

HOUSING SITUATION GROWING MORE ACUTE DAILY

Usual Fall Rush Has Begun For Housing Facilities For School Folks

As is the usual situation, Clarendon citizens are suddenly confronted at this time each year with a realization that our housing facilities are inadequate to properly meet the requirements of those who would take advantage of the excellent school facilities offered here.

Of the many new homes constructed the past few months, applications of tenants were filed before the buildings were hardly started. Parties searching for houses and apartments call at the Leader office almost daily and are willing to pay any price within the bounds of reason for such accommodations.

Only houses of the better class are wanted, those nearest the schools being given the preference as to price.

Some of our leading men are planning on the construction of residences in the near future for rental purposes saying that this method of investment pays the biggest dividends and is the safest now offered local investors.

Son of Hall County Sheriff Reported Dead As Result Of Auto Collision

While driving on the highway about two miles west of Estelina late Saturday evening, James Christian, son of the Hall county sheriff, is said to have collided head-on with a large truck receiving injuries from which he died within twenty-four hours. A Mexican riding with him is said to have also been killed.

The truck was driven by two Vernon men who were unable to give any reason for the collision as they claimed to have been on their side of the highway.

Christian Revival Services Are Drawing Larger Audiences

The scholarly yet plain teaching of Dr. John W. Tyndall is attracting larger numbers daily, the night services being especially well attended. His plain interpretations of Revelations in a forty minute talk following his nightly sermons are being highly appreciated and meeting with popular approval of a large number of all denominations.

The subject for tonight will be "Eternal Hell." Wednesday night's subject will bring out an even larger congregation, the subject being "Seven bible reasons for divorces and the right to remarry."

OFFICIAL FAMILY AFFORDED CHANCE AT REAL ABILITY

Remains of Calf Stolen From City Marshall Thrown On The Farm of the Sheriff

What looks like a humorous test of the sleuthing ability of the official family was made Friday when two young men are alleged to have butchered a calf of City Marshall Flop Pyle, afterwards throwing the entrails and hide in the field of Sheriff M. W. Mosley.

The two young men whose ages are twenty-two and twenty-five, arrived at Hedley about midnight with a beef loaded in the trailer. Being near midnight, the suspicions of constable George Perdue were aroused and he made an inspection of the cargo.

Upon calling the sheriff's office here, Mr. Perdue was instructed to bring the men to Clarendon if no hide accompanied the carcass. They were accordingly brought here and lodged in jail and will await the action of the grand jury.

One of the men is a local farmer and the other is from Oklahoma. The local man is said to have admitted the theft of the calf. This is the first larceny case of this kind to come to the attention of Donley county officers in many years.

CROP CONDITIONS FAIR DESPITE DRY PERIOD

Donley County Crop Reports Optimistic From Various Sections Over Wide Area

Despite the dry period of the past month or more and the widespread drouth over most of the United States at this time, reports from many sections of the county show cotton to be in fair to good condition and feed holding up in some sections.

J. S. Phillips of the Brice section reports that without another rain cotton will make a fairly good crop of a fourth to a half bale in his section.

Reports from the northeast part of the county show cotton growing and putting on forms where local showers fell, and other sections fruiting for a half crop according to farmers who know the real situation.

The west side of the county, tho spotted to some extent, give a good cotton report with feed holding up well on the sandier land.

Lelia Lake appears to be in the best condition all round, cotton and other crops holding up well and prospects for a three fourth cotton crop look good. The sub-irrigated land as a matter of fact, is holding its own well. Cruse & Reynolds report their truck crop prospects cut about half on the more tender plants.

Conditions near Jericho are not so good above the Cap Rock. Below the Cap crops are on an average over the county. No insect pests are reported from any section.

Old Residenter Owns Good Farm And Diversifies With Profit In Many Ways

Among the many practical farmers who make a business of farming is E. L. Kennedy of near Lelia Lake. Mr. Kennedy has resided there for about twenty-one years. In summing up the present crop outlook, Mr. Kennedy was not at all pessimistic feeling that a fair crop would be made even tho it did not rain again during the growing season.

Mrs. Kennedy was given credit for her share of the success on the farm when her husband stated that she kept ice and marketed dairy products to better advantage. She also has about a hundred turkeys and some five hundred chickens.

The general crops of the farm include some two hundred and fifty acres of cotton, and a general run of feed stuff. Mr. Kennedy believes in diversification and practices it. His farm is located partly on sub-irrigated land and is well cultivated to make it produce up to expectations. These good citizens have a nice farm home and are satisfied. In all of the twenty-one years, Mr. Kennedy recounts but two short crop seasons, that of 1916 and 1923, and even then their efforts were rewarded with plenty to run them through to the next season and some to sell.

Loaded To The Guard With Fryers a Canteloupes

F. C. Pulk, farmer on the C. T. Taylor farm near Lelia, passed thru here Friday with his large touring car loaded with choice canteloupes and a large crate of frying chickens tied on the rear of the auto.

He was headed for Amarillo where he expected to dispose of the melons at twenty cents each or two for thirty-five. No sooner had he reached the main street when he was besieged by eager buyers who grabbed off the melons as fast as he could hand them out.

It is reported that he immediately sold out at Amarillo prices and saved a long trip. In addition to the above, Mr. Pulk has watermelons and about a hundred and thirty acres of cotton that promises a good yield as well as feed crops.

Misses Helen, Rhoda and Julia Westman are touring California, Charles Carlson going along as "shofer". The young ladies expect to be away until about the first of the month.

POULTRY MEN ARE PRODUCING TWO CROPS CHICKS

Summer And Fall Chicks Pay Profit Says Expert And Many Will Try It

According to information given the Leader by Mr. Frank White of the local hatchery, a fall hatch will be made of at least fifteen thousand capacity. The matter has been carefully gone over and this venture is in keeping with other plants in many sections of West Texas. Due to the importance of this growing industry, we feel that the space is well spent in giving you this information.

In connection with the above idea, we wish to quote from one of the leading poultry men, giving to our readers the experience of one who knows what he is talking about. Here is what Mr. Fred Crosby has to say about the matter based on his years of experience.

"Every year a greater number of poultry raisers are adding to their income by raising summer and fall hatched chicks.

Time, and new methods and practices, are changing the operation of practically all lines of business, and the poultry business is going through the same process.

We used to pay a lot more attention to the seasons. We made our plans to be ready for the rush of business of the season to come—and after that single rush period was over, there was not much doing. Overhead expense, however, went on just the same.

Today those who are getting along most successfully, in poultry raising or any other line of business, are on the job every month of the year—every week. The poultry business is a year round industry, even though we are used to think it as seasonal.

What we want to impress upon the mind of our readers is that the poultry business is a real business—an industry all to itself—and so recognized by other big business interests everywhere. Why not? It runs into more than a billion dollars of value every year. Poultry raisers, large and small, should plan their operations to fit in most efficiently with this big enterprise, so that all of their time will be taken up by some phase of the work.

Methodist Revival to Continue At Lelia Lake Church

The Methodist revival that has been in progress at Lelia Lake for the past week will continue until next Sunday according to announcement of Rev. E. L. Hill who has charge of the services.

The attendance has been somewhat curtailed due to so many vacations at this particular time of the summer. With that the leading members of the church feel that much good has been accomplished.

Farmers Like New Methods Of Hatching Off Chicks With Less Death Loss

Numbers of Donley county citizens took advantage of the custom hatchery arrangements of the local hatchery this season with good results. J. E. Clemens reports that he left one hundred and thirty-seven eggs with the hatchery, got one hundred and thirty-six chicks and raised them all.

Not only that, the pullets of the lot began laying at the age of four months and seven days and have made a good record all summer.

Doc Rhodes of the Ashtola country states that his spring pullets began laying at four months and have done well all the season.

Many others have made good records. We would like to know if any can beat the above records. Let us have your story that others profit by your methods and the variety with which you did the work. Come in and tell us about it.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Herndon visited in Dallas this past week and were accompanied home by the lady's parents, Mr. and Mrs. McMillan of Edgewood and the brothers, Albert, Marion and Curtis.

Legislature After Three Sessions Finally Get Quick Results

After one regular and two call sessions of the present legislature A. F. Nichols, blind operator of a cold drink stand, was evicted from the rotunda of the Capitol. Nichols is reported to have had this stand for fifteen years and it looked like he would never become a lobbyist now.

That prairie dogs be required to first obtain a permit to dig on west Texas, and oil lands is likely to take up most of the time of the next several sessions.

The committee appointed in 1902 to determine the origin of the name of Screwbean creek will likely be reported by the remnant in 1931. The actions of this committee has been greatly hampered by deaths occurring during the long conference sessions. It is further reported that a great deal of relief will be afforded the farmer when the matter is finally determined.

LELIA LAKE BOYS WIN FIRST IN STATE MEET

Though Handicapped in Lack Of County Agent, Energy Makes Up Big Deficit

Back in April of this year a few boys of the Lelia Lake community conceived the idea of working for self-betterment in their farm projects. The idea of having no county agent was at first a serious handicap. Miss Harvey Thompson, county demonstrator, soon took these energetic boys in hand and gave them as much time and attention as her regular duties would permit, and proved herself a valuable friend in time of need.

Later G. L. Boykin, a graduate of the state A. & M. college and secretary of the Clarendon Chamber of Commerce, proved himself especially fitted to assist the boys in many ways which he gladly did.

Of that class of boys, Greer Cottingham, Lowell Davis and Edward Morton entered the state contests at the Short Course meet the past week. The boys had prepared themselves to enter the cow judging contest but found upon arrival that they were disqualified because of Lowell having entered this contest back in 1924.

Just about the time the boys felt that all was lost, C. C. Stinson, county agent of Collingsworth county came to their rescue with some suggestions and the boys entered the grain judging contests, as individuals and as a team.

In the individual grain judging contest open to the state, Greer Cottingham won first over all. As a team, the boys came out in 8th place in a contest with seventy-seven teams, many of them from counties where a county agent had been employed during the lifetime of the boys from that county.

The team had a great time looking over the sheep, cattle, hog and dairy departments and listening to the lectures on such subjects. These wide awake, industrious boys came home enthused and will try next year to "bring home the bacon" by capturing all the prizes.

This is the first time in the history of the state where boys have won in any contest without the supervision of a county agent and is a distinct honor to the individuals, their parents and the community where they live.

Church of Christ Revival Will Be Held At Lelia

Announcement is made that a revival will begin at Lelia Lake the 16th of this month in charge of Rev. C. McClung.

Rev. McClung is one of the ablest ministers of his denomination and has held revivals in this section many times in the past few years where he has always been accorded a good attendance.

HISTORIC CHURCH STRUCTURE WILL BE DISPLACED

Modern Brick Business House Will Displace Sentinel Of Civilizing Influence

With the new Presbyterian church almost ready for occupancy, the old structure on Third and Kearney is soon to give way to the march of progress in a town of steady growth.

Constructed some thirty-eight years ago when only a blacksmith shop stood on the west side of that street, throughout all these years there has arisen about this old church building a sacredness that is keenly felt by many of the oldest inhabitants now since it is to be torn down.

In May 1887 Clarendon was visited by Rev. W. N. Dorgan, an evangelist for the Dallas Presbytery, who, so far as the church records show, was the first minister of the faith to visit and preach in Clarendon.

The next minister to visit here was Rev. John S. Moore in 1890, who was accompanied by Rev. S. E. Chandler, who afterwards filled a chair in Austin College. These men held a series of services in the Southern Methodist church was in reality the beginning of the Presbyterian church in Clarendon. It was during this time that Mrs. W. H. Cooke, Miss Egina Moore, Mrs. R. A. Morgan and W. H. Cooke made confessions of faith, and the above named ladies were baptized into the church.

The Presbyterian church was organized during this meeting with the following charter members as disclosed by the present church records: A. B. Ewing and wife Jennie Ewing, Mrs. R. A. Chamberlain, Mrs. R. A. Morgan, Miss Edna Moore and Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Cooke. The first elders of the church elected at this time were A. B. Ewing, W. H. Cooke, Rev. S. E. Chandler supplied the church pulpit from time to time when he could get a building in which to preach. Failing health compelled him to give up the work and Rev. K. Hozen, who was filling the pulpits at Amarillo and Childress, supplied the local pulpit during the years of 1890 and 1891. The records state that Rev. Hozen was greatly beloved by his people and held services most of the time in the K. of P. hall which burned some time afterwards.

State School Man Here Most Of This Week

A representative of the State department of Education was here the past week holding conferences with county school boards at the courthouse Monday.

The purpose of this visit was to get school matters in better shape following the closing of the date of transfer which expires on the first of August. Also other matters in which the state department is interested financially.

Junior College Movement Is Left Up To State

Local men and others have spent quite a bit of time at Austin the past month waiting upon the state department for a hearing on the Junior College plan for Donley county. To date it seems that the state officials have not time to consider the matter.

Latest reports have it that the majority of the board are in favor of it but no meeting has been held for official action.

Do You Read The Continued Story And Like It?

We are often in a quandary as to just what kind of a continued story to run in the Leader. At this time we want our readers to tell us what they think of the present story and let us know what kind you like best.

We are spending quite a sum getting these stories for our readers and want to make them just as interesting as possible. Unless you tell us what you like best, we shall never know.

DAMAGE SUITS TO THE AMOUNT OF MILLION FILED

Amarillo Daily Also Comes In For Share Of Notoriety In Damage Suit

Local readers of Collier's weekly will recall recent articles on the wet situation in Dallas alleging laxity in law enforcement and "rakeeter" plays akin to Chicago, also an article on the alleged political situation in a south Texas county.

Those two articles seem to have fired the ire of R. B. Creager, state republican leader to the extent that he is asking Colliers and a subsidiary distributing company damages to the amount of one million dollars for alleged damages personal and otherwise.

Colliers is frequently connected with damage suits which have helped wonderfully in promoting that interesting magazine's circulation.

Now comes another party alleging thru his attorney that the Amarillo News and Globe have defamed his character to the extent of fifty thousand dollars in what is claimed to have been a garbled account of a crap game in which the paper is alleged to have used his name in connection therewith.

Many years ago when Col. Roosevelt was at his zenith, he stumbled into his first and last damage suit when he sued a leading Michigan daily for fifty thousand dollars and was awarded seven cents.

Damage suits against publications seldom net the damage very much and usually result in a greatly increased circulation of the publication sued according to prominent attorneys who have been employed on both sides in such cases. This is because the American people cater to a large extent to sensationalism so state those in authority.

Eighty Seven Enjoy Family Reunion At F. E. Caraway Home Sunday Last

One of the biggest events and most enjoyable family affairs to take place in this section in many years was that held Sunday last at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Caraway, estimable citizens of their home town. Not only did relatives seek to make happy the occasion, but many friends had a share in making family history on this occasion.

Those present included one brother of Mrs. Caraway and eight sisters. The list is as follows including relatives and friends present: Families of W. J. Jones, E. W. Chenault, E. J. Chenault, S. B. Chenault and E. L. Howard of Lelia Lake.

C. E. Stilwell, L. A. Stilwell, J. B. Stilwell, T. W. Trussell of Memphis, George Stilwell and family of Bellevue, Texas, J. J. Thurman and family of Temple, Okla. Mr. and Mrs. Bob Bowman of Chillicothe, Texas, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Caraway, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Lindsey, Mrs. Alice Townson and family, A. O. Hott and family, D. S. Smith and family, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Roberson, W. P. Smith and family, E. W. Lovelady and family and J. D. Townson and family, all of Clarendon.

Water melons and canteloupes served as refreshments and the happy conversations of those present made this an event long to be remembered.

Honest Man and Classified Column Do Good Deed

Last week Mr. C. C. Phelps found two bills of the greenback variety on the sidewalk. Such things have happened many times before but this had a different story. Mr. Phelps came to the Leader office and asked that notice be given the public that the rightful owner be located.

This was done and W. E. Bills of Windy Valley came in identified the money found and got it. Mr. Bills was greatly elated for having met up with an honest man.

Misses Julia and Athlyn Taylor spent the week end in Knox City, Texas.

WILLIAMS BOND SET AT $7500 IN HILL MURDER CASE

Man Charged With Slaying Held In Amarillo Jail Pending Bond Arrangement

Latest reports state that Pete Williams, charged with the fatal stabbing of O. C. Hill, Jr. at Amarillo, had not made the bond set at $7500 at an examining trial the last of the week.

T. B. Rutledge, alleged to have witnessed the affair, was the only one to testify at the preliminary hearing. Rutledge is said to be a personal friend of the accused and his testimony is somewhat at variance with statements of many others who are said to have also witnessed the tragedy.

Amarillo officers are crediting the capture of the accused to the work of our county commissioner, J. R. (Dick) Bain who ferreted out the matter and was given the kindly cooperation of the sheriff's department of Amarillo. While Dick has made no statement at all, his friends state that he traveled over a thousand miles in connecting up threads of evidence in the case which finally resulted in the apprehension of the man charged with the crime.

State Highway Department Will Not—County Can't And The Dear Public Is Sore

What appears to be a problem is looming up locally when the county tax payers appeal to the county commissioners for help in getting to the state highway due to a deep bar pit in places.

The county officials dare not remedy the matter lest they infringe upon the rights and instructions of the state department, according to orders received by them from higher up. In the meantime the public is sweating the game and hoping for help that may be long delayed as the county officials do not care to remedy the roads at the expense of prosecution threatened by highway men who have already spoken.

Officers Capture Alleged Boot Legger Monday Night On Highway East of Here

Constable George Perdue having scented trouble late Monday evening, he got into communication with sheriff Mosley and deputy C. M. Peabody, the trio spending most of the night in the lanes east of town and in the Hedley section.

As a result of the midnight vigil, a man was placed in jail during the night against whom a charge of bootlegging is placed according to reports of the sheriff department.

CAR DEATHS LEAD IN CASUALTIES PAST MONTH

During Month of July Deaths From Car Accidents Took Biggest Toll Of All

According to a report of the Texas Council of Safety of Austin, deaths from car accidents during fifteen days in July just passed amounted to the enormous sum of sixty-five, or an average of more than four each day.

During the same period, three hundred and thirty seven people were injured by cars either while driving, or by being struck by a car. The majority of those killed tried to beat the train to the crossing. The next greatest hazard is found in turning corners.

Airplane accidents for the same period in the state amounted to one slight injury. Over a thousand planes are in daily operation in this state daily at the present time.

The Council of Safety has been asked to recommend a "stop, look and listen" law at the next session of the legislature similar to the law governing the bus lines operating in the state. It is hoped to back up this law with a strong penalty and make it apply to all cars or trucks and vehicles in general.

POLITICS

Judging from newspaper accounts, the cabinets of France use most of their time taking a "vote of confidence". Just what that constitutes, we of America possibly will never know. All of Texas will likely do something akin to that at the next election. Announcement comes from Austin that the next governor's race will be something awful. What has it been for the past several years?

YOUR HOME TOWN

Tourists stop at filling stations more than at any one place as they come thru our section. First impressions are most lasting. That the filling stations of Donley county from a standpoint of beauty compare favorably with those of any section must be an assured fact judging from the many compliments of the tourists. That one spot of flowers at the Super Service station conducted by Cecil E. Smith has attracted dozens of lady tourists and several men. Every town should plant to flowers all waste space. The extra expense would pay and pay big.

FABLED ASSETS

The lad who used to nurse a "stone bruise" now wears a permanent wave. Not so bad since bacon is ski-high. The stone bruise was taken as a matter of fact and endured. The only remedies known were a slice of fat bacon and a sharp knife. Today the stone bruise is as dead as the famous Dodo bird.

The boil was considered a blood purifier. In a more aggravated form it was known as a "carbuncle" and many sleepless nights were spent by the victim during the purification process. It is now known that the boil is caused from infection. Cleanliness is the best safeguard as it is in most all bodily ills.

GOOD WILL

If the towns of west Texas would be more neighborly progress would be more rapid. Short sighted men are often at the head of the civic bodies which means cultivation of animosities that require years to obliterate.

West Texas today needs more broad minded men than anything else. Men who choose to work in harmony and know how. Town fights are a positive detriment. Instance the present scrap going on between Amarillo and Pampa. How about a Town Peace League? Or should we have more home missionaries? Towns, like individuals, never acquire much success or make much progress at the expense of a neighbor.

TRUCKING CROPS

Several Donley county farmers have already harvested a pretty good crop from the sale of tomatoes, roasting ears, blackeye peas, okra, beans, cucumbers and many other products of their truck patches.

The canteloupe and water melon season is about ready. Some are being trucked to the market on the Plains already. Donley county is fortunate in having a ready market at good prices for what she has to offer in the nearby oil field towns. This market lasts the season thru and the producer knows what to expect in the way of prices. In fact so great is the demand in the oil fields that local towns are frequently short on vegetables.

AMENDMENTS FAILED

There was a time when the folks on the forks of the creek knew little of what was going on. Today there is no isolated section. The auto has doomed public ignorance.

When the Amendments came up for consideration recently the matter was considered by a people disgusted with politics. Disgusted with the results of the actions and time wasted by the lawmaking body at Austin the past sessions. In fact the men who were in earnest and discharged their duty so far as possible, were disgusted with the actions of their own membership. To vote a tax increase now of any kind, county or state, the folks want to see some semblance of results ahead. Texas is politically sore. It will require several years for the people to recover from the neglect of some of our official family of the past few years.

THE PLEASURE IS OURS

From a personal letter received Saturday and written by A. M. Adams, publisher of the Sterley Saturday Post of Sterley, Texas, we quote the following:

"We desire to take this opportunity to thank you kindly for the splendid article you wrote for the South Plains Lumber Company and our little community."

"A few words like yours will do more in cementing the friendships of the various cities and towns in West Texas than anything I can think of."

Any time a bunch of folks go out in an open pasture and grab an opportunity like those people down on the new Denver road, we just have to hand it to them. They are remaking an empire. It is to this class of people the world owes a debt that will never be paid. The pioneer has been answering the call to the west for over a century. They have made it possible for you and me to enjoy a home in a section of Texas that is unquestionably without a parallel from the standpoint of health, natural resources and quality of citizenship.

The worst enemy of West Texas today is indifference. That being the case, every fair-minded fellow who knows about it, will applaud the citizens of that Sterley section for what they have accomplished in this short time, their intelligent pull together spirit, and their good fortune in having a real newspaper man to help them put it over. Mr. Adams is just one in a thousand that might have located in Sterley. Luck to you all.

POULTRY and CLUB SHOW
The various committees on the Poultry and Club Show are already getting busy which is very commendable. Those things that make for a steady income on the farm will be given first preference.

The women of Donley county have done far more in a progressive way through their club work than the men will ever do. It should be no surprise to the public to see the women take front rank in this project—without their efforts and interest it will be a rank failure.

The food products of the women folks will have first place. The new methods of canning acquired from the County Demonstration Agents will make a good showing. The list will include fruits, vegetables and meats. The trusty hen will come in for a goodly share of attention, and rightly so. Donley county has profited much this season from poultry sales. To exhibit the best grades for the various purposes with suggestions from those in charge of the exhibit will mean hundreds of dollars to the people of this trade territory.

It is to be hoped that the milk cow will have a chance. In speaking to one of the committeemen recently, he assured the Leader that every effort possible would be made to display dairy products even to the best cows of the county. Cream sales of this trade territory the past six months have increased five hundred percent. The cow should have a chance. It means more enthusiasm and that is what it takes to put it over. Year in and year out our most valuable assets are the cows and the hens.

Hugh Eldridge reports that they sold nearly fifty dollars worth of blackeye peas off about a third of an acre. The market demand is good according to Mr. Eldridge who is one of our most progressive farmers.

WANTS ANY ONE TO CALL HIM

SUPT. OF MEMORIAL PARK CEMETERY, AMARILLO, TEXAS RELIEVED BY ORGATONE —GAINS 10 POUNDS.

"I have been trying for over five years to find a medicine that would overcome my trouble, but I never had any success until I got hold of this Orgatone," said R. R. Murray of 238 Naches, Amarillo, Texas.

"When I commenced taking Orgatone my stomach was in such a bad condition that I was actually afraid to eat anything at all. My food would sour, and this would cause gas to form, and I would be perfectly miserable for hours afterward. I would have severe pains in my back and sides and would have dizzy spells and frequent headaches. I was very nervous, and didn't know what a good night's rest was. I was troubled so bad with gas crowding my heart that at times, I would just get right out of bed, my heart would palpitate so fast and I was afraid something serious would result.

"Orgatone was advertised so highly, I began taking it and I feel that I am lucky man that I found it for it has worked wonders for me. I have honestly gained ten pounds in weight and I eat anything I please with no ill effects. My bilious and dizzy spells are a thing of the past and I don't suffer from headaches as I did. In fact, my entire system is built up and I feel like a different person. Orgatone is one of the most wonderful medicines, and I have already told dozens of my friends about it and invite anyone to call

Decatur Man Uncovers a Clipping Which Appeared in Dallas News 25 Years Ago

The following article, clipped from the Dallas News more than twenty-five years ago, by Uncle Ad Renshaw, was brought to the Leader office with a request that it be published:

"The following, clipped from an exchange, has been brought to the Leader with request to publish:

"Country papers thru-out the United States are printing what is alleged to be a letter written by Christ. In this letter was an injunction that it should be published to the world by whoever found it, together with the statement that misfortune and bad luck would follow the person having possession of it in the event that that whoever may have a copy of it was not given publicity.

"There was likewise a promise that whoever may have a copy of this in his or her possession will prosper and be followed by good fortune. This paper has received requests to print this letter, so if it will relieve the superstitious fear of any one, here it is:

According to the history of the letter it was written by Christ just after his crucifixion, signed by Angel Gabriel ninety-nine years after the Savior's birth and presumably deposited by him under a stone at the foot of the cross.

"On this stone appeared the legend, 'Blessed is he who shall turn me over.'

"No one knew what the inscription meant, or seemed to have sufficient curiosity to investigate, until the stone was turned over by a little child and the letter which follows was discovered:

"Whoever works on the Sabbath day shall be cursed. I command you to go to church and keep holy the Lord's day, without any manner of work. You shall not idle or mis-spent your time in be-decking yourself in superfluities of costly apparel and vain dressing, for I have ordered it a day of rest. I will have that day kept holy that your sins may be forgiven you.

"You will not break my commandments, but observe and keep them, they being written by my hand and spoken from my mouth. You shall not only go to church yourselves, but also your man servant and your maid servant. Observe my words and learn my commandments.

"You shall finish your work every Saturday at six o'clock in the afternoon, at which hour the preparation for the Sabbath begins. I advise you to fast five days in the year, beginning on Good Friday and continuing the five days following in remembrance of the five bloody wounds I received for you and mankind.

"You shall love one another and cause them that are baptized to come to church and receive the holy sacrament; that is to say, baptism and then the supper of the Lord, and be made a member thereof, and in so doing I will give you long life and many blessings. Your land shall be replenished and bring forth abundance and I will comfort you in the greatest temptation, and surely he that doeth to the contrary shall be cursed.

"I will also send hardness of the heart on them and especially on hardened and unpenitent unbelievers. He that hath given to the poor shall find it profitable. Remember to keep the Sabbath day, for the seventh day I have taken as a resting day to myself.

"And he that hath a copy of this letter written by my own hand and spoken by my own mouth and keepeth it without publishing it to others shall not prosper, but he that publisheth it to others shall be blessed by me, and if their sins be as many as stars by night, and they truly believe they shall be pardoned and they that believe not this writing and my commandments will have my plagues upon you and you will be consumed with your children, goods and cattle and all other worldly enjoyments that I have given you. Do but once think of what I have suffered for you; if you do, it will be well for you in this world and in the world which is to come.

"Whoever shall have a copy of this letter and keep it in their house, nothing shall hurt them, neither pestilence, thunder nor lightning, and if any woman be in birth and put her trust in me she shall be delivered of her child. You shall hear no more news of me except thru the Holy Scriptures until the day of judgment. All goodness and prosperity shall be in the house where a copy of this letter shall be found. Finished."

"The story goes that the little child who found it passed it to one who became a convert to the christian faith. He failed to have the letter published. He kept it, however, as a sacred memento of Christ and it passed down to different generations of his family for more than one thousand years.

"During this period the family suffered repeated misfortunes until finally one of them came to America, bringing the letter with him. They settled in the state of Virginia, then moved farther south, still followed by misfortune when finally the last member, a daughter, approached her death-bed and called a neighbor, Mrs. Thompson, giving her the letter and related its whole history for more than one thousand years. The Thompson woman began the attempt to have it published and it first appeared in the Rome (Georgia) Tribune on October 31, 1891. It then appeared in the Dalton (Georgia) Citizen, and Mrs. Wortman, now living in Marion, Indiana, clipped it and kept it in her possession for many years without an effort to have it published. She was followed by misfortune which she attributed to her neglect of trying to have the letter published.

"Mrs. Ruby Crutchfield of Trezvant, Tennessee, is also said to have had a copy and failed to make an effort to have it published for three years, and was followed by a varied lot of misfortunes which she attributed to the fact of her neglect in this respect."

"Mrs. Rubby Crutchfield of Trezvant, Tennessee, is also said to have had a copy and failed to make an effort to have it published for three years, and was followed by a varied lot of misfortunes which she attributed to the fact of her neglect in this respect."

Arkansas Pyramid To Preserve Many Records of Today

Monte Ne Millionaire Is Erecting Structure for Information Hundreds of Years Hence

Monte Ne, Ark.—Long after our 20th century civilization is gone, and perhaps forgotten, a permanent and complete record of it may be found in a 130-foot pyramid being built here.

Even as the ancient inhabitants of Egypt preserved records of their civilization in the massive pyramids in the Nile Valley, so will this towering pyramid in the foothills of the Ozarks preserve that of the 20th century.

Every item that goes to make up our modern hair pin to television and radio apparatus is to be included.

It was years ago that William Hope Harvey, Rogers Ark., millionaire, conceived the idea of the Civilization Pyramid, as it is to be known.

As a close student of history in college he studied the rise and fall of former civilizations and read how they had perished with records of their glory now almost extinct.

As he accumulated wealth his dreams to preserve the present civilization began to take definite form and the starting of the present pyramid is the result.

Base 60 Feet Square

The site of the unique structure is at the end of a spur of the Ozark mountains in the edge of a wide and fertile valley. These mountains are said by geologists to have been 14,000 feet high at one time and are among the oldest in the world. At their greatest height they are said to have dwarfed the Rockies in comparison.

The base is of concrete construction, 60 feet square. The pyramid resting on this base will be 40 feet high. It will then be reduced to 32 feet square and extended an additional 35 feet and then 22 feet square and rise another 85 feet, shaft like, ending at the top six feet square, to a total height of 130 feet.

In the part 32 feet square now under construction will be a room 16 feet square surrounded by a wall eight feet thick. Two huge steel vaults will be built in this part. Other rooms of the same general construction are to be built above this.

Exhaustive tests have been made of all materials to go into the construction of the pyramid and it is predicted it will resist erosion for millions of years.

On a giant concrete foyer that has been built on the hillside above the pyramid is room for 1,000 persons to sit and listen to a band that may play on a concrete bandstand in a lake 20 feet below.

Books, Pictures in Vaults
On top of the shaft, for fear of erosion and volcanic disturbances will be placed a plate of enduring metal underneath a layer of concrete, on which will read:

"When this can be read, go below and find a record of and cause of the death of a former civilization." Similar plates will be placed still lower reading, "Go within."

In one of the large vaults will be placed a book giving the rise and growth of the present civilization. The book will be printed with special paper and between the pages will be transparent paper to help preserve the ink. Three copies of the book will be printed.

These books will be placed in heavy glass containers at a glass factory and the lid moulded thereon. In one of the vaults also will be placed volumes of each industrial and scientific attainment and containing pictures and blueprints of all inventions. Pictures of animals and persons of different ages will be included.

The Bible, reference books, encyclopedias and histories also will have a niche in the vault. A key book to the English as well as all other languages will be included.

After everything is placed in the vaults, the pyramid will be closed with re-enforced concrete, and plates bolted over the entrances.

Harvey and his associates fear this civilization, like others, may decay through selfishness and like its predecessors, pass without any formal records of its accomplishments, thus the pyramid.—Memphis Democrat.

W. B. Holtzclaw and sons Carroll, Frank and Truett left Monday to visit relatives at Grandview, Texas.

Sapa Plums Prove Valuable Fruit in Panhandle

That this section of the Panhandle is well adapted to fruit growing has been known since the earliest settlement. Just what varieties to plant out is the next question. The editor of the Leader being a fruit crank of the worst type known, and he himself a grape specialist of over twenty years, we are glad to give space to information at any time that will assist our readers in the selection of worth while fruits.

That fruits of various types produce farther east means nothing to us. The Sapa plum is a winner in Donley but a failure down east. Judge Alexander had limbs wighted to the ground this season that closed around the middle of the month. Mrs. John Goldston reports that Sapas in the Pleasant Valley community were the principal canning and preserving fruit. Nelson Riley has some beautiful trees that bore extra well this season.

There are several varieties of plums produced by crossing the Sand Cherry with the Miner plum. Most of the new varieties were originated by Prof. Hansen of the South Dakota experiment station during the past twenty years. These trees often grow small on the south plains and yet bear well. Farther east the trees grow but do not bear. The largest trees and best producers south of the Dakota line are to be found in this section below the Cap Rock. They resemble a cherry somewhat and taste more like a plum, blossom late and are sure bearers. Most any nursery can supply you.

Relatives here have received the announcement of the arrival of a son, Roy Jerry, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Broadway at Port Arthur, Texas the third of this month. Mrs. Broadway will be remembered as Miss Thelma Lowe and her many friends will be glad to know that both mother and babe are doing well.

He makes his home with his parents who are of average size, except during the time he is attending conventions as an outside attraction. Jake has always refused to exhibit himself as a side show product. He was a cowpuncher on local ranches until he got too big for the ponies which was about two years ago.

Miss Eunice and mother, Mrs. C. E. Griggs, returned Saturday from a visit with relatives at Ft. Pleasant. Mrs. J. S. Temple, a sister of Mrs. Griggs, accompanied them home.

The TRAIL OF '98 A Northland Romance by ROBERT W. SERVICE Illustrations by Irwin Myers

CHAPTER VII

LET me introduce you," said the Prodigal, "to my friend the Pote."

"Glad to meet you," said the Pote cheerfully, extending a damp hand. "Just been having a fish washing bee." He finished his dishwashing and joined us, pulling on an old Tuxedo jacket.

"Whew! Glad that job's over. And now, having immaculated myself on the altar of cleanliness, I will solace my soul with a little music."

He took down a banjo from the wall, and striking a few chords, began to sing. His songs seemed to be original, even improvisations, and he sang them with a certain quaintness and point that made them very quaint.

There came a knock at the door, and a young man entered. He had a broad, smiling face and a bulgy forehead. The Pote introduced him to me.

"The Yukon Yorick."

"Hello," chuckled the newcomer, "how's the bunch? Don't let me stampede you. How d'ye do, Horace! Glad to meet you." (He called everybody Horace.) "Just come away from a meeting of my creditors."

He seemed brimming over with jovial acceptance of life in all its phases.

Several men dropped in to swell the bohemian circle. Some had brought bottles. The little cabin was crowded, the air hazy with smoke, the conversation unattended.

The Pote had the floor.

"A friend of mine had a beautiful pond of water lilies. They painted the water exultantly and were a triumphant challenge to the soul. Folks came from far and near to see them. Then, one winter, my friend thought he would clean out the pond, so he had all the nasty, slimy mud scraped away till you could see the silver gravel glimmering on the bottom. But the lilies, with all their haunting loveliness, never came back."

"What are you driving at, you old dreamer?"

"Oh, just this: In the nasty mud and slime of Dawson I saw a lily girl. She lives in a cabin by the Slide along with a Jewish couple. I only caught a glimpse of her twice. They are unspeakable, but she is fair and sweet and pure. I would stake my life on her goodness. She looks like a young Madonna."

"In the cabin by the Slide?" I asked.

He started, looked at me searchingly: "You know her?"

"She means a good deal to me."

"Oh, I understand. Yes, that long, queer cabin highest up on the hill."

"Thanks, old chap."

"All right, good luck."

Very softly I approached the cabin, for fear of encountering her guardian was in my heart. Carefully I reconnoitered, and soon, to my infinite joy, I saw the Jewish couple come forth and make their way toward the door. The girl was alone.

How madly beat my heart. It was a gloomy kind of night, and the cabin looked woefully bleak and solitary. No light came through the windows, no sound through the moss-chinked walls. I drew near. I knocked at the door. No answer.

"Berna," I cried in a faltering whisper.

Came the reply: "Who is there?"

"Love, love, dear; love is waiting."

Then, at my words, the door was opened, and the girl was before me. She stood gazing at me, a little fluttering hand went up to her heart as if to still its beating.

"Oh, my dear, I knew you were coming. Something told me you would come at last. And I've waited—how I've waited! I've dreamed, but it's not a dream now, is it, dear; it's you?"

"Yes, it's me. I've tried so hard to find you. Oh, my dear, my dear!"

I seized the sweet, soft hand and covered it with kisses. I loved her so, I loved her so!

"High and low I've sought you, beloved. Thank God I've found you, dear! Thank God! Thank God!"

"Oh, it's you, really, really you at last," she cried again, and there was a tremor, the surface ripple of a sob in that clear voice. She fetched a deep sigh: "And I thought I'd lost you forever. Wait a moment. I'll come out."

Endlessly long the moment seemed, yet wondrously irradiated. Then, at last, she came. She had thrown a shawl around her shoulders, and coaxed her hair into charming waves and ripples.

"Come, let us go up the trail a little distance. They won't be back for nearly an hour."

When we had seated ourselves on the hillside, she turned to me. "And so you found me, dear. I knew you would, somehow. In my heart I knew you would not fall me. So I waited, and waited. It was cruel we left so suddenly, not even time to say good-by, but I could not help myself. They dragged me away. They began to be afraid of you, and he bade them leave at once."

"I see, I see." I looked into the pools of her eyes; I sheathed her white hands in my own brown ones, thrilling greatly at the contact of them.

"Tell me about it, child. Has he bothered you?"

"Oh, not so much. He thinks he has me safe enough, trapped, awaiting his pleasure. But he's taken up with some woman of the town just now. By-and-by he'll turn his attention to me."

"But, Berna, surely nothing in this world would ever make you yield? Oh, it's horrible!"

She leaned to me tenderly. She put my arms around her neck; she looked at me till I saw my face mirrored in her eyes.

"Believe me and trust me. I would rather throw myself from the bluff here than let him put a hand on me. And so long as I have your love, dear, I'm safe enough. Don't fear. Oh, it's been terrible not seeing you! I've craved for you ceaselessly. I've never been out since we came here. They wouldn't let me. They kept in themselves. He bade them. But now, for some reason, he has relaxed. They're going to open a restaurant downtown, and I'm to wait on table."

"No, you're not!" I cried. "Berna, I can't bear to think of you in that garbage-heap of corruption down there. You must marry me—now."

"Now," she echoed, her eyes wide with surprise.

"Yes, right away, dear. There's nothing to prevent us, Berna. I love you. I want you, I need you, I can't bear it, dearest; have pity on me; marry me now. I want you now. I can't wait."

She looked at me gravely. Her voice was very soft, very tender.

"I think it better we should wait, dear. This is a blind, sudden desire on your part. I mustn't take advantage of it. You pity me, fear for me, and you have known so few other girls. I'm not worth it, indeed I'm not. I'm only a poor ignorant girl. If there were others near, you would never think of me."

"Berna, I love you with all my heart, among a thousand, and they were the most adorable in all the world. I would pass over them all and turn with joy and gratitude to you."

"No, no," she said sadly, "you were wise once. I saw it afterwards. Better wait one year."

She went on very quietly, full of gentle patience.

"You know, I've been thinking a great deal since then. In the long, long days and longer nights, when I waited here in misery, hoping always you would come to me, I had time to reflect, to weigh your words. This is June. Next June, if you have not made up your mind you were foolish, blind, hasty, I will give myself to you with all the love in the world."

"Perhaps you will change."

She smiled a peculiar little smile.

"Never, never fear that. I will be waiting for you, longing for you, loving you more and more every day. Let us wait, boy, just a year."

I saw the pathetic wisdom of her words.

"I know you fear something will happen to me. No! I think I will be quite safe. I can withstand him. And if it should come to the worst I can call on you. You mustn't go too far away. I will die rather than let him lay a hand on me. 'Till next June, dear, not a day longer. We will be the better for the wait."

I bowed my head. "Very well," I said huskily: "and what will I do in the meantime?"

"Do! Do what you would have done otherwise. Work! I will make it easier for me. Here we will both torture each other. I, too, will work and live quietly, and long for you. You will come and see me sometimes?"

"Yes," I answered. My voice choked with emotion.

"Now we must go home," she said; "I'm afraid they will be back."

She rose, and I followed her down the narrow trail.

We reached the cabin, and on the threshold she paused. The others had not yet returned. She held out both hands to me, and her eyes were glittering with tears.

"Be brave, my dearest; it's all for my sake—if you love me."

"I love you, my darling; anything for your sake. I'll go tomorrow."

"We're betrothed, my love."

She swayed to me and seemed to fit into my arms as a sword fits into its sheath. My lips lay on hers, and I kissed her with a passionate joy.

"I love you. I love you," she murmured; "next June, my darling, next June."

Then she gently slipped away from me, and I was gazing blankly at the closed door.

"Next June," I heard a voice echo; and there, looking at me with a smile, was Locasto.

Hate was far from my heart, and when I saw the man himself was regarding me with no particular unfriendliness, I was disposed to put aside for the moment all feelings of enmity. The generosity of the victor glowed within me.

As he advanced to me his manner was almost urbane in its geniality.

"You must forgive me," he said, not without dignity, "for overhearing you; but by chance I was passing and dropped upon you before I realized it."

He extended his hand frankly. "I trust my congratulations on your good luck will not be entirely obnoxious. I know that my conduct in this affair cannot have impressed you in a very favorable light; but I am a badly beaten man. Can't you be generous and let bygones be bygones? Won't you?"

I had not yet come down to earth. I was still soaring in the rarefied heights of love, and inclined to a general amnesty toward my enemies.

As he stood there, quiet and compelling, there was an assumption of frankness and honesty about this man that it was hard to withstand. For the moment it was persuaded of his sincerity, and weakly surrendered my hand. His grip made me wince.

"Yes, again I congratulate you. I know and admire her. They don't make them any better. She's pure gold. You mustn't mind me taking an interest in her sweetheart. I'm old enough to know. I know, and she touches me strangely. Now, don't distrust me. I want to be a friend to you both. I want to help you to be happy. Jack Locasto's not such a bad lot, as you'll find when you know him. Is there anything I can do for you? What are you going to do in this country?"

"I don't quite know yet," I said. "I hope to stake a good claim when the chance comes. I'm going to get work on the creeks."

"Well, I'll tell you what: I've got laymen working on my Eldorado claim; I'll give you a note to them if you like."

I thanked him.

"Oh, that's all right," he said. "I'm sorry I played such a mean part in the past, and I'll do anything in my power to straighten things out. Believe me, I mean it. Your English friend gave me the worst drubbing of my life, but three days afterward I went round and shook hands with him. Fine fellow that. We're good friends now. I always own up when I'm beaten, and I never bear ill-will. If I can help you in any way, and hasten your marriage to that little girl there, well, you can just bank on Jack Locasto; that's all."

I must say the man could be most conciliating when he chose. As he talked to me, my fears were dissipated, my suspicions lulled. And when we parted we shook hands cordially.

"Don't forget," he said; "if you want help bank on me. I mean it now, I mean it."

"Twas early in the bright and cool of the morning when we started for Eldorado, Jim and I. I had a letter from Locasto, to Ribwood and Hoffman, the laymen, and I showed it to Jim. He frowned.

"You don't mean to say you've palled up with that devil," he said.

"Oh, he's not so bad," I expostulated. "He came to me like a man and offered me his hand in friendship. I've no reason to doubt his sincerity."

"Sincerity's he's damned. He's about as sincere as a tame rattlesnake. Put his letter in the creek."

But no! I refused to listen to the old man.

"Well, go your own gait," he said; "but don't say that I didn't warn you."

Following the trail, we struck up Bonanza, a small muddy stream in a narrow valley. About noon we descended into the creek bed and came to the Forks. It was a little town, a Dawson in miniature, with all its sordid aspects infinitely accentuated. There in the din and haze and dirt we tarried awhile; then, after eating heartily, we struck up Eldorado.

At the Forks I inquired regarding Ribwood and Hoffman: "Goin' to work for them, are you? Well, they've got a blamed hard name. If you get a job elsewhere, don't turn it down."

Ribwood was a tall, gaunt Cornishman, with a narrow, lutting face and a gloomy air; Hoffman, a burly, beetle-colored Australian with a bulging stomach.

"Yes, we'll put you to work," said Hoffman, reading the letter. "Get your coat off and shovel in."

"So, right away, I found myself in the dump-pile, jamming a shovel into a sluice-box five feet higher than my head. Keeping at this hour after hour was no fun.

For three days I made the dirt fly; but to-morrow, quitting time, I must say, its flight was a very uncertain one. Again I suffered all the tortures of becoming toll-broken. The constant hoisting into the overhead sluice-box somehow worked muscles that had never gone into action before, and I ached elaborately.

I was glad, indeed, when, on the evening of the third day, Ribwood came to me and said:

"I guess you'd better work up at the shaft tomorrow. We want a man to wheel muck."

They had a shaft sunk on the hillside. They were down some forty feet and were drifting in, wheeling the pay-dirt down a series of planks placed on trestles to the dump. After the first day I became quite an expert at the business. My spirits rose. I was on the way to becoming a miner.

Turning the windlass over the shaft was a little, tough mud-rat, who excited in me the liveliest sense of aversion. Pat Doogan was his name, but I will call him the "Worm."

He was the most degenerate type of man I had yet met on my travels, a degenerate, dirty, drunken, diseased.

One day Hoffman told me he wanted me to go down the shaft and work in the drift. Accordingly, next morning I and a huge Slav, by name Dooley Rileyvich, were lowered down into the darkness.

The shaft was almost forty feet deep. For the first ten feet a ladder ran down it, then, stopped suddenly as if the excavators had decided to abandon it. I often looked at this useless bit of ladder and wondered why it had been left unfinished.

Every morning the Worm hoisted us down into the darkness, and at night drew us up. Once he said to me:

"Say, wouldn't it be de tough luck if I was to take a fit when I was hoistin' youse up? Such a nice bit of a boy, too, an' I guess I'd lose my jet over de head of it."

I said: "Cut that out, or you'll have me so scared I won't go down."

He grinned unpleasantly and said nothing more. Yet somehow he was getting on my nerves terribly.

One evening we were ready to be hoisted up. Dooley Rileyvich went first, and I watched him blot out the bit of blue for a while. Then slowly down came the bucket for me.

I got in. I was feeling uneasy all of a sudden, and devoutly wished I were anywhere else but in that hideous hole. I felt myself leave the ground and rise steadily. I was now ten feet from the top. The bucket was rocking a little, so I put out my hand and grasped the lowest rung of the ladder to steady myself.

Then, at that instant, is seemed the weight of the bucket pressing up against my feet was suddenly removed, and my arm was jerked out of its socket. There I was hanging desperately on the lowest rung of the ladder, while, with a crash that made my heart sick, the bucket dashed to the bottom. At last, I realized, the Worm had had his fit.

Quickly I gripped with both hands. With a great effort I raised myself rung by rung on the ladder. Dizzily I hung all a-shudder, half-sobbing. A minute seemed like a year.

Ah; there was the face of Dooley looking down on me. He was anxiously shouting to me to come up. Mastering an overpowering nausea I raised myself. At last I felt his strong arm around me, and I was on firm ground once more. The Worm was lying stiff and rigid. Without a word the stalwart Slav took him on his brawny shoulder. The creek was down-hill but fifty yards. Ere we reached it the Worm had begun to show signs of reviving consciousness.

"Leave me alone," he says to Rileyvich; "you Slavonian swine, lemme go."

Not so the Slav. Holding the wriggling, writhing little man in his powerful arms he plunged him heels over head in the muddy current of the creek.

"I guess I cure dese fits any way," he said grimly.

Struggling, spluttering, blaspheming, the little man freed himself at last, and staggered ashore. He cursed Rileyvich most comprehensively.

Newspaper Party Furnishes Novel Form of Amusement

For some time there has been the need in the local Baptist church for a young married couples Sunday School Class.

Looking forward to the organization of this class, Mrs. W. C. Stewart, superintendent of the Senior department, invited the prospective members to a social evening in her home Saturday.

On arriving, the guests were presented with slips of paper, headed Clarendon News or Donley County Leader with number one to ten below the explanation was made that they were entering a newspaper contest, the first step in which was the securing of advertisements a very necessary part in the financing of a newspaper. A lively contest ensued.

The next step was the making up of the "Sports Section"—a newspaper race. Interest mounted high when Mr. O. C. Watson and Rev. S. R. McClung came forward to run off the tie made by the other contestants.

Two fashionably and artistically attired young women—material and newspapers, pins, and cord were entered in the fashion contest.

The greatest ability, however, was shown when the "Cartoon Section" was prepared by cooperative effort. Some real "creations" were produced amid much laughter.

The Culinary and Joke Departments were featured in the refreshments of banana nut ice cream and wafers with jokes for favors.

A short business session followed the social with the teacher for the new class, Mr. O. C. Watson presiding. Mrs. Ray Couch and Mrs. Everett Barnes were appointed on the committee to report on a name for the class and officers.

Those enjoying the evening were: Rev. S. R. McClung, Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Watson, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Couch, Mr. and Mrs. John Fowkes, Miss Francis Tatum, Mrs. Frank Simmons, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Stewart, Mickey and Jo Ella Stewart and Miss Ruth Thompson, who assisted Mrs. Stewart with the entertainment.

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Slay, Misses Margaret Foster and Vera Carnett and little Miss Lula Maude Wall of Groom visited with Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Massie Sunday.

with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brumley on the way and visit other places in the Rockies for several days.

HISTORIC CHURCH

Due to a death in his family, Rev. Hozen was called and did not return. Only intermittent services were held until the year 1895. The church records are not clear on the question just when the present building was erected. A statement is made that during Rev. W. P. Dickey's pastorate, the building was erected and furnished by the Ladies Aid Society, Rev. Dickey's pastorate ended in 1901.

Rev. F. T. Charlton held a series of meetings in the church during February of 1903, and afterwards became pastor in August of 1922 and was here for some time.

In reading over the old records of the church, one can easily sense the many hardships of the faithful in an isolated section, few in number, and to them must be given great credit for having accomplished much under the most trying circumstances. At the present time a church is being completed that is a monument to the efforts of these faithful followers of the lowly Nazarine. What a pity that those of years long ago could not now see what they helped to build. Let us hope that they do know and that they are permitted to rejoice with the present membership when the new church home is dedicated.

There is one pleasing feature to note in reading over the old church records, the names of those appearing thereon years ago remain to this day if still living here. The responsibilities of church duty has been inculcated into the minds of the children and they have grown up in the faith. Many of the present-day leaders of the church work were Sunday school children back in the beginning of the present century. This church has been a powerful factor in the upbuilding of our community. They have done their work well without ostentation or show. Their untiring efforts and constant upward trend has brought them admiration from the citizens of our section who are their neighbors, friends and well wishers.

POULTRY MEN

Most poultry raisers try to raise a bunch of early chicks. Every year we find a greater number of people depending upon commercial hatcheries or specialty breeders for their baby chicks, instead of getting a few at a time in the old haphazard sitting-hen way. This is good practical economy; chicks can be bought cheaper, in the long run, than they can be hen-hatched at home. If this seems doubtful, figure in the time lost by the sitting hen from egg production, the weight she loses, the time you spend with her, and all in all you are the loser.

Furthermore, the time is here when one can buy anything wanted in the line of chicks—from broilers to prospective Madison Square Garden winners.

For several years we have advocated raising summer and fall chicks, principally for broilers. We are told by those who do so that profits are very satisfactory. A far greater number of our hatcheries are now operating through summer and fall to meet the demand for late chicks.

Chicks hatched in late summer and early fall grow more rapidly than those hatched during the earlier part of the hot weather season. At this period the weather is still warm, and vegetation is getting a fresh start from the first fall rains, so that good green food is plentiful.

At this season the chicks develop rapidly, and before the first cold period of winter they are fully feathered and well grown. There is less trouble from vermin at this season; there is practically nothing to hold the young chicks back and keep them from quick, healthy growth.

Owing to the fact that there will be an unusual shortage of pullets, late chicks this year will prove a better investment than ever; this is one of the strongest arguments for making a general practice of raising late chicks.

By early spring these chicks will be six or seven months old, and should be fully matured and ready for laying. Late summer and fall hatched pullets, as a rule, lay throughout the following summer, and seldom molt until late the next fall. There may be those who will say it is poor practice to use late pullets, but we are finding that it is more a question of proper feeding and care than the matter of age.

An advantage of raising late chicks that is not so often thought about is that there is no outfit for extra equipment. The same equipment used in spring for the early chicks can be used with satisfaction. Even supposing it became necessary to buy some additional equipment and provide some extra housing, we believe it would be well worth while, and the cost soon made up from the profits the late chicks brought it."
