DONLEY COUNTY MUSEUM EXHIBITS COVER WIDE RANGE OF SUBJECTS

Arts and Sciences of Pioneer Days Are Shown Along With Domestic Skill and Home Furnishings of Women Who Made Western Civilization Possible

March 2nd, Independence Day, will be one rich with memories for the ladies who have sponsored the beginning of a great museum for the county. The Donley County Museum, a name adopted by unanimous vote of the committee in charge of the exhibit is certainly in the making.

Opening day with very little publicity, attracted 369 visitors to the wonderful display. The library room of the College has been given to the cause in behalf of the wide interest being taken by the general public.

The display is naturally of a varied assortment. Dresses trimmed in frills and laces of the 80's appealed to lady visitors. Wearing apparel of the old days is well represented.

Home life, too, is pictured in hand grinding coffee mills used by the whites in pioneer days, and metals of the Indian used in grinding food. Domestic art is illustrated in priceless treasures of many kinds—old Bibles, magazines and books, many of them more than a 150 years old.

A 'strong' hack wheel made by a wagon maker bespeaks the skill of the days when the job had to be done with limited tools. In looking over the articles used by our men folks, one may readily understand how the old-time westerner became a 'jack of all trades.' Necessity demanded just such skill.

The Indian display is most beautiful in both weaving, painting and carving. The weapons of war include flint arrowheads and spear points of the same material. Later he secured the steel points, a few being on exhibit with the ancient obsidian and flint.

A "petrified egg" might appeal to you since it is perhaps the ancient ancestor of the ostrich and generally classified as a species of dinosaur. Or if you prefer something fresher, there is the tiny horse fragments eagerly sought by the great museums of the nation, and scientifically said to be a mere eight million years behind in the mad rush of today.

It's a wonderful exhibit and great credit is given the good ladies for making a start toward a museum for Donley county that will no doubt have a national reputation within a few years. One must look over the hundreds of specimens on exhibit to really appreciate the magnitude of the undertaking, and the work that is being done in behalf of our school children as well as our elders who find interest in artifacts of the ancients, and problems of the pioneer.

The museum will be open from 2 to 5 each Saturday afternoon.

Local Grocer Leaves Soon To Locate at McAllen

Mr. and Mrs. Rhea Couch will leave about the middle of the month to make their home in McAllen where he will be associated with H. R. Scurlock, a brother-in-law, in the grocery business.

Mr. Couch has been connected with the Lowe grocery here for eleven years, three years as manager, and has been most successful in his business undertakings. The best wishes of the good citizens of this town go with him to the Rio Grande Valley town.

Youths Take Big Hand In 4-H Club Work

It is not at all surprising that the youths are taking such an interest in 4-H club work in Donley county. They do in most every county. But our boys have more material and a real live farm-reared county agent to get in there and pitch with them—and for them.

Four clubs have been organized between shifts of tending. Every community in the county will be organized by spring, according to county agent E. H. Stroobov.

Cows, Chickens and Dogs Play Havoc With Lawns

As spring approaches, those who strive to have beautiful lawns and flowers in their yards have their annual dreads of cows, chickens and stray dogs.

A drive was made recently wherein a large number were induced to plant out crepe myrtle. Clarendon has many beautiful yards, and our town has more than the average of lovers of the beautiful flower yards and gardens.

Each season these same people see expensive flowers and shrubbery ruined through depredations of stray stock, chickens and dogs that wander at will.

It is to be hoped that with Centennial year at hand, means will be taken by those in authority to see that our citizens may be protected in their rights to beautify their home grounds.

Clarendon Cowboy Band Plays For Big Crowd

Following the parade Monday, the Cowboy Band under the leadership of Gus B. Stevenson, played a number of patriotic airs in celebration of Independence Day.

The band boys caused a large crowd to collect on the street when the parade feature was at an end. This same band will play for the Fat Stock Show in Amarillo next week. A number of the Memphis band were here and played with the local band. W. C. Millam, director of the Memphis band, was up bringing along a number of his boys to play with the Cowboy band.

Rapid improvement is noted in the condition of Mrs. Guy Pierce, wife of Donley's sheriff, following a recent hip operation in Amarillo. She is able to walk about the room

Jones Plant Farm Begins 34th Season

Thriving Business Built Up Through County Weekly Advertising

It was back in 1902 that T. Jones conceived the idea of a vegetable plant business along with his garden trucking. His idea was to produce vegetable plants here and ship them to customers by mail and express.

The excellent soil and his thorough knowledge of fertilizer, combined with a favorable climate, enabled the firm to ship tomato, cabbage, pepper, sweet potato and other plants to customers that always brought more orders from the recipient and his neighbors.

The business expanded beyond his fondest expectations. He gave the country weekly credit for the big business he got, and the favorable reaction to his appeals. His policy was to send a dollar to each paper early in the spring. "Give me a dollar's worth of classified advertising," he wrote, enclosing a few lines of copy.

AUTO WRECK PUTS ONE IN HOSPITAL

Car Turns Over Twice in Making Curve Near Giles

A car in which four were riding turned over twice on a curve near Giles about 10:30 Saturday night while local young people were on their way to Memphis.

In the car were Hubert Heatherly, "Fuzzy" Evans, Audra Daniel and Ila Deal. Young Heatherly was the most seriously injured being bruised about the head and face, and one ear almost severed. Miss Daniel received bruises to her shoulder. Other occupants of the car were shocked and scratched, it is said.

A salesman happened along soon after the wreck occurred, and brought the young people to Clarendon. Heatherly was taken to Adair hospital where he is slowly recovering at this time.

Clarendon Motor Co. Has Record Sales in February

Increasing their sales record during February by more than 533 percent as compared with February a year ago is some feat, but such is the record of the Clarendon Motor Company on new car sales.

During February of 1935, three new cars were sold by the firm. During February of 1936, 16 new cars were sold by the firm. Twenty new cars for one month was the highest peak before the depression happened along.

Neither was the used car department slow in making a record, the gain being just 375 percent during February just passed as compared with February a year ago.

During February of 1935, four used cars were sold. During February of 1936, 15 used cars were sold.

Memphis Turns Thumbs Down On Beer Sales

School Census Being Taken This Week Totals 728

Up to today, 683 white children, and 45 colored had been placed on the rolls of the school census takers.

All those who will be 6 by September 1st, or who will not be over 18 on that date, should be on the rolls. Each name means $17.50 to the school fund. Being married cuts no figure, if the party is under 18 next September 1st.

Newcomers moving into the district should be reported to the school authorities, or Supt. Burton that the names of the children may be added to the list.

Parsons Opens up His Cream Station Again This Week

Under the weather, as he terms it, for several months, a portion of the time being spent at Mineral Wells, M. S. Parsons has an announcement in an advertisement in the Leader this week.

He has again opened his cream station and poultry business, doing business at the same old stand. He expects to be active in his line from this time on, he says. He quotes prices for the benefit of his customers and ask for a share of the business in his line.

MUSEUM TO OPEN EVERY SATURDAY

Appeal is Made for Greater Number of Suitable Units For Exhibit

At a meeting of the museum committee Monday, it was definitely decided to open the museum every Saturday. The hours will be from 2 to 5 p. m. The exhibit may be seen in what was formerly the library room of the College, in the basement. Every precaution has been taken to make every item secure from molestation.

The committee is making further appeal to all citizens of the county to donate or lend specimens to the Donley County Museum. Several hundred specimens are now included in this wonderful display.

In speaking of the matter Tuesday, Mrs. J. D. Stocking, president of the Museum Committee, expressed grateful appreciation on behalf of her committee for the loyalty and fine spirit of cooperation shown by the public.

Members of the committee are Mrs. J. D. Stocking, Mrs. L. S. Bagby, Mrs. Walter W. Taylor, Mrs. J. W. Evans, Mrs. James H. Morris and Miss Mary Howren. Either member of the committee will accept any article for the exhibit.

Vestel Lott Goes to Higher Position at Dallas

Vestel Lott, former Clarendon boy and manager of the Associated Press Bureau in Amarillo for nearly two years, has been transferred to the AP headquarters in Dallas.

Mr. and Mrs. Lott and small daughter have already gone to make Dallas their home.

The one hundredth anniversary of the birth of the Republic of Texas was celebrated with a vim in which the school children took the leading part. Every school of the county was represented by displays of pupil skill, merchants cooperating by furnishing space for school exhibits in their places of business.

The rural schools program at the Methodist church, and that of the independent schools at the Junior College each drew a large crowd of interested listeners, though both programs were given at the same hour. The programs were similar, and so arranged to take care of the crowd.

A parade at 12:15 was designed to picture Texas as she progressed through the century. Covered wagons of the land prospector as well as the plainsman on horseback brought back scenes of long ago.

Schools vied with each other in giving an account of skill, Bairfield featuring Indians exclusively and declared to be the most conspicuous, though only seven pupils were represented. This was formerly the only one-teacher school in the state.

Thirteen modern school buses were in the parade. Consolidation of schools has pushed the "little red school house" off the map in Donley county. Modern buildings with the best teachers and modern methods of transportation, has enabled this county to take front rank among the best schools of the state. The school exhibits were a credit to any section, and spoke volumes for both teachers, pupils and the school officials.

Conspicuous in the parade was the Drum & Bugle Corps of proud youngsters stepping high in their zeal to outdo every one else. The Legion and County School Band were represented. The Clarendon High School band did their stuff dispensing the soul cheering music that kept the folks—or at least some of them—in step.

Railway Men Praise Flood Control Dams

With the visit here this week of Denver railway officials, further praise was given the flood control dam plans to prevent future floods in the main part of town.

Messrs. Art Davis, superintendent of bridge and buildings, and M. G. Monaghan, assistant superintendent of Amarillo, in company with city commissioner H. C. Brumley, made a careful inspection of the nine dams that have been constructed.

The men praised the plan and the work accomplished. In speaking of the matter, Mr. Davis said: "I think the money has been well spent, and excellent judgment used in the selection of the dam sites, and the method of construction. We have used similar plans on a smaller scale in protecting our right-of-way, and know how it works out," he said.

The large ditch across the railway property is to be widened, made deeper and straighter, and concreted, it was announced. All obstructions under the bridge will be removed.

Work on the railway's part of the flood control job will begin the last of next week, it is announced. Sand, gravel and concrete has already been unloaded here for the job, Mr. Davis stated.

Cowboy Program Gets Out Large Crowd

Some three hundred purchased tickets for the T-Anchor Ranch cowboy program Friday night at the College.

These worthy young men put on an excellent program that brings praise from those who heard the renditions. The campfire scene was most effective. The singing and music was of a high-class order.

MODEL HOME.

How would YOU like to live in a home like this? Colonial style, with open fireplaces, furniture of old fashioned maple, including love seats, davenport, awning chairs, coffee and card tables, pewter candlesticks and two grandfather clocks.

The clocks strike the hour, half hour and quarter hour, are seven feet tall, two feet wide and have silver dials.

Floor lamps have soft yellow shades, pictures by "recognized masters" are on the walls; on the beds are all-wool blankets with wide taffeta bindings.

You can't afford such a home?

Well, perhaps you can't. But you're paying for them just the same.

They are being furnished by the federal government for workers on the Passamaquoddy power project in Maine—a art of "the more abundant life."

By the way, have you paid the rent?—San Antonio Light.

RED TAPE AND WORK.

From virtually every county court house in Texas letters, written by the county judges and commissioners, poured in last week to the Texas congressmen in Washington, urging them to back up the plea of President Garrett and Secretary Nelson of the State County Judges and Commissioners association, who are in Washington to seek relaxation of labor regulations on WPA jobs, and continuance of federal appropriations for highway construction.

There are probably 50,000 heads of families in Texas who have managed to keep off relief rolls so far; they need work desperately, and they can not understand why they must go hungry, while those on relief are given the work, thus penalizing them for their initiative. They have turned the heat on their local county judges and commissioners, who, in turn, with campaigns for re-election facing them, have sent their representatives to Washington to complain.

In some counties, WPA jobs are actually being held up for lack of available relief labor, while hundreds of unemployed, never on relief, anxious to work, are denied the chance.

The judges contend that road and highway projects, free of suspicion of "boondoggling" and productive of useful permanent improvements, are the best way to spend public money to create employment—but they unanimously agree that red tape restrictions of the WPA are handicapping the program fearfully in Texas.—Wheeler Times.

THE GREAT CONTROVERSY

BEERELY HUMAN HORRORS

The News bunch have had colds and are naturally on the no-account order; paper late, but still in the ring. If you are wanting trouble, don't pick on us. We are in the fighting humor. But, as yet, we haven't flu. Lots of sickness. If you don't feel well, better stay at home and take care of yourself.—Higgins News.

SAYS DANGEROUS VARICOSE VEINS CAN BE REDUCED AT HOME

But, how can one stay at home and get out the "rag"? Unless, of course, they are located like Mr. and Mrs. Shaw, who eat, sleep and print all in the same building. Our old joints have been aching for three weeks, and, we too, have been limping on the peck, but little good it does to tell the red-jerms, for they want the news of the week here we give a summary of the governmental departures thus far mentioned. (1) That in the second century they digressed so far from apostolic practice as to have one bishop over each church, and that he had his elders under his control. He was the "pastor" of the Church. (2) That there was a confederation of churches into councils. (3) These councils began to be held about the middle of the second century, and resulted in augmenting the power of the bishops and diminishing the privileges of the people. This power on the part of the clergy was not assumed all at once but gradually assumed as the people would bear it. These councils soon began to enact laws, and claimed authority from Christ to thus dictate to the people. (4) That when the custom of holding these councils had extended over the Christian (?) world, and the church had acquired the form of a vast republic composed of many lesser ones, certain head-men were placed over it in different parts of the world; hence came the Patriarchs, and ultimately a prince of patriarchs, the Roman pontiff, or Pope.

For centuries the struggle between the church of Rome and the State raged furiously, so that when we reach the age of Hilderbrand (A.D. 1073-1085) we find plots and counterplots the order of the day. It was the height of his ambition to subordinate the State to the Church, and subject the whole to the absolute power of the pope. This resulted in an open conflict between the papacy and the empire. The succession of popes following Hilderbrand, by strategy and shrewd diplomacy, gained complete supremacy over Western Europe. In Onnocents day (1198-1216) there was conceived the idea of a theocracy on earth, in which the Pope should rule above all. His argument that the two swords (Luke 22:38) given to the Apostle Peter represented temporal and ecclesiastical power, and that as the popes were a succession from the Apostle Peter, the earthly sovereign therefore derived its prerogative from the head of the church.

Supplies of seed of grasses and legumes are greater this year than ever before in the Nation's history. This contrasts sharply with the scarcity of 1934.

It is a good thing that there are plenty of these seeds available because putting land into pasture and meadow crops is becoming more and more popular these days.

Some of the more scientific folk are even becoming particular about inoculating the legume seeds they plant. It pays too.

Dr. J. F. Cox, chief of the replacement crops section of the AAA, says there is a sufficient supply of bluegrass seed and of red top seed to plant several times the usual acreage.

The available supply of timothy seed is larger than ever before recorded.

Fairly large supplies, in excess of normal usage, are reported for orchard grass, rye grass, and meadow fescue.

The seed supply of brome grass and crested wheat grass adapted to Western and Northwestern conditions, is greatly increased over last year.

Sudan grass—great favorite among dairymen—shows the largest seed crops ever harvested.

Cowpeas and velvetbeans increased substantially with a supply on hand sufficient to plant an acreage of 50 percent larger than the 1935 acreage. Wholesale prices as reported by the Bureau of Agri-

THAT LITTLE BOY OF MINE

A tiny turned up nose,
Two cheeks just like a rose,
So sweet from head to toes,
That little boy of mine.

Two arms that hold me tight,
Two eyes that shine so bright,
Two lips that kiss good night,
That little boy of mine.

No one will ever know,
Just what his coming has meant,
Because I love him so
He is something heaven has sent.

He's all the world to me,
He climbs upon my knee,
To me he will always be
That little boy of mine.

And when he lays his head,
Upon his pillow so white,
I pray to God up above,
To guide him through the night.

In dreams I see his face,
And feel his sweet embrace,
No one can take his place,
That little boy of mine.

Catalog Fat Stock Show Is Work of Art

The catalog of the Amarillo Fat Stock Show dedicates the front page cover to Will Rogers, the beautiful picture being a master stroke of that nationally known artist, Harold D. Bugbee of Clarendon.

On page seven is a bit of interesting Panhandle history as Will helped make it. The interesting story was written by Horace M. Russell, pioneer of Amarillo and identified with the Russell stationery company.

The catalog of 108 pages is well worth keeping because of the sentimental value, to say nothing of the vast fund of information it contains. It is a product of the printing department of the Russell stationery company, and is a beautiful production of the printer's art.

The Fat Stock Show period is from March 9th to 12th inclusive. With it has been incorporated the gathering of the Panhandle Hereford Breeders Association.

Do You Ever Wonder Whether the "Pain" Remedy You Use is SAFE?

Ask Your Doctor and Find Out

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

THE person to ask whether the preparation you or your family are taking for the relief of headaches is SAFE to use regularly is your family doctor. Ask him particularly about Genuine BAYER ASPIRIN.

He will tell you that before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin most "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as bad for the stomach and, often, for the heart. Which is food for thought if you seek quick, safe relief.

Scientists rate Bayer Aspirin among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and the pains of rheumatism, neuritis and neuralgia. And the experience of millions of users has proved it safe for the average person to use regularly. In your own interest remember this.

You can get Genuine Bayer Aspirin at any drug store—simply by asking for it by its full name, BAYER ASPIRIN. Make it a point to do this—and see that you get what you want.

THE DOCTORS ARE RIGHT

Women should take only liquid laxatives

Many believe any laxative they might take only make constipation worse. And that isn't true. Do what doctors do to relieve this condition. They use a liquid laxative.

Reduce dosage is the secret of aiding Nature in restoring regularity. You must use a little less laxative each time, and that's why your laxative should be in liquid form. A liquid dose can be regulated to the drop.

THE liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara—both natural laxatives that form no habit even with children. Syrup Pepsin is the sweetest tasting, nicest acting laxative you ever tried.

TEMPLE OF TRUTH By the Apostle

Is the "fountain of youth" to be found in the modern editorial dietetic regime rather than in a spring? That's the mooted question uppermost in the minds of the prematurely aged and decrepid editors of the Panhandle. Comes now one worthy exponent of the new gastronomic art, known and formerly loved as Albert Cooper of the Shamrock Texan. When editor Cooper announced his deductions, such fossilized homo sapiens as grandpa T. A. Landers of the McLean News, Deskin Wells of the Wellington Leader, Olin Hinkle of the Pampa Daily News, each of whom ate crow with Editor Cooper at Shamrock during the Fat Stock show. They had plenty of meat at home, a better grade and at a cheaper price, but "ordered" crow from a mail-order crowd firm, Van Stewart of the Perryton Herald, hale and husky a few years ago, blames the depression for his present status. He also partook of the "mail order" feast. The condition of these bright lights of the Panhandle's Fourth Estate will be watched with interest. If crow bait can resurrect, we shall be glad to join in the resurrection. The buoyant air of these gentlemen at the Panhandle Press meet April 17-18 will be watched with avidity bordering on alacrity.

My only wish is that my debating seconds, R. W. Miller and W. H. "Hop" Graham may eat a bait of crow April 16th—if it works.

Homer Steen of the Floydada Hesperian with Willis Walker of the Turkey Enterprise, and F. P. Englemann of the Tulsa Herald is the opposing team that will meet their Armageddon (whatever that is) at the Press Meet. If we don't beat that bunch, then this crow fad will fade like a wheat farmer's hopes in a dust storm.

When my old friend of the range, Cal Merchant, came in Friday to pay for five yearly subscriptions, we fell to talking about old stuff back in the days of Will Rogers and before. I reminded Cal of the first time that I ever saw him. It was back in the early 90's when the Canadian river was holding up two herds. Boy, and was that sandbar on a boom! We all waited a few days until one day we heard a commotion and looked down at the river and saw a lone man tailing a steer into the river pointing the herd across. Some one said "damned if it ain't Cal Merchant!" There he was, keeping them from "milling" by holding to that steer's tail and whipping him with his hat at the same time. Cal was yelling to beat the band and both herds crossed the treacherous river one after the other. Cal had not thought of that incident for years, but he recalled the incident, if you want to class it as a mere incident. Not one old cowpuncher in a thousand would have taken the risk, or had the skill to get the job done as Cal did. Cal Merchant was one of the very best all-round cowmen, and certainly the best liked when the big ranches were in their heyday in the Panhandle. There is no better man today than he, more widely known or better liked.

remedy, or a device to keep the static out of a radio, will have something to run tell his paw about.

When women first began holding men's jobs a few years ago, there was great talk about making the women do military duty as well. This idea went to smash. In case of a court martial, when they got down to underwear, they would be unable to produce any evidence. (Extract from a talk before the Waggestall club Monday by Blue Bug Bessie.)

Growing old is a matter of course. Why be ashamed of our age? It is not a matter of age, but how we used the years that count.

Will Centennial copy crowd politics off the front page this season? The matter is giving some politicians a great deal of concern right now.

The game of "politics" is entering homes at this time. The players wear overalls and gas masks.

Speaking of Centennial year, why not drag the old family album down from the attic, and park it on the parlor table again?

Comes along Mr. and Mrs. John L. McCarty Monday on their way home from Marlin, headed for the Texan office at Dalhart where John is editor and what ever might be necessary. John has had about everything happen to him the past year, a portion of which he detailed to me in private conversation. Anyhow, he's Irish, and has staged a come-back that will make his personality felt in the Panhandle more and more and better and better than ever. Mighty glad to have these friends call in, and may their happiness be measured to them the next year in greater proportion than the calamities of the past year.

J. D. Wood found a purse on the street Monday and turned it in to the Leader office. A Hedley lady came and got it Tuesday morning. That's the way to handle lost articles, but every man is not as honest as J. D. Wood.

Then there is Homer Mulkey who always sees a place to help, and does it. He got the best picture to be had, "The Tale of Two Cities," based on the book written by Chas. Dickens. It is a typical school play, and one that appeals to readers of the better class of books. Hundreds saw the picture Sunday and Monday, for which our picture show man has the thanks of a lot of folks who expressed appreciation.

Merchants of our town are due a lot of credit for the manner in which they jumped in and helped put over the Independence Day celebration. They met every need when called on, and volunteered a lot of help without being asked. They gave liberally of their space for the school exhibits and helped a long way to make the big show a success.

Donley Pioneer In 90's Talks Cotton

Rochester, Texas "Donley County Leader: Find enclosed $1.00 for which please send your paper for as long a time as it will pay for. I lived in Donley County in '97 and '98 and I often times wonder how many of the old timers are still living and of those that are living how many still live in that County. My husband and his brother-in-law planted the first cotton that was ever planted in that County. People said it wouldn't do any good but it made fairly good the I don't remember how much per acre that it made. They had to take it to Memphis to get it ginned. We lived on the Joe Barker place and a man by the name of White from Oklahoma bought the place and moved there and went back across the river filed on a half section and a man by the name of Reed was on the other half. But my husband was the roving kind and we didn't stay there long. He passed away the next year after we left there. His name was Bailey. He drove the chuck wagon for the Rowe ranch for a few months. The real western spirit prevailed at that time. I came thru Clarendon late one afternoon last summer (we had been to Paloduro, Park) and I felt like I would like to go out and find the places where we used to live and started but night came along and we were having some car trouble so we came back to Clarendon and drove about 15 miles from Clarendon and camped for the night. So maybe some of the old timers names will appear in your paper at some time while I am taking it. I'm not sure that I have the name of the paper right. Resp. Mrs. H. L. Clute."

Olin Kyser, resident of Donley for more than 30 years, came up for the big show Monday.

WHEN A BANK ACCEPTS DEPOSITS

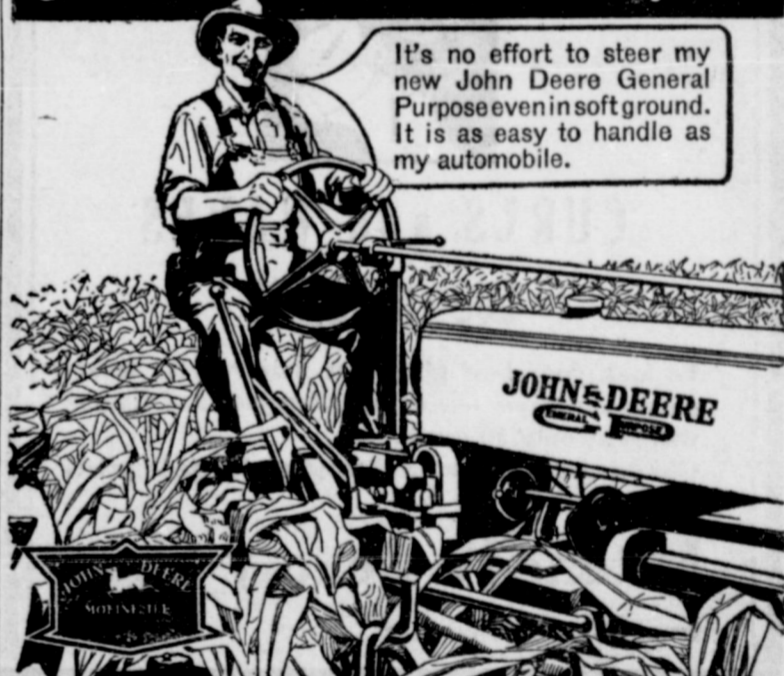

—IT ENTERS INTO HUMAN RELATIONSHIPS THAT MAKE IT UNIQUE IN BUSINESS LIFE.

It assumes toward its depositors an obligation to safeguard the funds placed in its keeping, with all humanly possible diligence. It assumes toward its community the obligation to employ those funds, through good business loans and advances for sound public financial requirements to serve the vital needs and broadest welfare of the community. It assures toward its stockholders the obligation to protect their capital and earn a fair return.

Sound, honest management offers the only way to meet these three obligations. There are no substitutes for them in banking laws or financial practices.

CHEVROLET PLAN OF JUNKING OLD CARS IS APPROVED
The wholesale removal of unsafe cars from the streets and highways of the country, under the junking plan inaugurated Jan. 1 by the Chevrolet Motor Co., has elicited from W. H. Cameron, managing director of the National Safety Council, a telegram of commendation to M. E. Coyle, president and general manager of Chevrolet.
"I have just been advised that thousands of obsolete and unsafe automobiles have already been removed from highways as result of your million-dollar fund for the junking of old cars through your dealer organization," said Mr. Cameron's telegram. "The payment for each car junked in this manner is a real contribution to the cause of highway safety. Eleven per cent of the automobiles in use today are eight years old or more, and fifty seven per cent have been in use at least five years. This very definite contribution on your part should hasten the day of greater motoring comfort for all. Congratulations, and best wishes for continued success of the plan."

Advices from Chevrolet indicate that January saw the junking of thousands of dangerously old cars whose further operation constituted a hazard to their owners and the public at large. So thoroughly successful was the campaign that it is being continued through February.

DID YOU KNOW?
Did you know that the Brazos river is the only river in the state that empties directly into the Gulf of Mexico?

Did you know that when General Coc, leader of the Mexican army, was marching away from San Antonio leaving the field to the Texans that right then Santa Anna was on his way to Texas with 6,000 men with the avowed purpose of putting the Texans across the Sabine river for keeps? He failed, that was in 1835, the next year he failed again, that's why we want to celebrate the Texas centennial in 1936.

Did you know that Santa Anna on Mexico's Independence day Sept. 16, in 1844, released from the prison castle of Perota the remainder of the men of Texas who had been held in prison and who had been captured more than two years previous?

Did you know that if all the peanuts grown by Texas farmers in the year of 1935 were sacked up in quarter pound paper bags and put on sale at a ballpark, the supply would be sufficient to furnish each of the 583,000,000 persons something on which to munch while watching the playing field?

PRESIDENT SIGNS $500,000,000 SOIL CONSERVATION BILL FRIDAY, 28th

Act is Designed to Develop Long-Time Agricultural Program For Nation Along Soil Conservation Plan. Farmers Will Not Be Asked to Sign Contracts.

The new Act known as the "Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Act" became law 55 days after the collapse of the AAA under a Supreme Court decision. The new bill was signed by the President near midnight Saturday.

In a statement, Roosevelt said the new "Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Act" represents an attempt to develop, out of the AAA efforts, "a long-time program for American agriculture."

Apparently speaking to AAA's critics, the President expressed the hope that farmers would co-operate, despite the absence of signed contracts, in the new plan to seek parity "not of farm prices but of farm income," adding:

Principle Not Abandoned. "They and we have not abandoned and will not abandon the principle of equality for agriculture."

While asserting that in general, the law "follows the outline of a long-time policy for agricultures which I recommended in my statement of Oct. 25, 1935," Roosevelt added:

"I do not regard this farm act as a panacea or as a final plan. Rather I consider it a new basis to build and improve upon, as experience discloses its points of weakness and of strength.

"Aiming at justice for agriculture and self-interest for the Nation, the plan seeks to salvage and conserve the greatest values in human life and resources with which this Nation is endowed."

Chester Davis, AAA administrator and assistants who held conferences throughout the weekend on plans to speed the functioning of the new program, received from reporters their first word of the President's action.

Four Regional Meetings. They immediately issued a call for four regional meetings of farmers and farm representatives, at which details of the new setup will be explained. The first two will be held at Chicago and Memphis next Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The others will be in New York and Salt Lake City March 9, 10 and 11.

Coincidentally, Administration sources disclosed that a major objective under the new law will be the diversion in 1936 of from 25,000,000 to 30,000,000 acres of commercial crop land to soil conservation uses.

"The new law, various versions of which were introduced in Congress by Senators Smith, Democrat, South Carolina, and Bankhead, Democrat, Alabama, and Representative Jones, Texas, authorizes up to $500,000,000 in federal subsidies in any one year to farmers for soil conservation and economic use of land. The subsidies will be paid either directly or to States which set up approved programs. After two years, the act would only be effective in States which have such provisions.

Three Major Objectives.

President Roosevelt's statement listed three major objectives of the act which he said are "inseparably and of necessity" linked with the national welfare:

"The first of these aims is conservation of the soil itself through wise and proper land use. The second purpose is the re-establishment and maintenance of farm income at fair levels so that the great gains made by agriculture in the past three years can be preserved and national recovery can continue. The third major objective is the protection of consumers by assuring adequate supplies of food and fiber now and in the future."

Preparing to ask Congress next week for taxes, of which $500,000,000 will replace invalidated AAA processing levies to finance the new program, Roosevelt continued:

"The Federal Government, with an annual expenditure far less than the actual yearly wastage of fertility by erosion in the past, will make grants to farmers, conditioned upon actual evidence of good land use.

Conservation Plan.

"Thus in carrying out the soil conservation plan, there will be provided a positive incentive to and protection for those who voluntarily shift from soil-depleting surplus crops, such as cotton, corn, wheat and tobacco, into erosion-preventing and soil-blding crops, such as grasses and legumes, of which there is no surplus."

"The only permanent protection which can be given consumers must come from conservation practiced by farmers."

Praising the act's provision for state-federal co-operation in the soil program, Roosevelt said that would "mark a further application of the principle of shared responsibility."

"The history of every nation is eventually written in the way it cares for its soil," he continued. "The United States as evidenced by the progressive public opinion and vigorous demand which resulted in the enactment of this law, is now emerging from its youthful state of heedless exploitation and is beginning to realize the supreme importance of treating the soil well."

AAA officials said the program will be put into operation first in the South, where planting in the cotton area starts soon.

Government To Give Tenant Man A Break

Purchase of farms for 200 tenant families in North Central Texas has been approved at Washington, and options on the farms are now being taken, according to information received by R. C. Land, county supervisor of the Resettlement Administration.

"It is hoped that this is the beginning of a farm purchase movement that will be extended to worthy tenant families in all sections of the state," the supervisor said. "Projects are now pending approval in Washington for a limited number of additional farms in Texas. Legislation (the Bankhead Jones Farm Tenancy Bill) is also being considered by Congress which would greatly enlarge this program."

The farms are to be purchased for families chosen as a reward of merit from any tenants who may desire to become owners. Selection has been under way for several weeks, from families nominated by county advisory committees.

With up to forty years to make repayment, the purchaser's debt will be amortized at the rate of four and a fraction percent annually. Title will not be transferred to the tenant purchaser until he has acquired an equity of at least 15%. In the meanwhile, he will operate under a lease-option contract extending for not more than five years. Average price of the farms will be around $4,500, making the annual purchase payment around $200. A carefully prepared farm and home management plan will be worked out for each family, fitted to the individual farm.

"Thousands of good tenants in Texas are having to look for farms of their own today, because of the increase in use of farm machinery and other agricultural developments which encourage owners to work more land with fewer men," the local supervisor said. "This has brought a heavy increase in the number of farms opened up in the past five years in unproductive areas, where the farmers will never be able to earn an adequate livelihood. It has intensified the need for helping such families to buy good land on easy terms."

Plans call for remodeling in most cases, rather than for new buildings. Farms to be purchased will, for this year, be the ones on which the selected farm families are now living, since it would be impossible to close the transaction and move to a new farm this late in the season.

INTERESTING FACTS REGARDING TEXAS HISTORY IN AN EARLY EXCITING EPOCH

The wild Indians in Texas constituted the biggest problem the Spaniards had to deal with, according to records found in the archives of The University of Texas. In 1811 it was estimated that there were twenty thousand warriors in the province of Texas. The most numerous of the wild Indians were the Comanches. These Indians were the most fierce and aggressive of all Texas savages. They were natural born horsemen. The Comanches roamed over most of northwest Texas, often going as far south as San Antonio and as far east as Nacogdoches. Next in predatory importance were the Lipans, a branch of the stealthy Apaches. The Lipans harassed San Antonio, Bahia, Laredo and Rio Grande with their devastating and cruel raids. The Carancahuas and Tancahuas were next in importance because of their constant menace to the coast settlements. In East Texas was found the large Asinay confederacy. East Texas Indians were sedentary; they had attained a fair degree of barbaric civilization. Although some of these Indians had organized communities and wore some clothing, no records have been found to bear out the traditional picture of a beautiful Minne-ha-ha, coyly musing by a babbling brook. On the contrary, as a whole Texas Indians were filthy, irresponsible, treacherous, warlike and cruel. Some of the coast Indians were even accused of cannibalism. However, Indians in Texas feasted on Spanish flesh only in order to acquire the courage and endurance of their white enemies.

Since the wild Texas Indians outnumbered the Spaniards over seven to one, they were compelled to devise a number of ways for pacifying the savages; for, after all, the intention of the Spaniards was to civilize and not to exterminate the Indians. The missions, even after they were secularized, were used to teach the rudiments of religion and civilization to the barbarians. In spite of the noble work of the missionary fathers, however, the ungrateful Indians would run away from the missions whenever the opportunity was afforded them. One of the most effective ways of controlling the Indians was the semi-annual gift of presents. Approximately two thousand pesos were spent annually for presents given the Indians in San Antonio, Nacogdoches, and Bahia. Through one of his officers, the governor would summon the chiefs of the wild tribes to meet during a certain moon at a designated place. There the presents were distributed to the savages. The Indians preferred knives, rifles, and ammunition. However, the Spaniards gave them few of these dangerous toys, and large quantities of glass beads, vermillion, brightly colored cotton goods, hawk-bells, tobacco, and sometimes brandy. Besides being prompt at the designated times to receive their presents, the Indians would often pay social calls to the Spanish settlements. The Spaniards were good hosts. The officer in command of the settlement honored by the visit of a group of savages would order the fattest calves slaughtered for a barbecue, and a ring of soldiers thrown around the group—just to make the festive occasion more enjoyable and safe. The Indians were always required to deposit their weapons at the guardhouse upon entering a settlement.

The bribing method was not always successful. When the Anglo-American commenced to give the Indians more and better presents, the Spaniards began to lose the precarious friendship of the Indians. The wild Indians were exceedingly expressive. When presents failed to satisfy them, they expressed their displeasure by raiding, stealing horses, burning homes, and killing defenseless settlers, shepherds, and farmers. In such cases, the Spaniards resorted to the use of their small but deadly army. Except on a few occasions when Indians were led by whites, the savages were always thrown into a panic at the sight of a hostile Spanish detachment. However, when a large body of Indians could surprise a small number of soldiers, then their revenge was thorough. On one occasion, in 1787, eight soldiers were overtaken by one hundred Comanches about twenty miles northwest of San Antonio. Upon seeing the yelling horde galloping towards them, and knowing their scalping playfulness, the Spaniards raced furiously toward the protective shelter of a mottle. They barely had time to dismount before the Indians were upon them in full force. One of the horses became unmanageable and ran wildly through the attacking Indians. The rider was badly wounded while thus running the savage gauntlet, but he was able to reach a Spanish fort. The captain in command immediately ordered his entire force, consisting of 28 men, to charge the Indians. By the time the rescue party reached the mottle the Indians had butchered and horribly mutilated the seven soldiers. Part of the men pursued the Indians, overtaking and killing only eleven of them.

The Indian menace kept growing and becoming more unbearable as time went on. The Indians took advantage of any misfortune of the Spanish government to let loose a series of plundering and destructive raids upon the struggling Spanish settlements. Once in a while the Spanish soldiers were able to surprise and attack an Indian raiding party. On January 20, 1817, for instance, Captain Juan de Castaneda surprised a hostile party of Indians near Bahia and killed Chief Bala and four warriors. Usually, however, the Indians had better horses than the Spaniards and could easily escape the pursuing avengers. Just before the Anglo-Americans came to Texas, conditions had become so desperate that on November 30, 1818, the Ayuntamiento of San Antonio petitioned the governor of Texas for military aid. An original copy of the petition is found in the Bexar Archives of The University of Texas. A translation follows:

"Governor:
 "Don Jose Maria Zambrano, alcalde of first vote, the ayuntamiento, and syndic, representing all the residents of this city, held special session today to discuss the deprecations which the wild Indians are committing every day in sight of this city. We have decided that in order to be enabled to continue cultivating our crops—the only source of income now left these settlers—we must appeal to Your Lordship for an adequate military guard for each one of the four farms. We would also request a detachment sent every day to reconnoiter the outskirts of the aforesaid farms. This kindly aid will enable us to continue our work and raise a crop, thus alleviating in part the miserable condition of the soldiers and settlers. Without these crops we shall surely reach the point of starvation. We are confident of finding relief through the kindness of Your Lordship.
 "May God guard your Lordship many years."

CURTIS DOUGLASS FOR SENATE JOB

Curtis Douglas, attorney of Panhandle, Texas, announces his candidacy for the democratic nomination for State Senator from the 31st Senatorial District of Texas. Mr. Douglass is a native Texan and has been actively engaged in the practice of law for the past fifteen years, ten of which have been in Carson County. He was formerly district attorney and Judge Advocate of the Department of Texas for the American Legion. In submitting his candidacy, Mr. Douglass stated:

"The principal problem will be to state our questions, get away from fence-riding, bring the issues out into the open and, for better or for worse, give the people a real chance to decide with their ballots. At the proper, and in due time, I will endeavor to state as specifically as possible my views on every question confronting the public to-day. At this time, suffice to say, our most vital problems are those of governmental economy, taxation and the conservation of our natural resources.
 "Expenditures of our State government must be decreased, and until a substantial reduction, ranging from the very top to the bottom, is had, there will be little or no relief afforded. Taxation is absorbing a large portion of our incomes, yet the revenue produced is still insufficient to meet the expenditures. No government can successfully operate where it spends more than it earns. Useless bureaus and overlapping agencies burden us with their inactivity at a staggering and ever increasing cost.
 "Political patronage has increased the public payroll to the extent of millions of dollars annually. A holiday must be declared in politics, and we must settle down to a well defined course of thrift and economy. More than ever, our economic salvation rests upon our ability to lay aside trival differences, and personal wants, and to settle down to fundamentals applying just every day common sense to the administration of our affairs.
 "The problem of taxation is a subject of such unlimited dimensions that a brief and hasty conclusion on any phase thereof will often, and more than likely prove impractical. Now, as ever, the views maintained are so varied and divergent that a proponent of any one measure inevitably finds himself entangled in a mesh of a thousand conflicting interests, each of which seeks to shift the burden to the other. We must accept the realities of this issue and meet the problem fairly and squarely. No increase in taxation is thinkable at this time.
 "No new levies should be advanced save those made mandatory by recent constitutional amendment and legislative enactment providing for the payment of the old age pension. Adequate and immediate provision should be made for the payment of the old age pension. The actual budgetary needs of the State government must be met. But all other expenses incident to government not fundamentally imperative must be eliminated with dispatch.
 "Nor should one's attitude in this particular suffer change until such a time as, to the extent of our homes and the necessities of life, the ad valorem tax be totally abolished. With this accomplished, let us make an exhaustive and thorough study of the multiple problems presented in the redistribution and equalization of taxation to the end that a measure of justice and equity may be accorded to all.
 "Of our natural resources, the gas problem most vitally affects this area. I am for the unqualified, positive and absolute conservation of this great natural resource. Four years have passed since our first gas conservation law was enacted, yet since this time, the amount of gas wasted represents enough to supply all of the present domestic consumers of Texas for a period of fifty years.
 "It is idle talk to say the sovereign people of Texas cannot remedy such a deplorable situation. This vast natural resource must be conserved, gas wastage must end, and it will when knowledge of the real facts are brought to the attention of our people. It's high time that the public, and not the conflicting interests, be represented in this matter.
 "To the accomplishment of the above and my program in full, I will extend my efforts. I intend to make no false promises, present no pet policies, or becloud or straddle any of the issues. I will strive to simply state the facts, meet the problems and decide the questions to the end that the common will of the people will prevail. I take it that all prospective legislation, without regard to stimulus or objective, should be determined and controlled in the light of unquestioned progress and the common economy of our people. Any proposed legislation, however valid it may be, that does not conserve and defend the inherent rights of free-men does not deserve, nor will it receive, my consideration.

 "I shall strive honestly and industriously to interpret the will of the people, defending it at all times against the hazards and conditions of the day."

CINEMA DEBUT OF LILY PONS A CLIMAX IN HER CAREER OF GALLOPING SUCCESS

Beautiful Metropolitan Opera Coloratura Soprano Who Comes as the Delicious Heroine of "I Dream Too Much" Reveals Experiences That Led Her From Obscurity

Showing at Pastime Theatre, Sunday and Monday 8-9th

WHEN FATE SET IN MOTION the destiny which would make Lily Pons, an unknown little French girl, a world famous opera, radio and screen star, Fate disguised her intentions so well that even the recipient of her favors did not suspect the ultimate goal.
 While Miss Pons had a keen desire for self-expression through some form of artistic achievement, she did not start out with the idea of using her voice to that end. Instead at the suggestion of her adoring father, she decided on a musical career via the piano. Frail as a child and as a young woman, Miss Pons had fought for physical improvement since babyhood, so that when her doctors told her that the breathing exercises attendant upon a singing career would improve her health and build her up, she began the serious culture of her voice.

With training, her voice developed with amazing rapidity and within a few months her teacher, Albert de Gorostia, was wildly enthusiastic and predicted that her voice had all the potentialities of greatness.
 Then came the day in 1929 which launched her into her great career. In a test of her ability, Miss Pons appeared in the title role of the opera "Lakme" at the Mulhouse Opera House in Alsace Lorraine, whereupon she was immediately acclaimed a great singer. It was then that she saw the possibilities of a career in grand-opera and she settled down to intensive work and training.

 Miss Pons sings two arias, the Caro Nome from Verdi's "Rigoletto" and the Bell Song from Delibes' "Lakme." She also sings four original songs: "I Dream Too Much," "Little Jockey on the Carousel," "I'm the Echo," and "I've Got Love."
 "I Dream Too Much" is based on an original story by Elsie Finn and David G. Wittels, produced by Pandro S. Berman and directed by John Cromwell.

INTERESTING FACTS REGARDING TEXAS HISTORY IN AN EARLY EXCITING EPOCH

The wild Indians in Texas constituted the biggest problem the Spaniards had to deal with, according to records found in the archives of The University of Texas. In 1811 it was estimated that there were twenty thousand warriors in the province of Texas. The most numerous of the wild Indians were the Comanches. These Indians were the most fierce and aggressive of all Texas savages. They were natural born horsemen. The Comanches roamed over most of northwest Texas, often going as far south as San Antonio and as far east as Nacogdoches. Next in predatory importance were the Lipans, a branch of the stealthy Apaches. The Lipans harassed San Antonio, Bahia, Laredo and Rio Grande with their devastating and cruel raids. The Caranahuas and Tanchahuas were next in importance because of their constant menace to the coast settlements. In East Texas was found the large Asinay confederacy. East Texas Indians were sedentary; they had attained a fair degree of barbaric civilization. Although some of these Indians had organized communities and wore some clothing, no records have been found to bear out the traditional picture of a beautiful Minne-ha-ha, coyly musing by a babbling brook. On the contrary, as a whole Texas Indians were filthy, irresponsible, treacherous, warlike and cruel. Some of the coast Indians were even accused of cannibalism. However, Indians in Texas feasted on Spanish flesh only in order to acquire the courage and endurance of their white enemies.

Since the wild Texas Indians outnumbered the Spaniards over seven to one, they were compelled to devise a number of ways for pacifying the savages; for, after all, the intention of the Spaniards was to civilize and not to exterminate the Indians. The missions, even after they were secularized, were used to teach the rudiments of religion and civilization to the barbarians. In spite of the noble work of the missionary fathers, however, the ungrateful Indians would run away from the missions whenever the opportunity was afforded them. One of the most effective ways of controlling the Indians was the semi-annual gift of presents. Approximately two thousand pesos were spent annually for presents given the Indians in San Antonio, Nacogdoches, and Bahia. Through one of his officers, the governor would summon the chiefs of the wild tribes to meet during a certain moon at a designated place. There the presents were distributed to the savages. The Indians preferred knives, rifles, and ammunition. However, the Spaniards gave them few of these dangerous toys, and large quantities of glass beads, vermillion, brightly colored cotton goods, hawk-bells, tobacco, and sometimes brandy. Besides being prompt at the designated times to receive their presents, the Indians would often pay social calls to the Spanish settlements. The Spaniards were good hosts. The officer in command of the settlement honored by the visit of a group of savages would order the fatted calves slaughtered for a barbecue, and a ring of soldiers thrown around the group—just to make the festive occasion more enjoyable and safe. The Indians were always required to deposit their weapons at the guardhouse upon entering a settlement.

The bribing method was not always successful. When the Anglo-American commenced to give the Indians more and better presents, the Spaniards began to lose the precarious friendship of the Indians. The wild Indians were exceedingly expressive. When presents failed to satisfy them, they expressed their displeasure by raiding, stealing horses, burning homes, and killing defenseless settlers, shepherds, and farmers. In such cases, the Spaniards resorted to the use of their small but deadly army. Except on a few occasions when Indians were led by whites, the savages were always thrown into a panic at the sight of a hostile Spanish detachment. However, when a large body of Indians could surprise a small number of soldiers, then their revenge was thorough. On one occasion, in 1787, eight soldiers were overtaken by one hundred Comanches about twenty miles northwest of San Antonio. Upon seeing the yelling horde galloping towards them, and knowing their scalping playfulness, the Spaniards raced furiously toward the protective shelter of a motte. They barely had time to dismount before the Indians were upon them in full force. One of the horses became unmanageable and ran wildly through the attacking Indians. The rider was badly wounded while thus running the savage gauntlet, but he was able to reach a Spanish fort. The captain in command immediately ordered his entire force, consisting of 28 men, to charge the Indians. By the time the rescue party reached the motte the Indians had butchered and horribly mutilated the seven soldiers. Part of the men pursued the Indians, overtaking and killing only eleven of them.

The Indian menace kept growing and becoming more unbearable as time went on. The Indians took advantage of any misfortune of the Spanish government to let loose a series of plundering and destructive raids upon the struggling Spanish settlements. Once in a while the Spanish soldiers were able to surprise and attack an Indian raiding party. On January 20, 1817, for instance, Captain Juan de Castaneda surprised a hostile party of Indians near Bahia and killed Chief Bala and four warriors. Usually, however, the Indians had better horses than the Spaniards and could easily escape the pursuing avengers. Just before the Anglo-Americans came to Texas, conditions had become so desperate that on November 30, 1818, the Ayuntamiento of San Antonio petitioned the governor of Texas for military aid. An original copy of the petition is found in the Bexar Archives of The University of Texas. A translation follows:

"Governor: "Don Jose Maria Zambrano, alcalde of first vote, the ayuntamiento, and syndic, representing all the residents of this city, held special session today to discuss the depredations which the wild Indians are committing every day in sight of this city. We have decided that in order to be enabled to continue cultivating our crops—the only source of income now left these settlers—we must appeal to Your Lordship for an adequate military guard for each one of the four farms. We would also request a detachment sent every day to reconnoiter the outskirts of the aforesaid farms. This kindly aid will enable us to continue our work and raise a crop, thus alleviating in part the miserable condition of the soldiers and settlers. Without these crops we shall surely reach the point of starvation. We are confident of finding relief through the kindness of Your Lordship. "May God guard your Lordship many years."

CURTIS DOUGLASS FOR SENATE JOB

Curtis Douglass, attorney of Panhandle, Texas, announces his candidacy for the democratic nomination for State Senator from the 31st Senatorial District of Texas. Mr. Douglass is a native Texan and has been actively engaged in the practice of law for the past fifteen years, ten of which have been in Carson County. He was formerly district attorney and Judge Advocate of the Department of Texas for the American Legion. In submitting his candidacy, Mr. Douglass stated:

"The principal problem will be to state our questions, get away from fence-riding, bring the issues out into the open and, for better or for worse, give the people a real chance to decide with their ballots. At the proper, and in due time, I will endeavor to state as specifically as possible my views on every question confronting the public to-day. At this time, suffice to say, our most vital problems are those of governmental economy, taxation and the conservation of our natural resources.

"Expenditures of our State government must be decreased, and until a substantial reduction, ranging from the very top to the bottom, is had, there will be little or no relief afforded. Taxation is absorbing a large portion of our incomes, yet the revenue produced is still insufficient to meet the expenditures. No government can successfully operate where it spends more than it earns. Useless bureaus and overlapping agencies burden us with their inactivity at a staggering and ever increasing cost.

"Political patronage has increased the public payroll to the extent of millions of dollars annually. A holiday must be declared in politics, and we must settle down to a well defined course of thrift and economy. More than ever, our economic salvation rests upon our ability to lay aside trival differences, and personal wants, and to settle down to fundamentals, applying just every day common sense to the administration of our affairs.

"The problem of taxation is a subject of such unlimited dimensions that a brief and hasty conclusion on any phase thereof will often, and more than likely prove impractical. Now, as ever, the views maintained are so varied and divergent that a proponent of any one measure inevitably finds himself entangled in a mesh of a thousand conflicting interests, each of which seeks to shift the burden to the other. We must accept the realities of this issue and meet the problem fairly and squarely. No increase in taxation is thinkable at this time.

"No new levies should be advanced save those made mandatory by recent constitutional amendment and legislative enactment providing for the payment of the old age pension. Adequate and immediate provision should be made for the payment of the old age pension. The actual budgetary needs of the State government must be met. But all other expenses incident to government not fundamentally imperative must be eliminated with dispatch.

"Nor should one's attitude in this particular suffer change until such a time as, to the extent of our homes and the necessities of life, the ad valorem tax be totally abolished. With this accomplished, let us make an exhaustive and thorough study of the multiple problems presented in the redistribution and equalization of taxation to the end that a measure of justice and equity may be accorded to all.

"Of our natural resources, the gas problem most vitally affects this area. I am for the unqualified, positive and absolute conservation of this great natural resource. Four years have passed since our first gas conservation law was enacted, yet since this time, the amount of gas wasted represents enough to supply all of the present domestic consumers of Texas for a period of fifty years.

"It is idle talk to say the sovereign people of Texas cannot remedy such a deplorable situation. This vast natural resource must be conserved, gas wastage must end, and it will when knowledge of the real facts are brought to the attention of our people. It's high time that the public, and not the conflicting interests, be represented in this matter.

"To the accomplishment of the above and my program in full, I will extend my efforts. I intend to make no false promises, present no pet policies, or becloud or straddle any of the issues. I will strive to simply state the facts, meet the problems and decide the questions to the end that the common will of the people will prevail. I take it that all prospective legislation, without regard to stimulus or objective, should be determined and controlled in the light of unquestioned progress and the common economy of our people. Any proposed legislation, however valid it may be, that does not conserve and defend the inherent rights of freemen does not deserve, nor will it receive, my consideration.

"I shall strive honestly and industriously to interpret the will of the people, defending it at all times against the hazards and conditions of the day."

CINEMA DEBUT OF LILY PONS A CLIMAX IN HER CAREER OF GALLOPING SUCCESS

Beautiful Metropolitan Opera Coloratura Soprano Who Comes as the Delicious Heroine of "I Dream Too Much" Reveals Experiences That Led Her From Obscurity

Showing at Pastime Theatre, Sunday and Monday 8-9th

WHEN FATE SET IN MOTION the destiny which would make Lily Pons, an unknown little French girl, a world famous opera, radio and screen star, Fate disguised her intentions so well that even the recipient of her favors did not suspect the ultimate goal.

While Miss Pons had a keen desire for self-expression through some form of artistic achievement, she did not start out with the idea of using her voice to that end. Instead at the suggestion of her adoring father, she decided on a musical career via the piano. Frail as a child and as a young woman, Miss Pons had fought for physical improvement since babyhood, so that when her doctors told her that the breathing exercises attendant upon a singing career would improve her health and build her up, she began the serious culture of her voice.

With training, her voice developed with amazing rapidity and within a few months her teacher, Alberti de Goroziaga, was wildly enthusiastic and predicted that her voice had all the potentialities of greatness.

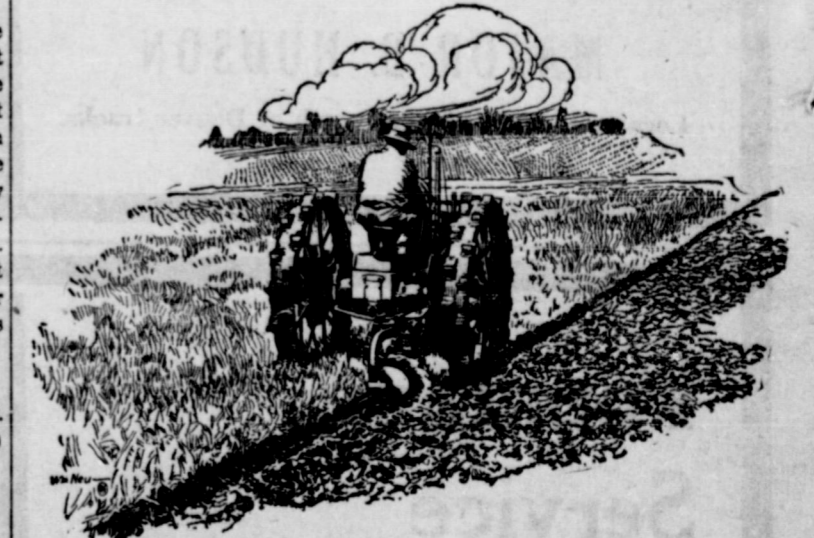

Then came the day in 1929 which launched her into her great career. In a test of her ability, Miss Pons appeared in the title role of the opera "Lakme" at the Mulhouse Opera House in Alsace Lorraine, whereupon she was immediately acclaimed a great singer. It was then that she saw the possibilities of a career in grand-opera and she settled down to intensive work and training. Miss Pons sings two arias, the Caro Nome from Verdi's "Rigoletto" and the Bell Song from Debussy's "Lakme." She also sings four original songs: "I Dream Too Much," "Little Jockey on the Carousel," "I'm the Echo," and "I've Got Love."

"I Dream Too Much" is based on an original story by Elsie Finn and David G. Wittels, produced by Pandro S. Berman and directed by John Cromwell.

JONES PLANT FARM—

The more favorable results secured more advertising for the paper of that section. He kept this up through the years and profited immensely.

From the beginning, Mrs. Jones had played an important part in the business. When Mr. Jones passed away a few years ago, Mrs. Jones continued the business along the same lines as established by her husband in the beginning.

At this time, Mrs. Jones has placed her orders for price-lists and other printing with the Leader plant in preparation for the early spring season. The orders run into the thousands. The Leader plant has been doing the printing for the firm for some fifteen years.

Seed beds are being made ready, and Mrs. Jones expects a big demand for plants this season due to the excellent season, and the generally improved financial condition of the southwest. Plans are shipped into several states of the southwest, and often as far north as Iowa.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Goldston visited her parents at Wellington Sunday.

Mrs. S. W. Lowe returned from Lipan Saturday where she has been with her father who is seriously ill. Miss Elon Aiken remained with him.

NEW GROCERY—

Ben Hill, John W. Rhodes and Lafe Smallwood, all of whom are well known in this section.

Mr. Hill has made his home in Clarendon for the past six years where he has two children in school.

Mr. Rhodes formerly operated the Hill grocery at Brice, and for several years farmed near Goldston. In moving his family into town, he placed four of his children in school. He is the father of Miss Irene Rhodes, who operates the Mitchell beauty shop.

Mr. Smallwood operated the Hill grocery at Brice for a number of years, and more recently was associated with Mr. Hill in a grocery at Dimmitt. Mrs. Smallwood is a daughter of W. L. H. Fair, a former Clarendon business man. They have two children in the local schools. Mr. Smallwood is a brother of Miss Sybil Smallwood, former teacher here for several years. "Because of our location, we expect to have curb service. If the customer will 'honk', we will wait on them in the street," Mr. Hill said. The firm will maintain a free delivery system in town.

Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Kemp had business in Oklahoma City Tuesday.

Mayor J. W. Martin and Commissioner H. C. Brumley had business in Amarillo Wednesday.

Rich Fossil Bed Discovered South of Silverton

A giant ground sloth, a wolf of a large species, horses almost as large as the modern day horse, are among the fossils remains found on the lands of Mayfield and McDaniels some ten miles south of Silverton.

This fossil bed was located by Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Johnson who represent the Panhandle-Plains Museum of Canyon. The fossils are being taken to Canyon as soon as they are recovered.

The crew that has been working near Goldston, has been transferred to the field south of Silverton, and continues under the direction of Mrs. Stewart Johnson.

Claude Nash is Candidate For County Job

Mr. Nash, a long-time resident of the Giles school district where he has served well and faithfully on the school board, has announced for the office of county commissioner from Precinct Three, which includes the towns of Lelia Lake and Hedley as well as Giles.

He has served in several appointive offices and because of the record thus made, and his wide and favorable acquaintance with needs and conditions in Donley county, his supporters believe that he can serve as a commissioner in a most efficient manner.

To date no other man has announced for the office.
