Four Men Taken To

Each Of Quartette Was Convicted On A Different Charge

Representing charges of four different forms of crime, four men left the local jail Monday in charge of Sheriff Sid Christian and Deputy Baskerville of Memphis, to be taken to the latter city and there delivered to Bud Russell, agent for the penitentiary.

Russell had notified the officers that he would call there Tuesday and asked that prisoners be rounded in from this section that he might save time.

Of the four men, Jim Brown was sentenced for five years for complicity in the murder of J. H. Richey. W. O. Philley goes for one year on a bootlegging charge. John Henry Williams took two years for having driven off a Ford last summer that belonged to the Clarendon Motor company. Williams was the only negro in the lot. Leon Wilkes goes up for three years for having signed the other fellows name to some checks here last spring, receiving in exchange a quantity of merchandise.

Bud Russell transports prisoners to the pen in a truck with a cage body. On the sides are painted the letters: "One Way Truck" Because of this wording the truck is easily recognized, and it is said that Russell is bothered little with "road hogs."

Clarendon Boosters Penitentiary Monday Broadcasted Saturday From Local Jail Nite From W. D. A. G.

Many Complimentary Messages Result From A Musical Program

Through the courtesy of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce and the W. D. A. G. broadcasting station at Amarillo, Clarendon took her turn at the "mike" Saturday night from 7:30 to 8 o'clock. Due to the poor reception, local citizens could not hear the program. This trouble will be remedied after the first of the year when that station increases its wattage from 1000 to 5000 which will enable them to talk to the entire na-

Mason King of the Trade Extension Department of the Amarillo Chamber did the announcing. The program was opened by G. L. Boykin, T. D. Nored, R. S. Cope and Sam Braswell singing a quartette "The Stars and Stripes Forever." Gus B. Stephenson followed with a saxophone solo.

T. D. Nored, local manager of the West Texas Utilities Co. made a three minute talk on the dairy and cattle industry in Donley county. Miss Fray Stalings contributed a piano solo which was followed by a three minute talk of Sam Braswell on the poultry industry of this county.

Mr. Stephenson, local band director contributed a saxophone solo to be followed by the quartette singing "Carolina Moon." G. L. Boykin then made a talk on the advantages offered by Clarendon. It is reported that messages were received from about fifty isteners, some at quite a distance. Mr. Boykin has been delegated to reply to these just as soon as the nessages are sent him by the broadcasting station.

John Sims, Jr., owner of the Sims Motor Company of this city, had business in Spur Saturday.

Bronchos Victors Over Canyon Eagles Thanksgiving Day

Large Crowd Gathered To See Last Game of Season For Local Boys

Thanksgiving day proved another glorious victory for the Bronchos when they defeated the Canyon Eagles here last Thursday to the tune of 13-0. The game was the last contest of the season and the Bronchos were kicking hard. Both teams fought a hard clean game and when the game had ended the spectators more than felt they had had their money's worth.

From the start of the whistle both teams buckled down to real playing, with the Bronchos out playing their opponents by a small margin. Every man on the team is due some credit and honor for the way he played the game.

Both teams fought fiercely during the first half, but the goal line was never threatened. It seemed as tho a touchdown depended critically upon a sudden break of The Bronchos came back in the

their eyes. There was plenty of time still left to win the game and the Bronchos were determined that that opportunity should not pass. During the middle of the third quarter Dillard plunged and weaved his way through the Eagle line and sped swiftly for a thirty yard run and a touchdown. The try for extra point failed. The end of the third quarter found the Bronchos playing in Eagle terri-

The fourth quarter was just as thrilling as the third if not more so. Several times Broncho men intercepted passes intended for the Eagle hefties and dangerously threatened the opposing goal line. At one time Estlack, a Clarendon center intercepted an Eagle pass and made a brilliant run toward the Canyon goal line but was downed after he had sped some 25 yards. Tucker, a Clarendon back was the star pass receiver of the day. Several times he made large gains when successfully intercepting passes from his comrades of the backfield. He made his grandest play when caught a long pass and sped over the goal line for the second touchdown. They try for was now 13-0 in Clarendon's favor and remained unchanged during the remainder of the game.

Castleberry's market has stocked reindeer meat. This is said to be the first time that genuine reindeer meat has ever been offered by a market in Clarendon. It is certainly a treat and many are of the opinion that it will all be gone before the rush gets started.

Modern refrigeration is responsible for this innovation in meat market circles. It is possible at this time to eat this butchered in Alaska with the same assurance of freshness and purity as we would meat killed on the local range.

In 1892 a herd of 1280 reindeer were imported into Alaska from Siberia. From this small number, millions of the animals now domesticated, roam the pastures of Alaska and are killed and shipped to the United States in large quantities. The flavor is said to be a cross between lamb and the breast of a mallard duck.

Time to Clean House

We notice that the American Bar association is admonishing the newspapers of the country about their treatment of crime news. We know of no other constituted agency that could be so inconsistent in criticizing anybody's treatment of crime as is the bar association. There are great number of members of the bar who make their living in steering criminals through crime. Until the bar association, and the bar generally, cleans house, gets rid of its own criminal abettors, it is not in poston to suggest to anybody but its own members.-A. J. Martin in Braymer (Mo.) People Should Speak

The lawyers have had control of our State Legislature for the last fifty years and have repeatedly defeated legislation that would have cured some of our outgrown procedure. It is high time for the don't approve of murder by court procedure and freeing criminals to speak out and get behind a real movement that will clear off some of the scum that is blackening the name of the Lone Star State.

Finding homes for worthy boys is a pleasure. Some time some of their letters will be printed in our columns just to show how much good may be accomplished with a little effort. These good people who open their homes to the worthy, and often helpless fellows from a financial standpoint in securing an education, are practicing real christianity. It's the practical things that count.

The letter printed here is from a lady who has done a wonderful lot of good in this world. She has done her share and more. From what I can find out, any worthy boy would be fortunate indeed to secure a place in this home. The mere fact alone that this good woman has helped others is proof sufficient within itself that she offers an exceptional opportunity.

When you write her, be sure to give the names of responsible parties for reference. If possible, see her in person. An opportunity to secure a high school education and two years in college is worth hundreds of dollars to any young fellow who will do the right thing. Here is the letter:

NELLIE CAYUSE LOSES HER TREASURE OF BURIED GOLD

One-Hundred-Year-Old Klickitat Squaw Learns and Unlearns Thrift From Squirrels.

Goldendale, Wash.-Nellie Cayuse, whose one hundred years have left her wrinkled and bent, and one of the last of the onetime powerful Klickitat tribe, learned from the squirrels that she should provide for the future.

The gray diggers near her dilapi-dated shack put away weed and grass seeds, and wheat and barley from nearby fields.

A current legend is that Jake Hunt and Skookum Wal-i-hee, departed chiefs of the Klickitat tribe, left caches of gold coin, not revealing the hiding places even on their death beds.

The theft of the old squaw's savings has added weight to the legends and a surreptitious hunt is on for the other treasure.

Horse Lover Dwells in Stall of Stable

Stillwater, Okla.-What could make a happier home than the stall of a stable fitted up with the necessities and some of the comforts of living when you have spent a lifetime and a long, long lifetime at that, with horses?

That is exactly the kind of home the aged jockey and horse trainer, H. D. Putnam, has chosen to live in for the past 18 years. He is too old to do any active work with horses now. years do not rest lightly on his shoulders. And yet in his chosen little stable home with his dog Jack, his cat Dick, a little flock of chickens and surrounded by the atmosphere of horses and races of an earlier day the old man is comparatively happy, happier than in the strange atmosphere of the county farm where some have urged him

People of Stillwater know him only as a peculiar old man living almost the life of a recluse in the old abandoned stables of the town's caredfor roses will bloom under fairground. His bent figure topped adverse conditions, no plant rewith snow white hair and short trim beard is seen occasionally on the streets when he appears for food and supplies. While still an unshaved youth, Putnam began his career with horses as a jockey and trainer with a string of horses for J. C. Sibley, a well-known candidate for President some years ago. Since then he has trained numerous horses and ridden to victory in countless races throughout the country.

Milk Cow in Busy Road to Save Girl the first season after planting.

Columbus, Ind .- It would be difficult even to imagine a thrill in connection with the milking of a cow, but this humble task became a race with death in U. S. Road No. 31 and won, probably preventing death by suicide. It was in the case of Miss Estelle Crafton of Indianapolis, age thirteen, a member of a party of four that stopped at a filling station near the home of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Taylor, north of the city, and who swal-lowed poison in the car, in which she was alone after three companlons had left it temporarily. When they returned they found her holding an empty bottle. Mrs. Taylor ran to a cow grazing nearby, milked a glass of milk and induced the girl to drink it. The girl, who had become ill, recovered.

Man Asks for Work: Gets It for 7 Years

Los Angeles .- Edward M. Murphy, twenty-four, charged with being a highwayman, addressed himself to Judge Reuben Schmidt the other day as follows:

"They calls me Red Murphy, and I'm the toughest guy on Tenth avenue-back in the bug burg, I mean. Sure, I stuck up that guy. So did my three buddies. They are up in San Quentin now. That's why I'm right here pleading guilty. I wanted a regular trial so that my bud-dies would know I made them shoot the works. Let's go."

"I'll accommodate you," said Judge Schmidt. He sentenced the youth to San Quentin for seven years to life. It was charged that Murphy robbed a tailor shop at the point of a gun.

The Bear Trap Works, but Gas Thief Escapes

Antigonish, N. S .- Having missed tools and gasoline from his saw-mill several times, Dan H. MacDon-ald set a bear trap for the thief ald set a bear trap for the thier and warned the neighborhood. Next morning the trap was found dragged into the thicket, blood stains all around, and evidence that the thief, aided by at least two strong accomplices, had pried open the trap to make his escape. The hefts have ceased.

Rose Growing Is Simple Matter Says Greenhouse Man

Varieties Recommended For Every Soil And Climate Assuring Success

A Rose Garden responds to the care given it. Select good stock of tested varieties, mass harmonious colors effectively, and insure con-Nellie Cayuse worked at odd jobs ditions that favor strong growth and abundant blooms.

When to Plant. On the Pacific Coast and in the Southern States, roses should be planted from December 1st to April 15thfi preferably early, although roses grown family circles, dug an addition to in pots may be planted after April their home which took them be- 15th; in the colder states plant in late fall or early spring.

How to Plant. Unwrap new plants with care; do not expose roots to sun or drying winds. If roots are dry, soak for a few hrs, then bury in the earth for a few days. If the stems also are dry, bury the whole plant in moist earth for three or four days to renew life and vigor. Plant carefully, slanting the roots down to side of hole. Fill in with surface soil to four inches from top of ground, tramp down. In a basin dug around the plant pour ten of fifteen gallon of water. Next day fill in with loose soil. Set the plant so that the union of bud and rootstock is just under levelled surface of the

Where to Plant. Select an airy, sunny spot, sheltered from the prevailing wind. Unbroken sunshine is not necessary, and in the interior valleys especially, shade part of the day is desirable. However, do not plant roses too close to large trees whose roots take away vital nourishment.

The Best Soil. Good heavy oam soil is best for roses. Gravelly soil is better than very sandy Spade the ground thoroughly and if available, work well-rotted manure into soil. Never use fresh or new manure. The ground should be prepared some time before plant-

Planting Distances. Plant strong Hybrid Perpetual roses three feet apart, Hybird Teas and Teas about two and a half feet. Polyantha roses, more dwarf in their habit, may be planted closer together.

Fertilizing Important. While unsponds to "feeding" better than the rose. Cow-barn manure is the best fertilizer. Other manures may and green or fresh manure should never touch the roots. Roses need fertilizer most when blooming. Poultry droppings, slacked lime, or a handful of ground bone soak ed in the ground around the plants by the rain, is effective. Plants are killed by too much fertilizer

Pruning. Never allow roses to go unpruned. Hybird Perpetuals and others of equally vigorous growth require more pruning than Teas and their allied families.

Prune between December 15th

Some Highway Parking Requirements

All motor vehicles operated on the state highways must have lights front and rear and if they are parked at any time thes lights must be on. Parking on the wrong side of the road or in the roadway is prohibited and all vio lations of this kind will be prose cuted if the highway officer happens along at the time. No car should be driven without license plates both front and rear, he states, and exceeding the lawful speed limit is liable to bring prosecution if the person so driving is apprehended.

When the framework branches are established, the laterals should be thinned and those allowed to remain cut to spurs of about four buds each. All growth starting from below the bud union should be removed as this is the

With climbers the framework branches should be trimmed to three or four and these trained up against the wall fan-wise. The first two seasons these should be cut severely. In early summer when the roses ave stopped blooming, the faded plooms should be cut and the plants given a light pruning to insure a bounteous bloom in the fall.

Winter Protection. Roses need no protection on the Pacific Coast and in the South, but in colder climates dirt should be mounded up around the bush six or eight inches, and a fork full of strawy manure worked well into the branches, first trimming the canes back to within fifteen inches of the ground. In very cold weather leaves or straw, weighted down on the ground around the bushes, will Pests. In the early spring, before mildew and blackspot are apparent, control them by dusting plants every two weeks with a dust made from nine parts dusting sulphur and one part arsenate of lead. To control plant lice or aphis, spray with a solution of Black Leaf 40.

In a recent letter to Senator Tom Connally in Wishington Mr. Woodall blamed the present unusually low price of cotton seed oil on its competitor, cocoanut oil, which is imported duty free from the Philippines. Despairing of the present Congress placing a tariff upon cocoanut oil importations Mr. Woodall stated in his letter that he anticipates no relief for the cotton oil industry and the cotton farmer, unless the Philippine Islands are given their independence and are treated as any other foreign country.

oils imported into this country that are consumed for both edible and inedible purposes. The cocoanut groves of the Philippines, he said, are capable of multiplying their output indefinitely and supplanting cottonseed oils in the domestic markets. In the Southern section of the United States is produced annually an average of 1,400,000 pounds of cotton seed oil.

Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Patching had as their guests for Thanksgiving Mr. and Mrs. John Harris of Mc-Lean, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Craig of Pampa, Fred Patching, Jr. and family of Goodnight and Miss Eva Patching of Amarillo.
