Pickers Are Very Scarce And Rainy Weather is Alarming Growers

Rain and continued damp weather over the past week greatly retarded cotton picking. This in addition to the fact that the county is needing several hundred pickers, is alarming growers lest a long rainy spell destroy a crop already made though it is not bringing in as much money as it should.

The longer staple continues to sell above the short staple amounting to an average of about eight to ten dollars a bale. Both long and short staple is more inclined to fall out this year more than average years due to the dry weather.

A number of growers expect to begin sledging their cotton just as soon as a killing frost gets the leaves out of the way. Some claim that they can sled, take the loss on waste and beat paying seventy-five cents a hundred for picking.

The growers suffered an extra hardship this season because of the fact that the cotton opened open all at once and began to fall out when the wind blew. Pickers object to picking cotton off the ground and this occasions an extra loss. These calamities added to a low price has the cotton producers guessing this season.

The Co-Operative association continues to add to their member number. L. B. Merrill representing them at Ashtola and S. T. Merritt at Clarendon. C. F. Crow is doing the classing for this district making his headquarters at Memphis.

Mixed Program Is Substituted Instead At Rotary Meet

Rotarians to Join Campaign Against Illiteracy; Asked by Government

The news of most consequence brought before the Rotary club at their luncheon Friday noon, was the announcement by President Jenkins that the Government had asked the Rotarians of the United States to join in a campaign against illiteracy.

It is a compliment to Rotary that the United States Government has asked the Rotarians of the nation to assume responsibility in this great undertaking that is being waged at this time, the President said.

The Community Service Committee had charge of the program, and in the absence of the chairman of that committee, Rotarian Cecil Alexander as a member of the Committee, presented the program.

Rotary Ann Rhoda Weidman favored the Club with several choice piano selections and the remainder of the period was taken up with business routine and story telling in which the majority of the members took a part.

The Club Service committee will have charge of the program at the next meeting Friday. Adjournment was had by singing America.

Miss Bessie Lee Clayton spent the week end with homefolks returning to her school work near Silverton Sunday evening.

Bronchos Down Cats In Thrilling Battle Friday

Bronchos to Play Shamrock Friday of This Week in Only Foreign Game

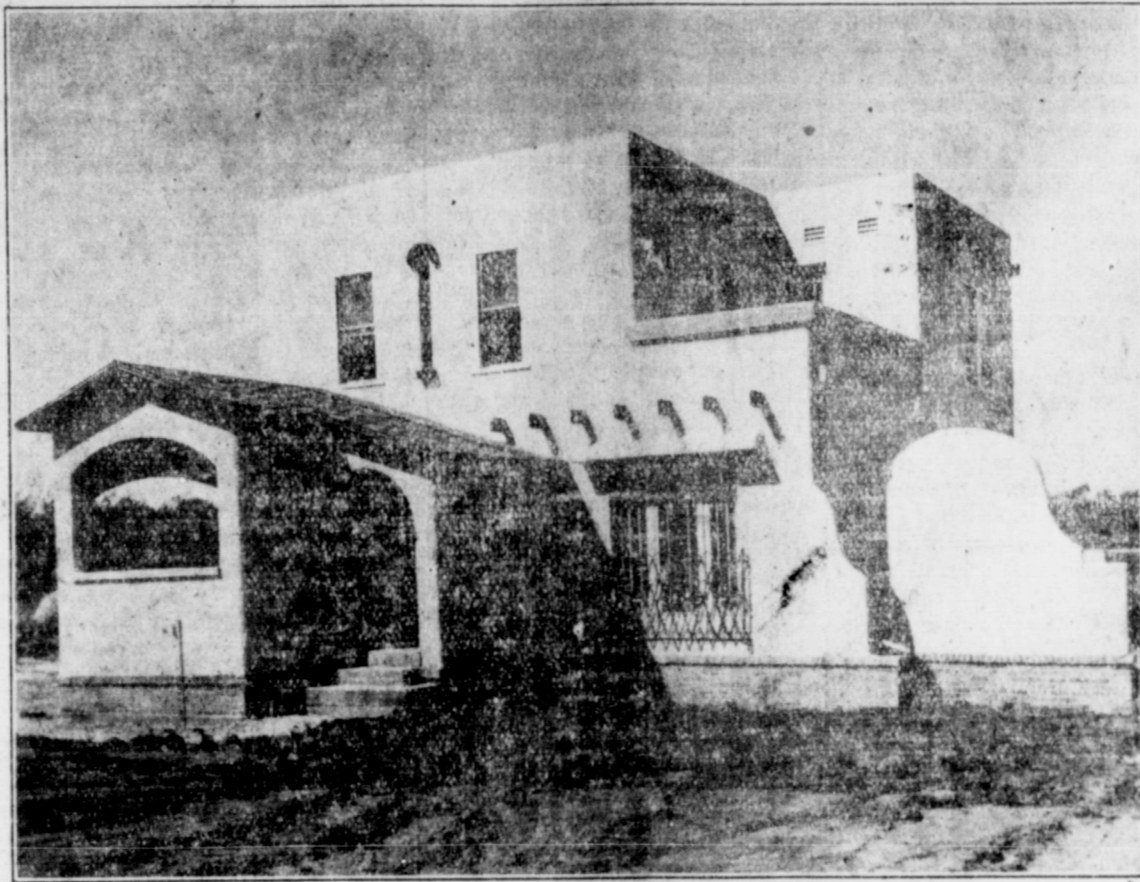

Taking their fourth victory with comparative ease, the Bronchos battled the Estelline Cubs Friday to a score of 18 to 6 in favor of the local boys. The team was without the assistance of Captain Nichols and Hudson both star backfield men. Their places were taken by Andis and Reid. Reid and Andis both showed up exceptionally well both making touchdowns in sensational plays. Clarendon kicked to Estelline and on the third play, Andis intercepted a pass and ran 30 yards for a touchdown. Reid plunged the second ball over for six points after it had been carried down the field. In the third quarter Reid intercepted a Cub pass and ran 40 yards for the third touchdown. The lone score for Estelline was made by Berry, quarterback and outstanding player of the Cubs in the third quarter when he circled right end and ran 80 yards. Coach Stocking sent in his reserves early in the game.

The Estelline boys took to the air when they found that they could not make yardage through the line. They attempted 12 passes, completed 7 for a total of 56 yards, had two intercepted that cost them touchdowns and three were incomplete. These boys from the city of basketball fame had the short passes down to almost perfection. The local boys could not make their passes work. They attempted 8, completing 2 for 40 yards and six were incomplete.

Lineup: Clarendon, Bourland g, Andis h, Baird h, Reid f, Watson e, Behrens e, Langford t, Morris t, Benson g, Cornelius c. Substitutes: T. Behrens for Langford, Wood for Gorman, Martin for Morris, Davis for Andis, Waters for Cornelius, Whitlock for Bourland, E. Watson for Watson, McMahan for Behrens, Franklin for Benson.

Estelline: Cox e, Hayes e, Berryman, Hinton t, Berryman c, Kuykendall g, Jouett g, Berry g, Hayes f, Lawrence h, Gowan h.

The Bronchos will play the Shamrock Irishmen Friday afternoon of this week. This is the only game of the season that will be played on foreign soil. A large number of local fans are expecting to accompany the Pep Squad and Bronchos on this trip.

THE HOME BEAUTIFUL

Ancient Architectural Plans Combined With Modern Skill Produce The Home Beautiful

Doors Will Be Opened For Public To View The Panhandle's First Mexican-Pueblo Friday, Saturday and Sunday Afternoon

The "Home Beautiful" pictured above at the corner of 5th Street and Bugbee Avenue is of Mexican-Pueblo design and the only residence of this type in the Panhandle at the present time. The owners, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. G. Speed, arrived at the idea of a structure of this type after a visit over the Southwest where they viewed hundreds of similar homes.

This home is more completely finished than the average building of this type as may be seen from the description following. The main building is a frame stucco, finished in a very light green with a fire proof roof material. The foundation is of face brick. Entering the building through the patio one passes through a large glass door into a large room with a stairway sharply to the left. This room, as has all others, has a hardwood oak floor. The walls are hand painted done in a "tiffany blend" with light green and gold tints predominating. A combination French door and windows are located at the railing in the front of the picture. The gas heater fits into the fire place of ornamental face brick.

Passing into the dining room through an archway, one finds the woodwork done in natural color, the walls of green and gold tint most restful to the eyes. Passing to the left from the spacious dining room, the kitchen is entered where the sink and drain is of green tile with black border.

The built-in features are many and conveniently arranged. These include a frigidaire system, gas range, cabinets a plenty and pantry. The walls are of cream with a wainscoting of green. Another feature is the opening from the upstairs through which laundry is passed down.

Just off the kitchen is a snug breakfast room, ornate windows giving plenty of light with a "comfy" appearance. The finish is a light cream.

Passing back to the front room the visitor passes up a stairway done in natural light oak, steps leading from the top to the west room and to the east room. The west room is Miss Kittie's bedroom with the walls done in ecru and gold. Here again the designers had the proper idea of plenty of light, ornamental windows aplenty.

The bathroom joins this room on the east. All accessories including the tub are of a rich lilac and silver color finish. The floor is of tile and the walls done in a rich cream. "The bedroom next is done in "tiffany tint" of green-gold with ceiling to match as in the other rooms.

The woodwork has a natural finish with ornamental windows on both sides. Passing outside through a French door one enters on the balcony with a flower garden arrangement.

The bedroom through a door to the right is somewhat larger than the others. A large French beveled cut glass mirror is near the west end facing a built-in writing desk with pigeon holes a plenty. The walls are similar to the other walls except the color is pink and gold.

Large windows admit plenty of light and so arranged that the ventilation is perfect under all conditions of weather. It may be readily guessed that this is the bedroom of the parents. The room faces east and south giving one a good view of 5th Street leading to the central part of the city past the College, the home being just two blocks west of the school.

The basement is fitted with a shower bath. A room is designed for the laundry and all modern conveniences to lessen labor and save time. The floor is of concrete and may be flooded and drained at will.

One of the most beautiful arrangements of the whole structure and dear to the heart of the housewife and flower lover is the flower room extending underground from the basement and covered with glass permitting plenty of sunlight from the outside. Ventilation is possible and may be graduated to suit the plants.

The pots are arranged on shelving for display and the floor and walls being of concrete, spraying is permissible meaning much to the beauty and health of the plants.

Just to the north of the main structure below the terrace occupied by the residence is the garage made to accommodate three cars. This is of a strong frame and stucco make to avoid freezing in coldest weather.

The terrace will be set to grass and trees of large size and shrubbery placed to advantage this fall and winter according to the plans of the owners. The main building program is complete, but the matter of ornamenting the grounds in keeping with the home has not begun.

Butter Consumers Learning to Look For Label

Butter consumers now more than ever demand the labeled butter. That is butter wrapped in paraffine paper with producer's name printed there. Grocers more easily dispose of the labeled butter and consequently have no loss.

Ministers And Laymen Celebrate At Church Sunday

Meeting Called For Purpose of Furthering a Better Church Attendance

W. T. Hayter delivered the welcome address to the ministers, laymen and friends at the Methodist church Sunday afternoon at 2:30 p. m. gathered for the two-fold purpose of celebrating Rev. C. B. Ingram's seventy-eighth birthday, and to foster a better church attendance and a better understanding between the town and urban members.

In making the welcome address, Mr. Hayter dwelled upon the accomplishments of Rev. Ingram through the many years that he has served the people of this section of the Panhandle, and paid high tribute to his sincerity.

Mrs. C. A. Burton, one of the leading Missionary Society and Sunday school workers of the Panhandle, and a leading member of the local church, spoke to the subject of "Yesterday and Today" in a feeling manner picturing the many changes of yesterday's conditions as they are found today. Her talk reminiscent of the pioneer minister's life in which she also paid glowing tribute to Rev. Ingram.

J. H. Hurn, long identified with the work of the Methodist church as a consistent laymen, spoke at length on a closer cooperation and united efforts of the members both urban and town.

Rev. Sam E. Allison commented further on the thoughts brought out in the talk made by Mr. Hurn, and gave his reasons for a lack of church interest on the part of a large number of urban dwellers.

J. W. Gordon, for many years identified with the Methodist church here and her institutions, referred to the good work accomplished by Rev. Ingram on the Plains and more especially the Hoover Sunday school near his ranch where Rev. Ingram often preaches.

Rev. Ingram preached and in the course of his remarks stated that he had made one hundred and seventy converts since January 1st of this year. The converts, he said, are scattered over a wide territory and have in many instances united with practically every denomination of the protestant churches.

Rev. Smallwood Injured in Fall Wednesday

Rev. Smallwood, father of Lafe, D. T. and Miss Sybil Smallwood, was seriously injured Wednesday when he fell from a housetop at his home in Erath county.

It was at first thought that his back was broken in the fall and the children were called home. Later reports would indicate that while the injury is serious, it will not prove fatal.

W. C. T. U. Speaker Delivers Address At Christian Church

District Rally to be Held At Amarillo For Better Law Enforcement

Giving apathy of the good citizens as the greatest hindrance to the prohibition cause Mrs. L. L. Brewer of the W. C. T. U. sounded a warning of danger to the Christian citizens of Clarendon Sunday.

She said in part: "The duty of the citizen to obey is co-equal with the government to enforce. It takes two to make a bootlegger. No customer—no dealer. The apathy of the good citizens is greatest hindrance to the cause and next to that the 'wet' arguments; which are deceiving many. There is not a single 'wet' argument that can not be fully and truthfully answered. Friends to the cause should be so well informed they can answer such when they hear it.

Alcohol was outlawed because of its detrimental effects on soul and body. It is a narcotic drug." Mrs. Brewer told of plans for a Panhandle Law Enforcement rally to be held in Amarillo Monday, Oct. 27th. Delegations from numerous towns will attend.

The national W. C. T. U. convention with its thousands of white ribbons and friends will be held in Houston from Nov. 12th to 20th.

Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Noble visited the family of their daughter, Mrs. LeWright, at Pampa Sunday.

Haskett Appears Before Lion Members Tuesday Luncheon

Mentions Clarendon's History of Pioneer Days Drawing Comparisons

Speaking in a reminiscent mood Tuesday when he appeared as a guest of the Lion's club, L. E. Haskett, former newspaper man of Childress recalled many interesting events of Clarendon's early history when it was a tented city with numerous saloons back in the eighties.

His speech called to minds of old timers vivid recollections of younger days to which W. H. Patrick later spoke covering at length subjects by the speaker. Comparisons were drawn for the amusement of those present who escaped the rigors of wild west life coming at a more "civilized" period.

Lion Mulkey reported on the band trip to Amarillo and suggested a more complete understanding before making another trip out of town. He also suggested that arrangements be made to permit the band boys to see the sights and get some of the enjoyment that appeared to be denied them on the recent trip to Amarillo.

Lion Boykin reported on the exhibit of Donley county at the Tri-State fair and paid his respects to Wilbur Hawk, president of the Fair association giving him proper credit for the success of the undertaking.

Lion Trostle reported on the watermelon feast prepared for the public school faculty in which the various civic clubs of the city had a part.

Lion McKee called the attention of the members to the park project and insisted that they inspect the work already done. Further improvements were mentioned by the speaker which would include terracing and planting trees and setting out grass, etc.

Lion Burton called attention to the football game the coming Friday and asked that support be given the players by the members lending them their presence.

District Governor Braswell made a report of the charter night festivities at Dumas the preceding Monday night and other clubs he had visited recently.

C. C. Powell, J. W. Martin, Miss Mildred Martin, Mrs. W. M. Patman, and daughter Ruth and Mrs. Phil Engle are in Amarillo today.

Local Chapter W. C. T. U. Organized Monday Afternoon

Delegates Will Attend Rally Day And Pageant Amarillo

A local W. C. T. U. was perfected Monday afternoon following an address by Mrs. L. L. Brewer, National Representative of the W. C. T. U. The following officers were elected: Mrs. U. J. Boston, president; Mrs. W. E. Ferrell, vice-president; Mrs. J. L. McMurtry, Sec.; and Miss Ruth Thompson Treas. The church vice-presidents and directors of departments will be named later. Mrs. C. R. Skinner was appointed membership chairman. Those present forming the membership committee.

More than forty members enrolled and all names added before the November meeting will be included as charter members.

The next meeting will be held the first Tuesday in November which will be Nov. 4th. Plans were made to assure at least one auto of delegates to attend the Panhandle Law Enforcement Rally to be held in Amarillo all day Monday October 27th.

Rev. and Mrs. Ferrell volunteered to take their car, and it is hoped that several others will their auto's loaded and attend. Any and all friends will be welcomed at that meeting. Lunch will be served by the First Christian church, where the rally be in session from 9:30 a. m. to 4:00 p. m.

One outstanding feature will be a pageant entitled "PROHIBITION ENTHRONED." There will be demonstrations, stunts and special music and a school of methods section.

Falling Horse Injures Man Friday

McMurtry Ranch

O. J. Trout, working on the C. T. McMurtry ranch Friday, was badly injured when his horse stumbled and fell upon him.

The injured man was taken to the home of his son, Mayburn Trout residing in the Pleasant Valley community, to which place a physician was called.

An examination disclosed the possibility of broken bones and internal injury and the injured man was taken to Adair Hospital Sunday where a more thorough examination shows a broken pelvis bone and minor injuries.

Reports today state that he is resting well and a complete recovery is expected within a reasonable time. Mr. Trout is the father of Mrs. Bill Hardin and Maze Trout.

Lane Ingram and daughter, Mrs. Roy Rodgers and husband of Waxahachie visited at the home of his parents, Rev. and Mrs. Ingram here Sunday on their way to Pampa where Mr. Lane has a son living.

Donley County Needs Health Officer

Do you know that Donley county has no health officer? Do you know that infantile paralysis is epidemic in many places? Do you know that one such case exists right now in Donley county? Do you know that children from this home run at large?

Every winter contagious and infectious diseases are prevalent in this county just as they are in every section. Doctors as a rule prevent the spread of disease, but without authority, they can do little.

What is every one's business is no one's business. The protection of the health of this county demands a competent authority to quarantine cases where occasion demands. No children from homes infested with a contagious disease are permitted to attend school, but do we always know of such cases?

Battle Scars.

Blisters and callous spots may be a bit unsightly, but they do instill confidence in the wearer.

Hard Times Stories.

If we are to believe everything we hear, the only thing that is paying more than cost of production this year is bank robberies.

Chicago is Improving.

The boom tossed burg on the lake is to entertain the National Horseshoe Tossers association this week. Is this meant for a joke when her citizens are so accustomed to seeing booms tossed about?

Parental Afflictions.

A Toledo youth of six years weighs eighty-four pounds, smokes cigars, shaves regularly, talks in a resonant voice and has unusual strength. He has been offered a big salary to enter the movies according to reports.

We have known boys younger than he who could manage his parents, "ruled the roost" in general and could not get a job of any kind.

Earm Relief.

A Sidney, Ohio talkie recently admitted partons on a charge of five potatoes, no money accepted. That's the nearest thing to farm relief we have heard about.

But of course this could be carried to the point that a gossip might be missed to remark: "Can you feature Miss Brown paying a bale of cotton, a peck of spuds and a dozen eggs for that new dress?"

Sheriff's Sales.

The Clarksville Times, a Red River county paper, and the State Line Tribune published at Farwell, out on the state line near Clovis, carry more sheriff sale notices than any other papers of the state.

The Times is largely made up of such sale copy and the Tribune the past week carried over a page of such notices. Perhaps both sections think it a good time to "rock the boat" but it is a poor business thermometer as to actual conditions.

Flat Breaking Land.

With a scanty rainfall this season, farmers have had an excellent chance to try out the merits of flat breaking tight land. Where the land was broken early, it has produced much more than where it was listed only.

This is the candid opinion of some of the best farmers of the county and more land will be flat broken this fall and winter than formerly. Crops of every kind do better on flat broken land it is said.

Feed Cotton Burs.

In this issue Mr. A. W. Simpson contributes a timely article telling the public of the advantages in feeding cotton burs together with an experiment made by the state experiment station at A&M college.

Farmers often leave their burs at the gin considering them so much waste. They just as often pay out good money for feed of less value. Would it not be a good idea to feed the product that is worth more since it has already been paid for in the growing?

The Home Beautiful.

In this issue, several firms offer congratulations to the builders and owners of the "Home Beautiful," the first residence of Mexican-Pueblo design in Clarendon, and presumably in the Panhandle of Texas.

Hundreds of citizens of Donley county and from other sections will visit the building and admire the is much sought after, it it a wonder that some shoe manufacturer does not produce a shoe with squeaks that may be heard a mile.

Are We Thankful?

After listening to hard luck stories all the summer, would it not be a good idea to pause for an inventory at this time? Have we really any thing for which we ought to be thankful?

Let's see! Donley county has produced by far more feed this year than last. The crop is not up to the standard or average the county over, but it is a good crop. Very little feed stuff was planted last year and farmers were forced to buy their feed at a high price—after it was shipped in from other sections.

Again, let it be known that the good housewives of old Donley have been right on the job all spring and summer and fall with a canning era still in progress. Most all of the women have canned, preserved and pickled and otherwise stored up the best grades of fruit and vegetables for winter use.

Several are canning peas and corn this week. Several farmers helped their wives and canned for the market and are now offering a choice product that by all rights should command first consideration at the hands of home people.

The canned products of our home people cover a wide variety of fruits, meats and vegetables. Home est pack, good quality and sold at a fair price. Now is a good time to lay in a supply for winter if you need it. This will help to create a home market and assist in carrying out the plans advocated by the leading business men and others last spring.

Hot Springs Notoriety.

Hubert H. Heath, editor of the Hot Springs, New Mexico Herald, announces in his issue of September 30th, that publication ceases with that issue. The publication struggled along for exactly a year in a bitter fight to uphold law and order in a town that is said to reek with indecency, trickery and most every thing else that is repulsive to a law-abiding American citizen.

New Mexico hasn't changed any in twelve years, except that Heath did not get a penitentiary sentence as did editors twelve years ago when they stood for law and order.

Christianity is practically unknown among the ruling class of that heau resort. This statement is based upon the fact that the mayor is now under a $1000 bond on a conspiracy charge, and a $5,000 bond for the slaying of N. C. Stansell last week.

Stansell had lived a harmless life within that state for a period of 28 years, 25 years in the cow business near Roswell and three years in the Hot Springs country. The writer knew him personally and valued him as a good citizen, honest and upright in all his dealings. A man who enjoyed the friendship, respect and esteem of hundreds of the best citizens of that state.

While the Herald "killed as many of the enemy as they did of the Herald", little has been accomplished except to bring to the attention of the law enforcement officials rottenness within her borders that should not exist, and must not continue if Hot Springs is to grow and attract a class of respectable tourists and health seekers. As the matter now stands, Hot Springs is about the most "unhealthful" spot in that state.

Some of the good citizens of Hot Springs will continue to contend for their rights as American citizens. They live in that town, have families and, in many instances, all their earthly possessions are there.

"MEMPHIS DEAL"

It seems that our Foot Ball Boys, that is some of them, are not altogether pleased with the deal they received from the Memphis boys last week.

One of the boys told us that the Memphis boys tried to "hog it all" did not give them a square deal and they were very unfair in their rulings as well as they playing the game.

This boy said as they returned through Clarendon some of the Clarendon ball boys asked them if they received a "Memphis Deal." The Clarendon Foot Ball Boys played a game with the Memphis boys last year and one of the Clarendon boys said their team manager took his boys off the field and refused to play with such a bunch that played such an unfair game as the Memphis bunch played with Clarendon. Whether the Clarendon boys quit the game before it was over because of unjust treatment or not, the Claude boys say they were not treated with due consideration on playing both as to plays made and as to the scores. The Memphis boys are said to win most all games, but the Clarendon and Claude boys know how they do it.—Claude News.

OUR WEEKLY CHURCH CHAT

"Conditions of Salvation"

By the virtue of the death of Christ, God saves unconditionally those who cannot obey the gospel conditions. "He is the Saviour of all men specially of those who believe" (1 Tim. 4:10). Thus in the great scheme of human salvation, the millions of infants, for instance who die before they are old enough to believe are eternally secure. But to all who are able to obey or disobey, the gospel is offered on certain conditions. The gospel itself is the glad news of the death of Christ as an atonement for sin, and His resurrection from the dead for our justification. It is God's unspeakable gift of eternal life thru Jesus Christ, presented to all mankind for their hearty, loving acceptance, "without money and without price." It is absolutely free and unmerited by us to whom it is offered. It must be so, "for all have sinned and come short of the glory of God." But while we must clearly understand that salvation is a gift of God, we must also understand that God requires us, "to obey the gospel" in making it our own. By disobedience man fell, and by obedience he is restored. Hence the "Gospel is made known to all nations through the obedience of faith."

By the teaching of the apostles and the examples of conversions, found in the New Testament, we find the obedience to be: (1) Faith in Jesus Christ as the Son of God and our Saviour. (2) Repentance. (3) Baptism (Acts 16:31; 2:38). The last of these conditions is an act full of significance. Paul, in Romans 6, says it is a burial and a resurrection. This includes the act of baptism and its spiritual import. It sets forth in a figure, the faith of the mind and the repentance of the heart. It is doubtless for this reason that it is appointed. God intends that it should be a testimony to the world of the purpose of the heart to forsake the world and its sinful pleasures, and to live henceforth to the honor and glory of God.

"KEEPING OURSELVES IN THE LOVE OF GOD" will be our subject Sunday mornings. We hope to give some good advice to those who profess to be Christians. "SET THY HOUSE IN ORDER" will be our Sunday night subject. During this hour, we hope to show that, we must all appear before the judgment seat of God, and that NOW is the time to get ready for that great meeting. We invite you. W. E. Ferrell, minister, First Christian Church, Clarendon, Texas.

Wood Process Excels Nature By 2000 Years

Iowa Chemist Utilizes Farm Waste to Make Wood Like Oak

Making it possible to do in a day what Mother Nature takes 2000 years to do is the accomplishment of Dr. O. R. Sweeney, head of the chemical engineering department at Iowa State College, who has been granted a patent on a hardwood substitute made of corn stalks, oat straw and other farm wastes which is many times harder than oak, and one-fourth as expensive.

The new substance is made of pulp pressed under high temperature. A wood veneer can be pressed into the surface or a bakelite finish which will take a polish can be applied and the material can be used for furniture, window sashes, window casings and doors; in fact it can be used any place that hardwood has been used, according to Dr. Sweeney.

"The day's output of a moderately sized factory making this hardwood substitute would be about equal to the amount of lumber that can be sawed from one of our largest trees, some of which have been growing for 2000 years," said Dr. Sweeney.

"There is no waste such as narrow boards, short lengths and knotted pieces in making building material from pulp," he added. "Our machines can turn out a board 12 feet wide and a mile long if it is wanted."

The manufacture of the wood substitutes is similar to the making of paper from wood pulp. The corn stalks or straw are run thru a shredder where they are finely ground. They are then cooked in a large revolving vat which has projections on the inside to separate the fibers from the pith.

The fibrous material is then washed and chemicals are added.

When the water is drawn off a gummy pulp is left. If a soft insulating board is to be made, the pulp is merely pressed out into a mat by machine and allowed to dry. Hardwood substitute and other hard materials are made by baking the pulp mat and subjecting it to high pressure.

Substances in great variety have been made from corn in the laboratory at Ames. Patents have been granted to the State of Iowa under Dr. Sweeney's name for wood substitutes varying from the lightest known insulating board for inner walls of houses through all degrees of hardness to maizolith which is harder than rubber and is used in making electrical appliances and even gears for machinery.

Many of the products, especially the insulating board, have been manufactured commercially for several months and are on the market. The royalties from the patents are used by the State for aiding in the research work and for scholarships to students who will go into the study of the utilization of farm wastes.

Dr. Sweeney predicts that before many years all building materials will come from annual crops, and chiefly farm wastes, instead of from forests which require many decades, even centuries to produce a single crop of raw material.—Christian Science Monitor.

GOOD ADVICE GIVEN IN 1881

For the benefit of those to come after us, we cannot refrain a few lines on this most remarkable of seasons. There was no rainfall worth the name from May 1 to September, and everything was completely dried up. The corn, grass, trees and every form of vegetation shed their coat of summer and put on habiliments of winter. Farmers, foreseeing the high cost of provender, and the seeming futility of ever again getting water for them, sold off their stock, retaining only enough for absolute use. When the fall rains began to descend with days of bright sunshine intervening, everything began to revive. Trees began to re-leaf, bud and blossom, flowers put on their spring bonnets and the green shawl of thrifty grass again spread over the meadows, while volunteer seeds in the garden again brought forth new crops, and at this time, November 1, green beans, new potatoes, new green tomatoes, cabbage and turnips in super-abundance are on our tables, all grown since the showers began. The Madison papers report new peaches as large as walnuts which have not yet been touched by frost.—Reveille-Enterprise (Evansville, Ind.), copied from an editorial written by Julius Wayland, appearing the Nov. 3, 1881, issue of the Versailles Republican.

A TIP FROM THE FEED MAN

Feed is scarce, this fall, and winter and will be high and money hard to get, so let's use our heads and we may find out that we are throwing away, or burning up, some pretty good feed and a real filler.

Let's see what we can find to cut the feed bill, cotton seed hulls, as we all agree, is a pretty good filler, and with cotton seed meal added, makes a good feed.

But let's look at cotton burs, (that we all throw away) and judge for yourself. Texas A. & M. analysis:

Cotton Seed Hulls: Protein, 3.00, Fat .50, Fiber 50.00, Nitrogen free extract 30.00.

Cotton Burs: Protein 8.00, Fat 2.00, Fiber 30.00, Nitrogen free extract 44.00.

You see, cotton burs ground, with a little cotton seed meal will make real feed.

A. W. Simpson.

Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Frye have been visiting in the city the past week guests of Mrs. Frye's sister, Mrs. Oje Terry and other relatives.

Miss Martha Aynsworth of Waco was a guest of her cousin, Mrs. E. P. Shelton of this city over the past week.

SOCIETY
MISS LATSON AND SHELTON ENTERTAIN

Miss Pauline Shelton and Miss Jonnie Dee Latson entertained a few of their friends Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Shelton.

Colors of yellow and white made a pretty decorative scheme which was carried out in room decorations and refreshment. During the evening, progressive games were played.

Dainty refreshments were served to Misses Jean Bourland, Carroll Holder, Dorothy Joe Taylor, Melba Dell Warner, Elizabeth Kemp, Pauline Sanford, and the hostesses, Misses Pauline Shelton and Jonnie Dee Latson.

Also Benton Smith, Dick Nichols, Silas Franklin, Kenneth Brown, Tony Watson, Fred Bourland, Henry Wilder and Bill Word.

1912 NEEDLE CLUB

The 1912 Needle Club was entertained in the home of Mrs. T. H. Ellis Saturday afternoon with Mrs. Minnie E. Dyer as hostess.

Following an enjoyable hour of fancy needle work and conversation, refreshments were served to Mesdames A. R. Letts, James Trent, L. S. Bagby, R. A. Chamberlain, A. A. Mayes, J. T. Patman, B. L. Jenkins, A. L. Chase and Sam Dyer.

MRS. T. H. ELLIS IS HOSTESS TO CLUB

Mrs. T. H. Ellis entertained the Thursday Afternoon bridge club at her home in west Clarendon Thursday afternoon.

A motif of orchid and green was carried out in decorations and tables.

Mrs. Earl Alexander was awarded high club prize, Mrs. Louie Merrill high guest prize.

A lovely refreshment course in orchid and green color scheme was served at the close of the games.

McDOWELL CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS

Members of the McDowell Club met at the Club Room Saturday afternoon for the first meeting of the new club year, and the following officers were elected: President, Miss Anna Moores; Secretary-Treasurer, Miss Lotta Bourland; Reporter, Mrs. Richard Wilkerson; Director, Robert S. Cope; Accompanist, Miss Grace Sample.

Rehearsals have begun and the members have selected Saturday afternoon of each week for song practice, meetings to be held at the Club room.

LADIES MISSIONARY SOCIETY MEETS

The Ladies Missionary Society of the First Christian church met in the home of Mrs. J. A. Thompson of Lelia Lake last Wednesday afternoon. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. J. R. Tucker. The reading lesson used was the third chapter of the Philippians letter.

Those attending the meeting were: Mesdames S. B. Arnold, Ed Carlson, J. N. Woods, J. A. McAdams, R. C. Ryan, Nina Butler, J. H. Casey, F. C. Johnson, J. R. Tucker, Tom Bullock, W. E. Ferrell, J. A. Thompson and little Miss Betty Blanche Baker. The theme presented was, "Remembering the past—Build for the future." This was a very interesting study and was enjoyed by all who attended. After the close of the business study session a social period followed and during this time ice cream, cake and punch was served.

SIMS P-T ASSOCIATION MEETS NEXT TUESDAY

Members and friends of the schools are requested to attend a meeting of the Sims Parent-Teacher association at the school building at 3 p. m. Tuesday, October 14th. Those in authority announce that the session will last only an hour that as many as possible may spare the time to attend.

MOTHERS' CLUB MEETS WITH MRS. SHELTON

Mrs. E. P. Shelton was hostess to the Mothers' Club at a meeting held Friday afternoon, with Mrs. Richard Wilkerson as leader. Program subject: Colonists.

Mrs. Will Patman gave a splendid talk on "Mayflower" and other symbols of the American spirit.

"Captain John Smith" was the subject discussed by Mrs. G. F. Keener. Mrs. Loyd Stallings' subject was "Wm. Brady" and Mrs. J. D. Swift discussed 'Jno. Winthrop.' America was sung at the close of the lesson period, and refreshments served to Mesdames John M. Bass, U. J. Boston, Fred Buntin, H. T. Burton, C. J. Douglas, Eva Draffin, T. H. Ellis, Will John son, G. F. Keener, Y. E. McAdams, W. C. McDonald, T. D. Nored, Will Patman, J. R. Porter, E. P. Shelton, Loyd Stallings, J. D. Swift, W. W. Taylor, W. C. Thornberry.

SENIOR HI LEAGUE

The Senior Hi League of the Methodist church enjoyed a social Sunday night in connection with their regular program. Hot chocolate and sandwiches were served the members and visitors before the regular devotional service. Margaret Dillard was leader. Due to the absence of Mrs. Sam Braswell, Mrs. O. T. Smith met with the leaguers. All young people between the ages of fifteen and eighteen are cordially invited to come and join the League.

BRICE

There has been a slow drizzling rain here the past two days and it is indicated that the precipitation will continue longer. The precipitation will be very beneficial for those who have planted grain for a winter crop. The moisture is not thought to be damaging the open cotton in the fields as it has fallen very slow.

Mrs. Lemons and little daughter, Virginia has been on the sick list for the past week.

Mrs. Hill of Clarendon visited in the Flat Monday.

Mr. D. T. Smallwood was called to the bedside of his father R. L. Smallwood of Stephenville, Wednesday. He was injured very severely when he fell from the top of a house which he was shingling. D. T. was accompanied by his brother and family, Lefe Smallwood of Littlefield, his sister, Sybil and Virginia of Amarillo and his sister Mrs. Lute Pittman of Martin.

Little Lamar Woods remained about the same; he is very low.

Mr. Theodore Swift of Memphis the County Superintendent was a business caller in Brice Wednesday.

Mr. Jack Murff who has been visiting at Amarillo for some time returned home this week.

Mr. C. R. Cross, who has been at Mineral Wells for sometime for his health returned home one day last week.

There was no Sunday school at either church Sunday due to the rain.

Dame rumor has it that the Clarendon Motor company is to build on the quarter block owned by them adjoining the Johnson & Dawkins machine shop on the east side of the square.

Hall County to Receive $1000 From Red Cross

Claude Wells, secretary of the Hall county Red Cross work, announces that Hall county farmers have been awarded $1,000 for the purchase of seed to be planted this fall for winter pasturage.

Most of the applications for seed money is from the Turkey country, while a few have applied from east of Memphis.

Due to the generous rains the past week, Mr. Wells states that he believes thousands of acres will be planted to winter pasture to escape the result of a short crop and high feed prices.

October 25th Last Day

Please don't overlook the date. In order to reap the benefits of the special rate of $1.50 for a year's subscription, the money must be paid in before midnight of October 25th. The rate will again be $2.00 per year after that date.

Lamesa to Erect Tablet Honoring Citizens

One of the most unique memorial tablets ever erected of men—and possibly women—is that to be placed on the courthouse wall at Lamesa provided the T & P railroad builds through that town.

The name of every donor of right-of-way for the new railroad will have a place on the tablet evidencing the appreciation of the citizens of the county in behalf of rail development.

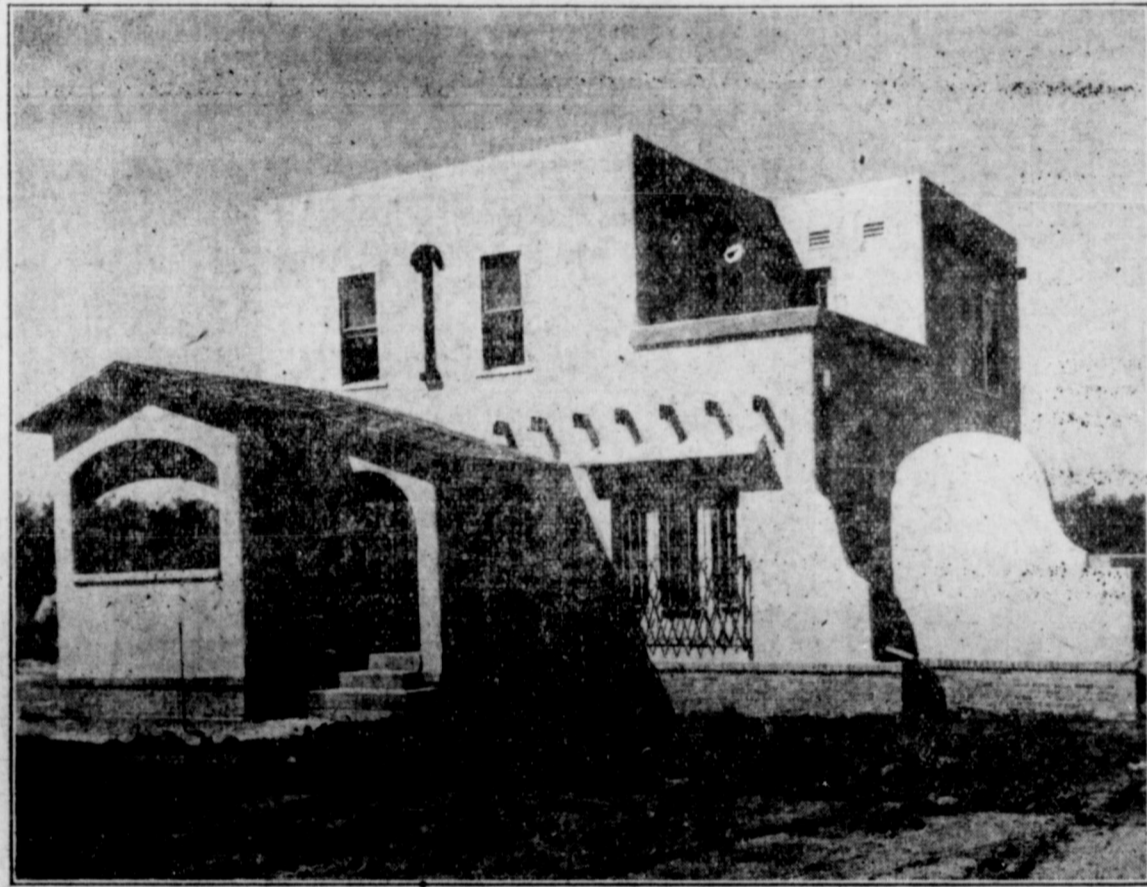

Paralysis Closes Wichita, Kansas Schools

Wichita, Kan., Oct. 3.—All grade schools in Wichita were ordered closed Friday for two weeks by Dr. R. E. Hobbs, city health officer, as a result of an outbreak of infantile paralysis here.

Children under 12 years old will not be allowed to attend Sunday school, shows or be on the street while the order is in force. High schools and junior high schools are not affected. Six cases of paralysis have been reported here.

Prevention Week Is Observed In Many Lands Now

Children Are Taught of Carelessness In Fire Hazards

Prevention Week has been observed throughout the nation in an increasing degree, and the fact that the fire waste in America is still the greatest in the world is felt that at national conscience has been aroused.

Approximately 55 per cent of all known origin could have been prevented. The remaining 45 per cent are only partially due to preventable causes. Unpremeditated carelessness and failure to correct dangerous fire hazards are responsible for probably three-fourths of our losses both of life and of property.

Business which may result in life or serious financial re-imbursing innocent persons has in European countries been re-imbursed as being of a criminal nature and has been made punishable. In certain cases the punishment is also a unit in the military, endowed with the powers of this punitive force. This punitive force coupled with a wide-spread realization of the consequences of carelessness, has not been responsible to a great extent the comparatively moderate losses prevalent in those countries.

In one year, when the average capita fire loss of the United States was $3.93, the loss in cities, selected at random, was as follows:

- England 51c.
- France 42c.
- Germany 75c.
- Italy 8c.
- Spain 10c.
- Sweden 15c.
- Switzerland 20c.
- Denmark 25c.
- Norway 30c.
- Finland 35c.
- Poland 40c.
- Czechoslovakia 45c.
- Soviet Russia 50c.
- United States $3.93.

Measures, similar to those proposed for the United States, it is felt that American cities are suffering from the carelessness which lead to such vast losses.

RUSSIA AND AMERICAN WHEAT

Whether the Russian Soviet Government or the Chicago Board of Trade is going to suffer the more by the disclosures as to Russian "short" operations in the wheat market is yet to be determined. Probably neither will suffer much; the American farmer, who has seen the price of his wheat forced down by the speculative operations of a foreign government, is apt to be the principal sufferer.

Russian agents admit selling 5,000,000 bushels or more of grain for future delivery on the Chicago Board of Trade at prices far below anything which may be considered normal. It is obvious, as the Secretary of Agriculture says, that it would be impossible for Soviet Russia to deliver grain in Chicago at such prices over the American tariff of 42 cents a bushel. It is, therefore, charged that these operations were undertaken by agents of the Soviets for the purpose of artificially depressing wheat prices, and increasing destitution and unrest among the farmers of the United States. The Soviet propaganda thrives upon the adversity of the people among whom it is pressed. Anything which can extend poverty and hopelessness among the masses in any country contributes to the success of Bolshevik endeavors therein.

But while it is plausible to ascribe a sinister motive of this sort to the agents of Russia, it is proper to consider certain other factors in the problem. The Chicago Board of Trade does not discourage short sales. On the contrary it has vigorously fought against a very widespread adverse public sentiment, to maintain the right of its members to continue a form of trading which to many people seems to be gambling. Nor does it appear that Russia is alone in taking advantage of this opportunity. "Experts" are quoted as saying that it is not unusual for foreign countries to buy and sell heavily in Chicago and that there is no way of telling whether the Russian trades were intended to depress the price of the farmer's grain, or to "hedge" against actual wheatgrown in Russia.

The suggestion is made by these professional dealers on the Chicago board that Russia claims to have huge quantities of wheat available for export, and that, believing the price is sure to go down when that wheat reaches the market, the agents of that Government are attempting to make a profit by selling at something approaching present prices. It is further pointed out that it is seldom that foreigners or foreign countries deliver wheat in the United States. Responsible dealers assert that they would welcome orders for future delivery from Canada, Russia or any other government.

There appears, therefore, a measure of uncertainty as to whether Russia is doing for business purposes only what wheat speculators, individual or governmental, have long been encouraged to do by the Chicago Board of Trade, or whether it is astutely utilizing the facilities thus at hand for the purpose of spreading depression and discontent in American farming circles. Individuals contemplating the situation will form their own opinions largely according to their own prejudices. Senator Brookhart, for example, who has long been a foe to the Chicago Board of Trade, sees in the whole affair nothing but "one of the finest condemnations of the system of grain gambling". On the other hand, an official of the board of trade is quoted as saying that nothing in the rules of the exchange would prevent any country from doing what Russia has done.

These rules have long been under fire, and it is reported that, prior to the exposure of the Russian tactics, there had been conferences between Secretary Hyde and grain trade leaders with the purpose of amending them so as to discourage "bear" trading. Various suggestions to this end are proffered, most of them too technical for the non-speculative mind. One, however, "Make delivery of grain on future contracts compulsory," is clear and explicit, and would doubtless put a stop to incidents such as this Russian selling. But it would also end most of the trading in futures, which is not at all what the Chicago Board of Trade desires.

It is quite incredible, however, that whatever the rules of the board there shall not be discoverable in either the Government or the board of trade some power which will prevent a foreign government using its practically limitless resources for the purpose of breaking down the price of American products. The Administration at Washington has been much engaged of late with consideration of methods of preventing the "dumping" of such Russian products as manganese, lumber, coal and wood pulp upon the American market. That it should be practicable to protect American industrialists against unfair governmental competition of this sort and impracticable to protect American farmers against similar activities, however shrewdly cloaked under the guise of legitimate business, is unthinkable. We have no doubt that the United States Government will prove itself capable of coping with this situation.—Christian Science Monitor.

New Era Seen Coming In Use Of Cellulose

WASHINGTON — Whether the cotton-picking machine, already introduced into the South, will prove disastrous to the agricultural laborer there was a subject for debate before the Inter-American Conference on Agriculture, Forestry and Animal Industry.

Dr. William J. Spillman of the bureau of agricultural economics, of the Department of Agriculture, estimated that three-fourths of the workers in the cotton fields of the South will be thrown out of employment if these machines, capable of doing the work of 40 hand-pickers, come into general use.

Discounting the seriousness of the labor problem that might result from the use of the machines, Dr. George M. Rommell, industrial commissioner of Savannah, Ga., declared that many of the laborers would be able to find work in other fields and that there might be a great increase in the demand for cotton which would take up part of the slack. One use which may make cotton growing of continued profit is the possible utilization of cottonseed meal as a foodstuff for human consumption.

"We are in the beginning of cellulose age," Dr. Rommell added. "Chemical engineers who have been experimenting with this product look for a development in this industry, perhaps within the next few years, similar to that in the electrical field."

Some chemists, according to Dr. Rommell, think they know what the chemical molecule of cellulose is and that this will result in an industrial revolution. He explained that it can be produced very cheaply and thus may be able to supplant or be used in large part as a substitute for many other products now consumed in large quantities for many purposes.

Formation of a Pan-American rural bank, the purpose of which would be to extend credit to the farmers of Latin America, was sponsored by Dr. Decio Machado, delegate from Brazil. He suggested that the headquarters for such a bank could be in New York, with branches in the various Latin-American countries to conduct the actual negotiation of the mortgages with the growers in those countries.

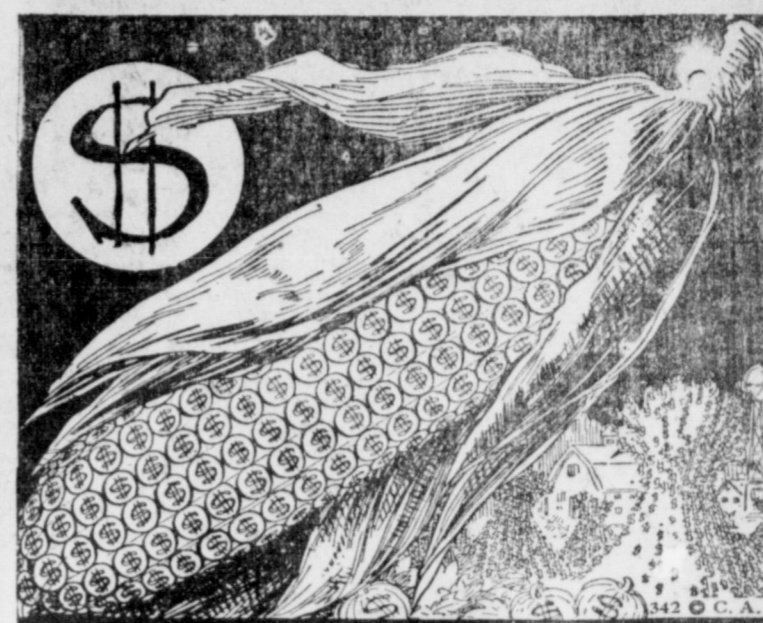

Discussing the question of present and future food supply, Dr. O. E. Baker of the bureau of agricultural economics, estimated that the United States, unless the immigration laws are changed, will reach a stationary condition of about 160,000,000 near the year 1960.

Dr. L. C. Corbett of the bureau of plant industry explained for further development through modern transportation means in the growth and exchange of vegetables between the American republics. T. Ralph Robinson, also of the bureau of plant industry, stated that there is no need of competition between the American countries in the marketing of citrus products and that an oversupply can be avoided by selection of varieties and study of markets.—Christian Science Monitor.

ing fruits from spoiling over a long period of time, is being put into practical use in the packing of 20,000 cans of pears daily on a large ranch near this city.

The process, which Mr. Milani believes will revolutionize the California fruit packing industry, calls for the packing of the pears in a vacuum sealed container of 20 pounds capacity. By a special method of sealing, the oxygen is absorbed and the fruit is kept fresh.

After packing, the cans are placed in a storage plant for 48 hours at a temperature of 33 degrees, when they are ready for the world markets. The process will permit grapes, figs and apricots to be kept fresh far into the winter months, it is said.

THE HOME BEAUTIFUL

Speed Brothers---Builders

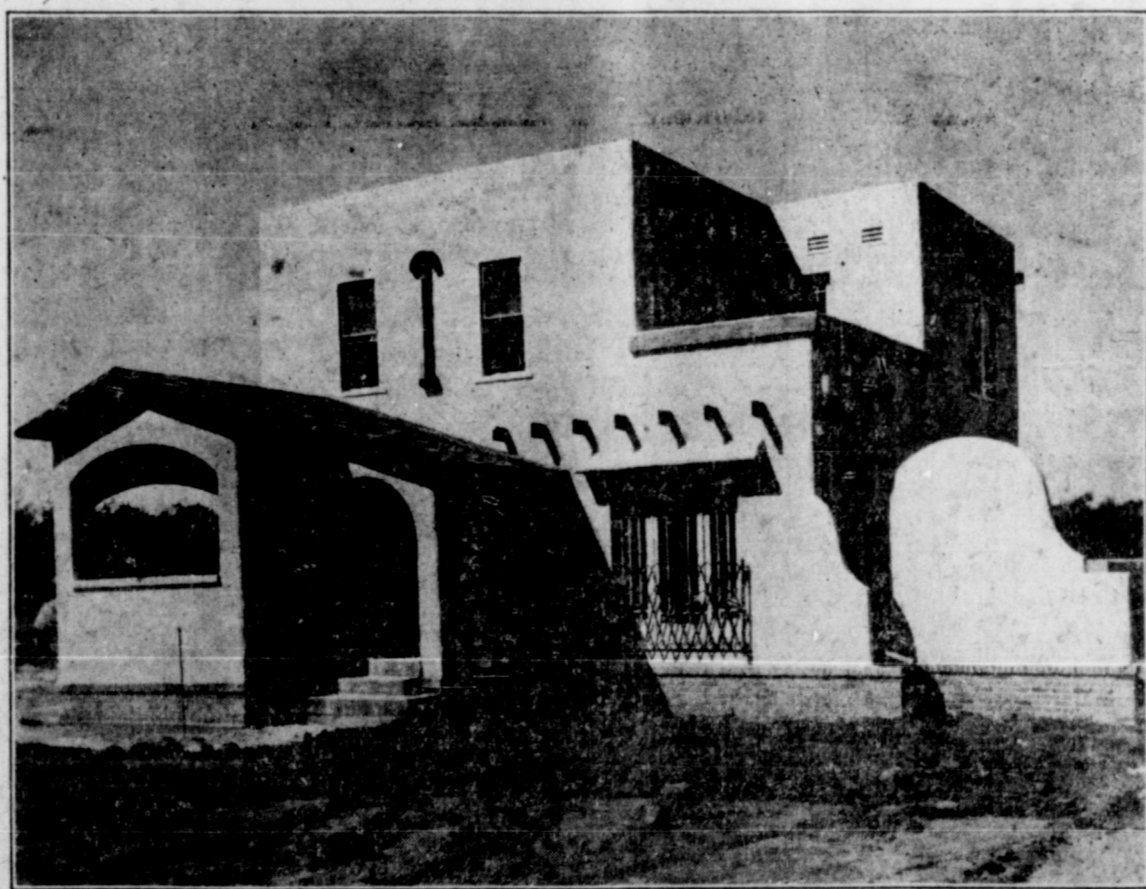

We feel proud to have the honor of presenting to the people of this section the first residence of Mexican-Pueblo design so much in demand in many of the cities and towns of the western states at this time.

While this is the first design of this kind in Clarendon, it is also the first home of the Panhandle to be patterned after the Mexican-Pueblo architecture so far as is now known.

THE HOME BEAUTIFUL IS ATTRACTIVE

In building the Home Beautiful three things were kept in mind. Convenience of arrangement; beauty of design; cost of construction.

The Mexican-Pueblo designs are within the reach of most every homeowner.

YOU ARE INVITED TO INSPECT THIS NEW HOME

Visiting hours 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. Friday and Saturday and from 1 to 8 Sunday afternoon.

The visitors will be shown through the entire building and explanations given. Ask any questions you like. We want you to feel most welcome.

OPENING DATES---FRIDAY, SATURDAY AND SUNDAY

10 a. m. to 10 p. m. Friday and Saturday—1 to 8 p. m. Sunday

The building will be completely furnished on the above dates. Visitors will be shown every courtesy and find a ready welcome to inspect the Home Beautiful—the Panhandle's first residence of Mexican-Pueblo design throughout.

Left Here Seven Years Ago to Study Aviation in California

The rise in aviation circles of Jack Frye, son of Dr. W. H. Frye and formerly a citizen of Clarendon reads like a romance. Leaving here broke in 1923, young Frye went to Los Angeles securing a position in a cafe where he worked and saved up his first payment of $250 with which to buy his first plane.

It was necessary to continue on the job at the cafe from 6 a. m. to 12, again in the evening from 6 p. m. to midnight. The six hours of the afternoon was spent in carrying passengers. This he continued until he secured a job that would give him the night hours off.

His next position with a tire company enabled him to do night flying for which he received $75 an hour advertising autos and tires for different companies. The expense of rigging his plane for advertising purposes took a part of the earnings, and his payments on the plane had to be met.

Young Frye continued to pay out bit by bit until he had acquired ownership of the first plane. He continued to ad more and when the Standard Air Lines corporation was organized, he was elected president of the new company, a position he now holds.

In addition to the Standard, he is also vice president of the Western Air Express and a stockholder in a number of subsidiary companies. The red plane flying over Clarendon each day is one of the planes belonging to the company.

This red plane carries mail, passengers and express leaving Cheyenne in the morning. The all night stop is made at Pueblo. Passengers and express only is carried from Pueblo to Dallas.

The mail contract awarded the lines Wednesday in which Frye is interested, will carry mail from New York City to Los Angeles, he having been in the east for the past several months working to secure the contract. Other lines are to be added and the new plan put into effect just as soon as beacon guide lights can be placed across the country.

The beacon lights will be placed on high iron poles 10 miles apart with a two minute alternate flash.

These guides are necessary due to heavy fog, the bane of all mountain flyers often forced to reach an altitude of fourteen thousand feet to escape the tall mountain peaks.

The corporation has over 600 employees, 70 pilots and when the mail carrying program as awarded is put into effect, not later than October 15th, will cover over 16,000 miles of air route each twenty-four hours. Most all mountain runs are made at night, and more especially from Salt Lake to the Pacific coast.

Judge J. M. Elliott of Memphis is a Clarendon visitor today in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Teer.

A SONG OF LIVING

(By Amelia Josephine Burr)

Because I have loved life, I shall have no sorrow to die.
I have sent up my gladness on wings, to be lost in the blue of the sky.
I have run and leaped with the rain, I have taken the wind to my breast.
My cheek life a drowsy child, to the face of the earth I have pressed.
Because I have loved life, I shall have no sorrow to die.
I have kissed young love on the lips, I have heard his song to the end.
I have struck my hand like a seal in the loyal hand of a friend.
I have known the peace of heaven, the comfort of work done well; I have longed for death in the darkness and risen alive out of hell.
Because I have loved life, I shall have no sorrow to die.
I give a share of my soul to the world where my course is run.
I know another shall finish the task I must leave undone.
I know that no flower, no flint was in vain on the path I trod.
As one looks on a face through a window, through life I have looked on God;
Because I have loved life, I shall have no sorrow to die.

Fire Prevention Week Being Observed By Public Schools

Fire Marshall And Others Will Address Pupils on Safety Measures

In keeping with the custom of former years, the pupils of the local schools will hear addresses this week by those in authority and others relative to protective measures to decrease the fire hazard.

Teachers will also have "fire drill" and teach the pupils how to more properly make use of fire escape conveniences attached to the public buildings as required by state law.

Fire Prevention Week, which was inaugurated last Sunday, should be considered as only a starting point. Our Fire Prevention Committee has outlined a constructive year-round program which, it is anticipated, will go far towards reducing local fire losses.

The Insurance Department of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States which conducts the Inter-Chamber Fire Waste Contest with the assistance of the National Fire Waste Council has pointed out the value of such a campaign. The Department says, "As President Hoover stated in his Fire Prevention Week Proclamation, the fire waste of North America is the greatest in the world and it is only through the earnest effort of each one of us that the present condition can be corrected. Fire Prevention Week serves to focus attention on the enormity of our annual fire waste whereas a year-round fire prevention program will keep the matter before us constantly. It will result in a tremendous decrease in physical hazards and provide improved methods of municipal and private fire protection."

Some of the outstanding features of such a program which were suggested by the Insurance Department were the adoption or revision of fire prevention and building codes, year-round educational campaigns, regular fire inspections by property owners and city firemen and the improvement of municipal protection through extensions of fire alarm and water supply systems and additional apparatus or men in the fire department, where that is necessary.

Feed Cotton Burs Advises State College

According to a late bulletin No. 404, page 37, experiments made at the State College has found that common cotton burs have a higher feed value than made prepared feeds on the market.

The protein, fat and nitrogen content are higher and the fiber lower than the analysis on the tags of manufactured feeds. Cotton burs will likely be used in the manufacture of feeds soon as a result of a combination of experiments now being worked out.

Commissioner's Court Has Short Session Monday

The County Commissioners at a session Monday opened bids for the construction of the bridge across Mulberry on the J A road. This bridge building is made possible by that district voting a bond issue Saturday last.

The contract was awarded the Morrison Bridge company, their bid being $22,930.92. Their nearest competitor was the Austin Bridge Company with a bid of $22,961.99. The Monarch Bridge Company bid $25,273.57.

The bridge is to be made from lumber of which is to be treated to prevent decay. The total length will be 1800 feet to rest on piling. With the completion of this bridge of the newly created district, the J A road will be equal to any in the county, much work having been done by the county road crew over several months.

A contract on competitive bids was awarded the Leader for the printing of the ballots for the general election. Three thousand ballots will be printed.

"This New Home Comfort Rate Makes Electric Refrigeration Even Cheaper"

"You've more than likely wanted one of the modern Electric Refrigerators but have hesitated because of operating costs. Let me explain how cheaply you can use electric refrigeration under the schedule of the new Home Comfort rate.

"The average five-room house without an electric refrigerator, electric range, or water heater uses most of the service included on the initial and second rates, so you would simply connect the electric refrigerator on the lighting circuit, use the one meter, and practically all of the additional service for refrigerator or other use would be recorded on the new low rate of 4c per kilowatt-hour—3c where service is also used for heating or cooking. This means that you could use an electric refrigerator at about one-third the initial rate.

"Many other appliances will be just as economical to operate. I'm going to explain some more for you next week."

And Remember—You Can Make Your Own Average Rate

Initial rate 12c
2nd rate 7c
Low rate 4c & 3c

SOCIETY
MILLER-BAIRFIELD

The Marriage of Miss Lois Bairfield and Mr. Sloan Miller was solemnized at the home of her father, Mr. Wint Bairfield Saturday, the 27th of September, Rev. Sam E. Allison pastor of the M. E. Church, South of this city officiating.

Mrs. Miller was educated in the local schools, C. I. A. of Denton and the W. T. S. T. College at Canyon receiving her degree from the latter institution this year.

Few young ladies of this section had as many friends as she. Daughter of one of the Panhandle's old-time ranchmen, bearing a name that has been coupled with every advancement in this section for a quarter of a century imbued the young lady with every incentive to reflect credit upon the family name, her section of the Panhandle and the memory of a mother who passed away at an age when she reeded her most.

Sloan Miller was a student of old Clarendon college where he established a reputation for sobriety, studious habits and industry far above the average student. Occupying a responsible position as instructor in the Snyder public schools following his graduation at the Teacher's Training School at Canyon, Sloan Miller will continue to merit the respect, admiration and esteem of the host of friends who have rejoiced at his advancement through the years from childhood.

The Leader joins with the many friends of this happy couple in wishing them every success in their new home at Snyder.

Following the business meeting, Miss Martha Buttrell, C. H. D. agent, gave demonstrations in making relishes and pickles, chow show, chili relish, watermelon sweet pickles, etc.

The hostess served lovely refreshments, the attendance was good and the members enthusiastic. Taken as a whole, this was one of the very best meetings to be held in some time.

Those present included Mrs. A. H. Baker, Mrs. C. L. Benson, Mrs. T. R. Broun, Mrs. M. T. Crabtree, Mrs. J. A. Tomb, Mrs. R. H. Cline, Mrs. J. C. Estlack, Mrs. O. L. Fink, Mrs. J. D. Stocking, Mrs. W. D. Van Eaton, Mrs. J. A. Meaders, Mrs. J. H. Watts, Mrs. C. D. McDowell, Mrs. John Clark and Miss Katie Meaders and Miss Martha Buttrell, the new County Demonstration agent.

A closed-fisted man bought two tickets at a raffle and won a $1,500 car. A friend rushed up to his home to congratulate him, and found him looking as miserable as could be.

"Why, man, what's the matter with you?" he asked.
"It's that second ticket. Why I ever bought it I can't imagine."

CAPITAL WEEKLY PRESS

Vann M. Kennedy

"This is the most disastrous year for the cotton farmer since the beginning of the World War", declared State Commissioner of Agriculture George B. Terrell in his September crop report.

Terrell estimates the Texas cotton crop to be approximately 3,995,000 running bales. Conditions of the cotton crop throughout the State varies from 45 to 69 per cent of normal.

Excerpts of the Commissioner's report follows:

There are 16,975,000 acres in cotton in Texas. The estimated yield is about 118 pounds of lint cotton per acre or four and one half acres to the bale. Our estimate of August 15th placed the Texas crop at 4,250,000 bales and the U. S. government estimate of Sept. 1 placed the Texas crop at 4,321,000. Our reports from all parts of the State show continued deterioration, causing us to reduce our August estimate 255,000 bales. Only two districts—the Southwestern and Central districts—indicate a higher yield than last year.

During the past years Ellis, Williamson, Hill, McLennan, and Nueces counties have produced over 100,000 bales, but Nueces is probably the only county that will reach the 100,000 mark this season as more than 100,000 bales were ginned up to Sept. 1st, and the county will probably make 145,000 or 150,000 bales.

The crop is short and the price the lowest since 1914, being less than 10 cents at some interior points. This price is below the cost of production, and farmers cannot continue to produce cotton at such a figure. Our reports show that one third of the crop is being held for better prices. Every bale ought to be held until the price advances if it were possible for the farmers, merchants, and bankers to finance it and hold it.

The Federal Farm Board is advancing 90 per cent of the market value through the co-ops., and permitting the gambling exchanges to fix the price. The Farm Board has already lost millions advanced on wheat and cotton, because it did not make a price on these products. If this board would announce a price of 15 cents to 18 cents per pound on cotton conditioned that the acreage be reduced 25 per cent next year, every cotton farmer in the South would enter into a written contract to reduce acreage when he can have a guaranteed price above the cost of production, and these contracts can be secured through the cooperation of the Departments of Agriculture, the extension service of the colleges, banks and chambers of commerce.

They can be renewed every year as long as the government will guarantee the price, and as long as reduction is necessary. This plan would solve the marketing of cotton and close the gambling exchanges and reduce acreage without a law and without the use of State rangers, soldiers or Federal enforcement officers.

I have never been in favor of the Government dabbling in any private business, but since it has entered that field, I want it to do the job right and give the farmer the same protection it gives to industry. Uncle Sam is able to name a profitable price for cotton, as he did for wheat during the War, and the trade will accept the price.

The major railroad lines of Texas had representatives appearing before the Railroad Commission this week to ask permission to reduce rates on cotton hauling.

So keen has the competition of motorbus and freight lines, the railroad find they must meet the competition. They would have their rates adjusted to a parity with bus rates.

The railroad representatives told the Commission that they had lost more than a million dollars in this years cotton crop because of the competition.

The month of August saw $1,200,111 go up in smoke. There were 512 fires in this month, 37 of which are known to have been of an incendiary origin, according to J. W. Deweese, State Fire Insurance Commissioner.

Commissioner Deweese said:

"$1,200,919 is an unusually heavy fire loss for the month of August and especially is this true when consideration is given to the fact that a great many of these fires occurred in vacant houses and from incendiary origin. This fact should arouse the officials of the cities and towns of Texas to the importance of reducing fire losses from these two causes, and we suggest that a thorough investigation be made of all fires that have occurred or that may occur in the future from such causes.

"During 1929 three hundred and fifty nine Texas people lost their lives by fire, and this alone is enough to shock the conscience of all our citizenship and awaken them to the importance of fire prevention."

"WHEE! SCHOOL AGAIN!"

Development of an educational system to a point where the pupils actually show an eagerness to attend school, rather than the traditional distaste, is surely a decided recommendation for the method and for those behind it. Such a situation now exists in the United States, William John Cooper, United States Commissioner of Education, declares in the September issue of the Parents Magazine.

This, of course, is a generalization, and there still are, no doubt, many young people who fail to appreciate and enjoy their educational advantages. The great majority, however, look upon their training as a privilege, and as "fun", not so much because of any change in the child or in "human nature," as so many are pleased to call it, as because of the change from the "three R's" system of teaching to the broader method wherein the child receives opportunity to use and develop originality and initiative.

In the present system, the essentials of acquired knowledge are imparted, but the individual ability to think and reason is cultivated more intensely. The children are taught by doing, and are encouraged to reason "why?"

In contrast to the idea generally held twenty-five years ago that the teacher must cram knowledge into the child, contemporary educators hold that children should be surrounded with conditions which will stimulate them and develop initiative, in order that, as a result of today's experience, they may better meet tomorrow's.

Work is made play, play is made to arouse curiosity, and the resultant energy is made to accomplish things of interest and value, either in training or actual production. Learning thus becomes not a somber and foreboding duty, but a recognized privilege and a welcome break in what would otherwise be a monotonous round. To be sure, this matter of play has probably been carried too far in many cases. It takes more than play to develop a well-ordered mental equipment or gain a deeply grounded mastery of an intricate subject. But soon a balance will be struck, and surely praise is due to educators who not only have made learning more attractive, but also are showing that work and pleasure have more in common than was once supposed.

Temple of Truth

Now that man can look the public square in the face, there is no necessity to hide his face behind a flock of whiskers.

When the wife and daughter of Lieutenant Berry asked for admittance into the home of a friend in Chicago the lady said, we have lost our card but we are the Berlys. "Ah doan keer of you is de cat's meow, you'll kaint come in widout a keard," said the black livered boy at the door.

A thing of beauty is annoyed forever. Also, "a penny saved—is taxable."

A young man writes in that "a kiss is like olives in a bottle. After you get the first one, the rest come easy," and dares us to print it. Well, here it is. What next?

A good friend of the Apostle residing at Memphis states that things are not so dull there as one might imagine since he has been washing bottles in his cellar for over a week.

He has the Apostle skinned because he has neither cellar nor bottles. Know some good neighbor here who will lend some bottles—come up Memphis.

The Apostle is supposed to know everything, but he doesn't. His turpins have gone through the flea beetle stage and now we want to know what is to be done when the wife's chickens get on the patch. (P. S. The wife weighs 200 and has red hair and thoroughly believes in chicken's rights.)

The Apostle has seen the intrepid hunter face a grizzly bear in a dynamic charge of enraged fury; he has seen a life saver heroically plunge through foamed waves to snatch from the embrace of death a drowning victim; he has seen a man stand proudly erect and refuse to bow in submission to the threats of his mother-in-law, but all these pale into insignificance before the courage of any man who will charge his wife's hens with a club just because they persist in destroying his turpins.

Some men have boys. Others have dogs. The Apostle has both and he is tired of staying awake nights listening to "poodle-solos". This boy ought to sell one of these fine police pups. Any young man could make a hit with his best girl by presenting her with the dog.

"FIRE WATER"—FOR RED OR WHITE

There is a powerful object lesson for wavering wets and doubtful dries in the report of Clement S. Ucher, a member of the Board of United States Indian Commissioners, who finds the Seminole Indians in Florida are "faced by deplorable conditions . . . directly due to intoxicating liquor." To stop the debauchery and exploitation, the report recommends "enactment of a law providing a ten-year prison term for making liquor available to a Seminole."

The fact that the Indian readily saw the menace of "fire water" and advocated prohibition more than half a century ago is clearly revealed in the collection of memorabilia of Grover Cleveland and Millard Fillmore recently exhibited in the Buffalo Public Library as a part of the collection Gen. Louis A. Babcock. This exhibit is made up of petitions of sachems, chiefs and warriors of the Seneca, Onondaga, Cayuga and Tuscarora nations, complaining that the Indians "suffered great evils and calamities from the sale of fire water."

They advocated that the sale of intoxicating liquor be prohibited, and called attention to the fact that tribesmen disposed of furs, clothes and provisions for a mere trifle after they had imbibed freely.

In his book entitled "Indian Trails and City Streets," Edward S. Rankin quotes a record from the early history of Newark, N. J., which shows that the white man also recognized merit in the Indian's plea for freedom from those who would force alcohol upon him:

Whereas, Oratam, Chief of Hackingheseky, and other savages have complained several times that many selfish people dare not only to sell brandy to the savages in this city, but also to carry whole ankers of it into their country and peddle it out there, from which, if it is not prevented in time many troubles will arise, therefore, the Director General and Council of New Netherland, not knowing for the present of a better way to stop it, authorize the said chief together with the Sachem Mattanouch to seize the brandy brought into their country for sale and those offering to sell it, and bring them here that they may be punished as an example to others.

Done at Fort Amsterdam in New Netherland the thirtieth day of March, 1662.

Similar efforts to "alcoholize" the Indian must be guarded against today in the West, in Florida, and even in New York State. But they are not all directed at the Indian. And it would be well for the white man, so quick to see the damage wrought to the red man by "fire water", to recognize that it is still "fire water, the trouble-maker," when the white man drinks it.—Christian Science Monitor.

AFRICAN DINOSAUR MEASURED 70 FEET

DAR-ES-SALAAM, S. AF.—Further details have been given out regarding the find by F. W. H. Migoed, leader of the British Museum expedition, of a dinosaur skeleton at Tendraguru. The remains are those of a huge giraffe-like reptile with a lizardlike hide estimated to have been 70 feet from top of nose to end of tail.

Its shoulder was 20 feet from the ground, its head towering much higher. Its hind quarters were 12 feet high. Its neck, normally carried nearly erect, was 25 feet long. Mr. Migoed has found neck vertebrae covering a length of 20 feet.

The skull has not been found but a tooth has been recovered, with a slightly serrated inner edge, and pointed. It is 6 1-2 inches long and its maximum circumference is 5 3-4 inches. These dimensions indicate that the head was large. The tail is estimated to have been more than 20 feet long. About 6 feet has so far been discovered.

Southern Judge Shows That Dry Law Has Teeth

Can Be Enforced Anywhere, He Says, If Officials Do Their Full Duty

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn.—Judge Charles W. Lusk, on completing a half of his term as judge of the Hamilton County Criminal Court Aug. 31, declares that the prohibition laws can be enforced anywhere the judge, the attorney-general and the sheriff will not violate their oaths of office.

"If the judge tries to live up to his oath, and the attorney-general and sheriff weakens", he says, "he can make it so hot for them that they will put teeth into the enforcement of the law, and soon the bootleggers will be on the run."

Just four years ago, Judge Lusk was elected by the law-enforcement element representing both the Republican and Democratic parties, and he has put teeth in the law, and has made his court a place to be dreaded by offenders of the law. The fact that he is a Republican made his election in an overwhelmingly Democratic county doubly significant. He is recognized as one of the fairest judges to have occupied the bench here.

On assuming the office four years ago, Judge Lusk chose for the forman of his grand jury, Newell Sanders, former United States Senator, a nationally known character, honest, fearless and a believer in the enforcement of the dry laws. This was the first precaution taken by Judge Lusk to see that no offenders when once caught in the nets would escape. As a result violators of the dry laws in Hamilton County for the last four years have learned that when they are once caught, there is no escape from the penalties which aCuses Most Trouble that the law provides.

Judge Lusk declares that out of 200 or more murder cases that he has tried within the last four years fully 75 per cent of them had whisky at their foundation. Among the cases of assault with intent to kill, and fights and brawls in general, he gives whisky the blame again for three-fourths of them.

In the case of domestic troubles, involving the nonsupport, or desertion of wife and children by the husband, a very great number are due to the absurd impoverishing himself from his indulgence in drink.

The fact is, if the people observed the prohibition laws, the state-courts of the country would have their cases reduced fully 50 per cent, and the federal courts would lose more than this percentage, according to Judge Lusk's estimate.

When asked about his opinion of the present agitation of the subject of the repeal or modification of the Eighteenth Amendment, he states that he sees no dangers.

"The test came in 1928 in the national election," he declares. "While many other factors contributed to the result of that contest, these factors could not overshadow the prohibition issue. The issue was thrown into the struggle by the deliberate act of the wet candidate."

"It broke the Solid South. It wiped out party lines in state after state. It gave new mandates to courts, legislatures and administrative officers. It drove from public life some of the most powerful of the foes of prohibition."

How House Would Vote "There are now 329 members of the House who will actively support dry legislation, and of the remaining 106, a number would probably vote for legislation necessary to support the Eighteenth Amendment, perhaps not so much from their personal convictions as for political expediency."

"Not all casuistry and special pleading of the desperate wets can set aside these overwhelming facts. Arge and plead and shout as they will, they must come back again and again to the cold, solid, and to them, menacing fact, that the great majority of the American people have voted for years, and will continue legislation whenever and wherever it may be presented to them."

"That prohibition has not had a fair trial, either in time or in effort on the part of all, is demonstrated in the history of other great reforms. A change as fundamental as that required by national prohibition cannot, in the very nature of things, receive general support for a long time after it is initiated.

"This fact is implicit in human nature, which resents innovations and changes from the old order of things. Frequently a generation of two must pass before reforms which later commend themselves to all mankind be made effective."

"The fact that law is disobeyed does not argue that it is bad, nor does it argue that it cannot eventually be enforced. It does argue that those who violate it, and especially those who advise others to violate it and connive at such violations, are contemptuous of the will of the majority, expressed in legal form. It is for them to show good faith before they claim the right to destroy what the majority has done."

"If any change becomes necessary, it is for those who have obeyed the law and sought to make it make it operative to say so. If the honest wets would unite with the honest dries for one year, and at every point give their unqualified support to the law, the entire question, in all-probability, would be solved."

"We are justified in believing that this is precisely what the wets fear most; namely, that the law will have a fair trial. We are further justified in believing that the present widespread wet campaign is not for the purpose of finding out whether prohibition will work, but to prevent its working, and bring to pass some more friendly measure toward the liquor trade."—Christian Science Monitor.

DEFENDS MASS PRODUCTION

Those critics who fear that mass production will unduly standardize human lives, miss the whole point of the modern economic order, says Edward A. Filene, Boston merchant-economist. "Poverty is the only thing that can standardize people," he writes in the October Rotarian Magazine. "Where people must live on a few cents a day, they can have no choice as to how they shall live. With poverty abolished, as only mass production can abolish it, they may be as diverse as their opinions indicate."

Poverty will not be abolished in a year, nor by miracles, Mr. Filene asserts, but as the implications of the mass production are gradually worked out, what were once luxuries will be put within the reach of the poor.

"Mass production means mass distribution and this," says Mr. Filene "cannot go on without mass buying. . . This involves financing of consumption. It was no accident that Ford, who first taught us the value of low prices, should also have taught us the necessity for high wages. As mass production advances, wages must go up and up." "Thirty years ago the automobile was the emblem of plutocracy. Today, the automobile is the transportation system of the public generally. To manufacture for the masses necessitates not the organization of a giant merger, nor the covering of square miles of territory with cogs and belts. The first thing that mass production involves is the setting of a price which great masses of people can pay. When that is done, all the rest follows."

Mass production also inevitably means more leisure time, Mr. Filene believes.

"When people worked sixteen hours a day, they could not have very much even if they had the

"as advertised" HOW many times you see those two words in the course of a day's shopping: "This article for sale—as advertised." And those two words are as welcome as they are familiar, for they form a bond of confidence between the merchant and yourself. They are his guarantee to you of worth and value. Here is an article that has been described in your newspaper. Its merits have been told; possibly, too, its price. You know exactly what you will get when you buy it. You know its quality; its utility; you know how it fits into your needs. And when you buy it, you know you are getting not some unproved substitute but the specified article—as represented. It is easy to understand why that phrase, "as advertised", creates a feeling of confidence. You have learned to depend upon consistently advertised products. You know that the maker has confidence in them, else he would not spend money calling your attention to them day after day, month after month. You know that they have been approved by the most critical of investigators—the buying public. Lakeview Ginner Dying Of Injuries Has Relatives Here

Fatally Injured in Fall Dying Few Hours Later in Turkey Hospital

While working round a storage chute of the gin of which he was manager at Lakeview Saturday morning, T. J. Mann fell to the bottom of the chute a distance of eighteen feet resulting in a crushed skull when he struck the concrete floor on his head.

Cotton is said to have been turned down the chute and it was several minutes before the injured man was missed. He was rescued from the bottom of the chute with difficulty and rushed to a sanitarium at Turkey where he died about 8 p. m. Saturday.

Mr. Mann had been a cotton buyer for a number of years with headquarters at Childress. He had resided at Lakeview only about three months where he had assumed charge of the gin where the injury occurred. He also bought cotton for the gin.

The deceased was the father of Mrs. Bill Leverette and an uncle of J. D. Swift of this city. He was also a brother of Bob Mann formerly of this city and Mrs. Henry Tomb is a niece. Homer Mann, formerly distributor for an oil company here, is a son.

Local relatives attended the funeral services which were held at Memphis at 3 p. m. Monday.

Conda Jones Has Diversified Idea in Earning

Having spent 32 years in the Panhandle and 23 of that on a farm west of town, Conda Jones has learned much about making a farm pay from several angles. He has out 14 bales of cotton at this time.

He also has about sixty acres of row crop besides several other lines. He has a number of good hogs every year, raises poultry and this with an orchard and garden and some good milk cows goes a long way toward paying bills besides laying up something for the rainy day.

When asked if his folks canned anything, he smiled at the foolish question asked a real farmer by a two by four newspaper man and said: "Yes, my folks have canned most everything on the place as to variety in the way of fruit, vegetables and meats."

The family is numbered among the most highly prosperous of that section, take an active part in assuming neighborhood responsibilities and Donley county is better by far for them having lived here. Mr. Jones in early days was a J. A. cowhand.

Preacher Fights Through Mud Holes on Return

The recent rains made two thorough road paving enthusiasts Saturday when Rev. and Mrs. Ferrell and Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Anderson encountered a detour between Estelline and Childress Saturday on their way home from Dallas where they went Thursday to attend a session of the Pension Board of the Christian church.

While bogged above the running boards and volunteers pushing with him, Rev. Ferrell was heard to remark that "he was going to quit the ministry and advocate good roads from here out."

Mr. Anderson also got a fill of the mud helping push, there being about fifteen cars stuck along at the same place in a detour through a cotton patch where the highway is being constructed on No. 5. All arrived home safely and the results of the job is up to the cleaners who are trying to get the red gyp mud out of the gentlemen's clothing.

That 50 Year Marathon

The couple in the lead so far was announced last week. They have not only 50 years to their credit, but will soon celebrate their 60th year of married life.

Several names have been sent or handed in the past week, but they failed to score against the venerable couple of Hedley. If you know of a couple that has been married more than 60 years, please let us have the names. They must be residents of Donley county in order to qualify.

Meredith Gentry to Build Nice Residence Soon

A contract has been awarded to R. C. Weatherly for the construction of a five room residence by Meredith Gentry the past few days, work on which has already been started.

The new building will occupy the site of the Paul P. Atteberry residence which is being torn down to make room for the workmen. The basement will be utilized in the new building which is to include all modern conveniences.

Medical Degrees Are Nothing As Compared to Grandson

Dr. B. L. Jenkins gracefully accepted the title of "grandpa" Friday when friends congratulated him because of the birth of his first grandson.

This son was born to Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Jenkins, Jr. early Friday morning. The young man was given the name of "Buster Britt Jenkins", honoring the maiden names of each of his grandmothers.

Pioneer Panhandle Man Aged 93 is Dead

Joe W. Wilkes, aged 93 and a bachelor, died at his home in Amarillo, Saturday. A half brother, Cal Shepherd, formerly lived in Clarendon.

The deceased is known to most all of the old-time settlers having come to the Panhandle before the advent of the railroads.

Mitchell Beauty Parlor Changes Hands

Mrs. C. R. Mitchell sold her beauty parlor to O. W. Latson the past week and departed for Dallas where her son will receive further medical treatment.

The parlor has been rearranged, the wood work receiving a coat of orchid color paint. The floor coverings have been renewed and furniture where needed added to the equipment.

Donley County Citizens Want Nail Picker

During the past week the subject of nail picking has been going the rounds among autoists who are almost constantly besought or haunted by punctures of nails and tacks.

It is recalled by more than one that the nail picker, so called, that went over the highway from Amarillo to Hereford accumulated more than fifteen hundred pounds of metal material calculated to produce punctures.

It is claimed by adherents of the idea here that the saving effected from casing and tube loss to the taxpayers within a year's time would more than pay for the machine to say nothing of the loss of time in patching. It is claimed that a petition may be presented to the County Commissioners asking them to purchase a machine.

A short time ago, a state Highway machine was here and gathered up a large quantity of metal but as this machine operated only over state highways, the travelers on by-roads reaped no direct benefit.

Mrs. T. W. Welch, who has been confined to Adair hospital the past few days, returned home Monday.

Miss Angeline Dubbs visited home folks over the week end. She is teaching at Vega.

Master Melvin Edward is the name of the son recently born to Mr. and Mrs. Homer Osborne. Weight ten pounds.

Combine In Test Gathers More Cotton At Less Expense

Was Advertised Last Spring in Leader And Local Man Accepted Agency

A one and two-row cotton combine harvester, which not only harvests from 90 to 95 per cent of the cotton in the field, but which separates and returns to the field the burs after the cotton has been extracted and cleans it until it is practically equal to hand-picked, was demonstrated in Tarrant County last week before a group of cotton specialists, agronomists and two engineers of Texas A. & M. College, as well as a group of Russians representing the Amtorg Trading Corporation, including Andrei S. Mamaey, president of the corporation of New York and Moscow. Others in the Russian party were Nicholas W. Wassilief, agricultural engineer, and S. M. Saenko, engineering argonomist of the Amtorg Trading Corporation, sent to this country by the Soviet Government. They were so impressed with the machine that several of the cotton combines were ordered shipped to Russian Turkestan, where the Russian Government is expanding cotton culture and introducing tractor machinery.

Wholesale Harvest.

The machine demonstrated is known as the Smith-Conrad cotton combine harvester, which does about the same thing for cotton as the wheat combine does for grain. It is the invention of J. C. Conrad and was perfected by William Neal Smith, president of the General Cotton Harvester division of the Fort Worth Steel and Machinery Company, which this season has manufactured about 250 of the new machines, representing a value of some $200,000, and demand on the increase. The combine is a development of the original crude cotton used in Northwest Texas during the fall and winter of 1926. It has been carried to a high degree of perfection and seems to be adapted to the cotton belt of Northwest Texas and Western Oklahoma, where the cotton plant does not grow very tall and its habit of fruiting and opening is rather uniform. It is the third year of commercial development of the new cotton combine harvester, which has attracted wide interest in the Southwest and brought the Amtorg officials to witness its work in the field.

This new machine promises to revolutionize cotton growing in the Panhandle and encourage mass production on the large level fields. Several farmers of Donley county will adopt this method before gathering time of the 1931 crop.

Local Workmen Employed In Building Home Beautiful

Home Will Be Completely Furnished by Dealers in Clarendon

In complimenting Speed Brothers, local contractors for having employed local skill in the erection of the "Home Beautiful", it may be amiss to say that the owners are also furnishing and equipping the building from the stocks of Clarendon dealers.

The concrete and stucco work was done by Speed Brothers and their efficient workmen. John M. Bass and John Eudy did most of the carpenter work. I. B. Pierce is responsible for the excellent job of painting and decorating, having taken the contract and doing the work personally with the help of Melvin Crabtree.

O. W. Latson did the brick work and his skill is too well known to require any special mention. It looks and is a fine job. R. S. Moss of the Moss Battery & Electric did the wiring for all electrical fixtures.

Cameron & Company supplied the building material, the greater
