THE EFFORT IS BEING MADE TO HAVE THE COMMUNITY EXHIBITS STRESSED AS IT IS FROM THESE THAT THE EXHIBITS WILL BE PICKED TO SEND TO THE OTHER FAIRS. HOPES ARE HIGH THAT DONLEY WILL TAKE FIRST STATE PRIZE THIS YEAR

CLARENDON SHRINERS DEFEAT PAMPA 27-10

The Clarendon Shriners' baseball team defeated the Pampa Shrine team 27-10 on the latter's home grounds Thursday afternoon. Good spirit was in evidence throughout the game, although the local team far surpassed the efforts of their opponents.

On the way to Pampa, refreshments were taken at Groom. Following the game at Pampa, sumptuous feed was spread in the annex of the Christian Church in that city. Following the feed the wives of the Pampa Shriners entertained the wives of the Clarendon Shriners at the theatre; while the Clarendon shriners helped their Pampa brethren in the organization of a shrine club. Rev. Paul Merrill of Pampa, well known here, was chosen as the first president of that organization.

Besides the ball team, about fifteen other shriners from this place went to Pampa as did also the wives of a number of the shriners. The local line up was Dyer C. Buntin p., A. Beville 1st., Harry Warren 2nd., Chas. Trent ss., B. Kerbow 3rd., A. Jefferies rf., Sam Braswell cf., and John Blocker and Robert Wilson if.

EVERBEARING STRAWBERRY MAKES A FINE SHOWING

Rev. C. N. N. Ferguson, pastor of the First Methodist Church in this city, has had a great success with his everbearing progressive strawberries this year. Rev. Ferguson at the Chamber of Commerce luncheon Tuesday related some of the results that he had had with these plants. He set these plants out this year, and was enjoying strawberries by the latter part of April. He recently counted the berries and blooms on one plant and there were one hundred and four.

The plant bears and blooms at the same time; in this way the season with this variety of strawberry lasts from the time of the first strawberry in the early spring until the late summer's last bloom has matured into a berry. The plants can be set out any time of the year. Plants that were set out the first of July are bearing now.

Estimating the price of strawberries at twenty-five cents per quart, Rev. Ferguson says that an acre of land with one plant on each square foot would yield fifty thousand dollars worth of strawberries in one year.

There is no doubt about the fact that these plants have a wonderful future; and having been proved to be a successful crop for this county, they will no doubt in time be one of the leading crops.

E. W. GROGAN AND FAMILY RETURN FROM TRIP OVER S. W.

E. W. Grogan and wife and sons George and Winston and daughter Miss Nell returned Saturday afternoon from a fifteen days trip over the southwest part of Texas and a part of New Mexico. Mr. Grogan reports that along the foot of the crack in the southwest, he saw much territory badly in need of rain. Other parts of the country were in good shape. Mr. Grogan expressed himself as very agreeably surprised at the wonderful country surrounding the area, New Mexico. He says that the country is nothing short of wonderful, and that the crops are very fine.

MUSIC TEACHERS TO APPEAR IN JOINT RECITAL

Miss Anna Moore and Mrs. Edythe Bryan Cameron will appear in joint recital Friday evening September 2nd at 8:00 o'clock. They will later open a joint recital where Mrs. Cameron will teach piano, harmony and history of music; while Miss Moore will teach oratory and voice. The public is cordially invited to hear the recital. The recital will be at the Baptist church.

A large agricultural and livestock exhibit is now assured with the completion of the final arrangements for the fair which is to be the 22, 23 and 24 of September. The list of prizes completed since the last issue of the paper includes additional prizes for the community exhibits and the prizes offered to Mrs. Chitwood's club girls. The first prize for the community exhibit will be $50 cash and a $100 coupon on either of two automobiles. Four club boys will get trips to the Dallas Fair, as also will four club girls. The Clarendon Chamber of Commerce is making the preparations for the fair assisted by several of the merchants of Lelia Lake; while the Hedley people are going to exhibit, none of them are on the committees for the county fair as they are engaged with their fair which will be just two days preceding the county fair.

As has been stated heretofore, the emphasis is on the community exhibits; and it is from these that, in all probability, the exhibit for the Panhandle Plains and the Dallas Fairs will be selected. The money prize is fifty dollars; while Od Caraway offers a one hundred dollar coupon on a Buick automobile as does also R. L. Biggers on a Vellie car. The prize offered for the best individual exhibit is $15.

For the Boys' Clubs, a trip to the Dallas Fair is offered for the best ten ears of corn. For the best ten heads of kafir corn a trip to the Dallas Fair is also offered. Like prizes are offered each for the best prizes and the best junior girls.

For the girls the first and second prizes for the best individual exhibits are trips to the Dallas Fair. In the poultry clubs the first and second prizes are also trips to the Dallas Fair.

A part of the agricultural exhibit will be made at the Caraway and Chase Garage, and the place for the rest of the exhibits will be announced later. The committees under the supervision of the Chamber of Commerce, have been working hard, and some liberal donations have been received.

It is the one hope of those interested in the fair that Donley may take the first prize at the Dallas Fair this year. Last year our general crops were not as good as they are this year; but we took second prize for the state. The list of prizes and the committees in charge of the various features of the fair appears on the last page of this issue of the News. It is indeed to be hoped that the inducements offered will bring in exhibits that will not only do justice to Donley but that will take the state prize as well.

GEORGE TAYLOR BUILDING MODERN HOME

The gravel for the foundation has been placed, and work will commence next week on the home which George Taylor is to have built on the C. G. highway in the west part of this city. The building will be a five room bungalow with all conveniences and built in such way that it will be a most beautiful home. The features of the home will be hardwood floors, and built-in fixtures. A fire place will adorn the reception room, while the home will be steam heated. A large driveway will lead into the premises with a garage and a large porch. This beautiful residence will add much to the attractiveness of this city. The work will be hurried to completion and the building will be ready for occupancy by the fall.

Miss Janie Rae Morris has returned to her home at Mobette after a two weeks visit with her friends Miss Myrtle Jolly and May and Ina Naylor.

Mrs. W. A. Johnson, of Memphis, accompanied by her daughter and son-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Jim Bass, were in Clarendon Sunday for a short stay.

WE CAN'T GO AHEAD BY GOING BACKWARD

Where do you live? I live in Clarendon. "Oh! you do?" "You live in Clarendon," they again ask. "Well, I hear so much about that place, its pretty homes, fine churches and about your College and schools you have you know I would like to live there." This expression is often used and it is a credit to any city or community to hear that said about them, and if they say so much about us and think we are so much larger, should not that alone be an incentive to each one to strive all the harder to bring about the desired results? Only this morning, a man with his wife and little girl from Oklahoma came to the Chamber of Commerce to get their direction back home, he asked the size of our place and when I told him, he said, "I hear you estimated from five to seven thousand." If we all think of growth and co-operation, we will then increase the size of our city and the population of the county as well. If we only think hard enough, we will begin to figure out the way to do so.

You often hear the expression, you can't go ahead by going backward. Think it over, let us go ahead. I remember well after going to the top of the Washington Monument in Washington, D. C., and looking down from that height, the people looked more like flies walking around than human beings. So many of us feel many times the same way, and to anyone who has never felt small, go out some night when the stars are shining lie on your back, look into the heavens for a few minutes and if you do not begin to realize how small you are; then you have little reasoning power. On the other hand, though small we may be, each one of us has our individual duty to perform in our community where we live, and when each one performs their duty, you will find little if any discord and harmony will be the watchword.

It takes the combined effort of everyone in every community to bring results that count. Has any of us any moral right or legitimate excuse to offer for their being here on earth, or any control whatever on the time they are to leave it? Why then should all of us not use each day we have to do something for someone worth while. A person with no constructive ability to contribute to the world is neither any good to themselves or to their community, and as a rule, hampers the wheels of progress by their being on earth. When we go our way, doing all we can to make our city or county a better place to live for others as well as for ourselves we but only contribute our small share of progress we owe to our community, and by your deeds will ye be known is truly said, no matter how small it either helps or hinders.

And now in our grand county of Donley, our city of Clarendon with the hot weather about over, the schools to be open in a very short while, let us try to keep our record we are proud of and let us always remember—We can't go ahead by going backward, so let us go ahead and keep going.

MISS LITTLE AND SCOTT RETURN FROM EASTERN TRIP

Misses Emma Mae Little and Lorine Scott returned to their homes in Texas the past week from an extended visit in the Eastern part of the United States. While gone they visited in New York City, St. Louis, Washington and other large cities of the North and East. They report a wonderful trip, and especially enjoyable was their stay at Niagara Falls. While in New York and St. Louis, Miss Little bought the fall stock for the T. M. Little store in this city. She says that the stock in ready-to-wear is very large, but that at the same time she expects the store to do a large business this fall. Mr. Little feels confident of the fall's business, and is prepared for a large one.

COUNTRY CLUB NOW SUPPORTS ORCHESTRA

One of the recent valuable additions to the Country Club Lake has been George Reed's orchestra. There are fifteen pieces, and the musicians are having fair success in making music of the saxophone variety. The musicians were ordered from Berwick Louisiana and consist of fifteen large bullfrogs placed in the club lake for breeding purposes. It is the hope of the club members that after next spring they may catch plenty of frogs as well as fish.

FURTHER MOVEMENT FOR ROADS AT LUNCHEON

GOOD ATTENDANCE OF ENTHUSIASTIC BUSINESS MEN VOTE PETITION TO COMMISSIONERS' COURT REGARDING ROADS

A further step toward better roads for Donley was taken at the Tuesday luncheon when those present voted a petition to the Commissioners' Court for this county requesting the hiring of a highway engineer to make estimates of the costs for some sort of permanent roads through Donley county. The study of the possible routes from here to Silvertown or Plainview was brought nearer when it was decided that purpose would go over the part of this month. Petitions requesting the turning on of the lights the first of September will also be put out. Other speakers told of the garden possibilities for Donley that had been tried out, and of the spirit of the west that is known only to the Panhandle.

Following the signing of the petition to the Commissioners' Court, Rev. C. N. N. Ferguson, pastor of the First Methodist Church, was called upon and he told of the ever-bearing progressive strawberry which he has been experimenting, and of how its bearing of fruit seemed almost unlimited. He has had strawberries ever since the latter part of April, and the plants were put out only this year.

Dr. G. S. Slover spoke on the condition and the prospects of Clarendon College, saying that the prospects are good for a good attendance; but at the same time the college has never faced such serious times as it will have for the next ten or twelve months.

Secretary McCardell then referred briefly to the condition of the roads between here and Memphis expressing the belief that the wear and tear of the cars in traveling between the two cities would go the most of the way in paying for some sort of permanent roads.

L. D. Thompson, of Dallas, upon being called responded with many pleasing remarks concerning the Panhandle and Clarendon and Donley in particular. Mr. Thompson declared that after traveling over the Panhandle, he thought of "Donley as the garden spot of the Panhandle." He said that another noticeable fact was that no matter what Panhandle paper you pick up you always found some mention of Clarendon. Mr. Thompson then continued to praise the spirit of the west saying that the biggest thing of all was the confidence that the people of the west have in each other. Mr. Thompson further declared that more and more are the big business concerns of the state learning that the best business for them lies in the Panhandle country, saying that they are all looking to the Panhandle and that Donley leads.

H. Lott then spoke on the projected road between here and Silvertown or Plainview. Mr. Lott expressed his confidence in the belief that he could get the commissioners of Hall county to build a bridge across Mulberry to Antelope, especially since they have voted their bonds recently. But at the same time Mr. Lott declared that he had far rather see the business of the Antelope Flat come to Clarendon. Mr. Lott said that the people of Antelope Flat were ready to vote the bonds for the building of the bridge across Mulberry, and expressed the hope that Donley would furnish the roads to the bridge.

An effort is being made to have an engineer go over the route, and this will probably be within the next few days. The luncheon was served by Mrs. J. A. White, and was an excellent one. Secretary McCardell presided. Music was furnished by a Victrola loaned by Goldston Bros.

BLIND LECTURER TO BE HERE SUNDAY EVENING

Rev. E. B. Ray, a member of the International Lyceum and Chautauque Association will lecture here Sunday evening. Rev. Ray lost his eye sight at ten years of age; but nevertheless, schooled himself. His lecture will be at the Baptist Church.

BAPTIST REVIVAL ACCOMPLISHES MUCH GOOD

The Baptist revival which was held in this city closed Sunday evening after a two weeks' campaign during which much good was accomplished for the church and for the community. The preaching was done by Rev. Harlen J. Mathews, pastor of the Baptist Church in Plainview, while the singing was led by E. E. Walker, of Memphis. Members of other churches co-operated in the meeting, and the results were entirely pleasing. Twenty-five were baptized and twelve others were added to the church by letter. A few converts signified their desire to unite with other churches. A nice offering was made up for the evangelists.

During the entire meeting Rev. Mathews preached with rare power. He was thoroughly earnest in his messages, and his plain preaching of the gospel appealed to the Christian and the sinner alike. He is a man of education, and his thoughts were expressed in language that was pleasing to hear. Oftentimes he seemed to have caught more than ordinary inspiration, and his laconic expressions hit to the mark.

E. E. Walker can claim some achievement only by his ability to work. He did not have a voice suited to solo work, neither did he have a broad knowledge of music; but he put himself into his work and in this way inspired the congregation to sing. The junior choir which was organized during the meeting was of great assistance, and the manner in which little fellows entered into the song service was an inducement to the older members of the congregation. This choir will be maintained and will take part in the church services each Sunday.

The town was divided into four districts and the ladies in each district met regularly each afternoon for prayer service. The men met at some place of business each day for their prayer service. Much good was accomplished through the instrumentality of these services.

The meeting had a good beginning, and before its close every seat under the tabernacle was filled at the evening services, and a good attendance was had at the morning services.

Rev. J. A. Smith, local pastor of the Baptist church was a power in the meeting in working in his characteristic earnest manner. He has rejoiced at the enlargement of his membership and feels that his church is today better able to do the best work for the rest of the year.

Rev. Mathews left Monday morning for Vega where he will assist in the holding of a revival. The co-operation of the other churches was a pleasing sight. But the sermons of Rev. Mathews were the type that inspired such help; for at no time did he appeal to a few by preaching doctrinal sermons, but his preaching was of the broad type that had for its goal the salvation of lost souls; and for this reason other churches were glad to join in the work.

SILVER CREST HOG SALE IS SUCCESSFUL

With an attendance of more than six hundred from more than twenty counties in Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri, the hog sale held at the Silver Crest Farm by the owner Frank M. Clark was very successful and satisfactory to the owner. The offering consisted of 43 bred sows and gilts, one yearling boar, and two senior boar pigs. The sale was attended by such men as Fred B. Caldwell, Topeka, Kansas; J. Robert Gillham, Ardmore, Oklahoma. C. V. Griggs, of Claude, paid $400 for Queen Buster.

The entire offering sold rapidly, and shipments were made as far as St. Joseph, Mo. Of course, it is to be regretted that so many fine hogs will go outside of Donley county; but at the same time Donley should pride herself that she raises hogs of such a character that a sale will attract the attention of the entire Southwest. Mr. Clark has been headed by the Jayhawker has grown eminently successful with his hog farm; and the Silver Crest Farm, to be one of the most famous farms in this part of the United States.

Mrs. W. W. Smith and daughter Miss Leonilla, of Arlie, Oregon, and Miss Mattie Swam, of Coravilla, Oregon, cousins of B. F. and T. L. Naylor and Mrs. Roy Kendall, visited here the last week with their relatives.

Aubrey Cousins, of Amarillo, former resident of this city visited here Tuesday with friends.

PROSPECTS FOR CLARENDON COLLEGE ARE GROWING BETTER WITH THE APPROACH OF THE OPENING

LATE COMMUNICATIONS TAKE UP MANY MORE RESERVATIONS. A STUDENT BODY EQUAL TO THAT OF LAST YEAR IS EXPECTED. THE COMPLETION OF THE FACULTY SHOWS THAT IT WILL BE ONE OF BEST IN EVERY DEPARTMENT

MEMPHIS BOOSTERS HERE THIS MORNING

Some ten or fifteen cars of Memphis boosters arrived here shortly before noon, and put out propaganda in the interest of their fair. The dates for their fair are September 14-17, and the list of premiums and prizes is a handsome one. They are making the towns of Clarendon, Giles, Lelia Lake, Hedley, Brice, Lesley and Lakeview this time, and they will perhaps make another trip.

President D. H. Arnold, of the fair association, is making the trip with the boosters. The Memphis spirit of co-operation is the reason for the prominence of that city; and their manner of going after things was manifested in another way last week when they voted the bridge bonds by the handsome majority that they did. Their fair will, no doubt measure up to the standard of their other accomplishments, and be a great success.

TAILORING BUSINESS CHANGES HANDS THIS WEEK

Lovell's Tailor Shop owned by George Taylor and Earl Lovell and operated by the latter was purchased the past week by Clarence Cox and is now doing business under the name of the Clarendon Tailoring Company. Mr. Lovell will continue to operate the shop; while Mr. Taylor will devote his entire time to the insurance business, being the local representative of the Jefferson Standard Company.

PERSON PROVES INTENSIVE FARMING

Gust Person, of west of town was a caller at the News office this morning and while here renewed his subscription to the News. Mr. Person has success farming his small tract of land intensively as he does. He goes on the theory that the tiller of the soil is not the absolute owner, but a life tenant as it were. For this reason he tries to return to the soil as much as he receives from it.

LAWRENCE BLEVINS DIES IN CALIFORNIA

A telegram was received yesterday by Byron Blevins announcing the death of his brother Lawrence, of Los Angeles, California, a former editor of the News. The cause of the death was blood poisoning, the infection having set up from the pulling of two teeth.

Bill Clifford, who has been ill with the fever, has been discharged from the Adair Hospital, and is now at home. He is able to be up and around most of the time.

Misses Bertha Killough and Stella and Ivy Hinkle returned yesterday from an extended visit in Illinois, Missouri, and Central Texas.

Story and Mrs. S. Schulze and Miss Ruth Pirtle, in expression. Miss Betts is spending the summer studying in Washington, Miss Mattie Evans Lane worked in Chicago under the leading musicians of the nation.

Miss Beatrice Story and Miss Ruth Pirtle have since their return from Washington, D. C. toured the Panhandle in concert company with marked success. They were formerly students in C. C. and have earned a marked success in their respective fields since graduation.

Miss Moena Lane who writes more letters than any one else in Clarendon and who meets students with every sort of trouble, will be at her post as registrar and secretary of the faculty. She has done splendid work this summer in the office.

Mrs. Mammie Stegman will again be at her post as stewardess. Her dining room service and management have been successful and highly appreciated.

some of us are so practical as not to see it.

More remote values frequently are urged for tree planting, such as the effect upon climate of woodland tracts. Then tree advocates have urged them as a wind-break with which to protect growing crops or to prevent the drifting of sandy lands. Surely these are utilitarian purposes, and it is gratifying to note that every year a few more trees are set out.

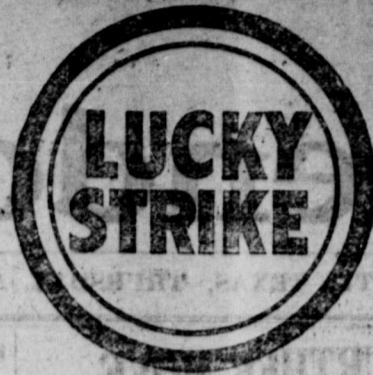

Another reason for planting trees was advanced this week by one of Wilbarger county's most successful farmers. The man has a great many trees set out over his vast acres, using them for wind breaks, for home beautification, for providing fruit and shade to panting live stock during the long summer days—and for all of these reasons he believes it pays.

The man was pointing out some trees he had planted. "I set those out," he said "to provide fire wood in case such necessity ever arises." Coal can usually be secured, only some times it may not be convenient to haul out the coal.

Be that as it may, a few trees planted around the place will provide a welcome shade, they add to the attractiveness of the home, they increase the acre value of the farm—and, in case of necessity, they furnish excellent fuel for the old home.

Surely all of these reasons should impel us to plant more trees!—Vernon Record.

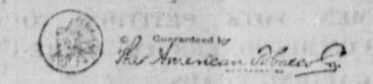

There is no better exercise than swimming. Men and women who have access to open water daily need no other tonic to maintain their good health. Every child should be taught to swim at 5 or before. Timidity in the water is thus overcome at an age when confidence in individual power is most easily established. This self-reliance extends to other pursuits and occupations. Many children are frightened by the thoughtless behavior of adults or other children who believe the proper way to teach a person to swim is to throw him into the water to struggle to safety. This should never be done. It produces a shock from which the victim may never recover. If the most ordinary care is exercised in teaching children to swim they will learn quickly, easily and without experiencing fear. Like golfers, the devotees of swimming can follow their pastime into the ripest old age. It even surpasses the great Scotch game in the fact that a man can sometimes swim when physical disability precludes walking. The efficacy of swimming as an aid in training horses with bad tendons was demonstrated long ago by trainers at the Brighton Beach and Sheephead Bay racetracks, which were near the ocean. Thoroughbreds whose legs would not stand the work needed to develop their lungs and muscles were taken out behind a boat in Sheephead bay or the Atlantic ocean. They swam themselves into condition without placing any strain on foot or tendon. The trotting turf finds a parallel in the case of the great Canadian campaigner Phyllis by Phil Sheridan, which Charles Wagner of Dickinsons Landing raced over the Grand circuit twenty-five years ago. Phyllis was lame the day before a race at Cleveland and the talent would have none of her, but the crafty old Canadian swam the mare in Lake Erie, bet his money in the pool box and won the race.—New York Herald.

Just how much of the present business "depression" is due to psychology and how much is due to real financial and business facts is a question. Forbes' Magazine in a recent editorial declares that travel records this summer compare favorably with those of other years, and that hotels and restaurants are doing well. Betting on horse races and attendance at ball games holds up, while everybody seems to be still running about in automobiles. Passage in ocean liners to Europe is sought by throngs of travelers, and after all the country doesn't seem to have absolutely arrived at the dogs, wherever that may be.—Ft. Worth Record.

We suppose most editors are constantly receiving advice as to what they should and should not put in a paper. One person hears of a big scandal and urges the "paper man" to put it up scary because, when reasons are found, they are not particularly "stuck on" that family anyway. Another person comes along and wants that particular item left out, or they want to dictate to the editor just what to say regarding it. We are frank to admit that many things are best left unpublished. Unless it is a clean news item it had better be left unpublished where there is absolutely no good to be gained by its publicity and which would only make it worse. But newspaper men, as a rule, are best judges of this. We spend a lifetime studying just such questions. They are put into practice every week, and until a person has actually been on a "firing line," as newspaper men are, they would hardly be calculated to be capable critics.—Paducah Post.

WHY ADVERTISE?

Why does a small boy whistle when he goes through a graveyard on a dark night?

For the self same reason that he ought to advertise NOW.

It's comes from a preacher who says that it ought to be good "pipe stuffin'." He says, "Light up and think about it."

Companionship is the life of trade. The merchant who fails to attract the people to his store, fails to make them companions in his trade. The small boy going through a graveyard at night feels the need of companionship and so he whistles. It makes him less lonesome and the effort to create a tune enables him to forget himself and his fear.

The merchant who advertises soon finds that he has no time to be lonesome for it keeps him busy attending to the needs of those who flock to his store. The preacher's logic is good and well worth considering.—Ft. Worth Record.

ONE REASON FOR TREES

Utilitarian reasons always appeal more strongly to some men than aesthetic. Tree planting has been urged because it makes the home more attractive. This is a remarkably utilitarian reason—although

DEMOCRACY DEFINED

James Bryce challenges American champions of democracy by his definition of democracy, although it is pretty much a deduction from American conditions and experience.

In his new book, "Modern Democracies," he defines the term as follows: "Democracy in actual practice is government by the few for the people." Which is a differentiation from that "government of the people, by the people, for the people," which Abraham Lincoln had in mind.

Lord Bryce gives this reason for his definition: "The majority of citizens generally troubles themselves so little about public affairs that they willingly leave all but the most important to be dealt with by few."

That reason has an obvious look to any American. In practice exactly what Americans do, is to trouble themselves very little indeed about public affairs.

The average American, indeed has an engrossing troubles of his own or interests that concern him much. He has his living to make, his family and social circles, his church, his clubs, his amusements. When he gets around to public affairs he usually has small time to bestow and no great attention.

Still in the United States we pride ourselves upon public opinion, and fancy that by its exercise we fairly make up for individual delinquencies as citizens and voters. No doubt public opinion does decide; but public opinion does not always form and frequently is delayed. It forms usually only in regard to the more important affairs and thus illustrates Lord Bryce's remark as to our people's willingness to leave to the few all but the most important suggestions.

Democracy in practice is not democracy in theory. But democracy in practice works out comparatively well, so that there is no occasion for Americans anyhow to regret their form of government. We have been served by democracy extraordinarily well for a century and a half now. True democracy is to narrow the margin between ideal and actuality, and to do that is possible whenever and as much as we please.

GOVERNOR NEFF PERFORMS DUTY

"As far as I know," says Governor Neff in his message to the Legislature, "this will be my only message to this special session, and for that reason I feel it my duty to again call your attention to the fact that Texas has not been redistricted into Senatorial districts for twenty years. The Constitution demands that the State be redistricted into Representative and Senatorial districts every ten years. The Democratic platform on which you ran for office demands that this Legislature thus redistrict the State. The bill passed by the first called session a few days ago does not fulfill either the letter or the spirit of the Constitution or the party platform. Therefore, the matter of redistricting the State into Senatorial and Representative districts is cordially submitted to you for the third time, in order that this work, committed to your hands by the people of Texas, may be done so that said acts will go into effect now and not in 1924 as heretofore enacted by you."

That means, of course, that Governor Neff will veto the bill pending before him, for certainly he cannot bring himself to sign a bill which "does not fulfill either the letter or the spirit of the Constitution or the party platform." It is up to the Legislature, therefore, to pass a redistricting bill without the Wood amendment. The Wood amendment would postpone redistricting beyond the next election, and aside from the injustice of this, we do not believe that the Legislature has the power, under the Constitution, to do such a thing. If we are to have a redistricting bill that will stand up in the courts beyond the shadow of a doubt, it must go into effect immediately. It ought not to take more than a few days to pass a redistricting bill through both houses. Let the bill that has been passed be reintroduced in the House, with only the Wood amendment eliminated, let it be promptly passed and sent over to the Senate. Then let the Senate pass the bill as it stands, without the Wood amendment. There is no call to open up the whole question of the districts, although we do not think the bill is ideal in that respect.

We cannot commend too highly Governor Neff's action in resubmitting this matter, and indicating that the present bill is not acceptable. The Legislature, we think, will not pass a measure that will stand the test of the Constitution and that will finally perform an act of ordinary justice that has been too long postponed. We take this for granted, for certainly the gentlemen in the State Senate must realize by this time that they cannot escape a plain mandate of the Constitution and they should not desire to escape it. Governor Neff very pertinently call attention to the further fact that the passage of such a measure is a platform demand. With both the Constitution and the party platform before them, the gentlemen of the Senate ought to be ready by this time to do their duty. However, we take it for granted also that Governor Neff realizes fully his own duty in the matter, and that if an adequate bill is not passed at the present session he will be prepared to call the Legislature back until it does pass one.

This matter is no mere question of whether legislation is desirable or not. Our very form of government and the question of fundamental democracy are involved in it. Under the present law tens of thousands of citizens of Texas are denied equal representation in the State Senate. These citizens pay taxes and, this State Senate in which they are inadequately represented, disposes of the revenue raised by means of such taxes. Without any straining of the truth or indulgence in mere rhetoric it can be said that this is precisely the question that the Revolutionary War was fought over. The Texas Senate cannot postpone its settlement any longer, and we do not believe that it will postpone it. But if it does postpone it again, the question is fundamental enough and of such surpassing importance to warrant Governor Neff calling the Legislature back into still another session and keeping the gentlemen in Austin until they pass an adequate bill. Indeed it will not only warrant such action, it will make such action an imperative duty of the Governor.—Ft. Worth Star-Telegram.

IT ISN'T YOUR TOWN

If you want to live
In the kind of a town,
Live the kind of a town you like,
You needn't slip
Your clothes in a grip
And start on a long, long hike;
For you'll only find
What you've left behind
There's nothing that's really new,
It's a knock at yourself,
When you knock your town—
For it isn't your town—it's YOU!
Real towns are not made
By men afraid
That somebody else gets ahead;
If everyone works,
And nobody shirks,
You can raise a town from the dead.
And if while YOU make
Your personal stake,
Your neighbor should make one too.
Then your town would be
What you want it to be,
For it isn't your town—it's YOU!

LELIA LAKE METHODISTS HAVE GREAT REVIVAL

Rev. J. R. Rich, pastor of the Lelia Lake Methodist Church, was in this city Saturday and reported that the revival which his church has just conducted was a great success and that the power of the old time religion was manifest at every meeting. About fifteen conversions were had; Rev. L. N. Lipscomb, of Chillicothe, did the preaching.

Among the conversions was one for work in the foreign mission fields. The church is much benefited by the meeting, and Rev. Rich feels that the year will be ended in fine shape. Rev. Lipscomb was a fluent speaker, and the power of his preaching was persuasive and convincing. A good offering was made up for the evangelist.

Miss Effie Baker, of Santa Anna, passed through this city Monday enroute to Seattle, Washington, from where she will go to Japan where she has given her life to Missionary work. She is a niece of Mrs. Joe Warren of this city.

Miss Bess King, of Chillicothe, and Mrs. J. E. Roberts, of Goodlett, left Saturday evening for their homes after a visit in this city with Mr. and Mrs. Homer Mulkey.

Jesse Cameron was through here Friday enroute to Shamrock where he will visit with friends.

THE GREAT CHARTER

U. M. ROSE

The Clarendon News' Americanization series

No one can sum up the debt that we owe to the Magna Charta, the one great product of the Middle Ages. We look back with feelings of aversion and pity to that dark and troubled period; to its insane cruelties, to its fanatical intolerance to its pedantic and barren literature, to its scholastic disputes, to its cruelty, rapine, and bloodshed. But the genius that presides over human destiny never sleeps; and it was precisely in that most sterile and unpromising age that the groundwork was laid for all that is valuable in modern civilization. As an unborn forest sleeps unconsciously in an acorn cup, all the creations and all the potentialities of that civilization lay enfolded in the guaranty of personal liberty and of the supremacy of the law that was secured at Runnymede. The various bills and petitions of right, and the Habeas Corpus Act, which they have given new sanctions to liberty, are but echoes of the Great Charter; and our Declaration of Independence is but the Magna Charta writ large, and expanded to meet the wants of a new generation of freemen, fighting the battle of life beneath other skies.

And Is Happening to Clarendon People Every Week

The case told below is not an uncommon thing. The same occurs frequently and will continue to happen as long as folks have kidneys and overtaken kidneys.

J. M. Capehart, Clarendon, says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills off and on for several years and gladly recommend them. Before I tried Doan's, I was troubled a lot with rheumatic pains in my joints. My back was weak and I had sharp pains through it. The kidney secretions passed too frequently, getting me up often at night. Doan's Kidney Pills have never failed to relieve me of any signs of the complaint. They have done me more good than any other remedy I have ever used." (Statement given November 27th, 1915.)

MEAT CAUSE OF KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take a glass of Salts if your Back hurts or Bladder bothers—Meat forms uric acid.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.

If you want pasture, plenty of water and good grass. Phone No. 1002-2R. J. H. Koeninger, (34p)

JEAN DENNIS BRIDE OF ANAHEIM MAN

One of the most interesting social events of the season took place Saturday at four o'clock, when Miss Jean C. Dennis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Dennis, of this city became the bride of Mr. Duff Lee Dean, of Anaheim, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Dean of Clarendon, Texas. The ceremony occurred at the home of the bride's parents.

Preceding the wedding which took place on the front lawn banked with ferns, shrubbery and pink anemones. Mrs. Nat Neff, sang "Becausé" accompanied by Mrs. Barry McPhee. Both are of Santa Anna and are aunts of the bride.

Miss Margaret Parker played Lohengren's wedding march as the couple approached, and Rev. S. S. Sampson, pastor of the Methodist church read the beautiful ring ceremony.

The bride was gowned in a becoming dress of white crepe de chine and carried a huge bouquet of brides roses.

After the ceremony a reception followed at which cooling refreshments were served by the Misses Margaret Parker, Florence Pikeley, Maurine Kellar, Lota Blythe, Frances Scaritt, Dorothy Guthrie, Rita Balcom of Santa Paula, and Dorothy Roberts of Long Beach.

The wedding party consisted of about sixty people, relatives, friends and sorority sisters of the bride. Immediately following the reception the happy couple left for Point Loma and Coronado, where they will spend a week. The bride wore a navy blue tulle going away suit with beige accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean will make their home at the Claudina Court, in Anaheim, where Mr. Dean holds a responsible position as cashier of the Sperry Flour Company. Mrs. Dean is a graduate of the Orange high school. She latter attended the university of Southern California, where she was a member of Alpha Chi Omega sorority.

Out of town guests included Messrs Scott Crail, Merl McInnes, and George Campbell of Los Angeles, and Cassius Paul of Santa Ana.—Orange (Calif.) Daily News.

The formal opening of the college will be at 9 a. m., September 13th at which time, we would be glad to have all the patrons and friends of the college present. Entrance examination for those who come from non-affiliated schools will begin September 9th at which time the dormitories will be open and all teachers will be in their places.

New Features

First, Business Course
The full business course, type-writing, short-hand and bookkeeping will be given at prices that will be less than those in the regular business colleges. There has been such a demand for this work that we have decided to put in this course permanently. The course given will be practically that given by Tyler Commercial College.

Second, City School Studios
After learning that the Public School board was not going to secure a music teacher for the Public School, I conferred with the board about placing studios in close proximity to the Public School buildings. Each individual expressed himself as not only being in sympathy with it but expressed a desire that it should be done and that if it could be made permanent, it would be of great help to the pupils of the public school who desired to do this work. So we have arranged for studios in the building occupied by Mr. Bolander which is about half way between the two school buildings. This will make it convenient for all those who attend the public school.

It has been my desire for years to unify the music situation in Clarendon, in order to build a real conservatory. To do this it is necessary to keep continuously splendid artists in the various fields of music and this cannot be done without a large number of pupils. All who patronize these studios will be patronizing the College and helping the establish a real conservatory in Clarendon.

I have no criticism for any individual who plans to teach privately as they are thoroughly within the bounds of their personal rights in this matter but any one is bound to see that with from one to half a dozen teaching privately will lessen that much the chances for the College to build a real conservatory. Besides a pupil should begin studying in the fine arts in the line of work and in use of the method he intends to continue to pursue all his graduation, as we have found that it often takes as long as it does to put pupils on the right line of development. We are contemplating the grading of this work just as other work is graded. If this is done, the charges will be made in proportion to the nature and grade of the work done.

Anyone who desires to enroll in this department may do so by calling the College office. There will be someone in the studios the day the public school opens to enroll any who desire to take work in this department. G. S. Slover.

A FRANK STATEMENT ABOUT THE COLLEGE

It has been my policy to keep the community informed about the general status of the college as I think the people as a whole are considering it more and more a community institution. I am neither a pessimist nor an alarmist but try to look the facts squarely in the face as they are and form plans to meet them. The college authorities have never had more difficult problems to confront than they have had during the past few months and will have for at least the next twelve. Of course we plan like we have always done to meet and solve all of them which we no doubt will do but the college is going to need the full co-operation of the whole community during the next twelve months as badly as it has ever needed it during its history. ARE THE KU KLUX ORGANIZED HERE?

Various and sundry notes, some of them so roughly written and arranged as to destroy all belief that they were the production of the Ku Klux, others drawn up in such adroit manner as to prove that their author is not so unsophisticated as the author of the first, and declarations of surveillance and general vigilance drawn in such terms as to strike fear to the heart of the most intrepid, have been left at various places of business in this city. Everything from mild surprise to deep consternation reigned Friday when a note was discovered in the office of the News, the same declaring that the Knights of the Fiery Cross had organized here, and that they would initiate a campaign of vigilance. Some people have taken the whole affair as the production of some facetious chap with a polluted sense of humor; and to prove this they say that the most serious doubts as to the genuineness of the notes may be entertained since the notes do not bear the official seal of the Klan. Others are equally sure that the messages originated within the light of the fiery cross and that their words are to be received with sorrow.

The majority of the citizenship of Clarendon received the notes with little interest other than to see how nearly the author of the message stayed with some of the time-honored forms given in the "Clansman." That there is no class seems to be proved by the fact there is no official seal on any message. That there is a clan stands the doctrine of the reasonable doubt, since it can not be known that there is no clan. Who knows?

MISS TEAGUE DELIGHTFUL HOSTESS AT SEVERAL SOCIAL AFFAIRS LAST WEEK

Mr. Charles Ferguson was awarded consolation for his one score.

Refreshing punch was served throughout the evening, followed by a delicious ice course at the conclusion of the games. Those present were: Miss Loma Madden of Memphis, Misses Oressa Teague, Mary Olivia Gordon, Orville Hendrick and Lora Mae Harvey, Thelma Allen and Evadne Hurn and Messrs J. D. Hay and T. THINK

(By Frank M. Clark, Hedley, Texas)
You will never learn until you learn to think. Talking is a great asset. Many men have talked their way to success and fame, but earlier in their lives they did a great deal of thinking.

After you have acquired the art of thinking constructively, you are ready to place your thoughts in words and actions. No matter what your profession or style of work may be, without some real constructive thinking you are a failure.

If you are only slopping the Poland breeder feces his pigs all the feed that they care for, and afterward gives them their milk. He knows from studying the nature of the pig, that if he fed him his milk first that he would not eat so much feed if he were partly satisfied with a more palatable feed. He also knows that the more that he can get him to eat and digest the more profit he will make. The man that can make him bigger and better than the average man by taking advantage of the manner of feeding, is in the class of expert. Thoughts and actions make professionals.

If you are a herdsmen you can learn to know hogs and salesmanship. Or you can neglect to think and place your thought into realities and you are with a class that is plentiful.

The world is reaching out for the practical trained man. But if you can do no better than the average, the day that business begins to drag, you are off the pay-roll.

The breeders of Poland Chinas are constantly on the lookout for the thinking practical herdsmen. The average herdsmen are plentiful today and only in times of exceptions are they ever sure that they will hold their jobs another month.

The clamor today is for skilled men. It will continue to be so, no matter what conditions are. Business must go forward. Think and then act.—Better Poland Magazine.

RED CROSS NUHEALTH

Of all dangerous disease which exact levy on humanity tuberculosis or consumption is perhaps the most universally dreaded, and with reason.

Tuberculosis is the largest single cause of death in middle life claiming one-half of deaths from all causes. From 15 to 46 years of age it takes approximately one third of all deaths, with a grand total of about 160,000 per year.

Statistics from the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company show that one of its policy holders dies from consumption every half hour day and night the year round—and this is only one of the many companies.

Consumption is curable, but only if properly treated and taken early. Neglect is practically equivalent to signing the patient's death warrant.

A cough lasting longer than a month, loss of weight, slight fever and tiredness, spitting of blood, are all symptoms and if they appear the person should at once consult a good doctor for an examination.

If consumption is discovered, the only cure is to bring the body to a condition of strength sufficient to resist and at length to destroy the best means being good food, rest, germs. Medicines do little good, the fresh air, out-door life and freedom from worry.

If the patient cannot go to a sanatorium he may be treated at home safely with the observance of certain rules. He should occupy a room alone without rugs. He should sleep as nearly in a condition to represent out-of-doors as possible. Windows should be open day and night. He should have a special set of dishes to be used by himself only. He should always spit into a container and the sputum be destroyed and the container burned or thoroughly cleaned frequently, as the spit is the most active means of spreading the disease.

Keep away dampness, dirt and darkness from the environment of the patient. Sunshine, pure air and cleanliness are the greatest aids in fighting the plague. Use them freely, and keep the patient under the care of the doctor.

To Ford Owners:

Who made it possible for you to get any piece about a Ford car on a moments notice? Does service like this mean anything to you? Suppose we did not carry a ten thousand dollar stock of Ford and Fordson parts right here in Clarendon? You would have to wait for parts to be ordered and would lose from 5 to 30 days use of your car every time you had a break down. This is worth your consideration when thinking of buying a car and having one repaired. Bring it here where we have genuine Ford parts, expert Ford workmen and all the latest machinery and tools for doing Ford work. We have been selected by the Ford Motor Co., as their authorized sales and service agent for Donley county because we are better equipped to take care of Ford cars. They require that we carry nothing but genuine Ford parts, work on Ford cars only and keep competent mechanics. There are lots of counterfeit parts being put into Ford cars in this county and the reason is that the dealer who sells them to you paid less for them than genuine Ford parts would cost because they are made of cheap material and will not last. There is just one way of being sure of getting genuine Ford parts put into your car and that is to bring it to the Authorized Service Station for Ford cars, you will find our charges very reasonable considering the class of work we give you. Some fellows talk about how cheap they can do a job—not how cheap. Bring your next repair job here. Where we have the parts, the machinery and the mechanics and to a business concern that doesn't change hands every change of the moon. We have been giving you continuous service now for over 5 years.

MENTAL TESTS

New York, Aug. 13.—From the master mind of Hudson Maxim, 68, who has invented a hundred things from canned food to smokeless powder, comes a questionnaire similar to those put out by the Wizard of Orange, Thomas A. Edison.

It is interesting to note that Maxim, answered all except six of Edison's 145 questions.

Here are some of the Maxim questions, framed as his guide to one's mental equipment, with answers below.

One—Where on the surface of the earth would a hunter be standing who, seeing a deer to the east, would point his gun north to shoot the deer?

Two—What causes the cold currents coming down from the north to hug the American coast?

Three—If one were to fly by airplane around the earth in a westerly direction at the speed of the earth's rotation, starting from New York at noon on Sunday, it would be noon with him during the entire voyage; but where would the day change from Sunday noon to Monday noon?

Four—Would it take any more pickets to build a picket fence a mile and a quarter long over a hill than it would to build it a mile long on the level in a tunnel thru the hill?

Five—Would it take any more stone to build a stone wall four feet high and three feet wide and a mile and a quarter long over a hill than it would to build it a mile long on the level in a tunnel through the hill?

Six—Would it take any more rails to build a five-rail fence a mile and a quarter long over a hill than it would to build a five-rail fence in a tunnel a mile long thru the hill?

Seven—When an express train passes a bystander, whistling the while, the pitch of the whistle is abnormally high as the train approaches, normal when opposite the bystander and abnormally low after the train has passed. Why is this?

Eight—Which is the correct answer to the following arithmetical problem?  $2x2$  plus  $8x8$  divided by 2.

Nine—In the following problem in algebra:  $x$  equals  $a$ . Multiplying by  $x$ ,  $x^2$  equals  $ax$ , minus  $a^2$ . Dividing by  $x$  minus  $a$ ,  $x$  plus  $a$  equals  $a$ .

Explain how it is that starting with  $x$  equals  $a$  we are able to get  $x$  plus  $a$  equals  $a$ . ( $a^2$  and  $x^2$  are used for  $x$  square and  $a$  square respectively.)

Ten—What is the difference between two and two and two twice?

Eleven—Punctuate this sentence to make sense: That that is that that is not is not that that it is.

Maxim Answers Them

One—A short distance from the North Pole, and he would have to fire over the pole.

Two—The earth rotates from west to east under the water, while the water is accelerated to participate in the earth's rotations.

Three—At the international date line in the middle of the Pacific Ocean.

Four—It would not take any more pickets.

Five—It would not take any more stone.

Six—It would require more rails to build the fence over the hill.

Seven—Because of the rarefied state of the intervening heated air and gases.

Eight—The correct answer is, thirty-four.

Nine—The coefficient of the factors is zero. Consequently zero plus zero equals zero.

Ten—One is addition and the other multiplication.

Eleven—That that is, is; that that is not, is not. Is not that it? It is.

BACK TO CHURCH AND SCHOOL—THEN GO STRAIGHT

Uncle Sam has been driving pretty fast in these last years. He has all the latest and most powerful appliances and he has been speeding along the road of progress at a rapid clip.

But he is slowing down now. He has come to where the roads fork. He's carrying a lot of people, each one of whom wants him to follow the advice of a different signboard. And they are quarreling among themselves as to which way to go.

There are a lot of theorists in this country. Some are red and some are blue and some are yellow. They believe in "isms." We have socialism and bolshevism and communism and atheism and a whole flock of "isms" made by one-sided people with single-track minds and half-baked ideas.

Each one thinks his theory is the one which his nation should adopt and follow. To him everything else under the sun and above it is subordinate to his own pet idea.

In the midst of it all Uncle Sam has grown muddled and confused. He is beginning to doubt all the new-fangled signboards that people have erected to guide him.

In the cartoon the spirit of Lincoln appears to the nation. He carries an axe, the Bible, "Pilgrim's Progress," and a textbook on geometry. They are symbols of honest and unremitting toil, of simple and untiring faith, of thorough and fundamental learning.

And to Uncle Sam, the speedster, with his luxurious equipment and cargo of radicals, the spirit of the rail-splitter gives this advice: "Turn back to the little red schoolhouse and the white church; then go straight ahead."

Sound advice that! We've run by the schoolhouse and the church. We've neglected the things that gave us our national greatness. We've turned aside from the counsels of our fathers.

Shall we not turn back? Can we not rid ourselves of the selfishness, the sordidness, the commercialism, the greed, the iconoclasm of our war-damaged times and turn back to those high and holy purposes wrought in the very fabric of our Americanism?

We ought to do it. And by the fates we've got to do it or we'll whirl into the ditch. There is no land of pure delight at the end of the road we are on. There's only the sloughs of calamity, and we'll certainly skid into them unless we stop stepping on the throttle.

Come on! Let's turn around and go back to the place where the church house and the school house stand side by side, where children are trained in the nature and admonition of the Lord and started on the right road. Wesley's advice is what we need: "Let us unite the two so long divided—Knowledge and vital piety."

There is only One who is the Way, the Truth, and the Life. There is none other who is the Light of the World. He knows where we ought to go and He'll lead us on. And the road He points out leads straight ahead from where the little church and the little school stand side by side.—Christian Education.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed with Sulphur It Darkens so Naturally Nobody can Tell.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite natural, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire a more youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

SAVINGS AND HOME-OWNING GEODETIC SURVEY

BEING MADE

Big savings accounts in the banks are ordinarily to be welcomed. They are evidence of thrift and prosperity among the people. They tend to counteract the impression that Americans are extravagant. Everybody will agree that all should save a part of their income.

Mr. Hoover's theory that too large a proportion of the people's savings has been going into bank accounts and securities and too little into homes is something worth thinking about, however. He says that this has gone on until there are now 111 families to 100 homes in the United States, and the disastrous housing shortage is the result. He suggests that the saving funds of the country be made available for use in building more homes and relieving the housing shortage.

Perhaps Mr. Hoover and the financiers can work out a plan whereby such diversion of savings funds can be made. At present there is surely a lack of capital and credit for necessary building, and providing access to a new reservoir of funds would be an important development in relieving the housing crisis.

But whether any steps in this direction be taken or not, Mr. Hoover has certainly called attention to a defect in the America system of saving. The home should have first claim on the family's savings. A savings account in a bank is a fine thing, but it is a better thing after the family's home has been paid for. Every family's first savings account should be represented by a home, something which has a moral and social value infinitely greater than a sum of money lying in a bank drawing a small interest return.

Heretofore, Southern people have been more inclined to use their savings into homes than have the people of the Northern and Eastern industrial centers. With the rapid growth of Southern cities in recent years, however, savings accounts have expanded at the expense of home-owning here in the South, also, and the South consequently has been affected by the housing shortage, and the increase of tenancy.

Saving and buying a home is a somewhat more difficult task than merely saving without a particular end in view. It requires a concentration of purpose, constant industry and sometimes inconvenience to buy a home and pay it out, but the process of self-denial builds character and makes a better citizen of the home-owner in the end.

As between the two classes of savers, those who save money and those who save homes, the latter are to be preferred. But as the Post suggested the other day, it will require more than money to stimulate home-building in America today. A revival of the homeowning instinct must come first. While devising means for securing the funds for home-building, the matter of conducting a campaign of education and inspiration on home-owning must be given equal attention.—Houston Post.

THE OTHER FELLOW'S SAY

Hand in Hand Business success and advertising go hand-in-hand. The best way to judge the business enterprise of any community is by the size and frequency of the ads in the local paper. All readers are strangers until they buy. The business visitor to Culpeper is a stranger until he buys a few meals; and the permanent resident is very much a stranger at the store he has never been invited to patronize. The large, attractive display advertisement holds attention and arouses respect and confidence. It cries out: "Low costs, low overhead, low selling prices, quality goods." It dominates the page, of course, just as the mansion of many rooms looms up larger than the shack. All advertisements are read—big and little. Everybody knows that, and the statement calls for no argument. But the merchant who is seeking real business success, and who wants to advertise the best way and to get the most for his money is the one who realizes that the larger the advertisement the greater its pulling power.—Culpeper (Va.) PEOPLE'S PHARMACY

The United States Coast and Geodetic Survey department is running a line of triangulation from Oklahoma City, through Amarillo and the Panhandle to Albuquerque, N. M., for the purpose of establishing a perfect base map of this section of the country, according to E. O. Heaton, a junior hydrographic and geodetic engineer for the Government, who has been in Amarillo for the past two weeks in charge of the work here.

A series of towers, approximately 100 feet high have been stationed at intervals of from ten to ninety miles apart throughout the Panhandle for observation purposes. One of the observation towers has been erected on the Benton farm about two miles east of Amarillo, and others have been erected at Washburn, Shamrock, Jericho, Hedley, Lark, Bushland, Vega, Clarendon and near Canyon. About thirty towers will be erected between Oklahoma City and Albuquerque covering a distance of approximately 550 miles.

The running of the lines of triangulation and the establishing of latitudinal and longitudinal positions is primarily for the purpose of setting starting points to be used in the compiling of topographical maps by the Geographical Survey Department and the furnishing of any information in the matter of correct mapping and other engineering projects, Mr. Heaton declared. The curvature of the earth's surface is one of the prime factors of the work of the government engineers in the geodetic survey, Mr. Heaton declared, and when the stations are once established, the lines are absolutely perfect from an engineering standpoint.

The towers used in the observation work are donated to the owners of the land on which it was erected, when the survey work is finished, the engineer declared. The tower on the Benton farm will be replaced with a brass plate set in concrete three feet in the ground, and will be a permanent marker, known to the government as the Benton Primary Triangular Station.

With the completion of the survey through the Panhandle, known in government engineering circles as the El Reno-Needles, Ariz. and Coast and Geodetic Survey Department will have completed the entire triangular lines, crossing the United States from coast to coast five or six times. The extreme northern line is on the Canadian-United States boundary.

Twelve men and four motor trucks are required to conduct the survey here. All work is done at night and lights are used as signals, five stations being under observation at the same time, covering a vision

CO-OPERATION PUTS HIGHWAY OVER

The Woodward Oklahoma City highway, connecting six counties in the northwestern part of the state and running through thirteen towns, is complete and is now ready for traffic. The road is approximately 175 miles in length and was built at a cost of $1,000,000.

Six trucks will be put in service immediately on the new road, operated on regular schedule by the Service Truck company of Oklahoma City. Markers are being prepared and will be stationed every mile along the road. It is expected this will open up a new trade with northwestern part of the state and practically double the business between Oklahoma City and concerns in this territory. Opening of the road will come as a welcome alternative from the high freight rates, it is believed.

Work on the highway was started the latter part of May.

Every county served by it, comprising Oklahoma, Kingfisher, Logan, Blaine, Dewey and Woodward counties, donated to its cost and have made arrangement for its upkeep. Three bridges aggregating $330,000 have been constructed on the road. The town of Longdale, with a population of 400 raised $2,000 alone for the project, Kiel, a town in Kingfisher county furnished the services of ninety-nine men and teams for two weeks. Every town showed like enthusiasm in donating labor and money. Lockridge, Cashion, Reading, Kingfisher.

SAY IN THRIFT

A dispatch from Washington reports the head of the Savings Division of the Treasury as saying that war savings securities "valued at $672,520 are still in the hands of investors." A telegrapher or printer must have left off three ciphers in other numerals, obviously.

Mr. Houston in his last report to Congress as Secretary of the Treasury stated that "cash receipts from the sale of stamps and Treasury savings certificates from the first month of their issue to Oct. 31, 1920," had amounted to $1,172,264, 753.25, and that redemptions up to Sept. 30 of the same year had totaled $372,287,319.61, leaving approximately $800,000,000 outstanding. By assuming that since Sept. 30 last year redemptions have exceeded sales by about $138,000,000, one gets reason for thinking that the amount outstanding is now $672,520,000 in- stead of the $672,520 stated in the dispatch. The head of the Savings Division is also quoted as saying that "the capital holdings of war savings certificates for sale, $4.40." If by per capita is meant per head of population, this last named statement could be reconciled to the assumption that the total amount outstanding is something like $672,520,000 but could not be reconciled to the statement in the press dispatch that it is only $672,520. However, that statement must seem so obviously incorrect as hardly to make any argument in disproof of it necessary.

The head of the Savings Division is further reported as saying that the country has acquired the habit of thrift as a result of its patriotic response to the Government's appeals for financial help by offering war savings certificates for sale. That would not be a justifiable conclusion if the amount of these securities outstanding was only $672,520. But it would be a justifiable conclusion if the amount outstanding were a hundred times as great. It would not be very easy to overestimate the value of the achievement if we should acquire that habit to something like the degree that the French have long had it. It might not exaggerate to say that within a very few years, in that case, we should be wealthier because of the war than we should have been if it had not occurred. This is equivalent to saying that a financial calamity greater than any we have ever known is susceptible of being converted into a financial blessing. But that will not sound extravagant to any one who appreciates the magic-like power of labor whose product is put under the husbandry of economy. Nor would the benefit be measured by the amount of capital which would be accumulated. Probably of greater value would be the stabilizing influence which would be exerted by the practice of saving some part of earnings in lieu of the habit of spending them as fast as they are made, and not always merely as fast as they are made, but often much faster. It is this economic sin of spending our current earnings as fast as they accrue and mortgaging the prospective earnings of the future that, as much as anything else, perhaps, causes the alternations of good and bad times, the one demoralizing and the other distressing. The stream of prosperity would flow more equably if each of us impounded some part of his earnings. It would not, as it does now, either dry up or overflow.

The new whistle is about twenty inches long and nine inches in diameter. It is divided into three compartments, one being full length, another half length, and the other quarter length. This gives a musical effect. The whistle now in use was sent here when the shops were moved from Fort Worth. Just why the change is being made no one seems to know. It takes considerable steam to blow the old whistle, but with good steam pressure it can be heard for a distance of fifteen miles with favorable atmospheric conditions.—Childress Index.

HISTORY OF WEST

BY GLACIAL RECORDS

In the hope of finding glacial records which will enable scientists to read the history of the West in much more ancient days than they have been able to do hitherto, F. E. Matthes of the United States geological survey left Yosemite, Calif., recently equipped with a large pack Sierra Nevada as far south as King train, to explore the crest of the River Canyon.

So far scientists have been able to determine only that the Rocky mountain and Sierra Nevada country was invaded twice by ice. In the Mississippi valley, the Eastern states and Canada there are distinct records of at least five glacial floods. The result of Dr. Matthes' trip may be the discovery of data which will prove that the earlier ice invasion in the west in reality was two or more invasions, thereby establishing the contemporaneity of the glacial epochs over the entire North American continent.

Few men are better equipped for such study than the geologist who started from Yosemite. He mapped Yosemite valley for the geological survey and did much work on Grand Canyon, Rainier and Glacier national parks. When Albert of Belgium visited Yosemite with his queen Dr. Matthes was chosen to accompany them and explain the geological history of this park, which is recognized as one of the most fascinating riddles ever solved by science. He was made a chevalier of the Order of Leopold II by King Albert. He is best known however, for formulating the accepted theory of the formation of Yosemite Valley, which he is going to test by his observations on this trip, and which is expressed in the non-technical language of the official government guide book as follows:

"After the visitor has recovered from his first shock of astonishment—for it is no less—at the beauty of the valley, inevitably he wonders how nature made it. How did it happen, that walls so enormous rose so nearly perpendicularly from so level a floor?"

"It will not lessen wonder to learn that it was water which cut in the solid granite most of this deep valley. Originally the Merced flowed practically at the level of the canyon top. How long it took its waters, enormous in volume then, on debut, and rushing swiftly down a steep-pitched course, to scrape out this canyon with its tools of sand and rock, no man can guess. And, as it cut the valley, it left the tributary streams sloping even more sharply from their levels until eventually they poured over brinks as great waterfalls.

"But geologists have determined by unerring fact, that the river did by far the most of the work, and that the great glacier which followed the water ages afterward did little more than square its corners and steepen its cliffs. It may have increased the depth from several hundred to a thousand feet, not more."

It is to test out this theory that Dr. Matthes is climbing the crest of the jagged Sierra Nevada range, reading the story of the rocks as he goes.

"I want to make a comparative study of the Yosemite, Hetch, Hetchy and Tehepito valley and of Kings river canyon," he said. "All of them are Yosemite in form, character and mode of origin. A secondary object, which it is more difficult to explain to the public, is that I want to study the San Joaquin and Kings river basins to verify my conclusions to the successive stages or erosion in the Merced and Tuolumne canyons and Yosemite and Hetch Hetchy valleys prior to the advent of the ice. "The southern part of the Sierra Nevada is the highest part. Consequently the streams there have cut much deeper than they have in the northern part and it should be possible to read the erosional record on the stream walls on a magnified scale, thousands of feet, perhaps, where the record here covers only hundreds."

"Also I wish to look for evidence of still earlier ice invasions in the west than have been determined by science up to now. We know of two invasions. The later one left a record which is plain and unmistakable. The autograph of the earlier one is mixed, confused. It may be that the first record is the work of two glaciers instead of one, perhaps more than two, and that they were contemporaneous with the glacial invasions of the other portions of the continent, of which we know of five. The last glacial invasion was comparatively recent, only about 25,000 years ago.

"I don't know what records we are going to find, of course, but if we can establish the existence of more than two glacial floods in the west it opens many possibilities for reading the geological history of this part of the world. For instance, it might enable us to determine the approximate epoch when the last upward thrust of the Sierra Nevada range gave us the magnificent peaks in Yosemite and along the Muir trail."

Dr. Matthes and his party headed for the little used Fernandez pass in the southeast corner of Yosemite National park, from where they will swing northward to the Devil's Post Pile, thence southeastward along the famous John Muir trail on—the crest of the range. Returning in late September the party will take a lower route via Tehepito valley and Huntington lake, not following a trail, but fighting their way over virgin country.—Washington Star.

A NOBLE PROFESSION

It is high time that the public paid the respect and honor due to the nursing profession, than which there is no nobler vocation in the category of human activities. Recognition of the high character of the profession has been tardily given, except when the country's sentiments are stirred as they are during war time or when some great disaster occurs or a pestilence sweeps the country.

There are those thoughtless and uninformed persons who shrug their shoulders in a superior manner when mentioning a nurse, but why should an entire profession be criticized for the thoughtless actions of a few, and they are a very few, who fail to live up to the standards of their vocation.

There is no one in the world, not even the physician or the minister of the gospel, who enters into closer personal relations with people than does the nurse. How much her personality and her faithful work do to restore the sick to health, to give consolation and comfort to the dying, and sympathy and encouragement to the bereaved, no one can know or guess.

There is hardly a family in the land which does not owe a debt of gratitude to some faithful and self-sacrificing nurse who has stood between some loved one and suffering or death through the long hours of the night and the weary days when those nearest and dearest by blood relation were powerless to more than try to serve.

The brave and self-sacrificing service of nurses in every one of our wars, in the great disasters and pestilences which have from time to time scourged this and other nations has never been adequately recognized. The courageous labors of nurses when the great influenza epidemic swept the country at the same time when the nursing profession was carrying a large part of the war burden are deserving of a recognition of public gratitude which they never have received.

The nursing profession should be looked up to with the utmost respect and should attract the very best fitted and best educated women of the country. It is little behind the medical profession in its technical and personal attainments and public service. The doctors of the country will testify to the importance and dignity of the vocation and it is high time that the country at large recognized it.—Ft. Worth Record.

SAVINGS DEPOSITS INCREASE

Deposits in savings banks throughout the United States increased during the year 1920, according to statistics announced by the Savings Banks association of the state of New York. The report shows that in the 635 savings institutions of the country, the deposits on Jan. 1, 1921, reached an aggregate of $5,535,289,904, which was an increase of 9.30 per cent over the year 1919, which had topped all previous years.

Detailed figures are given from several sections of the country, but none from the southern states other than a report from the Mutual Savings bank in West Virginia. However, the ratio of increase in the South was shown to lead many sections of the country 11.84 per cent over last year, according to the Commercial and Financial World.

The New England states showed savings deposits amounting to $2,112,637,421, which represented an increase of 7.53. Deposits in the eastern states' savings institutions amounted to $3,186,580,900, an increase of 10.78 per cent. In the middle western states, twenty-one mutual savings banks reported an increase in deposits of $10,851,938, the greatest individual gain in this group being made by Ohio with an increase of $3,502,656, but Wisconsin made the greatest percentage of increase, 25.64. Pacific coast states showed an increase of 6.99 per cent the increase in California being 6.07 and in Washington 12.48.—Ft. Worth Record.

WHY WORRY?

The clammy howler who insists that the world is going to be bow-wows, especially at this time has not effectually read history. When we really consider what the world has weathered through in all the past ages we can go forward in faith and confidence that it will weather a lot more.

It is interesting and instructive to observe how events shape policies. There is an old saying, applicable to many things in this old vale of tears, which points out the likelihood of getting what you get, not what you want.—Ft. Worth Record.

THROWN OVERBOARD

According to Walter Duranty who writes from Riga for the New York Times, the latest victim of communism. In other words, he declares, Lenin has thrown it overboard with the exception of "a definite number of great industries of national importance," as the official announcement has it under date of Aug. 9. These industries, we learn will be those which were under governmental control in France, Germany and England during the war.

As for the minor industries, it will be the policy of the Soviet to lease these out to private enterprise, to co-operative bodies and to labor unions. Working conditions will be determined by the labor unions, as will the wage scale; and similar insignificant details, except where commissions are set up for this purpose by the Pan-Russian Economic Council.

In the meantime individuals will be required to pay for services rendered by State-operated industries. All that is now lacking, it appears, is the service on the part of the State industries and the capital to lease the other industries. It is declared that the object of all these beneficial changes is to encourage maximum quality production and individual development. What will happen if the maximum quantity production refuses to spring up full-grown at the first reverberation of the words of the decree is not precisely as clear as it might be. And in the event that the individual should fail to develop—that would certainly be another problem. Probably the Lenin solution will be, failing quantity production at home, to go to neighboring countries and take it by force, while the individual who stubbornly and with deliberate intent refuses to develop can be put in prison, where his development will be unimportant, anyhow.

The decree, which is said to be unanimous on the part of Lenin's "Council of Commissars of the People," has a good deal to say about the importance "during the transition period" of wages in kind and collective remuneration. Mr. Duranty isn't sure what the collective remuneration is to be, but he supposes that some scheme of profit-sharing is referred to. But the decree is out, everything is settled and all that Russia is waiting for now is for something to happen.—Dallas News.

WHAT WE NEED

Walter Bremond of Austin says we need to go to work in this country. He expounds this idea in an article in Commerce and Finance (New York) for Aug. 3. The article is remarkable not only for its literary excellence, but for its common sense as well. He begins with the significant statement that "There are just two things the matter with this country—one is Europe, the other is the United States." He declares that before the war our attitude was that if Germany would confine her efforts to the matter of industrial leadership we would concede her a place in the sun. "The good faith of this profession," he declares, "is being challenged." For Germany has gone to work and is now turning out steel at $36 a ton when it takes $72 to produce it in America. A moving picture that costs $7,000 in Germany would cost $350,000 to manufacture in this country. Other indications point in the same general direction. Meanwhile, "we are contemplating every practical proposition with political prejudice, setting up tariff barriers, inaugurating strikes and lockouts, wrangling over wages and hours, debating obsolete questions of political economy and frantically trying to work some economic miracle," says Mr. Bremond.

Mr. Bremond thinks that too many of us are loafing. There is too much fol-de-rol, checker-playing and golf. "Every store and post-office in the country, like every corner and shady rendezvous in town, has its quota of incurable idlers," he declares and then remarks, "It is strange how the two classes of those who do work, even if sometimes unfaithfully and unfairly, seldom have a word of reproach for the loafer, the deadbeat, the social sponge, who lives upon us all." He then relates a dream which he says he had: "I thought there was some psycho-logic wave, and every man, woman, and child woke up one morning with the desire and will to devote every leisure hour to some form of work." The Elks put aside their dominions and meeting with the Lions, Kiwanians and Rotarians in their neighborhood streets, cleared the drains and gathered up the loose stones;

the swarm of loafers at the Littlefield corner melted away, taking the best job that offered; cheerfully accepting one dollar if no one offered five; the League of Women Voters adjourned its meetings and the members found plenty to do in their own households; the moving picture censor closed his desk and went home to whitewash a chicken coop; the children pulled up the weeds in the school yard; the preacher talked about the dignity of labor and made it clear that one could pray just as effectually in overalls as in pajamas; the ladies found the garden travel just as restful to tired nerves as bridge, and the men that more could be accomplished with the hoe than with the golf club. Even the university professor quit his job of superintending the earth to mow the campus lawn. The great army of uplifters disbanded. Everybody was busy and there was nobody to reform. One afternoon the fire truck swung down the street, and not a single automobile chased after it. There was a dog fight on Congress avenue and no crowd gathered to see how it came out. A pretty girl got on the street car, exposing a dimpled knee, but nobody saw it. The man who had always stood on that corner was painting his front gate. Everywhere was heard the swish of the paint brush and the cheerful music of the hammer as I saw. After a bit a stranger came to town. He found the most cheerful, friendly and self-respecting people he had ever seen, and Austin became the cleanest, most orderly and beautiful city in the world. A man who had been asleep for sixty days woke up. He thought he was in heaven.

There's a dream that is more than a dream. It's a prescription for what ails us.—Dallas News.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH

The pastor will speak at both services next Lord's Day at the Christian Church. He will use for his subject at the morning hour, "The Fool's Creed" and at the evening hour he will speak on the subject: "The Origin of the Red Man." He was to have spoken on this subject two weeks ago but was rained out. Many have asked that he use this subject next Sunday evening and he will do so. It will be of more than ordinary interest to all who will hear it. It will give those who hear it a different idea of the human race. He will read the origin of the Red man out of the Bible and when once his origin is known the other races will be seen in a clearer light and their origin can be traced. He will also show where the black man did not come from and the purpose for which he was created. No one interested in what the Book says about the races can afford to miss this sermon. The service will begin at 8 p. m.

Firestone
Again Reduces Price

Extra Size 30x3 1/2 $16.65

Now $13.95

Firestone first made the low price of $13.95 on the Standard Non-Skid, May 2. Unusual purchasing power through big volume of business, and the great efficiency of its $7,000,000 Plant No. 2, manufacturing exclusively 30x3 1/2 size, made this possible. Now, the production of the Extra-Size 30x3 1/2 tire has been transferred to Plant No. 2. This permits the price reduction on this tire from $16.65 to $13.95. No such value has ever before been offered tire users. If your dealer hasn't the Extra-Size in stock ask for our Standard Non-Skid type at the same price. You will still be getting an unusual tire value.

Cords That Don't Blow Out

You feel secure on Firestone Cords. Because Firestone Cords don't blow out. Your repair man will tell you he hasn't seen a blowout this past year—10,000, 15,000 and 20,000 miles, and the tires still going strong. See your Firestone dealer today. Name below.

Firestone Cord Tires are being sold at lowest prices in cord tire history: 30x3 1/2—$24.50 32x4—$26.50 34x4 1/2—$28.50
