TEXAS, A MANUFACTURING STATE

As a sequel to the story we printed in a recent issue of this magazine, showing progress of Texas manufacturing during the last five years, we are able herewith to give specific figures on some of the leading cities and towns of Texas, the same having been announced recently by the Bureau of Census.

According to these figures, the City of Dallas leads in value of products manufactured with a total of $93,650,000 in 1919, as compared with $31,065,000 in 1914, or an increase of 201.5 percent.

The detailed report follows, and since it tells a graphic story of progress, it needs no comment:

The number of establishments in Dallas reporting was 457 for 1919, compared with 412 for 1914. The factories paid for their materials $65,503,000 in 1919, compared with $19,570,000 in 1914. The value of the production during the five-year period of increased 201.5 per cent and the value of the materials going into the production increased 234.7 per cent. The bureau reports there were in 1919, persons to the number of 10,677 engaged in manufacturing, of which number 2,383 were classed as salaried employes and 7,913 as wage earners.

The capital invested was $42,270,000, an increase of 80 per cent, compared with 1914, and there was paid in salaries $4,496,000, an increase of 111 per cent, and paid in wages $7,963,000, an increase of 130 per cent. The value of the products to the manufacturers, less than the cost of the materials, was $28,147,000, an increase of 145 per cent.

The Value of Production

During the five-years period the value of production from factories in other Texas cities announced by the bureau as follows: Abilene $766,000, Amarillo $1,897,000, Corsicana $8,000,000, Del Rio $271,000, Denison $5,078,000, El Paso $16,550,000, Austin $4,996,000, Beaumont $52,975,000, Brownsville $505,000, Cleburne $3,335,000, Corpus Christi $647,000, Fort Worth $38,160,000, Greenville $4,152,000, Houston $86,874,000, Laredo $705,000, Marshall $6,904,000, Palestine $2,810,000, Paris $6,080,036, Ranger $1,358,000, San Angelo $454,000, San Antonio $35,456,000, Spearman $19,176,000, Temple $2,839,000, Texarkana $4,474,000, Tyler $2,615,000, Waco $13,085,000 and Wichita Falls $16,832,000.

The Census Bureau report shows there were 118 institutions in Galveston reporting compared with 116 five years ago. The salaries number of employes was given as 373, wage earners 1,416, capital invested $10,668,000, paid in salaries $597,000, paid in wages $1,692,000. The cost of material was $10,581,000, and the value of the products $14,979,000. There was added to the value by the manufacturers, that is over the cost of materials, $4,398,000.

JOBS FOR THE JOBLESS

We are told from time to time that this country has from 1,000,000 to 5,000,000 men out of employment, and that the bread-line in every city will be long and lean.

A large number of men out of employment is a bad thing at best. Men must produce before they are worth anything as citizens; they must earn before they can spend. A jobless man is a liability; a working man, an asset.

But what of these jobless men? Why are they jobless?

A few days ago the farmers of Nebraska wanted 10,000 men for corn husking season, and they couldn't get them. In the same state they tried for three weeks to get 100 men for railroad work, and they couldn't get them. With only a half crop of cotton, in many parts of Texas the farmers experienced great difficulty in getting cotton pickers.

In the larger cities the park benches are loaded to the guards with men who are jobless, and yet reports, show that when you offer a job, the questions asked by the man out of employment are such as a careful employer might ask of men he's hiring. The question of the jobless man almost puts to shame the first Edison questionnaire.

No doubt a great many men are out of employment because they can't find jobs. On the other hand, a much larger number are jobless because they can't find the kind of jobs they like.

Pride goes before a fall, and haughtiness before destruction. But, this doesn't seem to apply just at this time.

Beau Drummel would starve to death because he couldn't get a cup of chocolate and macaroons.

NO TITTLING MATTER

A few days ago, in a nearby State, a young man of 59 years was arraigned before the bar of justice for assault and battery. It developed in the testimony that the defendant had rather boastfully proclaimed himself champion horse-shoes pitcher of his precinct, and that the complainant laughed scornfully.

"He guffawed, yer honor," said the defendant.

"I jes tittered, judge."

"Well, it warn't no tittling matter, yer honor."

"I'll say it was not," agreed the judge, and then he proceeded to lecture the titterer about the ill advised sport making of so honorable and scientific a game as pitching horse-shoes.

And the judge showed good sense. Horseshoe pitching is a great game. Vice-President Marshall once declared that what this country needed was to get back to the days of a good five-cent cigar. I think he might have added, and the good old fashioned games of yesteryear, of which horse-shoe pitching is the premier.

It may surprise some folks to learn that there is a National Horse-Shoe Pitchers' Association, with rules, regulations and by-laws, official weight shoe, regulation post and sized courts, etc. And that in some states tournaments are held, with all the enthusiasm, rooting and suspense concomitant with baseball and horse racing. It's a fact.

On Saturday afternoon let the gang assemble down back of the blacksmith shop for the weekly games. After a few preliminaries, the real champions lock shoes and the excitement is on. There'll be a lot of disputing and arguing about whose shoe is nearest the post, and always the yard stick from the City Furniture Company will have to be brought into play to settle the dispute. The players will talk to their shoes and gloat over each triumph, and there'll be a running rapidfire of repartee on the side-lines. The winner will be a hero and the loser will be given the horse-laugh, and everybody will have a good time.

This game of horse-shoes is no tittling matter. It is the sport of presidents. Not a few of the greatest horse-shoe pitchers have lived in the White House and become men of National and International influence.

Pitching dollars is not so bad, but pitching horse-shoes! There's a real game for you!

THE SAVER

In recent months we've heard some apparently sensible men condemn thrift, and growing tendency to save, as one of the greatest causes of business depression. It is a fact that if people don't buy, business will be rotten, but on the other hand, if somebody doesn't save, there'll be no business institutions.

Recently Frank A. Vanderlip, internationally known financier was quoted as saying:

"The man who saves and invests increases prosperity. To earn interest, money must be put to work. Money can be put to work only by putting men to work. When you put enough men to work, in suitable employment, that means prosperity—provided, always, a proper amount of new capital is being created to continue this process. And this capital can come only from the right kind of saving and the right kind of spending.

"The view that intelligent saving makes for dull business is shortsighted; it is wrong. It works out in exactly the opposite way. It is the man who saves that builds up the prosperity and progress of the country as well as his own prosperity."

Lincoln once said in effect: "A man labors for wages today, directs the labors of others tomorrow and hires men to work for him the next day," and thus we have progress. We may live up to the Carnegie theory of "shirt sleeves to shirt sleeves in three generations," but that makes it all the easier, or we should say all the surer, for the man who tries.

The great institutions of this country have been built by men who saved, put their money to work, hired others to work for them.

The saver is the maker; the man who builds a savings account, sooner or later builds something bigger.

THE SCOFFERS

It's interesting to go into pages of history and see just how each new invention has been received, and it is illuminating because it shows that these men—the inventors—had the courage of their convictions and went ahead in spite of what the people thought.

When the first telephone line was built, from Boston, to Providence, it was called "Vail's side-show." Fulton's steamboat was known as "Fulton's Folly," etc. Every great invention or discovery has been received with scoffing and derision. Men have been declared insane because they had the courage to announce and defend the results of their efforts, others have been imprisoned, some have been stoned to death.

But progress never ceases. The man who is afraid of what people will say, or listens to the advice of well meaning friends, seldom accomplishes anything. The doer of things is the man who knows, and knows he knows, and is willing to stand by his own judgment.

Progress doesn't mind the scoffers; it rolls over them and flattens them out.

LEAGUE PROGRAM AT HEDLEY WELL RECEIVED

Some twenty-five of the members of the local Epworth League chapter rendered a program at Hedley at three o'clock Sunday afternoon. A good audience was in attendance, and they seemed heartily to enjoy every number. The league chapter there has only recently been organized, and the program was rendered as most successfully be put on by the local chapters. The subject of the program was how to make our league programs real, and the various phases of the program such as making it spiritual, interesting, and giving it variety were considered. Every speaker treated his or her subject well; the orchestra played a number, and Miss Beatrice Story gave an excellent violin solo; a quartet also added to the musical part of the program. The hearty reception by the Hedley people was de-

ROBERT E. LEE STEAM-BOAT RACE WON WITH PERSONALITY

A steamboat race famous for its spectacular aspects, and one which has lived in the memories of the people who lived in that day, fifty years ago, was that between the famous Robert E. Lee and the City of Natchez, on the Mississippi river from New Orleans to St. Louis.

Such a record did the old flat-bottomed Robert E. Lee make that it has been memorialized in song and poetry and has, in days past, been the downfall of a great many otherwise good steamboat captains, who died "trying to beat the record of the Robert E. Lee!"

Thousands gathered on the banks and along the hills for miles on both sides of the river, at New Orleans, to see the beginning of the race. The Robert E. Lee being older and having smaller engines was given a start of ten minutes over the larger and more modern opponent, City of Natchez. Having a flat bottom the first boat made great waves as it sped up the river, and it is said that so great was the impact of the waves that great numbers of house-boats were violently thrown on the banks of the Mississippi as the Robert E. Lee passed.

At the appointed time the City of Natchez started. Having forty-two inch cylinders with twelve-foot stroke twin engines and a prow so cut that it could cut the water like a knife, it was expected to do some fancy and fast running, and it did for a short time. Then to the amazement of all, the first boat began to gain rapidly and draw away from its rival, and finally passed so far ahead of the City of Natchez that it was continually out of sight.

What happened? The rear boat arrived in St. Louis about one-half day behind its small rival and the defeated Captain White took a pair of gilded Elk horns from his flag pole and presenting them to Captain Cannon of the Robert E. Lee, said:

"Well, Captain, the best boat won." "Think so?" said the victor. "I'll tell you what I'll do: It costs money to run such races, but I'll trade boats with you and take my crew on your boat and beat you back for a hundred thousand dollars!"

Personality won that boat race, the personality of Captain Cannon of the Robert E. Lee.

Our friend, Mr. P. T. Ware, for years boiler inspector of Hartford Boiler Insurance Company, was in his early days, a river pilot. He says the crew of the winning boat applied turpentine, rosin and bacon sides to the fires under the boilers of the Robert E. Lee, until the steam pressure became so great that the gauges couldn't register it. Members of the crew went to Captain Cannon and asked him what they should do about it; how could they be guided when the gauge was insufficient to register the steam.

"Keep putting in bacon until the solder at the base of the steam gauges begins to melt," the Captain replied.

The Captain knew just how much each rivet in his boilers would stand and the crew were anxious to carry out his orders. It was personality that won that boat race.

During the war the Murray Iron Works Company, of Burlington, Iowa, made a large number of high pressure water tube boilers for the Naval service and the results were so far ahead of any boiler construction turned out, at that time, by any other factory in the United States, the government sent an expert to the Burlington factory to see if they could not get some points that would lessen defects in the work of other boiler factories. Here is what they found: fourteen men in that factory had been doing expert work on boilers for thirty-eight years, forty-four for over thirty years and sixty for over twenty-five years, and each year they were given incentives to do more perfect work.

When the writer was in Burlington last winter he saw one of the largest engines ever put on a Mississippi river boat, being made. The cylinders were forty-eight inches in diameter and the stroke was nine feet; the crank shaft was thirty inches in diameter, and the completed engine had a capacity of four-hundred horsepower.

One of the reasons this firm is putting Murray engines and boilers is the fact that this factory has reduced the construction of their machinery to a science and their work is uniform.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

The following verse from Ezra, seventh chapter and twenty-first verse has all the letters of the alphabet except "i." "And I, even I, Artaxerxes the king, do make a decree to all the treasurers that are beyond the River, that whatsoever Ezra, the Priest, the scribe of the law of the God of heaven, shall require of you, it be done with all diligence."

So far as we know the following sentence is the only one in the English language that can be read backwards with the same meaning. It is credited to Napoleon: "Able was I ere I saw Elba."

The United States Public Health Service has been able, since 1910, to reduce the typhoid mortality from 23.5 death per 100,000 to 9.2, in 1919 and has done much to eradicate malaria, yellow fever, cholera; lessen the seriousness of smallpox, discovered the cause of and a cure for pellagra, successfully combatted trachoma, a disease of the eye which has blinded thousands, and has developed wonderful methods in the treatment and cure of leprosy.

In 1867 we bought Alaska from Russia for $7,000,000. Since then the territory has returned to us over seventy times the purchase price. The mining industry alone has yielded mineral products valued at $438,160,000. Since 1880 gold production has totaled $311,665,000, and a conservative estimate places the value of unmined placer gold at $360,000,000. Prospects for the development of gold-bearing-quartz-vein mining are bright, and large oil production is expected in the near future.

Our last year's combined beet and cane sugar crop of 1,266,148 tons was the greatest on record, according to the final report of the bureau of crop estimate. It exceeded the small crop of 1919—a year in which weather conditions were unusually unfavorable—by 49 per cent, and the crop of the previous high record year, 1916, by 12 per cent. Last year the beet sugar crop was 1,090,021 tons, 86 per cent of the combined crop.

The great American dollar is increasing steadily in value. Just now it will buy 25 per cent more than it would a year ago! Wonder if the old silver cart wheel will ever look as big as it did back in 1913?

Exports from the Philippine Islands for 1920 totaled $151,123,856, an increase of $38,006,030 over the previous year. Imports last year were valued at $149,438,283, again of $30,799,231 over 1919. Exports to the United States amounted to $105,216,263 as compared with $56,652,692 in 1919, and imports from the United States were valued at $92,289,778, an increase of $16,793,363 over the previous year. Sugar exported totaled 177,500 long tons, valued at $49,619,000. Exports of Manila hemp were valued at $35,862,000, an increase of over $9,000,000 over 1919. Cotton and manufactured cotton goods made up a quarter of the total imports.

It is estimated that our exports to Germany for the fiscal year ended with June, 1921, will amount to $400,000,000 as compared with $352,000,000 in 1913. For the nine months ended with March last, they totaled $312,000,000. Imports from Germany for the fiscal year of 1921 are estimated at $100,000,000, as compared with $185,000,000 in 1913.

The Chinese Republic recently bestowed an unusual honor on Albert G. Bowers, of Lancaster, Pennsylvania, when it presented him with the "Decoration of the Felicitous Grain, or Beautiful Crop," its highest reward for valor. Mr. Bowers, while engaged in engineering work at Chefoo, China, rescued, at risk of his life, the passengers and crew of a Japanese steamship wrecked in a storm.

Last year, it is estimated, more than two hundred and fifty million people traveled to and from New York City by railroad. This is an increase of almost seventeen million, or about 7 per cent over 1919.

Butter production in the United States last year totaled 1,400,000,000 pounds; lard production, 1,936,000,000 pounds; and margarine production, 370,700,000 pounds.

If enemy tanks ever crawl up to American trenches they will get a hot reception. The army has developed a .50-caliber machine gun, built along the lines of the Browning gun, that fires a bullet that will penetrate tank armor at 200 yards. The new gun has a range of 7,000 yards.

Last year the United States, the greatest meat-producing country in the world, imported 160,000,000 pounds of meat, about two thirds of it New Zealand lamb. While this was an increase over 1919, it did not approach the mark of 323,000,000 pounds established in 1914.

Paraguay's exports for 1919 were valued at $14,371,633, as compared with $11,057,721 in 1918. Imports for 1919 totaled $15,569,891, as compared with $10,720,073 in 1918. The United States is third on the list of countries selling to Paraguay, and sixth on the list of her customers.

Alaskan fisheries products for 1920 were valued at $41,492,124, a decrease of $8,789,540 from 1919. Investments in the industry totaled $70,986,221, a decrease of about $3,000,000 from 1919, and 27,482 persons were employed. The total pack of canned salmon was 4,429,463 cases, three and one half per cent less than in 1919. Canneries in operation numbered 146, eleven more than in the previous year.

MEDICAL MEN ENDORSE FERRASAL DOCTORS AND DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE KNOW VALUE OF MINERALS

Ferrasal contains the same elements as the most famous European mineral waters. It contains nothing harmful or painful in its action. Its elements include Calcium (Lime) and Iron, Acid Citrates, Acid Tartrates and the Sodians. All of these elements are vital to the human system and are particularly needed to relieve and tone up the digestive organs.

DR. C. F. DYSON

—of Minneapolis, Minn., says: "The majority of cases of weakened physical condition which ultimately leads to tuberculosis are caused by a deficiency of lime in the system." (See Journal of American Medical Association, issue 7-27-12, page 308.)

Druggists everywhere recommend Ferrasal because they know it benefits the system. If one package does not convince you the trial will cost you nothing.

RECITAL OF MISSES BETTS AND STORY IS EXCELLENT

The organ and violin recital of Miss Mabel Clare Betts and Miss Beatrice Story was thoroughly enjoyed by the large audience in attendance. This is the first of the recitals by the faculty of the Fine Arts department of Clarendon College. Each of the performers played with rare technique and understanding.

Following the invocation by Rev. J. T. Griswold and the announcements by Miss Ridgell, Miss Betts began the program with a rendition of Mendelssohn's Sixth Sonata. In every one of the movements, Miss Betts proved herself a master of interpretation; but the two most pleasing movements were, perhaps, the Allegro and the Finale. The execution in the first was par excellence, while the majestic beauty of the last made a deep impression upon the audience.

Miss Story then played Schubert's Ave Maria. In the rendition of this masterpiece, she brought forth the beauties of the violin in a manner that is known only to the artist. The music was that most beautiful of all, where the listener is allowed to let his imagination wander as it may as if in a dream.

The Hymn to the Sun from Le Coq d'Or played by Miss Betts, was of the same type. Mysterious now and then, wandering, and highly imaginative it was wonderfully appealing. The other numbers on the program were equally enjoyed.

The recital was properly that of Miss Betts, as Miss Story will appear in her recital shortly before Christmas. Miss Mattie Eva Lane contributed much to the success of the program with the fine accompaniments that she played for Miss Story.

THE MENACE OF THE PINK BOLLWORM. BUY ONLY STERILIZED SEED

Austin, Texas, Nov. 30.—It seems that the pink bollworm is scattered over the State of Texas much more than we know about. It is a very serious cotton pest and is usually carried from place to place in planting seed.

Arrangements have been made for the sterilization of cotton seed shipped from place to place for planting. By sterilization is meant treating the seed in such manner as to kill all pink bollworm therein and not injure the seed.

Our advice to farmers is not to buy any cotton seed for planting unless each sack has a tag on it signed by the Commissioner of Agriculture and the Chief Entomologist and states that the seed have been sterilized. R. E. McDonald, Chief Entomologist, Texas Agricultural Department.

Hon. R. H. Beville returned Sunday to his home in this city from Cleburne where he had been on legal business.

Rev. Sam Jockel returned Tuesday from Waxahachie where he was called by his pastoral duties. He and his wife are visiting here with Mrs. Robert Turner.

INTEREST GROWING IN DAIRY CAMPAIGN

tented people.

"Is that sound business on our part? Suppose we had a large sum of money invested in a factory which was capable of producing some kind of high priced life sustaining food, and that we already had the raw material on hands sufficient to manufacture thousands of dollars worth of these finished products, even though we were obliged to make some repairs, would it pay us to sell our raw material for less than than cost price or fix to put out the finished product? This is our problem here. We have the valuable land, and the raw material for the production of butter and butterfat, we have some dairy cows but not nearly enough. If we sell this grain or raw material we must take less than it costs us, besides the wear and tear on our equipment, but we can get its cost plus a profit by selling it in the form of butter and cream, provided we feed it to good high producing cows. Which practice shall we follow in the future? Lets talk this over with our bankers."

BLANTON'S CLASS BEATEN BY STAFFORD'S CLASS

Last Thursday afternoon Stafford's Sunday School class beat Blanton's class by a score of 18-0. This was a good game all the way through.

It was a victory for Stafford's class because of the headwork of the quarter-back, Clarence Clark, and line plungers of Leonard Parker, Jack Merchant, Warren Bray. Another feature of the game was the snapping of Sam Braswell at center.

Blanton's class played a hard game and threatened Stafford's goal, but were unable to make the goal line.

The two classes were from the Methodist Church of Clarendon. Reported by a Contestant.

THE DAIRY

Keep the Dairy Cows Fit
Winter dairying is profitable, and fall is the time to start to prepare the herd for production. Animals which freshen in the fall are, as a rule, the most profitable, but they must be fed with care to prevent a shrinkage when taken off pasture and put on dry feed, or when subjected to the severe cold of early winter. Pastures are likely to be short in the fall especially if they have been closely grazed during the summer months. The frosts have injured the quality of the grass, and the cold nights and days are poor conditions for growth. For this reason the herd is liable to be left too long on the pasture, and the supply of grass counted for more than it is worth. Supplementing the fall pasture with grain or hay has proven a wise practice to encourage and stimulate production. It is an excellent time to start feeding silage, and no better feed than silage can be used at this season, since it takes the place of grass and furnishes the animal with an appetizing, succulent ration well fitted for milk production. A good rack of hay especially alfalfa or clover, comes in very well at this time. Though the fall pastures may look green, the grass is short, and frosts have taken from it that freshness and flavor which are a large part of its value. Liberal feeding during the fall will also bridge over that period between grass and hay which too often causes a shrinkage that the herd cannot recover from, and which will result in unprofitable production. The greatest profit from cows is obtained when the animals are doing their best, and they can do this only when they are supplied with their natural food requirements; therefore, to insure profitable winter production, good feeding must be practiced. The seasons of fall and early winters are often producers of some very bad weather. A cold rain with a wind is, perhaps, the most severe on milking stock, or, for that matter, on stock of any kind. The moisture chills the animal, and the wind which causes rapid evaporation intensifies the cold. Those who have watched the milking records carefully have found that a cold rain will, as a rule, cause a bigger shrinkage than a snow storm or extreme cold. To guard the herd against such weather means that the stock-keeper must be prepared at all times to house his animals. The windward side of barbed wire fences or the open grove will not furnish the required shelter. A warm stable free from drafts is required. When the weather is fine in the fall or early winter months, as a rule the milking herd will be better out in the sunshine, free to roam about or to feed, as their taste requires. A safe rule is to use your own feelings as a standard for the cow, with the exception that a cow better can stand much lower temperature and be comfortable than a man can.—The Dairy Farmer.

rillo. Secretary Estes served Amarillo through two of the most important years of the city's formative period, and his constructive work will ever stand as a monument to his credit. His record is an enviable one, and his departure from Amarillo will be keenly felt. After Mr. Estes resignation was accepted he announced that he had accepted the Secretaryship of the Las Vegas, New Mexico Commercial Club, and that he would assume his new duties shortly after December the first. Las Vegas is a famous Summer Resort, and is beginning to rival in no small way, the famous Colorado Springs. The scenery in and around Las Vegas is gaining wide spread recognition; the Mountains and Trout streams have already won the favor of many sportsmen, and lovers of nature.

Secretary Estes says that his new field offers a great opportunity, and that he is proud of the privilege to take an active part in its growth and development.

BUSINESS FARMING

"Live at Home Day," which was celebrated in Texas, last Saturday, is the culmination of a year's work on the part of the agricultural organizations of the State in which diversification was urged, particularly in order to cut down the cotton acreage in the cotton producing counties. With the crops all gathered and the results apparent, it is hoped that the farmers will renew their pledges and that many others will be induced to join in the campaign against the one-crop system.

While the past year could not be called a fair test, owing to the depressed financial condition of the entire country, it is safe to say that those farmers who cut down their cotton acreage and raised more feed and food, have had no cause to regret their bargain. They were able to market their milk and butter, their eggs and poultry, and their surplus garden products at prices that were much nearer normal than any of their staple crops brought and they now have feed in the barn and food in the cellar ready for winter use.

Whenever a manufacturer finds that, as a consequence of overproduction, his goods are not selling at the price they should bring, he immediately curtails production until the demand returns. If just one man did it, of course, there would be nothing gained but when they all stop work, the surplus is soon consumed and good prices come back.

Unfortunately the farmer is not so situated that he can stop his production on a week's or a month's notice. He has to figure a whole year in advance. After the seed is planted, it is neither possible nor profitable to destroy one crop in order to plant another. The farmer has to consider all the possible contingencies that may arise and pursue the course that seems most certain to insure him a profit on his year's operations. It is not possible to do that with any one crop since a low price at harvest time means a loss which he is not able to cover unless he has something else to market which may be bringing a better price at the time.

Those at the head of the "Better Agriculture" movement say that the logical thing for the farmer to do is to provide, first of all, for the family living. That means having a good garden, milking some cows, feeding some hogs and raising some chickens. A little cane for syrup will not come amiss and some peapods will furnish for many an evening's fun for youngsters—and the fun in the ration must not be overlooked.

After these things have been provided for, the acreage to be cultivated should be divided among the staple crops that may be grown successfully in that region, including among them feed for the farm animals.

more or less wide-spread industrial revival. The Survey says, in part: "A building boom is sweeping the country. There is decided betterment in the textile trades and the shoe and leather industries report progress. Our surplus copper is gradually being marketed at prices that tend upward. There is increased output of iron and steel, and the railroads are coming back into the market. Business failures are less numerous. Unemployment generally is decreasing, and savings are increasing.

"The banks of the country have been able, since the establishment of the federal reserve system, to aid in effecting a more orderly general re-adjustment of industry following a period of inflation than was possible so long as our banking system remained extremely decentralized. Such service, particularly in the last year and a quarter, has been of incalculable benefit to the nation's business. But the avoidance of a general collapse of credit, such as was repeatedly experienced before the organization of the federal reserve system, has necessarily tended to prolong the period of readjustment.

"Meanwhile, through the gradual liquidation and utilization of accumulated stocks of commodities, the way has been prepared in a number of industries for an increased volume of production for current consumption. The check to the downward course of general prices in this country and abroad has lessened the incentive to defer contemplated purchases, and this condition supplements the depletion of hoarded stocks in creating an enlarged demand for current production.

"But much must be done to expedite conditions. The maladjustment between the prices of farm products and other commodities must be eliminated before we can consider liquidation as completed, or before there can be a full measure of prosperity. The tax burden must be more equitably distributed, and the high surtax rates reduced. The railroad funding bill should be passed as early as practicable, to put the carriers on their feet financially and re-establish railroad credit and operating efficiency. In view of our changed economic position, a permanent high protective tariff should not be enacted to hamper our foreign trade and prevent, or indefinitely postpone, the liquidation of our foreign debts. Every effort should be made to assure the success of the disarmament conference, and thereby reduce tax burdens and eliminate colossal economic waste.

And finally, we must assist other countries to return to prosperity as quickly as possible, largely through discriminating foreign investments and long-term credits on an adequate scale.

"How prolonged will be the period required for the complete recuperation of the country's business activity on a normal scale must depend in considerable degree upon the progress of industrial and financial recuperation in other countries which consume American products.

"The improvement in the financial situation in this country since the beginning of this reaction against inflation has been pronounced and well sustained. Since Nov. 5, 1920, when discount of the federal reserve system were at their maximum, and since Dec. 23, when federal reserve notes circulation was highest, almost continuous progress has taken place in the technical position of the banks. The extensive liquidation reflected by the reserve system has been closely followed by distinctly easier money conditions and a stronger investment market.

THE MARVELOUS TELEPHONE

It has been but a matter of thirty odd years since the first telephone from Boston to Providence was called "Vail's Side Show." Today there are more than 12,000,000 telephones in use in the United States and so perfectly has the system been worked out that any telephone subscriber can sit in his own home and talk to any one of the twelve million—or all of them if he so desires!

A moment of sober reflection will convince anyone that the telephone is a marvel whose accomplishment is hardly without a parallel and whose contribution to the progress of civilization is incalculable. Some phases of the telephone are so marvelous as to be positively unanny.

The writer recently visited one of the great exchanges of the Dallas Telephone Company and inspected the modus operandi of the machine switching or automatic equipment. To watch this equipment work in the completion of calls almost makes the goose bumps pop out on your spine. The telephone user lifts the receiver from the hook and dials his number. Almost instantly he gets the connection or is told by a familiar sound that the line is busy. Yet in that brief second he has brought into play equipment costing millions of dollars, and made up of thousands of parts. Without the aid of human hands his call has threaded its way through four different little machines, each one of which has at least 125 adjustments.

As one stand and gazes at the mechanical devices do their work eagerly and accurately, always ready to respond, never tiring, and having within themselves the power to signal for help if anything goes wrong, he cannot but marvel at the accomplishment of the inventive genius of America. Indeed he is inspired to remove his hat in the presence of these machines, as a mark of respect for their creators!

We are often prone to take pretty much for granted the things that add to the sum and total of our pleasure and convenience. We give but little thought to the well until it goes dry, and to the majority of us a telephone is just a telephone until it gets out of order, and then its an abomination!

Yet, when we consider the great number of telephones in use, the amount of equipment necessary to make it possible for us to call to the other side of town, or to the other side of the United States, and when we further consider the minute adjustment and delicacy necessary to make talking possible—so minute and delicate that a grain of sand can play havoc—we marvel that telephone service is as efficient as it is.

To the industry, diligence and conscientiousness of the men back of the telephone we must give credit for the efficiency of the telephone. They are on the job twenty-four hours a day, year in and year out, to make it possible for us to use the telephone as an annihilator of time and space.

These men seem to have the propensity for doing the impossible. In Dallas recently a work was wrought which must stand as a tribute to their efficiency and determination. In the short space of forty seconds 11,041 telephones were transformed, from manual to machine switching equipment. In recording this, the Southwestern Telephone News said: "At midnight—'Bang!' went the gong, and the men, carefully trained for this supreme moment, responded as a unit. There was a 'rat-tat-tat,' multiplied 100 times on the tar-paulins spread to catch them."

In twenty seconds the rattle ceased and a gong sounded on the third floor, where another group of men were posted at the primary line stitches to pull the clips which were tied together in groups of 100. With trained celerity and accuracy the clips were pulled and in another 20 seconds the 'X' office stood transformed to complete machine switching."

That's all; just a part of the days work? No, the culmination of long months of hard work, the climax of the investment of millions of dollars and the result of more than thirty years of telephone development.

A Mistake You Musn't Repeat

It's hard to write about saving money, at this time of the year. Also, it's necessary.

Those who have saved during 1921 know what a blessing that savings account is just now; and those who kept putting it off don't need anybody to remind them what a mistake they made.

And some of them will go right on making the mistake in 1922.

Dr. Arthur D. Little, Boston industrial chemist, says that plant life on earth receives from the sun, and stores each year, energy that has a heating power of 18,000,000,000 tons of coal. This is more coal than the world mines in 14 years, and the Doctor predicts that man will eventually harness the sun to do his bidding, and adds that coal, as a source of power, is puny alongside the tremendous energy of the sun.

One of the great railroads has electrified its lines in the mountain districts, makes its electricity by the water power afforded by the mountain streams, and for brakes, on the downgraded, uses generators that make electricity, put it in the line and send it back over the mountain to help pull the trains up on the other side!

Science is always doing the impossible, and the telephone is one of its greatest products. What will it do with the telephone next? What more is there for science to do with the marvelous telephone?

IF SKIN BREAKS OUT AND ITCHES APPLY SULPHUR

Just the moment you apply Mentho-Sulphur to an itching, burning or broken out skin, the itching stops and healing begins, says a noted skin specialist. This sulphur preparation, made into a pleasant cold cream, gives such a quick relief, even to fiery eczema, that nothing has ever been found to take its place.

Because of its germ destroying properties, it quickly subdues the itching, cools the irritation and heals the eczema right up, leaving a clear, smooth skin in place of ugly eruptions, rash, pimples or roughness.

THE MAKING OF OUR COUNTRY'S FLAG

FRANKLIN K. LANE

"Well, perhaps you are the one who discovered the mistake in that Indian contract in Oklahoma?"

"No, wrong again," I said.

"Well, you helped to clear that patent for the hopeful inventor in New York, or pushed the opening of that new ditch in Colorado, or made that mine in Illinois more safe, or brought relief to the old soldiers in Wyoming. No matter, whichever one of these beneficent individuals you may happen to be, I give you greeting, Mr. Flagmaker."

"But," I said, impatiently, "these people were only working."

Then came a great shout from the flag.

"Let me tell you who I am. The work that we do is the making of the real flag. I am not the flag at all. I am but its shadow. I am whatever you make me, nothing more. I am your belief, your dream of what a people may become. I live a changing life, a life of moods and passions, of heart breaks and tired muscles. Sometimes I am strong with pride, when men do an honest work, fitting the rails together truly. Sometimes I droop, for then purpose has gone from me, and cynically I play the coward. Sometimes I am loud, garish, and full of that ego that blasts judgment. But always I am all that you hope to be and have the courage to try for. I am song and fear, struggle and panic, and ennobling hope. I am the day's work of the weakest man and the largest dream of the most daring. I am the Constitution and the courts, statutes and statemakers, soldiers and dreadnought, drayman and streetsweep, cook, counselor, and clerk. I am the battle of yesterday and the mistake of to-morrow. I am the mystery of the men who do without knowing why. I am the clutch of an idea and the reasoned purpose of resolution. I am no more than what you believe me to be, and I am all that you believe I can be. I am what you make me, nothing more. I swing before your eyes as a bright gleam of color, a symbol of yourself, the pictured suggestion of that big thing which makes this nation. My stars and my stripes are your dreams and your labors. They are bright with cheer, brilliant with courage, firm with faith, because you have made them so out of your own hearts, for you are the makers of the flag, and it is well that you glory in the making."

NEED FOR PRODUCTION OF MORE PURE SEEDS

The more progressive and thinking men of this country are coming to realize the urgent necessity of producing more pure seed in this country for the double purpose of supplying the home needs and to furnish our less fortunate neighbors in other parts of the State. In the course of time a splendid market can be developed for Plains grown seed of all kinds. This is the best adapted section of Texas for the production of Sudan, Grain Sorghums, Sweet Sorghums, and most any other variety of field seed that can be mentioned. In the more humid sections of the State these sorghums cannot be grown for seed on account of the Sorghum Midge that attacks the plants when in the bloom and blasts the seed. Also our climatic conditions make this country especially adapted to seed production. Every year many, many tons of cotton seed are brought into this country from other sections of the State. These seed could be grown in this country to a much better advantage, thus making the profit for some of our home people, and at the same time producing seed that will be native to this climate.

Aside from the viewpoint of commercial seed production, this work will greatly increase our yields which will return a good profit for the time and attention that must be given these crops, if the entire production must be fed at home or sold on the market as feed, and the farmer will have the satisfaction of knowing he is producing a better quality of stuff. The same law of heredity that applies to animals applies also to seeds and that is "like begets like or the likeness of some ancestor." No one will any longer question the value of purebred livestock whether they be grown for breeding purposes or for the market. The progressive man will no longer waste his time and feed with scrub stock, but the same may be content to plant just any kind of seed.

The one great need of this country is a better and more uniform grade of cotton. This can best be accomplished by standardizing our cotton, that is, by selecting some one or two varieties of cotton and growing them exclusively, selecting the planting seed each year, and then keeping them pure. There are relatively few varieties of cotton that are really adapted to this locality and out of this small number on or two outstanding varieties should be selected.

This country is not and likely will never be adapted to the production of long staple cotton on account of our short growing seasons and climatic conditions. Our local experiment station has been testing many varieties of cotton for a number of years and has found that only occasionally will a long staple cotton be successful. It has also been determined which of the different varieties are best adapted to this climate as to acre production, early maturity, and length of staple. So there is no need of the individual farmer wasting his time and money experimenting in work of this character when the problems are already solved by an institution that is maintained for that purpose by appropriation from the public treasury. On the other hand we should avail ourselves of the opportunity to consult the Station on matters of this kind and bend our energies to the production of varieties that have been proven by experiments running over a period of years to be the best adapted to our conditions.

It is to be hoped that some concerted efforts will be taken along the above mentioned lines for another year. By producing a cotton of uniform grade and staple a much better price can be obtained for it in even running lots. If the local market does not demand all of a given grade and staple, outside buyers can be secured to take up the surplus, and possibly at a premium, if the buyer is especially interested in this particular cotton.

Construction activity throughout the South maintained a comparatively even level throughout the year, and the amount of money involved in contracts actually awarded steadily increased in the sum total of contracts awarded and to be awarded, as recorded each week, according to the Manufacturers' Record (Baltimore), which says: "With a total of approximately $314,000,000 the record of contracts awarded and to be awarded on construction projects of all kinds throughout the South, definitely confirms the continuation of full building activities on a level practically equal to the high mark established by the mid-summer months and shows but little trace so far, of the usual seasonal slump. These figures are strikingly borne out by a comparison of building activities in sixty representative southern cities, as indicated by the recent monthly reports of the various building inspectors."

The big building program is expected to continue, subject only to weather interruptions, until the holiday and inventory season—when activities in practically all lines normally show a slackening. But a new era of building activity is looked for next spring. The Manufacturers' Record keeps a close tab on all business of this nature and attention must be given when it says: "There seems to be justification for the belief that with the new year the building program will be vigorously pushed to a big volume at the opening of spring, when, in the opinion of many building supply men, students of the housing situation and other close observers of present conditions there will be inaugurated a building program exceeding in magnitude and widespread scope that of almost any other period in the history of the country. As a result of the confidence that is now manifesting itself in the future of construction, sales of both hardwoods and softwoods are being maintained at a high level; shipments are going forward at new high figures and production is being encouraged to maintain a sufficient supply of materials for the spring trade. Lumber prices have stiffened recently and some plumbing, heating and electrical supplies have also gone to higher levels, although every effort is being put forth to prevent price increases, fearful lest a damper be placed on building operations."

Many builders and contractors who have heretofore devoted much time to big projects have been busy during the present year with a large number of small contracts, costing several thousand dollars and upwards, and they have been unable to realize the extent of the year's building activities, but building permits give the real figures and they show that building valuation this year is far in excess of the record for 1920, and this notwithstanding the big decrease in building costs. A paint manufacturer in Baltimore was recently surprised when examining his books to ascertain the source of his large volume of business to find that he was selling this year to more than

COMING FARMERS' MEETING

The American Farm Bureau Federation comes with a promise of blessing in its wings to the people of this portion of the state, as it has visited other territories in the United States. Those who have been looking hopefully for a medium through which general relief is now being extended to the farmers, are pinning their faith to this comparatively new enterprise. The American Farm Bureau two years ago, in Chicago, at which time leading extension workers of the United States Department of Agriculture, Agricultural and Mechanical colleges and other outstanding figures came together and talked over the problems of the farmers.

Since that time there have been some of the ideas "weighed in the balance and found wanting," while still others are believed to have withstood the acid test and grown brighter as the result of that through which they have been subjected by friends and foe, alike.

This is the program that is soon to be considered in Amarillo by farmers gathered from all over this portion of the southwest, in the near future, in connection with wheat, and after that will come the kaffirs for similar consideration.

The approaching meeting, while invested with elements of uncertainty and distrust for some, is looked hopefully and expectantly to, by many others. The movement was born of well balanced minds centered on the welfare of producers on American farms.—Amarillo News.

PUBLIC HEALTH WORK REACHES MANY FIELDS

operations. She made a special trip to Memphis to see a specialist who agreed to perform the operation gratis. The work was done. Without such a service these unfortunates would still be afflicted, and with a probability of continuing so the remainder of their lives. Finally succumbing to some disease caused by the defect.

Her supervision doubtless saved the life of a boy that was snake bitten. She was requested to visit the patient because he was not doing at all well. Upon investigation it was found that the family was not carrying out the instructions of the doctor. Frequent visits and careful directions how to carry out the doctor's orders resulted in the recovery of the boy.

In another instance she was asked by a doctor to give attention to a woman who was expected to be confined at a very early date. The patient was found to be in such condition that she was confined to bed. The sanitary conditions of the home were most distressing. Through the daily administrations of the Health Nurse for a period of three weeks it was made possible for this woman to be confined at home upon a bed with sanitary sheets that had been contributed by the neighbors.

The service becomes of more value and its real worth to the patient and doctor is clearly shown when it becomes necessary to meet an emergency in the home in confinements or other work that requires trained assistance to make for efficiency. A family moved to the town and the woman was confined before she became acquainted. She felt a delicacy in asking help of her neighbors. The Health Nurse was called and supplied the want.

This is an age of progress. Efficiency is our watch word. Every endeavor is now made to produce effective results. The farmer has passed from the hoe and walking plow to the riding cultivator, go-devil and tractor. The merchant has passed from the old beam scale and yard stick to the delicate computing scales and measuring devices. The blacksmith has passed from the old hand hammer and welding process to the power driven sander and acetylene welding machines. We have all passed from the old horse and buggy to the automobile. It is now time for us to wake up to the fact that we are not progressive in health lines unless we have means at hand to prevent disease rather than to cure disease.

Everything that is of value costs something or is trouble. When we consider the cost of such services that results in the magnificent returns as our Health Clinics and school inspection affords, the sum of twenty four hundred dollars a year is insignificant. The saving of one child from a life long defect would be worth more than one year's expenditure.

We must act now and in a hurry to prevent losing this valuable asset. Once it is lost it is doubtful if it is ever gotten back. It may never be possible to get a nurse as capable and willing as we have been so fortunate in procuring. We will all have to lend our support and perform any duty that we may be asked to do.

CITY REGIME COMMENDED BY ANONYMOUS POET

The following writing was handed the News this week by the City Office. Although the author is unknown, Clarendon in fact not dreaming that she possessed a poet, the article nevertheless shows the optimism of an Irishman; but at the same time he shows himself to be a hearty supporter of the Volstead Act. (THE SITUATION IN RHYME)

Clarendon has boasted heretofore of a water supply as being out of site—which made a great hit with strangers by day—if he didn't happen to stay over night.

We also boasted of our pavement and our rows of street lines which has all—been called to halt on account of money getting so tight—but there is always a way out where brains and energy are used and we must hand it over to our city officials for using this combination rather profuse.

Mr. Mayor we admire you and will take it all back as we were only joking when we called you a "moss back" we have heard it disputed lately in more places than one and with the exceptions of a very few they say it was all done in fun.

We admire you for having the "back-bone" to stay in the "fite". You have bore up under much criticism for cutting out a part of our bites—to save and apply the money on a System to furnish us water at nite.

Some things are quite necessary as is the tail to a kite—we find we can always get along and manage to find our way in darkness in some places all rite—but we—cannot manage to get along without some water at nite. The automobile is a great invention we need them to travel by day and by nite—as you know when traveling thru dark places they furnish their own lite. To be without them we would be in a very bad plite—but we could surely manage to do it rather than to do without water at nite.

We surely are coming back again in all doing our little mite tho we can keep in better humor when when we have water even to drink at nite.

We enjoy the tones of the town whistle—morning—noon and nite, in fact we think the whole plant is arranged about rite.

We've made up our minds to stay with you—(that is if you will)—we'll put our shoulders to the wheels and help pull up the hill.

We know t's hard to pull a hill with everything going right but if your team balks on the hardest place, place you are in a very bad place, you are in a very bad plite. So we've made up our minds to fall in line and quit pulling back, and if it becomes necessary we'll furnish some "greese" for the wheels and some sand for the track.

If we ever reach the "goal", or even get in site—we must all pull together and do our little mite—and we may add further—to remind those who may complain—that we must agree to disarmament and the "battle" y' disdain.

Some say we are slipping and in a bad plite—but they must be classed as pessimists—in a class to themselves and unwilling to keep up the fite—that the rank and file is trying to eliminate.

PUBLIC SPIRIT PROMPTS RED CROSS ASSISTANCE

Mr. J. T. Patman as secretary of the Executive Committee of the Red Cross was talking with one of the citizens in town a few days ago about the Red Cross work.

That well respected citizen of the colored population, Ab Parker, heard a part of the conversation and after awhile sought Mr. Patman and asked him: "Do you suppose it would be all right and acceptable for the Colored Masons of Clarendon to make a little donation to the Red Cross work?" Mr. Patman replied that it would certainly be all right and we are all glad to see such an exhibition of public spirit in the things that are good for all the people of the county to have.

COUNTY AGENT'S NOTES

There is a considerable bit of hog cholera in two sections of east Texas, and farmers are advised not to ship in feeder hogs unless they thoroughly investigate the conditions of the territory from which the hogs came, being sure that the hogs are immunized and that a certificate of their vaccination is furnished with each animal. This will not only protect yourself but the men who already has hogs here.

GOLDSTON JEWELRY WINDOW ROBBED SATURDAY

With a scheme that was in a way daring on account of the hour, and yet not very daring on account of the dark streets, someone robbed the jewelry windows of Goldston Brothers Saturday evening about seven thirty o'clock. Although there were many valuable diamonds in the window, the most of them were not got away with as they so scattered by the brick that was thrown into the window.

The method used in perpetrating the robbery was that of breaking the glass window, seizing the diamonds and fleeing. Although there were several people in the Goldston jewelry shop and the Long Drug Store, there were few people on the streets at the time the theft was committed. A brick was thrown through the lower portion of the window, crashing the glass, then the thief reached through the opening and seized the box on which the diamonds were placed. But the best plans some times go astray, and such was the case here: for the brick that was thrown to break the glass, struck the diamonds and scattered them all over the window. The loss was not very great.

Everyone in the store ran to the front, but there was nothing to be seen except the brick which was left deposited in the window. One citizen stated that he saw someone fleeing toward the dark street at the back of the store, but the robber was not apprehended.

This theft has been the most daring one, being in the business section of town as it is. There have been several other burglaries in the residence section, all of which go to show the need of lighted streets.

Goldston Brothers say that from now on they intend to take in their jewelry when "the whistle blows."

I had heard about Doan's Kidney's Pills, so I went to the drug store and got a box. I can vouch for Doan's because I had not used a whole box before I was at work again.
