Rev. L. L. Swan Tells Rotarians Of Indian History

Habits and Customs Related Based on Long Residence in India

Except for the song service, the program time of the Rotary luncheon hour of Friday was taken in detailing the habits and customs of India by Rev. L. L. Swan, his narration being based on personal observation and experience covering a number of years residence in that mysterious land.

The talk given the Club upon this occasion was most interesting and very instructive. When a return speaking date was mentioned by President Jenkins, the entire membership voiced an approval of the talk and asked that Rev. Swan again visit the club.

Doss Palmer and Mr. Parker of the Donley County Motor company were guests, each expressing themselves as being pleased with the courtesy extended them and in a few words each complimented the Club for the work being done.

The appointment of three members to share in the personnel of the Little Theatre board of directors was deferred and will be announced at the next meeting.

The program for next Friday will consist of talks by the legal fraternity of the city and any visiting lawyer who may be here at that time.

Night Officers Accumulate Nine Hogs Friday Morning

Stolen Property is Located Before Owner Discovers Loss From Farm

Catching thieves sixty miles from the home of the owner before the owner discovers his loss is quite an innovation in peace officer circles.

While making the rounds near midnight Thursday night, night officers Guy Pierce and Bill Robison noticed a truck parked near the depot. They grew suspicious but went their way later to encounter the truck at a filling station up town.

At this time it was noticed that the truck bore a 1929 license. The officers grew more suspicious and separated two men who had the truck in charge and began questioning them.

The younger, a man of about twenty who is said to have a wife and baby at Panhandle, finally broke down and told the story of how the nine head of hogs on the truck had been stolen near Panhandle and that they intended to take them to Wellington for disposal, according to the peace officers.

Mrs. J. T. Pierson is Buried at Hedley Monday

After an illness of almost a year Mrs. J. T. Pierson died at the family home at Hedley Sunday and was buried in the local cemetery there Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Pierson have resided near Hedley for about thirty years where they have numbers among the leading residents of that section.

The deceased leaves a husband and nine children to mourn her loss. She was also the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Hill of this city. The Leader joins with the many friends of these good people in extending their sincerest sympathy.

Hedley Parent-Teachers Will Celebrate Hallowe'en

Preparations are being made by the committee appointed by the Parent-Teacher Association to complete plans for a Hallowe'en carnival at the school auditorium Friday night.

Equipment for the manual training department of the high school is badly needed and funds arising from membership dues, ice cream numbers and contributions of other clubs will be used in supplying this need.

Queen Theatre Building Being Remodeled

Workmen have been busy the past week remodeling the old post-office location that was later used to house the Queen Theatre. W. A. Land's shoe repair shop located in the building has been enlarged and necessary furnishings installed by the owner to make for convenience, general appearance and output of work.

The remainder has been remodeled suitable for another tenant and will likely be occupied by the Oasis Amusement club, the fact could not be verified at this time.

Farmer's Butter Market Beats Cream

Milking eight good cows, M. C. Rampey has found that the cow will pay her way and then some if proper judgment is used in marketing the product.

He lost patience with the fluctuating prices of cream and instead sells butter to a steady number of customers who are willing to pay fifty cents a pound for a first-class product all the year round.

Ashtola Home Demonstration Club Party Friday Nite

The members of the Club will present a play at the school auditorium Friday night with plenty of music. There will be no admission charged. All are invited and welcome.

The club quilt will be disposed of during the evening. The ladies will have refreshments for sale to build up funds in the treasury.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Giddon of Plaska were guests in the W. H. Youngblood home Sunday.

Mrs. W. L. Crane and Miss Ethel of Amarillo visited in the John Clark home Friday.

Club Ladies In Reciprocity Program Is Big Success

All Study Clubs of City Are Represented on Interesting Program Saturday

The Pathfinder Club of Clarendon was hostess to the members of the other study clubs of the city Saturday afternoon in a reciprocity program at the Club Room.

Mrs. A. T. Cole, president of the Pathfinders, was in charge of the program and gave a fitting introduction to each of the numbers as presented by the various clubs.

The Book Club illustrated the books of the year with a pageant. Mrs. T. H. Ellis read an interesting paper representing the Les Beaux Art Club.

Mrs. O. T. Smith and Mrs. Frank A. Stocking were the principals in a dialogue entitled "A Pair of Lunatics" as a contribution from the Little Theatre.

The "Kitchen Band" staged a musical stunt that brought forth cheers and epores. The instruments consisted of a tub, comb, dishpan and other utensils while a curtain rod did trombone duty. This feature was contributed by the Clarendon Home Demonstration club.

Mrs. Eva Draffen as president, read an article outlining the work of the Mother's Self Culture Club.

The McDowell Club rendered two beautiful numbers under the leadership of their song leader, Robt. S. Cope.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. U. J. Boston, Mrs. H. T. Burton, Mrs. J. R. Porter, Mrs. Nathan Cox and Miss Lorena Steagall.

D. O. Stallings Exhibits Second Crop Fruit

Not content with winning prizes in yard contests, D. O. Stallings now lays claim to being the only producer of the second crop of crab apples in the county. He brought a twig bearing four of the apples to the Leader office Monday of this week to back up his assertions.

While gathering the first crop back in July, it was noticed that a number of blossoms were appearing. The second crop is a result of that freak of nature which is said to be due to the irregular brand of weather the past summer.

Hallowe'en Carnival at Brice School Friday Night

The pupils, teachers and patrons of the Brice school are to stage another of their celebrated brands of entertainment in the form of a Hallowe'en Carnival Friday night.

A free show will be presented in a play the title of which is "The Underworld." The "witches tea room" and games of many kinds will be a big feature in the entertainment.

Refreshments will be served in the midst of plenty of real live music. A trip to the "pirate's den" is another breath-taking thrill promised those who are present.

An Egyptian fortune teller has been engaged to dispense knowledge of the past, present and future. Any funds accruing will go to the Brice Pirates and their sister organization known as Las Parlas.

O. H. Brewer Pays North Plains Short Visit

Returning from the north plains country Thursday, O. H. Brewer gave an interesting account of the wonderful wheat prospects and was greatly impressed with the amount of feed of all kinds produced there this season.

He was accompanied by a grandson, Earl Keever of Pratt, Kansas and also visited his holdings over in New Mexico. That section lost most of their bean crop which has worked a hardship as that is their principal crop. His land is located about fifty miles south of Textile.

Mrs. H. J. Derrick has as guests Sunday her sister, Mrs. W. R. Frazier and son Edgar.

E. A. Millsap of Houston is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Millsap of the Chamberlain community.

MARY GARDEN

Music lovers will be glad to know Mary Garden will sing in Amarillo at the City Auditorium Monday night, November 3, 8:15 p. m. ### Rehearsals Are Being Made For Success of First Play of Season

A number of creditable plays were presented last term by the pupils of the Lelia school, all of which met with popular approval and it is said that this effort will be no exception.

Bronchos Accept Honorable Defeat By Memphis Cyclones

Will Play Turkey's Turks On Home Gridiron Next Friday Afternoon

Approximately 1500 people saw the Clarendon Bronchos go down in glorious defeat here last Friday afternoon when the hefty Cyclones from Memphis got the most "breaks" and the Maroon and White bowed to a 31-25 defeat.

A geering, leering, little unseen "devil" which mocks the fate of football, played a big part in the upset when he handed "break" after "break" into the firing line, with Memphis his undisputed favorite.

This was the first defeat for Clarendon so far this season, and with this black mark on her record she goes into a tie with Memphis. Should Clarendon and Memphis win their next game, the two teams will have to play the tie off, probably on Memphis soil. The Bronchos play Turkey next Friday on the home gridiron, while the Memphis Cyclones play Shamrock. The outcome of this tussle will go a long way toward settling who the champions will be in this district.

The old rivalry of the two teams was manifest. Both squads fought hard, weakening only at intervals; but lacking coordination when crucial plays were in action, hewed low many a first down for both sides.

Nichols, Reid, Hudson and Behrens stood out well for the Bronchos, while Hammonds, Stargel and Pierson were outstanding players for the visitors. Bourland, Clarendon Quarter back, did some fine passing before the game was over.

The first quarter started off with a rub. Memphis' hot ground (Continued To Back Page)

Funeral Services Humphrey Infant Held Saturday

Rev. W. E. Ferrell, pastor of the First Christian church of Clarendon conducted the funeral services for the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Humphrey at the N. L. Jones home near Ashtola Saturday.

The infant of about seven months died suddenly at Berger Friday where the Humphreys were temporarily making their home, and the body was brought to the home of the parents of Mrs. Humphrey near Ashtola. Burial was made in the Citizens cemetery here.

Subscriptions Exceeded All Expectations Past Month

A partial list of the subscriptions received the past week appear in the issue. The list for the first week was published some time ago. Any failure to publish all names is not meant as an act of discourtesy, but since several look after the list, the greater number of names were not collected for publication.

Naturally the new and renewals came within the county. We are glad to note that our readers like the Leader and renew promptly. A very small number have failed to respond and these names will have to be dropped from the list after the coming week in compliance with the rulings of the postoffice department.

Ashtola Parent-Teachers Get Out Big Crowd

A large crowd is said to have been present at the Ashtola school house Friday night to hear a good program of music, singing and plays.

A style show was an important feature of the program. This stunt was put on by the boys of the neighborhood.

The ladies sold cake, coffee, cocoa and sandwiches netting them $10.20 which goes to the Parent-Teacher treasury. It is planned to have several such programs during the present school term.

Mrs. Henry D. Tomb has been quite ill the past few days but is showing some improvement at this time.

Miss Sallie Ernest returned to her home at Ft. Worth Friday night after a visit here with Mrs. J. L. Allison and other relatives and friends.

Mahaffey Gets Five Years on Booze Charge

Robert Mahaffey who gave his age as eighteen and the youngest of a party of four picked up by deputies Pierce and Peabody on the street last summer when they shot a casing in front of the Municipal building, plead guilty to transporting the liquor found in the car.

Claiming both ownership of the car and the liquor, the jury gave the young man a five year suspended sentence. He lives in Oklahoma. No disposition has been made of the same charges against the three other fellows in the car at the time of the capture by the Sheriff's forces.

Ditch Suit Began Monday Still in Progress

The suit brought by the county against C. L. Benson to collect pay for making a ditch on his farm in Hall county using county machinery is now on trial.

A number of witnesses have been questioned and a larger number is yet to be heard. It is expected that the case may consume at least another day. The defense in this case is said to claim that the ditch was not dug where indicated by the owner of the land.

Ladies of Christian Church to Stage Hallowe'en Show

The ladies of the Church announce that they will present a full evening's entertainment in the church basement Friday night partaking mostly of the nature of mystic art by "Count Le Broke of the Empty Pocket Book."

Speed Brothers to Build Culverts in Hall

In letting contracts for the construction of the new highway from Memphis to the Mulberry bridge near Brice recently, Speed Brothers well known contractors of Clarendon were awarded a portion of the work.

The local firm will construct culverts and other cement jobs that being their specialty. Their contracts are said to be in excess of ten thousand dollars.

Lelia Lake Depot Robbed Monday Night

The warehouse of the Denver depot was broken into Monday night after the local ran about 9 o'clock and a number of auto parts taken amounting in value to about $40.

A part of the loot was found out in the country early this morning. Officers are investigating and have a good clue. H. E. Loman is agent at that place.

Joe and Dwite Stubbiefield of Groom came over for the football game Friday and also visited their sister, Mrs. Tom Goldston while here.

Allison Makes Talk Lions Luncheon Club Tuesday

Rev. Allison Leaves Soon to Become Pastor of the Carlsbad Church

Because of severing his connection with the local Club, much of the time for speaking at the Lions luncheon Tuesday was given Rev. Sam E. Allison which he used in reviewing the accomplishments of the Club since he became a member and his pleasant connection with the duties that had fallen to his lot during that time.

Lion Eddington called attention to "fire traps" that are known to exist, and the removal of which might lower the key rate in Clarendon. This matter will have further attention according to some of the members.

A committee composed of Rev. McKee, Patrick and Mulkey were appointed by Boss Lion Rathjen to prepare resolutions to later be presented to Rev. Allison who has transferred his membership to the Carlsbad Lions club.

Plans for Ladies Night were discussed and the various committees warned of what was being expected of them. The celebration of this event is scheduled for tonight.

Lion J. T. Patman related a pleasant meeting with the Nevada, Missouri Lions club while on a tour of that state recently.

Red Cross Drive Begins in This County November 11th

Funds Badly Needed This Coming Year to Relieve Drouth Stricken

Demands will be made upon the Red Cross this season far more than for many years past due to drouth conditions that prevailed over a large area the past season. Disaster also took a heavy toll.

The local organization contributed liberally the past summer for immediate relief of the storm stricken in Navarro county. Donley county has always done her share of raising funds for this great organization relief movement and will do the same in this drive according to County Chairman Momer Mulkey.

The Red Cross gave disaster relief in the state following a tornado which affected Jefferson and Marion counties, May 20, 1930; a storm and flood in Dallas county, May 17, 1930; a storm and flood in San Patricio county, May 1st to 8th, 1930; a tornado in Gonzales county May 7, 1930; a tornado in Sabine county, May 6, 1930; tornadoes in Central Texas, May 6th and 10th, 1930; a hail storm in Angelina county, May 22, 1930; a tornado in Atascosa county, May 14, 1930; a storm in Archer county, May 16, 1930; and a hail storm in Johnson county, May 11, 1930—ten disasters.

Individuals and Corporations (An Editorial)

There is not a great deal of difference in the commodity offered for sale by the individual and the corporation, but there is a big difference in the method of selling.

During the past several months when the individual business men and small companies slowed down due to a depression, and refused to spend a dime for advertising because he mistakenly thought he was saving, the corporations began the biggest campaign of selling in the history of the United States.

Right here in Clarendon the West Texas Utilities Company increased their advertising space twenty-five percent and the employees put forth a corresponding extra effort. Sales have increased during that time and in some months exceeded those of a corresponding month of last year.

Sears Roebuck of Amarillo is spending more money for advertising and pushing sales than ever before recognizing the fact that they pay to advertise just when times are dull. Their sales for September exceeded the volume of the same month in 1929.

The Phillips Petroleum Company is in the middle of a big advertising campaign at this time. Sales are increasing because they have quality products and know that they only have to reach a customer one time to gain a continuous market for the well known "P" products. Their stock sales are increasing and the sale of their products exceed those of a similar period last year.

Clarendon's High School Band
(An Editorial)

There was a time when Memphis was known far and wide because of the many trips made by the Gold Medal band. After the lamented death of director Paul James, interest in band matters laxed and Memphis is getting very little publicity.

During the past summer the local band boys were frequently called upon to make trips into the country on special occasions. They went and did their best. It was appreciated by all those who came to hear it.

There never was a time when the boys refused or failed to respond to a request. The trips were made without pay. They gave their best to the cause of human enjoyment. Right now the band is threatened with extinction unless more liberal-hearted people and lovers of music get behind the movement.

Clarendon has never sponsored a better advertising feature than the band. The town has never supported a movement that built more good will than the band. Considering the price, Clarendon never spent money for a cause that produced more genuine enjoyment for a greater number than the band.

In addition to teaching the young something that will be an opening sesame in after life, the band is the best drawing card on all public occasions and is deserving of the support of all good citizens.

Plans are now being made to finance the band for the coming year. Clarendon has pulled a lot of stunts that cost money and resulted in no good if not harm. We have tried the band for a number of years. It works. It pays. Let's stay with it.

Loafing Husbands.

A woman wrote a letter to the mayor of Houston in which she requested him to find her a job or a husband. If she gets a steady job, she can get plenty of husbands.

Humane Foresight.

Farmers who tried to borrow amounts based on 15 cent cotton last spring and only received amounts based on 10 cent cotton, are now thanking the banker for forcing him to keep out of the hole. The banker saw what was coming but could not convince his customer.

Forked Tongues.

An Arkansas woman's divorce petition based on cruel treatment was granted recently. She alleged that her husband, during a heated argument, threw a fork at her which stuck in her neck and forced her into a hospital.

It's probably the first case on record of where a man used a kitchen fork to get a word in edgewise.

Daylight Saving.

Old man Joshua never dreamed of starting a fad when he monkeyed with the sun back in Biblical days. As the originator of daylight saving he scored a success. We have it every summer and now even the football boys are playing at night in order to have more time for the next game the following day.

Check and Rubber Check.

The check for $25,000 given Coste and Beliente by Col. Easterwood of Dallas for their flying trip was embellished with all the gewgaws and dodads giving a complete history of the trip and the principals connected with it. The check is said to have cost $200.

Sounds like the Scofieldman who said he would give $1000 to be a millionaire.

European Trip.

In this issue appears the first installment of the article written by Miss Mary H. Howren based on her impression gained from an extended trip through Europe the past summer.

Miss Howren has kindly consented to share her knowledge gained on this trip with others less fortunate, and the educational value is worthy of your time and serious consideration in reading them. We suggest that school pupils paste the articles in a scrap book for future reference.

Let's Talk Texas.

A well known Texas utility company has for its slogan, "Texans, let's talk Texas." Not a bad idea at that. Texas has scenery that rivals the Alps, the tropics, Venice and scenery both above and below the ground not found in any other state.

The Palo Duro canyon right at our door is little known to our own people and yet some have come half way round the world to see it. There is nothing like it anywhere else on the globe. There are other canyons to be sure, but only one with the surrounding typography as has Palo Duro.

Texas is the premier agricultural producer of the Union, the greatest variety of fruits and vegetables, a climate ranging from the temperate to the tropics. It also is rich in minerals with the richest quicksilver mine in the United States.

School children should be taught more of the facts about Texas. Elders should learn more about Texas. Our state can furnish more stirring history than any other state. The first buildings of the white race on the Western Continent were located in Texas.

The Big Brother.

Recently when flood waters had cut off electric service in Brady leaving the town in darkness, the West Texas Utilities company offered the Mayor and City Manager assistance by telephone and telegraph.

The Utilities company offered to tie in its transmission lines to the City's distribution system and provide emergency service through the company's substation which is located at that point.

Brady plant operators preferred to work out their own problems which was accomplished in 35 hours, the town being in darkness and without service that length of time. In the meantime, the West Texas Utilities company had two crews of engineers and linemen waiting at the substation ready to tie and help Brady tide over at a moment's notice.

This is but one of many instances wherein the West Texas Utilities company has shown a disposition to play the part of "big brother" in west Texas when disaster fell upon the people of the territory in which they serve and where the policies of the corporation have won for it the unbounded admiration of the entire public.

Our Flood Problem.

Clarendon, like all other towns, has many problems to solve in the course of development, some projects being now in the making for the betterment of her citizens.

One problem confronting the city at present is of far-reaching importance and that is the flood problem. The elimination of the possibility of flood damage which has been a constant menace for years and has on several occasions resulted in a loss of several hundred dollars should have serious consideration.

An editorial appearing in this column last summer advocating the building of dams on the two draws south and southwest of town met with favor on the part of a number of the property owners.

It is possible to construct dams impounding flood waters and gradually releasing them at a rate that the city ditch can amply take care of the situation. The lakes thus formed could be made to pay a part if not all of the cost of construction in stocking them with fish and providing proper bathing facilities with a normal charge. Such a plan would also afford an ideal place for a public park.

Judging from present park demands and flood menace, it would seem that this matter is entitled to the serious consideration of the citizens of Clarendon and that the city government should give it every consideration and assistance possible without prejudice to its other obligations.

Fleshy Thorns.

It is recorded in scripture that "Lest I become exalted above measure, there was given unto me a thorn in the flesh to buffet me." Way back in man's history the Almighty evidently realized the necessity of putting on the brakes, and that a long period of prosperity was not best for mankind.

It may be readily recalled that any sudden disaster instantly calls for a "human touch" not otherwise found. Floods, fires and pestilence on a large scale call for relief measures to which we willingly contribute through the Red Cross.

It may also be recalled that a period of prosperity causes people to become arrogant and vain. Neighbor forgets neighbor. The finer sensibilities become dormant and we forget our obligations both to our Creator and to our fellow beings.

This "thorn in the flesh" of 1930 has brought many to a better understanding of their obligations. The man who while drawing a three thousand dollar salary also bought a car costing that sum to be paid for on the "extortion" plan. He likewise contracted to pay for a six hundred dollar radio by the same method.

The installment method of buying is a good thing if not abused. Many a poor man today owns his home which otherwise would have been an impossibility had he not paid for it monthly instead of in a lump sum. Necessities for the home are possible on the installment payment plan thus forcing the family to economize when the money would otherwise be spent for trivials.

We have learned to economize in 1930 as never before. We will emerge from this depression period better citizens, better managers of our financial resources. We will have learned how to economize in both business and private life. Business men have learned another lesson in that it is possible to get business even during a depression by advertising their wares and pushing their lines all the harder.

There is every indication that the bottom has been reached and that we are gradually coming back to normalcy weaker and wiser perhaps, but with a fund of knowledge that is worth much if we but make use of it in the future.

Hero Worshipers.

We of America boast of our democratic form of government and prate over the fact that we have no nobility and yet we are more prone to hero worship possibly than any other nation.

In selecting our heroes very little judgment is used. We more often prefer to idolize those who have accomplished nothing for the cause of humanity and pay higher tribute to the cup winner in a golf game or football battle than one who has rescued a dozen from death in a burning building.

We pay no tribute to the inventor of the radio and few know him by name, but the whole nation went wild because two Frenchmen flew across the Atlantic, a similar feat having been accomplished a number of times.

Not only that. Col. Easterwood contributes $25,000 to them but does not know what for since they have developed no new theories, never benefitted humanity in any way but did get the Colonel on the map all over the world.

When Col. Lindberg's baby was born, hero worshippers over the nation are said to have sent him more than ten thousand dollars worth of baby clothing and trinkets. The same amount could have been much more profitably spent through the channels of the Salvation Army in helping to feed hungry little folks, but the giver would not have received a card of thanks from Lindberg.

President Roosevelt, hailed as one of the greatest of presidents and who, while occupying that high office, commanded the respect of the world and forced the world—civilized and uncivilized—to respect American citizens and their rights was later refused the office on his last request because he had been forgotten.

Other heroes had come into the lives of Americans and they had forgotten his noble deeds. We pick our heroes at random, carry them up to the highest pinnacle and let them suddenly fall for all time.

Not long since a man working in Chicago was noticed to have only potato peelings for his noon-day lunch. His boss questioned him and found that he had given his wife and children the potatoes while he chose to subsist on the peelings.

His employer gave him fifty cents and told him to get a square meal. The man reluctantly accepted the coin and said, "will it be all the same if I keep this until quitting time and take home some meat that my wife and babies may share it with me?"

That man was a real hero. The man or woman who will deny himself or herself in the interest of others who are needy are more entitled to recognition than any other brand of hero America has ever produced.

BIRDS OF A FEATHER

Fred Bingham, of the Fisher Body Corporation, at Detroit has a good army story which came from the training camp at Mt. Clemens, Mich., during the war. Mt. Clemens is not far from Detroit and one of the rookies was a gay Irish lad from Detroit. He got tired of camp life one day, wanted a leave of absence, so he went to his captain with a most convincing tale about a sick wife breaking her heart over his absence. But the officer was familiar with his Irish gulle, so he said "I am afraid you are not telling the truth. I have just received a letter from your wife urging me not to let you come home because you get drunk, break the furniture and mistreat her shamefully. The private saulted and started to leave the room. He paused at the door, asking: "Sor, kin Oi spake wid yez, not as an officer, but as mon t' mon?" "Sure Pat," said the captain, "go right ahead." # Next Governor Has Total of 152 Jobs to Give Out Many After Them

The next governor of Texas will have 152 jobs to distribute and there will be more than ten times that number of hungry place-seekers eagerly begging for them. Some of the places the new governor must fill have fairly good salaries attached while many of them are chiefly honorary, paying only, expenses when the incumbents are on duty.

The most lucrative post at the Governor's disposal is that of State Banking Commissioner. It pays $6,000 yearly.

From the figure the salaries paid for the different appointive positions range $5,000, $4,500, $3,600, $3,000, $2,500, $2,000, $1,250, and on down the point where they are limited to $5 or $10 a day and expenses when on duty. A few of the posts provide only for expenses and about half do not even do that.

Always eagerly sought after and deemed a high honor are those places on the board of regents or boards of directors of State educational institutions. Recognition of this sort is rarely declined.

Four of the appointive posts pay a greater yearly salary than the Governor's they being State Banking Commissioner, Board of Control member, State Health Officer and industrial accident board member.

OUR WEEKLY CHURCH CHAT

"The Ministry of the Church" In the apostolic church, God raised up those who were, like their divine Master, to be ministers or servants, to others. "And he gave some to be apostles; and some, prophets; and some evangelists; and some, pastors and teachers: for the perfecting of the Saints, unto the work of ministering unto the building up of the body of Christ; till we all attain unto the unity of the faith, and of the knowledge of the Son of God, unto a fullgrown man, unto the measure of the stature of the fulness of Christ." (Eph. 4:11-13).

Thus, to some, supernatural gifts were imparted, which was essential in the establishment of the Christian system, but when the church was set up, the work was to be carried on by the natural abilities of its members, supplemented, of course, by divine help. "Having gifts differing according to the grace that was given to us, whether prophecy, let us prophesy according to the proportion of our faith; or ministry, let us give ourselves to our ministry; or he that teacheth, to his teaching; or he that exhorteth, to his exhorting;" etc. (Rom. 12:6-8). Each member according to his ability, is to help in the work of the ministry. In Christ's church, sinecurism must have no place. All should use their gifts, some to the ministry of the Word, others to the diaconate, the work of the Bible-school teaching visitation, tract-distributing and in countless other ways, "Unto the building up of the body of Christ."

The Jerusalem Church is worthy of special mention because it bears the distinction of having been the first church of Christ. In our next few Sunday morning messages we want to present some of the outstanding facts about the church, its program, membership, elders, deacons, worship and mission. The first of this series will be presented next Lord's Day, the subject, being, "The Church at Jerusalem." Sin is the only thing that will separate man from God eternally. Many sins are mentioned in the Bible, and Sunday night we want to preach about the greatest sin, "The Sin Worse Than Crucifying Christ, or God Is Not Mocked." "Come let us reason together," and let us study some of God's fixed laws.

SWEET CORN POKE

Some of the readers of the Leader request me to send in the recipe for "Sweet Corn Pone".

Take 3 quarts of water, add 1 table spoon of salt, let it begin to simmer, then stir in 1 pt. of meal when it is a nice smooth mush pour into a larger vessel, then stir in 3 pts. of sifted meal, add 1 cup of sugar, one half cup of lard. And about 1 qt. of flour, beat and keep beating till well mixed, then pour in to a well greased pan, let set 5 or 6 hours. I make at night and bake early next morning. This amount fills a 1 gallon pan full or one can double this recipe.

One reader who lives in Amarillo, also one of Dallas Co. has asked for this recipe. I wish them the very best success, and am hoping our good Editor will print it for them and others.

PLENTY OF COD LIVER OIL in MERIT EGG MASH

Here is a ration that contains all the necessary ingredients for steady, high egg production—and also plenty of cod-liver oil to aid the health and vitality of the hen, which in turn means more winter eggs.

MERIT EGG MASH is mixed to a formula, not to a price. It gives your flock, in most useable form, the 14% protein, 10% fat and 11% minerals every egg must contain—or there is no egg, and profits fade! Test the egg-making economy of MERIT EGG MASH with your own hens. You'll be astonished at the production increase!

To keep the three egg-making organs of the hen working full time, robust health is essential. The cod liver oil in MERIT EGG MASH is the answer.

play, "A Hallowe'en Wish," too, the high school girls gave "Not a Man in the House." Lu Mc Cellan gave a clever reading entitled "The Arkansas Traveler." The ladies sold cocoa, cake, coffee, and sandwiches, and made the sum of 10.20. The people that are not attending these meetings do not realize what they are missing, and the P. T. Holland Family of Brice
Real Producers
Among the most highly respected citizens of the Brice country is included the Holland family which includes Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Holland and their three small children.

Mr. Holland is one farmer who believes that it is better to rent a good farm from a good landlord than to buy a farm and risk bad years paying it out.

The family has been living on one of C. L. Benson's farms for the past eleven years. This fact alone speaks well for them and bespeaks the energy necessary to command a fair return from the soil.

Despite the unfavorable weather, drouth and hail, their crop is as good as any on the "flat" and they will have plenty of feed stuff for next season. Cream is a side line and poultry receives no little attention. It is unnecessary to state that this family is satisfied and have no intention of going back to Louisiana, the original home.

European Trip Graphically Told By Local Teacher

This Article Will Appear in Serial Form, This Being First Chapter

(Mary H. Howren)

When Julius Caesar once made a foreign tour of a rather ambitious nature, he sent back word to the effect that he had come, seen, and conquered. A party of six of us from Clarendon and vicinity, and ten from other parts of Texas, conducted by an efficient and interesting young man not long out of college, invaded that same foreign territory as well as others this past summer, and while we arrived and saw, it remains to be determined as to whether we conquered.

The first part of our trip was a long, slow, delightful ocean voyage, beginning at Houston and ending seventeen days later at Le Havre. Seventeen days of lazy, comfortable living, six of these in the Gulf of Mexico, including a stop at New Orleans where, in spite of the heat, we enjoyed a sightseeing drive through the city. The rest of the voyage carried us for a while along the calm waters of the Gulf Stream that turned to all colors of blue, from turquoise to deep "washing bluing" where the ship churned through the waves. Leaving the coast of Florida, where we saw the cities of Miami and Palm Beach white against the blue sky line, we were soon far out in the Atlantic ocean, that could well have been termed "Pacific" for the whole journey across.

Sitting or walking on deck, playing bridge, listening to symphony concerts by an excellent orchestra, dancing for the young folks in the evenings, dallying at meals in the dining salon, sleeping the clock around, these activities more or less filled the days of the voyage. But it was a joyful sight when the cliffs of the Scilly Isles rose on our left, and we knew that land was near. It was good the next day to put our feet on solid earth.

We found Le Havre a charming sea-port town. It rises in terraces from the sea, and is quite picturesque with its cobblestone streets and squares, and parks rich in trees and flowers. Here some of the girls had their first taste of Continental customs, when they were approached for a fee for sitting in the park. In the confusion of not understanding the request (in French), there was some indignation expressed on both sides, but when the fee was paid and turned out to be a fraction of a cent a piece, the affair became a great joke. Before we left Europe this constant demand for a fee became no joke!

That night we embarked on a Channel boat that carried us over quiet waters to Southampton, which we reached as the sun was rising. From there we had our first train ride in Europe. For two hours we passed through beautiful rural England, by thatched-roof cottages in the midst of wheat fields dotted with patches of red poppies, by frequent stretches of woods, and over small streams watering the greenest gardens. At last, without a previous stop, we rew into Waterloo Station south of the Thames in the edge of the city of London. Almost immediately we were crossing Waterloo Bridge and recognizing familiar features—the Parliament Buildings and Westminster Abbey towers above us, and below us the Tower Bridge and St Paul's Cathedral.

As we breakfasted on the train, we were eager to hasten out, as soon as we should establish our belongings in the hotel. So we soon hurried into taxis and were taken first to the Tower of London, a fitting place for our first great thrill of sightseeing in a foreign country. The ride through Southampton Row into the Strand and Fleet Street, up Ludgate Hill, by St. Paul's, and then into Cheapside past the "Bow Bells" church and the Bank of England, down to the old Tower, brought memories of schooldays—memories of David Copperfield, Little Nell, Lord Whittington, Queen Elizabeth, Walter Raleigh—a host of friends of literature and history. And when we crossed the drawbridge and looked down into the moat, no longer filled with water, but used as a drill ground, and climbed the narrow circular stairs, and gazed at arms and armor and all other equipment of knights of old, we felt in a realm of unreality, which was accentuated by the dazzling crown jewels. We saw the Traitor's Gate, the spot where lords and ladies lost their heads, the stairway under which the little princess were smothered, and other greswome places, until we decided that the history of the tower was indeed a dark one.

Through the remaining days in London we wandered through St. Paul's, the fourth largest cathedral in the world; we worshipped in sacred Westminster Abbey; and, after all the law makers had departed, we were allowed to go through that perfect example of Gothic art, the House of Parliament. We visited the church of the Crusaders inside Temple Court. Besides the church, in the quiet shade of plain trees, lies the body of Oliver Goldsmith. The British Museum, the National and other Art galleries, a day's trip to Windsor to see the castle, Eton College, the little church of Gray's Elegy, Hampton Court of Cardinal Wolsey fame, filled the all too few days which we could spend in London, and we regretfully hurried on to Scotland.

Our trip to the country of Scott and Burns was made on the "Royal Scott", the longest non-stop train in the world. We arrived in Glasgow in a rain, and from that time on, through northern Europe, rain pursued us. The beautiful Trossachs mountains were viewed in the rain. Loch Katrine, Loch Lomond, Loch Achray, lay covered with mist, and the bracken and bell heather all around us dripped with moisture. But the romance of song and story was there and the imagination needed no sunshine to stir it.

In Edinburg, we lived again the tragic life of Mary Queen of Scots at Holyrood, at Stirling Castle, and at the grim old castle of Edinburg on the high cliff in the city. This cliff of volcanic origin towers startlingly above a chasm that is now filled with railroad tracks, and looks down on Prince's Street which the Scotch people boast to be the most beautiful street in the world. The approach to the castle is a steep incline on one side only, and in spite of the now crowded street leading up, one involuntarily recalls that most beautiful lyric of literature, Tennyson's poem of the "splendor" that "falls on castle walls, and snowy summits old in story."

CAPITAL WEEKLY PRESS

Vann M. Kennedy

School relief will be one for the problems facing the 42nd Legislature in January. This is an extra legislative burden added by drouth conditions.

All manner of plans, programs and schemes for relief of drouth-stricken farmers in West Texas will be urged on the Legislature. But the school relief problem will be the most complex one to worry the legislators.

Depressed economic conditions in certain West Texas areas will cause great delinquencies in taxes. The shortage in tax revenues will leave scores of public schools embarrassed.

Terms of many of these schools will be cut as much as two months because of the tax delinquencies. This conclusion was reached by L. W. Johnson, Superintendent of the Stamford public schools, who made a survey of 22 West Texas counties. A report of Johnson's findings was submitted to the State Board of Education, meeting here this week.

Johnson estimated a collection of only 45.4 to 55.6 per cent of assessed total taxes in common school and independent school districts in the 22 West Texas counties most affected by the drouth. Normal times saw the collection of from 76.3 to 82.9 per cent of assessed taxes.

Only 1.3 to 2.8 months of this year's school term will be financial from local taxes; whereas in previous years 2.5 to 4.8 months of school have been paid for out of local tax funds, according to the report.

The report recommended that the State Board of Education request the Legislature to make a special appropriation to be distributed among the school in the drouth-stricken area on a basis of scholastic enrollment. By another suggestion the Legislature would create a special loan fund from which the affected schools could borrow. Their loans would be secured by the delinquent taxes in the school districts.

Although expressing sympathy for the plight of the West Texas schools, the State Board of Education declined to take the matter up with the Legislature, preferring to leave that to other agencies.

In the fiscal year ending August 31 a revenue of $32,221.78 had been collected in occupation taxes on the scale of gasoline. Of this amount produced by the four cent gasoline tax, $22,446,745.67 went into the State Highway Fund, and $7,482,248.55 was added to the Available School Fund.

These statistics were reported this week by State Comptroller George H. Sheppard. The gasoline tax law provides that gasoline used for any other purpose than propelling a vehicle on public thoroughfares is exempted from the tax. This provision in the law was made principally for the benefit of farmers operating tractors.

Of the 82,865 claims for exemptions made during the period from July 16, 1929 to September 1, 1930, there were 43,904 claims made by farmers, or 70 per cent of the total. Dry cleaners made only 436 exemption claims, and aircraft operators only 636.

Geographies used in public schools of the State are unfair to Texas and particularly to West Texas, the State Board of Education was told this week by a delegation representing the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. The Board, in general, agreed, and promised to cooperate in securing a revision of the textbooks.

Hopes for a special drouth relief session of the Legislature waned this week. Although Senator Pink L. Parrish of Lubbock was here to persist in his urging the Governor to convene the legislators, Moody gave not indication of his plans.

The Governor reiterated that he would call the session if he found conditions in the drouth-stricken areas of West Texas warranted an extraordinary session.

Senator Carl Hardin of Stephenville will likely be elected President Pro Tempore of the Senate of the 42nd Legislature without opposition. A majority of the Senate members have pledged their support to Hardin.

Representative Fred Minor of Denton will be the almost unanimous choice for Speaker of the House in the 42nd Legislature. His friends have secured 122 pledges for the veteran legislature.

"Through the use of electric toasters, waffle irons, percolators, egg boilers, electric grills and many other small appliances, the task of cooking breakfast has been made thoroughly enjoyable. "And now, with the new Home Comfort rate, the low cost of operation adds another advantage to the electrically-prepared breakfast. "You see, this new schedule of rates makes all service over the first 45 kilowatt-hours, for a five-room house, cost only 4c per kilowatt-hour—3c where service is also used for heating or cooking.

"Just think of the possibilities of this new rate. All the service you want to use, and yet your bill will always be quite moderate, compared with other necessities of the home.

"Next week I'm going to tell you about the advantages of this new schedule in connection with your lighting problems, and I'm sure you'll get some ideas from my suggestions."

Temple of Truth By the Apostle

A lady called in and if she had any other business than to tell me it was none of my business how many people had the itch, it never developed during the conversation.

These remedies are genuine, speaking from personal experience. The Apostle got the itch at the close of the Spanish-American war and again at the close of the world war.

When our family of kids came dragging this brand of trouble in from school there was a whole lot of fuss made about it on the part of the good woman because she was afraid the neighbors would find it out.

Oh yes, that lady noticed a scar across the top of the Apostle's head and her curiosity got the woman to asking questions. She was told that it was the result of an appendix operation.

Here's good news. The first report that trench mouth was getting scattered in the Panhandle has been run down and it is all a joke—its halitosis. If you don't know what that means, look it up in the dictionary like I did.

My good friend R. F. Morris had to come in with a tantalizing story about his annual trip to South Carolina just as soon as he got home. Glad to see him alright but why rub it in?

He told me about fish basket traps in the river down there where the blue cats fell over each other getting caught. He talked about potliker, turnip greens, scuppernon grapes, pawpaws and about everything else that the Apostle used to get back in old Arkansas.

In fact South Carolina is about as good a country as Arkansas except that they are more stuck up, wear shoes and other foolishness when everybody goes barefoot in my old home section of Arkansas. Oh yes, he enjoyed the luxury of seed ticks down there too.

The world's getting better folks, she's getting better. Our old friend T. W. Smith lost a sack of chicken feed last week and considered it "just his luck" and was not going to do anything about it.

When he told his wife about it Mrs. Smith insisted that he run a reader notice of the loss in the Leader's classified column because they had gotten good results from other forms of ads in that column.

After some more talk about the sack of feed, Mr. Smith came into the Leader office to talk about it. He knew the ad would find the feed if an honest man found the sack, but he didn't know how many honest people we have in old Donley.

The Apostle got smart about it and wagered him the price of the ad against the honesty of our folks and told him if he did not get his sack the ad would not cost him anything. We just had that much faith in the honesty of our folks.

Thursday morning after the paper came out on Tuesday, Dudley Wilson, residing on the Dr. Evans farm west of town, brought the sack of feed to the Leader office. Mr. Smith was further favored by the Leader force delivering the sack to his house.

That's what you call rubbing it in. Mrs. Smith can say "I told you so", Dudley is an honest man and the Classified Column carries a wallop. Everybody's happy and the world keeps getting better.

Yes, and here's more about the lost business. A. E. Benson found a Shriner pin and it was advertised in the Classified Column. The information was carried to Miss Frankie Zeigler and the young lady regained the lost pin. Lots of honest folks around here and the world continues to get better.

Dinosaur Eggs Found First Time on American Continent

Princeton, N. J.—The first discovery of dinosaur eggs on this continent, found near Red Lodge, southern Montana, by the Scott Fund Expedition of Princeton University, was announced here on Oct. 13 by Dr. Glenn L. Jepsen, director of the expedition and an instructor in geology at Princeton.

A number of the broken remains of the eggs were found, the age of which was estimated by Dr. Jepsen at several million years. These fragments bear a close resemblance to those unearthed recently in Mongolia, both occurring in similar geologic formations.

The American ones were located in the upper lance formation, which was deposited in upper Cretaceous times, while the Mongolian ones came from the Djadochta formation, which is also Cretaceous. Dr. Jepsen explained that since the Mongolian geologic formations are known to be older than those in America, the eggs discovered here are probably younger than those previously found.

The broken particles found by the Scott Fund this summer are rough and pitted and differ from the Mongolian eggs in color, being black, as contrasted with the reddish-brown Mongolian fossils. The original eggs were possibly larger than those found in Asia, Dr. Jepsen said, since no complete eggs were discovered. Because of this fact, the Scott Fund Expedition plans to return to the same locality for more perfect specimens.

Another find of unusual importance in the close proximity of the egg fragments was the tooth of a primitive type of mammal. The significance of this discovery, Dr. Jepsen explained, is that mammal remains found in formations of Cretaceous time are extremely rare, since the great development of the mammal took place in that geological period immediately following the Cretaceous.

The original problem on which the Scott Fund Expedition was working this summer was to discover the upper and lower boundaries in southern Montana of the Fort Union formation which lies on top of the lance formation.

Largest Bank in World in United States; 2 Billion Deposits

Mergers of banks have paralleled mergers of great industrial and business systems in recent years, with the result that the world's ten largest banks now have deposits aggregating nearly 15 billion dollars.

Largest of all is the Chase National of New York, with more than two billion of deposits followed by the Midland of London with 1,643 million, National City of New York with 1,596 million, Westminster of London with 1,433 million, Guaranty Trust of New York with 1,379 million, National Provincial of London with 1,341 million, Lloyds of London with 1,226 million, Continental Illinois of Chicago with 908 million and Bank of Italy of North America with 824 million.

Thus it will be seen that these ten largest banks five are in the United States and five in London.

The deposits of the Chase bank are greater than the combined deposits of all the national banks in the United States at the time of the Spanish-American War. On June 30, 1898, there were 3,589 national banks with total deposits of $2,023,357,160. On June 30, 1930, deposits of the Chase bank alone were $2,065,434,799.

Pain Passes Off. When your head aches; when Neuralgia tortures you; when Muscular Pains make you miserable—take a Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pill. Mr. Smith is one of millions who have found this easy way to prompt relief. He says: "I keep Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills in my pocket and when I get a dull heavy feeling in my head, I take a Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pill and the pain passes off."

Bronze Razor Found Among Ruins With 'Hardware' Of Archaic Nuzi

Ancient golden beads and amulets, primitive hairpins of bronze with colored glass heads, and pottery from the temple of the archaic city of Nuzi constitute a small portion of the articles gleaned from a wealth of material unearthed near Kirgug by Dr. R. F. S. Starr, director of the recent expedition sponsored by the Fogg and Semitic Museums of Harvard University and the American School of Oriental Research. Dr. Starr has returned to Mesopotamia to continue excavations, after a short visit at Harvard. Selected "finds" are on public display at the Fogg Art Museum.

About 200 miles north of Baghdad, near the modern city of Kirkuk, Iraq, the ancient city of Nuzi, flourishing about 1500 B. C., has been the site of excavations since 1927.

During that season, four private homes, and most of the palace of the city mound were uncovered. In 1928-29, the clearing of the palace and the private houses on its south west and northeast was completed. This past year, under Dr. Starr, the area to the northwest of the palace, which includes the temple, was excavated and exploratory trenches were run into the neighboring mound of Kutish Zagir.

Glazed terra cotta features the objects secured by Dr. Starr. They antedate the Assyrian and late Babylonian glazing by hundreds of years, and reveal a fully perfected technique where might be expected the stumblings of a beginner.

The prime piece of the exhibition is the figure of a lion couchant in terra cotta with an over all turquoise colored glaze which has in time taken on an iridescence not unlike that of the Han dynasty in China.

"Here is boldness of design," according to Mr. Starr, "a delicacy and subtlety of modeling that makes it one of the great pieces of Babylonian naturalistic art with out being imitative. It has neither the dull realism of much of the later Assyrian works, nor the unnatural grotesqueness of many early Sumerian objects."

A hint of prehistoric literacy is given by a hollow clay tablet, containing 49 smooth pebbles, which was given the shepherd Zaharu by the owner of the 49 sheep he herded. Not being able to count, Zaharu carried the stones inside the tablet in like quantity to the number of sheep, in order to keep ropr count. At that time, this was rather a common practice.

A razor which has the shape and appearance of a seventeenth century English make, an adze, sickles pick points, nails, tweezers, arrow heads and Sun or Moon symbols, make up a list of "hardware" made of bronze and showing unmistakable signs of the centuries spent beneath the soil.

Other clay tablets show the methods of writing and the forms of contracts in those primitive times. The contract tablets were made in duplicate and the original was placed inside the copy and sealed there. The outer tablet could be broken and the inner original consulted if the outside was thought to have been tampered with. The great quantities of inscribed cuneiform tablets show the completeness and precision with which business records were kept at Nuzi. They were painstakingly inscribed, and protection against lawsuit was meticulously complete.

A large unbaked clay jar, quite thick at the top and porous at the base, Dr. Starr believes was used by the Nuzians as a water cooler, the water in the jar slowly filtering through and collecting in a shallow receptacle beneath.

Diesel Engines Used in Cars—Tuareg Tribes to Be Studied

ALGIERS—With the object of collecting new information concerning the history, customs, language, and fauna of the Sahara an expedition under the command of Commandant Bernard le Pontvis, a natural scientist, is leaving Algiers for the great desert. The expedition is being undertaken in connection with the next Colonial Exhibition which is to be held at Vincennes next year.

In addition to Commandant le Pontvis, the expedition will include Professor Reygasse of the Algiers University, an expert on the Sahara; a son of General Estienne; two members of the International Institute of Anthropology, a naturalist, a cinematograph operator and two drivers.

The journey will be made in two cars, especially built for the purpose, and equipped with Diesel motors.

A stay of one month is planned in the mountainous region known as the Hoggar, where the famous and still mysterious Tuaregs (veiled men) live.

It is hoped that the expedition will be able to gain new and valuable information as to the ethnography of this curious people of Berber origin, whose medieval customs are still a puzzle to historians.

Excavations will also be made, above all, in the Hoggar, where already, in an old Tuareg cemetery the tomb of a queen of the country dating back to the Roman domination of Africa has been discovered. This is the first pre-Islamic tomb that has so far been found in the Sahara.

"BOOZE"

By W. H. Book. Clipped from "Christian Evangelist" Sept. 25th *I am opposed to all government. I am strong for "personal liberty," which means to do as I please. I hate law and revel in lawlessness.

I cause the father to steal the shoes off the feet of his infant child and the bread from the mouths of his children for a few whiffs from the flask that holds me.

I cause insanity, make devils out of men and women who have occupied influential positions in society; create liars; men and women who do not hesitate to perjure themselves when my interests are threatened.

I fill the jails and the penitentiaries; furnish subjects for the electric chair and gallows.

I hurry men and women to the city of the dead.

I have murdered billions and am still in the business and shall continue in the business as long as church members, professed Christians, vote for my right to rule and to live in their bodies.

I dictate to politicians and those who have little conviction will cater to me if assured it will elect them.

Highjackers, gamblers, immoral men and women, bank robbers, and men and women who have put God out of their minds, and some times the members of the church and who move into "good society" carry me with them and fellowship me.

I am in the possession of the bootlegger, and the highwayman, and I may be found hidden away in the cellar of the church elder or deacon awaiting the opportunity to be revealed when the friends of the social realm are calling.

I may also be found in some cellars of fraternal orders and I come out on special occasions for the gratification of the appetite of influential members.

I have boasted often that I cannot be prohibited and that I will not be suppressed.

I defy the State, and the Nation and the World.

Little Damage As Result Of Light Freeze

Donley County experienced her first taste of winter Thursday night when ice of the thickness of some sections. Frost also formed in the lowlands but no damage resulted from the cold spell evidently due to the moon shining throughout the night.

The cold, damp weather of the past week has retarded crop gathering with a thermometer reading of 32 to 44 almost every night. Truck patches and late feed stuff and grain pastures continue with a steady growth through a warm spell with sunshine would help wonderfully at this time.

TWO DAYS ON LEAP YEAR

An Irishman working for a Dutchman asked for an increase in pay. The Dutchman replied: "If you are worth it, I would be pleased to give it to you. Now let us see what you do in a year. Pat, we have 365 days in a year. You sleep eight hours every day, which makes 122 days you sleep, which, taken from 365, leaves 243. Now you have eight hours' recreation every day, which makes 122 days from 243, leaving 121 days. We have 52 Sundays in a year which you have off, leaving you 69 days. You have fourteen days' vacation. Saturday afternoons and this makes 26 days a year. Take this off and you have 29 days left. ers in all. In each case, the local chapters acted at once to meet emergency needs of food, clothing, shelter and medical attention. The National Red Cross provided experienced workers who investigated the needs of each family for rehabilitation or more permanent forms of assistance, necessary for return to self-support. This form of aid was extended to over 700 families following these disasters, $83.00 to these.

The Red Cross undertook the most extensive relief following the tornadoes which struck Central Texas on May 6th and 10th respectively. These storms affected the counties of McLennan, Hill, Navarro, Ellis, and Kufman. The business section of the town of Frost was entirely demolished, and many of the homes were either destroyed or damaged. The storm passed over what is reputed to be the most prosperous agricultural territory in Texas. Forty-three persons were killed and 310 injured by these storms. The Red Cross administered emergency relief to 1525 persons, including 820 typhoid inoculations and 173 tetanus inoculations, and awarded rehabilitation assistance to 378 families. The relief fund expended in this disaster relief operation totaled $130,000, $23,000 of which was contribution of the American National Red Cross. The rest came from the public.

During the first hours of this disaster, chapters whose territories were affected immediately put their emergency relief resources into operation, and were assisted splendidly by the officers of local government, and local organizations. This co-operation was continued when the relief work was placed under the direction of members of the National Red Cross Disaster staff.

of his victim headed across the lot south of the Johnson & Dawkins machine shop.

The man is said to have shed his hat at the start, next the coat and later his vest. Pierce was at his heels in an effort to capture the speedy brother and in order to stop him, fired two shots into the air.

The report of the six shooter caused the fleeing man to open all accelerators and go the faster. Finally Pierce caught up with him and knocked him down before he could make a capture.

In the meantime, Robison had heard the shots and came to see what it was all about. Pierce had his man back of the jail and both men were locked up giving the names of Edwards and Stevens.

From the story told by the younger, local officers had no trouble in locating L. F. Cleek of Panhandle, owner of the hogs who up to that time had not discovered his loss. The men were held in jail until Saturday when Cleek and the Sheriff came over from Panhandle identified the hogs and returned the accused parties to Panhandle.

and attempted to punt, only to have the ball blocked behind the goal line. Behrens, a Clarendon end, covered the ball for a touchdown, giving Clarendon 6 points. Try for extra point failed.

The next few minutes of play found the Cyclones playing deep in Clarendon territory. A line plunge by Hammonds placed the ball on Clarendon's 4 yard line. On the next play, Hammonds carried the ball over for a touchdown. Baird kicked for extra point. The half ended Clarendon 13, Memphis 6.

The second half opened up with Memphis playing a fast rushing game. An 18 yard sprint by Hammonds gave Memphis her second touchdown. Try for point failed.

Again Memphis came back with a rush of fast plays. A sixty yard run by Hammonds gave Memphis her third touchdown. Try for point was successful.

Clarendon took the ball and was held for downs. An attempted punt was blocked and a Cyclone man scooped it up and sprinted across the goal line for a fourth touchdown for Memphis. Try for point failed.

The "breaks" seemed plentiful for Memphis. For the second time a Clarendon punt was blocked. Hammonds, terror of the Cyclones scooped up the ball and made a dash across the goal line. This was the fifth touchdown for Memphis. Try for point failed.

The old fighting spirit of the Maroon and White was boiling hot. They were determined to make up for lost time and they rushed in fast and fierce. A Memphis punt was blocked and Reid scooped it up and dashed across the goal line for Clarendon's third touchdown. Try for point failed.

The last few minutes of the game found Clarendon opening up with a fast aerial attack. A 40 yard pass, Nichols to Reid and two line bucks gave Clarendon her fourth touchdown. Try for point failed.

The Bronchos were fighting hard with a fierce aerial attack when the whistle blew. A 45 yard pass, Bourland to Martin looked mighty good for Clarendon, but all of the golden moments allotted the game had sped on, leaving the Bronchos to taste the bitter dregs of a 31-25 defeat.

The line up for Clarendon: Watson re, Morris rt, Reid rg, Martin c, Benson lg, Langford lt, Behrens le, Hudson rh, Andis lb, Bourland q, Dick Nichols fb.

The line up for Memphis: Jackson re, Sanders rt, Champion rg, Bourland c, Dial lg, Kunkler lt, West le, Stargel rh, Jarvis lb, Pierson q, Hammond fb.

Scenic Wonders of Southwest Will be Visited by State Officials—Citizens

A number of Donley county citizens feeling a personal interest in the creation of Palo Duro canyon into a state park, will make, the journey to the famous beauty spot leaving here for Canyon early Sunday morning.

Acceptance of invitations sent out recently by the Palo Duro Park Association to state officials urging them to take part in a motorcade sightseeing tour of the canyon on Sunday, November 2, has already been received from Senator Clint Small, State Representative Clyde Warwick and Congressman Marvin Jones.

Other state notables including Governor Dan Moody, Senator Pink Parish, and D. E. Colp, chairman of the State Park Board, have been invited.

Palo Duro Canyon, the scenic beauty of Northwest Texas, is privately owned and is seldom opened to the public, but in order that the public may know something of the splendor there an arrangement has been completed with the owners whereby people may become acquainted with the possibilities of the canyon as a park.

Arrangements were made through efforts of the Canyon Chamber of Commerce.

Rolla Townsend, secretary of the park association, said today that Company F, of the National Guard, and state police will assist in directing traffic during the day. He also stated that the itinerary will be different from that used in the summer in order that persons making the previous trip will see another section of the great crevice.

With a touch of frost to the trees and plants the canyon is expected to be unusually attractive in all its fall colorings.

It is planned to assemble shortly before noon at the Joe Gamble camp in the canyon and proceed in a body along the rim to a point beyond Lighthouse Point where a short program will be held.

Railroad Comes To Famous Cow Town On Rio Grande

Presidio, Texas, With 300 Years' History, Gets New World Link

This 300-year-old little town on the Mexican border in the Big Bend section of Texas, the last of the cattle frontiers, recently celebrated the culmination of 20 years of dreaming and hoping.

The last spike, linking the Santa Fe extension from Alpine, Texas, with the Mexican Orient Railroad was driven in September, and citizens of Presidio and Ojinaga, Mexico, joined in celebrating what is expected to be a new era of development which will make this town of 2000 inhabitants into a second El Paso. And shortly after, the first iron horse puffed across the new international bridge to mark the completion of the vision of the late Arthur E. Stillwell, the Kansas City young man who 20 years ago built the Kansas City, Mexico & Orient into the virgin territory of the Southwest.

Vivification has come slowly to the country between here and Alpine, and the new line runs 80 miles through a rich ranching area. Before, it was 70 miles to the nearest railroad with only two houses between and men have wandered for days lost in its vast wastes. Now, however, new towns are being planned and mining and agricultural resources will be tapped.

Representatives of Chihuahua, Presidio, Alpine, San Angelo and Fort Worth met in San Angelo and completed plans to run two special trains through over the Santa Fe Nov. 1. One will go to Chihuahua and the other to Mexico City.

The story of Stillwell and the Orient Railroad is one of the most romantic chapters of the Southwest. When Stillwell started the road he envisioned a great line running from the heart of America to the Southwest, furnishing easy access to the Orient.

The railroad reached San Angelo in 1907 and later was built on to Alpine during many years of rocky financial going. Division points were established at Alpine and Wichita, Kan. Finally the road fell into the hands of receivers and while plans were being made to abandon it oil came to west Texas in 1923, bringing prosperity.

Early last year the Santa Fe bought the road and started work on the extension. The route to the western coast has not yet been completed but it runs 163 miles to Chihuahua City. The Santa Fe last year, sold the Orient lines in Mexico to a group of Mexican, El Paso and Eastern capitalists and they plan to push construction.

A merchant (we will let you guess of what nationality) at the close of his financial year called his staff together.

"Well, men," he said "we've had a splendid year and I'm going to divide 100 pounds between you. I've written out three checks, one for Mr. McGregor for 40 pounds, one for Mr. Grant for 35 pounds, and one for Mr. Gordon for 25 pounds. I congratulate you all on the way you have worked and if you do as well during the next twelve months I'll sign the checks."
