

THE DONLEY COUNTY LEADER

J. C. ESTLACK, Editor and Owner
Published on Tuesday of each week.

This paper's first duty is to print all the news that's fit to print honestly and fairly to all unbiased by any consideration even including its own editorial opinion.

Any erroneous reflection upon the character, standing or reputation of any person, firm, or corporation which may occur in the columns of THE DONLEY COUNTY LEADER will be gladly corrected upon being brought to the attention of the management.

In a neat little bungalow at Sweetwater, Texas there live an aged couple who have plod life's path together for near a half century. Oneers of this great southwest all during that time. The husband an Indian fighter in the early day while the mother guarded the home and the little that was their's in a material way. Later ranch interests claimed their attention until the settling up of the country when large ranches gave way to stock farming. Finding themselves unequal to the task after the children had married and established homes of their own some years ago, the landed interest were disposed of and Sweetwater became their home being centrally located nearest those who had left the family nest. Now in the evening of life, when they have nothing to look forward to but the coming of those whom they love, to them this first edition of the Leader is respectfully dedicated—the editor's father and another.

As we go to work each day with the goodbyes of those at home resting as benedictions upon us, resolve to be constantly mindful of the safety and rights of others, and may it not be a day of toil, but a day of service to our neighbors.

As we go home each evening to our loved ones, let us be grateful for the well done and that it is a privilege to live in a good country of the great where the big majority are fair and square, kind and neighborly, respectful of the others and ever willing to lend a helping hand to the needy. In a land in the making where opportunity is great and the service to humanity and ourselves is unlimited.

As the name of this publication implies, it is a county product. It shall always be our aim to be fair and square with each section of our trade territory, giving each section all the publicity possible commensurate with the development of that particular section. We want you to feel that you have an important duty to perform in seeing that your section is represented in its columns. It means much to you, it costs you nothing and you section will appreciate your public-spirited efforts. Visit us, write us. Let us know how we can be of service to you. Boost your school, churches and daily happenings thru our columns.

SMALL TOWNS NOT DOOMED

We heard back fifteen years ago that the small villages and cities would be out in the battle for trade. The automobile would kill the small-town merchants and that the cities of ten thousand and over were the only ones in which progress would continue to be made. Fifteen years finds the average small village and city in about the same relative position. It finds, however, a decay in the thousands of country trading centers—the one store. The automobile hadn't created a general tendency to run to the larger city for the week's supply of groceries, to trade off the eggs for a few yards of dress goods. The automobile has done a bigger thing than that—it has made city merchants of the progressive small-town business man. His pile of house wrappers has given way to special display cases filled with dozens of New York and Paris gowns, fur coats and other ready-to-wear. It has made a delicatessen of the corner grocery, a spick and span modern drug store replaces the one of twenty years ago with its rows of bottles and mlaidy finds her favorite oriental perfume and her choice toilet articles as neatly displayed as in Fifth Avenue shops—the same goods sold at the same or at a lower price. The fifteen or twenty year advancement also finds the small city bank, its clotheir, its radio shop, its hardware and its newspaper advanced further than the stride of a half century previous. And this evidence of progress spells the answer to the oft repeated prediction of a decade or two ago that the automobile was going to kill the small town. The small-town business man has met the prediction by moving forward by providing the needs of his constituency. The farmer knows that his car will take him to a trading center five or ten miles away where he can get what his household wants and what is needed for the operation of his farm, at price lower than in the larger city, and with a personal service which the larger city dealer cannot have to give. The business man who is awake, does not fear the encroachment of the bigger town—all he has to do is to keep up with the progress in merchandising and maintain a sincere personal relationship with his patrons, and "The World Is His."

NEW STYLE LULLABY

Hush-a-by baby, pretty one sleep,
Daddy's gone golfing to win the club sweep,
If he plays nicely—I hope that he will—
Mother will show him her dress-maker's bill.

Hush-a-by, baby, safe in your cot,
Daddy's come home and his temper is hot;
Cuddle down closer, baby of mine,
Daddy went round in a hundred and nine.

—Anonymous.

That it is dangerous to proceed in any undertaking until all relative facts have been ascertained, and that half-truths are often most misleading is well illustrated by the story of the mother who was on the lookout for a good name for her child and saw on the door of a building the word "Nosmo". It attracted her, and she decided that she would adopt it. Some time later, passing the same building, she saw the name "King" on another door. She thought the two would sound well together, and so the boy was baptized "Nosmo King Smith." On her way home from the church where the baptism had taken place, she passed the building again. The two doors on which she had seen the names were now closed together, and what she read was not "Nosmo King", but "No Smoking."

The man that said, "Marriage is one grand, sweet song!" probably meant that it was one grand, sweet refrain—refrain from smoking, refrain from drinking, refrain from going out nights, in fact refrain from every thing.

Mr. Kinder—"I'm soliciting for the heathen. What do you do with your cast off clothing?"

Mr. Hard-Up—"I hang them up carefully and go to bed. Then in the morning I put them on again."

Flowers die—say it with printing.

ANSWERED
Professor—"Can you give me an example of a commercial appliance used in ancient times?"
Student—"Yes, sir, the loose least system used in the Garden of Eden."

LIMBERING-UP EXERCISES
They had just met at Atlantic City and were sitting on the beach:

She—"What a wonderfully developed arm you have."
He—"Yes, I got that playing basketball. By the way, were you ever on a track team?"

Jack Lacy, versatile publisher of the Gazette Topic at Rocky Ford, starts each day's work with the following prayer, which might well be observed by many other people outside of the publishing business:

Teach us to drive through life without skidding into other people's business.

Preserve our brake linings that we may stop before we go too far.

Help us to hear the knocks of our own motors and close our ears to the clashing of other people's gears.

Keep alcohol in our radiators and out of our stomachs.

Abosolve us from the mania of trying to pass the other automobile on a narrow road.

Open our eyes to the traffic signs and keep our foot on the brakes.

SAYS OLE BUCK

No man in any community is as closely connected with all its interests as its editor. All others reach special interests only. The merchant has his customers, the preacher his congregation, the doctor his patients, the lawyer his clients. Neither can get far out of his own circle. The editor comes in contact, more or less, with all these interests. He is the only man in the community who can have friendly contact with all of them without being suspected of trying to further his own interests or the interests of his own group. The editor is expected to deal with all groups, all factions, all interests. It is a part of his work and duty. He is not living up to the full possibilities of his job unless he does. And a community not getting all it should have from its newspaper and its editor unless it encourages such relationship.

ENOUGH

The editor at the pearly gate,
His face looked worn and old,
He meekly asked the man of fate
For admission to the fold.

"What have you done," asked Peter
"To seek admission here?"
"Oh, I used to run a country newspaper
"On earth for many a year."

The gate swung sharply open,
And Peter touched the bell:
"Come in, my lad, and take your harp,
"You've had enough of hell."

KINDNESS

"The thing that goes the farthest
Towards making life worth while;
That costs the least and does the most,
Is just a pleasant smile.
It's full of worth and goodness, too,
With genial kindness bent;
It's worth a million dollars,
And doesn't cost a cent."

Business men who have irritated beyond endurance by bores of various kinds and solicitors for this, that and the other, will appreciate the psychology of the hero of this story. He was one who had been thus annoyed. One day he had the misfortune to be bitten by a dog. Word got around that the dog was rabid, and many pestiferous acquaintances came trooping in to his office when they heard that he had gone right on to work after having had the injury treated. He tried to be patient and polite toward them, but it was hard work.

"Good gracious, man!" exclaimed the sixteenth bore that morning, "you shouldn't be here at the office—you ought to be in a hospital taking shots of hydrophobia serum."

"Haven't time to go to a hospital yet—I've got some important writing to do," replied the victim, without looking up from his papers.

"Oh, I see. I suppose you are writing your will?"
"No, I am making out a list of people I'm going to bite when I go mad."

FIRST PRIZE

"Which would yez rather be in, Pat, an explosion or a collision?"
"A collision," was Pat's reply.
"But why?" asked Mike.
"Becez in a collision," explained Pat, "there yez are—but in an explosion, where are yez?"—H. R. Stumbaugh, Gulpport Miss.

The Settling of the Sage

by Hal G. Evarts

COWBOYS, plainsmen, cattle rustlers, outlaws—men quick on the draw and honest or base, according to the parts they played when the cow country was wild and a rough and hearty chivalry ruled the range. This story deals with the first changes in the old order—the early effort to fence the range. There is a charming cowgirl heroine and romance of the most pleasing type.

CLUB NOTES

A new home demonstration club was organized at the home of Mrs. Bell of Bray community March 8th. The club has nine charter members. Mrs. Thava Crofford was elected president; Mrs. Hill vice-president and Mrs. Adamson secretary.

The club meets on the second and fourth Fridays of each month. Mrs. Adamson, the secretary, is to entertain the club in their meeting March 22nd. A gardening demonstration will be given.

GILES GIRLS CLUB

The Giles Girl's Club met at the school house March 8th, with eight members present. The girls were given a demonstration in tomato growing and their sewing was checked to see what had been accomplished since last meeting. After finishes and decorations for lingerie was discussed, the meeting adjourned to meet again March 28th.

GRISSOM-LITTLE

Mr. Carlos Grissom and Miss Ruth Little were united in marriage at the home of the bride Thursday. Rev. Lee Hukel, pastor of the Church of Christ performed the ceremony.

The bride wore a beautiful gown of rose georgette crepe. Mrs. Grissom is the youngest daughter of T. M. Little, grew to womanhood here and was educated in the local schools. She is a social favorite and enjoys a wide circle of friends.

Mr. Grissom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Grissom of Yeager, Okla. and is employed by the Chevrolet agency of Clarendon.

MISS ELANE AIKEN ENTERTAINS

Miss Elane Aiken entertained Saturday evening in a charming manner at the home of her sister, Mrs. S. W. Lowe, with a two table "42" party.

Those present were: Mrs. B. G. Smith, Mrs. Rayburn Couch, Misses Rita Foster, Myra Worsham, Ozella Hunt, Lillian Abbott, Lilla Dell Slover. Refreshments consisting of delicious maple nut cream, angel food cake and mints contributed much to the enjoyment of the occasion.

KO JO KAI CLUB ENTERTAINS

Miss Gertrude Reed proved an interesting entertainer of the members of the Ko Jo Kai Club Saturday with a picture show program after which the happy throng spent some time in interesting conversation and games at Caraway's restaurant producing merriment most pleasing to the young misses. Those to join in these festivities were: Misses Aileen Ballew, Eugenia Nojand, Mary Tom Attebery, Dorothy Joe Ryan, Vivian Taylor, Aurelia Kelly, Miss Rita Foster and the hostess, Miss Gertrude Reed.

The College girls met the Shamrock girls at 10 o'clock Saturday morning on the Panhandle court. The game was very close and exciting with the score 18 and 22 in Shamrock's favor. The girls played Plemons at four o'clock in the afternoon and won to the tune of 118 and 32. The girls report a good time.

THE ALPHA DELTA PSI

As we know "spring" means the freshest period; be it in season, society, or LOVE. Then lets we, the Alpha Delta Psi show our spring spirit and snap into it make our society something yet.

The society met Wednesday morning. The Society were sung with pep. The fact that only a few were present did not keep us from having a "peppy" feeling. Marue Frostle gave a well prepared reading, "The Face on the Floor." A very appropriate address was given by Slick Naylor. Slick is doing as much as possible for our society, as president; but no one person can constitute an organization. It is up to each member to do his part, to make our society the real thing. Any raven fool can quit; But a man with pluck and grit Will hold to the very final bout, Play hard and stick it out.

After spending some forty years looking around in old Donley county, trying out the farming idea to his financial satisfaction during that time, our good friend J. J. Goldston, has decided to locate permanently and will build a nice home in town near the Leck Goldston home.

E. M. and Manly Ozier and E. P. Shelton attended the Emory Cooper funeral at Panhandle Saturday.

Raymond Mosley has accepted a position with the laundry as outside man.

MRS. A. M. COLLETT DIES

Mrs. A. M. Collett, a resident of Clarendon for the past eighteen months, passed away at the family home Saturday, March 2nd. Interment in the Citizens Cemetery the following day. The services were conducted by Rev. Hukel. Mrs. Collett, formerly Grace Lawson, was born July 7, 1898 at Bradley, Tenn.

She united with the Church of Christ at age of twenty-one and remained in the faith until her death. She was married to A. M. Collett March 11, 1916. To this union was born four children all of whom survive her and are: Alton, Lanelle, Melba and Gladys. Besides her husband she leaves a sister, Mrs. W. D. Higgins, one brother, Maynard Lawson, both of this county. Also an aunt, Mrs. H. M. Reid of the Chamberlain community. Her parents preceded her in death in her early childhood.

Parsons brothers are well pleased with the progress of their cleaning plant recently established at Quitaque. "Whit" Whitlock is in charge and with the good equipment in his charge, no one expects anything else but good service and more business.

J. A. Rodgers, father of Pink Rodgers, returned to his home in Whitesboro, Texas Saturday after a visit of four months.

Mr. W. P. Davis who looks after the typesetting machines for the Intertype Corporation was here Monday looking over our Intertype to see that it was working perfectly. We appreciate the courtesy and diligence on the part of the company very much, and also the skill of Mr. Davis.

CLUB NOTES

The Chamberlain home demonstration club met with Miss Dinger March 7th with fourteen members present. One new member was added. The "care of Milk and Butter" was the subject for consideration. Interesting talks on this subject were made by Mrs. H. R. Skimmer and our Home Demonstrator, Miss Harvey Thompson. Judging a good milk cow was also discussed.

A visit to the Knight dairy afforded the members much useful information. The milking machine, method of cooling and bottling milk for the market was especially appreciated. The members wish to thank Mr. Knight very much for his courtesy and the thorough manner in which he explained the details of his dairy business.

PATHFINDER CLUB

The Pathfinder Club met in their club room Friday evening, March 8th. Disraeli was the subject for study. Program, Disraeli—A picture of the Victorian age by Maurois. Mrs. C. A. Burton as leader discussed 1st, Disraeli—a valuable detiction of the Victorian age. 2nd, showed how women and men influenced the life of Disraeli.

Miss Abbott discussed the source material of Disraeli showing the method of Maurois as an exponent of the new school of biography. Mrs. Nathan Cox gave Disraeli a valuable detiction of the Victorian age. Mrs. Gray and Mrs. Stocking were hostesses. Dainty refreshments were served.

In a business meeting they revised the constitution and by-laws so that they would more nearly meet present demands. The invited guests were Mrs. Garrison of Dallas and Mrs. McCurry.

Homer Mulkey and Lee Casey had business in Plainview Saturday.

W. L. Crane and W. D. Bain have purchased the service station in the Toombs building opposite the Antró and recently operated by the firm of Johnson—Mahaffey. They are equipped to put out real service and expect to build up a good business on the way they please the public.

J. Fred Smith is in Oklahoma City on business in connection with his varied interests in the cotton line.

After being confined to her room for several days with flu, Mrs. E. R. Sloan is again able to be out.

Bob Sawyer, manager of the Lingo lumber company of Dallas, spent several days here the front end of the week visiting with his brother Forest and looking after business.

Mrs. Frazier, who was formerly Miss Ruth McDowell, of Groom, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. McDowell the past week.

Floyd Little made a business trip to Wellington Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Milus Little were over from Wellington the first of the week and report business on the upgo in their home town.

The Plains Historical Society with headquarters at Canyon, will begin excavating in search of prehistoric animal remains on the Don Grady ranch south of town in the near future. Donley county has some of the richest deposits for this subject to be found anywhere.

Mr. L. L. Taylor was in Amarillo visitor Monday.

The Clarendon College girls basketball team bowed before a select group of Claude all-stars to the tune of 30 to 34, here in the South Ward Gym, Thursday nite. Both teams were evenly matched and the game proved to be an interesting one. Neither team had the pleasure of keeping the lead from the start to the end, but rather exchanged positions several times before Claude finally took the lead to keep it until the game ended. Noble and Duckett were stars for Clarendon, and Moore stared for Claude.

Col. R. S. Kimberlin of Santa Anna, California arrived Monday night on his usual business visit. The Colonel has valuable farming interests in the Brice valley, was long a resident of this section, and has a host of friends who eagerly await his coming.

The many friends of Miss Mae Bennett will be especially pleased to learn that she is showing a decided health improvement the past few days.

Mrs. E. C. Barnes is visiting her daughter at Quitaque. Mrs. Clarence Whitlock.

S. W. Lowe has been improving his farm buildings southeast of town the past few weeks. Joe Humphrey, Sr. is doing the carpenter work and is well along with the building of a beautiful five room house that will be a credit to any community when finished. Out houses are also being constructed as well as other improvements to give the place a neat appearance and for the convenience and comfort of the occupants.

BASKETBALL GAMES

A select group of Claude basketball girls met defeat when they encountered the Hedley High Schools girls' basketball team at Hedley last Wednesday night. The Hedley girls piled up a heavy score during the first few minutes of play, from which the Claude girls were unable to surpass. The game ended with Hedley doubling the score of their opponents to the tune of 32 to 16. Despite the heroic efforts of Helen Stephenson and Lorene Moore, Claude star forwards, the Hedley girls kept their opponents in the shade from the beginning until the final whistle blew.

Mrs. Ida B. Greer, who has been visiting friends here the past week, was accompanied to Amarillo Saturday by Mr. and Mrs. John Beverly.

SURPRISE BIRTHDAY PARTY

Miss Grace and Ethel Harvey gave a party Friday night as a surprise birthday party for their friend, Miss Mona Churchman, and her little niece, Miss Peggie Rampey. Interesting games of "42" held the attention of those present until time came for cutting the birthday cakes, which contained the usual thimble, button, etc. and other oddities. This process produced no end of merriment much to the gratification of the honorees.

Those present were: Misses Aileen Parks, Dixie May, Carrie Davis, Mona Churchman, and Messrs. Howard Stewart, Glenn Churchman, Earnest Hunt, R. M. Chunn, Roy Clappitt, Lee Holland Noel Knox and Joe Rhodes, Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Rampey and daughter, Miss Peggie Jean.

Your Feet are Your Best Friends

Day in, day out they are at the beck of your call. They carry you wherever you want to go, performing their duty of locomoting you around gladly, joyously.

YET

do you treat them as your best friend? Very often they are painfully neglected. Ill fitting shoes leave their indelible imprint on them to the last of their days, such as large joints, ingrowing toe nails, weak arches, corns and callouses, which only a perfectly fitted shoe will correct.

30 YEARS

of fitting of shoes on most every conceivable shape of foot, has given us the knowledge and experience to fit your feet correctly and properly.

Put your feet into our care, let us fit them with the kind of shoes your feet would like to have. They will appreciate this consideration on your part—they will perform their duty with greater pleasure and put smiles on your face.

Let us help you to put the smiles there.

Farmers Start Terracing In Donley County

With the advent of the 1929 farm season, many of our best farmers started the program with the idea of saving their land by terracing where needed with an additional touch of manure, cotton burrs and gin moats.

W. L. Butler, owner of some of the very best farm land just south of Lella, has had a force of men, teams and tools on the job for over three weeks. He is terracing and manuring quite an area. With this treatment on land that is already classed as extra good, Mr. Butler expects to increase the yield fifty per cent. E. L. Lewis, prominent grain buyer and modern method farmer of the same community is doing the same thing. Mr. Lewis has made some big yields on his land by following a more scientific method. In fact it is not known that any one has beaten him on production. Mr. Lewis is a grain buyer as well as dealing in other farm products and knows what it takes to make land produce. J. L. Butler, Zeke Kennedy and G. Leathers also have taken up the terracing idea and have dandy good farms in Donley county's most favored section.

Hedley farmers are not overlooking anything that will add to production, they having decided on a program of more intensive farming for this season. W. E. Ayres terraced some of his land three years ago. He is of the opinion that his land has increased in value right along and the production has met with entire satisfaction. J. C. McDougald terraced some of his land last season and is so well pleased that he is improving on the method for this season. W. E. Reaved and Ray Jewell are getting their land in shape to begin putting up terraces. Chas Bennett has put in a lot of time terracing his farm the past winter and is well pleased with the outlook. R. E. Mann, who makes a special study of farming by actual practice and grows the stuff at the same time, is of the opinion that if a farmer will run his rows the first year with a 10 percent fall, resurvey the second year and put up beds twenty to twenty-five feet wide and plant seven rows on top of the ridge, he will find it will out produce any part of the field. Mr. Mann is a strong advocate of terracing and also suggests manure, burrs and gin waste be applied to the land each season. He also states that if something is not done right away this year, Donley county farmers will lose thousands of dollars in land depreciation. Mr. Mann and other good farmers are getting better seed this season. Taking it all round, the farming situation in this county at the present time, is in fine shape. Plenty of moisture to start tilling the soil and more farmers with more improved machinery with which to do the work with less effort.

Childress Meeting Well Attended

The older boys conference, which met at Childress Monday, 8th and continued until the 10th was a most helpful meeting.

The conference is under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. The conference was for all of the part of the state from Gainesville to Dalhart. There were about 700 boys in attendance at the conference. Friday morning we spent in registering and assigning the boys to homes in Childress. Childress played the part of a host in a very pleasing way, and each boy was provided for with bed and breakfast. The conference proper began Friday at 2 p. m. there were two sessions each day, one in the morning and another at night. All the boys come together for a general meeting which was presided over by some special adult leader. These group conferences proved to be by far the most important part of the conference in value to the boys. The six boys from Clarendon, Fred Bourland, Fred Cagle, Noth Hilton, Billie Word, James Smith and Carroll Holtzclaw behaved themselves in a way that was a credit to Clarendon. All had a most enjoyable trip. The party returned to Clarendon Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Gilbert and family and Master Johnny Russell Beville were visitors in the Cobb home at Claude the last of the week.

Ten Commandments For the Motorist

From the Nation's Driveways:

1. Drive to the right side of the road; it's just as good as the left.
2. Slow down when approaching a cross road; it is nearly as dangerous as a railroad crossing.
3. Look out for children. You never can tell what they will do and you are always in the wrong if you hit one.
4. Try to help instead of hinder the traffic officer; he is there for your good and he's got a tough job.
5. Be sure your "dimmers" really dim; it's no joke driving into a blinding glare, as you probably know.
6. Read and obey the warning signs; they are not put up as ornaments.
7. If you feel you've got to speed, do it where it won't kill anybody out yourself.
8. When making minor repairs, stop where your car may be seen from both directions; otherwise you may stop longer than anticipated.
9. Speeding around corners is a straight route to the hospital. Don't race past a stopped street car. Some day the jury will call it manslaughter.
10. Use discretion. The fact that you had the right-of-way won't bring anybody back to life, least of all yourself.

Little Boy (from next house): "Please, may I have my arrow?"
 Lady: "Yes, with pleasure. Where did it fall?"
 Little Boy: "I think it's stuck in your cat!"

"You are always late," she said indignantly. "You were late at church the day we were married."
 "Yes," he said bitterly, "but I wasn't late enough."

Scotty: "Ye'll no be chargin' me for askin' a question?"
 Lawyer: "Oh, no, the only expense involved is when I answer it."

A DEAD LOSS

Undertaker (to Pat): "Are you one of the family or one of the mourners?"
 Pat: "Be gad, I guess I'm one of the mourners, because the corpse owes me $5.00."

Actions of Guinea

A guinea will usually build her nest in the edge of a briar patch or under a clump of weeds, and while on the nest will cackle a soft and long cackle similar to the male bird, but not so loud. The male bird often stands near the nest and cackles while the hen is on the nest. When the hen gets a large nestful of eggs, she will get broody and go to sitting on them, if she is not broken up. When she goes to sitting she rises and flies from her nest when she comes off.

Direct Sunlight Best

Direct sunlight promotes health and egg production. Sunlight through ordinary window glass is ineffective. Only direct sunlight or sunlight which passes through special glass or glass substitutes, which will permit the ultra-violet rays to pass through, is beneficial. Direct sunlight or its equivalent aids in maintenance of health, reduces mortality, increases egg production and improves hatchability and quality of eggs, especially egg shell texture.

Feeds for Poultry

For poultry feeding, the right kind of protein is generally obtained from milk, skim milk, buttermilk, whey, fresh meat, meat scraps, fish scraps, tankage, or alfalfa leaf meal feeds. Very little of it is found in the common farm feeds, and for this reason when home-grown grains are used, it is necessary to purchase the high protein feeds in small amounts to supplement the home-grown grains. Milk of any kind is the most popular protein feed for poultry.

Dirty Eggs Spoil

Washed eggs are suitable only for immediate consumption, and will not stand up under storage conditions any length of time. Although the washed egg may get by for a short time, and be quite acceptable on the fresh egg market, its inferiority is immediately evident after a period of storage. It is advisable by cleanliness and sanitation in the poultry plant to avoid the production of dirty eggs. Dirty eggs, when found, should be marketed as such.

Eight-Mile Tunnel Through Cascade Mountains Opened

A new engineering wonder was dedicated by the Great Northern railroad Saturday night by a radio broadcast over a nation-wide network of the National Broadcasting company, on the completion of the eight-mile tunnel through the Cascade mountains, from Scenic to Berne.

The tunnel is the longest in the western hemisphere and the fifth longest in the world. It pierces the Cascades 100 miles east of Seattle for eight miles and will cut the traveling time of trains between Seattle and Spokane. Railroad men marvel at the engineering feats which enabled construction of the long tunnel—straight as a rifle bore—in three years of labor.

Millions of people over the country listened to the splendid program broadcast in honor of the great event. President-elect Hoover, John B. Campbell of the Inter-state commerce commission, and W. W. Aterbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, were among the prominent speakers who talked in connection with the program. Schumann Heink sang twice, and the Olsen orchestra played a number of lively selections.

J. H. Gillespie who lives down toward the Brice valley was in town Thursday, invested in one of the best radios of the Moss firm and went home happy in the thought of keeping up with the world.

Enoch Darnell, Frederick Gordon, Jr., returned home the first of the week from Las Vegas, N. M., where they had been in attendance at Montezuma college, and from which school they received their A. B. degrees. These boys grew up here, were in school boys before going away to the higher school and we are all proud of them.

Mrs. Ida B. Greer, a resident here for nearly seven years, and who moved away some sixteen years ago, spent the week end visiting friends in Clarendon. Mrs. Greer now makes her home in Long Beach as does her children with the exception of her son, J. R., who is now living at Portico, Isle of Trinidad, British West Indies. He is superintending the drilling of oil wells.

Working Principle of Explosive Engine Old

The basic idea of the explosive engine was conceived long before the appearance of steam. In 1680 Huygens described an explosion motor which was to be operated by discharging a quantity of powder to drive the air out of a cylinder and raise the piston. To that point, his engine relied on a force somewhat similar to the working principle of those today, but the useful work was to be done by the piston being forced down by the pressure of the atmosphere against it, thus lifting a weight or doing some other task. There is no record that this engine ever was operated. The steam engine of 1705 functioned on about the same plan, that is, steam was used to lift the weight of the piston, and after this was done, the atmosphere pressure was relied upon for the real work. After Huygens, almost 100 years passed before inventors caught the vision of rotary motion from their engines. His idea simply involved a piston and a cylinder.

Reindeer Swept Away

The Lap tribes in the northernmost part of Norway recently suffered the almost irreparable loss of 50 per cent of their reindeer. As is customary, more than 2,000 head of reindeer had gone to their feeding ground on Mageroe island. The only way of transporting this great herd is to make the reindeer swim across the narrow strait separating the island from the mainland. While the herd was recently being driven back by the same route, more than 1,000 reindeer were caught in the swift current of the strait and were carried out to sea where they drowned.

Paul E. Smithey, manager of the Clarendon bottling works, spent the most of the week attending a convention of his line in Houston, returning via Ft. Worth for the stock show.

Farmers of this section are getting busy now with their plowing, some having waited too late last season and almost failed on a crop. In the Brice valley the last of the week, plows were going in all directions.

Mrs. Leonard Wilson, L. O. Vaughn, and Tom Hilton visited friends in the Brice community the last of the week.

Battlefield Gives up Secrets of the Past

There are certain kinds of armor which we read about but have never seen because up till now no examples were to be found in museums. Recently, however, many specimens have been found in two great pits outside the old city of Visby in the island of Gotland. In 1631 Gotland was invaded by King Valdemar at the head of a powerful Danish army, and a desperate battle was fought before Visby. The valiant defense of the Gotlanders was all in vain, and Valdemar marched into the capital leaving nearly 2,000 friends and foes dead on the field. They were buried hurriedly, with weapons still in the wounds, in two great graves which have not been disturbed for five and a half centuries.

Recently a Swedish archeologist has been excavating the pits, with their treasure of medieval armor and their poor bones marked by axes and arrows. The Swedish and Danish governments will erect a monument where so many men died gallantly because Valdemar wanted to plunder Gotland.

Tom Parker has imported fifteen hundred white leghorn and Rhode Island red chicks. He also has a batch on hatch with the local hatchery. Tom followed the produce business here for a number of years and knows a chicken as well as most any one.

POULTRY

DRIED MILK WILL HELP CURE CHICK

Part of Treatment for Flocks With Coccidiosis.

For chicks affected with coccidiosis, a diet rich in milk is one of the measures advocated for the cure and control of the disease by the poultry husbandry department of the Ohio State university. Not that simply feeding milk is a sure or complete control measure. It must be employed as one of the features of a general treatment of which sanitation and prevention are the outstanding principles.

In combating coccidiosis in a flock the poultry husbandry department recommends four steps, giving epsom salt at the rate of one pound to four gallons of water; confining the chicks to the brooder house or moving the house to clean soil so that there is no reinfestation from the soil; cleaning the brooder thoroughly and disinfecting it every three days and placing the chicks on a diet which is rich in milk.

Quick relief from a diet of liquid milk is not likely because the birds will not consume enough of it. In using dry milk, best results are obtained when the mash is composed of 40 parts of dry milk. No other source of animal protein should be used in the mash.

The following mixture has been found to give satisfactory results when fed as soon as the disease appears and kept before the chicks as long as it is in evidence: dry skim milk 40 pounds; wheat bran, 10 pounds; yellow corn meal, 30 pounds; ground rolled oats or barley, 20 pounds.

Selection of Breeding Stock Helps Turkeys

One of the most important steps towards successful turkey production depends upon the proper selection of the breeding stock. Weak poults, small, scrubby turkeys and unhatchable eggs are often traced to carelessness in the selection of the breeding stock. Turkeys that are used as breeders must possess those physical characteristics, showing strength and vigor. These characteristics are manifested as a general rule by a deep and wide body, the back broad and the breast round and full. The head shows certain physical characteristics of strength, namely: the eyes should be fairly short, broad and deep and of good size, showing a clean, healthy appearance. The legs of the birds should be well apart, showing a strong, sturdy shank and straight toes. Considerable emphasis should be given in the selection of the male bird. This, in itself should improve the stock from year to year. Early hatched toms, as a general rule, are sufficiently mature to make good breeders the first season. One should avoid using the late hatched male birds for breeding purposes.

Sufficient Range for Success With Turkeys

A range of one acre of sod is considered sufficient for 100 turkeys from the age of eight weeks to marketable age. This area should also be divided into four sections and then each section used for only one month. The secret of successful turkey raising rests largely in providing fresh ground and the hopper feeding of all feed. In the selection of range it should be one which has not been frequented by chickens and should not be situated where drainage from the poultry yards may result in infestation. It is, of course, desirable to have all the turkeys of the same age. There is no question but that turkeys can be successfully raised in confinement and that it does not pay to allow turkeys to range for their feed.

Hatch Chicks Early

Much has been said for and against early hatching of chicks. It is a question that every breeder and producer will need to answer according to his own circumstances. In making the decision he should take into consideration not only the immediate convenience, but also the future usefulness of the birds. It is a fact that early hatched chicks are more profitable winter layers, the same as fall freshening dairy cows are the most profitable milkers.

Skim Milk for Hens

On many farms skim milk is used with stock that will not pay as great a return for its use as when fed to poultry. Most records indicate that it is worth more when fed to poultry than any other class of live stock. In fact more poultry men are feeding different types of condensed milk than all other classes of live stock. This indicates that poultry responds particularly well to milk feeding. The minerals in milk are also beneficial to the fowls.

Green Feed Source

The great increase in the sale of head lettuce in many cities gives some poultrymen a fine source of succulent green feed for their hens. The heads of lettuce often require quite a little trimming before they are placed on the counters. Sometimes bushels of the leaves can be obtained for the hens, and the growers are glad to get them out of the way. It often pays a poultryman to go to a feeding establishment who have such produce for sale.

School Notes

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

It certainly is amazing how the students of Clarendon high school take interest in things, they all believe in a very spirited school yet they are always so willing to back every thing that takes place. This is to let those students who do not know that it takes the backing of the entire student body to do any thing successfully. There is a group of students in the Senior class that are trying to publish an annual, which of course, is news to the most of you. There has been several groups of students in both the high school and college that have banded together and formed basket-ball teams to represent the colors of the school and you thought so much of the institution of which you are a member that you didn't even as much as come out and root for them. Students! lets wake up and make the remainder of the school year a success.

Elly Dillard.

C. H. S. ANNUAL

The annual staff has been hard at work the last few days trying to get the school annual out on time. A very artistic designed cover has been selected and a large quantity of the engraving has been sent to the engraver. Just sit tight and there will be a very highly prized annual in your possession about the tenth of April. Be sure to get your order for a book in within the next ten days. Yes! Your picture will be in it.

Clarendon Hatchery Business Expanding

The Clarendon hatchery, owned and operated by Frank White, Jr. is rapidly taking its place among the leading industries of its kind in the state. At present the machine is loaded almost to capacity, that of fifty-two thousand eggs. Orders are coming in from nearly every town of the Panhandle. More help has been made necessary due to the expansion of business, and it is Mr. White's first idea to give the best service possible.

Oyster Shells Provide Right Source of Lime

Usually oyster shells provide a good source of lime for poultry. Quite often they are not broken up in sufficiently small parts. But they are cheap and when clean and not scattered in fifth are safe. As a rule, they should be kept in clean self-feeders or places where they will not become contaminated. This will do most good when the birds are fed feeds containing vitamins, because lime is assimilated best in the presence of or when birds have the necessary vitamins to aid in digesting and assimilating it. If bone meal or healthy clean bones are crushed or ground and kept clean and wholesome, the good bone along with the vitamins will furnish lime and phosphate. But there are some things in the processes of digesting and assimilating lime that are not known. Yet we know poultry must have some form of lime in their feed. Lime and phosphate may be obtained from other animal tissues and from vegetables and grains.

Cater to Fancies

Notwithstanding that some of the whims and fancies of the market may seem ridiculous, it is the wise poultryman who caters to them. In making sales, appearance is a factor. A plump, neatly-dressed carcass, free from pin feathers, will attract the eye of the buyer. While quantity of flesh is not necessarily guaranteed by yellow legs and yellow skin, the American market calls for it and should have it. He who quarrels with the demand of the market, or tries to reform it is working in his own light.

Material for Eggs

Feeding affects the texture of the egg shells. It usually is necessary to supply layers with materials from which they may make the shell for the eggs. Crushed oyster shell is kept in hoppers so the birds may eat it as will, as it contains a large percentage of lime. Grit also is kept in hoppers, as it helps in grinding up the feed in the gizzard. Some kinds of grit also contain a certain amount of lime that helps the birds in the manufacture of egg shells.

RAISING POULTS A DIFFICULT JOB

Sanitation Essential to Prevent Dread Blackhead.

That the new methods of raising turkeys are about to revolutionize the industry is indicated by the success adventurous turkey enthusiasts have experienced in many parts of the country during the last season.

Word has gradually spread around during the last two or three years that the dreaded disease of blackhead could best be controlled by raising the poults under conditions where the sanitation can be carefully controlled. This has given rise to experiments with incubator hatching and artificial brooding and to keeping the growing poults on restricted range, says a writer in the Oklahoma Farmer-Stockman.

As the result of considerable experimenting, the new method has gradually taken the form of a rather definite program. Hatch the eggs in incubators; brood under artificial hovers; range on fresh, clean ground, and feed an all-mash, starting and growing feed. This is a summary of the modern method now being tried with considerable success in many different places.

The writer has had the pleasure of being enabled to visit three turkey raisers in three different states who have been remarkably successful in raising turkeys by the method outlined above. These places were located in three different states—Michigan, Kentucky and Kansas, yet the methods followed were surprisingly similar and the results were uniformly satisfactory. The Michigan man has been using the same methods for two or three years and is specializing in turkey farming. He has a fine flock of more than 1,000 birds, and claims that his losses have been very low.

The Kentucky grower lives in the famous blue grass region not far from Lexington, and is a general farmer. He raises tobacco and other field crops, and in addition to the turkeys has a flock of more than 500 White Leghorn hens. It is worthy of note, however, that the turkeys and chickens are kept entirely separate.

There was nothing at all elaborate about his equipment, as he used cheap portable brooder houses with small coal-burning brooders, and had home-made troughs for feed. He has about 250 turkeys left out of about 340 hatched. He claims that the losses were heavier than normal because the poults were chilled when he had some trouble with his brooder stoves.

The Kansas flock was found at the Kansas experiment station at Manhattan. This was an experimental flock, and the birds, had been kept in close confinement without outdoor range, until they were sixteen weeks old. At that age they were transferred to a two or three-acre alfalfa field, and at the time of my visit, after four weeks on range, they were as fine and sturdy birds as could be wished for.

During their period of confinement, these poults were fed plenty of lawn clippings for green feed, but otherwise they had the same rations as growing chicks. This

GREEN FEED FOR GOSLINGS HELPS

Tender Grass Should Fill Principal Part of Ration.

An important item in the care of young goslings is to keep them warm and quiet for the first few days and an equally important item in their feeding is to start them out on green feed, preferably tender grass.

For about two days after hatching goslings show little inclination to do anything but keep warm and quiet. They may come from under the hen and nibble at whatever they may see that is edible. They are most partial to grass and tender plants, but will take a little mash if it is offered and will dabble their bills in the water.

After that the gosling begins to take more interest in affairs and will feed industriously for short periods, always preferring short, tender grass and weeds for its diet, with mash and other substantial feed that may be offered in small amounts. A common mistake is to feed green food as an accessory to grain feed when it should form the principal part of the ration with mash and grain as an accessory to the green stuff.

Goslings may be brooded with hens or in small colony brooders or with geese. In the latter case they will get along very well if left to the birds, the keeper supplying a soft feed of grain once or twice a day as the appetites of the goslings may dictate. This is true only when the range is ample and furnishes good grazing. The geese which are mated with one gander will usually raise their broods in one group, the gander being watchful over his whole family.

When the goslings are brooded by hens or brooders they require close attention while small. They should be confined for the first few days in pens which will keep them near the hen or brooder. These pens can be made of narrow wire netting or boards and placed on sod. When the goslings clean off the grass they should be moved.

Egg-Eating Habit Among Hens Hard to Control

The egg eating habit is usually caused by the hens getting hold of a soft-shelled egg that happens to be dropped on the ground somewhere in plain sight. They get to rolling it about, finally breaking it, and the trouble has started. The next thing is to get it stopped. Sometimes it may be stopped by making a slight break in the side of an egg, removing a part of the white and then inserting a good dose of cayenne pepper, closing the hole with adhesive tape or court-plaster. Drop this out among the guilty ones and see what they do with it and how it affects them. Another way is to heat an egg to the boiling point, crack slightly and place out for them.

In case neither of these work, a plan that will be effective is to put a false bottom of burlap in your nest box just a few inches from the real bottom, tacking it around the sides, then cut a cross in the center of the burlap large enough for the eggs to drop through. They will go down out of sight and trouble. It may be that at the start of this dirty work you may be able to locate one leader, and taking her out to herself the trouble in the flock will be ended.

POULTRY FACTS

Keep hens ridged of worms.

The air in a chicken house should be continually moving at a fairly slow rate.

Keep clean water before the laying hens. About 65 per cent of the egg is water.

The breeding turkey should receive a good laying mash along with scratch grain.

The first three weeks of the life of a chick is recognized as one of essential importance.

Baby chicks will digest a crop full of mash in from two to two and a half hours and are then ready for another feed.

Ordinarily the mashes and scratch grain rations recommended for chickens will be found very satisfactory for turkeys.

The first symptoms of colds among a flock are sneezing and loss of appetite and activity by those infected.

Liver troubles in hens are difficult to treat, as they are seldom discovered until the bird becomes sick and dies suddenly.

Hens don't need and can't eat such feeds as corn cobs and shucks. Save the corn-and-cob meal for the cows. Give the hens whole corn, or preferably cracked corn. They'll lay more eggs.

Many poultry men are turning to turkeys as a means of diversifying their poultry enterprise and as a source of additional income at what is ordinarily the slack income season in egg production.

It is generally recognized by poultry disease specialists that chickens have remarkable resistance against most diseases, and the class of troubles commonly spoken of as colds and roup is no exception to this statement.

their time keeping the others from passing laws that would mean financial ruin to a large number of citizens. The Small land bill by our own popular state senator, saved the day for a number of land owners. That act will likely put him in the governor's chair next term if he should choose to accept the highest gift at the hands of grateful citizens. We of this particular district are proud of the manner in which our representative has handled the matter. Several worth while laws have been passed despite all the fireworks set off under the capitol dome.

The first is the making of the stealing of poultry a felony, along with that of stealing cattle, sheep and other livestock. This bill was passed in recognition of the importance of the poultry industry. Many chickens today seemingly are worth as much as ordinary yearlings, much more than ordinary goats or sheep.

Another bill which has become a law, is that of providing for the payment of Justices of Peace whose salary some time ago was held unconstitutional, owing to the fact that the method of payment was based upon the convictions, contravening the Federal Constitution. The present law bases the payment of these Officers upon the number of cases actually disposed of, eliminating the provision which would depend upon the convictions obtained.

The other bill is that of the Marriage License Requirement. This bill requires a three day's notice to be filed of intention to marry, applying to people under the age of twenty-five, and in addition requires a medical examination and a clearance certificate of good health on the part of the man.

Still another bill of importance to our Section of the State, is that relating to the placing of trucks operating between points freight lines, under the Railroad Commission as Busses now operate. The purpose of this law is to eliminate so far as possible, the duplications of truck lines and the uselessness of running over the roads of trucks, when a lesser amount could serve the communities as well. There would be, of course a certain necessary expense in the form of taxes attached to Motor Truck Transportation Companies because of this privilege.

and it would be rightly so, for in fact they would be given a virtual monopoly of the business on their respective lines. Certain requirements would have to be passed upon as to the adequacy of the care of the needs of that line and as to the probability of efficiency in transporting goods over the line.

BLACKHEAD CAN BE CONTROLLED

Disease Is Caused by Animal Germ in Young Fowls.

Blackhead of turkeys is one of the most dreaded diseases of this class of poultry, but destructive as it is, the trouble may be controlled.

"We find that blackhead is caused by an animal germ," says Dr. B. F. Kaupp, head of the poultry department of North Carolina state college. "It generally attacks young turkeys from five weeks of age up until they mature. To tell definitely whether a bird has blackhead, one has but to open a dead bird and if blackhead is present, the liver will appear to be spotted. If the liver be cut through, these spots of dead tissue will be found scattered throughout. To prevent future spread of the trouble, the eggs for hatching should be soaked for ten minutes in a 1 to 10,000 solution of bicloride of mercury and hatched in an incubator or by a turkey hen away from chickens. Where blackhead is not on the premises, these precautions are not necessary. A drug called sulphophenol may also be used. Always give the birds all the buttermilk or soured skim milk that they will drink. This tones up the general health conditions."

To learn more of the real nature of this disease, Doctor Kaupp will begin field studies with turkeys in the four mountain counties of Ashe, Madison, Jackson and Avery. These four counties have many turkeys and the owners have suffered losses in the past by reason of the blackhead trouble. Doctor Kaupp states that all the experimental work will be conducted under actual farm conditions and he hopes to find definite and practical control or preventive methods which may be used by all farmers.

Turkey-growing offers good profits, especially to the grower who is prepared to put first-class birds on the market at Thanksgiving and Christmas. There are many successful turkey farmers in various parts of North Carolina and if it is possible to find a practical control for blackhead, the industry should easily become more profitable.

Runner Ducks Classed As Heavy Egg Layers

Runner ducks are classed as laying ducks and are the only breed recognized in that classification. In many instances Runners have produced as many eggs as chickens. If managed properly ducks of this breed may be expected to lay almost as well as hens. These ducks are small in size, the males weighing four to four and one-half pounds and the females three and one-half to four pounds. In spite of the fact that they are heavy layers they mature quite rapidly and make good broilers. They are killed for this purpose when they weigh about two and one-half to three pounds. These ducks are long and narrow bodied. The body is carried very erect. There are three varieties of Runner ducks: Fawn and White Runners, Penciled Runners, and White Runners. In all three varieties the matings are made in the proportion of one drake to each six or eight ducks.

POULTRY HINTS

Start birds on bran and clabber mash if possible; otherwise, use corn bread.

Build open sheds for turkeys to roost under as soon as they begin to want to fly up to roost.

Sunlight is an essential in the poultry house; not only through glass, but more especially, direct sunlight is required.

Don't try a late hatch unless you have separate enclosure for these late turkeys. Two ages of turkeys don't mix any better than two ages of chickens do.

A point to keep in mind in feeding mash to the turkeys is that they need the vitamin D provided by a good high-grade cod-liver oil just as badly as do chickens.

Most turkey raisers will wish to hatch the eggs in an incubator and brood the poulters artificially. By doing this they can keep the turkey hens in production almost continuously.

There's no better feed for young poulters than plenty of sour milk. Feed five times daily at first, but don't overfeed, and be sure to keep grit, charcoal and clean water before them at all times.

Keep young turkeys shut up until one week old. Then turn out for a few hours each day during the warm part of the day until they are two weeks old.

Each turkey egg is worth a great deal more than a single chicken egg, and because of this fact the loss is greater when the eggs do not hatch or when they hatch into weak turkeys.

Usually it is necessary to use one gander to every three or four geese. A young gander will do provided he is fully matured. Geese may be turned out in any moderately cold weather.

The sex of broods and Bourbons has not yet been determined. The sex of the broods is determined by the color of the feathers. The Bourbons are determined by the color of the feet. The sex of the broods is determined by the color of the feet. The Bourbons are determined by the color of the feet.

Governor Moody Vetoes Small Land Bill

When the noted Small land bill came before the governor for consideration, he promptly vetoed the measure on the pretext that it was a detriment to the best financial interests of the public schools of the state. A few days later, he vetoed all but $300,000.00 of an educational budget of $1,447,607.17.

In order to give our readers some idea of the sentiment in Austin regarding the Governor's actions, we are reprinting an editorial that appeared in the March 3rd issue of the Austin, Texas News.

"Posing as saviors of the state and great benefactors of the public free schools of the state, Governor Dan Moody and Attorney General Claude Pollard have between themselves vetoed Senate Bill 150, the bill that provided for the validation of land titles along creek beds and across navigable streams. The governor affixed his signature to the official veto message, but the attorney general provided the grounds upon which the measure was disapproved."

The governor and the attorney general have taken upon themselves the roles that they think necessary for them to save the state's resources from an unthinking and designing legislature. But they are basing their claims to such titles on a rather flimsy structure, for both legislature houses passed the bill in good faith, fully appreciating the effect of what they were doing. The governor could not deny that justice, equity and sound public policy compelled the passage of such a measure. Faced with this dilemma the governor began to look around for some technical objection. He called the attorney general to his aid, and by a far-stretched construction of the state constitution they found a ground upon which they could disapprove the bill and at the same time pose as defenders of the constitution, saviors of the state resources, and the beneficent friends of the boys and girls in the public schools.

The Texas legislature is composed of a group of men and women who are close to the people of Texas. The members are friends of persons who, in good faith, purchased land from the state. They have seen their friends and constituents go upon this land and subdue it for cultivation; they have seen them come to the tax collector's office each year and pay the taxes upon it; and they have seen the waste lands of the state become populous communities due to the thrift and hard work of these persons. We predict that they are not now going to stand aside and let the governor of the state and his friend, the attorney general, snatch from their friends that which was earned by the sweat of the brow through long years of labor."

The first signs of spring appeared this week with the arrival of onion slips, mostly of the Bermuda variety which do well here. Watch the Leader ads for the place to buy them.

Don't pay in advance when you buy from an unknown agent, is the sage advice given in an editorial to farmers of that country by Albert Cooper, editor of the Shamrock Texan. A veritable epidemic of quackery seems rife among the farmers of Northern Texas and Oklahoma, and Mr. Cooper asks those in his trade territory to take every precaution when dealing with strangers.

CLEAN AND SPRAY TO CONTROL LICE

Preventive Measures Should Be Taken Before Summer.

Surveys made by the poultry department of the North Carolina State college, show that more than 53 per cent of all poultry flocks in North Carolina are infested with either lice or mites.

"These pests multiply very quickly during the hot months and for that reason control measures should be taken before the summer sets in," says Dr. B. F. Kaupp, head of the department. "The henhouse should be given a thorough cleaning with a 4 per cent coal tar dip. All cracks and crevices should be sprayed and the perches painted with a pure dip or creosote. New scratch litter and nesting material should be put in before the hens are allowed to use the house. If these precautions are not taken, the sitting hens will be killed and the small chicks will weaken and die."

The adult fowl should be dusted with sodium fluoride. This should be continued until the entire body has been covered, and should be repeated in five days if all the lice were not killed.

All brooder houses, henhouses or any place that the chickens roost should be gone over with the 4 per cent solution of coal tar and where possible the hens transferred to another house during the cleaning.

Doctor Kaupp recommends that new houses be built, especially where the old houses have been in use over a long period and are thoroughly infested with the pests. The old houses should be torn down and burned, he says.

More Hopper Space for Feeding Fowls Is Urged

To enable all the hens to obtain plenty of laying mash it pays to allow ten feet of hopper feeding space to each 100 hens. A five-foot trough hopper open on both sides gives good satisfaction. These open hoppers built up on a little platform to keep out the straw litter are proving more popular than wall hoppers, and some poultry men are tearing out their wall hoppers and installing the long open boxes. Then the mash does not clog and is plainly visible to the hens. If the wall hoppers remain they can be used as a reserve supply and mash taken from them and added to the open-hoppers as the supply needs replenishment.

Eliminate Tuberculosis From Chicken Quarters

Fortunately with poultry the disease is not difficult to control. It should be remembered that the disease is confined to very old birds. Birds under a year-old are seldom infected. By maintaining a flock in which the number of old birds has been kept at a low figure the danger of infection is reduced. However, the premises are badly infected the house and yards should be given a rest for two years. The house can be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected, and then be used, but to eliminate tuberculosis from the yards the resting of the yards is necessary. During the resting of the yards their cultivation is desirable.

ADS ARE HONOR PLEDGES

If you get a letter from any merchant who advertises in this paper, signed with his own name, you would believe what he told you in that letter, wouldn't you?

Of course you would. You know our advertisers would not tell you an untruth in a letter.

Well, you receive letters from them every time you get an issue of this paper. For the advertisements they print in this paper are just as personal and are written with the same degree of honesty as if they were letters to you, written in ink.

Whenever a merchant signs his name to an advertisement, he pledges himself to back up every statement in that ad just as he would back up his promise made in a letter.

The only difference between an ad and a letter is that in an ad the merchants use our type and ink for writing you instead of using a pen and ink. It's quicker to address all of our readers at one time. But the fact that we do the printing and mailing does not detract from the personal nature of the message.

"Wheeh you-all bin?"
"Lookin' foah work."

LELIA LAKE

The senior class of the Lelia Lake high school presented a three-act comedy drama entitled "Mary's Castle in the Air", Thursday evening at eight o'clock in the high school auditorium.

Margarette Christal in the role of "Mary" proved to a large and appreciative audience that different situations may be solved, and happiness found if one only has the imagination to build air castles, and to place a foundation under them.

Louise Lewis as "Minnie", the flapper, played a very fine part. Louise Lewis, Hugh Blaylock, and Dollie Watson as comedians proved their ability to act in a manner to keep the audience roaring with laughter.

An excellent part of the program was the music furnished by the Rev. Brooks family of Hedley.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Moore are re-

WE ARE THANKFUL

It is with a deep sense of responsibility that we begin the publication of the Donley County Leader. Our product will be judged largely by the first issue, which is the most difficult. We believe that you will be patient and give us time to get straightened out. So many little things come up to delay and call for extra work.

To the business men who have seen fit to favor us with their advertising, we are deeply grateful. In looking over this issue there is loyalty unsurpassed as evidenced in the advertising columns. The business men know that they make it possible for the readers to have a good paper, and they are glad to help the thing along. We know that our reading public will return the favor by purchasing their wants from these advertisers, too.

To the folks who have passed in news matter while we are working under a handicap in getting started, you can never realize just what that means to us. We will never forget the favor. Old Donley county is filled up with big-hearted folks who are friendly, neighborly and broad-minded to the extent of helping along any worthy cause.

To the mechanics and others who have helped us both night and day without complaint, regardless of the hour, we want you to know that we appreciate your skill and friendship toward our new venture. Without your valuable services, we could have done nothing. From the time the heavy machinery was unloaded on the track to the printing of the first paper, you contributed your unstated assistance and we feel that we are fortunate in having access to shops with first-class equipment and mechanics who know how to use that equipment get just the results expected.

In closing this article, the management wants each of you to know we feel unred obligations to you to the extent of giving you the very best readable, newsy paper possible. May we ever conduct it in such a manner as to merit your best wishes and approval.

The Old Grocery

Just a few years ago the average grocery was unclean, unsanitary. Foods were kept in open barrels and boxes. Flies had access to food that went directly to your table. Ice was almost unknown in the average grocery.

TODAY---

Visit our grocery. Neat and sanitary. With the latest refrigeration fixtures you know, as we do, that your food supplies are kept out of the dust in airtight receptacles. Just as clean as the modern kitchen. The cost to you is less because there is less waste. Again, your orders are given personal attention promptly by one directly responsible for the success of the firm.

Our Meats---

Fresh and cured meats in a big variety. Just what you need for the quick lunch. Electric refrigeration insures even temperature and absolute cleanliness.

WHEN YOU BUY BABY CHICKS

When you buy chicks the price is not the thing that counts with you most. The thing that counts most is

WILL THEY LIVE?

They will if they are given proper incubation. Our seventy-two hour holding service (which is free) is an important factor. Temperature, moisture and ventilation are big factors in the chick industry.

POULTRY

RAISING CHICKS REQUIRES CARE

Success Depends Largely on Attention Given Them.

What success New Jerseymen have with raising chicks will depend largely upon the attention they give to maintaining cleanliness, plenty of room, and proper feeding equipment. In other words, these are the cardinal factors in successful brooding of chicks, says J. C. Taylor, assistant poultry extension specialist, New Jersey state college of agriculture, Rutgers university.

Keep the house clean at all times. After the fourth week, the brooder house should be cleaned every five days. Remove the litter, sweep the floor, and put in clean litter. Chick boxes, feed bags, pails, coal, and other equipment should not be in the brooder house.

Crowding is common to many poultry farms. It is safe to say that 90 per cent of the poultry men crowd their chicks. Allow two chicks to one square foot of floor space until they are four to six weeks old. After this allow one chick for each square foot of floor space. Where chicks are raised in confinement allow one chick to each two square feet of floor space after the brood is six weeks old. Following these rules eliminates crowding and thus gives all chicks a chance to grow.

Adequate feeding equipment is essential. More chicks die of starvation than from a number of other causes. One inch of hopper space is recommended for each small chick. A hopper three feet long feeding from both sides will accommodate 75 chicks. Keep feed in the hoppers. Water fountains of the two-quart size are good for small chicks, followed by the gallon size when the chicks are older. The important point to keep in mind is to have enough fountains so there will always be water for the chicks to drink.

Owed To Skirts.

Old Adam and Eve came back they say To see what the gowns looked like today. But they turned around and went back because They were just as scant as they used to was.

POULTRY NOTES

A great many people seem to forget that a baby chick is a baby.

By hatching early the chick gets a good start and is less susceptible when exposed.

Feed plenty of lettuce, mustard, rape, turnip greens and onion tops shredded fine.

Every farm should include in its equipment a portable brooder house for raising young chicks.

A portable brooder house should not be over 8 by 12 feet if it is to be moved with a team.

Feed clean feed in clean containers. Don't use zinc containers for sour milk nor to feed mash in.

The modern poultry house is well lighted, well ventilated, dry, free from drafts, and moderate in cost.

No baby chick should be given food of any kind for at least 48 hours, and it would be better if this time were extended to 72.

The turkeys should not be fed straight alfalfa meal or alfalfa stem meal because it is too bulky to be handled by their digestive systems.

Avoid turning out young turkeys until dew is off the grass and woods. A little care at first will repay you big. Don't change feed too quickly, but gradually work into another feed.

There are a number of gas burners available for brooding chicks. A satisfactory way to use gas is in a coal stove. Several manufacturers provide gas burners for their coal stoves.

Farm brooding is probably best done with the portable, colony brooder house as the first essential piece of equipment. This type of house possesses many desirable features with economy.

THE QUICK AND THE DEAD

The Sunday-school teacher had been telling her class about the benefits of being good. At the end of her discourse she turned to a bright-eyed little miss and asked:

"Where do good little girls go when they die?"

"To Heaven" was the prompt reply.

"And where do bad girls go?"

"To the depot to see the traveling men come in."

PLAYS JOKE ON MOTHER

While his mother was absent from home the past week, Floyd Spitzer painted, papered and otherwise renovated and decorated the family home at the south edge of town. Not content with all that, he purchased a beautiful suite of living room furniture and had the house spic and span when his mother, Mr. Wm. Spitzer returned. One could hardly imagine her surprise to find the otherwise beautiful home fixed up in a new dress. His only reply to questions was, "oh I just wanted to fix up for mother." That's a boy for any mother to be proud of any time.

Mr. Wm. Spitzer, who established a filling station and grocery near the old gin at Brice located on the Silverton highway, reports business as being extra good and prospects for the immediate future even better since the state will soon take over that highway and turn more traffic over a better road—the most scenic in the Panhandle.

The many friends of Mrs. W. H. Burnham will be glad to know that a Ft. Worth surgeon successfully removed the cataract from her eye. She will return later to have the other eye operated upon.

Dr. Scott A. Burnham's car was stolen in front of his home in Ft. Worth Wednesday night. A friend spied the car parked in front of the Baptist church but no driver. The brief case had been emptied in a search possibly for narcotics. Tools were scattered over the car but nothing missing except a suit of underwear. Local friends have agreed to present him with the underwear if he will come after them.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Grounds have purchased a beautiful home in Mineral Wells and have moved to their new home. The change was made necessary for the benefit of Mrs. Grounds' health. Their many friends here will miss them and regret very much that conditions made the change of residence necessary.

Mr. W. T. Hayter made the Leader office a call the last of the week reporting business in his line as satisfactory and future prospects good. Mr. Hayter has one of the leading gent's furnishing stores in Pampa and the people appreciate his method of doing business and high-class, dependable merchandise.

Mrs. J. T. Patman left Wednesday going to Warner, Oklahoma for a visit with her daughter, Mrs. Wm. Price.

After you have read this paper, please hand it to your neighbor. We would do as much for you any time.

Yes, the price of a subscription is only $1.50. That price is within the reach of all the folks and we want everybody to read it.

If you have a suggestion as to just how we can improve of the value of the Leader, please tell us. We want to do our best to give you the kind of paper that you want.

Mrs. Irene Mitchell, co-proprietor of the beauty parlor of the Mitchell Barber & Beauty shop, spent the past several days in Dallas in attendance at the special post graduate classes in beauty culture and permanent wave lessons of the C. Michael method of beauty culture. Mrs. Mitchell already skilled in her special line of work, is now sure that she can give every satisfaction in her efforts to please her many customers.

Ren Henson, prominent realtor of Amarillo, was here Thursday to look after business north of the river.

A large delegation passed thru here Thursday Pampa bound. They had been looking after the legislature at Austin regarding the recent land measure. All of them seemed happy that the rights of the citizen were once more intact.

W. M. Headrick, state agent for the Home insurance company of Little Rock, and who lives in Dallas, visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Headrick and other relatives in Clarendon the past several days.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Youngblood made a business trip to Memphis Wednesday.

W. A. Davis and son Bill took in the fat stock show at Amarillo.

Mr. W. H. Corder has returned from an Amarillo hospital and is receiving the congratulations of friends over his improvement. Mr. Corder had been ill for several weeks.

D. B. Pope, Sr. of Quanah and son, Lee Pope of Memphis, visited with the force of the Hanna, Pope mercantile company here the week end.

Wilson Blakney, one of the leading business men of Alameda, had business here Wednesday.

Mrs. W. E. Clement and daughter, Miss Lois of McLean, visited in the W. O. Hommel home the past week.

C. T. McClenny is driving one of the late model '60' Durant sedans these days purchased from Hommel Bros.

Mrs. A. H. Baker, who has been confined to her home for some time, is again able to be out thus adding to the pleasure of her many friends. She has been especially missed in the Economic club work, since she is an untiring worker in that organization.

Tom Connally is driving one of the very latest model sport coupe Dodges. The sale was made thru the Ballew & Noble agency.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Lindsey made a business trip to Memphis the last of the week.

West Texas Has Woman Sheriff

Within less than four hours after his death, the county commissioners of Dawson county selected Mrs. Joe L. Ray to succeed her husband as sheriff of that county. Mrs. Ray has been the recipient of many messages of congratulation from various women's organizations over the state the past week.

Mr. Ray was very popular with his people and peace officers in general filling the office of secretary-treasurer of the West Texas Sheriff's Association at the time of his death this week.
