Science Develops New Method of Raising Calves

Nature's way of raising calves has not changed in thousands of years, but a noteworthy advance has been made recently in the method used by successful live stock breeders.

The new method has these advantages:

1. It matures calves earlier, turning them into milk cows when at least three months younger than so-called "normal" heifers.
2. It builds calves with larger, more rugged frames and less calf fat.
3. It practically eliminates scours.
4. It requires less labor than bucket feeding.
5. It costs less than feeding milk.

Years of investigation with hundreds of calves at the Purina Mills Experiment Farm at Grays Summit, Missouri, led to the development of a calf meal formula as much like cow's milk as practical. It has the right combination of ingredients to give calves a better start and to grow larger, more rugged bodies. It consists of dried skim milk, blood flour, linseed flour, bolted corn meal, wheat flour, corn gluten meal, ½ per cent iodized salt and 1½ per cent calcium carbonate.

As a new step in calf-feeding progress, this meal is now pressed into cubes or checkers. In this form it is easy to handle and waste is prevented. It does not "ball up" in the calf's mouth, as ordinary meals do.

The chart shows the average growth curve of all heifers which have completed 16 weeks on this checked calf feed in an extensive experiment which has been in progress at Purina Mills Experiment Farm since June, 1930. The second curve is the normal growth curve for Holstein heifers fed on whole milk as determined by well-known dairy authorities.

At 16 weeks of age, these calves fed the new way average 277 pounds against a normal weight for whole milk calves at the same age of 237 pounds.

While the calves receiving the calf checkers were heavier than the so-called "normal" for their age, they did not carry any surplus flesh, and were free from pot-bellies, which, in turn, enabled them to develop a good spring of rib. Their size was all growth and development and not fat. This is the reason they grew out into such excellent heifers for an early freshening date.

Besides greater growth and earlier maturity in the calves themselves, this new method saves much labor. No trouble from scours has been experienced after taking the calves off of milk in nearly three years of feeding of checkers at the Experiment Farm.

A HIGH-POWERED PRAYER

The Pathfinder tells of Parson Telfair, the pastor of the First Afro-American church, who was warming up for his Sunday morning sermon with a short prayer. This is what he said:

"Oh, Lawd give thy servant this mawnin' the eyes of the eagle and the wisdom of the owl; connect his soul with the gospel telephone in the central skies; luminate his brow with the sun of heaven; pizen his mind with the love for the people; turpentine his 'magination, grease his lips with 'possum oil, loosen his tongue with the sledge hammer of thy power, 'lectrify his brain with the lightnin' of the world, put 'petual motion in his arms, fill him plum full of the dynamite of thy glory, 'noint him all over with the kerosene oil of thy salvation, and set him on fire. Amen! Halleluoyah!"

Bill, a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Greene, is a student of New Mexico Military Institute at Roswell this year. This is one of the very few Grade A military schools of the nation.

A Personal Message To Our Subscribers

A newspaper is an essential factor in the community life of any well ordered town. We do not make this statement because we are publishers, but because it is an accepted fact. Your newspaper brings you weekly accounts of many things—the comings and goings of your neighbors, births, deaths, social happenings, development of the community, etc.

But a certain amount of money is necessary for the continued publication of a newspaper. This is derived in two ways, of course—advertising and subscriptions. There is no need to discuss here why advertising has diminished. The reasons are too well known.

It is a fact well known to every newspaper publisher that there is no profit in subscriptions. However, the sums derived from that source go a long way toward helping to meet expenses.

Are You In Arrears?

There are many subscribers on our list who are in arrears. This is a personal appeal to you, if you are among them, please come in and pay up. Your dollar may not seem like a lot, but every bit helps.

If you do not have the cash, let us know the date you will be able to pay.

Those are orders—from a man who knows his way about motors. He knows that no motor will give 100% performance when hampered with a dozen little difficulties. He knows the significance that attaches to breaker points or distributor heads. He knows that a clean gas line may save a scored cylinder head. He knows that "Tune It Up" is the modern equivalent of a "stitch in time." Come in and order likewise—for safety.

Bohumir Kryl, Premier Cornetist, With His World Famous Band Secured

Critics throughout the world are quite unanimous in their statements that Bohumir Kryl is the greatest cornetist of the present day, and the sobriquet, "The greatest cornetist in the world" is not one of the past year only but one which he has rightfully possessed for a score of years. An outstanding feature of the mastery of this instrument is his ability to play two full octaves below any other cornetist, thus doing what has always been considered impossible.

The career of this celebrated band master reads like a chapter from almost unbelievable fiction. Born in Prague, Bohemia, the son of a sculptor, ran away from home when he was eleven years old and joined a circus then traveling Europe, acting as an acrobat during the shows and playing his horn in the parade. For two years he cavorted through the air on the trapeze, tumbling and jumping over elephants, and other various antics of the circus tent. But a fateful day arrived when in jumping he met with an accident and had to quit the circus. After the circus he walked two hundred miles to his home town.

Less than six months after the circus accident, Kryl was on his way to America, paying for his passage by playing his violin. Some ten years later Sousa heard of a young cornetist who was working as a sculptor at Crawfordsville, Indiana, engaged in doing a likeness of General Lew Wallace, and hearing him play persuaded him to lay down the chisel and become cornet soloist with the Sousa Band. A few years under Sousa and other noted bandmasters of the day and young Kryl was ready to take his place with his symphonic band in the halls of music throughout America. Engagements were held for weeks at a time in Chicago, Philadelphia, St. Louis and Cincinnati, as well as the yearly tours when he crossed and recrossed the continent playing to packed houses and welcomed as the "picturesque bandmaster," and spoken of frequently as that "cornetist with the golden tone."

In all his band work, Kryl plays and features symphonic music. Thousands of listeners have likened his concerts to great pipe organs, so perfect is the musicianship of his group, and so perfect his control over the players.

In the personal make-up of the man, there is found the rare grace which accompanies every movement on the stage; there is the unforgettable head crowned with tawny yellow hair, and the blue eyes which flash fire or twinkle and which makes one think of sun playing on falling rain, especially when his band does something that calls forth unusual approval, or when he is recounting his days back in Bohemia with the circus.

Kryl and his symphonic band will appear in Clarendon, Nov. 19th, under the sponsorship of the Aubyn E. Clark Post of the American Legion.
