, Homer Newton is managing to get by again this year as he did last year.

A bunch of Jersey cows pay the bills with cream at thirteen cents. Homer feels sure that if cream gets above cost of production, he can make a little money on the side.

He is raising a dandy bunch of Jersey calves this season. He also keeps a bunch of hogs that thrive on skim milk. Newton's sausage, spare ribs and other hog products are sold from his farm near Chamberlain to Amarillo through the cooler months of the year.

Raise feed? Sure, but that is a side line so far as money crops are concerned. The cows, hogs and hens with buying and selling stock on the side make up a well rounded program of activity on this farm.

Retail Merchants Credit Association Monthly Session

Meeting And Luncheon Held Tuesday Evening Has a Small Attendance

The regular monthly meeting of the members of the Retail Merchants' Credit Association at the Antro Hotel Tuesday evening had a light attendance due to the golf tournament, it is said, many of the business men being too tired to attend.

W. H. Patrick, president of the First National Bank was the principal speaker. His subject was based on causes and effects of present conditions bringing out many angles that were new to his hearers.

Members who heard the speaker declare that this talk was one of the most instructive and interesting of any made before a body of this kind in Clarendon. The speaker drew on world conditions giving apt illustrations to bring out the finer points of his talk.

The business meeting and election of officers had to be postponed due to the small attendance.

The present membership includes forty-nine individuals representing thirty-eight firms. Curry Powell is secretary and Fred W. Rathjen is president of the Association that is constantly increasing its membership according to a statement made by the secretary Wednesday.

Clarendon Band Men Share in Lubbock Trip

Planting In Full Swing With Prospects Looking Favorable

Farmers Are Busy Planting Diversified Crop That Means Live at Home

With ideal weather the past several days, and ground conditions described as the best in several years, farmers of this part of the Panhandle have begun the planting of the most diversified crop ever before attempted in Donley county.

The one crop idea has been abandoned. Catch crops for market and the home canner have come into their own. No longer does the farmer expect to raise cotton and buy his feed. The feed will be grown on the same farm along with what he terms his money crop—whatever that might be depends upon prices this fall.

The fact that small grain furnished a pasture through the winter has been the means of saving hundreds of dollars to farmers of this county who did not attempt to grow their own feed last season.

More feed is being planted than ever before. Some cotton is being planted. The first roasting ear corn has been plowed out and is up to a fine stand. Except on the extremely sandy land, early plantings are showing up nicely.

It is said that the bulk of the feed crops and corn will be planted during the next week.

Donley county gardens are looking better and are more numerous than ever before. Plantings have been made with a view of using the home canner and storing up family needs for the entire year.

The banks of the four counties have encouraged a "live-at-home" planting program for this season. This has more to do with the nature of the crops being planted than any other one thing.

Reward.

It's worth all the pain of parting, and the cost of moving, when you get the royal welcome of friends when you return home again.

Enemy Values.

To have active enemies is one of man's biggest assets. They keep him humping to do his best. They often prevent a man from doing those things which he should not do. Probably that is the reason the Almighty created enemies for each of us.

Fear.

Men fear thought more than any other one thing. Some men fear publicity because it arouses a slumbering public to a thinking attitude—possibly a personal investigation.

Some men despise a newspaper for that very thing. Were there no newspapers, the public could and no doubt would be misled in a number of instances. That same type of men run under cover or concoct an extended series of alibis to counteract publicity.

Kingly Courtesy.

The King and Queen of Siam, now visiting in the United States, declined the diplomatic courtesy of bringing a supply of wines, their favorite beverage, into the States because it was a violation of our national law.

And all this happening during the week that a South American diplomat is raising a howl because some one entered his home at Washington, beat him up and stole all his drinking material.

Hellovanote.

A storekeeper in Clarendon who never does any advertising recently asked the writer why he did not "pour it on" on the mailorder houses more. In addition to not letting the public know what he had to offer, or what his prices were on a single commodity in his shelf-worn stock, his envelopes were printed by the government at less than cost, and his botchy letterheads were printed in a San Antonio sweat shop.

Law Enforcement.

When we contemplate the lack of respect, the disregard and disobedience unshamed practiced by some toward law enforcement, we are brought to a realization of the fact that some of our people do not consider seriously just what law enforcement means to us.

What would be the condition of this very section in Donley county if there was no law enforcement to deter the actions of the criminal element? Would we like to take chances on life, the pursuit of happiness and the accumulation of property to sustain ourselves and families without the protection afforded by our laws and the provisions for enforcement?

What other safeguards are we to rely upon for protection of our loved ones during our absence.

WINDY WEATHER

The windy season is upon us and yet the dust may be kept out at small expense. Ask us about it.

FLY TIME

Get ahead of the flies by having the screens looked after now.

Whether you build a complete house, or the ordinary repairs, we want to figure on your job.

WATTERS & McCRARY

other than our laws and the respect for our laws? Men pass laws, but custom makes them. It is our duty to maintain the custom that has prevailed in Donley county in the past.

Priceless Values.

To the young couple starting out in life whom good fortune has given the means of buying anything they might think they want, often find life a disappointment.

They know nothing of saving from week to week for the purchase of a coveted chair, or a new rug, a radio or something with which to brighten their home.

They know nothing of the long anticipation that carries with it the joys of expectancy, or the pleasure of possession when the article is finally purchased.

This is one of the many joys that come to the worker—the earner, and the folks worth while to the community where they live.

Cocoanut Cows.

Every time you buy imitation butter, you patronize a coolie in the Philippine Islands who is content to wear a breechclout and live on rice. He is used to gathering the nuts that enter our country duty free and are made into the colored stuff that is offered you as a butter substitute.

Real cream products cannot be shipped to the Islands where he lives because of the tariff. He doesn't eat real butter nohow, and what's more, he won't eat that imitation butter either.

That's the reason cream and butter are so cheap right now. Merchants in many places have agreed not to handle the substitute where the producers of the real cow products have requested them not to stock it.

Costly Delusion.

As a general rule, the victim pays for his own delusions. This is not true in every sense according to daily newspaper reports. It costs the taxpayers of this state $21,522 to convince Representative Bob Long of Wichita Falls that there was no fraud in Dan Moody's suit and agreed judgment validating Reagan county University oil land leases.

The suspicion arose way back there when Moody was Attorney General. If any of the others go off "half cocked", it may cost us more than this uproar settled the past week. If any of the other boys down there have nightmares, walk in their sleep or are harried by delusions, eat ants or have fits, they ought to be sent to the Board recently appointed to give mental tests and save a useless waste of the taxpayers' money.

Sunday Shows.

Governor Sterling signed the bill making Sunday picture shows legal where the matter was passed upon favorably by citizens of a town desiring them. The matter must be put to a vote of the citizens of any particular town before the shows can open.

This bill was vetoed by Moody, but Sterling, taking into consideration that shows were open on Sunday in number of larger towns in defiance of the law, evidently thought it best to let the people decide the matter. In that respect he is right.

If the majority of the people of a town want Sunday shows, they should have them. This is a nation of democracy. Let the majority rule. If a man's religion will not stand the test of a picture show, he stands a poor chance of ever reaching the pearly gates, if we have been properly instructed all these years.

On His Back.

The biggest problem of all down at the Kerville hospital is keeping the exveterans busy—keeping them from thinking about their helpless condition.

For months they have been making the little paper imitation poppies. The little flower that will be offered you for a dime next Saturday. His poppy-making days are over for this period.

That fellow who went into the war as a member of the "flower of the nation" today lies helplessly bed-ridden on a cot with 24 hours of every day stretching out before him with nothing to do but think of his helpless condition and in many instances the helpless condition of his family.

Every time you buy a flower you help some poor fellow who has no other means by which he can help himself—except to make paper poppies. He's wondering right now how the sale is going over. He's looking to you, and to me and every other able-bodied citizen of the greatest state in the union to create a market for his product—the only thing he is physically able to offer us.

Hard Luck.

To lose the convention, have a car wreck and be charged with transportation of booze is darn hard luck, and especially when it all piles up on a fellow within a few hours.

When they came to a sharp turn in the highway at Roby, a car in which the mayor of Mineral Wells and a member of the Chamber of Commerce were riding, failed to take the turn, ran into the barbit and—another kind of convention started in which a deputy sheriff presided as master of ceremonies.

That deputy was not headed for a convention at Lubbock. He didn't give a care who got it next year. He was simply poking around looking into things, and he found a few bottles of booze in the car.

A charge of transportation was lodged by the casual gent who refused to lend aid to the Lubbock jollification.

The Highway Department is to blame. Had there been no turn in the highway there would have been no wreck. No wreck no deputy, no charge of booze transportation. Perhaps Sweetwater will straighten out her highway curves before the next convention meets.

Comparisons.

Thursday, an hour before the regular hour for delivery of this paper at the postoffice, a crowd gathered in the lobby there to get the paper as is customary on every publication day.

At the same time the large waste basket in the middle of that crowd was half full of "direct by mail advertising" that had not been opened much less read.

Mr. Merchant, look into this matter and decide for yourself as to which is the better method of reaching your prospective customers.

Advertising in the Leader costs less than the colored lithographs sent direct through the mails. The Leader carries the latest news, births, deaths, marriages and boosts for all the trade territory.

The circular letter sent through the mail does neither.

The Leader is read by every member of the family—advertisements and all. Some of it is read. Often it is passed on to a neighbor whose family reads it. It tells the folks where they can buy the necessities of every day life, and most of the merchants name the price.

The circular or letter sent directly through the mail does neither. That's why it lands in the waste basket. It carries no message of human interest. It carries no sale value because it is not read.

Flag of Truce!

John McCarty of the Dalhart Texan, only man aboard the Mexico Globe-News special trying to use a night shirt on the trip, awoke in his upper berth as the train neared the border, and found his night shirt tied to the ladder sticking out of the window. Henry Ansley, who later admitted the crime under a grueling third degree assassination, will be tried in Monterey before a Mexican firing squad.

Golf Attractions.

The only person said to have been unable to see even a part of the golf games here this week was a bed-ridden grandmother.

OUR WEEKLY CHURCH CHAT

Faith is a principle of action. Every little infidel or agnostic we meet or hear of enjoys a sneer, when reading the record of Hebrews 11; but this they conveniently forget: the same principle is the one they act upon in every day life. Let the sneering infidel lose faith in society, and he may put up his shutters as soon as he pleases, and the sooner the better. Let faith cease and the wheels of traffic will soon cease, the foundations of society will be broken up.

All men have faith; but the trouble is, so few have faith in God. Even the scoffing infidel does not take a single step in the dark or move a hand without faith; but there is a difference between him and those worthies of Hebrews: they put out their hands in the dark and clasped another hand, the hand of God.

What is faith? We need not waste words. Faith in Christ is just the same as faith in anything or any one else. I suppose we all know what it is to have faith in any one. We trust him. A father one day was asked by his little girl what faith was. He placed her on the sill of the window and standing below with his arms open, bade her leap into his arms. She did so at once. She trusted him to catch her in safety. He told her that faith in Christ was just to trust Christ as she had trusted in her father.

Faith in Christ is indispensable. Without faith it is impossible to please God. Christ said, "ye believe in God, believe also in me." "We walk by faith and not by sight." "Blessed are they that have not seen and yet have believed." Here is God's own chosen way for the soul to pass from death unto life.

Lessons on Faith are all ways interesting, especially if they be lessons on the worthies of old. Sunday morning we will bring a lesson on one who walked with God, and the record of his walk was recorded for our benefit. Our subject will be "Hand and Hand Together." Sunday night we will try to present one of the most interesting messages that we have attempted since entering this field. Our subject will be "The Manifestation of Faith." It is a sermon on "Faith" that you will never forget. Will you be present?

"From Despair to Happiness"

(or Cupid in the Northland)

Written by W. E. Ferrell

Part III

"Where is he?" she whispered. "Outside!" I replied as I reached her bedside.

She seized my hand and spoke just above a whisper, "Please don't let him get me again. O please don't let him take me away."

"Don't worry, miss you are safe now. He is not going to take you with him on this trip. He has gone on up the trail alone."

"But he will return, he will return and kill us both." Cried the girl, "I know him, I know him, he will come back and kill us both."

"Miss, he has gone up the trail from which no one ever returns, the struggle last night was too much for him, and the north winds were victorious."

She drew her hand back from mine and the fear in her eyes died away, with a little shudder of relief.

"You have nothing more to fear and no one will take you away from this cabin unless you want to go with them."

At first she could not believe that the man was dead, but I soon had her fears abated and quietened. Little by little I could draw points of her story from her. She was almost afraid to let me into her confidence, but I was persistent, and woman like, in her heart, she wanted to confide in some one. Soon her fears were banished and then she told me her story.

"My name is Doris Spencer, my father, Franklin Spencer is a mine owner and lives at Dawson, that is he did the last time I heard from him. I was born in the south-land, the state of Virginia. Mother and I came north after dad had struck it rich in the Klondike gold field. Father was one of the first that joined the wild mob that flocked into the gold country in 1896. He was lucky and a few years later we joined him at Dawson. We were getting along fine until one day, dad met an old enemy, David Jensen, a man that had been his rival for my mother's hand. Jensen had been refused but he had sworn to settle scores with the man that had won his choice. Years had passed and nothing was ever heard of the jilted lover, until he met dad that day in the big store. The meeting kindled anew the old fires of hatred and sharp and harsh words passed between them in the store.

Three days after this meeting I was on my way home from a friend's when all of a sudden a man jumped out from behind some shrubbery and threw a blanket over my head to smother out my cries for help. In a few moments I was bound hand and foot and placed on a sled. For hours I could hear the rough harsh voice of a man as he drove a team of dogs across the snow. Several times I heard the crack of his whip and could feel the sled as it swayed from side to the other as the dogs rushed along. I knew that my captor was rushing his team of huskies the limit. It was night when we stopped and my captor freed my feet so that I could walk around a little. It was by the rays of our camp fire that I caught the first glimpse of my kidnappers face and one look into those eyes were enough to chill the blood in one's veins. I was soon informed that I was the prisoner of a certain David Jensen and that he was settling up an old debt, and that he intended to keep me where I would never be found.

For many days we traveled across the wilderness of whiteness. After the first day he would permit me to see where we were going. At last we reached a small shanty in a valley. For nearly five years he has kept me in that place. He has always watched me and I have never had a chance to escape even if I had known which way to go. He made me follow him on his trap lines and when he would leave to go to the trading posts he would chain me in the cabin and escape would be impossible.

Five days ago, he returned from one of his trips, very excited. He had learned that a party of surveyors from the States were working on the International Boundary and that they would pass down this valley where his hut was located. In less than an hour after his return he was ready to leave again. With his dog teams and all the provisions, we started on another trip across ice and snow. Every thing seemed to work in Jensen's favor until the storm broke upon us yesterday with all of its fury. He was not expecting this storm and we were not prepared for it.

Jensen unharnessed the dogs and tried to set up a temporary camp but the wind and snow were in such a mad dance that he could do nothing. The dogs began to get restless and wander away. We tried to catch the dogs knowing that if we lost them we would be helpless in this country at this time of the year. The storm increased and we continued to ramble around, in this way we lost our camping outfit. We stumbled along for what seemed to be hours and we were about exhausted when we saw the light from your fire reflecting through the window. We reached the cabin and that is the last that I remember until I awoke in this room.

"Well little lady you will not have to follow him around any more. You have had a hard go of it I am afraid that I have let you talk too much, so you had better go to sleep again and try to forget this horrible monster who kept you trapped in a cabin as the cave men of old keep their brides. Forget all of it that you can and try to dream a new dream about the joy and happiness that is waiting for you when I get you back to your parents."

CHAMBERLAIN

The H. D. Club and Chamber of Commerce held a joint meeting Wednesday night May 13th.

The purpose of the meeting was the announcement of the Fourth of July celebration at Clarendon.

The ladies served popcorn and punch, from which they realized the neat sum of fourteen dollars net.

Some few months ago the club decided to make a friendship quilt, each club member to furnish a block with her name embroidered thereon. At the meeting Wednesday night this quilt was disposed of by the method of placing a number in each sack of popcorn sold. Mrs. B. L. Blackman bought the sack containing the winning number. No doubt Mrs. Blackman will place a high estimation on the quilt because it's most beautiful, and too where ever her lot may be cast, and what ever her status in life may be, a glance at this highly priced article will remind her of the pleasant days spent with her friends at good old Chamberlain.

Miss Bettie Baker and her mother from Memphis visited in the Melva Rumpy home Wednesday.

Several girls enjoyed a slumber party in the Hughes home Saturday night.

Mr. Cecil Hanks of Marlow Okla. visited in the home of his niece, Mrs. V. V. Johnston for the week end.

Miss Mann of Hedley returned to her home after visiting last week in the homes of her brothers Henry and Gilbert Mann.

From the sale of ten pigs Virgil Johnston realized one hundred and ten dollars. These pigs were mostly raised on skimmed milk and pasture, and while the price of these porkers was cheap yet the profit in them was likely as much as the nets on ten bales of cotton at present prices.

Wake Up Your Liver Bile

—Without Calomel

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute.

CAR'S INTERIOR ATTRACTS WOMEN

Upholstery May Enhance Comfort, Smartness and Ultimate Value of Car.

WHEN it comes to selecting the family automobile, a good basis of procedure is that adopted by the sight-weary American tourist who said to his partner when they came to the next important cathedral: "You do the inside and I'll do the outside." The average woman is quite content to have her husband concern himself with the body of the car, the wheel-base and general mechanics, provided she may have something to say about the inside. The car's clothing, as its upholstery may well be called, is equally important with the rest of the car, for upon it depends much of the comfort, smartness, beauty and ultimate value of the car.

In choosing the upholstery for the interior, a number of distinct features should be considered—good appearance, smart design, pleasing color, wearing quality, riding comfort, cleanliness and economy. The only material that can be depended on to embrace these important features in one fabric is velvet mohair, otherwise known as velmo, and made from the lustrous fleece of the angora goat. Because of its original snowy whiteness, mohair can be dyed any shade, however subtle. Its lustrous sheen and soft, silky texture leave nothing to be desired in the way of beauty and luxurious appearance, while the long wearing quality of pile mohair, as contrasted with that of flat fabrics, is undisputed. A velmo upholstered car will be fresh and inviting long after the rest of the car has lost its good appearance or even given itself up to the infirmities of age. Because of the smooth surface of individual mohair fibres, discernible only under a microscope, dirt does not readily adhere to nor penetrate them, and the material is easily cleaned with a whiskbroom or by vacuum. Actual grease or dirt spots are removed by washing with pure soap and warm water.

Easy riding, an important feature when taking long trips, is assured with mohair velvet because there is no slipping and sliding about, as with smooth fabrics, and each fibre of the pile fabric acts as a resilient spring to absorb shocks. It is easier on the clothing, too, as the reduced friction avoids rubbing and subsequent shininess.

Added to these advantages is the additional one that they all add materially to the trade-in value of the car when the time comes to get a new one. In fact, it has been conservatively estimated that anywhere from fifty to two hundred dollars' difference can be looked for in a car whose upholstery is in perfect condition and inviting to the eye.

Back of the Institute's offer is the desire of Grace Valli Gray, its director, to ascertain the longevity of mohair. It is claimed that unless deliberately injured no instance has as yet been found of a mohair wearing through.

Readers who feel that they have something of interest should communicate with Mrs. Gray at the Household Science Institute, 7 South Dearborn Street, Chicago giving the history of the piece in mind.

BUSINESS PITFALLS IN FARM DISTRICTS

Bankers Point Out Hazards of Unsound Practices—Help
Farmers to Avoid Them

WAYS in which bankers may discourage unsound farm practices are described by President F. D. Farrell of the Kansas State Agricultural College in the American Bankers Association Journal. He says:

"In Kansas in connection with the importation of dairy cattle, a large shipment of very inferior animals came into a county to be sold at auction to local farmers. The county agricultural agent informed the bankers that the cattle would be a detriment to the community. The bankers refused to finance the purchase of the cattle and the sale was abandoned. The cattle were shipped to another county. The county agent and the bankers there did as was done in the first instance and the second county escaped.

An Unneeded Industry

"A year ago creamery promoters began trying to capitalize the Kansas farmers' desire to improve his markets by inducing communities of farmers to purchase creamery plants before production and local conditions justified them. Informed of this by the State Agricultural College, the bankers association sent warnings to every bank in the state, leading many to refuse to support the creamery promoters until the college approved the plant for the community concerned. This saved many communities loss from the premature establishment of plants.

"A third way bankers can discourage unsound practices is to refuse to finance farmers who wish to pyramid their enterprises, a temptation difficult to resist. This is illustrated among farmers who buy cattle for feeding purposes. A farmer feeds two or three cars of cattle one year and makes a good profit. This induces him to buy twice or three times as many the second year, still more the third and so on until he finally loses more by having too many cattle on feed in a year of bad prices than he made in several previous years with smaller numbers and better prices. When bankers discourage bad practices their action is a positive benefit to the farmers concerned."

WHAT A KEY BANKER DID FOR HIS COUNTY

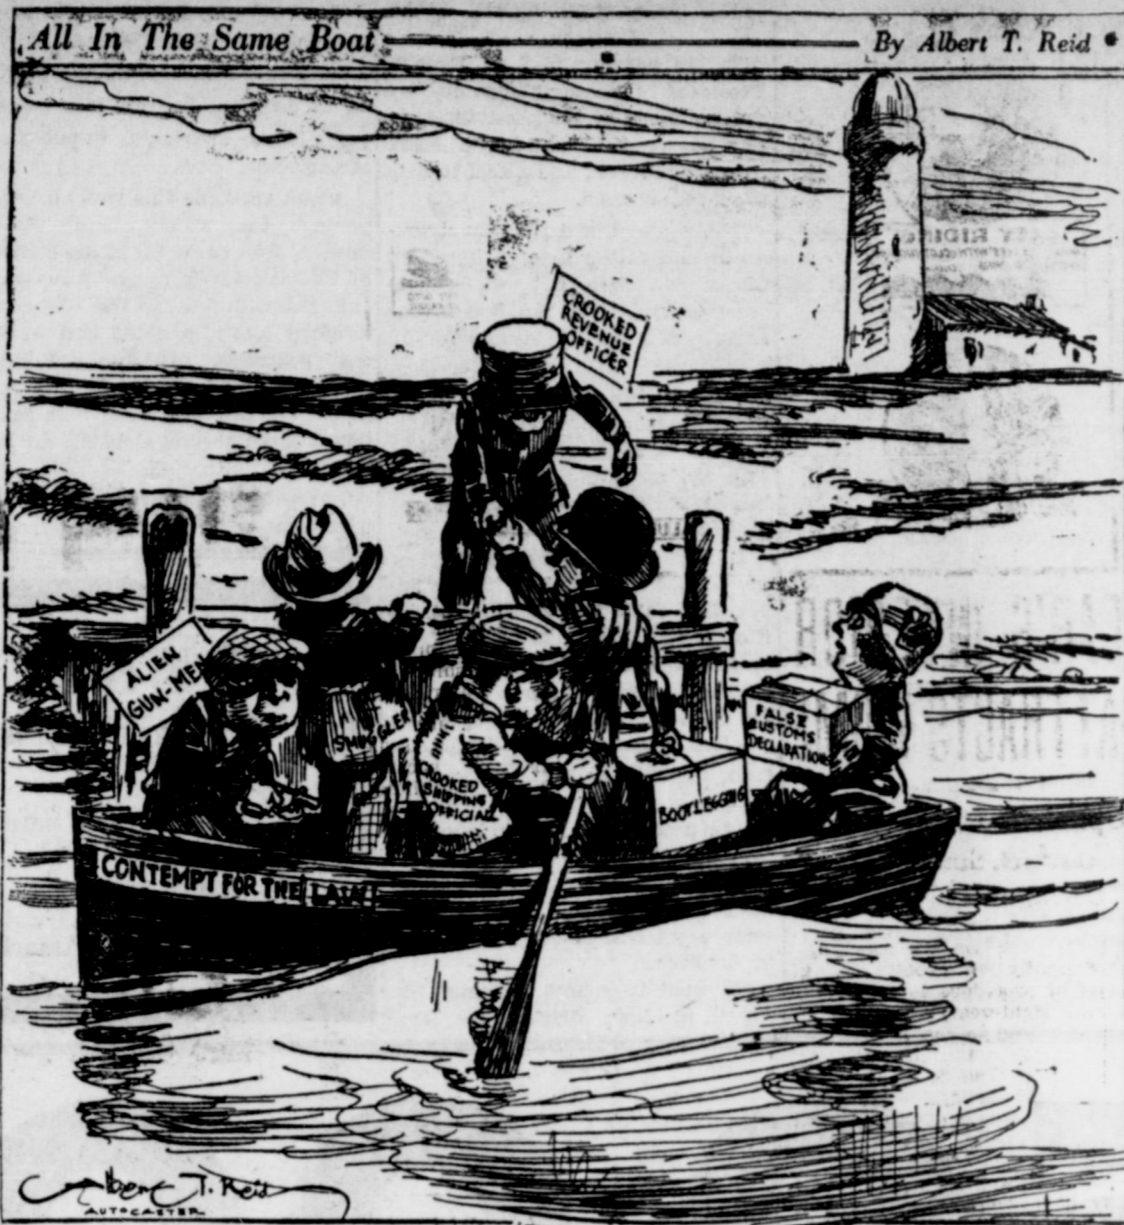

The farmers of one county in Tennessee are receiving $400,000 additional annual income from new farm enterprises started since 1926 through the efforts of a "key banker" and the county agent, according to estimates from the Tennessee College of Agriculture. A "key banker" is a part of the state bankers' association voluntary field force cooperating with the American Bankers Association in its nation-wide plan for bringing about better agricultural conditions through combined banker-farmer effort. New projects started in this particular county are tobacco, Irish potato and cabbage production and poultry raising for livestock.

The key banker, looking for something to do to better his community, first attempted to procure a county agent but was unable to get the county to make the necessary appropriation, so he and other leading citizens made up the requisite funds through private subscription among farmers and business men and an agent was employed.

New Crop Ideas

Up until 1926 grain was the principal farm production in the county. The banker recognized the disadvantages of this. It afforded a low cash income, and the land was too hilly and rough for profitable grain raising. His idea was to introduce cash crops that offered more return per acre and were better fitted to the county. It was decided that the county should standardize on the Green Mountain potato and to market it in carload lots. Through his bank he sponsored the buying of a car of certified seed potatoes. He likewise bought some high quality tobacco seed and several hundred settings of purebred eggs. These supplies were distributed at cost through the banks to the farmers. After considerable effort a market for dairy products was assured the farmers when in 1928 a national cheese company located a factory there. A county appropriation was secured for county agent work in 1928.

In 1929 the cash crop program resulted in farmers selling $45,000 worth of milk, $150,000 worth of tobacco and fifty-five carloads of potatoes and cabbage, mostly through cooperative sales. "This was some step from the $25,000 worth of cash crops in 1928," the county agent says, "and indications are that this amount will be doubled."

MOHAIR-GOAT RAISING NATION'S YOUNGEST AND FASTEST GROWING ANIMAL INDUSTRY

Every State Now Has Some Angoras

IF YOU are accustomed to think of the angora goat as one of those queer "furrin animules" that you would have to go abroad to see in his native habitat, it may come with surprise to learn that there are more angora goats right here in the United States than in any other country in the world, and that consequently this country leads the world in its output of mohair, the fleece of the angora.

The year '29 which saw the great gold rush to California also was the occasion for the entry of nine inconspicuous immigrants, the first angora goats to be brought into this country. Evidently they found their surroundings congenial, for they flourished and multiplied and sent for a lot of their relatives to join them, until now there are fully three and a half million of these useful creatures here, clearing off the brush land, increasing grain yield, and at the same time producing a total clip of 17,000,000 pounds of mohair yearly. Every state in the Union has at least a few members of the family, but the great bulk is centered in Texas, Arizona, Oregon, New Mexico, California and Missouri.

Mohair or angora fleece must not be confused with wool. Mohair is even stronger than wool, very lustrous and, due to its structural difference, much easier than wool to keep clean. Mohair has many uses for clothing, draperies, rugs and other domestic applications, but by far its most significant uses are for furniture and automobile upholstery, for which it is made up into a pile fabric called mohair velvet or sometimes velmo for short. Twelve million yards of this fabric are in use in passenger trains today, due to its extreme durability combined with pleasing appearance and fadeless dyes while over a hundred million yards, it has been estimated, are on the highways in the form of automobile upholstery.

The skin of the angora is used for making gloves while the meat, called chevon, is much like lamb or mutton. But, of course, by far the most important use of the angora goat is its mohair fleece which you probably rest on every time you take out your car.

John Howard, of the well known firm of Howard and Son, general merchandise house of Lelia Lake, was in town Wednesday and among other things stated that business was picking up down his way.

Mrs. A. H. Baker and daughter, Mrs. Henry Tice of Wellington, spent the week end with their daughter and sister, Mrs. Marion Cox and family at Panhandle.

Mrs. C. M. Peabody was suddenly seized with an acute attack of appendicitis Tuesday afternoon and was operated upon Tuesday night. Her condition is showing a steady improvement.

Mrs. Cousins and daughter Lee Christine are making their home in Canyon for the summer where Mrs. Cousins will take special work in the College.

Mrs. T. E. Trostle, Miss Marue Trostle and Bonner Trostle and Mrs. H. L. Brady, attended the rail celebration at Morse Friday, the occasion being the completion of the new rail line into that town.

Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Pruett and daughters, Ann Mae and Orveta of Wheeler visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Martin Tuesday. Her parents accompanied her home for a visit over the week.

Mrs. W. C. McDonald Dies Near Here Sunday

Following an illness from pneumonia over a period of some two weeks, Mrs. W. C. McDonald died at her home northeast of town at ten o'clock Sunday morning.

Funeral services were held at the Church of Christ in Clarendon at three o'clock Monday afternoon, conducted by the pastor, Elder D. L. Hukel.

A large number of relatives and friends were present to attest the high esteem in which she was held by those who knew her best. Among the relatives to be present were her mother, Mrs. Beasley, and a brother, Prestiss Beasley, both of whom live at Shamrock.

Besides her husband, she leaves eight children, her mother, three sisters and a brother of the immediate relatives to mourn her passing. Two children had preceded her going several years ago.

Relatives here for the funeral were her mother, Mrs. Beasley of Shamrock; sisters, Mrs. J. W. Hardy of Shamrock, Mrs. Willis Frost of Brinkham, Okla., Mrs. J. W. Wallace of Bowie; brothers, E. L. Beasley of Shamrock, G. W. Beasley of Shamrock, Robt. L. Beasley of McKinney.

Mrs. Ada May McDonald was born in Collin county being 46 years of age at her death. She was one of a family of twelve children, and the first to die. She had been a member of the Church of Christ since early childhood.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the good friends of the Martin neighborhood and others who did all in their power to lighten the sorrow in the death of our beloved wife and mother.

THEY LIE IN FRANCE WHERE LILIES BLOOM

They lie in France
Where lilies bloom
Those flowers pale
That guard each tomb
Are saintly souls
That smiling stand
Close by them in
That martyred land.

And mutely there the long night shadows creep
From quiet hills to mourn for them who sleep
The grieving clouds that slowly drift to sea
While o'er them through the dusk so silently
And lately round them moaned the Winter wind
Whose voice, lamenting, sounds so coldly kind,
Yet in their faith those waiting hearts abide
The time when turns forever that false tide.

In France they lie
Where lilies bloom
Those flowers fair
For they made room
Not vainly placed
The crosses stand
Within that brave
And stricken land;
Their honor lives,
Their love endures
Their noble death
The right assures,

For they shall have their rearts' desire
They, who unflinching, braved the fire.
Across the fields their eyes at last now see
Through clouds and mist the hosts of victory.

THEY REACHED THEIR GOAL

In the passing of S. P. Brooks, President of Baylor University, we are reminded of the possibilities of any boy or girl who has a desire for an education, and a zeal to help their fellow man.

The support of a poverty stricken invalid father was a handicap of course, but not enough to smother the flame kindled in the early life of young Brooks for an education.

From railroad section hand to the presidency of Baylor University was a long stride. This ascension was not only made, but retained during the remainder of the life of this great and good man.

During the twenty nine years of his service as president of this institution the hard work and clean life of Doctor Brooks was an inspiration to thousands of young men and women to qualify for better service to their fellow man.

Another young Texan who rose from the humble life of sniping with a section crew was Martin W. Littleton, who threw down his pick and shovel on a railroad in Young county, and said to his boss, "I am going to school," and some day I will be the best lawyer in America.

He went to school, obtained his degree in law, drifted to New York where he practiced his profession with marked success.

Though a democrat he was elected to congress in Theodore Roosevelt's home district, a Republican stronghold.

About the time this was all happening, the widely read Thaw murder trial came up in the courts of New York. Harry K. Thaw was charged with taking the life of Sanford White, a noted and wealthy sportsman. Littleton was employed as chief counsel for the defense. The prominence of both families caused the legal battle to be a long and bitter one.

Harry K. Thaw was cleared of what was seemingly a fold blood murder, and then it was that the prophecy of Martin W. Littleton became a reality.

He was proclaimed throughout the country as the greatest lawyer in America. All of which would clearly indicate that poverty is only a handicap and not a bar to the youth who has a vision for service.

Temple of Truth
By the Apostle

Parents who started fighting in a two room shack and home made furniture, now have a daughter who thinks she can't get started in a seven room mansion.

School is out. There is little to do so the old Apostle gets a letter of criticism from a "professor" who finds fault with our conjugation of verbs and various other flights of speech which he finds all wrong.

We'll never did claim to be a classical writer, a fluent speaker, or much of anything else, but we do know when to let well enough alone. This "professor" who slept through the class periods of three years at one of our leading educational institutions, advises the Apostle to brighten his column with classy style, big words and a lot of other stuff that neither he nor the average reader knows any more about than the Legislature does about the minds of the taxpayers after they voted them an increase in salary.

He absterge his glasses with an insouciant air amid the apopemptions of his profession, and is enough of the sciolist, now that he is man unmitted, to enjoy the rapidity of this abnormally developed verbal mind. By dang that ought to hold him a while!

A young man writes in asking that we help him find a job. This is no employment bureau in any sense, but we are willing to suggest a few things:

File application with a big oil company. Forget about it. So will they because they are going broke. Make mousetraps. People will make path to your door. Put toll gate on the path.

Learn to talk Mexican. Black your face and apply to section foreman.

Learn to fight and handle a mop in an expert manner. Join navy.

Meet girl who wears a real rig and has a good paying job. Marry her, and then you won't need a job. (P. S. The last suggestion is the best one, but pick a scrawny one. A husky armed with an implement of war, can make home life very disagreeable.)

The burglar who held up an ice house at Columbus asked for ice, but what he really wanted was cold cash. He got a cold reception and $23. He locked the keeper in the ice house thinking it would be better for him to catch cold than to catch him. The hold-up man may find himself in the cooler over this job.

The College Hill Widow says that just as she was ready to grab her fourth husband, she consulted two fortune tellers, one clairvoyant, looked in a sign book, deamed on a lock of his hair, talked with a medium and has decided not to go farther until she can see an astrologist because things are not looking good yet.

Just about the time school closes and a fellow begins to figure out some way to keep his kids busy so they will keep out of devilment, along comes a notice from the Board of Equalization saying that you can "appear before that Board and show cause why your valuations should not be raised for school purposes."

This school business is an endless affair. We paid taxes before we started the kids to school, we have paid for a quarter of a century while we benefitted directly, and now that they will all be through school soon, we will keep on paying.

Paying school taxes is not so hard because there is a direct result facing us every day where we can see how the money is being spent.

Paying taxes on bonds, warrants and other stuff that we merely hear about and know nothing about directly, always seemed like throwing money away, or a big part of it. It's too much like a poker game to be pleasing to the fellow who foots the bill. It's like pouring water into a mole hole—there is room for more the longer it runs.

To avoid these vexing problems one must be as ignorant as the city lad who, when he found a bunch of condensed milk cans that had been thrown in the alley, ran home and told his mother that he "had found a cow's nest."

The old city is rocking right along while the Honorable Mayor is down in old Mexico looking at the beautiful señoritas hearing the sweet singers dispense "La Paloma and "Sobre la Orr."

Gosh! But I'd like to be with him.

Serious trouble awaits his return and what I mean it's serious. Just before he left he made a "scurrilous" attack on the dignity, standing and character of Jack county. He lived 40 feet over the line on the Wise end of Jack and always takes a pride in displaying a blue print to prove it.

He said that after the Jack county folks ate turnip greens all winter, they now had to soak their shoes in turpentine to keep the cut worms from chopping their legs off.

A. N. Wood, Jackcountyite and proud of it, says it is the truth but should never have been told. In fact Wood says they called out the National Guard to protect the children the first warm days this spring. The cut worms were so thick that an enterprising yankee came down and baled them and sold them to the soap factory at Ft. Worth for four dollars a ton. He's now living in California, and you know about how much he must have made.

Why is it that a doctor prescribes a diet including only the things that the patient does not like?

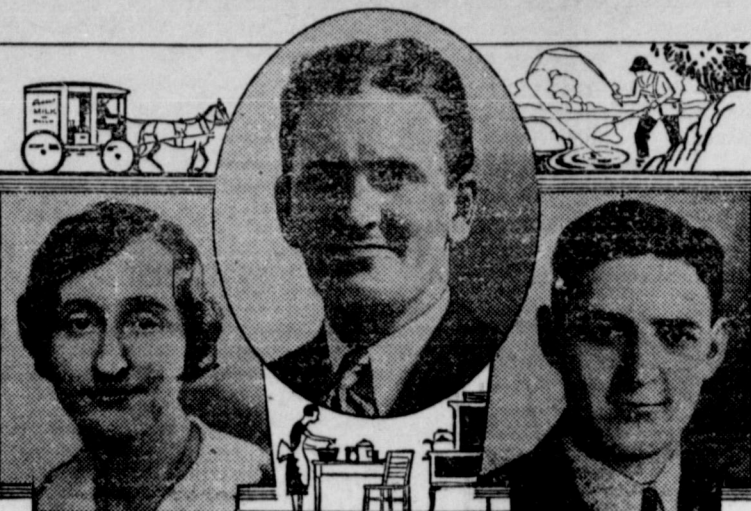

This is the time of the year when every man wants to get out and plow—except the man who has to do it.

Armed with saddle, bridle, blanket, shop made boots, seven gallon sombrero, six shooter, lariat and bowie knife, S. A. Pierce is leaving Sunday to take to the wilds of a canyon south of Dalhart far removed from the pests of modern man.

He expects to be gone all summer. Locked up his shoe repair shop. Disgusted with jellybeans and drug store cowboys. He wants to get out where real "he" men move and have their being. He wants to ride a Mexican lion and whip him with a rattlesnake.

Here's luck to him, and may the Lord have mercy on the lion.

Prominent among the thousands of concerns using large fleets of Chevrolets are many of the leaders of American industry. In fact, 73 outstanding business firms have purchased a total of 27,605 Chevrolet cars and trucks.

The reason for this preference lies in the unexcelled economy of Chevrolet cars and trucks, as proved by official cost records. These records show that 20 miles to the gallon is a common occurrence among Chevrolet cars. That oil expense is extremely low. That Chevrolet cars and trucks require only a minimum of service attention. That they give satisfactory low-cost service over exceptionally long periods of time.

Naturally, a car with such a fine record of economy represents an extremely wise investment for any buyer! Especially so, when you consider the many advantages that Chevrolet offers above and beyond economical operation. Come in and learn what these advantages are—what they mean in terms of style, comfort, safety, reliability and value.

AMARILLO PAPER OF—

 helm even at that early date.

A front page article refers to the demands for a college for Amarillo. Dr. Nunn is making a plea for financial backing. Keen would have been their disappointment could they have looked into the future with a quarter of a century passing before the need is supplied.

Lon D. Marrs was county judge, W. C. Kenyon was an "undertaker" and Siddon had the leading meat market. The first Chinese cafe had just opened and some one shot a Chink through the shoulder the first night. No one was punished except the Chink.

The Methodist people were all stirred up about whether to dance or not to dance, taking up a front page column in discussing the problem with Bishop Cranston who "wanted the newspapers to stay out of it."

Madrey & Kenyon appear to have the furniture business of the town from a large "front page" advertisement. John Edge advertises the fact that he makes a specialty of "pure whiskey", imported and domestic wines at his saloon opposite the Union Depot.

That too, was before the epidemic of "ethics" for we note that Drs. Caldwell, Patton and Lumpkin each have an advertisement telling the folks of their leading specialties.

Rev. H. C. Goodman was Rector of the Episcopal church. No other churches are mentioned though they had a few but did not care to let the public hear about it.

The list of high school graduates was limited to Paul Morrow, Donley Martin, Clark Blake, Paul Pierson, Louise Moore, Johnnie Cartwright, Winnie Trigg, Ethel Roland and Mary Bell Pottinger.

Gouldy Brothers advertise that they want to trade "town lots" for a horse and buggy. Property was slightly cheaper then than now.

The Rock Island offers a round trip ticket to the World's Fair at St. Louis for $36.20. That is for the season. A round trip fare limited to a few days could be purchased for only $15.80.

J. H. Fleming, live stock reporter, prices prime steers at $4.55 to $4.70. He reports the range short and very dry. He advocates "raising" feed for winter use.

Land in large bodies is offered by the Will A. Miller Land Co. at two to five dollars an acre. They advertise three million acres at these prices.

MacDowell Members Have Picnic Thursday

The members of the MacDowell Club honored Miss Grace Sample and Mr. Robert S. Cope, accompanist and director respectively of the Club, with a picnic supper at the Country Club Thursday evening.

Games of bridge and "42" were played in the club house, favors of unique design being a highly prized portion of the evening's entertainment.

Misses Hazel and Ava Hefner of Naylor, visited Mrs. F. M. Barton and Miss Gertrude Shepherd Thursday and Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Moss and children spent the week end at Willow, Oklahoma visiting the aged parents of Mr. Moss.

GEORGIA WOMAN IS—

 Englas bestowed upon her the title of "The Poppy Princess."

When America declared war, Miss Michael joined the staff of the "Y" overseas headquarters at Hamilton Hall, Columbia University. One morning a soldier placed on her desk the poem, "We Shall Not Sleep" written by Col. John McCrae. Alone she sat studied and re-read the beautiful poem which immortalized the poppy.

She was touched by the appeal and resolved then and there to dedicate herself to the service and to keep the faith by wearing a red poppy as a token to those who "bore the torch".

In Flanders Field

In Flanders field the poppies grow
 Between the crosses row on row
 That mark our place while in the sky

The larks still bravely singing fly
 Scarce heard above the guns below.
 We are the dead, short days ago
 We lived; saw dawn and sunset glow—

Loved and were loved, and now we lie
 In Flanders Field.

Take up the quarrel with the foe
 To you from falling hands, we throw
 The torch. Be yours to hold it high.
 If you break faith with us that die
 We shall not sleep though poppies blow

In Flanders Field.

Miss Michael wrote responsive lines to that beautiful poem which she termed her pledge. The title of her poem is:

We Shall Keep Faith

Oh, you who sleep in Flanders fields

Sleep sweet—to rise anew!
 We caught the torch you threw.
 And holding high, we keep the faith

With all who died.
 We cherish, too, the poppy red
 That grows on fields where valor led.

It seems to signal to the skies
 That blood of heroes never dies,
 But lends a luster to the red
 Of the flower that blooms above
 the dead

In Flanders Fields.
 And now the torch and poppy red
 We wear in honor of our dead.

Fear not that ye have died for naught;
 We'll teach the lesson that ye wrought

In Flanders Fields.

The "Poppy Lady" was born near the town of Good Hope, Georgia. She received her education at Lucy Cobb Institute, the State Normal at Athens, Ga., and at Columbia University.

In addition to receiving the Distinguished Service Medal, she has been honored in several foreign countries. At present she is president of a large Georgia Seminary, having spent most of her life as a teacher.

Miss Michael and Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Lane of Clarendon grew up in Walton county Georgia, and it was for her that they named their daughter, Moena, though Mr. Lane frankly admits they started out misspelling the name.

A brother of Miss Michael and Mr. Lane were constant companions for a number of years. Like most folks of that day, they enjoyed life, had a good time and were real neighbors.
