Eldorado—"By using four feed sacks which were given to me and a card of bias tape for which I paid two cents, I made a two-piece dress for myself." says Mrs. F. M. Bradley, wardrobe demonstrator for the Eldorado Home Demonstration Club in Schleicher county. Mrs. Bradley made the dress by her foundation pattern. The dress was trimmed by adding a tie of brown material already on hand and a brown buckle which was taken off of an old dress. "This dress cost me about five cents, including the cost of the thread with which it was sewed," Mrs. Bradley said.

Richmond—"From the sale of eggs laid by her 12 hens, Clara Logemann, 12 year old president of the Lamar 4-H Club in Fort Bend county, paid all of her expenses for club work and has come out with a total profit of $23.60 for the year, according to Miss Loris J. Wehausen, home demonstration agent. Twenty-five cents of her money went for seed to plant her garden. An incomplete report on this demonstration shows that she has used fresh 73 pounds and canned 31 quarts of vegetables and 7 gallons of berries valued at $16.35. In addition she has made five dresses, two slips and two cup towels. These are valued at $10.15 but cost only $3.05. Clara modelled two clothes closets, but she spent no money on that work. Clara still has the 12 hens, and has 10 fryers in addition.

Palo Pinto—Seven pounds of new cotton plus one worn out mattress equals one good mattress for a child's bed in the home of Mrs. A. C. Newberry of the Village Band Home Demonstration Club in Palo Pinto county, according to Miss Pauline Lokay, home demonstration agent. Mrs. Newberry took the old mattress which was filled with shoddy, short cotton, added seven pounds of new long staple cotton after the old was well aired, beaten and fluffed, and then washed the tick and repaded it. There was no cost to the renovation.

Kountze—Tomato growers in the Votaw community in Hardin county realized more than $30,000 from the 1935 crop which amounted to 44 cars, according to W. P. Barrett, county agricultural agent. Due to the late freeze, growers were forced to market this season in direct competition with the Valley and north Florida crops. The shipment this year was the largest number of cars ever shipped in one season. The next largest season was the 1934 crop which amounted to 34 cars. Although only 10 more cars were shipped in 1935, the 1935 crop returned to the growers three times as much actual cash, Barrett said.

Dallas—An average production of 25 eggs per hen per month has been reached for the second time this year by the flock of C. A. Luper of Dallas county, according to Dale Merwin, county agricultural agent. For the month of May, Luper's flock of 71 white leghorn pullets averaged 25.5 eggs each, while in March they averaged 25 eggs each. The flock is entirely composed of last year's pullets. The hens consumed an average of 4.7 pounds

THIS CURIOUS WORLD By William Ferguson

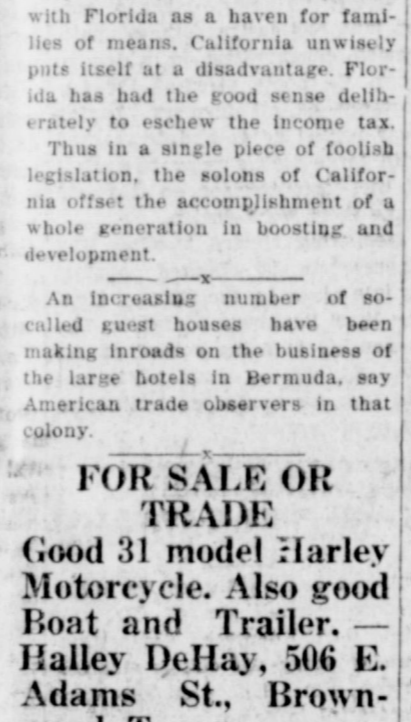

CALIFORNIA'S ERROR

(San Antonio Light) The genius of the people of California for putting their best foot forward has long been a tradition. In the past, they lost no opportunity for boosting. This constructive policy through the years acted as a magnet, drawing tourists and permanent residents from the far and wide. The hospitable attitude toward strangers lured retired folk of substance to California to spend the evening of their careers. But of late, the state of California has begun to reverse the policies which in the past proved eminently successful. Coveting the troubles and burdens of other places, California is turning to obstacles which will tend to repel substantial citizens, who had always previously been attracted to the state. Deluded by the fashion of the times, California has adopted an extraordinary onerous state income tax mechanism for "soaking the thrifty." Beginning with income received during the current calendar year, California will take as high as 15 per cent of the income of residents. This of course is in addition to the exactions of the federal government and the countless local taxing agencies. Thus stupid politicians have sought to counteract the natural advantages of the state. Specifically, in the competition with Florida as a haven for families of means, California unwisely puts itself at a disadvantage. Florida has had the good sense deliberately to eschew the income tax. Thus in a single piece of foolish legislation, the solons of California offset the accomplishment of a whole generation in boosting and development. An increasing number of so-called guest houses have been making inroads on the business of the large hotels in Bermuda, say American trade observers in that colony.

THE HIGHWAY JUGGERNAUT (Houston Post)

How long is the heedless destruction of life and property in traffic accidents to go on increasing? How much greater must the volume of sacrifices to the motor Moloch grow before its appetite is appeased? Sixteen Texans lost their lives in automobile crashes over the past week-end and a score more were injured, some critically. What a price to pay for the pleasures and diversions of the Sabbath — the day meant for rest and to be kept holy! And—what is to be done about it, and about preventing repetitions on other week-ends to come? So many deaths at one time from black widow spider bites would create a sensation and a mighty campaign of extermination. From diphtheria or pellagra they would evoke a health crusade. If as many Americans should die and fall seriously ill in a year from typhus as are killed and badly injured in motor crashes, the pestilence would strike public in the hearts of the people. Yet, scant notice is taken of the swelling toll of life in wrecks, although there is fully as much danger of still more deaths from that cause as from a plague. A majority of the State legislature has not only ignored the appalling traffic situation; it has refused to pass a bill designed to remedy it to some degree. Texas can only hope that its lawmakers will soon come around to the view, as those of most of the other progressive States have done, that an adequate system of regulations for motorists is necessary to check the ever increasing rush of human beings under the crushing rollers of the highway juggernaut. Meanwhile, the demand for individual caution and precaution is becoming more and more imperative. Indeed, while an effective drivers' license law can do much good in preventing accidents safety is and will continue to depend largely upon the voluntary care of drivers. Fifteen of the sixteen week-end deaths and all the injuries resulted from collision—most of them head-on. The moral is sharp and vivid—drive carefully when passing; slow down and give the other car its full share of the road, and if it is dark, turn on the dimmers. If every driver would do these things, the great majority of accidents would be averted. And if, in addition, all motorists would exercise care at intersections and in turning into highways from side streets, and refrain from speeding on worn-out tires, and keep their cars properly lighted at night, automobile smashes would be almost negligible. Some one has coined this slogan for motorists: "Better be a few minutes late where you're going, than several years early in eternity." But one who will not observe the ordinary rules of sane driving can hardly be expected to pay any attention to a slogan.

Centennial Advertising

Texas newspapers gave liberally of their time and space during the past few years in an effort to bring Texas people to a consciousness of the importance of holding an adequate Texas Centennial. Possibly the idea would have caught hold, been nurtured to fruition and the Centennial appropriation adopted without this help; possibly not. The work was done in a spirit of patriotism and in an effort to assist in establishing in the minds of Texans themselves the worthiness of the cause. Evidently the Centennial Commission of Control feels that the press of Texas can be counted on to continue the work of getting Texans to visit the celebration, without any need of using the advertising columns of Texas newspapers in furthering the celebration. Walter Woodul, lieutenant governor, who is head of the commission of control, has appointed a committee of advertising experts as an advertising advisory committee, to have direction of expenditure of the $500,000 state advertising fund for the Centennial. Considerable criticism has come from Texas newspapers since the committee has been named, and it has been found to be composed of a railroad executive, a department store manager and a "lobbyist for the sulphur company." The Dallas News comes to the defense of the appointees with the statement that "the presence of active journalists on the committee would have tended to sway the group toward the impracticable policy of frittering away the advertising appropriation" by buying advertising space with the money. The News recommends that all advertising money be spent for high-powered press agents to send out accurate and attractive news of the Centennial, to be published free by the newspapers. The Central Exposition management at Dallas has indicated its faith in this policy, Julian Capers, columnist, points out, "by hiring a crew of press agents, headed by an expert from San Diego, to send out Centennial 'nawes'."

While it is possible that this policy might result in the greatest amount of publicity outside the state, it is not making the Centennial any too popular with Texas newspapers. Texas publishers were led to believe, over a period of many months, that a part of the Centennial advertising appropriation would be "earmarked" for Texas newspapers. It was considered, so Texas newspapermen were told a year ago, as important to sell Texans on the idea of attending the Centennial as it was to get outsiders to attend, and for this purpose the local newspapers would be used. Evidently there has been a change of heart—possibly because Texas newspapers have been so enthusiastic about the Centennial that it is felt they can be counted on to continue the good work throughout the Centennial year.

Elsewhere in this issue of The Banner is printed a summary of the seven proposed amendments to the Texas Constitution. The seven proposals will be before the voters at a special election Saturday, August 24. Complete text of the amendments was published in The Banner some time ago, but were phrased in such technical language that very likely few people read all of the issues.

The Seven Amendments

Gerald C. Mann, secretary of state, has prepared a short summary of the proposed amendments. In the summary, he has given the important fact to be voted on, and, short of the necessary but uninteresting legal phraseology, they are quickly read and easily understood. Mr. Mann points out that in no wise is he endeavoring to direct how anyone should vote on any of the issues. Rather, he is merely interpreting them, and in some instances telling what would be the effect of their adoption. This is an unusual service being rendered by the Secretary of State, and one that should be appreciated by all the voters. Everyone should read the summaries before forming an opinion on the issues.

All Should Pay

In a recent newspaper article, Walter Lippman, the distinguished publicist, pointed out that any sound national taxing system must see to it that every citizen, no matter how large or small his income, pays something in direct taxes. Under present conditions, only a minority of citizens pay any direct taxes whatsoever. And that has given rise to the highly erroneous belief that the majority of citizens are free from taxation—that the services of government come to them for nothing, being paid for by the tax-paying minority. That attitude has been responsible for the amazing indifference of the average citizen toward wasteful, extravagant and over-extended government. He feels that governmental spending means nothing to him, so far as paying his share of the bill is concerned; that deficits are the worry of others, and that increasing appropriations cannot damage his pocketbook — and may benefit it.

As a matter of fact, the majority of citizens, who pay no direct taxes, pay the great bulk of government costs — indirectly. They pay them in higher costs for commodities of all kinds — shoes, electricity, amusement, transportation, everything they use. They pay more rent, more for insurance, more for medical and hospital care — because the taxes levied against businesses and corporations must be passed on to the consumer. It is folly to talk of industry "absorbing" taxes — the user of a product or a service always foots the bill in the long run. If, as Mr. Lippman suggests, every income were subjected to some direct taxation — even if it amounted to only a dollar a year, every citizen would get an inkling of the real meaning of government spending. And when his small tax doubled or tripled he would know what it meant. He would realize his responsibility and his personal interest in every public appropriation that is made. And that would mark the beginning of an aggressive, nationally-backed movement to force government to be efficient, conservative, economical.

Bette Davis, In Thrilling Drama Coming to Lyric

"Front Page Woman," one of the most realistic and exciting of any newspaper screen drama with Bette Davis and George Brent in the stellar roles, will be the feature attraction at the Lyric Sunday and Monday.

It is entirely different from any other newspaper play, dealing with the bitter rivalry of two star reporters, a man and a woman on opposition papers, who are really in love with each other, but do their best to "scoop" each other. The story starts in the press room of a state penitentiary, where the girl reporter faints before she is able to file her story. To save her he files his own story to her office with a note to have it rewritten. But the note is overlooked and the same story appears in the rival newspapers.

Both are in the "dog house" and the girl is furious, believing her rival had double crossed her. He asks her to marry him, but she refuses and determines to show him that she really is a good "newspaperman."

The two are assigned to a murder and alternate in scoring "beats" on each other until the final climax.

Man on Trapeze Didn't Wed With Ease

The amorous young man on the flying trapeze found getting married a more difficult task than floating through the air. Because his Louisiana divorce is not recognized in New York, Al de Moro Gatoras (above) was refused a license to marry Miss Albertina Loyal, also a circus performer. They went to New Jersey, where more lenient marriage laws permitted the ceremony.

By Their Lips You Tell 'Em

The soup-straining mustache is one, and in its place comes a variety of upper lip adornments that are there more to characterize and lend a certain individuality to their wearers. Take the mustaches above, for instance. There's Jack Oakie's "lady knocker-outer" at top, then Gary Cooper's badge of dignity in center, and Warner Oland's ominous overhang at bottom. Apt appendages, don't you think?

PYROIL Increases POWER

Think of the power of plunging pistons... sufficient to move tons of rock up steep mountain grades. Yet the efficiency of pistons depends on the adequacy of the combustion chamber. Carbon-rick valves, leaking rings, weaken the piston stroke and make motors lag and balk.

PYROIL increases power in motors because it seals rings and keeps valves carbon-free. Simply added to regular gas and oil. Supplies constant lubrication to the entire motor head where withering heat kills ordinary lubricants. Actually builds lubrication into the metal.

PYROIL deposits a patent-processed, heat- and dilution-proof element on all metal parts, building and constantly maintaining an actual self-lubricating surface. Bearings run free, cooler. Power, endurance, are marvelously improved. Easily saves many times its small cost.

Summary of Proposed Amendments

Proposition No. 2 on the August 24th special election ballot has to do with the temporary commitment of insane persons, preliminary to a trial by jury.

Under the present Constitution whereby everyone is guaranteed a jury trial, it is impossible to commit a mentally ill person to an institution for treatment or observation without the necessity of a jury trial. It has been pointed out that this is often very inconvenient and embarrassing.

The proposal, according to Secretary of State Gerald C. Mann, passed, would authorize the Legislature to pass such laws as would permit mentally ill persons to be confined by County courts in institutions, presumably, or under the care of physicians or experts for a period of ninety days prior to a jury trial. It is presumed that the ninety day period of confinement would be for the purpose of observing such persons.

The provisions would apply only to persons not charged with a criminal offense.

The Amendment specifically sets out that the right of trial by jury shall remain inviolate, but that in the particular case of insane persons a confinement period of ninety days for observation may be prescribed without the necessity of a jury trial. At the end of that time a jury trial would be had.

Proposed Amendment No. 3
Repeal of Liquor Prohibition

Probably chief interest in the August 24th election on the seven proposed Constitutional Amendments will center on Proposition Number 3 on the ballot—the repeal of Prohibition, according to Secretary of State Gerald C. Mann.

The Constitution, at present, prohibits the sale, manufacture and transportation of alcoholic liquors (except 3.2 beer). This prohibition would be stricken out by adoption of the Repeal Amendment.

No machinery is set up for the sale of liquor. The Legislature would have the authority to determine just who and just how liquor is to be sold. This could be done by State monopoly or through private channels. The Legislature would have the authority to pass laws regulating local option elections.

If the amendment is adopted all counties, cities and precincts that were dry in 1919 when statewide prohibition was adopted would be dry now—at least until local option elections were held to determine otherwise.

It is well to remember, Secretary Mann points out, that there will be an election next year in November to determine whether the State shall sell liquor through a State Monopoly system. If the repeal amendment is adopted in August the State may establish a state control and monopoly system. If the repeal amendment is defeated in August, it will in effect be submitted again in November, 1936, in the State Monopoly Amendment, which says the State shall have a liquor monopoly. To retain the present dry status, both the August 24th Amendment and the November, 1936, Amendments must be defeated. Passage of either will repeal the present prohibition section of the Constitution.

Proposed Amendment No. 4
Submission of Amendments at Special Sessions of Legislature

At present the Legislature can submit proposed changes in the Constitution only at regular sessions—held every two years.

Proposal Number Four on the ballot for the August 24th election would revise the Constitution to permit the submission of amendments at special sessions. It is pointed out that in emergency cases, particularly on relief matters, for Texas voters to vote on an emergency measure at a time when the regular session of the Legislature is quite far distant in the future.

The original purpose of the provision which makes submission possible only at regular sessions was to make the fundamental law hard to amend and change. Two schools of thought are at variance here. The one believing that the Constitution should be easy to change—particularly in emergency cases, and the other that every safeguard should be placed around it to make it difficult to change.

If the proposed amendment is adopted the legislature in any special session can submit proposed amendments to the voters—provided such amendments are submitted by the Governor for the Legislature's consideration. If the amendment is rejected the present system will obtain; that is, constitutional amendments can be submitted to the people only at the regular session of the legislature.

The 44th Legislature submitted thirteen amendments to the voters—seven in August of this year, and six in November of 1936. These were all submitted during the regular session. Under the proposed change the 44th might yet submit additional amendments for the voters' consideration.

Proposed Amendment Number 5
Suspended Sentence or Probation Amendment

Proposition Number 5 on the ballot of the August 24th special election reads: "For (and Against) the Amendment to the State Constitution authorizing the Courts to place defendants on probation."

Proponents claim that if this amendment is passed, many who are now sent to the penitentiary for first offenses will be permitted to enjoy suspended sentences under restrictions of the court.

The only restriction under the present suspended sentence law is the fact that the defendant must not be convicted of a felony—that is, a crime punishable by confinement in the penitentiary. The judge or court has no control nor can it set up or impose any other restrictions.

It is the understanding of those who have studied the amendment that if it passed it would permit the Legislature to pass laws giving the courts the right to suspend sentences and place defendants on such probation as the court might deem proper. In other words the court could suspend sentences subject to certain limitations. If those restrictions or limitations were not observed the court would have the authority to have the defendant committed to the penitentiary without further ado. Many courts now refuse to grant suspended sentences for the reason that they have no control over the defendant after the same is granted. It is pointed out that this would prevent many first offenders from having to go to the penitentiary and reclaim many of them for society.

If a suspended sentence is given under the present law the only limitation is that the defendant must not be convicted of a felony. The court has no control over him nor can it impose other conditions.

Proposed Amendment Number 6
Abolishing Fee System for Paying Officials

Two years ago a Senate investigating committee discovered a number of flagrant abuses of the fee system as practised in Texas for recompensing certain public officials. The fee system was established and written into the Texas Constitution at a time when it was impossible to pay salaries and the theory was that an official was entitled to "all he could make." Since the senate committee discovered and revealed the malpractices existing under the system there has been a demand for a Constitutional change on this score according to Secretary of State Gerald C. Mann.

Proposed Amendment No. 6 on the ballot provides that the fee system as a method of paying certain precinct, county and district officials shall be abolished in counties having 20,000 or more population according to the last Federal census. The Legislature will, if the amendment is adopted, set the salaries for officials now receiving fees in such counties. In counties of under 20,000 population the Commissioners' Courts may put their county and precinct officials on salary basis if they so desire. The amendment does not specifically state who shall set the salaries of such officials in this case.

If this amendment is adopted all district officers must be compensated on a salary basis.

The amendment provides that fees shall continue to be collected as at present but they will go to the county instead of the officer. The evident purpose of this amendment is to place as many public officials on straight salaries as is possible and thus abolish, in so far as is possible, the payment of officials through the present fee system.

Proposed Amendment No. 7
Free Text Books for Private and Parochial Schools

The Texas Constitution at the present time provides that the State is without authority to furnish free text books to other than public schools. Proposed Amendment number seven on the ballot for the August 24th election would permit the State to supply free textbooks to all schools, private and parochial. Such textbooks, it is presumed, to be the same as used in the public schools.
