TRANSPORTATION SET-UP FOR DONLEY COUNTY SCHOOLS AND ITS ADVANTAGES

By Sloan Baker

Thirteen school buses will transport pupils to the district schools of Donley County and carry the high school pupils of the grades not taught in the local districts to the affiliated high schools of the County. College pupils will also be transported on these buses to the Clarendon Junior College. Ten of these school buses are equipped with Wayne-steel school bus bodies which is the last word in safety and comfort for the pupils. Responsible drivers placed under $2,000 bond and strict State laws and regulations will operate the buses. These drivers sign contracts with the County Board of Trustees and the County Superintendent through a county wide set-up for transportation in Donley county. This set-up is according to the State plan for county wide transportation as planned by L. A. Woods, State Superintendent, and the State Board of Education.

The following is the outline of the transportation system for Donley County:

Route number one, Hedley to McKnight, will transport 13 high school pupils above the eighth grade to Hedley, and sixty-nine elementary pupils to McKnight.

Route number two, Hedley to Fairview, East of Lake Creek, approximately 50 pupils.

Route number three, Ashtola to Clarendon, seven pupils to Clarendon and 87 pupils to Ashtola school through the ninth grade.

Route number four, Skillet to McLean, with six high school pupils to Clarendon, 96 elementary pupils to Martin through the 9th grade.

Route number six, Whitefish to Alanreed, will transport the entire enrollment. Glenwood District will be partially served by this route.

Route number seven, Giles will meet Hedley bus with eleventh grade pupils, and transport 69 pupils to Giles 10th grade school. Giles bus has been in operation for twelve years.

Route number eight, Bray will meet the Hedley-McKnight bus with seven high school pupils and transport sixty-five to Bray school through the seventh grade.

Route number nine, Lelia Lake to Fairview, west of Lake Creek, transports eleven to Lelia Lake High school and approximately fifty to Fairview and Lelia Lake elementary grades. Fairview will teach seven grades.

Route number ten, Windy Valley, Lelia Lake and Clarendon, eleven high school pupils to Lelia Lake and five high school pupils to Clarendon, also eight or ten College pupils from Lelia Lake to Clarendon. This bus will also transport sixty-eight grade pupils to Windy Valley 8th grade school.

Route number eleven, Chamberlain to Clarendon, will transport fourteen high school pupils to Clarendon and seventy-eight elementary pupils to Chamberlain through the eighth grade.

Route number twelve, Goldston to Clarendon, will transport twelve pupils to Clarendon high school and 84 pupils to Goldston through the ninth grade.

Route number thirteen, Midway to Clarendon, will transport twenty four high school pupils to Clarendon and sixty pupils to Midway through the elementary grades and to Sunnyview through the eighth grade.

LIONS ENJOY A DELEGATE REPORT ON MEXICO TRIP

Customs and Habits People Southern Republic Are Explained

A resume of his trip to the International Lions Convention at Mexico City was told by delegate Odos Caraway to the Lions club Tuesday in a most interesting manner. The program period was consumed by Mr. Caraway and he was allotted the same time next Tuesday in which to conclude his narrations.

Accompanied by Mrs. Caraway, the entire trip was made by auto. The first stop of any note was made at San Antonio where passports were secured and time taken for sight-seeing.

Laredo was the next stop and where the passage was made over the International boundary. Hastening on the next stop was made at Monterey where plenty of time was taken to see points of interest in a quaint city builded upon history of several centuries.

The next night found them at an interior town which made little impression except the food which could have been better. Courtesy was the watchword of the natives the entire trip and the first real introduction was at the inland stop where only one man of white skin was residing. He represented an oil company.

Arriving at Mexico City, quarters were hastily secured and both Mr. and Mrs. Caraway plunged into the busy life resulting from the throng of visitors gathering for the convention in the tropical capitol of the Aztecs of old.

Aside from the Convention with its interesting panorama of details, an ancient pageant depicting Aztec ceremonials was the biggest feature. Ancient pyramids of prehistoric peoples unearthed within recent years, were visited.

About 200 miles of the journey was made through Aztec Indian country where customs have never been affected by modern civilization. Hogs were staked by the hind leg, small patches were cultivated, peppers predominating, with a bit of corn and beans perhaps for the home manufacture of chile, enchiladas or foods. The "fields" in some instances are located on high mountain sides, and the rows run up and down at a sharp angle.

Denver Engineer Visits Here On Inspection Tour

Chief engineer W. A. Stainer of the Denver railway system visited Friday in Clarendon for a short time on a tour of drainage inspections.

He was accompanied from here by Frank A. White for an inspection of the Denver branch line from Pampa to Childress.

Good Crops Reported Down State by Johnson

"Crops look dandy down in the Christoval section and this way", Will Johnson of the Johnson Blacksmith and Machine company stated upon his return from there Friday. He was accompanied by Mrs. Johnson and Mabel and Billie and the trip was a matter of vacation.

COMMISSIONERS AFTER MINERAL LEASE HOLDERS

Effort Will be Made to Get Tax Money on Decided Property, is Claim

Believing that those who hold deeds to mineral claims beneath the ground should pay a proportionate part of the taxes, the County Commissioners of Donley county went on record Monday as demanding payment.

An order was passed instructing the tax assessor to assess, and the tax collector to collect such tax amounts as would be equitable and just in their estimation.

The mineral leases are said to be held by authority of deeds separately and apart from the overlying lands.

Those who do not favor the idea are of the opinion that a tax suit, if it became necessary, would endanger the title to the land owner.

FORMER PRINTER OF THIRTY YEARS AGO VISITS HERE

Helped Father Publish Paper When Clarendon Had Three Weeklies

After an absence of 28 years, Charles D. Dial turned off 66 Highway at Jericho Saturday and made a side trip to see the old home town of his boyhood days.

He formerly resided here and assisted his father in getting out the Banner-Stockman in 1907. Alvis Weatherly, an employee of the elder Dial, saw the need of another weekly and started publication of the Clarendon News in 1908.

After a siege of competition of almost a year, Weatherly became owner of the Banner-Stockman and sold the consolidated sheet to the Bevelles in 1909. The publication's name was changed to the "Chronicle" until it became the

DAM PROJECTS GET APPROVAL AT AMARILLO OFFICE

WPA District Office Gives City Final Chance to Get Flood Control Over

Plans submitted to the district WPA board at Amarillo by the City has been approved and the matter passed to the state officials for approval.

This project calls for approximately $23,000.00 to be spent on flood control dams south and southwest of town. CWA labor will be used in construction of the dams, it is said, and the other money used for materials, etc.

Transient labor is now being used on the dams, and confined to the large dam on the John T. Sims farm at present. Each of the several dams will be completed in succession.

At present, the City furnishes transportation for workmen, and the materials and tools, and housing for the transient workmen who number about forty actively at work on dam construction.

Under the new set-up of the plans approved above mentioned, a larger sum will be permitted to be spent per man for labor. At present it is said that earnings of the individual is limited to about $240.00 a year. Under the new plan, the amount may approximate around $600.00 per man.

Chamber of Commerce Offers $25 For First Cotton

The Clarendon Chamber of Commerce is again offering cash premiums for the first bales of 1935 cotton sold in Clarendon. For the first bale produced in Donley County and ginned and sold in Clarendon, the producer will receive a $15.00 premium. And for the first bale of 1935 cotton produced out of Donley County and sold in Clarendon, the Chamber of Commerce will pay a premium of $10.00.

With the beneficial rains received early in August the prospects are bright for a better than average cotton and feed crop in the Clarendon trade territory.

For the first time in Odd Fellow history of the state, Clarendon will be privileged to entertain a number of the wards of the Odd Fellow orphanage of Corsicana next Thursday, the 22nd. District Deputy Grand Master George E. Ragland will become master of ceremonies during the stay of the visitors.

MRS. C. B. COUCH
Matron of the Odd Fellow W. & O. Home at Corsicana.

There will be about eighteen girls and seven boys making up the Glee Club. The children will be accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Couch, superintendent and matron respectively of the Home.

The entire party will be guests of Clarendon Odd Fellows overnight, being cared for in the homes of local members.

The visitors will take part in a two-day celebration at Memphis prior to coming to Clarendon. The Memphis meeting will be a convention of the Southern Panhandle Odd Fellow Association which includes territory from Wichita to Hall county inclusive.

Leaving Memphis at 3 p. m. Thursday, stops will be made at Hedley at 3:30 for a short program; Lelia Lake at 4:15 where another short program will be heard. The visitors are scheduled to arrive here at 5 p. m. followed by a street parade.

A special program of unusual interest will be presented on the courthouse lawn at 8 p. m. If the weather will not permit, the program will be given in the district court room.

All members and ex-members of the Order are urged to be present. The public is cordially invited to enjoy this free, open air program.

At the close of the program, a banquet will be given the visitors at the Presbyterian church. George E. Ragland, District Deputy Grand Master will preside as toastmaster.

Little Miss Frances Baldwin of Memphis will be one of the party. She became a ward of the Home at the age of six months. The little lady is now six years of age.

Members of the Odd Fellow and Rebekah lodges here state that this will be a big event in that the public will be made better acquainted with the scope and quality of the work being done by this fraternity.

Fink Becomes Sole Owner Childress Weekly

Announcement was made in the last issue of the Childress News that Kenneth Fink had purchased the interest of Fred A. Story. The partnership of Fink & Story began with the purchase of the News from H. I. Trout October 1, 1933.

Two publications are issued from the office, the News and the Chronicle on Tuesday and Thursday, respectively. Both publications are accredited with being among the best in the Panhandle.

Mr. Story has not signified his intentions at this time except to state that he will take a much needed vacation for the present.

GEO. E. RAGLAND

Deputy Grand Master of this district who will preside as Master of Ceremonies during the visit of the children from the W. & O. Home of Odd Fellows next Thursday.

Highway Stock Law Designed To Protect Motorist

The gist of the law reads as follows:

"Any person owning or controlling any horse, mule, donkey, cow, bull, steer, hog, sheep, goat or any livestock, who permits the same to run at large unattended on that portion of and designated state highway in this state which is enclosed by fences on both sides shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. Each day such livestock are allowed or permitted to run at large is a separate offense. The punishment for each offense shall be a fine of any sum not more than $200.00. The law further provides that state highway patrolmen as well as local sheriffs and other local officers shall have the power to enforce said law."

Legion Auxiliary to Elect Officers Saturday

Announcement is made of a meeting of the Legion Auxiliary in the Club Room at 3 p. m. Saturday for the purpose of electing officers for the coming year.

Delegates to the State Convention to be held at Dallas are to be elected at this meeting according to announcement of the President, Mrs. O. L. Fink, who urges a full representation of membership at this meeting.

MELVIN J. WISE

Who will begin a revival at the Lelia Lake Church of Christ Friday night.

10 a. m. and the evening service at 8:30 p. m.

Mr. Wise is said to be one of the leading evangelists of the state and a minister of twelve years successful experience. The public is cordially invited to hear him. Home talent will do the singing.

REV. C. Y. DOSSEY, State Evangelist

He will preach in the Baptist revival here beginning Sunday.

We are happy to announce the beginning of a revival which we hope will touch the life of and be beneficial to every home in Clarendon.

Rev. C. Y. Dossey, State Evangelist for the Texas Baptist Convention is to do the preaching.

He needs no introduction, since he was here last year at this time and endeared himself to the entire town by his logical, forceful and scriptural messages. In the thinking of the people of Texas, he is the equal of any Evangelist in the Southern Baptist Convention. He will contribute his part toward a great soul-winning campaign in our community, and I am expressing the hope that we shall do ours. Surely there is no greater undertaking than trying to win our loved ones and friends to a knowledge of Christ as their Savior.

This meeting is to be held in the interest of the lost. We want them in every service. This is their meeting.

The singing is to be under the direction of Mr. Burl King of Abilene, and it is his desire that every singer available, whoever they may be, join the choir and help to make up the greatest chorus ever heard in Clarendon.

Although the plans are not complete, we are arranging to have the evening services in open air, thereby making it as convenient and comfortable as possible for the great crowds which we are expecting. We are confidently expecting from eight to fifteen hundred in the evening services and from one hundred and fifty to three hundred in the day services. Surely no christian will expect less than one hundred conversions in this campaign. If God is our partner we should make our plans large. He is a great God and able to do far beyond what we may think or expect.

The pastor will be in the pulpit Sunday morning and evening. Bro. Dossey will be here for the Monday evening service. The public is cordially and heartily invited to make this meeting theirs.

J. Perry King, pastor.

Baptist Pastor in Revival At Harrold's Chapel

Large congregations are reported at each of the services being conducted by Rev. J. Perry King at Harrold's Chapel nine miles southeast of Memphis.

The revival was begun last Sunday and will close next Sunday. Though a small farming community, 140 are said to have been present at the morning service Tuesday.

Hedley Man is Charged With Wife and Child Desertion

Charged with wife and child desertion upon complaint sworn to by his wife, Mrs. Ethel Johnson, Sheriff Pierce arrested Walter Johnson of Hedley Wednesday and brought him before W. A. Davis, local Justice of the Peace.

Mr. Johnson waived an examining trial and his bond was set at $1500. He is being held in jail at this time pending release on bond.

HARLEY TRUE BURTON

With the opening of school September 2nd, Mr. Burton begins his eighth year as Superintendent of the Clarendon independent school system. Prior to accepting this position, he was a member of the faculty of old Clarendon college as instructor in science, and athletic coach. He came to Clarendon in January of 1919 to accept his first position.

Mr. Burton received his B. A. degree from Baylor University of Waco, and his Master's degree from the University of Texas. His thesis submitted in compliance with requirements for his M. A. degree, was a history of the JA ranch. This thesis was printed in book form and has become a popular history of early day ranching in this section, thousands of the books being sold over a wide area.

DOG HOLES AND GOVERNMENT WASTE.

Years ago while living in a section infested with prairie dogs, the county commissioners placed a bounty of two cents on jack rabbit scalps. Land owners cried high taxes and confiscation of their property, but taxes were not raised. The county dads simply quit throwing so much money down a dog hole, and applied it on rabbits. It helped a lot of folks and got rid of the rabbits.

All of which reminds us that this week a circular letter is received from an unknown source saying that we have 913 home owners in Donley county. Also that we have 401 old people within the pension age of 65 years. Then this free space grafter goes on to say that the home owners will be financially ruined by high taxes in raising money for the pension fund. There is nothing to such argument. The state dads will simply give the "dog holes" a rest and let the old folks have the necessary money, or so much as may be necessary, instead of squandering it otherwise. The old folks deserve a pension—not a poor farm. They should be independent—not indigents.

ENTANGLED IN EDITOR'S WEB.

Editor Thos. T. Waggoner, of the Claude News, is said to know more about the money question than any other Panhandler. He lives in a section that is prolific, has a keen intellect and studies national money matters a great deal while being laid up with hay fever.

Clyde Warwick, editor of the Canyon News, is against whispering campaigns against anybody, but Editor Tom does not whisper—not he. He yells it from the housetops at high noon. He invited Editor Clyde to discuss the money question. For once in his life, Editor Clyde forgot himself and discussed it. He strayed from the beaten editorial paths of Editor Tom. Nay, quite a bit. He even explored the depths of the unexplorable laying William Jennings Bryan and "Coin" Harvey in the shade, if a shade can be had in Canyon.

Editor Tom came back at him and the races were on. Verbal combats through the News and News, published by each, until the verbiage piled to great heights. Editor Clyde is willing to let bygones be bygones, but not the erudite Editor Tom. Editor Clyde in his last issue throws the sponge in the ring by saying "Tom Waggoner of the Claude News takes another column of his valuable space to lecture the Canyon News and the Tahoka News on the money question. So far as we are concerned, we admitted years ago that we knew nothing about the money question, etc." Editor Tom loses two pupils at one whack.

Some time ago Editor Tom attempted to inveigle this writer into a discussion of the "money question." It was about the time that the family purchased two new cars and Tom's credulity was aroused as to where the money was coming from. One newspaper man in the Panhandle put out the report that "we were making counterfeit money in the back press room." Editor Tom does not deal in menial jestures of verbal affluvia bordering on prevarication and landing into the middle of a state of ridiculousness. He is honest, sticks to the text and makes the boys take back water with the gusto of a brontosaurus swallowing an amobae. The writer hastened to assure Editor Tom that he had no early training except that his father gave him a nickel to see a fifty-cent circus in his boyhood. He invested the nickel in pink lemonade and slipped in under the tent. After maturity, the good wife has been cashier, exchequer and money totter combined. He has had no occasion to study the money at all because he has had no money.

Editor Tom has lost three bright pupils therefore, from his menagerie of financial vicissitudes. Now school is out.

Secretary of State Mann Goes After Racketeers

There's this much you can say for a rattlesnake—At least he warns before he strikes!

As much cannot be said for the stock promoter and seller of the blue sky and boundless sea. By subtle means, fair or foul, he gains the confidence of his victim, fleeces him or her of every available dollar and is gone again. That's the method of operation of the Securities racketeer, according to Secretary of State Gerald C. Mann, administrator of Texas new Securities Act, designed to drive out of Texas the sellers of spurious securities. Stocks, bonds, certificates of interest in oil and gas properties, and many other forms of commercial interests are defined as securities under the law.

The new law became effective May 23rd of this year. Today a few of the tangible results may be summed up as follows:

Two sets of operators are under indictment awaiting trial for violation of the law. Other cases are pending. The operations of one of these parties extended from coast to coast and Canada to Mexico, with headquarters in San Antonio. He is known to have received as high as $5,000 daily from the investing public, most of whom were not able to afford the loss. The promoter and his associates lived in royal luxury and ease.

In El Paso a gang that has mulcted some $300,000 or more from credulous investors in the past four years, folded their tents and departed shortly after the arrival in that city of an investigator from the Department of State. It is impossible to compute the saving thus afforded. In another Texas city a stock salesman returned $4,000 to one of his victims when apprised that the State Department was investigating the matter. "But the job has only begun," Secretary Mann declares. "Our objective is to rid this State of these racketeers, so far as is humanly possible. It can be done only with the assistance of the people of Texas. No purchaser should buy any from of security without first determining if the seller is registered and licensed by the Department of State. We should likewise be apprised of cases of fraud. The time has come in Texas when the securities racketeer must take his rightful place alongside the convicted murderer, hi-jacker and common thief—behind prison bars."

Former School Boy Here Has Office in Canyon

Dr. M. Sloan Miller has joined Dr. H. A. Brown in Canyon, the office suite being located in the First National Bank building. Dr. Miller will be remembered as a star athlete in old Clarendon college days here, and did more than possibly any other at the time in making the name of the Bulldog football team famous. He attended the big school at Canyon in 1930 and later became a member of the high school faculty at Snyder a few years. He attended a school of osteopathy at Kirksville, Missouri from which he received his degree in Osteopathy and surgery the past term. He passed the state board requirements recently.

Dr. Miller served as interne in the state hospital at Wichita Falls the past two summers, and has had active practice in the offices of similar doctors in Amarillo and Ft. Worth.

With his wife and babe, they will make their home at the residence of Mrs. Davault in Canyon. Mrs. Miller was formerly Miss Lois Bairfield of Clarendon.

Care and Protection of Milk Prevents Disease

Austin, Texas, August 12.—In view of the fact that Governor Allred has proclaimed the week beginning August 12 as Dairy Week, Dr. John W. Brown, State Health Officer, urges with this more extensive use of milk, that both producer and consumer be concerned as to its quality. The use of clean safe milk is a health measure.

Local interest in improved methods of producing wholesome milk has increased greatly in the past two decades and the striking advance in milk control has been responsible for the enormous saving in infant life.

Milk is perishable and especially during hot weather. To insure milk of good quality requires cleanliness, sterile utensils, protection against flies, careful bottling and maintenance at low temperature. The presence in fresh milk of large numbers of bacteria, due to insanitary methods of production, is a health hazard.

Among the diseases which may be transmitted through milk are tuberculosis, typhoid fever, scarlet fever, diphtheria, septic sore throat and undulant fever. Numerous milk-borne outbreaks of disease occur every year in this country from the use of milk that might have been safe with proper care.

We should firmly insist that the milk we drink be carefully produced, so that we will have the maximum practicable protection along the line from the cow to the consumer.

IT TAKES TWO TO MAKE A FRIEND

Someone in our organization has the other half of the handclasp that is the beginning of a banking relationship.

Here we are trained, equipped and capitalized to serve all of your individual banking needs. You have witnessed our progress and know the place of prominence we hold in the industrial and commercial life of this community. But it takes two to make a friend. It also requires understanding and confidence in each other. We seek the opportunity to qualify our standards knowing that the physical side of the equation is properly balanced. YOU DON'T HAVE TO "BREAK IN"
THE FORD V-8

You can drive it 50 miles an hour the day you buy it

The Ford V-8 is ready for normal driving when you buy it. There is no tedious period of breaking-in for 500 or 1000 miles. You can drive it up to 50 miles an hour the first day. And after the first hundred miles you can drive it as fast as you desire.

That means greater motoring enjoyment for every motorist. It is especially important to motorists who are thinking about a new car for a vacation trip—to physicians, salesmen and all those who use a car for business. Instead of dragging along at slow speeds for days, you can make good time from the start.

The reason for this is as important as the result. The Ford V-8 needs no breaking-in because of unusual accuracy in the manufacture of moving parts and the smoothness of bearing surfaces. Clearances are correct when you buy the car. It is not necessary to depend on a long wearing-in period to eliminate tightness and insure smooth running. Longer life, greater economy and better performance are bound to result from such precision methods. The Ford V-8 gives you fine-car construction, along with fine-car performance, comfort, safety and beauty.

Sunday was hot and a "pome" fit seized the writer. Hold your shirt till I find that darn piece of paper it was written on--OK, here goes:

As a boy I thought the men elected to office by the "salt of the earth" were politicians. Perhaps they are, but in my older years, I wish that politicians might, like the snake, shed their skins and come forth statesmen and diplomats.

Words of some seem to break bones, but the words of others mend hearts. It seems that nature did her best to effect a balance. The bone breakers appear to be in the majority at times, but perhaps this is but the narrow view of one individual.

A Fable: Once upon a time a small frog lived in a small puddle. He longed to know the big frogs about which he read. Finally, he began to go to a bigger puddle where there was much croaking and insect concert music. Every time he went to the big puddle he carried back ideas to the little puddle but they would not heed. He tried and tried to impress the little frogs that he was "chief croaker" of the frog universe. Finally, he hopped back to the little puddle for the last time because he puffed and puffed himself, and finally blew himself up.

The writer stood on the sidewalk of a larger town of the Panhandle recently. It was early morning and the ladies were coming to their various places of employment. They rushed along but each show window displaying ladies wares caught their fancy. New displays every day and such displays must be seen even tho the onlooker had not a penny with which to buy. I admired that "never die" spirit of some of the wrinkled faces that might be termed the "battleaxe" type. One in particular looked for some time at a display of the delicate lingerie. Who knows but what she pictured herself wearing it--- subtle, elegant, dignified as one of Pilgrim ancestry or United Daughter of the Confederacy or something. But she hastened on to her job in a variety store where they pay the munificent sum of $3 a week, board and room yourself.

Then there was the man who bathed "his feet with mustard because he had heard that mustard was good for hot dogs."

There is some discussion as to the distinction between "fat" and "stout." The latest explanation is, that a woman is not stout or fat either so long as she can bend over and touch her knees without bending the floor.

As one of the many safeguards extended readers of this column and due to the hot weather, a story is given below that might be labeled "Toe Hold Used on Local Man," or "Wife Breaks Clinch With Scissors and Half Nelson," or "Tack's Contestant in Nasal Oratory Contest Meets With Casualty," or most any old thing to suit the occasion.

It seems that a man hearing of the "Snoring Contest" to be staged by "Old Tack", columnist of the Amarillo-News, rigged up an electric fan at his feet upon retiring for a hot weather practice period. Half way through the first cord, he struck a knot and reached for better footing. The fan seized the only opportunity that comes once in a lifetime. Neighbors searched for weapons of defense as the uproar resembled an Indian attack. After the wife came out of her faint she spent an hour untangling and re-assembling toes and fan blades, while the police came trickling back into town.

The fan, in a safe place this time did not work so well, but this was attributed to her lack of skill and the excitement and poor lighting facilities. It was in the morning that the rude awakening took place when the old boy could not get his shoe on. The wife had put one of his toes on the fan, and a fan blade on his foot where the toe belonged. It was too late to remedy matters and he bent the blade back under his foot so that he had won out in the deal. The toe he lost had a union on it, and the blade answered for an arch support.

Pull the switch, Gene. The old man's had another heat stroke.

"Conditions of Salvation"
By the virtue of the death of Christ, God saves unconditionally those who cannot obey the gospel conditions. "He is the Saviour of all men specially of those who believe" (I. Tim. 4:10). Thus in the great scheme of human salvation, the millions of infants, for instance, who die before they are old enough to believe are eternally secure. But to all who are able to obey or disobey, the gospel is offered on certain conditions. The gospel itself is the glad news of the death of Christ as an atonement for sin, and His resurrection from the dead for our justification. It is God's unspeakable gift of eternal life thru Jesus Christ, presented to all mankind for their hearty, loving acceptance, "without money and without price." It is absolutely free, and unmerited by us to whom it is offered. It must be so, "for all have sinned and come short of the glory of God." But while we must clearly understand that salvation is a gift of God, we must also understand that God requires us, "to obey the gospel" in making it our own. By disobedience man fell, and by obedience he is restored. Hence the, "Gospel is made known to all nations for th obedience of faith."
By the teaching of the apostles and the examples of conversions, found in the New Testament, we find the obedience to be: (1) Faith in Jesus Christ as the Son of God and our Saviour. (2) Repentance. (3) Baptism (Acts 16:31; 2:38). The last of these conditions is an act full of significance. Paul, in Romans 6, says it is a burial and

Warner Baxter Outshines His Famous "Cisco Kid" In New Characterization

In "Under the Pampas Moon," which will open at the Pastime Theatre, Sunday and Monday 18 19 the popular Mr. Baxter portrays an Argentine Pampas gaucho who can ride, throw the boleadora, sing, dance and woo the ladies more proficiently than any of his comrades—a role far more colorful and romantic than the original "Cisco Kid."

Co-starring with Warner Baxter, in this colorful production, is Ketti Gallian, who sprang into instant popularity in her first American picture, "Marie Galante." Miss Gallian portrays the role of a beautiful cabaret entertainer from Paris who, bound for an engagement Buenos Aires, Argentina, meets Baxter when her plane becomes disabled and lands in the vast expanse of the pampas.

WARNER BAXTER.

Baxter falls madly in love with the beautiful "angel," but Ketti departs for Buenos Aires, where later their romance flowers amid exciting adventures and conflicting emotions.
Veloz and Yolanda, the celebrated dance team that has long been a favorite in South America and the United States, are featured in the film in a new sensation—"The Cobra Tango." "Under the Pampas Moon" was produced by B. G. DeSylla for Fox Film and directed by James Tinling. The supporting cast includes John Miljan, J. Carol Naish and Soledad Jimenez, among others.

a resurrection. This includes the act of baptism and its spiritual import. It sets forth in a figure, the faith of the mind and the repentance of the heart. It is doubtless for this reason that it is appointed. God intends that it should be a testimony to the world of the purpose of the heart to forsake the world and its sinful pleasures, and to live henceforth to the honour and glory of God.

AN APPRECIATION

To our friends and acquaintances, and others we want to use this method to thank each of you for the many kindnesses. And especially the interest shown towards the recovery of our daughter who was injured in a car wreck July 27th.

Mrs. Bagby on Tour of East Visiting Relatives

Paying her visit to that section in a number of years, Mrs. L. S. Bagby is now on a tour of a number of eastern states. A letter recently to her son Geo. B. Bagby, located her at Knoxville, Tennessee.
She will visit relatives in North and South Carolina and at Washington. A stop will be made at Richmond, Virginia where she will visit with the wife of the governor, a relative whom she has not seen in recent years.
Mrs. Bagby expects to remain in the east for at least a month.

SOMEBODY'S BOY

Somebody's boy was crossing the street,
Innocent, young and fair;
He hadn't the judgement of older folks,
He didn't see danger there.
Somebody's boy had a song on his lips,
But it died in an instant away.
For an automobile struck the little boy down,
And he passed at the close of the day.
Somebody's boy! O, Somebody's heart
Was broken with that bitter blow—
Somebody knelt by an empty bed
And fondled an empty shoe.
Somebody looked through the empty years
Where no little boy would be—
O, God, is there need for this sacrifice?
Somebody makes this plea;
Will you not watch for the little boys,
Drivers, in city and town?
Will you not count it the greatest crime
To strike Somebody's boy down?
—Somebody.

Rock Wall Construction Has Become Popular

Besides its value as erosion stoppage, the rock wall at the Joe Goldston home has a distinctive artistic value. Archway and undulating wave on top gives the "eternal line of destiny" plenty of latitude for adding dignity to a home.
Tons of rock have already gone into the yard fence at the W. A. Land home, it is said. Marvin Land also enjoys the distinction of having a yard fence of stone, home made as is the case with each of the three above.

Lady of 80 Grows and Cans Vegetables Herself

To grow old gracefully, or to stay young indefinitely are two of nature's best rewards. Mrs. Mary Moss, aged 80, mother of R. S. Moss appears to have been doubly blessed.
Mrs. Moss lives in Willow, Oklahoma, and has for a long number of years. Her husband was a country doctor and this fact helped to acquaint her with the trials of life as the good doctor gave freely of his time and talent in ministering to the afflicted.
She has her home and garden. The garden affording profitable pastime since she does her own work. She has already canned more than a hundred cans of vegetables from her garden.
Since the death of her husband a few years ago, she has lived alone. This winter her grandson, J. W. Moss, will live with her and attend school there. At present she is visiting her son and family in Clarendon.

Bettie Joe Bartlett returned home Sunday from a visit at Childress.

Churchman Sees Fine Corn In East Texas

Returning here Friday after a trip taking up almost two weeks over north, northeast Texas and eastern Arkansas, Mr. S. D. Churchman says the folks certainly have fine crops down that way, and the crop is made.
He could not say so much for the cotton as the worms were working on it quite a bit and causing alarm among the growers.
He was accompanied by Mrs. Churchman and Glenn and Miss Mona, son and daughter. They traveled over some nice highways, made good time and saw a large number of relatives.

FACTS ABOUT PROPOSED AMENDMENTS

Proposed Amendment No. 5
Suspended Sentence or Probation Amendment

Proposition Number 5 on the ballot of the August 24th special election reads: "For (and Against) the Amendment to the State Constitution authorizing the Courts to place defendants on probation."

Proponents claim that if this amendment is passed, many who are now sent to the penitentiary for first offenses will be permitted to enjoy suspended sentences under restrictions of the court.

The only restriction under the present suspended sentence law is the fact that the defendant must not be convicted of a felony—that is, a crime punishable by confinement in the penitentiary. The judge or court has no control nor can it set up or impose any other restrictions.

It is the understanding of those who have studied the amendment that if passed it would permit the Legislature to pass laws giving the courts the right to suspend sentences and place defendants on such probation as the court might deem proper. In other words the court could suspend sentences subject to certain limitations. If these restrictions or limitations were not observed the Court would have the authority to have the defendant committed to the penitentiary without further ado. Many courts now refuse to grant suspended sentences for the reason that they have no control over the defendant after the same is granted. It is pointed out that this would prevent many first offenders from having to go to the penitentiary and reclaim many of them for society.

If a suspended sentence is given under the present law the only limitation is that the defendant must not be convicted of a felony. The court has no control over him nor can it impose other conditions.

Government Cotton Estimate Above Last Year's

The announced estimate of 11,795,000 bales of 500 pounds each for the 1935 cotton crop released recently by the department of agriculture, is 2,100,000 above that of last year at the same period.

The announcement had a strong tendency to run down the price, but Secretary Wallace announced that adequate credit facilities are available for orderly marketing.

Government Cotton Estimate Above Last Year's

We are sorry to state that Mr. T. J. Rampey's son-in-law, W. C. Gregg of Abilene who formerly lived at Lelia Lake was unfortunate in getting his left arm broken at the wrist while hauling feed last week.

Miss Gladys Salmon spent Saturday night with Jimmie and Juanita Estes.

We appreciate the fact that the attendance of our Sunday school is holding up nicely in spite of the disagreeable warm weather. The interesting, Old Testament we are now studying and the contest which the young peoples class has started have played a part in awakening the enthusiasm of the members. We also state that the entire school missed Mrs. Harley Skinner, teacher of the Young Married Peoples class, who was absent last Sunday because of the illness of her husband.

COTTON BEDSPREAD MADE IN TENNESSEE IN 1849 OWNED BY DONLEY CO. WOMAN

(By Wanda Mayfield)

hem was put in with intricate stitches by the patient hands.

The beautiful spread was given to the oldest daughter of the household when she married and moved to Arkansas with her husband and tiny girl. Two years later the small family moved on to Texas and settled in Parker county. It was then 1874.

Through many pioneer hardships Indian raids, drouths, floods, disastrous storms, the lovely cover was guarded. The child grew up and married. When she left the old log cabin, where most of her life had been spent, to come to the Panhandle with her young cowboy husband, she brought with her the sturdy bedspread and slips. Tennessee's cotton and her grandmother's industry had made a product that bore constant wear through the years. The woman who came to the Panhandle over forty years ago is Mrs. J. M. Potter, and she has in turn given the heirloom to her oldest daughter, Mrs. Ormie Harlan. The bedspread is now nearly one hundred years old, and from appearances it is good for another century.

INTERESTING FACTS REGARDING TEXAS HISTORY IN AN EARLY EXCITING EPOCH

It must not be supposed that the Battle of San Jacinto, decisive though it was in determining the independence of the Republic of Texas, ended war between the Mexicans and Texans. Indeed, skirmishes occurred periodically for a number of years between various armed forces of the two former combatants. Attacks from Mexican armies were constantly a threat. The situation as it existed after the war is graphically described by John Salmon Ford, journalist-soldier-historian, in his Memoirs. The manuscript of these Memoirs, which have never been published, is in the family archives collection of the University of Texas library. Ford possessed a flair for delineating personalities and for depicting atmosphere which renders his Memoirs much more interesting, both from the point of view of the casual reader and from that of the student of social movements, than the usual catalogue of events.

"A goodly number of Mexicans remained in the town and country of Nacogdoches after the battle of San Jacinto," Ford wrote. "It would be difficult to assume that these people always received fair and honorable treatment at the hands of Texans, without an infraction of truth. On the other hand it would be hard to prove these citizens of Mexican origin demeaned themselves blamelessly.

"In process of time a pronouncement was published. The leader in this movement was Vicente Cordova—a man of some means, and considerable influence among his country men.

"The news spread fast. In a few days companies were marching from many counties of eastern Texas. It was the custom in those days for men, able to do military duty, to outfit themselves, with arms, ammunition, and provision. It was usual to meet at the county-seat, and organize. Elections were primitive affairs. For instance when two candidates were in the field for captain, they were placed some distance apart. At the word 'March' the friends of the respective candidates fell into line by the side of his favorite. A count was made, and the result declared. The captain of the San Augustine company was H. W. Augustine.

"The different commands were concentrated between Nacogdoches and the Angelina river. We remained in camp about two days. More good feeling and hilarity never prevailed among the citizen-soldiers of any country. Every thing was given and taken in good humor. The 'greenies' suffered as usual. A sentinel one night mistook the noise made by a rat, in packing sticks to complete a nest, for the furtive tramp of a savage; and fired. The line of battle was speedily formed—an investigation set on foot, and the truth ascertained. Every once in a while some one would bawl out—"Who shot the rat?" A multitude of voices would respond—"Purse." He grew tired of the fun, and swore a goodly lot of extra oaths, but the cry ceased not.

"Capt. Augustine's company was ordered to make a reconnaissance between the Angelina and the Neches rivers. The duty was performed without any incident occurring of moment. A night alarm caused the command to be placed in line. Lieut. N. K. K. was in charge of the guard. He sported a brigadier general's uniform. He reported—"Something approached a sentinel—he hailed—receiving no answer—he fired. He is sure it was not a woman! The latter assertion set everyone to laughing; and thus the affair ended.

"It should have been stated previously that, Gen. Thomas J. Rusk commanded the whole force. Some field officers were on duty by virtue of their commissions in the militia. Our Major was Dr. Alexander G. Hale.

"The line of march was up river to form a junction with the main body. We halted at Lacy's ranch, if memory serves; a large farm on the road from Nacogdoches to Washington on the Brazos. The house was on an elevated spot—overlooking a considerable extent of territory. It is on or near the town of Alto, as the writer has been informed. We remained here about two days. In the evening of the second day news was received that, a body of four hundred Mexicans and Indians were not far off. That night we moved back on the Nacogdoches road, and encamped in a mot of timber, surrounded by prairie on every side. The position was good for defense, but lacked water. Regularity, order, and silence was observed as we marched along by fours. Not many hours before, the road was not sufficiently large to prevent men from falling out of a column of twos. All was quiet during the night.

"The next morning we resumed our march by twos. Very soon a large body of men was seen coming across the prairie in our direction. They were supposed to be enemies. The order was given 'Front into Line.' We moved at a gallop. An elderly gentleman, Mr. Shofner, seemed to feel the necessity of going into battle with a full stomach. He detached a piece of dried beef from the cantil of his saddle made a vigorous effort to fill his mouth. The ground was 'sidling,' his horse began stumbling, was unable to recover, and fell a long distance—leaving the rider on the ground behind him. The prostrate man made a desperate effort to finish his meal. It did not take long to learn the force in sight was Gen. Rusk's main command.

"That day or the next the trail of the enemy was followed. The command passed by the house of Bowles, the celebrated Cherokee chief. He was standing at a short distance from his house, a comfortable appearing log cabin, conversing with some of our officers, perhaps Gen. Rusk. An interpreter was present. His face had somewhat the contour of a Caucasian. The nose was rather on the aquiline order. He impressed one with the idea that, he possessed force of character, and great firmness. He denied all connection with the movement set on foot by Cordova and his Indian allies. As far as his people were concerned, we were induced to form a different opinion very soon thereafter.

"The enemy moved up country, not far from the valley of the Neches. In time they divided. The Mexicans headed more to the westward. The army followed the trail trending to the right. It grew smaller as we advanced. Men reported Indians travelling on foot to their homes. On reaching the Neches Saline there was scarcely any thing visible to follow. The general impression was that, the Cherokees, at least, had abandoned the cause of the pronunciados, yet the evidences of their hostility were undoubted by us. This caused many a prudent man to consider the danger of having a people, about half civilized, possessing property, arms, and munitions of war; and harboring a hereditary enmity to us; living as our near neighbors, really in our midst. It seemed to many very like a situation destined to culminate in bloodshed and disaster, when a fair opportunity presented to inflict them upon us. What was most dreaded was the terrible fate in store for the families exposed to the operations of savage men who would make slaves of their sons and mistresses of their daughters.

"The army disbanded at the Neches Saline. The men turned their faces homewards, with strong presentiments that, the enterprise they had undertaken was not abandoned, but suspended, & would be completed ere long, as an act of necessity, of self protection, dictated by imminent, impending dangers."

DRY INK
 (No. 4)
 By E. D. Landreth

What would be the status of the liquor laws in Texas in the event the proposed Repeal Amendment is adopted in the election to be held on August 24? In answer to this question I am glad to quote at length from a recent opinion of Judge Henry Pharr, District Attorney, 8th Judicial District of Texas.

"Prior to the adoption of the State-wide Prohibition Amendment and the enactment of the Dean law in 1919, this state sought to control the liquor traffic by what was known as Local Option by which precincts and counties determined by majority vote whether liquor traffic would be permitted. All prohibition laws, including the Local Option laws, were repealed by the adoption of the Constitutional Amendment on May 24, 1919, and were replaced in effect by the passage of the Dean Law.

"The Amendment to be voted on August 24th proposes to repeal section a, b, c, d, and e, the adoption of which proposed Repeal Amendment by the voters would of course render unconstitutional the Dean Laws, under which we have operated for the past sixteen years.

"The proposed Repeal Amendment to be voted on August 24 is very adroitly drawn and ingeniously worded, conveying the impression on the mind of the average reader that all that part of Texas which was dry by local option before the adoption of the State-wide Prohibition Amendment in 1919 would remain dry and would be protected by the Local Option Laws in the event the Repeal Amendment carries by majority vote.

"In my opinion, this is an entirely erroneous impression and misleading to the casual reader of the election notice as published, whether purposely intended to deceive the voter or not. There is now no Local Option Law and no county, municipality, justice precinct, or political sub-division, which had voted dry by Local Option could claim protection from any phase of the liquor business in the event the Repeal Amendment carries, with the exception that it would be unlawful to sell beer in certain local option territory, not over 3.2% alcohol by weight.

"The Legislature which submitted the proposed Repeal Amendment to be voted upon August 24, having adjourned its regular session without having passed any Penal Statute to become operative should repeal carry, therefore on and after August 25 there would be no statute under which any person of any age or sex could be punished for manufacturing, selling, transporting, or pursuing any phase of the liquor business anywhere in the state of Texas, provided its alcoholic content was over 3.2 per cent.

Just think how ridiculous and laughable the situation would be in what was formerly Local Option Territory, it being an offense to sell beer not over 3.2 per cent and no penal Law applicable provided alcohol content was over 3.2 per cent.

"I recognize that it is possible for the Legislature to be convened in special session and that it then could enact laws to protect dry territory, but we must recognize some of the difficulties that would be encountered in so doing. As now constituted, the prevailing sentiment of the 44th Legislature seems to be concedely wet, and if repeal carries would not the Legislators be warranted in considering that as an expression of the will of the people and a mandate to them to throw the state wide open? Moreover, most every special session lasts for a period of thirty days, and unless a bill in the Legislature passes each house by a two-thirds majority record vote, the bill cannot become a law for a period of ninety days after the Legislature adjourns. Therefore it is apparent that if the Repeal Amendment should carry on August 24, it would be a period of at least one hundred and twenty days from the opening of the session that there would be no law in the State of Texas with a penalty attached to it prohibiting the traffic in intoxicating liquors (provided it was over 3.2 per cent). During this period of time any person could pursue the liquor business at any place in the State of Texas without facing possible prosecution."

I do not feel that the above described situation is what the people of Texas want, and if this opinion is correct, then the promise that the saloon shall not return means less and less. Surely we shall not destroy our State Constitutional Prohibition and invite chaos.

(DRY INK will be continued.)

ONCE A COMMANCHE INDIAN CAPTIVE, WOMAN TELLS OF RAIDS ON TEXANS

By GEORGE MAY

"There were spiritual back-sliders in the ranks of the Commanche Indians just as there are people in our day who are lax in their religious duties," Mrs. Bianca Babb Bell, 79 year old Dallas woman and sister of Dot Babb, said of the Plains redmen who held her captive for nearly two years when she was a girl.

Stolen from her parents' outlying ranch home in Wise County in 1865, when she was 10 years of age, and held as a member of a tribe until ransomed by her father, Mrs. Bell became thoroughly acquainted with the home, spiritual and tribal life of the hostile early residents of West Texas.

"For the religious services the Indians would erect a great tent, approximately as large as a modern bungalow.

Lacked Leadership
"The only means of entry into the tent was through a grave-like trench. Inside, there was a fire in the center, a water-filled trench around it and around the trench a pathway.

"As the spirit moved, the Indians would go into a sort of trance and then perform a wild dance on the circular path. Of course some of the Indians were more deeply religious than others; in fact there were some members of the tribe that wouldn't even go to the services at all.

At the end of the period of captivity the 11-year-old pioneer's daughter was "almost a little Indian," she said of her experience of approximately 65 years ago.

"Upon being returned to a white settlement I had forgotten how to talk English; however I could understand what those speaking to me were saying and I soon recovered my speech," Mrs. Babb said.

Given to Squaw

"There were about 35 members of the Indian family into which I was taken. The warrior who had captured me gave me to his childless sister whose husband had been killed in a raid. She gave me the best care she knew how to give."

Mrs. Bell chatted freely in telling of her childhood experience which remains clearly in her mind. During an interview at the home of her brother, Dot Babb, 604 Virginia Street, she first dropped her intricate crocheting work, but at intervals picked it up to "catch a few stitches." She answered all questions fully and was prepared to add numerous interesting incidents that make her story probably the most fascinating of Texas' early days.

Both Released Safely

He was taken by a different family from the one that took Mrs. Bell and they did not meet again until after both had been ransomed from the tribe. His release was about two months later than his sister's.

"The first thing the Indians did after taking me into the family was to take my bright calico dress, giving me in its place a plain cloth garment, cut in the center so that it would slip over my head and tie together under the arms. This dress, and one other, was all I had during my time with the tribe.

"While the squaws of the family worked hard, caring for their young, cooking, making homes for the men, the Comanche braves made the perilous crossing.

At the Red River the party was forced to wait three days for high waters to go down and even then the crossing was treacherous, but the Indians were anxious to get on the north side of the river since that was Indian territory where they would be safe. A few miles north of the river the party rested several days to give horses and warriors a chance to recuperate from the flight.

During the second night, Dot Babb had assisted Mrs. Luster, a beautiful young widow, who had been taken from the ranch with them, to escape. The Indians twice started to kill him, but after his display of bravery in inviting them to proceed with their execution, almost all the braves with the exception of a sub-chief who desired Mrs. Luster as his consort insisted that his life be spared. Babb was 13 years old at the time.

When she and her brother, Dot were stolen from their Wise County frontier home, their mother was left behind dying. The raiding band of 65 Indians took a northwesterly course into Clay County and camped the first night near where Blue Grove is now located. A small party of Indians who had taken slain warriors to a burial ground joined them at this point.

Make Perilous Crossing
"The braves would frequently risk their lives to carry away the bodies of the slain fighters in order that they could be given burial fitting a warrior," she said.

Upon reaching the Little Wichita River, the fleeing Indians found early September rains had put water over the river banks, but because they had intense fear of possible pursuing white men they confined their energies to raiding white settlements to pillage and steal horses, and in hunting.

"Since buffalo meat was the principal ration for the Comanches there was always a great abundance of buffalo hides. During the winters my Indian mother wrapped me in buffalo robes and then placed me on the tent floor piled deep in straw and hides.

"The Indian men were excellent riders; in fact they combined sport, pleasure and practice of warring tactics as their principal pastime when they weren't away on raiding expeditions.

Governed By Needs

The great need of grass for the Comanches' horses was the principal factor in governing the movements of the tribes. They would seek the best grazing lands and as soon as the grass was exhausted would move on to other sections.

During the first winter with the Comanches, Mrs. Bell said that her tribe crossed the Panhandle Plains.

"Food ran low on some occasions and when there was an acute shortage I was forced to go without for several days, but during the periods even the braves would have very little."

Miss Thurzia Turner, registered beauty parlor operator of three years experience, has accepted a position with the Powder Puff Beauty shop.

ARE YOU A SAFE DRIVER?

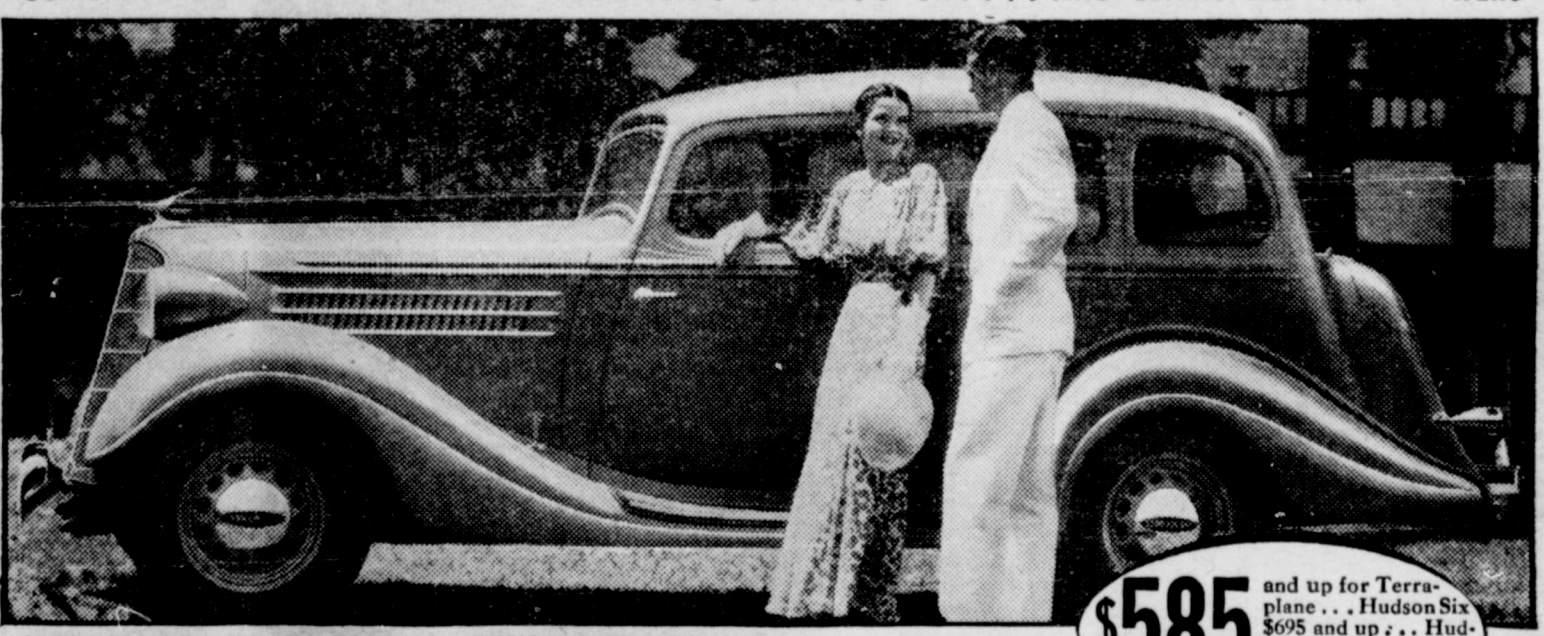

... ask yourself these questions

1. Which requires greater caution — a curve to the right or a curve to the left — and why?
2. What is the safest way to handle your car on a highway curve — when do you use the brakes — when do you throw out the clutch — when do you accelerate?
3. In rounding a curve at high speed, is it safer to hold the steering wheel steady or "jiggle" it?
4. In passing another car on the road, is it safer to make a short, quick swing around, or a longer, more gradual one — and why?
5. On a slippery or icy road, your rear wheels suddenly start skidding. What is the way to bring the car out of the skid?
6. When is it safe to pass another car on a hill?

Even the most experienced drivers seldom know the correct answers to these questions. And there are several additional safety questions that every driver should be able to answer. Get them all, and get the right answers, from the nearest Hudson and Terraplane dealer. Come in today.

PACKERS ROB FARMER WITH ONE HAND AND GOUGE CONSUMER WITH OTHER

Washington, Aug. 10.—A combine of big meat packers is robbing farmers with one hand and gouging consumers with the other, Representative John D. Dingell, Democrat of Michigan, charged today.

He proposed appointment of a five-man house committee to investigate causes contributing to the spread between prices paid producers and those charged consumers of meat.

His resolution, Dingell said, would offer congressional support to housewives in Detroit and elsewhere who are fighting against sky-rocketing prices of meat.

Dingell said Detroit housewives boycotting butcher shops were right in saying prices are too high, but that "the wrong party is being boycotted."

"The 'big four,'" Dingell, a former packing house salesman, said, "controls and to some extent manipulates prices and the small butcher must follow."

Dingell's proposal added support to administration plans for a $150,000 investigation of processors by the federal trade commission. President Roosevelt has given approval to a senate resolution proposing the investigation. It is pending in the house.

The resolution was regarded as the administration's answer to suits by more than 600 food manufacturers to halt payment of processing taxes.

Announcement of a White House "go ahead" on the resolution followed filing of processing tax suits last week by Armour and company and Swift and company, two of the nation's largest packers, and 15 other firms in Chicago. The suits tied up several million dollars in processing taxes.

The administration has determined to fight back at processors whose court attacks on constitutionality of the agricultural adjustment administration have largely choked off the source of revenue for financing the new deal's "controlled production" program.

It has greatly augmented its staff of lawyers to fight the processing tax suits.

AAA amendments requiring processors to show they paid the tax themselves and did not pass it on to consumers before being permitted to file suit for recovery of the taxes have been passed by both houses and are in conference for adjustment of differences.

HIGHWAY SOUTH GETS APPROVAL WPA OFFICIALS

Would Provide Outlet From Canada to Old Mexico Boundary at Del Rio

County commissioners of Donley county have been advised of the approval of plans for improvement on Highway 88 south from here to Brice. This is the first WPA project submitted to the district office at Amarillo.

This project carries an appropriation of $24,637.23 from the WPA allotment to lateral roads. The state and federal funds will also be used in the construction of the proposed highway.

A survey of the route was made by an engineer more than a year ago at which time a feasible route was located across the so-called bad lands near the river south of Brice. Plans were left with the county authorities, and it is these plans that, with slight changes, have been approved by the district board at Amarillo.

The matter is now up to the state officials.

Reids Are Paying Visit To Old Tennessee Home

Visiting the old home place back east is more than an innovation to most folks who are privileged to enjoy the thrills of a trip of that nature. Mr. and Mrs. Horace M. Reid of the Chamberlain community are visiting relatives and friends in and near Cleveland, Tennessee at this time.

Mr. Reid has not been back since he moved away 28 years ago. Mrs. Reid visited back there 14 years ago. Mr. Reid is minus relatives, but has plenty of friends there. Mrs. Reid has both.

Wince Higgins and son Herman went along driving their car and will also make an extended visit with relatives in that section.

Boy Scouts Leave For White Mountains Tuesday

Bound for the wilds of the White mountains southwest of Roswell, some twenty-five Boy Scouts pulled out early Tuesday morning in a truck with a complete camping equipment, first aid kits and other necessities.

Whether a trip would be made to the famed Carlsbad Caverns was not announced.

The section chosen this season for a camping trip is in a high-dry altitude where the pines whisper to the stars, though boys do little whispering and hear less. They were accompanied by Bill Patman and Cap Morris.

Frank Whitlock, that chef par excellence, went along to gauge the gastronomic abilities of the healthy boys. As a camp cook, Frank never has been beaten.

For the past eight years Jimmie Chilton has been employed in meat markets of Clarendon, changing positions only a few times. Wednesday he joined the meat cutting force at the Lowe meat market of the Lowe grocery to assist Cap Lane.

Jimmie has a wide circle of friends and well wishers in this section who appreciate the courtesies extended them over the several years. He is skilled and painstaking in his efforts to please the public by giving them the kind of a product they want.

COMMISSIONERS—

Those who favor the plan are of the opinion that the land owner could buy in the mineral title at the time of a tax sale resulting from a suit, and thus come into full possession of the property.

Between fifty and sixty sections of land in this county are said to be involved in the matter. If the owner of a mineral title saw fit, the payment of taxes would be most acceptable, it is claimed.

FORMER PRINTER—

property of Joe M. Warren in 1911, who preferred the name of "News" for his new venture.

After divesting himself of the above history, Mr. Dial then began a check-up of the old timers. Like other sections, a few had moved away, but the big majority had joined that caravan to the Eternal City.

"Your town has certainly 'brushed up' since I lived here," he said. He related instances of annoyance from hogs and cattle on the main streets, and the yelling of inhabitants at night who from some cause sought vocal deliberations rather than the arms of Morpheus.

Wade Willis of Amarillo transacted business here Monday.

Hollands Make Interesting Tour in Two States

Many are the interesting stories told of their trip by Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Holland, who, with their children returned Saturday from a trip that took them over northern New Mexico and Southern and central Colorado.

They first visited Springer where their farm interests are located. Crops in that section are fine. From there a trip was made to Eagle Nest dam, through Cimmaron canyon and on to Denver.

"We didn't like southern Colorado," Mrs. Holland said, "but from Pueblo on up we liked it fine."

While in Denver they visited many interesting places including the zoo and Museum of Natural History, the cemetery and the Veterans' Hospital. The last day was spent in the mountains near Denver winding 'round and round until almost above timberline. "The scenery was great," Mrs. Holland states.

Buffalo Bill's grave was one of the interesting points on the top of Lookout Mountain, and included in this interesting trip of the Hollands where "scenery is scenery."
