HUGH L. RILEY FUNERAL SERVICE HELD HERE TODAY

Leading Farmer and Well Known Citizen Came To Donley in 1905

Mr. Riley succumbed Wednesday afternoon following a critical illness of several days at his home in the Sunnyview community. Services were conducted today at 3 p. m. at the Methodist church. The pastor, Rev. E. D. Landreth, was assisted in conducting the service by Rev. J. Perry King, pastor of the Baptist church.

Active pallbearers were Phil Couch, Emmett Hutton, Roy Wilson, M. W. Mosley, Bill Barbee and Joe Bownds.

Honorary pallbearers were S. T. Clayton, J. F. Jones, W. D. Higgins, Bill Bromley, P. O. Thompson, Dudley Wilson, Paul Smith, Johnny Beard, Roy Blackman, Clayton Mahaffey, Doss Palmer, C. F. Bogard, Hugh Brown, Rhea Couch and S. W. Lamberson.

The Buntin Mortuary had charge of funeral arrangements.

Besides his widow, he is survived by the following children: Mrs. Elmer Palmer, Mrs. Raymond Mosley, Buster, Jim, Neva, H. L. Jr., and Dorothy Riley.

His sisters are Mrs. W. K. Davis and Mrs. C. M. Allen, both of the Sunnyview community. His two brothers are Henry Riley of Shamrock and Arthur Riley of Johnson City, Tennessee.

Mr. Riley was born near Ennis, Texas and it was there that he met and married Miss Johnny Clyde Fletcher in 1903, who survives him. The family moved to Donley county in 1905.

He was a kind husband and loving father. His family interests ever were his first consideration. He was an obliging neighbor, liberal in dealing with his fellow men, and enjoyed a wide circle of friends. Being of a public-spirited disposition, he took an active interest in community affairs, and no one was ever more ready to assist a worthy cause than he.

Intruders Boldly Become Guests Duncan Home

Little if anything of value was missed by Mr. and Mrs. Ed Duncan from their home Wednesday night after intruders gained access to the home by removing a window screen.

Mr. and Mrs. Duncan were not at home during the night.

A birthday cake given Mr. Duncan last week and never cut, was left scattered over the house after being found on the dining table. Evidence showed that the miscreants were hunting for something, since they tumbled up the furnishings and contents of a number of drawers.

They staid long enough to cook and eat while ransacking the home. Grease, eggs and other food was scattered over the kitchen. The Sheriff secured excellent finger prints of the visitors.

Home Surroundings Model Of Neatness

Often one finds the back yard to a town home somewhat neglected. If one should visit the back yard of the D. W. Clappitt home, they would see a model of neatness.

Mr. Clappitt has just completed a double garage of stucco design facing the alley for convenience. The fencing, garden and other property attests the care and pride of the occupants of the home.

MAN MOUNTAINS SHAMROCK SQUAD DEFEAT BRONCOS

Doughty Warriors of Maroon And White Maintain Rep As Scrappers

Playing before some two thousand football fans here last Friday night, the Clarendon Broncos were buried beneath an avalanche of charging Irishmen from Shamrock to the tune of 25-0. The lighter and less experienced Broncho team fought stubbornly throughout the game, but the fast and heavier team from Shamrock took its toll as the game progressed.

The Irish scored two touchdowns each in the first and third periods while the Broncos never seriously threatened the Irish goal line.

The first touchdown came near the middle of the first period when McIntyre took the ball over from the 2-yard line where it had been placed on consecutive first downs by Wells and McIntyre. Rook's try for point was good.

Seven plays later McIntyre took the ball on the Clarendon 39-yard line and went around end for the second counter of the game. Rook's try for point again went between the uprights but did not count because of interlocked interference.

The second period went scoreless with the ball see-sawing back and forth in midfield. Clarendon tried three passes, one of which was completed, Cornell to Martin, for 10 yards.

Shamrock's third score came early in the third quarter after Shamrock had received the ball on their own 31-yard line on one of Cornell's many long punts, two plays by Wells and McIntyre advanced the ball to the Irish 40-yard line and McIntyre went around end for the counter. Rook failed to kick goal.

Immediately after receiving the ball on the Shamrock 49-yard line McIntyre again outran the entire Clarendon team for the last touchdown of the game. Rook's try for point again failed.

The starting line-up for Clarendon was Martin Ie, Easterling II, McClenny Jr, Lane C, Jones Jr, Powell Jr, Falls Jr. Those in the backfield were Cornell, Grady, Holtzclaw and Strawn.

Substitutes: Riley, Cobb, Butler and T. Noble.

European War Conditions May Change Crop Plans

With Austria and Hungary siding with Italy Wednesday, the national farm administrator of our nation announces that crop plans of this nation may be affected should a real war ensue.

War would call for a preponderance of food and material produced on the average farm. Prices would also jump up as they did in 1918, he thinks.

BRONCHOS FACE GROOM'S TIGERS TOMORROW NITE

Players of Approximate Even Weight Will Depend On Skill to Win

Tomorrow night, Oct. 11, the Clarendon Broncos will battle the Groom Tigers in a non-conference game here on the local gridiron under lights. This will be the second game under the newly lighted field here in Clarendon and from all indications the boys from Groom will put up a stiff battle, having smeared the Canyon Eagles last week by a decisive margin.

The Broncos have been working hard since their defeat here last week and promise to give expectant fans some real thrills. The Broncos have been defeated only once this season and that by a team which has been conceded the winners of this district by all the dopsters. A large crowd is expected to be out to see the boys of the Maroon and White make a valiant come-back after their stinging defeat of last week.

FIVE TEACHERS ARE EMPLOYED IN ADULT CLASSES

Kindergarten Classes For Preschool Age is New Feature

Some difficulty is being experienced in securing suitable quarters for the adult classes to begin this week under the TRC set up. It is possible that classes will have to be held in private homes for the time being, Supt. Sloan Baker stated Wednesday.

A new feature of the work this season is the addition of kindergarten class work of pre-school ages. Mrs. Homer Glascoe will have charge of this department.

Miss Leona Merritt will have two classes in Home Making and Dramatics.

Mrs. C. G. Hall will instruct in Business Arithmetic and English. Chas. Summers will hear classes in History and Current Events.

The present set-up is under TRC but after November 1st will be under Works Progress Administration. Supt. Sloan Baker and the state director at San Antonio will have supervision.

The teacher quota for Donley county is thirteen with only five employed. Teachers to be acceptable, must be registered on relief rolls.

Maytag Store to Feature Pictures Friday

Plenty of seats will be arranged for the comfort of the visitors. Don't forget the date, Friday, Oct. 11th, at 8 p. m.

Final tributes of respect were paid to the memory of William Henry Corbin at the Methodist church here at 3 p. m. Wednesday. Rev. E. D. Landreth, the pastor, and Rev. J. Perry King, pastor of the Baptist church, conducted the services. The Buntin mortuary had charge of arrangements.

Besides his widow, he is survived by the following children: Jake Corbin of Borger; Miss Maude Corbin, Mrs. Mary Belle Barefield, Pete and Mike Corbin all of Amarillo. And Misses Nell and Ruth Corbin of Clarendon.

Grandchildren are Geraldine and Ernestine Corbin and Dorothy Nell Barefield of Amarillo.

His sisters are Mrs. Burt Owens, Howé, Texas and Mrs. E. E. Moore of Medill, Oklahoma. His brothers are J. A. Corbin, Dallas; Jake Corbin, Dublin; O. L. Corbin, Claude.

Pallbearers were close personal friends and neighbors. They are C. E. Lindsey, I. R. Rolfs and R. A. Russom, near neighbors; Mayor John W. Martin of Clarendon and B. C. Wooldridge and Earl Cayton, both old-time friends of Claude.

The Odd Fellow fraternity, of which the deceased had long been an honored member, had charge of the services at the cemetery.

Mr. Corbin was a native of Virginia being born near Danville April 6, 1866. He came to Van Alstyne, Texas in 1880 and to Claude in 1890. He married Miss Nannie Hill at Claude in 1892. The family moved to the farm some two miles south of Clarendon in 1922, and this continues to be the family home.

He was a faithful member of the Methodist church and was an active member of the Odd Fellow fraternity for many years up to the time his health compelled him to remain at home.

Mr. Corbin was active in furthering the interests for community betterment, and had an intimate acquaintance with more men high in public affairs than possibly any other man in the county. These men frequently visited in his home here. He was ever loyal to his family and friends and stood high in the esteem of his acquaintances of the Panhandle.

During the stillness of the morning hour, he passed quietly away in his bed while members of the family were preparing breakfast. It was when his good wife went to arouse him, that she discovered that he had answered the final summons.

TAXPAYERS FACE TWO ENEMIES.

Despite the Pope tax law remitting interest and penalties on delinquent taxes if paid during the early part of 1935, total tax collection percentage for 1934-35 was 95.77 as compared with 104.81 the previous. This is based on a total collection on levies over the entire state.

Taxpayers recognize two enemies of the taxpayer's interests. The first is "high taxes" and the second is "indiscriminate waste." The latter is the cause of the first condition. Waste may be traced into practically every county of the state. Voters themselves are responsible for the waste because no protest is made when the facts become known. The same officials are frequently re-elected to continue the unnecessary expenditure of county funds.

Taxpayers would be far more willing to "clean the slate" of back taxes if given the assurance that sane expenditures of their tax money would be possible. This assurance coupled with installment tax payments over a long series of months or years, would result in Texas gaining millions in tax funds.

Until officials show by their actions that they occupy a position of sacred trust, taxpayers will be slow to become parties to an orgy of spending. Taxpayers continue to feel the depression even if the average official does not.

LEST LIKKER LOBBYISTS LULL LEGISLATORS.

At a time when publishers are being importuned to arouse public sentiment against reckless auto driving, we read a report on conditions down Austin way by Gordon K. Shearer. The article says:

"Austin police and state legislators are engaged in an acrimonious feud over city traffic laws.

A legislator is exempt from arrest throughout a legislative session; for a day before the session, when he is presumed to be on his way to the session; and for a day after, when he is presumed to be returning home.

While the present session was under way, a series of traffic accidents spurred Austin to a sudden wave of traffic law enforcement. Legislators are notoriously lax about observing Austin's traffic rules."

Any man who merits consideration of his neighbors to the extent of being elected to such an august body, certainly would conduct himself in such a manner as to reflect credit upon his friends and neighbors even if he had lost respect for the legislative body, if he ever had any.

Could it be possible that liquid persuasion is being used on our guardians of public liberty? It behooves the better element of every district to take note of the conduct of representatives and take such action at the polls as may be necessary.

Our contribution in the person of Gene Worley from this district is a credit to any state. He campaigned in an "open-mouthed flivver," but he did not violate traffic laws. He respects himself and the rights of others. His conduct at Austin is exemplary. Likker lobbyists will not effect him. He regards the life and limb of Austin pedestrians far above any "courtesy" of law violation granted him by any law-making body.

Laws should be passed to protect us from traffic maniacs rather than trample under foot what little protection we now have. We cannot but believe that the majority of our law-making bodies at Austin are "good men and true," and that this traffic menace will be given due consideration at this special session.

Enlistment Age Lowered As War Vision Rises

Minimum age limit for CCC enrollees has been lowered from 18 to 17, State Enrollment Supervisor Neal E. Guy announced Saturday.

The ruling will apply for the October enrollment, when every eligible person in the state is expected to be given a chance to enlist in the CCC.

Enrollment will be open for all unmarried men between 17 and 28 whose families are on relief rolls. The dates are inclusive, and a person who has passed his seventeenth birthday is eligible, as is one who has not reached his twenty-ninth.

Mandatory discharge has been discontinued, and enrollees may stay in camps indefinitely. Also, persons honorably discharged may re-enlist provided their previous service was not less than four months. Eligible enrollees, however honorably discharged prior to October 21, 1933, may be re-selected without regard to length of previous service.

Guy advised persons in the lower age brackets, particularly the 17-year-olds who are in school, to continue their schooling as long as possible, with the hope of enlisting later. For those who cannot continue in school, the CCC conducts an educational program in each camp, he pointed out.

Governor Allred Plans Help For Former Convicts

Austin, Texas, Sept. 28.—Governor James V. Allred announced today that parole boards had been approved in the first eight counties in Texas through the cooperation of district governors and presidents of local service clubs.

These county parole boards are to be charged with the community service responsibility of rehabilitating paroled or pardoned criminals and making periodical reports to the Governor.

In the past, convicts out of the penitentiary on parole or pardon have been "on their own" and the inclination to return to a life of crime has been ever present. Governor Allred believes that with responsible citizens in each community ready to aid these unfortunate men that the constructive and worthwhile purpose of making honest, law-abiding citizens of them can be accomplished.

It is the Governor's hope that service clubs throughout the State of Texas will respond immediately to the call for board nominations.

Governor Allred originated the idea of county parole boards as a means to aid the pardoned or paroled prisoner get a foothold on life again. The idea is completely new and has not been tried out before in any state.

Parole boards have already been appointed in Bexar, Colorado.

Energy, Horse Sense, Alarm Clock Are Winners

Crosby, Dewitt, Falls, Lavaca, Lubbock and Terry counties.

When Uncle William died he left his son William a fortune, so the future looked bright for his son. At about the same time, Uncle Tom died and left his son Tom nothing but an alarm clock, so the future looked dark for Tom, particularly dark when the alarm sounded early every morning.

Ten years have passed since these Uncles died and a great deal has happened since then.

Young William, who was left the fortune, has had three wives and the fortune is gone.

Young Tom, who was left the alarm clock, has married only once. His home is almost paid out, and he is on the road to independence.

The only thing he has to fear is that he will become wealthy and leave his own son money instead of an alarm clock.

The above article was handed in at the Leader office by C. E. Griggs.

Allotments for Eight Pupils Made in Donley

Austin, Texas, Sept. 24.—Lyndon B. Johnson, State Director of the National Youth Administration of Texas, Sunday evening issued a warning to county superintendents of schools to allocate high school aid jobs to high school principals at once in order to prevent the possibility of their allotments being lost to them and transferred to other counties.

The National Youth Administration on September 14 mailed to 248 county superintendents of the 254 counties in Texas, allotments of the students eligible in each county to participate in the $6 per month high school aid program.

"It is doubtful that a county which fails to act this week and distribute its quota of funds to high school principals will have the opportunity to do so next week."

The NYA student aid program will provide jobs for 8 high school students in Donley County, at the rate of $6 per month, or a total of $48.00.

* TEMPLE OF TRUTH *
* By the Apostle *

Some people are in trouble on account of their debts, and others are in debt on account of their troubles.

A Bera, Ohio paper carries an advertisement of a young lady wanting a man out of which she hopes to carve a husband. She stipulates that he must be rich, handsome, sober, educated and moral. Wonder if St. Peter reads the Ohio paper?

Yowsah! Everything affecting the financial interests of the farmer has been regulated almost except the middleman and the speculator. There won't be a lot of progress made toward a square deal until these two interests—speculator and middleman—are eliminated entirely.

A marble palace costing ten millions of dollars has been built in Washington to house the Supreme Court. The members moved in Monday. Several million people will wonder if half that sum would not have been sufficient to spend for a building used so little. On the other hand, had it not been for the Supreme Court, the Duponts and their henchmen would have owned the whole United States before now. Our national lawmaking bodies would have turned it over to them bodily.

Thirty-four people were in Dallas hospitals Sunday as a result of auto wrecks. Isn't it about time the Legislature got busy on making laws to curb a menace that is worse than war? In proportion to the population, more people fall victims of the auto in the Panhandle than any other section of the state. This is not a guess of any one individual, it is a fact proven by census enumeration of the Department of Public Safety.

Today we fret when our auto fails to render one hundred percent performance right along. We expect it to keep that up for years. Hardly more than a half dozen car varieties are offered the buying public today. Any of them are worth the price if given a chance. Remember back about twenty years ago we read about the wonderful Star, Whippet, Chalmers, Jewett, Stevens, Durant, Wiele, Erskine, Dort, Scrops-Booth, Gray, Chandler, Gardner, Inter-State, Kessler, King, Liberty, Michell, Metz, National, Thor, Haynes, Jeffry, Moon, Lexington, Marmon, Flint, Hoisman, Abbott-Detroit, Apperson, Ajax, Allen, Cartecar, Regal, Empire, Moline, Mason, Premier, Wagner, Flanders, Case, Briscoe and a lot more lost in the lapse of memory. That Briscoe was a "diddy" if there ever was one. She was a round tub with a stew pan carburetor. No body ever regulated the blame thing and few ever managed to drive one very far, but they sold just the same. The little Saxon was a road grader. She had her belly right on the ground similar to the first Chevrolet models. Neither of them could get out of town without hanging up for a week or more on a high center. Yeh, we have lots to be thankful for today in the car line. That Overland "490" sent more people to the asylum than likker. Transmission in the rear and she twisted off a drive shaft for every mile—almost. Ask any old-timer who ever attempted to drive one.

The most elastic phrase in the English language is "mental cruelty."

Fastidious:
I used to love my garden,
But now my love is dead.
I found a bachelor's button,
In my black-eyed Susan's bed.

An East Texas piney woods weekly chronicled a wedding last week. The bride was of a wealthy family and that called for something special, tho a photo was missing. Describing the bride: "She wore a dress of lightest tulle, looking as spiritual and ethereal as if she were fed on rose leaves, and drank hyacythine fluid from cups the size of an acorn and consistency of a canary's egg shell." The groom got off with "he played football on the high school team two years." And yet they say women don't like this cave man stuff!

If there is anything that Jack county folks like, it is baseball. In a game last week played in Bill John's bull pasture, between Newport and Chico, Newport was 29 ahead until their pitcher slid into what he thought was third base.

A luncheon is not a swell affair unless the eating tools outnumber the varieties of grub on the table," stated Bachelor Bill Tuesday after a night in old Amarillo.

A Republican friend of mine says the Roosevelt "brain trusters" stole their ideas from Gibbon's history of the downfall of Rome.

Some times the black sheep in the family turns out to be the goat. When the property is divided.

"That is a skyscraper", announced the guide at the Century of Progress.

Frank Whitlock: (In charge of local Boy Scouts) "Alright boys, we'll just hang around here until we see it work."

If the old time humorist could come back to earth, about the only thing he would find that hadn't made a big change, would be the jokes he left here.

In our haste these days, it would seem that we need most a mathematician who could take some of the minutes out of an hour.

Fannye Failyur says: "Guess it's all right for the girls to close their eyes while being kissed, but they ought to keep their mouths shut afterwards."

They say it is the last straw that breaks the camel's back. But I just knew it would happen sooner or later. Flour is selling at $4.50 a hundred here now. The pioneer idea is gone. Next thing, we will be carrying home a small paper sack of wheat flour for the sick only. In war time we had a fill of kaffir bread. It may be that again after cutting down the crop to raise the price while thousands went hungry at that very time.

"They tell us," said the Sandhill Sage Sunday while shivering, "that man is the highest form of creation, and all that, but a damned duck furnishes its own transportation and can take out South any time it wants to."

Most things are a matter of opinion. For instance, we don't know how a rose smells to a skunk.

Listening to one "slurp" soup is annoying, but how about those who yodel their soup?

There is a silver lining, etc. Perhaps Italy will change the names of those Ethiopian towns so that we can pronounce them.

It is the practice of a broadcasting station in a mid western city to set a microphone out on the street and hail passing people, get them up in front of the microphone and ask them to talk on selected subjects. In a recent broadcast of this kind the requirement of each victim was to reply to the question, "What is the most beautiful thing in the world." The fellow didn't miss it much who said, "A five dollar bill one picks up on the street when he is a thousand miles from home, dead broke, cold and hungry."

Business not only needs a breathing spell, as promised, but a pulmotor as well.

Readers will recall a warning in this column recently regarding stock of a variety of projects being offered at a "real bargain" by parties in Denver. Here is what appeared in the dailies Sunday:

The wrath of the United States government fell with heavy hand today on a group of 16 "gyp" stock brokers, convicted here of defrauding investors in a dozen western states of at least a half million dollars.

Federal District Judge J. Foster Symes meted out prison sentences ranging from six months to seven years and doled out fines totaling $6,000.

In proportion to the number using them, our highways of America today are no safer than were the battlefields of France twenty years ago.

Happy is the man who can keep life an adventure. To such a man, every morning brings twenty-four hours of new thrills, new prospects, new discoveries. How much fuller is such a life than that of the individual to whom the dawn of a new day means merely another petty round of dull, uninteresting tasks. Another day's journey down a narrow rut. The secret in keeping life an adventure lies in keeping one's self alert and alive to affairs of the world, individuals, health, nature, industry. In other words, become attuned with the affairs of God and men.

Well, folks, this is all for this week except to say that the brother who lost his teeth in the Raton sewer recently has not been in to renew his subscription yet.

"The people of this State are warned against paying money to anyone who offers to help them secure an Old Age Pension or to put their names on the 'rolls' or do any thing else in this connection for pay." SHIRLEY STEALS NEW HEARTS IN "CURLY TOP" COMING WED.-THURS.

"Curly Top", Shirley Temple's bright and tuneful new picture opens at the Pastime Theatre, Wednesday, October 16th. And to the hundreds who will come to expect the utmost in cinema entertainment from this dimpled darling, the new picture will bring new thrills in dancing, songs, laughter and sheer fun.

Beyond all comparison, "Curly Top" is Shirley Temple's greatest picture. It has five new songs with magical touch of Ray Henderson; a number of intriguing new Jack Donohue dance routines, including the sensational rope-skipping dance episode; a sterling supporting cast and a corking romantic story about which all of the film's varied activities center.

Against the colorful musical background which Fox has provided, "Curly Top" tells the fascinating story of the curly-headed waif who brings happiness and romance to the millionaire step-father who befriends her.

Always in Mischief From the opening scenes in the orphanage where Shirley and her pets, a pony and a duck, are perpetually getting into mischief, the picture quickly flashes to the Southampton home of John Boles, the millionaire who takes the little girl away from the stern domination of the orphanage.

Accompanying Shirley is her older sister, lovely Rochelle Hudson. And while Shirley is stealing her way into the hearts of society's

DOT BABB, HELD CAPTIVE THREE YEARS BY INDIANS, IS NAMED AS OLDEST CITIZEN OF THE PANHANDLE

T. A. (Dot) Babb, who as a child was an Indian captive three years, has been awarded a prize by the Panhandle Old Settlers' association for having lived longer in this region than any other person.

The 82-year-old pioneer, one of the sturdy men who threw up the first bulwarks of civilization in the "wild west" when warring red men dealt terror on every hand, settled in the Panhandle in 1867. That as immediately after he had been ransomed from an Indian tribe that had killed his mother and held him captive three years.

Years on the plains country cow trails have not erased from his mind vivid memory of the day when Indians rode down on his defenseless home and brutally murdered his mother and took him and his sister from her as she died. Mr. Babb remembers, too, many days, many moons, spent around the campfire of a Comanche tribe that finally adopted him as a good hunter and a brave warrior.

Mr. Babb's father, the late John S. Babb, moved his family from Wisconsin to Wise County, Texas, shortly before the Civil war. At that time Indians outnumbered the white men in that section.

In September, 1865, when the father and eldest son were on a trip to Arkansas with a herd of cattle, 40 hostile Comanche Indians bore down on the Babb home, killed the mother and made captives of Mrs. Sarah Luster, T. A. Babb, then 13, and his small sister, Dianca.

"My mother was trying to soften or make friends by shaking hands with them," Mr. Babb related. "But against these overtures they were as obdurate and unmoved as ever these ruthless slayers have been painted.

"The first thing in their performances was to plunder the house. Then they had Mrs. Luster come down from her hiding place and she was bound and taken outside. The remainder of the Indians in the house seized my older sister and started off with her. My mother interfered and clung to my sister in an effort to prevent her being taken. As she did, one of the Indians stabbed mother four times with a butcher knife. Then they took sister from the house.

"Seeing my mother brutally and fatally stabbed, I assisted her to the bed just as two of the Indians came back. Not finding my mother dead, one of them shot her in the side with an arrow. I pulled the arrow out and sat upon the bed by her. The same Indian drew his bow and pointed a deadly arrow at me and commanded me to go.

"Then mother said, 'Go on and be a good boy.'

"An Indian grabbed me by the arm and jerked me off the bed and another pounded me with a quirt. A baby sister had not been molested because she was ill, and I had to leave my dying mother with the sister clasped in her arms."

On a long ride that took the three captives to a point near Fort Arbuckle, New Mexico, Babb managed to help Mrs. Luster escape. For this he was sentenced to burn at the stake. But bravely displayed when brush was piled around him won favor with the Indians and he was made one of the tribe, but was separated from his sister.

Several months later the sister was ransomed, but T. A. Babb remained with the tribe. Then, after three years as a captive, Babb was ransomed through negotiations between his father and Chief Horseback, head of the tribe.

Mr. Babb remained in the west. He married Miss Pattie Graham in 1874. Since then he has lived in Wichita Falls, Clarendon, and Amarillo—and one year in the Indian Territory where he moved at the insistence of his Indian friends, who still claimed him as a member of their tribe.

From 1906 until his recent retirement, Mr. Babb was prominently identified with the cattle business.

He smiled when he was given the title of "the Texas Panhandle's oldest citizen."—Amarillo News.

HUMAN BLOSSOMS

Flowers! I love flowers, and I'll say that they are sweet, But no flower has got pink toes on a pair of rose leaf feet. And no flower has got arms that go up 'round a fellow's neck, And no flower ever tells you that it loves you most a peck. And no flower is so weary when the long play day is by That it snuggles to your bosom almost ready for a cry Till you 'gin to count its piggies. I love flowers—They are fine, But it's little human blossoms that have got this heart of mine.

It is little human blossoms that can holler and can run With their arms stretched out to meet you when your working day is done. That your eyes begin to look for when you turn into your street; That your ears begin to listen for the patter of their feet; That makes your arms stretch out to hold them, And your face breaks into smiles. It's life's little human blossoms that make glad life's weary miles. And the bluest morning glory, its rare blossoms gemmed with dew, Ain't as pretty as a baby with its face turned up to you.

I know lots of millionaires—know them anyhow; I know how their very presence makes men 'gin to scrape an bow. But I don't envy them none. They ain't got the things I seek. Dollars can't climb into your arms and hold their cheeks again your cheek

Like a baby can and love you. Dollars seem plum cheap and cold When they're put besides a baby that your arms can lift and hold. Millions are not necessary, roses may not climb your wall, But life without human blossoms ain't worth anything at all. —Author Unknown.

The Shot Fired In Texas Heard 'Round The Earth

Gonzales, Texas, Oct. 3 — A simple ceremony staged here Wednesday morning and broadcast over the state by radio ushered Texas into the period of observance and celebration of the centennial year of her valorous fight for independence.

The ceremony was in commemoration of the firing of the first shot in the war which was to result ultimately in the extension of the boundaries of the United States to the Pacific ocean. The program included a summary by State Senator Welly K. Hopkins of Gonzales of the events which led to the battle and the reading by Peter Molyneux of Dallas, editor of The Texas Weewly, of the stirring address delivered on the eve of the historic battle by the Rev. W. P. Smith, picturesque Methodist minister and circuit rider whose inspiring words launched the Texans into the attack on the Mexican force.

On October 2, 1835, a small band of Texas Pioneer settlers and farmers voiced, in the roaring thunder of a six pound brass cannon, their defiance of Santa Anna's despotic effort to abrogate the constitutional government of the Republic of Mexico. This happened less than a month after Stephen F. Austin, speaking at Brazoria on his return from Mexico City, had implied that a resort to arms by Texans was inevitable if they were to maintain their constitutional rights and their peace and security.

The Gonzales battle was the im-

TIDES

What is this tide within my veins, With its continued pause and leap, When morning floods the hours with toil Or night breaks on the dunes of sleep. If it were blood it would not yield To argent influence of the moon, Nor sense the keenness of the wind Plowing gold furrows on the dune. It would not surge to swell the flood Of April soothing winter's grief, Nor ebb when autumn's bitter kiss Cinders the aster's purple leaf.

What is this tide within my blood Whose leap and pause moons domineer? The wind-tossed water of the sea Of beauty and the sudden tear! —John Richard Moreland.

mediate result of a demand by Colonel Ugartechea, commander of Bexar, for the return of a small cannon which had been given to the DeWitt colonists at Gonzales some years before to be used for protection against Indian marauders. The first demand for the return of the cannon was refused by the Gonzales citizens who immediately summoned aid from the other Texas colonists. When, on October 1, 1835, a second force of Mexican cavalry under command of Captain Francisco Casteneda, appeared on the bank of the Guadalupe river opposite the small frontier town and again demanded the cannon, the men of the town had been reinforced by the arrival of from 80 to 100 colonists and were determined not to comply with the demand.

Casteneda withdrew his force to a point up the river and camped for the night. During the night the Texans, dragging the cannon and carrying the famous "Come and Take It" flag, crossed the river and advanced on the force from Bexar, firing the first shot of the war at daybreak. The Mexicans retired toward San Antonio.

The battle of Gonzales occurred as Texas was rising in arms behind Austin in his stand in favor of the maintenance of the Constitution. It led to the stirring events at the Alamo, Goliad, and San Jacinto which gave Texas her independence as a republic. Texas

INTERESTING FACTS REGARDING TEXAS HISTORY IN AN EARLY EXCITING EPOCH

Not only did Gideon Lincecum, early Texas pioneer physician and naturalist, become familiar with various primitive Indian remedies in the healing of the sick, and practice them, to the intense disapprobation of his fellow-practitioners, but on at least one occasion he ventured into the realm of the psychic as well. In a letter written from Long Point, Texas, August 31, 1858, and addressed to his friend C. B. Steward at Danville, Texas, he tells of an incident that was apparently as amazing to him as it is today. After narrating numerous personal avocations, he relates a story of the illness of his wife, whom he calls "the old lady," as follows:

"About the first of July the old lady, from improper, and unnecessary exposure to the sun, in the garden, took violent cold; in a few days she became fevered, it assumed the intermittent type, and being all the time afflicted with an exceeding harrassing cough, she daily grew weaker. My sons, two of them, were attending to her case, and were doing all that an earnest application of a pretty extensive knowledge of disease and medicine, could do. But she continued to grow worse. She had been confined to her bed three weeks when on a closer examination one night, I discovered from her worn down appearance that if some very efficient remedy was not speedily had, she could not survive longer than two or three days. I was shocked at the thought, and retired, without speaking to my bed room, to try if I could not think of something that would check the disease which was now so rapidly hurrying her to dissolution. Having labored very hard all that day, I was fatigued, and I lay down to think over what was to be done in the sad dilemma. And after worrying my mind through a long catalogue of unsatisfactory medicines without hitting upon any in which for the present case, I could place any reliance, I unconsciously dropped to sleep. When, immediately, and at the moment I was falling into the unconscious state, my father's voice, in clear, distinct, commanding tones, said, 'Gid, why don't you mesmerize Sally, and let her lungs bleed.' He in his lifetime always called her Sally; and it was now spoken, and sounded so familiar, that I was instantly startled up, and aroused to full consciousness. I lay still and thought of it for sometime but as I am often startled by various causes at the moment of falling to sleep I finally concluded that the present case must be attributable to the same cause; and resuming my reflection on the old lady's case, continued to search for a remedy that might be applicable, until I dosed off again. About two hours after (20 minutes after midnight) and when I was in the deep, sound sleep of the laboring man, the same voice, still louder and more authoritatively, repeated the same words. 'Gid, why don't you go and mesmerize Sally and let her lungs bleed?' By the time the sentence was finished, I was thoroughly awake, and I was on my feet, and moving towards the house. Barefooted, and all, just as I jumped out of my bed I passed into the sick room. The untrimmed lamps were casting their dim rays over the silent scenery, and there lay the sorely afflicted old lady, just in the position she was when I left her two hours before, turned partly on her side, head and shoulders elevated; eyes half closed, nose peaked, upperlip contracted, mouth open, breathing spasmodic and short, as if striving to suppress the cough. I noiselessly glided up to the side of the bed—nurses and all the worn out watchers were sleeping on their seats—and commenced, without touching even the bed clothes making the mesmeric passes, from head to foot very gently, and as I had faith in the manipulations I was making, I was capable of strong, mental concentration. I had not made exceeding twenty passes, before she, without motion or seeming to awake, distinctly, but very feebly, articulated, 'It feels very pleasant.' I continued the passes until I felt that I had fully complied with the authoritative command of my father's voice, and then left the room, in the same sleeping condition that I had found it; no one being apprised of my noiseless visit.

"At early dawn, I returned to the sick room, and found the old lady bleeding profusely, from her lungs. She as well as all her attending friends were much frightened, and began to tell before I entered the room how, and when the bleeding commenced.

"At first, there was a strange, small, but quite audible hissing, seeming to emanate from her lungs, and soon the bleeding began. The old lady was weeping, but the bleeding was so profuse, and the consequent cough so incessant, that she could speak, only in monosyllables, and was greatly distressed. I had full confidence that it would result favorably; and so I declared to all present.

"On examination, I found the fever abating, pulse much improved, and the rigidity of the surface and muscular structures were greatly diminished. And as I stood by the patient I felt impelled to repeat the mesmeric passes, which I did for some minutes and left the apartment better satisfied than I had done for sometime before.

"Well, the bleeding soon ceased, the fever did not return and the old lady is now as well as she was before the attack and as I have told you all I know about it, and my candle is now flickering in the socket, I must leave you to make out your own conclusions on the nature of the subject.

"Please present me respectfully to Major Wood and his good lady, and to my other friends about your village."

well treat it as a small affair, turning from the discussion of it, as a matter of slight importance.

Who cares to reason with taste? Or again who is able to reason with preference? A man may be wise as Solomon, vigorous as Peter, gentle and loving as John, or exact and logical as Paul; Yea! he may combine all these grand qualities, and in every way he may be fully equipped for the contest, he may be the very embodiment of wit and wisdom, of piety and learning, but all in vain—one little taste will beat him every time.

Evidently, therefore, if the issue between the Church of Christ and other religious bodies were one of mere taste or preference or sentiment, it would indeed remain forever without antagonism. Thence it would follow that there must ever be a wide, painful and destructive schism in the body of Christ; a schism without rational excuse, or reasonable hope of remedy; a schism that undeniably scandalizes our common Christianity, impeded the progress of the gospel, mars the unity and impairs the beauty of the church as it could be, and causes multitudes to continue in the darkness and guilt of unbelief; a schism that fatally unbefits our Savior's prayer for unity; a schism that resting upon likes and dislikes, and mere arbitrary tastes and preferences, must be as permanent as its causes.

ARTICLE I
"Taste and Preference"

People are not mistaken in thinking that I have a very high regard for my religious neighbors in our city. The truth is that I love them dearly. But let it be remembered that it is one thing to love the people and quite another thing to condone and fellowship the "bad" in their practices by entering into the real of mutual fraternity with them. I recognize their faith, commend their zeal, and glory in their "labors of love"; but from their heretical views and practices I am obliged to dissent, by many considerations, some of which it is my desire to cheerfully submit to the inspection of the people of Clarendon.

But first permit me, dear friend, to remind you that the issue between us is one of Bible fact and not of taste and preference. If it were a question of taste, or a matter of mere sentiment as many good people imagine, we might Concrete is torn up in the driveway of the Panhandle Service Station in making changes for the removal of outside pumps to the driveway. The move is being made in compliance with a request of the highway department.

OLD FRIENDS

(David Banks Sickles)
There are no friends like old friends,
And none so good and true;
We greet them when we meet them,

As roses greet the dew;
No other friends are dearer,
Though born of kindred mold;
And while we prize the new ones
We treasure more the old.
There are no friends like old friends,

Where'er we dwell or roam,
In lands beyond the ocean,
Or near the bounds of home;
And when they smile to gladden,
Or sometimes frown to guide,
We fondly wish those old friends
Were always by our side.
There are no friends like old friends,

To help us with the load
That all must bear who journey
O'er life's uneven road;
And when unconquered sorrows,
The weary hours invest,
The kindly words of old friends
Are always found the best.
There are no friends like old friends,

To calm our frequent fears,
When shadows fall and deepen
Through life's declining years;
And when our faltering footsteps
Approach the Great Divide,
We'll long to meet the old friends
Who wait the other side.

Silverton Postmaster Gets Light Sentence

Evidently Federal Judge Wilson in Amarillo Monday was of the same opinion as the neighbors of the accused when he gave former postmaster Marion R. Alexander of Silverton a sentence of 90 days in jail, and a suspended sentence of a year and a day for three years on a charge of embezzling $466 from the Silverton postoffice. He pled guilty, it is said.

It is said to be common belief in his home town that Alexander "took the rap" to protect another party, and that he did nothing wrong himself.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Hurn returned Saturday from attending an old settlers reunion at Henrietta.

Donley County Produces Big Dahlia Blossoms

Gorgeous in all the tints, shades and colors are the dahlia blossoms of a large bouquet brought to the Leader office Monday by Mrs. Chas. G. Speed. Every year she has wonderful success with this variety of flowers, some of the blossoms measuring more than seven inches in diameter from "tip-to-tip."

These are pedigreed dahlias bearing such names as Jane Crowell, Delia Loyd, Ft. Manmouth, Violet Purple, Idea Perkins, Jersey Beauty, Ida V. Warner, etc.

In the Les Beaux Arts Club flower exhibit Saturday, no flower attracted more attention than the wonderful array of dahlias.

Mr. and Mrs. Hightower and Mr. and Mrs. Estes of Memphis motored up Sunday evening for the services at the Methodist church and also visited Rev. and Mrs. Landreth Sunday night.

Mrs. S. H. Manning of Brownfield came Tuesday to join her sister, Mrs. J. C. Estlack on a trip to Clay county for a family reunion at Vashti.

THE BEST PROGRAMS---

This is the beginning of the radio season—football games at night. If you like something else, you get a clear report on the war situation in the far East. So much is happening right now that you can't afford to be "without" a radio. Or be "with" a radio that is not working in fine tune.
