HIGHWAY SURVEY TO BE CHANGED FROM HERE EAST

Jury of View Has Secured Right-of-way From Here To West Line

According to latest information from a member of the Jury of View, practically all of the right-of-way from Clarendon west to the Armstrong county line has been secured for the new location of Highway 5. The Jury expects to be able to close it all up by the end of the week.

The county will pay the Denver railway company $2500 for moving the stock pens, the location of course to be granted the county for highway purposes. The Denver has been most liberal in many ways in contributing right-of-way free of charge where it would avoid forcing the removal of houses and other costly damage to the county funds.

The right-of-way from Clarendon east to the Hall county line will be re-surveyed in an effort to follow the railway more closely to save the expense of paying property damages. From Lelia to Hedley, the railway line will be followed closely according to reports from the Jury of View.

Should the re-survey plans be carried out, which will no doubt be the case, and the railway company donates right-of-way where a removal of property would otherwise be necessary, it is believed that the entire right-of-way across the county will cost $10,000 less than at first expected, or a total of $20,000.

The railway company has agreed to supply 36 miles of fence across the county which will eliminate another costly item that comes as a gift from the railway company.

Chamberlain School Building Burns Early Wednesday

Fire of unknown origin totally destroyed the Chamberlain school building about 2 a. m. Wednesday morning.

Arrangements will be made to continue school in a vacant building belonging to Karl Adams, it is said.

Members of the school board were in Wednesday to make arrangements for assistance through the RFC committee to secure all the help possible toward rebuilding Odus Caraway, chairman of the local committee pledged them all the help possible.

Insurance to the amount of $2800 was being carried on building and furnishings. Plans are to replace the building with a brick made as nearly fireproof as possible.

JOHN E. PURYEAR

Representative John E. Puryear of this the 122nd district is a member of the following legislative committees: Agriculture, Vice-Chairman Claims and Accounts, Game and Fisheries, Live Stock and Stock Raising.

Thus it will be seen that Mr. Puryear will be in a position to render his district and the state at large a real service. Hon. Coke Stevenson, Speaker of the House, could not have made a better selection for which he is eminently qualified, than to select Mr. Puryear to serve on the standing committees enumerated above.

PROGRAM STAGED BY LEGION BOYS MAKES BIG HIT

Varied Entertainment Marks New Record With Annual Siege of Ridicule

Play time was a great time with the Legion boys and their guests at Legion Hall Tuesday night. Commander Ralph Kerbow discharged the duties of opening and closing, after which the program ran riot over a period of more than two hours.

G. L. Boykin delivered an address in which he set forth the aims and objects of the Legion in a concise manner for the benefit of the guests.

Guy Kerbow was chief announcer for station AWOL, and his witticisms in announcing the "station guests" were one of the principal features of the program. Many were the times that Prof. Kerbow paid his respects to the reputation and dumbfounding proclivities of his staff before the improvised "mike" that to all intents and purposes impressed the audience as being both methodical and idiotical.

First guest speaker honors over AWOL broadcasting station brought before the mike none other than Dr. Brinkley-Tate Chamberlain who proceeded at once to lay down a scientific barrage that completely engulfed his audience. The speaker confined his remarks to the merits of his famous remedy that was guaranteed to cure all the ills of the human body from refinishing a bald pate to soothing the pains of ingrowing toe nails. By means of a television attachment, the well known goat gland exponent was enabled to offer to his unseen audience of millions, the intricate mechanism of a spinal column replete with motor nerves that are the direct cause of motor accidents because they refuse to mate after being struck by a locomotive. Kelly Chamberlain took this part upon himself and brought down the house with his 20 minute "lecture."

To relieve the audience of severe nerve tension following the "medical" lecture, a string quartette known as "Decker's Rag Hounds" including Coos Decker, Reid Aycock, J. L. Walling and E. Radney, lulled the crowd back to consciousness with the sweet strains of Beethoven's Rag.

At this juncture, Harry Kerbow, a small son of the announcer, appeared in the role of Paul Revere bringing Western Union messages to the "station" requesting special musical numbers. Such "messages" couched in comical terms continued to arrive all during the broadcast.

The "German Band" broadcasted as its first number, "Bring on the Beer" with Gus B. Stevenson directing. Members of the band were Bill and Charles Walker, Hubert Reavis, Henry Wilder, J. R. Cox and Bob Bledsoe. The announcer stated that it was his opinion that the minds of the older guests were taken back to pre-war days which accounted for the "tears" being shed, rather than it being caused by the musical quality.

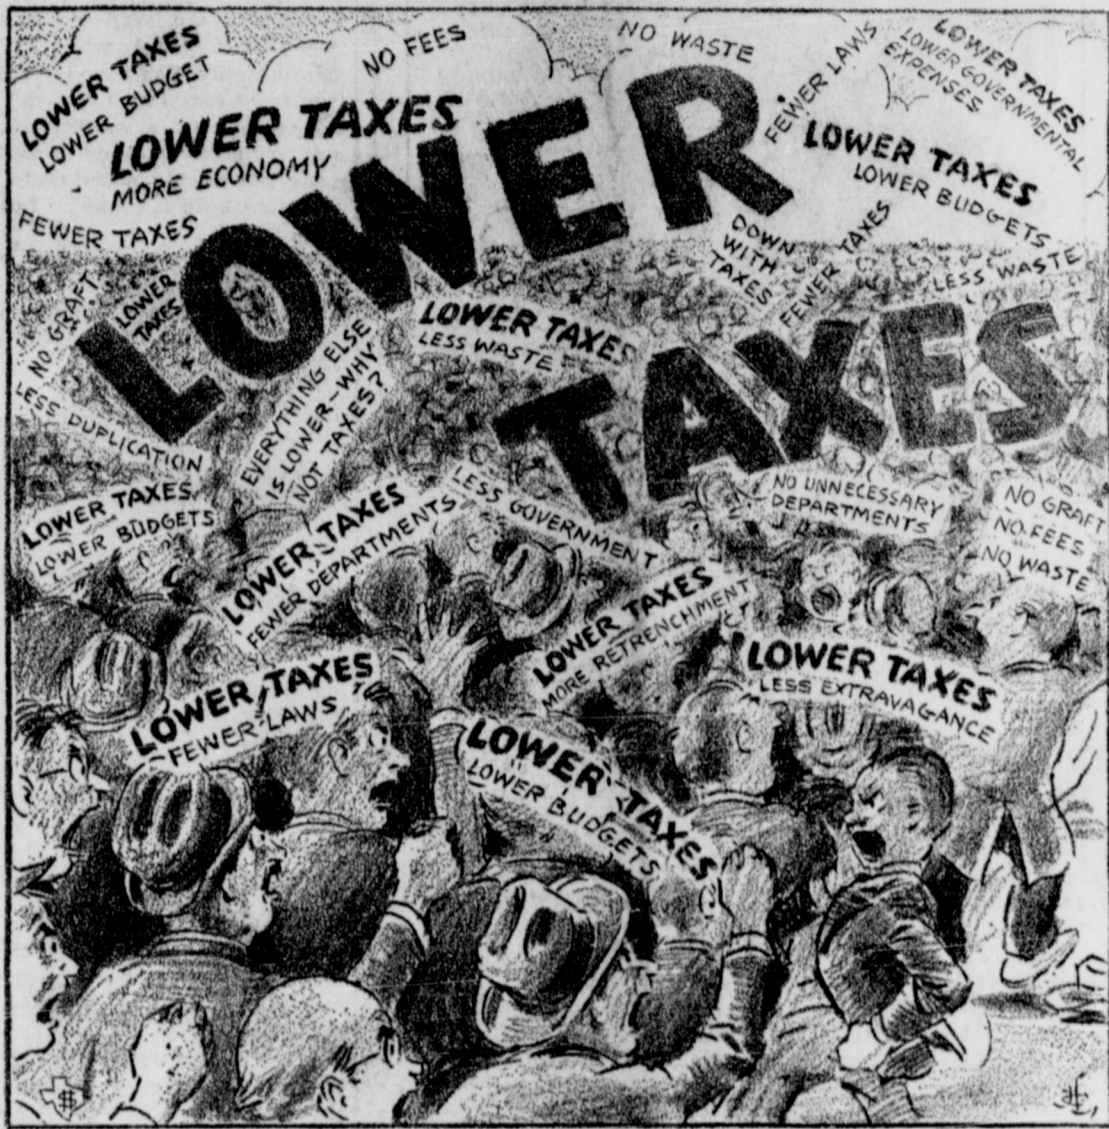

At this juncture, it was discovered that a number of station guests were unable to take their turn at the mike due to the fact that a search was being made for the beer. Decker's Rag Hounds came to the rescue with old-time tunes to divert attention from impending scandal, according to the announcer.

The assembly stood at attention at the request of Commander H. R. Kerbow at this time, this tribute being paid the memory of Aubyn E. Clark for whom the Post was named.

Assuming membership in the "Economy League" H. T. Burton represented the character of "Admiral Stinko" of the Russian navy explaining why the big boys should get all the money, and the World War veterans in the ranks nothing. This talk was a burlesque on the Legion's inveterate enemy, the so-called Economy League that has for its purpose opposing anything that the Legion might merit.

The People Rise Up in Their Might

Clarendon Home Equipped With Heating Unit

The beautiful home of Dr. and Mrs. C. G. Stricklin is equipped with the latest automatic heating unit, and the only one of its kind between Amarillo and Wichita Falls. The installation was made recently by Guy Kerbow, local heating and ventilating engineer. The equipment was purchased of H. C. Kerbow & Sons.

An eight day clock in the hall controls the temperature of the building by means of electrical contact. The clock is so set that a temperature of 49 degrees is maintained from 10 p. m. to 5 a. m., and 70 degrees the remainder of the twenty-four hours.

The furnace in the basement is heated with gas with a pressure regulator, humidifier adding moisture to the air and an air circulating system all controlled from the clock-thermometer in the upper hall.

Each room is equipped with one or more ventilators through which cool air is taken off the floor and passed through the furnace pipes and returned to the rooms at the temperature indicated by the clock regulator.

An electric switch at the door of the furnace shuts off the gas flow any time there is a break in the electric wires either inside or outside the building. It is so arranged that there is no possibility of gas explosion from an accumulation of fumes in the furnace.

Mr. Kerbow, who is a member of the American Gas Association, has given several years to the study of gas heating systems. The home of Dr. and Mrs. Stricklin is the first to be equipped with this latest invention in Clarendon. One of the greatest advantages in this system is the fact that once the system is started to work, no further attention is necessary for months, or possibly years as there is little to get out of order.

Goldston Community Will Have Program

One of the musical features at the community entertainment at the Goldston school Friday night of this week will be the Clarendon Junior Band, directed by Gus B. Stevenson.

Many other forms of entertainment will be provided.

Doughnuts and coffee in copious quantities were served the assemblage. A variety of games were under way at a late hour as the gray-haired guests departed for their homes. It was a big time put over in a big way and appreciated by every man present.

FARMERS BECOME INTERESTED OVER LOAN MATTERS

Meetings Are Being Held In Several States In Effort to Change Law

Farmers of Iowa started something when they stopped the foreclosure of farm mortgages. Other farmers of Wisconsin, Minnesota and South Dakota have adopted similar methods—merely stop the sales by force.

Last week farmers met in Dalhart representing land holders of both Dallam and Hartley counties. Petitions were circulated in which a request is being made of the Legislature to enact a law granting farmers a two year moratorium on their land loans.

Quoting from the Daily Texan of Dalhart: The petition asks for a moratorium of payments for two years on mortgages and such like or "until such time as prices of farm products rise to a level that will enable farmers to have" a decent living for our wives, children and ourselves, and a profit over and above such costs that will guarantee the means to meet the payments."

Weekly meetings are being held on Saturday at Wellington according to the Leader. The farmers are being joined by business men in a petition to the Legislature asking that a new law be enacted from which the land owners may expect some protection.

Quoting from the Leader, the Collingsworth citizens state "it is our candid judgment that the foreclosure of mortgages on homes and farms which is fast transforming this country from a land of home and farm owners to that of tenants, with the land in the hands of the few, is doing more to demoralize and discourage the people and prevent the return of normal times than any other factor in this awful depression. The owners of these mortgages are bidding these homes and farms for only a fractional part of the loan against the property, and holding this excess as a judgment over the debtor so that they can take what they make in the future. We believe that there is now an imperative necessity that the present Legislature pass at once a moratorium on all farm and home loans for at least two years in order that the people may have time to save and collect enough to save their homes and farms."

Mesdames O. W. Latson and O. T. Smith visited in Amarillo Fri.

Reports on Lion Activities Made at Luncheon Hour

The minstrel show to be sponsored by the local Lions club Friday night of February 3rd received the greater share of the consideration of the members at their luncheon hour Tuesday noon.

T. D. Nored outlined the minstrel committee plans of which G. L. Boykin is chairman, the proceeds to go to the crippled children's fund. He also reported on the zone meet of Lions clubs of this district held at McLean last week.

Home Mulkey stated that the Amarillo surgeon had taken charge of the little Ragle child of Lelia Lake who is to be treated.

W. H. Patrick summed up the advantages of the public library, its value to the county and solicited contributions of books to further the good work along.

J. R. Bartlett, charter member of the Club when organized here some ten years ago, and who recently returned to Clarendon to engage in the grocery business, was a guest of the Club.

Given 99 Years in Richey Murder; is Turned Loose

Among the large number of long term men liberated by Ross S. Sterling the last week that he was drawing pay as governor of Texas, was Joe Dunwoody who was given 99 years in connection with the J. H. Richey murder case at Hedley. Richey was shot down in an alley while performing the duties of night watchman at Hedley about three years ago.

So far as can be ascertained, the records do not show upon whose recommendation Sterling based his actions in this particular case. Court officials and citizens of this section knew nothing of the matter until a statement appeared in the daily press.

Parent-Teachers to Present Pageant Next Thursday

An interesting program will be presented by the Sims Parent-Teacher association at the Junior High auditorium the afternoon of February 2nd from 3 to 4 p. m.

A pageant entitled "The Birthday Banquet" of forty-six characters will be of special interest.

The Parent-Teacher Junior Band will play between numbers on this program of several numbers. The public is especially invited to attend this meeting that has been arranged for the pleasure of those interested in matters affecting the schools.

Mr. and Mrs. Everette Clark of Miami visited in the C. M. Lane home Friday.

R. E. MERCHANT CELEBRATES 94TH MILESTONE SUN.

Was Kept Out of Civil War By a Horse; Never Had Indian Battle

R. E. (Uncle Dick) Merchant, Donley's oldest citizen celebrated his 94th birthday Sunday at the home of his son Cal Merchant in Clarendon where he has been making his home for several years.

Uncle Dick, as he is best known to his many personal friends, first saw the light of day in Nacogdoches county in 1839. As that section settled up, he drifted west to secure more range for his stock, having become interested in the "cow business" at an early age.

He found Palo Pinto county to his liking and ranged in that country until in 1898, when he moved his herds to Hutchinson county where, as time went by, he amassed a comfortable fortune and owned many sections of land that were later included in part of the oil field.

When other young men were "going away" to the Civil war, Uncle Dick was forced to remain at home from having been severely injured by a horse. This is how a horse kept him out of the war. Although living for years in a section infested by Indians who stole and murdered, he had no serious misunderstandings with those people.

He became a member of the Baptist church eighty-one years ago, and has lived steadfast in the faith since. Of his family of ten children, his wife and six of the children passed away several years ago. His children are Cal of Clarendon, N. J. of Ft. Worth and Mrs. W. H. Tuttle of Panhandle and Mrs. R. S. Tuttle of Stillwater, Oklahoma, all of whom were present Sunday except the latter.

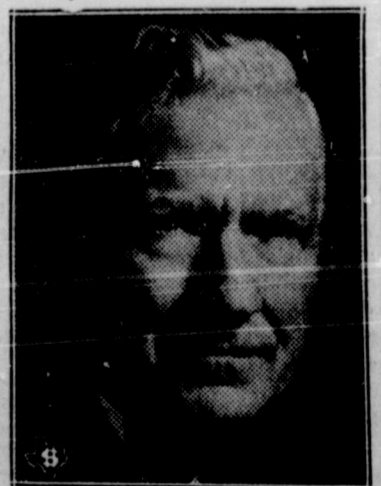

Relatives present Sunday other than the sons and daughter were seven grandchildren and six great grandchildren.

Those to assist in the 94th celebration at the Cal Merchant home Sunday were Mrs. W. H. Tuttle of Panhandle, Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Merchant, Mrs. Billie Ayers and children, Mrs. Mabel Valessick and daughter, all of Ft. Worth. Mr. and Mrs. Jess Wynn of Pampa, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Harrison and Mrs. Eyrie Tuttle of Panhandle.

Those of Clarendon were Mr. and Mrs. Cal Merchant, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Merchant and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Merchant, Mrs. J. A. Steagall, Miss Jennie Franklin, and Silas Franklin.

Mr. Merchant is in possession of all of his faculties and takes a keen interest in daily affairs. He has practically recovered from a serious injury to his hip resulting from a fall four years ago. Numerous friends have paid their respects and the Leader joins with the kindred and friends of this venerable and good citizen of the pioneer west in wishing him many more happy birthdays.

Road Appointee

F. L. Denison of Temple, Texas, who has been appointed by Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, governor-elect, to succeed Cone Johnson of Tyler on the state highway commission. Denison is a highway builder.

Mr. and Mrs. James Trent have returned from a sojourn at Hot Springs, Arkansas. Mr. Trent reports very beneficial results from a health standpoint.

LIONS CLUB TO STAGE MINSTREL FEBRUARY 3RD

Local Talent to Assist in Success of Charity Show At Pastime Theatre

The 1933 Minstrels full of sparkling song hits, dances, jokes, and stunts will be put on here Friday night February 3rd. at the Pastime Theatre by the Clarendon Lions Club. Two circles of performers will take part in the show consisting of male and female circles, made up of 25 of the best voices of this city. Four dancers putting on three dancing acts will feature the program along with a black face quartette of male voices and several solo and chorus numbers. Solo and chorus numbers will be sung by W. T. Hayter, P. B. Gentry, T. D. Nored and Carl Parsons while Miss Carrol Holder will lead the ladies circle in one of the fastest and snappiest number seen on the stage in this city. Flying feet will be let loose by Misses Mary Travis Dyer and Peggy Taylor while Henry Wilder and S. A. Pierce will show you how a high brow is supposed to dance on Saturday night.

The Minstrel being sponsored by the Clarendon Lions, Ira C. Merchant President, is for the benefit of the local clubs charity fund, and will be used in its work locally for the relief of crippled children mainly. Odus Caraway was elected business manager of the show to be assisted by A. L. Chase as stage manager. Fred Storey and Ira Merchant will handle the publicity for the show which is under the direction of G. L. Boykin.

Odd Fellows Observe Annual Custom Tuesday Night

A large number of Odd Fellows, Rebekahs and guests of both lodges celebrated the 151st anniversary of the birth of the founder of Odd Fellowship at the hall here Tuesday night. Thomas Wildley of Baltimore was the originator of the Order.

Rev. W. E. Ferrell, pastor of the First Christian church, was the principal speaker. He began with the foundation of the Order and paid his respects to the aims, objects and achievements through the many years.

Music for the occasion was supplied by Mr. and Mrs. Sam Roberts. The good ladies served an excellent banquet supper as is also their custom on all such occasions.

Tax Collector's Office Will Remain Open Over Sunday

In anticipation of the rush to pay taxes at the last moment, tax collector M. W. Mosley announces that he will follow the rule of many other similar offices over the state and receive taxes Sunday next the same as a week day.

This plan has been used by tax collectors in previous years for the accommodation of taxpayers, and it is hoped that it will be a convenience to taxpayers of Donley county this year.

Car license tax may be paid up until midnight of February 1st according to Mr. Mosley who is giving the extra day in preference to accepting post-dated checks. He states that the law will not permit him to accept post-dated checks, and asks that no such requests be made since he cannot grant the request.

Clean-Ups Continue with RFO Men On the Job

For the past several days, trash from all parts of town has been hauled to the dump grounds. If any one has been overlooked after stacking their rubbish, merely call the City Secretary at the City Hall and the rubbish will be hauled immediately.

Colored workmen under supervision of white foreman have been cleaning the septic tanks at the lake the past two days. The dump ground next to the highway has also been cleaned up giving the section a much more presentable appearance.

Well, What Next?

For many years farmers were taught to grow more on less ground. Now that an overproduction is claimed, we are told that farmers should grow less on more ground.

Three Old Standbys.

Regardless of interest reduction and mortgage moratoriums, the three basic principles and most valuable allies of the farmer remain the same—the cow, sow and hen.

More Foolishness.

We howl because the loss of foreign markets throws our people out of work, then we buy foreign goods to provide jobs for people in other lands while ours are supported by a "dole" under the disguise of a Reconstruction donation.

McCarthy's Daily.

Instead of two hard punches each week, John L. McCarthy of Dalhart is now hitting six of 'em. His daily is coming along in great shape from the standpoint of a reader. More power to the newest daily in the Panhandle.

Help! Succor!! Desist!!!

As we understand it after reading the last issue of the Claude News, Thos. T. Waggoner, editor of the News, and Governor Murray of Oklahoma have chosen the negative side of the sales tax question. The affirmative is represented by the writer, Governors Ferguson and the whole state of Mississippi.

Since Thomas T. challenges us to mortal verbal combat, we suggest that he secure the alignment of an entire state before becoming more deeply involved in a fracas that will make a Kansas cyclone look like a pink tea affair before he gets loose from it.

Kentucky Wonders.

On the Fain King farm near Wickliffe, Kentucky recently a city was unearthed from inside a mound supposed to have flourished there more than 3,000 years ago. An inner temple disclosed three methods of burial—prone method, bundle type in which the flesh had been removed from the bones, and cremated type.

This find differs from the ordinary mounds found in the Ohio and Mississippi valleys in that the mound had long been regarded as a small mountain. The dwellings surrounded a large stone temple where religious ceremonies were held. Excavations are being made by representatives of a number of American museums.

Linger Longer Long.

The Glass banking bill that would make a branch bank of every country bank in the nation is un-American, objected to by the small bankers and detested by the small borrowers.

The people had a champion in the United States Senate in the person of Senator Huey P. Long of Louisiana. He lost his voice, according to reports, after speaking against the bill for eighteen hours, but he never lost his backbone.

We need our country banks and we need our farmers. Neither can exist without the other. If we had more sincere help in the Senate, it would be impossible to turn the finances of the nation over to a half dozen men, as is proposed in the Glass bill.

That Sales Tax.

Mississippi has a sales tax in force with which the state is rapidly recovering from a state deficit of millions. In fact the state is already out of debt now with the new law in force but one year.

Kentucky and Texas lawmakers are debating the idea. The only objection to the sales tax is that the poorer classes will have the tax to pay. This class has always paid the taxes. This same class of citizens have paid taxes, dividends, built railroads, highways and everything else. Why consider them at this point, and more especially when the poorer class cannot escape.

A sales tax that is not class legislation will place the burden of taxes more evenly. The man who buys a Roll-Royce auto at twenty-five thousand dollars will pay his proportion of taxes the same as the man who buys a bottle of snuff.

Bar Examinations.

Now comes Senator Walter Woodward of Coleman introducing a bill requiring all law students to pass a bar examination before being permitted to practice in Texas regardless of what institution of learning he might be a graduate.

This is not a bad idea, except that the learned Senator should have been a little bit more fair with the State. He should have included a proviso requiring all attorneys now practicing to pass the same kind of a bar examination.

If the Senator is in dead earnest, and we naturally conclude that he is, his object is to weed out incompetents, to which no fair-minded person in any station of life could object.

The writer has seen some attorneys in action in the court room who had been paid fat fees in advance, and who should, at the conclusion of the case, be prosecuted for "obtaining money under false pretense." By all means protect the public against incompetents of all ages rather than limit the action to a new crop.

Mortgage Legislation.

Our State Legislature is being petitioned from a number of sections asking for a change in the law pertaining to foreclosures. First, the lawmakers are being asked to pass a law protecting the owner of the property by having the property appraised before being sold under foreclosure, and forbidding its sale for a lesser amount than the appraised value.

Another protection is being asked for in that the land holder should be given at least two years in which to redeem the property when sold for taxes, or sold under deed of trust or mortgage foreclosure, provided the purchase price is paid the purchaser with costs and reasonable interest added.

It is well to remember that the record owner of all property pays the taxes regardless of what equity such so-called owner might have in the property. In this sense, the land holder of record is paying taxes on something he does not own. Surely the holder of the notes should pay a proportionate part of the taxes, though this has not been the case in many states.

Foreign Bargains.

During 1932, Japan shipped into our nation some ninety million electric light globes. Since they were offered at a price cheaper than the globes of the same wattage could be bought from American manufacturers, they found a ready market.

It now develops that these imported globes consume 20.5 more electric energy than those to which we had been accustomed. Reckoned on this basis, our American public really lost about $11,000,000 on the deal from a purchase standpoint besides denying employment to Americans.

About forty percent of the trinkets offered for sale during the recent Christmas holidays in the Panhandle were of foreign manufacture. Look on the bottom of that vase, vanity set and dozens of other things. The chances are that you have several from Japan or some of the Slavish nations in your home right now. Better gifts were made and sold for less money right here in Clarendon, and have been for two years.

Business Picks Up.

After the so-called brainy men and the Chambers of Commerce, and the organizations and associations of all descriptions had failed to find a remedy to help the farmer, the farmers are about to help themselves.

When they got to the point that they were not allowed a decent living, much less enough to pay ordinary debts, and Mollie and the babies were being shunted out into the lane while the farm or home was being sold for a mere fraction of what it should bring—well, that was what made business begin to pick up.

Farmers who refused to neighbor during good times are now the best of friends. They are working to save their homes from the Canadian line to the broad expanse of West Texas. The same idea will take root farther down.

The home owners and farm owners want first of all a chance. They are asking for a moratorium of two years in some places to enable them to pay off the mortgage. In other places they are asking for more time. They ask a lower interest rate since everything else is lower except taxes, and they demand lower taxes.

Right here in west Texas our neighbors are beginning to request a square deal. Next week perhaps, they will demand it. They have defied the law of the land in several northern states—it will get that way in Texas if the Legislature does not supply the remedy requested.

The fellows who feed and clothe the world have stood for about all the foolishness they expect to endure. They may be down, but not out. He may be denied a living price for his product but he has not sunk beneath a brute level by deserting his home and his offspring.

Leader Gets Expressions Of Other Publishers

Two weeks ago a request was printed in the editorial column of the Leader requesting publishers to drop us a postal if they wished to continue an exchange. We had two purposes in view. First, we wanted to find out how many wanted to continue the exchange under present conditions. Second, we wanted to know if any other publisher ever read what we had to say editorially. In case they did not read it, we expected to discontinue that column as very few readers take notice of such a column in any paper.

Here is what a few had to say about the matter, and we hope to hear from others:

Miami Chief: We enjoy the Leader and read it each week. Keep us on the exchange list. Wish you a prosperous New Year. Haynes & Haynes, Publishers.

(The Miami Chief is one of the very best papers published in a small town in the state. Mr. and Mrs. Bob Haynes are giving their people more than they deserve according to the ability of the town to support a live weekly.—Editor.)

Robstown Record: I always read your editorial columns and enjoy them. I don't always agree with you but don't think any the less of your intelligence as a consequence. At least you have the energy to work up an editorial column that isn't all clipped or "canned" and that is more than about fifty percent of the weekly editors in Texas do. Ray S. Carney, Editor.

(To have interested the Ramrod of the Record is no little achievement within itself. Ray Carney writes some of the best editorials in the weekly paper class in the state and really deserves to be in a much larger field for expansion of his natural talents as an all round newspaper man.—Editor)

Rockdale Reporter: Here's my card. Keep the Leader coming. More power to the GW and may she keep the Apostle straight. John Esten Cooke, Publisher.

(Mr. Cooke was formerly a resident newspaper man of Clarendon. Believe he was on the Banner Stockman way back yonder when we had shade trees and saloons, hogs and chickens all running loose on the streets. He knows his picas, also ems. Gets out a dandy good paper with a column of pungent paragraphs right down the left hand front page. When he intimates an acquaintance with the silliest department in our sheet by referring to the "Apostle," there is no question but that he reads all of it. This bit of encouragement is greatly appreciated.—Editor)

Collingsworth Standard: Noticed an editorial a week or so ago where you said if the boys didn't send you a postcard were going to get cut off close to the neck. By dern! You just try cutting me off your exchange list and see if I don't give you some trouble. Really, honestly and truly, with no hokum or bunkum, I really enjoy your paper every week and want to continue receiving it on exchange. Aubrey Dobbs, Editor. (Alright, Brothe. Dobbs, that is just what we are trying to find out. We are glad to exchange with all the worth-while papers if the publishers think the Leader is worthy. We certainly think your paper comes in the worth-while class, except that it would be much more interesting if you would return to your custom of writing live editorials as you formerly did some months ago.—Editor)

Lamar Democrat: We have used your paper as a text both at the shop and in the journalism classes in the High School where it is valued highly. You have the happy faculty of carrying a "punch" accompanied with a warmth of human sympathy seldom found among the weekly paper class. By all means keep it coming. Luther Dale, Editor.

(Thanks for the compliments, and we are glad to know that our feeble efforts have accomplished something way up in Missouri.—Editor)

Polo Press: We get your Leader on Monday and find it contains the right kind of "vitamins" to furnish mental food to start us off on the new week just right. I am glad to see that your merchants and the reading public appreciate the Leader. You are radical enough to be interesting, and sane enough to be safe. H. T. Henry, Editor.

(We are doing our dead-level best to make the Leader worth something to all the folks, both advertisers and readers. Your commendation is greatly appreciated and more especially since you have the best weekly on exchange from Illinois.—Editor.)

Canyon News: We read your paper and hope to continue to exchange. Hope you have plenty of business in 1933. Clyde Warwick, Publisher.

(The Canyon News is one of the best weeklies coming to our exchange table from an all-round value. It is ably edited, plain print and the make-up is on a par with any modern weekly anywhere.—Editor)

The garage mechanic who drank a batch of sulphuric acid last week by mistake is suffering no ill effects except that holes come in his handkerchief every time he blows his nose.

Hawley Harrison has the undying gratitude of the inmates of the Apostolic poor farm for a very fine batch of pork chops and sausage. Thanks a lot, Hawley.

John Goldston came in Tuesday to say that the high wind Saturday blew his hogs up on the side of his barn and he had to rope 'em and drag the things down to the pen.

And say, have you read "Book Talk" by Lallah Wright in this issue? She will likely have a similar article each week. She is a brilliant young lady, only been here a short time and above all, knows enough to be sensible. She has a brilliant future.

Digging for wood is common in this western country, but did you ever see a man dig for corn? I mean corn on the cob. Well W. K. Davis is digging corn out of the sandhills in a field where he had the corn piled before the sand storm hove in sight.

change tells us "Embalming that satisfies—caskets that fit." Personally, we are willing to believe both statements, and let it go at that.

A surgeon suiciding by cutting his throat wrote at the bottom of a lengthy statement a P. S. that read, "The one regret of my whole life is that I forgot to sterilize this knife."

One man speaking to another will often use the expression, "say, old man" but women folks would not think of "say, old woman" in addressing one of their sex. Yet some folks say men and women have the same likes and dislikes.

And did you ever see a man of any age carry his judicial dignity with as much natural skill as Judge Hubert P. Day, local J. P. aged 22. Another thing, he is friendly at all times, and has been most fair in cases tried before him. The world needs a lot of new blood and us old fossils and dodos will have to make way for these young fellows in all walks of life.

Jim Heckman, local inventor who makes deer and turkey calls for hunters, recently tried out a "bed bug call" on a house where the lady said "they never had seen one." Jim's machine called out three gallons into the hopper in three minutes, or at the rate of a gallon a minute. This so irritated the lady that she jumped on the thing with both feet. (P. S. Jim is making another one to try out where they "know" they have 'em)

During the high wind last week, a muskrat was blown in from Kelly creek a distance of seven miles landing in the street near the Holland filling station. Mud on its legs showed that it took a death grip on that Kelly creek black mud before being plunged to its death 7 miles away. The rat was discovered by Lee Holland and M. V. Harvey and the Apostle has the hide to show to unbelievers. It was a tolerable high wind, yes sir.

Clarendon has more rural telephones mixed up in town affairs than most any place. The service is about like the average rural phone line in the country—everybody wanting to talk at the same time. And what a lot of gossip some lines carry with four conversations at the same time. (P. S. The men do most of the gossiping, arranging wild parties, etc. etc.) These town rural phones cost about what an individual phone ought to.

While it may be out of place to refer to my own family affairs outside of my troubles with GW, I just want to tell the folks who read this column that my third to the oldest boy has a job down at Austin.

He hitch-hiked down there in August and got a job lined up so that he could enter the law school. He came home on the same train and again returned to Austin in time to begin his studies in September. Now he has been appointed clerk to a committee in the Legislature at a salary that will enable him to get through school all on his own hook. He had plenty of help to get the job proving that friends after all are worth most.

After practically all the men had abandoned support of the Clarendon junior band, the good women of the Parent-Teacher association took over the band and assumed the trouble, real and imaginary. They have already rescued the band and have it back on its feet. After the men folks fail in anything, they pass it on to the women folks to put it over, and put it over they will. This is not the first time they have been called upon to resurrect a civic enterprise of this town, and we predict that this problem will be solved just as satisfactorily as all the others.

Another Clarendon boy making his way through the University is Ansel Barton. He is one of those quiet, dependable boys that you can bank on making good if you give him time. Hundreds of boys and girls work their way through Texas schools each year, and as a rule make the best grades and get the best positions.

As an egg laying record, few flocks can excel that of Mrs. Lena Dilli who lives northeast of Goldston. She has the Johnson strain of white leghorns and recently gathered in three eggs having double yolks in one day. Now a leghorn hen that can make up for egg size in that manner is really worth while.

Mrs. Dilli also promises to bring or send in the Apostle's annual cheese. As a cheese maker, Mrs. Dilli is the only cream cheese artist in Donley county. Children may cry for Castoria (advertisement), but everybody cries for Mrs. Dilli's cheese once they have eaten it. By all means let's have the cheese.

Old Brother Ingram has been in and we made a close study of the fashion announcements for men for the coming spring. The preacher is especially pleased to read that "patterned shirts of wide stripe will be in style. He says he always did admire bed ticking. Sox will have to match of course. Shoes are to be more perforated. He says he has been two years ahead of the style on shoes once having a pair that admitted his toes to fresh air. Suits will run to the shark weaves. He says he always thought something ought to be done with sharks, both fish and money varieties. His greatest trouble all these years is in having his entire regalia to harmonize. Some kept wearing out before the other. His bed tick suspenders will be all the go, though he can't wear garters because they often turn loose and fall down when he is preaching. He uses binder twine and likes the idea. He also lays claim to the fact that he is the only citizen of the county to fight a bull and not do any damage to the enemy. Brother Ingram is the last remaining horse and buggy preacher of the old days.

Speaking of preachers, H. L. Brady claims to have a bottle of whiskey fourteen years old—or at least that is the length of time he has had it in the family.

Smart folks these days and how they are beating the auto license tax. Several such cars are passing through loaded to the fenders with household plunder headed west to the Sunshine state where it is said the phrase originated that "to be virtuous is to be lonesome, and to be honest is to be considered a crank."

ed" type. That is the owners discovered that they could not pay the car tax by the 1st, and removed most of the bodies, put in a tongue and hitched old Beck and Gin to the blamed thing. A team can haul a whale of a load as long as the tires and tubes hold out. Some Smart Alecks refer to this type of auto as a "2-cylinder Jackson" or a "Hayburner" and they will be plenty common before long regardless of whatever they might be called.

The biggest lie in this column is: "And just as the young man came into the room," said the flapper. "I happened to think that I had my knees crossed. I was never so embarrassed in my life."

MARTIN

Next Sunday afternoon Bro. Jones the pastor of the Holiness church at Clarendon, will preach at 2:30 o'clock at the Martin school house. Everybody is invited to come.

The community was surprised Saturday when they heard of the marriage of Johnnie Tolbert to Miss Lorene Shelton of Clarendon. We wish for them a long and happy life.

School is going along nicely since the holidays, with quite a few new pupils.

There were a large crowd at the forty-two party at the school house Friday night. There were lots of good books donated to the library. $1.00 in cash, $4.70 proceeds from the chickens that were donated from the ladies which will go toward having the piano tuned.

We are sorry to report Mrs. Rushen who is visiting her brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Pool being very ill. The relatives were called to her bedside a few days ago.

There are lots of moving in our community. Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Goodman and family of Goodnight have moved on Mrs. Will Barkers farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Barker had as their guests Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. U. G. Pittman, Mr. and Mrs. Odell Barker and family, Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Goodman and family.

Miss Polly Sowell spent Sunday night at Clarendon with Miss Willie Anna Garmon.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Wood and son spent Sunday at Sunnyview with Mr. and Mrs. Buck Roberts.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Talley spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Chester Talley in Clarendon.

CHAMBERLAIN

The Chamberlain school house burned this Wednesday morning at about 2 a. m. Origin of the fire is unknown. Arrangements will be made to continue the school in some other building until a building can be erected.

Through the generosity of Mr. Clinton Henry of the J. A. ranch most of the farmers in this community have a nice stack of wood in their woodyard. This is indeed a blessing for with money so scarce it's very difficult to purchase fuel.

J. B. Millsap and family of Pampa visited friends and relatives here over the week-end. They were accompanied home by Miss Gelema Ayers who will spend a week with them. J. B. is well pleased with his work. His school has the largest P. T. A. in the Pampa school system.

And still they hove. Mr. Isham of Brice moved last week to the farm vacated by Zora Hudson.

Miss Louise Hughes returned home this week from a two months visit with relatives in Denver Colo.

Mr. Self returned home last week after an extended visit with his son in Cali. Mr. Self says that he likes that country fine, but good old Donley still looks good to him.

Mr. Hughes moved to the Reavis farm, and the R. F. Wilson family moved to their farm where the Hughes family has been living.

ASHTOLA

There were 43 who attended Sunday school Sunday morning and singing Sunday night.

Grandma Gregg who has been visiting her son, Mr. Walter Gregg of Lelia Lake has returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Wallace of McLean spent Wednesday night and Thursday with home folks.

Mrs. Charlie Harp accompanied her daughter and granddaughter, Mrs. Johnnie Re McClellan and baby, home to Antelope Flat.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Meaders entertained with a party Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Lovell and family and Mary Lovell motored to Amarillo Sunday to see Mr. Ed Lovell who was injured while loading an oil tank. He is reported to be improving nicely in the St. Anthony Sanitarium.

"We Serve to Serve Again"

THE ACID TEST

During the past three years, economic conditions have placed every bank in the country on an acid test. We have come through this long period and carried the full confidence of our patrons and friends. We are certain that the sun will shine more brightly during 1933, and only hope that our past experience will be lessons of profit to all to be more conservative and frugal.

Better Lighting Will Ease
Your Budget Worries

There are budgets that really will work . . . budgets that will show how to bring expenses within income! But they weren't created at a dark and gloomy desk . . . they were the result of calm and intelligent analysis under the cheering atmosphere of good light.

It's surprising what a difference adequate lighting makes! . . . Troubles take on a less terrifying aspect when subjected to the clear, eye-soothing brilliance of the modern electric light. It's not only much easier to work, but the absence of eye-strain keeps your mind clear and alert.

Next time you sit down to plot out the month's expenses, or to write a letter, be sure your light is adequate. You'll find the difference amazing!

A trained employe will be happy to inspect your home-lighting arrangements. There's no obligation, of course . . . and chances are that a simple rearrangement of your present fixtures, or adjustments giving you adequate sized lamps where they're needed, will be all that's necessary.

Do you know that your increased use of Electric Service is billed on a surprisingly low rate schedule . . . and adds only a small amount to your total bill?

COUNTY SCHOOL NEWS

By Sloan Baker

County Supt. Schools

Part of State Auditors report for year ending August 31, 1933.

Revenues for 1933 are estimated at $25,522,515.00

Budget for purchase of text books 1,401,051.61

Remainder being $15.40 per capita 24,121,463.39

Deficit at the beginning of the year 1933 4,807,460.42

This left available for apportionment to the schools on present years census of 1,565,929, $12.33 per capita or 19,314,002.97.

The State Board of Education has apportioned $16 per capita—25,054,864.00.

Thus the deficit at August 31, 1933 will be $3.67 per capita—5,740,861.03.

When the State Board of Education determines the per capita apportionment the amount of expenditures is then determined, and teachers contracts are made on the basis of such anticipated revenues.

These contracts cover both the amount of salaries to be paid and the length of term to be taught.

Thus when the State fails promptly to make payment of its allotment, the effect is that the school district at some point in the school term cannot meet its current demands. In order to meet the emergency, the school district must make arrangements to carry its overdrafts with a local bank, or in the alternative, the teacher must be paid with vouchers drawn against funds that do not exist.

Due to financial conditions of recent months throughout the State, many schools can not make arrangements to borrow as in the past. As a result the teachers are given vouchers that can not be paid on demand; and teachers in many city and rural, and particularly in the rural districts, are now probably holding several millions of dollars of vouchers against funds yet to be received by the State. In many cases these teachers are doubtless paying interest on borrowing against school script or they may have sold the script at a heavy discount.

Money for the fiscal year 1933 has already been used in liquidating the balance of $3.50 on the 1932 apportionment. The 1933 apportionment cannot be paid as due. As a result some of the 1933 school vouchers can not be paid on demand, and the teachers, who have fulfilled their contracts in good faith, must inevitably suffer through no fault of their own, by having to wait until the next fiscal year to collect for services performed in 1933.

The County Board of Trustees ruled in their August meeting that a course of study be formed for the schools of the county based on the State course of study in line with the subjects taught in the High Schools of the County. The following committees have been selected to form this course of study. For the eighth, ninth and tenth grades, G. W. Kavanaugh of Martin (chairman), Joe Baker of Giles, C. W. Howard of Bray, Frank Behringer of Hudgins are appointed. The committee composed of E. H. Estlack of Fairview (chairman), Mrs. Gordon Gatewood of Goldston, Miss Ruth Dunn of Glenwood, and Miss Maud Crawford of Chamberlain will plan the sixth and seventh grade subjects. The fourth and fifth grades committee is Mrs. Linnie W. Naylor (chairman) of Hackberry, Miss Evelyn Curry of White Fish, Miss Lou Brock of Watkins, Miss Myrtle Hall of Jericho, Mrs. Rebecca McCrory of McKnight (chairman), Miss Mildred Baker of Smith, Miss Hazel Cole of Ashtola and Miss Agatha Taylor of Windy Valley compose the first, second and third grade course of study committee.

It is a good thing that the basketball coaches are requiring the players to make creditable grades in their school work before they can play. Giles Juniors won a game from the Giles Exces. 39 to 5. This Junior team has a good chance at the county championship. Goldston and Martin have played two games the last week each team winning one game apiece. Miss Helen Baley, Intermediate grade teacher at Ashtola, gives a health examination to her pupils which teaches them health rules better than a text book.

Mrs. Rebecca McCrory of McKnight rewards her primary pupils when they make good grades by allowing them to read at a reading table placed at the rear of the room.

Bray Trustees are piping water to the teacherage and making other needed improvements.

Miss Lou Brock of Watkins received some new books for her enlarged enrollment. This is Miss Brock's fourth year at Watkins. L. A. Kalka trustee at Watkins conferred with the C. S. on school matters concerning his school.

J. G. Clemons will have some beautiful flower beds around his school this spring. He built the beds on three sides of McKnight school house.

The C. S. would like to have the names of all the pupils who make the honor roll in each school so their names can be printed in this column.

Mrs. Mollie E. Gray and Mrs. C. G. Stricklin and little daughter Beverly visited friends in Amarillo Tuesday.

Mrs. Matt Bennet returned home Sunday. She had been visiting a daughter, Mrs. Dick Hughes and family in Pampa.

John Caraway of San Francisco has been here the past week visiting his mother, Mrs. L. Caraway and other relatives and friends of former years.

PRODUCTS OF TEXAS INDIANS SOUGHT BY ANTHROPOLOGISTS

Research work in the department of anthropology, which consists of field work all over the State, is under the supervision of J. E. Pearce, professor of anthropology. The aim is to cover the entire State where there are old Indian burial grounds, mounds, rock shelters, and camp sites, and to secure all the information possible pertaining to the life of the early Texas Indians, A. L. Jackson, field foreman, said.

Finances for the work are supplied by the Laura Spellman Rockefeller grant for research in the social sciences and by State funds.

One of the most valuable collections of artifacts has been found in the burnt rock mounds in Central Texas. Perhaps the largest of these mounds is located at Cedar Park in Williamson County. A great deal of work has been done in the mounds in Travis and Williamson counties.

Other places where work has been done are in the Gulf Coast region. This includes a large earth mound on the Guadalupe River near Victoria, an important burial site on Bolivar Peninsula in Galveston County, and sites in Chambers and Colorado counties.

Work has been done in rock shelters in Coryell, Bosque and Llano counties; in mounds in San Saba, Coleman, Hamilton and other counties, and in a large rock shelter near the Pecos River in Val Verde County.

In Central Texas the specimens consist of artifacts made of flint, stone, bone, and shell. In a few sites fragments of pottery are found. In West Texas, where the material is found in dry shelters and caves, there are also found specimens of basketry, and matting, fiber cords, sandals, and articles of wood.

Work in 38 Counties

During the past three years field work has been done in 38 East Texas counties. From this region come many beautiful earthenware vessels which were buried with the dead. Other specimens include the usual flint work, polished stone implements, shell ornaments, and beads. Due to a heavy rainfall, all specimens of a perishable nature have long since disappeared.

Field work is done during the summer when the weather is most favorable. The work is performed by students who are working their way through the University and by local laborers. During the winter, work is done in the laboratory, classifying, cataloguing, and preparing for exhibition the material brought in during the summer. Much of the pottery, when found in the earth, is broken and has to be mended.

Pearce Writing Book

Mr. Pearce is working on a book based on the material gathered in order that the information secured may be made available to the scientific world and to the public in general.

Several students have written their theses for their masters of arts degrees on the information gained from a study of the material that has been collected. B. B. Gardner, who received his degree in summer of 1931, wrote his thesis on the designs on the pottery found in East Texas. Sid Thomas is at present writing his thesis on the material which has been collected in the Pecos region.

MAKES WOMEN LOSE FAT

Miss Rea M. Haines of Dayton, Ohio writes: "I weighed 180 so started to take Kruschen. I never was so surprised as when I weighed myself the first week—I lost 7 pounds. I just bought my 3rd jar and am down to 145—am still taking them and never felt better in my life." (June 17, 1932).

To take off fat—take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast—one bottle that lasts 4 weeks costs but a few cents—get it at any drugstore in Hubert and Dock Mann, Odell and Addis Holland, Frank Shaw, Claude Alley all left the last of the week for Thoreau, New Mexico where they will be employed by a timber concern.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Craddock and children of Borger have been visiting in the home of his sister, Mrs. M. W. Mosley and family the past week. The baby is reported recovering from pneumonia illness.

America. If this first bottle fails to convince you this is the SAFE and harmless way to lose fat—your money gladly returned.

Don't accept anything but Kruschen because you must reduce safely.

CLARENDON BOY RADIO OPERATOR VISITS LONDON

Interesting Historical Data Dates Back to More Than Nine Centuries

I am in London again after an exciting voyage across in December. The north atlantic is stormy at this season and we lost much of our deck cargo in the heavy seas.

As usual, I have been sightseeing and have seen many interesting sights. I enjoyed my trip through the Tower of London and will endeavor to give you a brief idea of it and describe a few of its many interesting historic relics.

The Tower of London was first built by William the Conqueror in the last half of the 11th century but considerable improvements have been added from time to time by the many different Kings and Queens that have occupied it. The Tower, together with its surrounding fortifications, covers an area of about eighteen acres. The oldest and most important building is the Great Tower, called the White Tower. The inner ward is defended by a wall with thirteen small towers. The whole is surrounded by a ditch or moat, now dry and used as a parade ground, spanned by a stone bridge on the south which formerly afforded the only gateway to the Tower. The Tower was occupied as a palace by all the English Kings and Queens down to the time of Charles II. The security of the walls made it useful as a State prison and from the time of William Rufus the Tower was seldom without some prisoner of rank and importance.

Now we start through the Towers. First we enter the Byward Tower after crossing the stone bridge. This Tower is in part the work of Edward I, and part by Richard II. Here we meet our first guards, with bayonet rifles and tall fur caps. Better get used to them, for they will be with us the whole way through. Now we see the Bell Tower. Here Princess Elizabeth (afterwards Queen) was confined during her sojourn. A small room where Guy Fawkes and his fellow conspirators were examined in 1605. We go on toward the center building and now we pass thru Traitor's Gate. This gateway was used as a landing place for prisoners. Here the Duke of Buckingham, Queen Anne Boleyn, Earl of Essex, Queen Katharine Howard, Duke Somerset, Lady Jane Grey, Queen Elizabeth and many others passed on their way to prison or the scaffold. Now we are inside walking up the Green. Here is a huge bronze gun, calibre 2 1/2 inches, made for Mahomed II in 1464 and presented to Queen Victoria by the Sultan Abdul Aziz. We now enter White Tower. Work began on this building in 1078 but it was largely destroyed by a storm in 1091. It was in this Tower Richard II. signed his abdication in 1399. In the thickness of the wall during the reign of Charles II. some children bones were found and identified somewhat conjecturally, as the remains of the missing Princes of which we will speak later. Now we find ourselves in the Armouries. We see here hundreds of armours mostly of the 14th to 16th centuries. The most interesting armour I notice is a complete silver plated one formerly belonging to that popular figure King Henry VIII. Presented to him by the Emperor Maximilian and weighs 114 pounds. Here also is a heavy club spiked with three pistol barrels said to be "Henry VIII. walking staff." We now pass to the Record Room. On the wall hangs the cloak on which General Wolfe died at Quebec in 1759.

We glimpse a few statues, swords, and flags and pass to the Crypt or Queen Elizabeths Armoury. Here are some inscriptions carved on the walls by prisoners who took part in the rebellion of 1554; an execution block and axe; instruments of punishment and a few weapons are shown. The small Arms Room. The small Arms Room. Cavalry boots and kettle drums of the 17th century, furniture of William III, an elaborate bronze gun mounted on a carriage formerly belonging to the Grand Master of the Knights of Malta, the gun carriages used to carry the remains of Queen Victoria and King Edward VII. are the chief interests here. We now ascend the stairs to the Chapel of St. John's, the Sword Room, Weapon Room, Horse Armoury, Tudor Room, Mortar Room and the Cannon Room. Our guide tells us here in the Chapel of St. John's Queen Mary was betrothed to Count Egmont in 1554. Next we go to the Royal Chapel of St. Peter ad Vincula. We read this inscription: "There lie before the high altar two dukes between two Queens the Duke of Somerset and the Duke of Northumberland, between Queen Anne and Queen Katharine, all four beheaded. Here also Lady Jane Grey and others are buried

Passing across the Tower Green we come to a small square chained off and paved with granite. This marks the spot on which stood the scaffold. Lord Hastings, Queen Anne Boleyn (second wife of Henry VIII. and mother of Queen Elizabeth), Margaret Countess of Salisbury, Queen Katharine Howard (fifth wife of Henry VIII.), Jane Viscountess Rochford, Lady Jane Grey and Robert Devereux Earl of Essex are a few known to have been killed on this spot. All were beheaded with an axe except Queen Anne Boleyn whose head

GEO. B. BAGBY

Leading Producer Is Warmly Praised

Work Throughout Year Brings Both Profit and Honor to Consistent Producer

To George B. Bagby has gone the laurels for being the United Fidelity Life Insurance Company's leading producer for the year of 1932, according to D. Easley Waggoner, vice-president and general manager of the company.

Mr. Bagby's record proves him to be an unusually successful life insurance agent. During the year of 1932 he had a production totaling $347,773.00 of delivered and paid-for business. During the year he sent in a total of 192 applications and 188 policies were completed and delivered to his clients. Only four applications of $1,000.00 each were not completed and only one policy of $1,000.00 was issued but not delivered.

The record made by Mr. Bagby since he first entered the life insurance business is very interesting. Without previous experience in life insurance business, he became an agent in March of 1928. His production the first year was approximately $250,000.00 and since that time he has produced in excess of $500,000.00 more than one year. His average production during his five years in the business, despite the depression years, has been in excess of $400,000.00 a year. Mr. Bagby's record is remarkable only when his territory in which he operates is taken into consideration. He lives and works in a town which has less than 2,500 men, women and children and in a county which has less than 10,000 inhabitants.

"George Bagby is a fine example of what a good life insurance agent should be," said Mr. Waggoner. "He considers that he is building a business and uses the same energy and intelligence that he would have to expend if he were in any other commercial or industrial enterprise. He looks after the interest of his client just as any good business man looks after the interest of his patrons. He keeps a record of the maturity date on all policies he has written and before premiums come due he makes it a point to see these clients and keep them sold on the importance of keeping their policies in force. In this way he not only has an unusually high renewal record but continues to care for the needs of his clients for additional insurance as these needs arise."

was cut off with a sword. The executioner of the Earl of Essex was not able to cut off the head in three strokes and was mobbed and beaten by the crowd on the way home.

The Beauchamp Tower. Here are found most of the prisoners inscriptions. Over the fire-place this inscription in Latin: "The more suffering for Christ in this world the more Glory with Christ in the next," dated June 22, 1587. On the right of the fire-place is a memorial of the five Dudley brothers, Ambrose, Guildford (Husband of Lady Jane Grey), Robert, Henry and John. Under a bear and a lion holding a staff is the name "John Dudley", around them is a wreath of roses (Ambrose). Oak leaves for Robert, Gillyflower for Guildford and Honeysuckle for Henry.

The King's House. It was here Lady Jane Grey spent the last days of her life and through a small window in front saw her husband go to his execution and his headless body brought to the Chapel, while on the green the scaffold was being prepared for her own execution which took place on the same day, Monday February 12th, 1554.

We now ascend another spooky stairway, more like a hollow tree than a stairway, to the Bloody Tower, the scene of the murder of the Princes in the Tower, Edward V. and his brother the Duke of York. Here too is a little walk overlooking the Thames where Sir Walter Raleigh was allowed to walk during his long imprisonment.

ing 34 carats many sapphires and 5,170 diamonds; St. Edwards staff, a sceptre of gold about four and a half feet long and containing a fragment of the true cross; The Royal Sceptre with the cross containing a large brilliant of "The Stars of Africa," weighing 516 1/2 carats—the largest cut diamond in the world; the ancient Anointing spoon dating from the 12th century and used by King John; Queen Elizabeths salt-cellar, with a gold bird on the arch dated 1572 and is said to be the finest example of its kind in existence; what a splendid wine-fount, about three feet in diameter of gold made in France and given to Charles II. This is only a few of the splendid jewels exhibited.

We now pass on to the Salt Tower. Here on the wall the name of Michael Moody is inscribed. Moody was imprisoned for a plot to murder Queen Elizabeth. Now through the Broad Arrow Tower, Constable Tower and the Martin Tower. The latter dates from the time of Henry III. and is the scene of the Gun-powder plot and the attempt, by Colonel Blood to steal the Crown Jewels in 1673; the sword with which he killed the keeper is here shown. This brings us back to Byward Tower and completes the list of buildings accessible to tourists.

Boy Scouts in 'Over-Night' Hike Friday, January 3rd.

Friday afternoon, Jan. 3, at about three o'clock, 22 of the boys with their leaders left for Blocker's ranch where one of the most enjoyable occasions was entered into.

In about 40 minutes we were there. The patrol leaders with the Scout leader, according to Scout spirit, looked the beautiful grove over and chose a place where the fire of the big camp-fire would not harm the trees. That done, wood was gathered and piled in three piles. One of the boys showed his skill at building fires, starting the fire with only one match.

Then the fun began. First patrol No. 1 and No. 2 divided No. 3 between them and agreed to separate about a quarter of a mile apart and send a message with signals. The first message, as that was first in our minds, was "when do we eat?" It was picked up immediately and the reply, "we eat at seven," was sent and received. With another message or two sent and received, we gathered back to the camp fire to begin preparation of the evening meal. That soon ready all ate to their fill. By that time it was dark and the two groups began other signaling. After a successful display that could be done other games were indulged in until about ten o'clock, when bed time arrived. All to bed for the night of 'rest'.

The next morning taps sounded to find that many had already arisen and had another big camp fire going. The official cooks soon had a sumptuous breakfast ready and "eat." Everybody seemed to have lost his appetite and to have found a dog's appetite.

Then an hour or two's exploration began which lasted until about ten o'clock when our retreat homeward started. But we did not want to come home.

Now we are ready to go for another one.

We wish to thank Mr. Blocker for his kindness to furnish such a good place for that camp.

Those leading the boys on this camp were: R. E. Drennon, S. L. Tidwell, Lee Vaughn, and B. N. Shepherd. Parents, remember your boys will never be carried on "Boy Scout" trips without proper chaperoning. If more parents will back this work we will have less worries and better citizens out of our boys.

BOOK TALK
By Lallah Wright

The element of "small-town stuff", with its comfortable traditions and sure faith, has wormed its way completely through many of the modern American novels. It is like a poisonous matter in the country-town writer, which acts as the medium for communicating the infection to the reader. A book does not have to be named THE STORY OF A COUNTRY TOWN, or MAIN STREET, or IN OUR TOWN to suggest that the story pertains to village life; a mere glance into its contents is convincing that the author was taken when he was very young to some new settlement to grow up with the country.

Each little town (and there are thousands) must surely have produced at least one great man, for the world is full of not secular heroes, but of ever-lasting heroes, who have little heroes, who, in turn are replaced by their own children, and nearly every biography of these mighty leaders disclose the same sweet repetition of how they were born in log cabins, and were reared in quaint little villages, the last syllable of which was ordinarily "ville". And inconceivable and astonishing is the fact that, sometime or another, the man who left the little town and made good somewhere else, always returns, in reminiscent writing, to the place of his boyhood.

After many years as a successful newspaper editor in Atchinson, Kansas, E. W. Howe decided to write a picture for his readers of the arid village life in Fairview, Kansas, and of the insides and out-sides of the people. A remarkable piece of literature resulted from this picture, called THE STORY OF A COUNTRY TOWN.

Herein lies the charming, sympathetic touch of humanness and simple homeliness. The West is not flattered and its traits of roughness and crudeness are not applauded; they are merely stated in simple, sensuous words from the very heart of the writer. Youth is described humorously, but beautifully, artistically but hopelessly. Mr. Howe placed the greatest emphasis upon characterization; local color followed naturally. The result of this emphasis leads one to believe that people living in small towns can be made very funny, very intelligent, and very interesting by the expert stroke of a pen.

Scene Which Greeted Legislators 75 Years Ago

The Congress Avenue and state capitol which this week greets the legislators of Texas as they arrive for the 43rd session of the legislature is far different from the one in this picture, taken 75 years ago. Note the old state capitol building, perched on top of the hill, and the quiet street scene. This picture of Austin as it was in 1857 was obtained from an old settler there, who does not want his name in the paper.

The delightful manner of presenting Big Adam, the eccentric hired hand on the farm, and of Mr. Biggs, who called himself a philosopher, furnish convulsions of laughter for those people especially who have lived in a country town and have known people exactly like these. Clinton Bragg, in the hands of a less discreet writer, would have been a repugnant and intolerable cad, but Mr. Howe made fun of him so tactfully that one feels the home-town folks could not have been correctly introduced without this contrasting effect.

Every type of character—the religious, the wicked, the "bully", the gentleman, the school teacher—are placed excellently in the town of Fairview to give the strange, although very old and time-worn story of the development of a community. The humor these characters possess in Mr. Howe's expression is explosive; the pathos they portray is overwhelming.

There is an infused stinging hatred for the cruel, hard life in the beginning territories, for the dusty tramp of civilization. The author, in reviewing the years he lived in Fairview, could never remember when the sun had shone brightly on his home town, and he could not relieve his mind of the "impression that the cold, changing shadow of the gray church spread—and enveloped all houses where the people lived."

During his life in Fairview, Mr. Howe had little happiness and less sense, the latter made certain by his stay in a place where religion made the people miserable instead of happy, where education was employed only for those who had nothing else or better to do, and where gross ignorance ruled with a steadily growing hostility for people who tried to change it.

No less severe on the home town is Sinclair Lewis. His scathing satire on the country town in MAIN STREET displays an array of characters who resented the intrusion of any stranger in their midst, such as Carol Milford, who tried to introduce a new method of living, and called theirs a pell-mell of human existence.

Undoubtedly, Gopher Prairie had ambitious people who would probably have "made good" had their smouldering fire of energy been fanned into a flame. But, as Guy Pollock said, the "Village Virus" seized one and refused to relinquish its claim on the victim. He said, "I decided to leave here. Strong resolution. Grasp the world. Then I found that Village Virus had me, absolute. I didn't want to face new streets, and younger men—real competition." Too late! The flame was dampened, drip by drip, until it was extinguished altogether.

The Main Streetites are divided into three distinct classes: the ambitious, who feed their ambition with nourishing food available through the road out of town), the ambitious who do not trust their own intelligence with initiative, and the unfortunates who are not blessed with even one spark of ambition. Village Virus, which infects ambitious people who stay too long in the provinces, forces the people who have seen glimpses of the world back to their swamp. Whatever work and progress is

International Drama Nears Climax

His father murdered by Mexican bandits, Jeff Meers (upper left) planned revenge. In Juarez, 1930, Meers shot a man whom he thought to be the bandit leader. It was the wrong man. He was sentenced to death before a firing squad, but through the efforts of his wife, (upper right) the sentence has been commuted to seven years in a Mexican prison. Now the State of Texas is dickering to trade Jose Carrasco, (inset) one of the band who killed Meers' father, for the young El Paso man. Carrasco was sentenced to life imprisonment at Huntsville. Lower photo is the Chihuahua jail, arrow pointing to Meers' cell.

accomplished and made on Main Street will never be noticed by an outsider, nor appreciated by the aborigines, for strangers never stop long enough in such an unprogressive place, and the natives are too ignorant and uncultured and mentally limited to notice any improvement. Their belief that anything novel is wicked will, in time, kill every nature of originality.

Mr. Lewis said, "Gopher Prairie is not particularly bad. It is like most places that have lost the smell of the earth but not yet acquired the smell of patchouli, or of factory smoke, are just as suspicious and righteous. I wonder if the small town isn't, with some lovely exceptions, a social appendix?"

Mr. Lewis dramatically shows that the life of a prescient person in a limited situation is the quintessence of tediousness, and the futility of hope and aspiration. Why should he not then say, ironically, that Main Streets are the climax of civilization?

IN OUR TOWN, written by William Allen White, is a monotonous discussion of the newspaper office as the clearing house of all indistinct problems of a minute group of villagers. "The real social line of cleavage in the town not between the cut-glass set and the devotees of handpainted china, but between the real nobility who wear genuine linen, and the base imitations, who wear Indian head."

That one small sentence discloses the secret of how to be or not to be classed with the elite in OUR TOWN. IN OUR TOWN is a mixture of life no different from the life in every other small town. The same characters exist, the same limitations exist, and the same culture-levels exist as in every other story on the old home town. Throughout these three books should have been humiliated that they had not accomplished more, but most of them were so conceited that they sat around, calmly, lazily, thinking that there was nothing at all worthy of their time or attention except their petty businesses, their quarrels over the Bible; they remained always satisfied, believing, if they eked out a meager existence, that they had really accomplished something. Will next century writers be influenced by the deplorable conditions in small towns? Will they, too, be brought up as land marks in obsolete towns where they will be forever tormented by the lack of civilization?

Mother of 7—Still Young

THE woman who gives her organs the right stimulant need not worry about growing old. Her system doesn't stagnate; her face doesn't age. She has the health and "pep" that come from a lively liver and strong, active bowels. When you're sluggish and the system needs help, don't take a lot of "patent medicines." There's a famous doctor's prescription for just such cases, and every druggist keeps this standard preparation. It is made from fresh laxative herbs, active senna, and pure pepsin. Just ask for Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin. Take a little every day or so, until every organ in your body feels the big improvement. The next time you have a bilious headache, or feel all bound-up, take this delicious syrup instead of the usual cathartic. You'll be rid of all that poisonous waste, and you haven't weakened the bowels. You'll have a better appetite, and feel better in every way. The constant use of cathartics is often the cause of a sallow complexion and lines in the face. And so unnecessary! Would you like to break yourself of the cathartic habit? At the same time building health and vigor that protects you from frequent sick spells, headaches, and colds? Get a big bottle of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin today. Use often enough to avoid those attacks of constipation. When you feel weak and run-down or a coated tongue or bad breath warns you the bowels need to be stimulated. Give it to children instead of strong laxatives that sap their strength. It isn't expensive.

He Wins More than 200 Prize Ribbons

George C. Reeves of Mineola, Texas, should be given some sort of medal. I. This duty we owe to ourselves No true man is willing to compromise himself, but is willing for the world to know where he stands. II. This duty of letting others know we are redeemed, we also owe to others. The secret disciple wins few followers for the Master. III. This duty of letting men know that we are redeemed we owe, above all else, to God. We owe it to Him as a matter of gratitude. We owe it to Him as a matter of rejoicing. All of the honor and all of the praise of our salvation belongs to our God. We owe it to Him as a matter of obedience. He commands it. "Let the redeemed of the Lord say so."

IV. We that are redeemed, should "say so" in word-both written and spoken. Many souls have been won to Christ by written appeals. We should "say so" with spoken words, both in public, personal profession as we publicly own Jesus as our personal Savior, and also by personal testimony to the Savior. Like Andrew of old, we must also go and find others and bring them to Jesus. V. We that are redeemed should "say so" by our works. Not only by the words of our lips, but also by the works of our lives. Here too "Action speaks louder than words." The Gospel lived is more powerful than the Gospel preached. VI. We should "say so" before our loved ones, in the home, before our comrades in business, and before all the world. God's mercies are new every morning and that calls for expressions of praise every day. Next Sunday morning we will bring a lesson on: "The Church: What We Can Do for It." This lesson will be of interest to all who are trying to give God honor and praise for His mercy and loving kindness toward them. At the evening services we will bring a message on the subject: "Appearance and Reality." We aim to show the difference between sham and true religion.

HUDGINS

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Allee have moved near Clarendon. We hate to see Mr. and Mrs. Allee move. Mr. Frank Behringer, Mr. Emet Thompson and Mr. William Meador visited Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Talley and family Tuesday night until bedtime.

Miss Lopez Whitt visited Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Meador until bedtime Monday night. Mr. and Mrs. Watt Hardin and family moved into Chamberlain community Tuesday. We hate to see Mr. and Mrs. Hardin move.

Sad but true! Alas! sad but true. It has really happened. Hudgins was defeated by Chamberlain Wednesday afternoon at Chamberlain. The score was 10-2. Hudgins met defeat again at the hands of Chamberlain by a score of 22-15 Friday afternoon on their own court. The game was a much better game than Wednesday's game as the score indicates.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Wardlow and family of Shamrock, Mrs. S. J. May and daughter, Elsie, and David Peabody of Chamberlain

Matron Queen

In fairy tales all queens are married. But in institutions of higher learning, queens, especially beauty queens, are nearly always single. Yet in looking at this picture of Mrs. Angie McCurdy Seed, of Archer City, Texas, one doesn't hesitate to agree that the students of Simmons University at Abilene used rare judgment in selecting a matron as their queen. Her husband is a student too.

and family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Talley and family. Mr. John Perdue left Tuesday to visit his brother, Mr. Tom Perdue of Hereford.

Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Putman and family visited Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Putman of Chamberlain Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Meador visited Mr. and Mrs. Leon Foster of Lelia Lake Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Behringer visited Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Putman Saturday night until bedtime.

We had a number of visitors Sunday night at singing. The visitors happen to be from the following communities, Goodnight, Chamberlain, Windy Valley and Sunnyview. We were indeed glad to have you and invite you to visit our singing again some Sunday night. Next Sunday night Hudgins will visit Windy Valley's singing.

Don't forget the Hudgins Literary Society will meet Friday night. Everyone is invited to come.

NAYLOR

Naylor was buried Saturday but glad to say everybody has dug out to the light, and are able to be around.

Last week it was stated that Clyde Bain's father-in-law, C. A. Hicks received a hand injury and it should have read a head injury. He is now at Clarendon in the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Dee Crites of Lelia Lake spent weekend with the lady's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Tidrow.

Wood hauling is now the order of the day. All the farmers are heating the coal man and are trying to make the winter depression better.

Astin Selby spent the week end with relatives at Borger. Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Tidrow visited Sunday night with Misses Minnie, Lou and Ava Naylor.

Carl Naylor is now school trustee in place of Mr. Eanes who moved into the Chamberlain community.

Mr. and Mrs. Richmond Bowlin spent week end with friends at Amarillo. Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hefner are now living on the Quattlebaum place and will work for Carl Naylor until harvest.

Mrs. Robert Johnson, who has been visiting friends at Clarendon, returned home Thursday.

AN ARMY OF FIFTY THOUSAND

Many young people, when they finish high school, have nothing more definite in mind than merely getting a job of some kind. But it is not so easy for the untrained young man or young woman to secure a position with a future. The good positions are going to the men and women who have prepared themselves for a place in the business world.

For over a quarter of a century, the Tyler Commercial College and School of Business Administration at Tyler, Texas, has been training young men and women for better business positions. No matter what sort of business career you are interested in, you will find superior instruction at Tyler.

The Employment Department at T. C. C. is one of the best and most widely known in America and there are nearly fifty thousand Tyler graduates now holding good positions all over the world.

Write to the Tyler Commercial College and School of Business Administration for a copy of their handsome booklet, "Achieving Success in Business". It will be mailed you absolutely free for the asking.

Wake Up Your Liver Bile - Without Calomel

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine. For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in pimples. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned. It takes those good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain no harmful, harsh, or irritating vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely. But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Exact substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931, C. M. Co.

READER INTEREST DETERMINES PAPER QUALITY

In this issue appears more news, more pictures conveying news and informing the reader of interesting facts about the state than for many, many months.

In this issue also appears more grocery advertisements than ever before since the Leader was established. These grocers have made it possible for us to give you a better paper. Tell them that you appreciate their patronage. When you get ready to buy, show them every consideration. These grocers must get returns from their investment if they are to continue patronizing the Leader.

Look over this issue. Do your shopping at home before you start to the store. You will naturally want to know where you can find the goods you want, and you will also want to know the price you will have to pay.

The advertisements in this issue will answer many of your questions. If it were not for these advertisers, every one of whom is reliable, your Leader this week would be a double sheet affair with less than half the news value you are now getting.

This co-operation is necessary in order for us to give you a good paper; you to get bargains wherein you save the price of the paper often on one day's purchase; and the merchants get a fair profit that will enable them to continue in business.

—The Editor.

GOLDSTON

We had a good attendance out to Sunday school Sunday afternoon. It looks as if Goldston school might be entitled to some more trophies this year the way our girls and boys are playing ball. The girls first game was with the Groom girls at Groom Thursday night, the scores being 13 and 13.

The boys played their first game with the Martin boys at Martin Friday afternoon the scores were 19-24 in Martin's favor, then Monday our boys defeated the Martin boys by six, scores 17-23.

M. W. Hatley and Elmer Gilbert are visiting and transacting business in Dublin.

Mr. Sloan Baker, county supt. visited our school Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Jordan and family and Mr. and Mrs. Murphy Brock returned home Thursday night after a four weeks visit with relatives in Arkansas.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Brune of Amarillo visited their aunt, Mrs. M. W. Hatley Saturday night and Sunday.

Bill and Bernice McConnell niece and nephew of George McConnell have come to take their uncle to their home in Arkansas. Mr. McConnell is suffering from a stroke of paralysis some two months ago. He has not been able to speak a word since.

Mr. and Mrs. Ringwall and family are moving to Alanreed this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Bell and daughter, Marian Sue, of Amarillo visited in the L. H. Earthman home Monday night.

Dalhart Texan Editor States His Personal Views

Don't think this writer radical when he urges that a deep study be made of the possibility of everyone having plenty to satisfy normal wants through our machine-age and our brains with man free one-half or two-thirds of his average working time to enjoy life. I believe it is entirely possible if greed and selfishness are scrapped along with our monetary system, and the medium of exchange made free and easy, but valueless beyond the normal, everyday necessities of life. Certainly such a change will be revolutionary and it may take a revolution to bring it about, but if we are not now going through one of the greatest revolutionary periods in our existence, I'd like to know what a person would call it. Let's consider money and material wealth. Have you seen a dead person? Did you ever see one carry anything away except what he had given in good deeds? What happens to pomp, power and gold at the grave? Aside from a comfortable living and assurance for old age what need does anyone have for money, land or great buildings? Does money ever bring anything except misery, envy, greed, selfishness and hate? Does it build character?

Why not create a world wherein with our wonderful brains and constantly improved machinery we could have everything we needed to eat and wear in our lifetime and spend most of our time enjoying nature and life and one another. Such a thing is not impossible. Anything that man can imagine, he can do if he goes about it properly. We may reach a greater era in history as a result of this investigation if selfish desire and greed can be eliminated. Scrap the gold standard, the silver standard, the greenback standard and put it in its place the standard of the Golden Rule and of Right.

Take the greedy, selfish tycoons out into one group and let them pile up stack after stack of beans, bale after bale of cotton, but allow it to have no value other than its use to them personally, and you will soon demonstrate to them the folly of gathering money. Place a premium on brains, on kindness, on courtesy and on brotherly love and on the aristocracy of a sublime character. When that is done there will indeed be "Good Will and Peace on Earth to All Men."—John L. McCarty.

On the shores of Cocoa-Cola Dwelt the Moxies in their Wigwam Old Sapollo, the Chieftain, Pebeço, the Grizzled Prophet, And the warriors young and eager.

In the lodge of the old Chieftain, With Uueeda, more than mother, And Victrola, old and feeble, Lived the warmest of the maidens, Musterole, Sapollo's daughter—Musterole, the Sunkist Chiclet.

All the young men sought her favor, Left their troubles at her wigwam, Brought her Thermos skins for rainment,

Brought her Tarvia for ointment. And sweet Musterole smiled on them,

Smiled on Listerine and Valspar, Smiled but left them unrequited, For her love she gave to no one. Then from Multibestos Mountains, From the far heights of Texaco, Came the young chief, Instant Postum—

Mightiest hunter in the forest, All superb in strength and beauty.

He it was who trapped the Kodak.

He who shot the great Sears Roebuck, Shot him with his swift Pierce Arrow, Eversharp, his trusty hatchet, Every arrow head a Hot Point. O'er him gazed the Moxie maidens, Nujol poured her glowing glances, Bold Carbona sought to win him, Topkis brought him cakes and honey,

But for Musterole yearned Postum, No Pyrene could quench the ardor That she kindled in his bosom.

Through the field of ripe Wheatena,

Through the Siredded Wheat they wandered,

By the rippling Cuticura, There beneath Palmolive shadows From the bough she picked the Grape Nuts,

There she saw the sun descending, Naught cared Postum for the night wind,

Blowing through the Holeproof forests,

Musterole was there beside him.

To his bosom quick he drew her, Whispered words of love aburning, Told her how he caught the Seal Pax,

Told her how he'd slain Bull Durham,

Told her how he'd trapped Ampico, Boasted of his father's tepee, With its sides of Mentholatum, With its wings of soft Socony.

To him Musterole, a-quiver, Listened, and her heart gave answer.

All the warmth of love she gave him, All her Rubberset affection, Gave her heart to Instant Postum.

There he wooed her, there he won her.

Passed the years in quick succession; Small Post Toasties came to bless them,

Triplets, B. V. D., Gold Dust Twins, Little Beech Nut, Wrigley Spear-mint, Vici Kid and Pluto Water. These and other little Toasties Filled the wigwam with their laughter.

Puppy Love Party Ends in Tragedy

Tragedy stalked through a San Antonio rooming house Friday night after two boys rented a "room with two beds" and brought two girls there. Five minutes after the door to the room was bolted, a shot was heard, and Miss Constance King, inset in the lower photo, was found dead. Upper photos show Leonard Poss, left, James Hobbs, right, and Miss Winnie Mann, center. Below is the bedroom with a detective pointing to the spot where Miss King's body was found. All of the participants in the party were 18 years old, and high school students.

Mrs. W. T. Hayter is with her mother in Lubbock, who is ill.

A. L. Millsap is to change his occupation and will sell his farming equipment at public auction on February 1st.

W. H. Youngblood of Brice had business in the capitol of Donley Saturday.
