FINGER PRINT TRACKS MENACE TO CRIMINALS

Officers Find Tell-Tale Signs Behind in Lelia Robbery Case

Following the postoffice burglary recently at Lelia, photos of various surfaces were made by Earl Alderson, and from this method finger prints were recorded. Powder of a special kind is sprinkled upon the surface before the photo is made. I. B. Pierce, finger print expert, supplied the knowledge in this case, made the classifications and made it possible for Sheriff Guy Pierce to get the following records from Washington: "Finger Print Record of J. E. Leland caught in attempt to rob P. O. Lelia Lake Texas August 13 1932.

J. L. Leland No. 166, arrested Clarendon Texas Aug. 13 1932, charge burglary charge pending.

Signed J. E. Hoover Director Bureau of Identification Washington D. C."

Copies of finger prints taken from prisoners and those charged with crime are supplied the Washington office from all over the world. When it becomes necessary to get information, it is only necessary to wire in figures giving the classification, and no finger prints are sent.

The short history above is that of the young man who was injured seriously in escaping from Lelia when his car turned over. He is now held in the Amarillo jail under a federal charge of postoffice robbery.

Saturday Crowd is Regaled By Three Speakers

Gene Howe, editor of the Amarillo News, easily proved the drawing card in attracting a large crowd around a truck stationed on the north side of the Rexall drug store at 3 p. m. Saturday. Many satisfied their curiosity after taking a look at "Old Tack" of comic strip fame.

Seated in the truck with him were Homer Mulkey and Sam Braswell Sr., the latter acting as master of ceremonies in introducing speakers Gene Howe and R. E. Underwood of Amarillo who spoke in behalf of Sterling.

Following the talks of Howe and Underwood, Judge A. T. Cole boarded a jitney and spoke for some two hours in behalf of "Ma" Ferguson and incidentally explained some issues in the races of Judges Fires and Tempton.

O. H. Brewer espoused the cause of the Fergusons in a ringing oration preceding that of Judge Cole.

Warning is Given Petty Thieves by Sheriff

Due to the fact that pilfering of melon patches has become a common nuisance, and the loss of turkeys and other poultry has become a menace, Sheriff Guy Pierce asks that the Leader notify offenders that owners have been instructed to shoot marauders in the future.

Only recently, a man residing west of town lost a truck load of melons to thieves who burst the melons on the way to town by throwing them by the roadside. Others report various losses and many are on the warpath to the extent of defending their property with shot guns.

Ike Rains Resigns Position As Deputy Sheriff

Returning to his former position as bookkeeper for a Hedley gin, Ike Rains has resigned as deputy sheriff under Sheriff Guy Pierce.

Bees Produce Honey This Year in Donley

Probably the only bee man in the county is Tom Tate residing on his farm some six miles northeast of Hedley.

He has seven stands from which he secures an average of sixteen gallons each during the season. He states that they feed largely on cotton blossom. They are located near a subirrigated valley where they have access to any other flowers that might be found.

Accompanied by the local band, a number of the local Legion boys loaded into ten autos Friday afternoon and proceeded to Memphis to pay a visit to the Post there.

The Clarendon band directed by Gus B. Stevenson played for more than an hour at their band stand. Arrangements for the affair is credited to W. C. Milam of that city. Several band boys of Memphis joined in the concert.

The visitors and local Legionists were treated to a watermelon feed by the Auxiliary following the ceremonies.

IT'S NOW UP TO THE VOTERS

In the closing hours of the campaign, there is much being said by the opposition as to my ideas about a highway issue. In fact there is no highway issue before the county at present as may be verified by inquiring of either of the County Commissioners or the County Judge. If such an issue should develop that would call for a bond issue, I would oppose such a measure. I state this in all fairness to the voters of Donley county.

Another story is to the effect that I want to secure the office of county judge so that my plant will do all the county printing. Most of the county printing for several years has been done outside the county, and very little at home. Should I be elected, I would not violate the state law by accepting printing jobs from the county. Ask any lawyer and get your information straight. No, I would be barred from printing for the county.

You will doubtless hear last minute campaign lies. Let me say in closing, that I have conducted my race upon an honorable basis. I have not appealed to the prejudice of any one, neither have I attempted to "play a sympathetic role." I am seeking this office to render unto the citizens of Donley county the very best service that is possible, rather than seeking the office for the "honor" that is in it.

At this time I wish to thank the hundreds of loyal friends who have assisted in my campaign. You expect no special favors and will get none. You have tried to render our friends and neighbors an unselfish service in attempting to prevent your county affairs being operated by the dictates of a small faction. To serve you efficiently will be a pleasure. I feel that you will have no cause to regret having given me your support.

J. C. Estlack Candidate for County Judge.

Wild Alligator is Located West of Town

Gifts from relatives are always appreciated, but at times a gift may become a "white elephant" if that gift is in the form of an alligator. Jerome D. Stocking received an alligator from a Louisiana relative recently.

That gator was three and a half feet in length, aged six years and tipped the beam at 15 pounds, and had developed wonderful saurian instincts in his jaws. His voracious appetite, and total lack of manners while a guest, compelled his new owner to take him to the Dick Allen pasture west of town and turn his gatorship into a marshy creek.

ECLIPSE OF SUN VISIBLE HERE ON NEXT WEDNESDAY

Over Exposed Films Afford Best Means of Viewing Moon's Antics

An eclipse of the sun, total over a portion of the New England states and partial throughout the rest of the country, will occur on the afternoon of August 31, affording millions of people the opportunity to witness this most striking celestial phenomenon.

The extent of the eclipse will vary from total in portions of the East to only 10 to 30 per cent on the Pacific coast. In the middle West and in the Southeastern states from 50 to 75 per cent of the sun's face will be obscured as the moon passes across it.

The eclipse here according to information furnished by astronomers, will begin about 1:15 and be at its best about 2:15. About sixty percent of the view of the sun will be obstructed by the moon at this time.

Our last eclipse was in 1930 though hardly visible, and the last partial eclipse of any note in 1925. Our next eclipse will appear in 2017.

The earth is the only planet in our solar system with a moon large enough to make a total eclipse of the sun possible. Mercury and Venus have no moons at all; Mars has two, but they are only about five to ten miles in diameter, so would only show as small black spots when crossing the sun's face. The larger planets have several moons, but none are large enough to eclipse more than a slight fraction of the sun.

An endless source of wonder to the layman is the ability of astronomers to predict the occurrence of eclipses with unerring accuracy years and even centuries in advance. It is known, for example, that a total eclipse of the sun will be visible along the southern border of the United States from California to Florida on August 12, 2045, or 113 years hence. The eclipse which will occur this month was predicted and described in great detail in a work published in Vienna nearly fifty years ago.

But if we can not understand how these wonderful spectacles of the skies are predicted, we may witness them as occasion offers and marvel at the mind of man which has discovered so many of nature's secrets.

Mrs. A. V. Neeley Passes Away at Claude

At the home of her son, John Neeley at Claude for the past several months, Mrs. A. V. Neeley, aged 82, widow of the late Rev. Neeley, passed away Wednesday.

Mrs. Neeley is well known in Donley county where she resided for a long number of years. She is survived by one son, John Neeley, who is the remaining member of a family of ten. She came west at a time when hard-hips were many. She did much to spread christianity in the new west being a faithful helper of the minister who served the people serving the Baptist denomination when his only reward resulted from his labors of "storing up treasures in Heaven."

Mrs. N. Dingle and Mrs. John McKillop, former residents here until their death, were her daughters.

Thompsons Are Moving To Fort Worth

Having sold their home to C. H. Wisdom, Mrs. E. A. Thompson and daughters, Misses Sarah and Ruth, are moving to Ft. Worth where they will make their home in the future.

Miss Sarah has been identified with the public schools there for the past several years, and will assume her duties with the opening of school next week.

They have long been identified with church interests here, being active workers in the First Baptist church. Their residence in Clarendon dates back more than twenty years. They have a host of friends here who will wish them success and happiness in Ft. Worth

Editorial Truth.

Just why Thomas T. Waggoner of the Claude News would flaunt a misleading cartoon in the faces of his readers from his front page last week, was explained this week when the editor told his readers that he did not find time to look at a proof of the picture before it was run. Alright Tom, but don't let it happen again. You don't act like the picture looks by a darn sight.

The Reason Why.

We often hear readers of weekly papers rant about them not taking issue on various matters of concern to the readers. A newspaper man down state says the biggest reason is "that the reader sentiment is never found backing up the editor to any great extent." This is largely true. Many papers have their choice of "selling out" or of being ignored by the majority of their readers.

When public sentiment will back up the newspaper man, or any other individual who stands for the rights of the masses, just then will we get something done, and not before. It takes public sentiment to get any public job done just right.

How Come?

In Taylor county, Georgia the tax rate is $5 on the thousand including school tax. They have paved highways and schools equal to those of any state. In Donley county, we have good schools but no paved highways, and the county and state tax rate exclusive of our school tax, is $7.20 per thousand. No wonder we need to cut expenses. Those in authority invite you to look over the new estimate of expenses at the courthouse on Aug. 29th. Let's adopt the method of "looking" rather than "kicking" for awhile. If any of our citizens have any suggestions, now is the time to let it be known.

His Last Request.

A statement is now being printed in a number of papers as "the last will and testament of a merchant" that may bring out some new ideas. Here it is:

"A merchant was told that he had but a few days to live. He summoned his attorney and instructed: 'Make my will so my overdrafts at the bank goes to my wife—she can explain it. My equity in my car to my son—he will have to go to work to keep up the payments. Give my good will to the supply houses—they took some awful chances on me and are entitled to something. My equipment you can give to the junk man—he has had his eye on it for many years. I want six of my creditors for pallbearers—they have carried me so long they might as well finish the job.'"

A Fast Pace.

Recently, J. M. Finley, aged 91 of Sabin, Texas returned to Louisiana on a visit. When he came to Texas, the trip was made by ox team traveling at the rate of about eight miles a day over a broken country with no roads.

On the return trip, the grand and great-grand children made the trip with him in an auto traveling fully 400 miles per day. He was dressed in the latest fashion of young men's wear, white spats 'neverthing. When he had reached his destination, an aged relative asked him how he liked the trip. "Why, I'm traveling a gait of the kids who are in a mad rush to get to the place where I am now", he replied.

IF KIPLING

If you think you are beaten, you are;
If you think you dare not, you don't;
If you'd like to win, but think you can't,
It's almost a "cinch" you won't.

If you think you'll lose, you're lost,
For out in the world you find Success begins with a fellow's will—
It's all in the state of mind.

If you think you are outclassed,
you are;
You've got to think high to rise,
You've got to be sure of yourself before
You can ever win a prize.

Life's battles don't always go
To the stronger or faster man—
But soon or late the man who wins
Is the fellow who thinks he can.

PORTRAIT

By Janie Alford

God flung out his hope in a rain-bow,
Each sunrise his splendor makes new;
But marvel past all understanding,
He implanted his likeness in you!

To the roses God gave of his fragrance,
His power rides the storms of the sea;
All his providence lies in a rain drop,
But he breathed of his spirit in me!

The firmament speaks of his handwork,

In the heavens his glories we trace;
But deep in the heart of a sinner
He wrought out the work of his grace!

God fastened the music of heaven
In the throat of a bird, high and sweet;
But he poured out his love in a garden,
On a cross made his passion complete!

God cradled himself in a Fre-sened
Whose voice transcends tumult and strife;

In a grave set the door of to-morrow,
From a tomb blazed the high trail to life!

UNEQUAL REGULATION IN TRANSPORTATION CAUSES
DISORDER AND CONFUSION

● The instability, confusion and disorder which unrestrained truck transportation has brought about is responsible in large measure for much of the distress in which all business finds itself today. Texas has moved to find a remedy and all concerned in the welfare of this state and its institutions should cooperate in the effort to restore stability and order to our transportation systems.

The Texas Railroads, in these advertisements, have endeavored to place before the people of this state some of the reasons why the existing laws, regulating motor transportation, should be upheld and enforced.

1. The railroads are necessary for the successful marketing of the enormous production of this state, which is used and consumed in every other state in the union.

Uniform, published, non-discriminatory transportation service rates are essential to the orderly conduct and welfare of business.

Unregulated truck transportation inevitably results in discriminatory charges and practices, rebating, unfair and unbusinesslike competitive methods, bringing about losses and commercial insecurity.

The wholesaler, jobber, retailer and local merchant suffer from the unfair competition of truckers and peddlers who, for the most part, are non-residents, pay no taxes and contribute nothing to the community welfare.

The farmer and agricultural producer must have at his command facilities adequate to transport crops and produce which move long distances in large volume, at low cost, by rail.

2. The railroads build and maintain their own roadways, pay heavy taxes for the support of state and municipal governments and institutions, and expend millions of dollars for payrolls, materials and supplies. Railroad workers are substantial citizens, home owners, and valued members of their communities.

3. Rail transportation is the most efficient and economical in existence for the movement of traffic in volume by land.

4. Texas highways belong to the people and are built and maintained at heavy cost. Their use for commercial purposes is a privilege, not a right. They should be kept safe for general use and not prematurely destroyed by heavy trucks.

5. The stability, security and orderly conduct of business require reasonable control and regulation of all transportation agencies.

TEMPLE OF TRUTH

Down at the party Friday--that picnic party of old timers--several "wimmin" wore bonnets. If there is anything that takes an old man way back home in mem'rie's dim history, it is the old fashioned sun bonnet. If it is of the "slat" variety so much the better. But women of today know more how to make a bonnet "stand" than they did forty years ago. Slat is not necessary. All kinds of 'em look homey and friendly though. Here's for more sun bonnets, or go bare-headed. The "birdnest" pattern is bum, but of all the blamed onery-looking things that were ever hung on a woman's head, the "Eugenie" had the worst skinned. Women are naturally attractive and most of us think there is nothing like 'em, but a bum hat can do more to ruin her looks than anything unless it is to comb her hair down over her face.

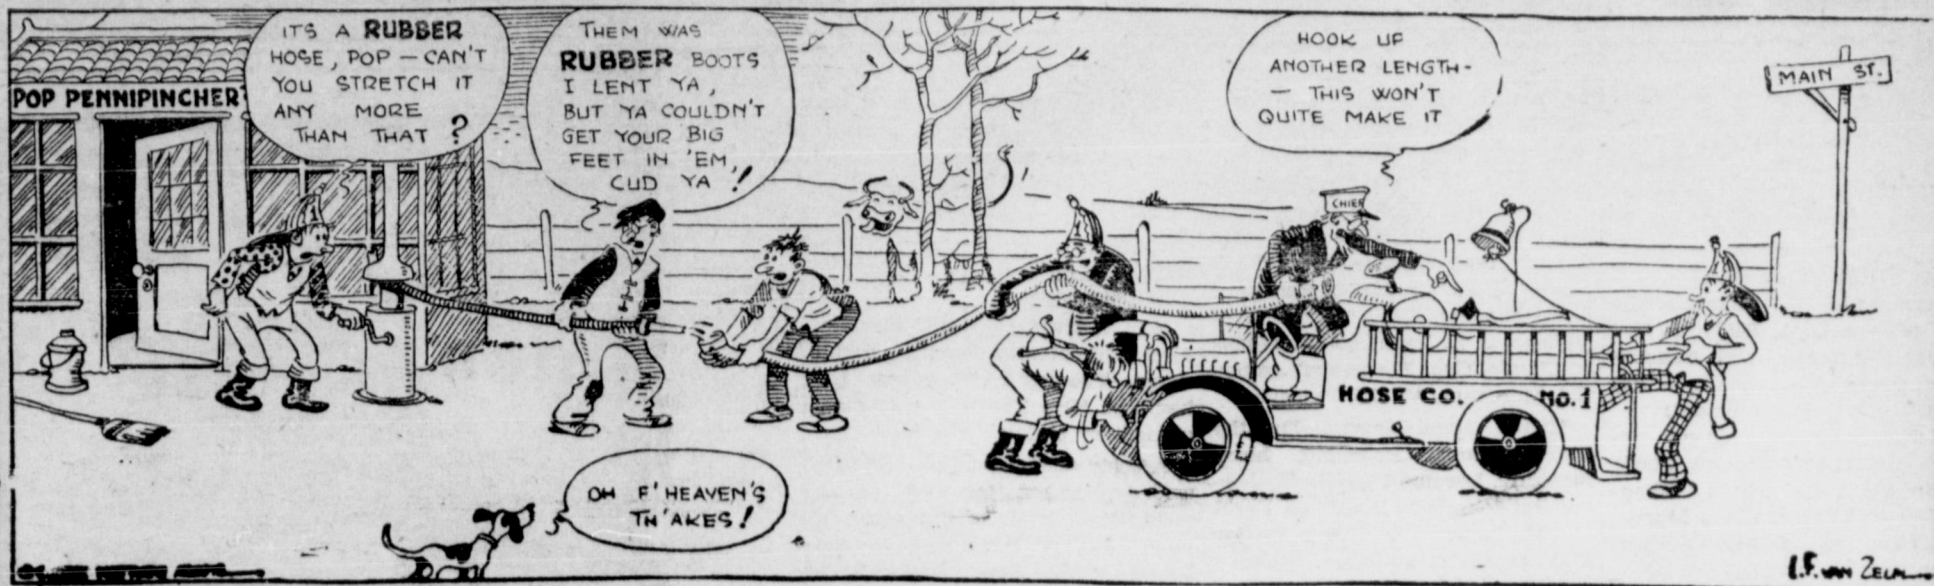

While we are fussing about the modern day hats, it would hardly do to mention the bangs and bustles of the days of forty or more years ago. As I recall, bustles died out naturally during the Texas drouth in 1887. They never survived the hard times after women found out they could get along without looking like a kangaroo at a distance. Bangs went the way of other nuisances when side saddles were discarded. Many a good looking woman took on the appearance of a witch when her bangs flowed in the air on a mad gallop on her favorite steed. The horse was receiving more punishment because of all cannibals, the side saddle could eat up the back of a horse faster than anything that was ever invented, unless it was a meat chopper. An aunt rode my favorite pony just once. She used a side-saddle and when that pony came back off a twenty mile trip to az, all-night dance, he had a setback or setback on his back that lasted him the balance of his days.

We doctored him with turpentine, alum, soot, poke root and vinegar, scraped horn dust, eggs and sugar, white lead and zinc, carbolic at different times, but nothing did any good. A common sore back would naturally get well, but a "setfast" was another story. There was only two things that would stop a setfast, and that was a winchester or lightning. Lightning cured my horse as he stood beside a wire fence. When I reached the spot after the flash and roar had cleared away, "bally" had slipped away to horse heaven where all good horses go.

That picnic is the cause of this reminiscing. If you don't know what that word means, look it up. I don't know either, but Judge Fires used it and got by with it in his talk, and I am risking it at this distance.

The big feed was great but the pleasure of meeting was greater. Older girls and boys visited all day talking over old times of 30 to 40 years ago affording a lot of interesting amusement to the younger folks of the crowd.

Like everything else, the good old days had its disadvantages as well as advantages. Doctors were few and lived at long distances. This compelled some kindly old person to volunteer his or her services to minister to the needs of the community. Many an old lady had a lot of old-time remedies that are still in use. For instance, if one happened to be stung by a centipede, common moist baking soda was the best remedy. That is what your doctor of today would use, and if you were in the best hospital in the nation, soda still would be used though it may be known by some high-sounding name in the medicine department of a hospital. They bound on a soda poultice and changed it every hour. The quicker the remedy was applied, the less sore spot afterwards. If the remedy was applied within a few minutes, the centipede sting amounted to no more than an ant sting, even tho the centipede made several stings at one time.

Itch, ringworm, erezepelas and other skin diseases were treated with jimson weed poultices. The leaves were pounded up and applied directly to the skin. So appings from a cow horn would draw a 'boll' to a head better than egg yolk and salt. Common white cotton applied to a 'frost bite' got the job done if the patient could stand the punishment.

Some remedies came from the colored 'voodoo' doctor of the old south and were based on superstition. If the power of the mind did not help out, the remedy failed. A piece of assafoedita on a string around the neck did not ward off disease, but it had a wonderful reputation as well as a notorious scent. Buckeyes or potatoes were carried in the pocket as a cure for rheumatism, but the mind did what curing was affected and not the buckeye and potatoes. Some mind cures were affected by the remedies but most efforts resulted in failure. Boys and girls 'staid' well to avoid remedies that involved a molasses, sulphur, assafoedita, sarsaparilla, calamus, castor oil mixture that was a favorite all-round remedy for any kind of ailment among the kids. This testimony is given from experience and firsthand knowledge. We were often lined up in the spring because it was believed that we needed a spring tonic. Old men staid with whiskey and cherry bark with an implicit faith that bordered on the divine. Some few took it straight even without a 'chaser'.

During the fiscal year ending August 31, 1931 the State of Texas spent $41,980,256.74 for highways, and in the same year the State spent only $30,750,391.90 for education.

Our Weekly CHURCH CHAT

W. E. FERRELL
Minister First Christian Church

Theme--"THE TEMPLE BUILT BY GOD, THE HOUSE IN WHICH I LIVE"
VII. THE DOORS OF THE HOUSE, THE NOSE."
Text. Psa. 115:6.

The body is a marvel, the product of the mind and love of God. We have spoken of two other doors in this house, I am to talk to you today of another door, the nose. The nose is more important than we sometimes think. If you will look at yourself in the mirror, you will see that it is the most prominent thing about the face.

This door in your face, is like the ears, both external and internal. The external nose is what you see. It has channels and passageways into the interior of the house, and these passageways convey messages to the brain. The nose is both the organ of smell and of breathing air into the lungs.

Our text is speaking of idols. These carved noses of idols were of no use. The nose may be suggestive of bad manners. Sir Walter Scott once rebuked his own daughter for turning up her nose at something. To turn up your nose is to treat a thing with contempt. We should treat nothing with contempt but sin and wickedness. Jesus did not treat with scorn the unclean leper, nor even the wayward woman of Samaria.

The body is holy, and every part of it is honorable when put to the right use. The nose may not only be prominent to look at, but precious to care for and use to the honor of God. When we are asked to present our bodies, it mean our whole bodies, every member of the body alive, controlled, disciplined, and turned to the highest and truest use. We should pray God to give us, clear minds, keen eyes, sharp ears, sensitive and useful noses, such as shall be kept and used to our good and also in the service of God.

Many people turn up their noses and show contempt for God and His Word. They would rather enjoy the pleasures of this world for a season than to obey God and inherit the blessings of eternal life. These people will be judged by the same gospel that they are now scorning and will be punished for their disobedience. We are conducting an Evangelistic meeting that people might learn more about God and His program. Arrange to meet with us.

TO THE VOTERS OF DONLEY COUNTY TEXAS:

There have been some circulars distributed over this county, which, I think regrettable to the party distributing them. The undersigned happens to know that Judge Fires has had nothing to do with any of them, and has attempted to stop the original one. Otherwise, he takes no notice.

I desire to state that in the four years Judge Fires has been on the bench, eight terms of court, in civil suits the lawyers and litigants have submitted every case to Judge Fires except two; one of them was appealed, was appealed by the undersigned, and it was affirmed.

Of all the criminal cases tried before Judge Fires there have been two reversals; one, the Dunwoodie case, because the Supreme Court reversed itself. Judge Fires held the Dunwoodie indictment good because the Court of Criminal Appeals at that time held it good. It later changed its opinion and it automatically reversed the Dunwoodie case. But one other criminal case has been reversed. This is a record of more than ninety nine and one half per cent of affirmances. Eighty five per cent of affirmances is the highest record of any preceding judge of this district. The jury fees under Judge Fires for an equal number of cases tried have been nearly a thousand dollars per year less than under any other judge of this district.

With reference to the Wyatt circular distributed around Estelline by a Mr. Wyatt—Judge Fires sent three of his friends to Wyatt as soon as he learned the circular was out, to request Wyatt to stop. It was a matter between Wyatt and Judge Templeton. The undersigned has seen one of the Wyatt circulars which reflects in some measure on Judge Templeton. The niece of Mr. Wyatt made the identical charges to the writer in the presence of Judge Templeton. Judge Templeton did not deny them.

I say this that the truth may be known.

Respectfully, A. T. COLE

AN ARMY
of Salesmen who take little time

When a salesman calls upon you, your subconscious question is, "How much time will he take?"

Yet an army of salesmen comes marching into your living-room regularly. They take your time only when you can spare it. They present their products to you briefly and politely, without a single interruption during your moments of consideration. They retire at your wish, or tell you more if you desire.

Are you learning all you can from these salesmen—the advertisements in The Donley County Leader! They come from the market places of the world. They bring the latest facts about the things you want and need, suggest other things you might want or need. They can make life more pleasant, efficient and economical. But you—and you alone—are the judge!

Can you afford to deny an audience to THESE salesmen? They do more than try to sell you something. They bring you the news of what your neighbors and your countrymen are doing.

Advertisements do not ring doorbells—but they receive cordial reception from intelligent, discriminating people everywhere. Again and again they point out the only true bargains—sound merchandise at fair prices. When you read the advertisements, you are helping yourself to better things!

DONLEY COUNTY PIONEERS MEET IN CELEBRATION

Big Crowd Re-Elects Same Officers For Another Year Friday

E. H. Watts of Giles was master of ceremonies in handling the regular program of the Donley County Pioneers Association in their second annual meeting on the Tom Tate farm Friday.

M. W. Mosley had charge of the musical entertainment. By way of starting the crowd off in good humor, a bunch of old-time fiddle tunes headed by "Sally Johnson" was wafting to the breeze as the crowd gathered in the early forenoon.

The morning program started off with the singing of America, Sam Braswell Sr. leading.

Mrs. Ruby Bromley favored with an appropriate reading entitled "Pioneers."

County judge J. J. Alexander next spoke detailing much of the early history of the county from an experience covering a residence of forty-five years.

District judge A. J. Fires of Childress paid his compliments to the pioneer mothers and gave an interesting account of the early history of the county, he having been identified with the Panhandle for more than forty years.

"Morning Veil" was the title of a select reading by Miss Theresa Webb.

Judge A. T. Cole of Clarendon, resident of 23 years, gave a humorous history of the early settlement throwing in some solid facts for good measure.

S. G. Adamson, chairman of the committee on arrangements, was complimented at this time as the noon hour arrived. A washpot of coffee was made ready before hand, and with an abundance of tin cups and a sack of sugar handy, the throng filed past the pot for a helping, later going to the long improvised table where the ladies had stacked up great quantities of foods of an excellent variety.

It required more than an hour to do justice to the feast. There was plenty left after all had eaten to their heart's content. Regular old-fashioned picnic where everybody was welcome and made to feel 'at home' in the middle of a big crowd.

After the noon hour, more real music was enjoyed. During the day, this old time music was due to the skill of Jess Stiles of Bray, Claude Reeves, Price Simmons, Bill and Price Walling of Lelia, Shorty Saunders of Hedley, and Reid Aycock and Joe David of Clarendon. Winfield Mosley and Theo Walling entertained with jig dances along with the music.

Homer Mulkey of Clarendon took a photograph of a group of the pioneers who had lived in Donley county over twenty years. This picture will become a part of the permanent record along with the minutes of the meetings and other historical data.

In the election of officers, the crowd appeared to be satisfied with those of the preceding year by re-electing them again. W. I. Rains of Hedley is president, M. W. Mosley of Clarendon vice president, and Mrs. O. R. Culwell is secretary.

The celebration grew pioneer attendance from Bray, Ashtola, Martin, McKnight, Giles, Clarendon, Lelia Lake, Hedley and intervening points. Most of those in attendance last year were present this time.

"It is hoped that an even larger crowd will be in attendance next year" was the parting statement of the president, Uncle Bill Rains of Hedley who functions like a professional in helping matters along.

One of the finest bunches of turkeys in the county is being raised at the G. W. Henderson home about a mile northeast of Lelia Lake.

Floyd Shannon and sons erected a new windmill at their place west of town the last of the week. This means more and better garden stuff at the Shannon home.

N. E. Savage of Lamb county, visited in the W. F. Shannon home Tuesday night on his return home after visiting relatives in Oklahoma and at McLean.

S. F. Warner and his son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Orman Warner of Arkansas City, Kansas are visiting in the homes of his sisters, Mrs. J. D. Jefferies, Mrs. J. W. Kent, and his brother, J. T. Warner and family and other relatives here.
