

Dark Future Is Ahead For Those Taken From Roll

No Definite Place For Workers Who Are Eliminated Under New WPA Regulations.

The desperate plight of the workers who are being removed from WPA rolls in compliance with the new, reduced quota of workers to be employed on WPA projects was described Wednesday by Miss Ann Wilkens, assistant supervisor of the employment division at WPA district 14 headquarters.

Every day the dismissed workers come to the district WPA offices seeking a solution to the problem of unemployment again confronting them.

"The worst thing about the whole business is that in spite of the fact that we constantly hear that the people who have been receiving aid from the government do not want to work, they have worked during the past few months for a mere pittance.

"The fact that they want to work is illustrated by the number of people who come to the office asking why they have to be cut off. They are not asking for commodities, food and clothing, or seeking any graft," the WPA official said.

"There is little spirit of resentment towards the WPA or feeling that the government is responsible for their welfare. These people, through regular employment on WPA projects during the past few months, had once again built up a feeling of security, a sense of self-reliance. They are now thrown back in the ranks of the unemployed and that security has been destroyed," she said.

Workers Are Needed

"We regret that we can not longer employ those who must be reduced from the roll under the quota set up for us because we need them on our projects, and we know that the work they have been doing is for public benefit. But since we are no longer able to pay them it is necessary for us to reduce our rolls," she said.

"Some aid in the way of actual necessities will be available to them through distribution of WPA commodities by the county welfare association. The only suggestion we can make is that they seek that assistance, which in addition to being meager does nothing to solve their problem of unemployment," she added.

"We are operating now on an emergency fund, and when that is exhausted our work will have to cease," she said. "We have cut administrative expenses to the bone in order that we may function as long as possible with the present case load. Any additional burden would be impossible for the TRC."

The TRC at present is giving aid to unemployables in the form of

County Sells State Script For Payroll

Cash was made available for the county salary fund Monday by action of the Commissioners Court, which voted to discount a $923.37 warrant from the State of Texas General Revenue Fund, a payment from the state to the Brown County Officers Salary Fund, to the Citizens National Bank, Cameron. The discount will be 9-10 of 1 per cent. The state fund is in default at present.

The court approved a statement of $24.48 from Tax Collector Winston Palmer for deputies hire. Monthly bills were examined and approved.

cash disbursements sent to the client directly from Austin. The case load in Brown county is 120, representing assistance being given to more than 400 individuals.

Mrs. Bennett pointed out the fact that the WPA workers who are being cut from the rolls are, for the most part, those who are classified as Class C labor, the least trained and least efficient workers and those who will be the last to be absorbed by private employment.

Miss Wilkins said that a number of workers on WPA projects, thinking that the employment of some member of their family on another type of project will endanger their chances of continued employment for WPA, have removed their children from work on National Youth Administration projects. A letter correcting this impression has been sent by James T. Padgett, district supervisor of division of employment, to all project superintendents in district 14.

RELIEF AFTER STATE AND FEDERAL FUNDS END BEING STUDIED

Details of a proposed budget and administrative plans for a community welfare organization are being considered by sub-committees of the planning committee of nine members appointed to work out plans for the contemplated organization. Reports from representatives of welfare agencies, governmental and private, were heard by the planning committee in session Monday night, and tentative plans for the organization were drawn up at that time.

No definite action will be taken, however, until further consideration is given the matter, members of the committee said this week. The reports and discussions given Monday night were for the purpose of bringing before the committee the actual number of persons in the county who are now in need of assistance and those who will be without source of income in the near future as the result of removal from WPA rolls and the cessation of TRC operations. The figures given in the reports are being compiled and will be used as a basis for the planning committee's work.

Those making reports at this week's meeting, held in Chamber of Commerce office, included Mrs. Jessica Bennett, TRC district supervisor; John Allen, Jr., WPA district commodities supervisor; Miss Ann Wilkens, WPA district assistant supervisor in the division of employment; Mrs. Ruby Ables, city-county case worker, and Mrs. Bess DeBerry, case work supervisor for the Brown county TRC office.

Approximately 14,000 drivers licenses have been issued. Base Figures Of 1935 To Be Used In Farm Program

"America Is Fifty Years Late With Farm Relief," Jack Shelton States.

Base figures used in the 1935 AAA program in Texas will be used in the 1936 farm program being set up under the new Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Act, according to a statement issued by Jack Shelton, Vice Director and State Agent of the Extension Service.

In preparation for putting the program into effect the Extension Service staff spent two days studying the plan for the Southern Region as explained by R. H. Rogers, senior agricultural economist with the planning division of the AAA who flew here in company with A. L. Smith, former chairman of the Texas Cotton Allotment Board. Smith has been in Washington for the past two weeks helping to work out details of the new program as they affect Texas and the other Southern states.

Following the conference at College Station, Extension agents in the counties are being called together in group meetings at convenient points in their districts and district agents will lay the general plans for organization and soil conservation before them to take back to their farmers.

At meetings in the counties the county agricultural agents will explain the terms of the Act and the proposed organization to be set up under it. Election of committees of farmers to administer the work will be the next step.

The organization will begin with a "community" committee of three members who will represent approximately 500 farmers such as are being formed now in Brown county. Committees from all counties constitute a county board from which a county committee will be elected to have special responsibility for administering the Act in the county.

"Every farmer in Texas will have an opportunity to hear the Act explained and to cooperate in making the new farm program a success," Shelton stated. "It is their program, it was passed by Congress at their urgent demand, we believe that they will want to understand it very fully and that they will want every body else to understand it too, because the old saying that 'what you are not up on, you are apt to be down on' is still true."

Shelton further emphasized the fact that the old program and the organization that went with it are completely out; that this is an entirely new set-up; that it is a soil conservation and soil building program.

"The blowing sand in the air right now and the floods which have made thousands of people homeless in cities and towns as well as on farms give a rather dreadful emphasis to the fact that America is fifty years late with a soil conservation program, but better late than never, I think we will all agree."

In the year 1935, the Texas Power & Light Company disbursed in Brownwood $63,395.08 for wages, taxes and dividends. This represented more than one-third of all the money collected in Brownwood.

WAGES: A total of 131 men, women and children, whose homes are in Brownwood, depend for their livelihood on the pay checks of the Texas Power & Light Company's 41 employees in Brownwood. Wages paid to those employees amounted to $28,500.00 in 1935.

TAXES: Texas Power & Light Company is the largest single taxpayer in Brownwood. In 1935, the Company paid $20,395.08 in taxes on its operations in Brownwood. Of this amount approximately $12,000.00 was ad valorem tax, which includes the amount paid to the City of Brownwood, Brown County, and the Water Improvement District.

DIVIDENDS: A total of 151 families, including widows, orphans, salaried men and women, and wage earners, received dividends from the Company in 1935, amounting to $14,500.00 on their investments of $244,500.00 in the Company's preferred stock.

The money paid out for wages, taxes and dividends was equal to the gross revenues of the Company's operations in Brown County for four and one-third months. In addition to such direct payments, the Company has always been a good citizen, contributing its share of money and man-power to community projects which have for their purpose the upbuilding of Brownwood.

More than one-third of all the money collected in Brownwood is paid out for wages, taxes and dividends in Brownwood.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD By William Ferguson

ON TEXAS FARMS

MOUNT PLEASANT — D. H. Payne, 75-year-old farmer living in the East Side community in Titus county, grew a one-half acre track garden during 1935 that netted him $111, according to D. R. Raiph, county agricultural agent.

On his one-half acre, Payne grew fresh vegetables which included cabbage, Irish potatoes, tomatoes, onions, corn, butter beans, cantaloupes, black eyed peas, white corn, field peas, cucumbers, carrots, squash, string beans, beets, turnips, mustard greens and English peas.

Payne stated that the total expense for seed, plants and work other than his own, cost $50. From the sale of his vegetables, he received $161. Deducting the $50 expense, Payne made a net profit of $111 on his truck garden.

NEW BRAUNFELS — Beginning 25 years ago, Edgar Pantermuehl, farmer in Comal county, began the systematic construction of rock dams across a natural drain through his field of 65 acres, according to George E. Ehlinger, county agricultural agent.

In the course of years, he has constructed eight of these dams, building them about five feet high through the middle of the wash, and about 200 feet long.

"This work," Ehlinger said, "has resulted in all the dams filling up with soil off the field, and as Pantermuehl expresses it, the only decent part of the field is that built-up area between these dams."

These dams worked into a terracing system whereby terrace lines were run from each end of the dams, leading all water into this center drain and over the dams, according to the county agricultural agent.

SINTON — In order for her chickens to have green grass all the time, Irene Mattingly, 4-H club girl from San Patricio county, has her chicken house in the center of the chicken yard and fencing on each side, thus dividing the yard into two parts, according to Apolline Cobb, home demonstration agent.

One side is sowed with oats and the other side has a good turf of Bermuda grass. Irene has a flock of 12 white leghorn pullets and one cockerel.

BASTROP — Seven inches of leaves with some well rotted barn yard fertilizer is being placed on the rose bed and shrub beds of Mrs. L. A. Kunkel, member of the Mc-Deade Home Demonstration Club in Bastrop county.

"These leaves," according to Mrs. Kunkel, "will protect the plants this winter and will form a mulch for working the soil next spring. The leaves will also help the soil to hold moisture during the dry months next spring and summer."

Mrs. Kunkel did the same work last fall and she had shrubs and roses all summer and fall.

ALICE — Marjorie Warkentin enrolled in the Prement Girls' 4-H Club in October and already has radishes, lettuce and carrots in her garden, according to Erma Wines, Jim Wells county home demonstration agent.

She has collected 20 cents from the sale of radishes. The lettuce is forming heads and the carrots will soon be large enough to eat.

Marjorie Warkentin is 11 years old and this is her first year in club work, according to the agent's report.

KOUNTZE — J. J. Fountain, living 12 miles south from Kountze in Hardin county, is finding a ready market for his smoked sausage at 40 cents a pound.

According to W. P. Barrett, county agricultural agent, Fountain made up three hogs just before Christmas and sold the entire lot during the holidays at his front gate. He also disposed of all ribs and backbones and most of his surplus lard in the same manner. Fountain lives on State Highway 49.

PEARSALL — Some 800 acres of Rhodes grass will be planted in Prio county during 1936, as a result of a 10 acre demonstration plot seeded by Sam Johnson in 1935, according to N. H. Hunt, county agricultural agent.

A good stand was obtained on eight of the 10 acres. At first three head of cattle were placed on the grass, then five head and finally 10 head before any appreciable notice was made of the cattle keeping the grass down.

Sam Johnson reported to the county agent that during a dry period in early summer, the Rhodes grass was the only grass which was green.

"Because of the excellent showing made on this demonstration," Hunt stated, "the Rhodes grass acreage in Prio County will be greatly increased."

NEWCASTLE — "My terraced farm of 160 acres produced more corn and feed stuff, as well as cotton, in 1935 than it did 25 years ago when it was virgin land," T. J. Rounton, farmer in Young county, recently stated.

The land was terraced last winter under the supervision of B. F. Vance, then Young county agricultural agent. As a result of this terracing, Rounton is terracing all the rest of his farms.

Rotarians To Aid Paroled Juveniles

Several juvenile delinquents in Brown county will be paroled to members of the Rotary Club here soon by County Judge A. E. Nabors, officials of the club stated after a meeting in which the Rotarians volunteered their services to the state in the supervision of juvenile delinquents of the county. Some of the parolees have served terms in the reformatory and others are under county jurisdiction.

The purposes of the county parole board plan, recently adopted by the state for handling first offenders, was explained by James C. White, member of the County Parole Board. Reclamation of first offenders, supplementing the training given by such organizations as the Boy Scouts, the FFA and the 4-H clubs will materially reduce the crime total of the state and bring about a reduction of the prison population, he said.

Following his presentation of half a dozen juvenile cases members of the club volunteered to assist the county court in looking after their welfare.

THE ANGEL OF MICHELANGELO

RETURNING home one sundown from his work on the Vatican in Rome, Michelangelo saw a discarded piece of marble lying on the roadside. He called two workmen to help him lift and carry it to his home. He overheard them say to each other as they left, pocketing the coins he gave them, "That old stone isn't worth a lira, what can he want with it?"

The stone lay untouched days in the artist's studio. One night when weary, his head resting on his hand, he sat dreaming until a wee late hour. A small angel, pure and white, came to him, bending with outstretched sympathetic hands, as if to relieve his fatigue. He reached out to touch her, she was gone, a fleeting visitor. He arose, went to his sculptor's table upon which the discarded stone lay, and worked the night through. As the dawn streaked the sky, with light that early morn, another angel came to earth, small, pure and white, bending with outstretched sympathetic hands as if to relieve the fatigue of the world. This visitor was not a fleeting one, for it had come to stay, chiseled by the master touch of Michelangelo from the discarded piece of roadside marble. It can be seen today in one of the great galleries of Europe.

There is a potential angel in every life. Even in those lives that have been discarded by human society, like the piece of marble Michelangelo found on the roadside.

The great lesson in this story is for parents—they are the sculptors of human life. It is for them to chisel the angel of character in their child in the tender growing up years and see that it grows as he grows—a strong, dominating force. I cannot help but feel if all our criminals had had the master touch in their lives in their childhood, where sin is not, their paths would be greatly divergent from where they now are.

Were I an unbeliever, thank God I am not, I believe the most serious obstacle to my unbelief would be the redeeming power of God in man's life. He never fails in his achievement of chiseling the angel out of a discarded life if we but permit him, no matter how long it has lain discarded by the roadside.

TO AVOID THE VICIOUS CIRCLE

(Houston Chronicle) Governor Allred has taken a long step forward in the field of humanitarianism in the establishment of parole boards throughout the state.

As the governor has pointed out, too often the history of our handling of convicts has followed this vicious circle: Crime to detection to punishment to parole to discouragement and back to crime again.

Now, when the convict is paroled, he is to find helping hands when he comes out of the prison walls, hands that will be extended to make a new life possible, without the brand of "ex-convict" closing every door to him and leading him straight back to evil associates.

The new parole boards, which already have been organized in more than 140 counties, including a fine group for Harris County, have been chosen on the nomination of the service clubs of their communities, and do not represent "political" appointments. The members are serving without pay, giving freely of valuable time, for in each case the members are substantial citizens with work of their own to do.

They will undertake to be a brother's keeper, indeed, to the paroled men as they come out. They will familiarize themselves with the cases and histories of the men released, will try to find jobs for them, will exert every effort to see that they are received back into society and given a chance to make good.

Naturally, the system will not be perfect. There are many who believe that really effective results will have to wait on the time when we have trained, salaried probation officers to undertake this work. In other cases, even the best intentioned men will make mistakes, and, of course, there is the possibility that some boards will tire of their work when the novelty wears off.

But the state has not provided the means for expert probation supervision, and this voluntary effort puts Texas well forward on a new step in its dealing with the problem of criminal rehabilitation.

It is a tribute to the character of Texas citizenry that so many men are willing to undertake this task and a hopeful sign for the future.

That reformation is more important than punishment, in the handling of the criminal class, is generally admitted. Reformation, however, is unlikely unless the soil is prepared for real opportunity for the paroled man to resume his part in the world around him.

Many problems are involved, not the least of which is to find work in a world in which there are more humans than there are jobs, but the governor, in making these appointments and inaugurating this work, has assured Texas of an honest effort to tackle the problem in many fashions.

Advertising The Edges

There is much food for thought in the protest of the Brownwood Chamber of Commerce that those in charge of sending out information in behalf of the Texas Centennial Celebrations have discriminated against the area known vaguely as the Heart of Texas, or more properly described as Central West Texas. In none of the literature that has come to the attention of the local chamber of commerce officials has this section been given fair consideration, while volumes is being written and broadcast about the merits of almost every other section of the State.

The protest, couched in moderate language, points out that "All America" is invited to visit East Texas, North Texas, South Texas and West Texas, and routes to these sections are outlined in detail. Following any of the routes recommended to the out-of-state visitor, the Centennial tourist would make a wide circle around the center of the State, and while he would have a most interesting and enjoyable trip, much of value would be missed. For certainly, no visitor would gain the impression from the literature so far issued, that Central West Texas, or the central part of the State, has anything worthwhile to offer.

The Gulf area, the Rio Grande Valley, the El Paso section, the Pecos area, East Texas and the broad plains of West Texas, each of which is carefully described and glowingly presented in attractive literature; these sections certainly should be visited by the out-of-state tourist, and each offers many distinctive attractions. But to see them at the expense of other and important geographical sections of the state would not be carrying out the spirit and intent of those who voted $3,000,000 of State funds for a series of Centennial celebrations representative of the entire State.

Those who prepare and send out the literature that must be mailed in response to inquiries received from those who read the Centennial Celebrations advertisements have a large task, of course. It is not an easy matter for them, or for anyone, to pick out certain sections of the State to recommend to visitors, without making themselves liable to criticism for neglecting certain parts of Texas. The State is so rich in history and so distinctive in its present condition that it is hard to imagine any portion that would not unfold interesting wonders to the Centennial visitor. And yet, having assumed the task, and having assumed it, having picked the hard route of publicizing Texas by sections, then their task becomes a responsibility. In neglecting Central West Texas, that responsibility to this section of the State has not been fulfilled.

It is easy to criticize. Those in public and semi-public positions have many problems to weigh that do not occur to the outside observer. More times than not, they are doing the best that they can with the job they have. Bearing this in mind, we are inclined to believe that the oversight was not studied, and is not permanent. While the first mailings of Centennial advertising seem to be unfair to us and our neighbors, no doubt this will be corrected in future literature, and possibly will receive better treatment as the Centennial advertising matter is brought up to date and made more representative of Texas.

Retaining The CCC

No announcement that has come out of the re-vamping of the New Deal has met with more hearty approval than that the Civilian Conservation Corps camps would be retained for the time being, at least, at their present strength. The avalanche of protest that followed the announcement of planned reduction in the number of camps was so great that no other course was left open for those in charge.

The CCC was not always so popular. It had none of the spontaneous support which bolstered the NRA in its infancy, or which carried the AAA through several crises. During the early days of the Administration, the CCC was a popular target, and the "tee army" came in for much criticism from the press and the public. It was so new, so different from anything that had come before it, that it seemed impractical.

Now, after three years of experimentation, it emerges as the giant of the recovery program. Not only are the CCC boys doing good work for the communities in which they are located; the camps themselves are of inestimable value to the boys and the veterans who have taken advantage of this opportunity to escape unemployment. The nature of the work undertaken, and the thoroughness with which it is being done, has met popular approval, not only of Democratic sections of the country, but of Republican strongholds as well.

The CCC met a popular need, and met it in a most satisfactory fashion. So, instead of eliminating some 500 of the camps, all will be retained. And prospects are good for placing the CCC, at present or slightly reduced strength, in the permanent program, to be continued at least until the great problem of unemployment is satisfactorily solved.

Conserving Life

A better record for motorists in Texas should result from the repeated warnings being issued by almost every agency in the state against the reckless waste of human life in automobile accidents. A new viewpoint is presented this week; that of the physician who is definitely interested. Following is a statement on the subject by Dr. John W. Brown, state health officer:

Deaths from automobile accidents in Texas increased fifteen per cent last year, while the national rate showed a drop of one per cent, according to information in the State Bureau of Vital Statistics. In 1931 the deaths from automobiles totaled 1,148; while in 1935 they had jumped to 1,823—an increase of 58.7 per cent.

Somehow motorists must be made to realize that a high-powered machine rolling along even at legal speed upon the highways is far from a plaything. A clearer conception on the part of the driver that the other fellow is likely to disregard the rules of the road also must be generated. An egotism which prompts one to imagine that he owns the highway, that he is not held down to warning signs and highway regulations, that pedestrians are pests, and causes the operation of a car as though the driver is the only one on the road—such egotism is frequently fatal. But unfortunately, in many instances, the innocent and law-abiding motorist pays the supreme penalty for this type of folly.

When to this appalling loss of life, we add the million others who in the same period have been hurt more or less seriously because of the motor car, the problem assumes vital importance not only to the safety-first people, but to the medical profession whose members are fundamentally interested in the conservation of human life.

E. J. Miller Asks For Re-Election

JUDGE E. J. MILLER

In announcing for re-election I wish to thank the people of this District most sincerely for their kind consideration and questioning judgment in electing me to this important office.

I was elected, and re-elected, upon the following announced policies and principles:

"Stay on the job, dispatch business, and clear the docket."

"An economic business administration of the duties and responsibilities of the office."

That I have lived up to these policies and accomplished this pledge will not be denied.

In recent weeks a great many people have inquired whether I would stand for re-election, and many have urged that I do so.

My record is far above the average, and standing upon such record, and upon the same policies and principles, I submit my candidacy for re-election to the charitable consideration and unbiased judgment of a generous electorate.

I pledge myself to continue the discharge of the duties of this high office along the same lines that have characterized my administration, improved by the added efficiency and ability that is the natural result of experience, study and maturity.

tion, improved by the added efficiency and ability that is the natural result of experience, study and maturity. If the above principles and my record appeal to the voters of the District I shall be pleased to continue to serve you.

From now until the primary I shall regard it a pleasure to meet and mingle with voters whenever and wherever opportunity presents itself, and present more fully my record and the policies and principles upon which I stand.

Realizing that public sentiment is the greatest factor in securing respect for law and good government, and that sound public sentiment must be based upon proper information, I have sought to furnish the press with such information as in my opinion would build sound public sentiment. Also realizing that in many instances full publication of facts and details hinders, delays, and makes more uncertain and more expensive the enforcement of law, I have frequently requested the press to withhold such facts and details. I have at all times found the press of this District willing to give full co-operation, and do not hesitate to say that the press has been an invaluable aid to the courts, the administration of justice, and the upbuilding of good government in this District during my administration. I wish to express my deep and abiding appreciation for such assistance and co-operation.

E. J. MILLER.

McGaugh Announces For District Judge

R. L. McGaugh, for over thirty years a Brownwood attorney, announces that he is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Judge of the Thirty-Fifth Judicial District, comprising Brown, Coleman and McCulloch counties.

Mr. McGaugh, with his parents, moved to McCulloch county when a small boy and lived there until he was grown, moving to Brownwood in 1902, where he has lived during all the time that he has practiced law. When a very young man he taught school four years, meanwhile he was studying law, and later under the tutelage of the late Judge I. J. Rice and the late Judge C. H. Jenkins finished his preparation for the legal profession, being admitted to the bar in 1903 and beginning active practice late in the following year.

He served as judge of the corporation court until 1906, when he was elected county attorney. During his three successive terms in that office he aided in closing up the notorious "Battle Row" in Brownwood, which flourished for a time following the voting of local option in Brown county in September, 1903. Later he served for a period of three years as city attorney and again in 1934 was appointed city attorney to succeed the late R. E. Lee, a position he still holds.

Judge McGaugh is held in the highest esteem by the people of the judicial district and by the attorneys of the three counties, with whom he has had professional contacts for thirty years. In connection with his announcement Judge McGaugh makes the following statement:

"I am placing my qualifications for district judge before the public and intend to make the campaign strictly on my own merits. Under no circumstances will I indulge in any personalities, regardless of who the opposing candidate, or candidates, may be. During the next few months I plan to make a dignified but energetic campaign and the support of my friends in each county of the district will be greatly appreciated."

FOR COMMISSIONER, PRECINCT NO. 1

J. H. (Jim) Staton this week authorized The Banner to announce his candidacy for Commissioner, Precinct 1, of Brown County.

Mr. Staton has lived in Brown county for 32 years. This is the first time he has been a candidate for public office of any kind. He came to Brown county in 1904, and has been a merchant, stockman and farmer throughout that time, paying his taxes and taking part as a citizen in all the affairs of the county.

He has been a careful student of county affairs, and believes that he has a sufficient knowledge of the duties of the Commissioner to enable him satisfactorily to serve the people of the precinct in which he lives. If elected, he proposes to give each community and road due consideration, and to handle the county's business matters fairly and honestly.

JESS WILLARD TO REFEREE WRESTLING CARD NEXT TUESDAY

Big Jess Willard, who as the "white hope" won the world heavyweight boxing championship of the world from Jack Johnson many years ago, will referee "Pa" Sprinkle's wrestling card at Memorial Hall, Brownwood, next Tuesday night. The program will see "Strongboy" Stratton and Dale Haddock meeting in the final, with Eddie O'Shea and Ollie Erickson clashing in the special event.

Tuesday night's big crowd saw "Bulldog" Jackson, who has represented the rough element on all of the cards to date, take two out of three falls from Mervin Barakman in a first class clouting match. Dale Haddock and Eddie O'Shea, in the opener, took one fall each. Time was called before either could claim another.

Still Confiscated; Two Held In Raid

In a raid on a 50-gallon still in northeastern Brown county made Sunday night a woman and one man were arrested by members of the Sheriff's department and an Inspector of the State Liquor Board, who assisted in making the raid. The woman, Eula Michael, was charged with possession of un-stamped liquor, a misdemeanor, and I. E. Michael is being held for Federal officers.

Three gallons of liquor and two barrels of mash were reported found at the still. The mash and still were destroyed and the liquor and the still's coil retained for evidence.

Burglary Charges Filed Against Two

Charges of burglary have been made against Enoch Virdell and Burl Tubbs, arrested last week after complaints were filed charging that they entered the barn of John Holland, near Winchell, the night of March 29 and took a quantity of cotton seed.

Virdell was arrested near Winchell last week and has been released on $500 bond. Tubbs was arrested at Brady and was transferred to Brown county jail Friday afternoon.
