GENE WORLEY EXPLAINS STATUS OF OLD AGE ASSISTANCE LAW AS AFFECTING ALL OF DONLEY COUNTY'S APPLICANTS

Out of Four Hundred and Eighteen Applicants, Ninety-Eight Are Receiving Payments. Nine Have Been Turned Down. Three Receive More Than Twenty-Five Dollars a Month

In a letter to the Leader received Monday, Representative Gene Worley of this district writes: "Because I know hundreds of your readers are vitally interested in the set-up and fashion in which the Texas Old Age Assistance Commission has been functioning since its creation by the Legislature, I am enclosing information which has been obtained from the Commission as a result of the investigation which the House of Representatives is now conducting."

"It is the purpose of the investigation which we are holding this week to bring out any defects which might exist under the Bill and to correct all of the evils which will be brought to light."

The summary sent the Leader by Mr. Worley shows 418 to have made application from this county for assistance under this law. Nine have been denied, 2 for being under age, and 7 for not being in need as coming under that law.

A total of 311 applications are pending from Donley county at this time.

In the analysis of payments, 3 are receiving $25 to $30 dollars per month; 36 receive $20 to $25; 36 receive $15 to 20 a month; 17 receive $10 to $15 per month, 2 of them being negroes; 6 receive less than $10 per month, making a total of 96 whites and 2 blacks.

Total monthly payments to Donley county applicants is $1726. Average payment to whites is $17.73 and $12 to blacks.

Of the applicants, 30 are from 65 to 70 years of age; 30 are from 70 to 75 years old; 28 are from 75 to 80; 7 are from 80 to 85; 3 are over 85 years of age. One negro is between 65 and 70, and the other 75 and 80 years of age.

Three hundred and eleven applications are yet to be passed on by the Old Age Assistance Commission from this county October 3rd.

A grant of $840,000 to the Texas old-age pension fund by the federal government was announced Wednesday for October payments. Under the law, Texas must match each dollar of federal funds.

Governor Allred stated Wednesday that unless some provision was made by the Legislature immediately, the old-age assistance fund would go on a partial deficit November 1st, and a complete deficit after that month until funds were provided. The Governor urges immediate old-age assistance with all the power at his command fully realizing the critical condition that faces the old-age needy as winter is right at hand.

Donley County is Included In Drouth Area

Following the application of county agent H. M. Breedlove some time back, the Agricultural Department Saturday included Donley county in the drouth area.

All other counties of northwest Texas is said to have been placed in the drouth column recently, many of them in early summer. Special feed freight rates and stock shipping rates and other special consideration may be shown by the railroad companies. Attention is called to the fact that all restrictions on the rented acreage continues in force.

Former School Head Visits Here On Monday

Back on his annual visit to see after his property interests, J. E. Nelson, for a number of years superintendent of the Clarendon schools, spent Monday here meeting old friends.

Cotton Pickers Are In Demand Here

Many cotton growers are badly in need of help for gathering the crop at this time. Reports are that no pickers are to be had due to the report being sent out that cotton was a failure in west and northwest Texas.

Efforts are being made to induce Mexican pickers to come from the west as they have been doing for several years.

Transient pickers are few in number as compared with other years. Many of the farmers are in a position to offer extra accommodations, and still are unable to secure help. Most of the cotton will be "snapped," it is said.

Fire Marshall Compliments Clarendon's Record

"Clarendon is one of the cleanest towns of the state, and one of the best protected against fire hazards," stated Lee D. Olive, assistant state fire marshal on an inspection here Wednesday.

He was accompanied over town and through the business district by City fire marshal James Trent.

Open gas stoves caused 57 deaths in Texas during the year, Mr. Olive stated. He suggests that all burners be properly adjusted to protect the eyes and lungs from monoxide gas.

City Officials Give Street Work Prompt Attention

Mud holes and chug holes received first attention following the series of rains from the City officials. Streets in some instances were washed into holes.

Leveling of the principal streets of traffic is a source of much commendation, and the public is highly appreciative of the interest taken in the matter of street work.

Mr. Lynch has been in charge of the work here for the past two winters. The summer months are spent near Lusk, Wyoming where rich fossil beds are said to exist.

The local field is of the pliocene age in which are found elephant, camels of several species, rhinoceros, horses in greater variety than any other section and occasionally other fossil fragments of animals of that age.

Deposits in Donley county are on the McAdams and Grant farms near Goldston, and on Spade Flat in the Rowe pasture some 20 miles northeast of Clarendon.

Food Store Offers Free Gifts Saturday

Firm Announces Its Opening Day Giving Away Eight Baskets of Food

Since moving to their new location across the street north of the Ice Plant, the Clarendon Food Store has injected into their business the newer methods of doing business.

First, the members of the firm realized that a market for produce was necessary for their customers who had butter, cream, eggs and poultry to sell. A cream station was installed with the latest conveniences insuring cleanliness and accuracy in weights and tests.

"Parking space on Saturday being at a premium in Clarendon, we sought a location where our customers could have all the parking space they wanted," Mr. Smallwood stated.

A larger stock of groceries and a larger variety is now at the disposal of their trade. "In order to show our appreciation to our customers, we are going to give away a free basket of groceries every hour from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. Saturday. ### Leader Pulling Power Is Recognized

The fact that the Clarendon Hatchery, Frank White manager, won first prize in a Purina sales contest recently in competition with twenty other distributors, has elicited much comment.

The prize was based on tonnage sales, the local firm leading with an average of 30 bags of Purina products during the last 60 days.

In speaking of the matter, district salesman Tom Cox stated that the excellent advertising value and extensive circulation of the Donley County Leader was due much credit because the Purina advertising was carried exclusively in the Leader.

Clarendon Lady is Carried Over Snowdrifts

When she left up there, she was carried over 27 inches of snow and drifts to a conveyance that was permitted to bring her to Denver only by the aid of snow plows.

Naturally, Mrs. Skinner was glad to get back to a balmy climate, see the folks at home and feel secure again from winter's ravages.

Silo Demonstration Draws Crowd Tues.

Mr. E. R. Eudaly, dairy specialist was the principal speaker at a trench silo demonstration held by county agent H. M. Breedlove on the H. W. Stogner farm, one mile south of the Windy Valley school house. There were approximately over seventy-five farmers and boys at the demonstration to hear the lecture.

Mr. Eudaly pointed out the value of trench silos for the storage of feed and the value of silage for feed. It was also discussed the digging of a silo and how to fill and seal them up after filling. Mr. Breedlove states that he feels sure that all of the people who heard Mr. Eudaly's lecture got some valuable information.

More than thirty trench silos have been constructed in Donley county this season.

Safe blowers visited offices in Clarendon before day Wednesday for the first time in three years. A screen was torn loose and the window catch broken on the north side of the office of D. O. Stallings. In entering, the men knocked over a cheap clock that would run in only one position. The clock had toppled over and stopped at 4:35.

The knob was broken off the Stallings safe. Prints of gloves, one muddy and the other wet, indicated at least two men were on the job in pulling the contents from the safe. Nothing of value was found. "They really did me a favor," Mr. Stallings said, "because I accidentally locked the safe some time ago and forgot the combination. A safe man wanted $7.50 to open the safe, and I got the job done for nothing."

A few pennies and some apples were taken from the same safe in a burglary some three years ago.

At their office at 5:30 a. m., Ralph and Ben Andis heard a loud explosion. Thinking it to be at the light plant, they drove in their truck toward the plant. Discovering glass in the street on the south side of the Clarendon Grain Co. office, the truck lights were thrown on the building. No one was seen to leave the building, they said. Entrance to the building had been made through a side door, it is believed.

The Clarendon Grain Co. safe, equipped with poison gas burglary protection, was blown with what is believed to be nitro-glycerine. The half of the door was blown off striking a desk, then bouncing to the south wall some ten feet up. A hole was knocked in the wall and the desk badly broken and mutilated on the end where the door struck with great force.

The gas and the lights from the truck both combined was too much for the burglars, it is believed. Nothing was gained from the job. Five years ago the safe was robbed. Three years ago the safe was blown and three young men, Tolliver, Towles and Shelton were arrested on the job by officers when they were discovered by the night-watchman. They were given prison terms, but are at liberty now, it is said.

Sheriff Pierce and Deputy Quisenberry are working on the fingerprint angle, several having been secured in the Clarendon Grain office. Gloves were used at Stallings' coal office, the burglars leaving no trace except as stated above.

MEMBER OF PANHANDLE PRESS ASSOCIATION

HELPING THE FARMER.

That the farmer must be gotten back on his feet is generally agreed by both old parties. The farmer would probably say as much himself. If the farmer is to get back on his feet in this modern age of machine farming, something apparently must be done with the machinery trust.

BUTTING A BRICK WALL.

Circular letters are being mailed out by a mid state organization asking newspapers to refrain from reporting the achievements of women. A lot of newspapers are accused of leaving the impression that women are the equal of men, and this organization wants it stopped.

After reading over the appeal that offers a free picture service to publicize the "gun molls" and other female renegades, it looks like the only thing to be done about the matter is to fall back on news publicity for the gang murderers, high-jackers and wife killers who are "boldly" standing up for their "rights."

STERILIZATION GAINS FAVOR.

Since Indiana took the lead in passing an effective sexual sterilization law in 1907, 29 other states have passed laws providing for compulsory sterilization of lunatics, certain criminal types and other subnormal individuals.

Oklahoma and West Virginia authorizes sterilization, but the law is not enforced to any extent. States having a compulsory law are Alabama, Arizona, California, Connecticut, Delaware, Idaho, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Montana, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New York, North Carolina, North Dakota, Oregon, South Carolina, South Dakota, Utah, Vermont, Washington, Wisconsin.

New Jersey and Nevada are the only states that have repealed the law.

California leads the list of sterilizations for the past year, the number being 8,505. West Virginia was lowest with only one, while Oklahoma had none. The law authorizes sterilization in the last two named states, but does not make it compulsory, hence is of little or no value.

Efforts have been made to protect Texas citizens with such a law at different times, and the subject is to be brought up again next January according to reports of an organization for prison reform.

THE TUB TAX.

Here's the latest from a California exchange. Westmorland, (Calif.) Mail: It doesn't look as though "tub farming" is going to get very far.

You've heard of tub farming. It's this new method of raising crops in the wash tub, the bath tub, or any handy tank of water. The water is doctored with a few pills containing plant food elements, and it's so efficient that an average sized rain barrel will yield almost as much as a half acre of land.

But the trouble is that the lawmakers have got wind of this tub farming business. They see that it's new, scientific, and very efficient. So they're figuring ways and means of taxing it out of existence. They can hardly wait to enact a "tub tax."

The farmer never seems to get a break. He could have left off plowing, and harrowing in the hot sun and dust, battling weeds and insects and praying for rain. He could have sold his land for a real estate agent to subdivide, and maybe have bought out the nearest aquarium, turned out the fish, and used their tanks to raise his crops in cool comfort.

But in any case, the farmer would require many water tanks or tubs. And this would make it an ideal target for the newest kind of tax on efficiency, which is based on numbers. The "tub tax" will levy only $1 on the first tub. On the fourth it will levy $32, on the ninth $256 and on all over nine, $500.

So then, if California turns to tub farming, the tub tax will make the price of tub grown products practically prohibitive. That will give farmers on submarginal land in the dust bowl of the midwest a chance to sell their dry and withered products at a good profit. But the consumer might not want to pay high prices for dry and withered products? Come, come. Let's not be ridiculous.

Who is the consumer, to be squawking all the time, anyway.—New Era.

ORIGIN SOUGHT OF CONQUERING THEBAN RULERS

London—Excavation to be undertaken shortly in upper Egypt are expected to reveal origins of the Theban Kings who conquered Egypt in the Second Century B. C., scientists in charge of the expedition believe.

The Egypt Exploration Society is sponsoring the excavations.

A recent discovery may prove the key to finding remains of an eleventh dynasty temple at Armant, the original home of the Theban Kings.

Work just completed by a party under leadership of Sir Robert Mond in upper Egypt resulted in the discovery of walls, and part of a stone stairway near Cleopatra's sacred lake by Armant.

A pylon was uncovered to the south of Armant built to celebrate the victories of Thothmes III. On it is carved what is believed to be the first representation of a rhinoceros found in Egypt.

Another undertaking of the Sir Robert Mond party disclosed carved limestone blocks of the eleventh and twelfth dynasties, found in a Greek or Roman temple.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS

An unbiased explanation will be made of each proposed amendment to acquaint the voters with facts. Read them each week under this heading.

S. J. R. No. 3-A

The first proposed Constitutional Amendment to face the voter on November 3rd is S. J. R. No. 3-A which provides for a State dispensary system to have exclusive sale of distilled liquors and all profits from the sale of such liquors would go to the State. The sale of spirituous distilled liquors for private profit, as is now the case, is prohibited within this State, by this Amendment, except when such sale is made to the State, according to B. P. Matocha, Secretary of State. It is further provided that the State of Texas shall have the exclusive right to purchase at wholesale and to sell at retail such distilled spirituous liquors. Such sale shall be made only in unbroken packages and no such liquors shall be consumed on the premises where sold. The difference between the proposed plan and that now in effect would simply be one of ownership—i.e. by the State rather than the individual.

The State would maintain various places of business for the purpose of the sale of such liquor direct to the consumer. These places of business would only be maintained in the counties, precincts or incorporated towns where by local option elections such sale has been made legal.

Local option as now in effect would not be changed by adoption of the amendment. The sale of alcoholic beverages containing not more than 3.2 per cent alcohol which has been legalized in such political sub-divisions shall not be prohibited by this section.

This Amendment further provides that the open saloon shall not be reestablished.

It is also provided in this Amendment that the Legislature shall have the power to regulate the sale for private profit and possession of distilled liquors for medicinal, scientific and mechanical purposes.

Bank Robbery is Announced In Advance at Dallas

Dallas, Texas, Oct. 6.—A bank holdup will be the principal entertainment at the Texas Centennial Exposition on Police Day, Oct. 9.

"A bank will be erected in the Court of Honor," explained Frank N. Watson, director of promotion, "complete with fake money, bookkeepers, etc. Masked robbers will drive up in big automobiles, and command the bank employes to put up their hands. 'One clerk, however, will manage to step on a lever giving the alarm. As the robbers scoop up the money in the cages, the police radio will inform cruising district policemen. The officers will speed to the scene. There will be a terrific gun fight. Machine guns will rattle and tear gas will rout the bandits."

All participants in the holdup except stenographers, including the robbers and bank clerks, will be members of the Dallas police force.

"This will assure an authentic simulation of an actual bank hold-up," Mr. Watson pointed out, "and at the same time, provide a perfect demonstration of the use of modern police equipment."

Beside the holdup, there will be a pistol shoot at 3:30 p. m. in which the best shots in the police departments of the principal cities of the Southwest will be asked to participate. Police Chief Robert L. Jones of Dallas, who formerly was an operative of the Department of Justice under J. Edgar Hoover, will invite the police chiefs in the several cities to send their best marksmen to take part in the shoot.

Bones Reveal Horror Crime In Dark Ages

Rome.—A mysterious crime of hundreds of years ago was discovered when workmen were demolishing the 500-year-old Roman Hotel known as the Albergo dell'Orso.

While one of the men was breaking down an interior wall he uncovered a bricked-up patch. Getting his pickax, he pulled down the brickwork in one piece.

A human skeleton stood staring at him, and before he recovered from his surprise the skeleton, with arms upraised, pitched forward as if to embrace him.

It was then that his fellow workers heard his cry of horror, but by the time that they had raised their fallen comrade the skeleton had vanished, leaving only jawbones and teeth and fragments of larger bones as evidence of its existence. The blow of the fall and exposure to the air had disintegrated the bones.

So far there is no clue to the identity of the walled-up victim, except that he had been a young man.

Some schools have taken a recess for picking cotton, while others will continue to devote their time to football.

The government power companies in Tennessee have gone the private utility companies one better by showing the farmers how easy they may construct hog pastures with only one wire. The wire carries a low amperage and does not kill the hog, but it does make them shy of the shock.

Here comes a request for an old, old song. The title is: "Cruel Slavery Days."
"In the hut where I was born, Down beneath the yellow corn, etc."
Those are the two first lines. If you can supply it, kindly send in the song to gladden the heart of a dear old lady. It is her childhood song.

In the old days of horse ownership, a horse that would roll over was said to be worth a hundred dollars. In this auto age, we would hardly lay claim to an auto being worth five hundred dollars just because it had rolled over five times.

People used to go to bed to sleep, but now they go to bed just because they can't think of anything exciting about to happen.

One of the new school cops in Amarillo met his Waterloo recently when he took one of the new jobs. It happened like this:

Cop—"Don't you know what I mean when I hold up my open hand?"

Lady—"I aught to since I've been teaching here for five years!"

Next to this "knock, knock" stuff, the most foolish is the cheap, alleged "dialogue" attempted by two or more over the radio in which they do all the laughing themselves. Nobody else hears anything funny during the mental abortion.

Speed demons on No. 5 have learned the difference between "gauze and effect."

Q & A Department:
"How can I avoid worrying?"

Ans. You worry about how you are going to get the things you don't need and can do without easiest. Stick to your worrying, and you will get along o. k.

Breaking through two locks, thieves stole about all the equipment that the McLean football team had except the pep squad. If the pep squad had of been locked up, they would have been stolen, no doubt.

Agriculturally speaking, the firm's turnip patch needs cleaning. The grass appears to be showing up far, far above the vegetable family. This "Whit" Whitlock person who has had quite a bit to say about the looks of the patch, got his hand called. The firm of Shaver & Whitlock has their reputation as cleaners at stake as a result of one member of the firm taking a delight in poking fun at the condition of the turnips' plight. Now the patch goes to the professional cleaners. If they can't clean it, and back plumb down on the job, there is another firm here that can clean it.

Speaking of a wet West Texas climate, how about A. B. Tarwater of Plainview, and J. W. Gunstream of Canyon. Legislative representative and school teacher respectively.

A "good time was had by all" auto drivers in front of the post-office Monday morning. Ralph Andis said if a truck had been there a lot more hollering would have been done. Seven autos were in the street, two autos had trailers behind them and one of which was cross-wise, (catawampus or what ever you call it), in the street, both sides of the street curbs were full.

About that time Knight's dairy delivery came along, but he managed to get through after some delay. Auto parking if nothing else is picking up.

Clarendon is just like a lot of towns. That is the business men take up the main street parking room and the customers take to the alleys or side streets. One firm has three "un-tagged" wrecks parked on a main paved street for several days. We are great folks—we are!!

J. B. James of Columbus, Ohio got his name in the paper by eating nine pancakes every morning for fifty years. He's now 82 and must have been a lot of help to common humanity—provided they could get pancakes.

That recalls an incident at a golf championship game. The son of a chief belly-acher was in the contest but did not get any prize. So in order to keep peace in the bunch, the young man was given a prize for "being the best dressed fellow in the contest."

Down at Childress a citizen of Tell is nursing a broken jaw and a smashed nose as a result of helping a neighbor boy who was allegedly "short-changed" at a carnival. Just another mighty good reason why carnivals should not be allowed in this or any other town. It was said to be a "gang" fight in which a carnival bunch attacked a bunch of local citizens. Officers arrested the carnival gang leader and jailed him.

The daily press carries a story about a Creek Indian in California who set a new example for his white brother when he almost scalped a bill collector. The white man is often "skinned," but scalping days are long gone.

Mahatma Ghandi of India, he of breech-clout and goat milk celebrity, owns a son who promises to quit getting drunk if the old man will become a Moslem. The old man might become a pagoda and get a better bargain even than that already offered.

Headline—"Explorers Near Jericho Attacked by Arabs." It looked like our friends in the north end of the county had encountered something worse than dry weather and grasshoppers until we read on down through the article and found the stunt to be pulled in the Far East where they had named a town, possibly, after the well known plains city of old Donley. Old Donley county leads in Arabs when necessary, too.

BUT OIL-PLATING LASTS...

Change today

Right you are. The weather hasn't made up its mind yet. But you don't care, once Conoco Germ Processed oil—patented—is Oil-Plating your engine for Winter.

Change to modern Oil-Plating today, for instance. Then every cylinder, piston, bearing and other part is completely Oil-Plated

And today... tomorrow... next month... as long as you use Germ Processed, this Oil-Plating will still be up there. It gets there by means of the special "hyper-oily concentrate" which is alloyed into Germ Processed oil under patents. In circulating, this oil renews its genuine Oil-Plating, which doesn't return to the crankcase, but stays up all through your engine.

Thus the old cry of "get your right Winter viscosity" isn't the half of it, now that you can get exclusive Oil-Plating, too—a great big extra. Oil-Plating is all ready to lubricate before your starter even turns, and that lets your battery live. Oil-Plating doesn't run off in any weather, and that saves your engine and oil. You keep away from your next quart—your next battery—your next car, by changing today to Conoco Germ Processed oil.

PRE-NUPTIAL SHOWER GIVEN HEDLEY LADY

One of the most beautiful and unique social affairs of the season took place Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock in the basement of the Methodist church when a wedding shower was given the charming young bride-to-be, Mrs. Dannie Battle. Mrs. Cloteal Ray and Miss Myrtle Reeves were hostesses. A very interesting program was rendered to 46 guests. At the appointed time the guests began to arrive and were seated in their proper places assisted by Mrs. Ray and Miss Reeves. Then came Mrs. Battle followed by her mother, Mrs. J. B. Masterson and sister, Mrs. Oscar Alexander. Mrs. Louie Thompson seated at the piano played the wedding march followed by "Indian Love Call" and "Mountain Music." After which Miss Otie Watkins and Mrs. Alva Simmons beautifully sang, "Sweet Mysteries of Life," then a quartet was sung by Mesdames Alva Simmons, Lola Dishman and Miss Otie Watkins, which was much enjoyed.

To the delight of all there arrived a group of Hill Billies, singing, accompanied by the guitar, played by Cisero (Donovan Pickett), Elvira (Miss Theresa Webb) and Maranda (Miss Sue Beth Edwards). The presentation of gifts given by Elvira to the future bride was beautifully rendered in poetry and was very impressive and immensely enjoyed by each one. The room was very artistically and appropriately decorated with mountain cedar trees, Navajo rugs and flowers of the mountain type. The camp fire made of logs was with the big old coffee pot, which is always a necessary utensil of the camp. A familiar scene with the sheltering tent furnished a background interesting to look upon.

Many were the beautiful and useful gifts received by Mrs. Battle and between short heart beats she arose and thanked each one for the same in her charming manner. Mrs. Clifford Johnson presided over a beautiful brides book arranged by Miss Hazel Stewart, in which each guest wrote her name and on a card was written a favorite recipe.

Mrs. Battle has many friends in Hedley, having grown to womanhood here, and she will be missed greatly as she goes from us soon to become the wife of Mr. Winton Bernardine of Taos, N. Mex.

Coffee and doughnuts was served in plain cups and saucers, with Misses Hazel Stewart and Pauline Boliver, assistants, dressed in red trousers and jackets.

The out-of-town guests attending were Mrs. T. T. Harrison, Mrs.

Zeb Moore and Mrs. Dr. Wilson Jr. and Mrs. T. R. Easterling of Memphis; Mrs. Gene Herd, Mrs. Bill Bromley, Mrs. Louie Thompson and Mrs. Urben Boston of Clarendon.

LEGGITT-MITCHELL

Their many friends here were greatly surprised Saturday afternoon to learn of the marriage of William E. Leggett and Miss Anne Ruth Mitchell. The coupled motored to Childress Saturday and were married at the Presbyterian parsonage, the Rev. Frank Travis, pastor, officiating.

The groom is the popular coach of the Hedley high school, and also teaches several classes in high school. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Leggett of Wellington, and is a graduate of the high school there, and of New Mexico Normal University at Las Vegas, N. Mex. He taught school two years in New Mexico, and was also employed as an accountant.

The bride is a member of one of Hedley's prominent families, being the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Zeb Mitchell. She has lived in Hedley about nine years, and has made a host of friends by her charming personality.

She was a very popular member of the 1934 graduating class of Hedley high school, and also attended T. W. C. at Ft. Worth. For some time she has been assisting Mr. Mitchell in the Hedley Drug Co.

They plan to make their home in Hedley for the present.

The Informer joins with their many other friends in extending best wishes for a happy, successful future.—Hedley Informer.

Texas Canning Plants Being Located Where Fruit and Vegetables Are Grown

Austin, Texas, Oct. 7.—Canning and preserving of fruits and vegetables for commercial purposes in Texas has been practiced since 1915, it was pointed out by Mrs. Clara H. Lewis of the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research in a recent survey of this industry. There are at present 59 plants in Texas devoted to processing fruits and vegetables, an increase of sixteen since 1931, the gain being attributable to the increased demand for canned citrus fruit products and the growth of the vegetable canning industry in the eastern sections of the State and the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

"The remarkable growth of the citrus fresh fruit and canning industry in Texas is largely the result of the fact that Texas grapefruit is generally regarded as superior in quality to either the Florida or California varieties," Mrs. Lewis said.

Last year 24,764 tons of fresh grapefruit from the Rio Grande Valley were processed, 900,000 cases of tomatoes and considerable quantities of spinach.

In honor of Gen. Enrique Mexia, the city of Mexia will hold its Centennial Fiesta de Mexia October 15-17. The city was named for the distinguished Mexican who owned a large tract of land where the town now stands.

The University Centennial Exposition at Austin, which will be in progress until Dec. 1, covers 40 acres of exhibits on the campus of the University of Texas.

Farmers Wonder About the Destructive Waterfowls Now Swarming the Plains

With the Federal game laws prohibiting the killing of ducks and geese in this area before the latter part of November, farmers in this section are wondering what means they might be permitted to resort to in order to save their grain crops from destruction by the waterfowl already settling down this region from the northlands.

Literally thousands of ducks and geese have been reported in the Panhandle for the past two weeks, and their number is being increased every succeeding day, farmers say, by the migration of their kinsmen.

Most of the surface lakes in this area have been filled by the recent rains. Coupled with that, thousands of acres of ripening grain are just approaching the harvest season. All of which makes an ideal set-up for the migratory birds that have flown thousands of miles over the drought-stricken section of the mid-west from their breeding places in the north to settle down here for several weeks and enjoy themselves at the expense of the farmers while the game laws offer them full protection from being slaughtered.

News dispatches this week said that a certain farmer on the north plains had obtained a permit from the State Game Commission to kill the ducks that were destroying his crops. But information gathered in this Panhandle section is to the effect that no general order of that nature has been received in this district. Also the question arises; since the migratory birds are protected by Federal regulations, do the State authorities have the right to set at naught such regulations?

Up to the present, very little damage has been reported by ducks, but farmers say with feed in shocks it is not uncommon to lose an entire crop within a week.

Bronchos Lose Battle By One First Down

The old dope bucket reeled, rocked and wobbled for sixty long minutes here last Friday evening when the Clarendon Bronchos held the highly tutored Wheeler Mustangs to a scoreless tie before a large crowd of enthusiastic boosters from both towns. It was a game marked with thrills and spills with both teams playing heads-up football. The fans witnessed a game that smacked hard with plenty of offensive thrusts mixed with lots of defensive tackling that would have been a credit to any two teams in the state.

"To the victor belongs the spoils." But there wasn't any spoils in this instance—there was only a small morsel in the form of a lone first down that threw up a barrier of defeat for the Maroon and White. It had been officially agreed before the game by both coaches that twenty yard penetrations and first downs would determine the victor in case of a tie. Each team tallied a twenty yard penetration, but the Wheeler Mustangs eked out a small margin of victory when they chalked up nine first downs to eight for the Bronchos.

The Bronchos entered the game as underdogs, but from the first whistle to the last they were doing everything but what the dopsters had predicted. Their enthusiasm was rampant—their spirited determination to fight would not be dampened by a larger and more experienced squad. By virtue of this close margin of defeat, the Bronchos have sounded a warning to conference opponents that they do not intend to be in the cellar at the end of the season.

Each man on the team was a star. There was the hard tackling by Robinson, Rolls and Butler, and the fine long runs and line plunges by Cornell, Holtzclaw and Grady, which coupled with a hard tackling and fast charging bunch of boys drew the respect and admiration of hundreds of onlookers. The fighting spirit that little Captain Butler retained throughout the game, inspired his team mates to fighting pitch, and what was to have been a push-over on the part of the Mustangs almost turned out to be their Waterloo.

The eyes of Clarendon and the rest of the district are upon the charges of Coach C. C. Jones. He is doing things and the Bronchos are going places.

EXPLAINING AMENDMENT NUMBER SIX

(By George Moffett of Chillicothe, Texas. Member of the House of Representatives.)

Amendment No. 6, the last one on the ballot in November, provides that any one particular county may not have more than seven members in the Texas House of Representatives, and since the total membership of the House is 150 members, it certainly is proper that no one county out of the 254 counties in Texas should have more than seven. In a state as large as Texas it would never be for the best interest of the State to permit the bunching or clustering of its law-makers within a very few of the 254 counties. In other words geography should be taken into consideration as well as population in allocating members of the Legislature among the various counties.

Thirty states of the American union do recognize geography as well as population in apportioning representatives in the Legislature, and it is more justifiable for Texas to recognize geography than any other state because it is the largest state with the most far flung boundaries and the greatest variety of conditions, but, unless amendment No. 6 is adopted by the people, in a few years four or five of our larger counties will have increased in population to the point where they, on a population basis, will be able to control and dictate the laws under which the people of all of the 254 counties must live. Amendment No. 6 seeks to put a balance wheel in our governmental machinery which is badly needed and which many other states already have. In Oklahoma the limit for a county is seven members, in Georgia and Florida three members and in Iowa two members and other states have similar restrictions based on geographic and territorial consideration.

The trend of population is unquestionably from the farm to the city and unless Amendment No. 6 is adopted five large counties in Texas may soon control the destinies of the largest agricultural state in the union.

Man So Powerful He Could Kill Elephant With Spear Once Roamed Texas Plains

Edgar B. Howard Party Find Unmistakable Evidence In Summer Expedition Near Portales

A prehistoric man, dating back to 8,000 B. C., so powerful that he could kill a mammoth elephant with a spear, once roamed the swampy plains country of Texas and New Mexico.

Edgar B. Howard, of Howard Brothers, who visited here in August with J. M. Massie and hastened east, after spending the summer in New Mexico, headed the expedition which has created wide interest in scientific circles. At the time of his visit here he indicated belief that his expedition had found some evidence of an unusual nature in establishing that mankind had inhabited the section in bygone ages, but said he would wait any statements until after his finds and data had been checked by the Academy of Natural Sciences at Philadelphia, from whose offices any statement would be given. During his stay in the section the party spent two months in the dry lakes near Portales, New Mexico in what is known as the Blackwater Draw. They camped out at the site and closely guarded the results of their work from the public.

The announcement released by the Academy of Natural Sciences gives the following information: Definite proof of this early American's existence has been produced by a joint expedition of the Academy of Natural Sciences of Philadelphia, the Carnegie Institution of Washington and the University Museum, Philadelphia.

The expedition, headed by Dr. Edgar B. Howard, trustee and associate in paleontology at the Academy, uncovered the evidence in the form of several spear points which were found actually associated with the bones of prehistoric elephants.

One of the points lay under a vertebra, another under a shoulder blade and a third was found between the forelimbs of the mammoth.

In addition to the stone points, Dr. Howard's party uncovered points made of bone, as well as a stone scraper, which was resting on the base of a tusk.

"The bone points are apparently the first of their kind to be found in association with prehistoric elephants or as a part of the 'Folsom complex,'" the Academy's announcement said. "Evidence of these early hunters' beautiful workmanship may be seen in the carefully chipped stone spear points, which are leaf shaped in appearance and are in perfect condition—some 10,000 years later. "One can picture the ponderous mammoths, bogged in the swamp that once covered the site of the present excavations, being finished off by the deadly stone spears of the Folsom hunters.

"The occurrence of so many weapons and tools in place with the elephant bones precludes any doubt that man existed on this continent at the same time as the mammoths, as both the bones and the points were covered and protected through the centuries by hard silt and several feet of sand."

Though no human remains were found, the announcement says "the date may be estimated by geological and climatological factors as approximately 8,000 B. C."

Witnesses at the site before or during the digging included Dr. Ernest Antevy, research associate of the Carnegie Institute; Dr. Harold Colton of the Museum of North ern Arizona; and Dr. Frederica de Laguna of the University Museum.

This is the second expedition Dr. Howard has led into the Blackwater Draw area, though he has done much work in New Mexico. His findings in connection with the Basketmaker Man won wide attention in the scientific world.

There is Always Worship Fellowship :: Service
Attention! Christians, everywhere! Will you dare do your duty just one day in your lives? Then be in all the services of your church next Sunday. Robert E. Lee said to the students at West Point: "Duty young men, is the sublimest word in the English language. You cannot do more. You should not wish to do less. Do, then, your simple duty." It is harder not to do ones duty than it is to do it. A little girl, when asked if it were not hard to carry the little boy up a hill, answered: "No, he's my brother." Your brother Christian needs your help. Your fellow church member needs you to help him carry the load. It will be easy for you to help him. It will be easy for him to help you if you meet together on a common level in the worship service of your church. All pulling together lightens the load and makes what would otherwise be a task, a delightful undertaking. Do then your simple duty and be happy and make others happy.

Things are moving along at The Baptist Church. Not as well as we would like, but they are moving. We are making progress. Two great crowds greeted each other at the preaching services. The Sunday School was well attended, and we had 69 in the Training Service for the Young People last Sunday. It would delight our hearts for you to join in making all the services profitable on the next Lord's Day.

Development of Power Without Fuel Foreseen in Abbot Sun-Ray Engine

Washington, Sept. 29.—Rays of the sun, captured by a contrivance in the backyard of the Smithsonian Institution, created enough electrical energy the other day to carry a man's voice over a nation-wide radio hook-up.

The successful demonstration of the solar ray machine, invented by Dr. Charles G. Abbot, natural scientist and secretary of the Institution, gave promise of even greater things to come. Experts who inspected it during the World Power Conference here predicted it would:

Bring the world a substitute fuel for coal and oil, should these resources ever be depleted.

Produce electric power in the middle of waste deserts that would be as cheap as $3-a-ton coal.

Make use of a never diminishing source of power 1000 times greater than all the other combined sources of power in the United States.

Steam engines run by the sun are not a new thing, but Dr. Abbot's 20 years of research have been aimed at making a more efficient machine than that of his predecessors. His experiments grew out of his desire to have a hot water bath without bothering to build a fire when he was stationed at the Mt. Wilson Observatory in 1915. He is still using his first machine for cooking meat and baking bread on Mt. Wilson.

Modern chemistry has helped Dr. Abbot perfect his invention by developing "arcolor," a black liquid capable of receiving a great amount of heat without boiling. The reflecting surfaces of the three large rectangular mirrors is of "alcoa" sheet, a new weather-proof aluminum product.

After the sun's rays have been trained on the liquid, it is passed through water to raise the steam to a pressure of 105 pounds per square inch. This steam drives a small engine which is hitched to a small dynamo to develop current for a National Broadcasting Company program.

Night and clouds interfere with the operation of Dr. Abbot's machine; but when it gets into everyday use, he is confident that storage and distribution problems can be solved in such a way as to assure a constant supply of energy from the sun.

The development of solar power, in Dr. Abbot's opinion, awaits only the depletion of the nation's coal and oil before it will become practical.

Vidor's Saga Of Southwest Booked Here Oct. 10, 11, 12

The organization of men whose work was largely responsible for making a unified, law-abiding State out of the sprawling region of early Texas is immortalized in King Vidor's epic, "The Texas Rangers," opening at The Pastime Theatre at the Saturday night Prevue, also Sunday and Monday, Oct. 10, 11, 12th.

Filled with action and the color of the post-Reconstruction period along the Panhandle, "The Texas Rangers" features a cast headed by such top-notch stars as Fred MacMurray, Jack Oakie, Jean Parker, Lloyd Nolan, Edward Ellis and Bennie Bartlett. It was filmed in outdoor locations in Texas and New Mexico, with the Governors of both States giving full cooperation.

Bacteria-loaded Japanese products—made by "coolie" labor under unsanitary conditions and sold over the counters of United States drug and variety stores—today imperil the health of Americans who buy certain articles for personal use that are made in Japan.

In an exclusive interview with DRUG WORLD, Captain F. X. A. Eble, former U. S. Commissioner of Customs, named thermos bottles, tooth brushes, cosmetic brushes, numerous rubber goods articles, novelties, toothpicks, matches and many other Japanese imports as germ carriers.

"When our people realize the great danger of contamination from certain Japan-made goods," Captain Eble states, "they will find that the menace to their health heavily overshadows the menace to our economic system. From unsanitary hovels, thousands of Jap workers emerge each morning and swarm into sweat-shops where they produce 'personal use' articles by hand at 40 cents per day."

Recently, F. T. Lange, an American traveler, succeeded in looking behind the scenes of several Japanese toothpick factories. In an affidavit Mr. Lange stated that he had seen toothpicks being made and packed by hand in Japan under very unsanitary conditions. Yet the cartons containing these products for export to this country were boldly marked "sanitarily manufactured and packed by machinery."

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Hurn spent Friday and a part of Saturday at Henrietta visiting in the home of his brother, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hurn.

Busiest Season At Hand With Workers Facing Handicap And Food Wasting

With a can shortage existing at the local relief cannery, late plantings of corn, peas and beans are rapidly nearing an end of the season.

If the large supplies of food are to be conserved for winter use, something must be done in plenty of time to can the food before the first killing frost. The frost line in this section is set at October 25th, this being the approximate date of killing frosts most every year.

Meats can wait, it is stated, but vegetables must be canned right away. Many growers have made inquiries for the canning of vegetables of several kinds the past few days.

These growers have been informed of the can shortage, and little can be done until more cans are received.

Recently Will P. Chamberlain, county commissioner, brought five thousand cans from the cannery at Miami where they would not be needed in view of a larger stock of cans on hand there.

Those familiar with the situation state that thousands of cans are stored in the upper tiers of Panhandle counties where the canned products will be limited largely to meats.

Efforts are to be made to secure cans from these other sections. In the meantime, it is also stated that a sewing room is being suggested for the labor provision of relief workers. A sewing room equipment will incur a large expense, it is pointed out, while the cannery is ready to serve the public efficiently with but a small expenditure for cans.

Twenty-one people are employed in the cannery, and approximately 800 cans are canned each day. Seven of the employees are men.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Earthman moved to Memphis Wednesday, where he will work at the gin.

Flower Exhibit Is Good Advertisement

A large crowd was in attendance at the Ashtola convention Sunday. "Dinner-on-the-Ground" Stiles presided as president. Mr. Stiles of Bray gracefully accepts the title given him by Secretary L. H. Earthman because Mr. Stiles is a strong advocate of dinner on the ground or on most anything. It was announced to the crowd Sunday. Stiles is said to be late on arrival except in the fore part of the day. He doesn't like afternoon sessions.

The varied program was said to be extra good in that the best talent was present and delighted with specials as well as general singing.

Plains Lakes May Prove To Be A Real Asset Yet

Generally regarded as a necessary evil since nothing can be done about the matter, lakes on the Plains have been tolerated all through the years.

It now remains for Jack Ward, residing on a farm partly covered by two large lakes near Aiken, in Floyd county, to prove that lakes may be converted into a real asset with little converting at that.

Ward has ready for market an estimated hundred thousand head of fine grade Louisiana bull frogs. He claims they are in big demand, and are of such dimensions that the fore legs have a market value as well as the hind legs.

Parts of Drift Fence Built In 1883 Remain

Portions of a drift fence erected between the F and JA ranches back in 1883 are yet to be seen on the old location. What a story that peculiarly woven wire could tell if such were possible.

The wire was shipped from England to Galveston, and then brought to Briscoe county by ox teams, according to W. E. Schott, an old-time cow man of that section.
