County Valuations Are Cut 16 Per Cent

Municipal Auditorium Planned on Grammar School Site

GOVERNMENT AID WILL BE SOUGHT

ONLY 70 PER CENT OF SMALL LOAN REQUIRED MUST BE REPAID

Revival of a long-cherished dream of Clarendon citizens developed this week with the suggestion that a comparatively small loan out of the President's grant public works program, to be financed to the extent of $3,300,000, would denude the conversion of the old grammar school building into a municipal auditorium.

Measurement of the old building and inspection of its present condition is believed to give assurance that an auditorium which will seat 800 to 1000 people can be provided, together with ample stage, back-stage and dressing room space. This can be done, it is believed, with small expense and with the necessary cash outlay so arranged that no tax of anykind can ever be levied against city taxpayers.

If carried out, the project will be made possible by Clarendon's participation in the national public works program. A wide range of projects are eligible for long-time loans at a low rate of interest, to be known as "self-liquidating" loans. Such a project as that of a municipal auditorium comes within the conditions which govern the loans, and the West Texas Chamber of Commerce is urging towns and cities within the territory to take advantage of the opportunity to secure assistance for needed public works which are eligible.

Repay Only 70 Per Cent
A highly important consideration is that only 70 per cent of the loan, coupled with the back to the government, 30 per cent of the loan being a "grant" for the project aided. In view of the low prices of building materials, the grant of 30 per cent of the loan, coupled with the utilization of site and materials already on hand, will enable the construction of the auditorium at a cost far less than was contemplated when the grammar school property was purchased by the city.

The President's purpose in asking the Congress to pass the industrial recovery act, providing for financing a public works program, is that of speeding up the return of normal economic conditions by a nation-wide stimulation of building projects. This would put men back to work in steel and other building material mills and factories, increase freight loadings, and increase employment wherever new projects get under way.

Liberal interpretations of "self-liquidating" loans will be made, it is said, as it is the wish of the government to extend aid on all projects which could ordinarily be handled under normal conditions. The government recognizes that abnormal economic conditions exist now and that the projects which it is proposed to set in motion NOW are such projects as the cities and counties and other political subdivisions could be expected to handle independently in normal times.

The property on which the proposed municipal auditorium would be developed was bought by the city for that purpose. It owns the block of land; the foundation is already laid.

"Mixed" Baseball Game Earns $21.60

Final accounting on the receipts of the recent game between the Business and Professional Women's club and the Lions club resulted in an equal division of the $21.60 between the two clubs. The ladies state that they will use their funds in sending Camp Fire Girls, who would otherwise be unable to go, to the encampment which will be held soon at the Girl Scout Camp near the Clarendon Country Club.

The Lions Club's share of the baseball game receipts will go into their Crippled Children's fund, to be used in paying expenses incident to surgery and subsequent treatments that will enable Crippled children to walk again. The club has been instrumental in aiding several parents of crippled children and the work is going on steadily.

SANDEFER SPEAKS TO LARGE CROWD

FIGHTER OF LIQUOR FOR 40 YEARS MAKES STIRRING
APPEAL TO VOTERS

Before an audience which filled the lower floor of the First Methodist church and overflowed into the balconies, Dr. J. D. Sandefer, president of Simmons University at Abilene for 25 years and fighter of the liquor traffic for the past 40 years, delivered a stirring address, bristling with facts and figures, on the impending effort to repeal the 18th Amendment.

The meeting was presided over by County Judge S. W. Lowe, who commended the fine spirit of co-operation among the churches, evidenced by the fact that all church services for that night had been called in and that all their pastors were present. A former student under Dr. Sandefer, he made a very brief introductory talk, saying that he believed it unnecessary to try to tell the audience about the man whom they had come to hear.

"It took 100 years to provoke the sentiment which finally took form in the 18th Amendment, and before the president of the United States proclaimed the new law, organizations were being formed for the avowed purpose of destroying it," said Dr. Sandefer. "They announced in the beginning that they would destroy it in ten years. The friends of the new law then went to sleep, believing that its passage was all that was necessary. Its enemies have captured the press, the picture show industry and the radio—and no one who is informed can deny it. The power of all these has been used in a constant flood of propaganda planned to destroy the people's

"Don't Throw Dead Animals On Hi-way"

Following frequent complaints by residents along the various roads is a violation of a State Guy Pierce requests The News to say for him that the practice of tossing dead chickens, cats, dogs or other animals by the side of a road is a violation of a State law.

"Complaints have been made to me quite often that people are throwing dead animals on the roadside, often paying no attention to the fact that a home may be near by. Fairminded citizens will not do such a thing as this, nor would they appreciate having some one throw a dead animal at their doorways. And I'm appealing to a sense of right to protect the people who live along our highways and other roads. Of course, if I can get information on which to make arrests, I'll do it, and gladly. It must be stopped," said the sheriff.

Mrs. R. E. Martin Is Buried Wednesday

Mrs. Evie Lena Martin, wife of R. E. Martin, died at the family home in the Chamberlain community Tuesday. She was born June 26, 1892, and was 40 years, 11 months and 17 days old at her death. In addition to her husband, she leaves eight children, three sisters and three brothers to mourn her loss.

She became a member of the Methodist church at the age of fifteen years and lived a devout Christian until the end came, a faithful wife, kind mother and the friend of all who knew her. The family moved into the Chamberlain community from Antelope Flat about two weeks ago. Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at the family home by Rev. E. B. Bowen, interment being made in the Citizens Cemetery in Clarendon under the direction of Buntin and Son, morticians.

LIONS COMPLIMENT THEIR BALL TEAM

TEN BOYS ARE GUESTS OF HONOR AT LUNCHEON
AT NOON TUESDAY

Ten members of the baseball team sponsored by the Lions Club were its guests of honor at the regular Tuesday luncheon of the club, celebrating the defeat by the club during the past week of two of the best teams in the twilight baseball league—the Baptists and the hitherto undefeated Oilers team.

George McCleskey, manager of the team was introduced by Fred A. Story, chairman of the Lions baseball committee, who complimented the sincere effort the boys have been making to weld themselves into a smoothly functioning team, and the evidence that recent games have given of splendid progress. He urged the Lions Club to extend to the boys the boosting support that means so much to any team, after which the team manager responded with the expression of the team's appreciation of the Lions' support, and pledged their continued effort to win the series of games.

He then introduced the members of the team by name and position played, with clever comment on the players. Three of four of the members of the team were unable to be present at the luncheon. Those present were: George McCleskey, Nelson Merritt, Willard O'Neal, Homer Estlack, Harold Gattis, Vernon (Bud) Veazy, Raymond Tidwell, Robert Nichols, Robert L. McKee.

To Hold Revival Here For Nazarene Church

Family Has Narrow Escape, Home Burns

The frame-and-stucco residence on West Fourth street, belonging to Homer Gorman and Rayburn Stegall, brothers-in-law whose families occupy it jointly, was totally destroyed by fire of unknown origin Thursday morning about 3:30 o'clock.

The Stegalls being in New Mexico, where Mr. Stegall recently secured employment in forestry work, only Mr. and Mrs. Gorman and one of their daughters were at home. Mr. Gorman fortunately was awakened by the suffocating smoke, but was unable to get through the door into the room where their daughter was asleep. Going out through a window, Mrs. Gorman rushed into the room to get the little girl and was singed about the face and head, but got her out.

Absolutely nothing of the house or its contents was saved, except the scanty clothing that was snatched as they ran from the burning home, which was aflame all over before any alarm was turned in. The house occupied by Guy Kerbow, east of the burning house, was endangered but was practically undamaged, as was F. A. White's home on the west. It is understood that little insurance was carried on the house and contents by Messrs. Gorman and Stegall, on whom the loss falls quite heavily.

CLEMONS BROS. BASEBALL TEAM TO PLAY AT PAMPA

The Clemons Brothers baseball team, composed of nine brothers, announce that they will play next Sunday afternoon at three o'clock, with a small admission fee charged.

The team is composed of nine brothers, who play one game each year, about the time of their father's birthday. They have never been defeated, and invite the public to see the game next Sunday.

Rev. J. W. Polk and family, of Terrell, visited his father, Rev. C. L. Polk, over the week-end. The son is pastor of a Methodist charge at Terrell, and received his B. A. degree last week at Southern Methodist University.

COLE NAMED FOR GOVERNMENT POST

WILL HANDLE MAIL FRAUD
CASES IN TEXAS FOR U.
S. ATTORNEY GENERAL

A. T. Cole, more familiarly known to Clarendon people by the honorary title of "Judge" Cole, received news Friday night of his appointment as special assistant to United States Attorney General Cummings. He will be in charge of mail fraud cases in Texas, with headquarters in Ft. Worth.

Born in Arkansas sixty-four years ago, Judge Cole was reared and grew to manhood in Johnson county, near Grandview. He attended Baylor University at Waco where he was classmate of Senator Tom F. Connally and of Judge Wm. F. Pierson, associate justice of the Texas Supreme Court, graduating with his A. B. degree in 1896. He was president of his class.

In 1898 he was elected representative in the Legislature from his home district, serving two terms, and attending the University of Texas at the same time. He was given his law degree in 1900, and at once returned to his district to campaign for re-election, engaging in 100 joint debates in six weeks, and receiving over 500 votes more than his three opponents received.

Following the last session of the legislature of which he was a member, he came to Clarendon in October, 1901, and engaged in farming on his father's farm in this section. "And I was a good farmer too," he said. "I made one of the best crops ever made in the Panhandle, and built barns and made other improvements at the same time," he added.

During 1902 he began the practice of law in Clarendon, where he has gained a reputation as one of the State's most capable attorneys, both civil and criminal law. He has always taken a keen interest in political affairs and his militant spirit has found him the ardent champion of the candidate or cause which most appealed to him. He particularly cherishes

Back Broken When Gravel Pit Caves

N. A. Sims, of Hedley, sustained a broken back Monday afternoon when a gravel pit in which he was working caved in on him, his son and another man. He was rushed to the Adair hospital in Clarendon, where fears of a broken back were confirmed by an X-ray examination. How serious his injury will prove is not yet known.

His son was thought to have had his leg broken at first, but examination revealed only a painful but not serious injury and he was taken back to his home. The third person caught by the cave-in was not badly injured and it was not necessary to bring him to the hospital.

Mr. Sims was engaged in his first day of labor on an RFC project, and was helping get out gravel for the Hedley school grounds, when the pit caved in.

OILERS ARE STILL LEADING LEAGUE

LIONS CROWD TO SECOND PLACE WITH DRUGGISTS;
LEGION WINS GAME

The sensational defeat of two of the best teams in the twilight baseball league by the Cubs of the Lions Club was the talk of the town this week. Not seriously considered as dangerous, but with two games won out of four played, they went into a game with the Baptists last Friday, spitting and snarling their defiance at the Baptists like the fighting cats they have since proved themselves to be, winning off the Baptists by the score of 3-2.

It was one of the classiest games of the series. There was nothing wrong with the Baptists' playing—except that it just wasn't quite up to the Cub's attack. Both teams gave as pretty an exhibition of support to the batteries as could be asked for. Both teams had new men in the pitcher's box—Martin for the Baptists and McKee for the Cubs. Martin has one of the fastest deliveries seen during the series. McKee doesn't pitch a fast ball, but he evidently puts what Grantland Rice calls "stuff on the ball." The batters say it is mighty hard to get a safe hit off him, if he is hit. Both pitchers are plenty good.

The following Monday the Cubs faced the undefeated Oilers, still spitting and snarling. In the first inning they clocked two runs, picking up a run or two now and then for a total of six, and allowing the Oilers only one

MEN'S BIBLE CLASS ENJOYS BUSINESS AND SOCIAL MEET

The Come as You Are, Men's Bible Class, held its monthly business meeting and social Tuesday evening in the basement of the First Christian Church. The program consisted of answering Bible Questions. Every member of the class was requested to drop a question in a box, and the teacher of the class spent over an hour answering these questions, which covered many important subjects. A good time was enjoyed by all who attended. The class recommended that it move back to the Pastime Theatre for its regular Sunday week will be back in the church this coming Sunday, but Sunday week will be back in the theatre at the regular time, nine forty-five. The men of the city are invited to be present.

Mrs. Whitfield Carhart, of Greenville, arrived Monday night for a visit of about two weeks with her mother, Mrs. R. A. Chamberlain. She came up with Mr. Carhart, who returned Tuesday.

COMMISSIONERS COMPLETE TASK

CITIZENS EXPRESS GENERAL
SATISFACTION AT FINE
WORK OF EQUALIZATION

Donley County Citizens are joining in the general song of satisfaction over the careful and painstaking task the Commissioners' Court completed here Wednesday from their deliberations as an equalization board, when in brief, the county valuations have been reduced on an average of sixteen per cent from last year's level.

This means that in the gross Donley's valuations have been reduced from $6,890,850 in 1932 to approximately, $5,800,000 for 1933.

Over five hundred Donley County citizens had their valuations reduced to lower levels than they themselves had rendered their property, and in the wisdom of the court only fifty persons had to have their renditions increased to the general average of the county under the general reduction. As the matter now stands no Donley taxpayer has a property valuation as high as he had in 1932.

The court did some especially fine work according to the estimates of the News representative who gathered the story, and Judge Lowe and every commissioner should have the unanimous thanks of the citizenship for approaching this problem with such goodwill and sincerity. Probably no court in the history of the county ever did a bigger and more detailed piece of work than was accomplished in the equalization job this concluded.

Many of the heaviest taxpayers of the county met with the court in the interests of lower taxation as a result of more economy in county government and on conference with the body went away pleased with the frank presentations of the efforts of the court to bring down the county valuations to as low level as possible. Commissioners Sid E. Harris, Ray Beverly, Les Hawkins and G. W. Beck of precincts 1-2-3-4 entered into the work with the knowledge and understanding that comes with experience and they with Judge Lowe are receiving the thanks and praise of a citizenry well served.

This action on the part of the court saves the taxpayers of Donley over $7,000 in taxes to the state, and approximately the same revenue for county purposes on the higher valuations of last year can be maintained by a rate of 71c or 72c, which will be decided after the tax rolls are approved and returned from Austin.

Public officials often receive criticism for their official acts, but this seems a noteworthy occasion for Donley County people to take the trouble to go personally to their county judge and to their commissioners, and express their sincere thanks for this signal protection of the public interest, so, departing from the usual dictum of no editorial expression in the news columns, The News calls upon all its readers and citizens generally, to return personal thanks for this good public service to Judge Lowe and Commissioners Harris, Beverly, Hawkins and Beck.

GOOD ROADS GROUP MET HERE TUESDAY

Headed by O. R. Tipps, county judge of Briscoe county, a party of business men met here Tuesday afternoon with Clarendon citizens in a discussion of ways and means of improving the highway from Clarendon to Silverton.

Judge Tipps and his party were as enthusiastic as were Clarendon men over the benefit which would be derived from a highway across the rivers and up the caprock, which would be one of the most scenic drives in this part of the State.

"RETRENCHMENT WITHOUT RETREAT"

So much has been published concerning "retrenchment" that the average reader is inclined to yawn and pass over much of it. Under the above title, however, W. L. Hughes of College Station, discusses in The Texas Outlook a phase of retrenchment, with particular application to the problems of educators, which provokes thought.

He quotes Dr. Thos. H. Briggs, eminent educator, as saying, "I have been amazed and confounded that during the depression, when salaries have been threatened and in many instances terms have been shortened and even schools have been closed, that there has been so little aggressive action by educators."

"Protests, apparently selfish and usually without success, that salaries of teachers should not be cut, have little weight with men who themselves have reduced wages or none, or who have seen their savings diminish and all but disappear in whatever form they thought secure."

He continues: "That our educational practices and program, especially above the elementary schools, are adjusted to the needs of society in 1933 no informed person can assert. The depression, with all its consequent inconveniences and even sufferings, will be a blessing if it stimulates us to make the reforms that we know are actually needed."

Mr. Hughes expresses the opinion that "Doctor Briggs has never uttered a more significant truth than that in the last quotation. In spite of this the Texas educators absolutely refuse to do anything but ask for more money. Reforms are politely passed by in silence. The writer has yet to hear a Texas educator advocating any reforms in administering the schools which might effect economies. The assumption seems to be that the Texas school system is perfect and all it needs is funds to carry on."

Mr. Hughes then outlines ways in which economies could be effected without "retreating":

- Reorganize our school system with larger units, and reduce the number of administrative officials.
- Such a reorganization would enable us to enlarge the class group and thereby reduce the number of teachers.
- The teacher load in many schools could be materially increased and thereby reduce the number of teachers.
- The school plant could be used on Saturdays and at least forty-eight weeks in the year.
- The size of classes could be fixed, so there would be no waste of funds with a multiplicity of small classes.
- Supplies could be purchased in large quantities.
- Bonded indebtedness could be re-funded at lower interest rates.
- Strict budgets could serve to eliminate all unnecessary expenditures.
- School executives should have training in business principles and practices.
- Eliminate weak teachers.
- Eliminate "frills and fads."
- Each school keep up adequate publicity on its expenditures.

We believe that Mr. Hughes is striking at real weaknesses in the school system. His frankness, coming from a school man, is refreshing. There is a more general feeling than school men are aware of that there are too many "frills and fads" and not enough of the essentials in the average school child's education; that too much emphasis has been placed on securing affiliation "credits" which mean additional teachers and, too often, neglect of more vitally important subjects.

There is appalling ignorance of our own language—how to read it, write it and speak it correctly. Is there anything of greater importance in education? These are the doors to success in any activity of life and the lack of adequate knowledge of them handicaps all study of other subjects. Only now and then can you find a high school graduate who can read, write and speak the English language acceptably. And the fault undoubtedly lies in the scattered effort to cover too many subjects, plus the choice by the pupil of "snap" elective subjects.

WHEN A HOUSE BURNS, WHO IS LOSER?

"Fire losses in Texas in 1932 were greater than they have ever been before. This fact ought to shock the conscience of the people of this State. Nevertheless they seem to take it without surprise or concern," according to the Texas Fire Prevention Association.

They seem unconcerned because of the general idea that the fire loss is a matter that concerns the owner of the burned property—and the insurance company, if it is the burned property was insured, there is a too general disposition to regard the fire as a stroke of good fortune for the owner who is better off because he has a newer and perhaps a better house.

Such an attitude is entirely erroneous and should be regarded as positively dangerous. "The new house is not the old rejuvenated; the old house is gone and its value has been destroyed and utterly and forever lost both to society and the individual owner. The money which was paid to the unfortunate owner by the insurance company was not manufactured by the insurance company . . . but was collected from other owners of similar property who were subjected to the same hazard.

"Insurance is merely the scheme by which all of the owners of similar property have banded themselves together to absorb the shock and the irreparable loss which might fall upon any one of them through the destruction of their property by fire . . . The greater the losses the greater the contributions must be, and the greater the number of fires, the greater the cost of insurance premiums."

The Fire Insurance Commissioner of Texas has made the statement that 40 per cent of the fires which have occurred in this State in the past two years were of incendiary origin—fires for profit. "Selling out to the insurance company" is an expression frequently heard. The shocking thing about such a statement is that it seems to amuse rather than horrify.

Gaining strength is the belief that, since the expense which each city incurs in fighting fires is easily ascertained, a fair and just proportion of such expense should be charged to the owners of the property in or on which fires occur. Particularly is it felt that such a charge should be made when investigation shows that the fire occurred because of the violation by the owner of some state law or city ordinance with reference to fire prevention.

ON WITH THE DANCE

The administration at Washington is resorting to a bit of high pressure to induce the various states to vote for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. They claim that the repeal of this amendment and licensing the sale of hard liquors as well as beer will bring in a lot of much needed revenue. It would. But we can suggest other methods of bringing revenue that would be possibly more effective still. Uncle Sam could establish a lottery similar to the one Louisiana operated for many years. Boy, that would bring in the revenue in great gobs. Or, it could license gambling, as they do in some parts of Mexico. Make a tax gatherer of the roulette wheel and the gambling table. Or, it could license the sale of opium and other narcotics. Or, it could license and tax the operation of houses of ill fame. The difference in licensing such evils as these and the liquor traffic is not one of principle but only of degree. If we are going to license evil in order to balance the budget, why not go the whole hog? On with the dance!—Lynn County News.

Advertising which lets people know that you have what they want is the most important ingredient in success. It is like an electric light bulb that tells what the big power plant is doing.—Arthur Brisbane.

When Uncle Sam drives an individual out of business by selling below cost of production, who pays the taxes of the "evicted" business man? Ask us an easy one. The consumer is the "last man." He pays it.

One thing that will greatly help solve the troubles of the country, is for everyone to make things go well in his home town.

President Roosevelt will go down in history as the plain talker with a punch in his words.

We're not getting "back to normalcy"—we're moving forward to sanity.

OUR CITIES "IN BONDAGE"

It is not only in international finance that debts act as a crushing weight. Local governments, when you stop to think about it, are crippled by debt just as badly—if not a little more so.

The finances of a typical middle western city were studied recently and it was discovered that 54 cents out of every tax dollar were being used for debt services. Only 46 cents were left for government operations, and any attempted economy measures would have to leave the greater part of the city's expenditures completely untouched.

Few cities operate on a pay-as-you-go basis. The bond issue, in many cases, is an essential part of city finance operations; but that it has been used far too often is beyond argument. A city that is deeply in debt is hamstringing in any effort to reduce expenses.—Panama American, Panama.

This figure did not include brick purchased by the board for $450. Other bidders included J. W. Watters, Clarendon, two Amarillo bidders, two Memphis bidders and one from Clayton, N. M.

The school board hopes to have sufficient funds left with which to erect a teacherage. Work on the new school building is to begin within ten days from date contract was let.

Lions Compliment—

and David McCleskey. Reports on Children

Homer Mulkey reported that he went to Amarillo Monday to bring Mrs. Ragle and little Lindell back, following several days' treatment of the child in the hospital. Lindell was operated by Dr. J. T. Gray last week, certain tendons being cut so that his displaced hips could be pressed back into normal position, after which he was placed in a plaster cast. Dr. Gray is confident that he will be able to have little Lindell walking after a few months, but it will be a very tedious case. The child has never been able to walk, as a result of infantile paralysis in his first year. Dr. Gray will come to Clarendon next Sunday to make the plaster cast more comfortable for the boy.

Odos Caraway reported that little Patty Sue Whittington will have her foot put back into a plaster cast next Sunday, as the second stage of correcting her crippled condition. She is said to be progressing satisfactorily toward the ability to walk.

H. T. Burton reported that Laverne Rampey, whose crippled condition, due to infantile paralysis, was brought to the attention of the Shriners' surgeons two years ago, when he and O. C. Watson took her to the Clinic at Amarillo, held by Drs. Carrell and Gray for the Panhandle Crippled Children's council, is walking now and will soon be completely cured. She was paralyzed from the waist down. The child is the daughter of J. C. Rampey, farmer on the Fred Rathjen farm.

Judge A. T. Cole, who left Tuesday for Ft. Worth, was the guest of his partner, J. R. Porter, and made a talk in which he expressed a new and keener appreciation of the friends in Clarendon whose influence had assisted him in securing the appointment. Phrased in his characteristic semi-humorous vein, his deep feeling was apparent and brought out many comments by Lions who appreciate the fine qualities which he possesses.

The report of the nominating committee, with its list of nominations for officers and directors, as reported last week, was adopted as a whole on motion. The new officers, headed by T. D. Nored as president, will take office at the first meeting following the international convention in St. Louis, July 11-14.

S. J. KUTCH TO DONATE OX-YOKE TO MUSEUM

One of a pair of ox-yokes which once belonged to Bill Ross, who was a freighter for the JA Ranch fifty years ago, will be donated to the museum of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society at Canyon by S. J. Kutch, one of the pioneer settlers of this country.

Mr. Kutch says that after use of the ox-yokes was abandoned the yokes were stored in a barn which later came into the possession of a party who tore down the barn. The yokes were "thrown away" and, finding them by chance, Mr. Kutch asked the owner of the property for them. He found later that they belonged to the freighter, Bill Ross.

He also has a bow and some arrows which he obtained, so long ago that he can not recall the date, from an old Comanche chief. These, however, he expects to keep at his home, where he has many other interesting relics, among them several pairs of horns, including horns from the now practically extinct Texas "long horn" cattle.

He also has a quilt, remaining from a handmade set of quilt and bride, made by his step-brother, John Hall. The bride, which was cut to pieces by mice unfortunately, was unique in having no metal buckles or rings, substitutes being worked out in leather.

World's Fair Trip Schedule Affords Plenty Extra Time

Through a cleverly arranged schedule those who go from Amarillo to the World's Fair on the all-expense tour sponsored by Wilbur C. Hawk will have one full day and night, one whole forenoon and five entire evenings at their own disposal in Chicago.

The Santa Fe special leaves Sunday, June 25. More than half of the minimum quota for the trip has been pledged in only four days and the maximum number of passengers will have made reservations long before the deadline, June 23, it is believed by those in charge.

Stops Are Few

Reservations may be made by paying not less than $10 down and the balance by June 20. Many of the vacationists, however, are paying the full amount in advance.

After the special train leaves Alva, Okla., there will be no stops, except at terminal points, and the vacationists will be in Chicago just 22 hours after leaving Amarillo.

With Mrs. A. T. Miller as hostess, members of the Friendship Club spent an enjoyable afternoon Tuesday in her home.

After the Lord's Prayer, the roll call and minutes were read, following which Mrs. J. H. Allison gave the 12th Chapter of Ecclesiastes. Others appearing on the program included Mrs. J. D. Stocking and Mrs. L. Ballew, who gave several poems.

In the business meeting, it was decided to keep a record of work done by each member during the year and this reported on at a meeting in the fall.

Later an ice course was served to Mesdames R. L. Bigger, C. B. Morris, and J. H. Morris, guests; and Mesdames C. R. Skinner, J. D. Stocking, M. T. Crabtree, G. J. Teel, J. A. Tomb, Eva Womack, J. H. Allison, H. Tyree, L. Ballew, C. E. Lindsey, and M. E. Thornton, club members. The next meeting of the club will be June 27, at the home of Mrs. J. A. Meaders.

It doesn't pay to lose time in argument.

A New Deal For Liver Sufferers

Don't be misled any longer. Calomel, salts, oils, mineral waters, laxative pills, herb teas, powders, etc., have no effect whatever on the liver. There are only two generally recognized substances which actually cause a sluggish liver to increase its production of bile. Sargon Soft Mass Pills contain both of them.

You can't feel well and strong unless your liver furnishes plenty of fresh bile every day. Without bile

McMurtry Singers Please Audience

Under the direction of Mrs. Robert B. Wylie, better known to many Clarendon people as the former Miss Gipsy Ted Sullivan, a group of young singers from McMurray College at Abilene rendered a highly pleasing program of vocal music before a large audience at the First Methodist church Tuesday evening.

The group is composed of a quartet and octette four girls and eight boys. The program comprised songs by the quartet, the octette the entire ensemble and solos by two of the young ladies and two of the young men. The group numbers were well rendered and evidenced the training given to them by Mrs. Wylie.

Particularly pleasing were the solo numbers by Miss Kay Elliott, of Stratford, whose soprano voice, of coloratura range, delighted her listeners with its exceptional clarity and sweetness of tone, sang "A Bowl of Roses," by Clarke. Miss Irene Osborn, of Abilene, possesses a richly warm and vibrant voice, of excellent tonal quality, and her interpretation of Ethelbert Nevin's "The Rosary" left only the regret that she could not have sung a second number.

Merton McDonald, whose home is at Santa Anna, sang "The Big Brown Bear," by Monno-Zuca. His tenor voice has excellent quality and his rendition of his number was very pleasing. Donald Moore, baritone of Dalhart, sang the popular "Home on the Range," a classic interpretation of a Texas cowboy song, by David Gulon, of Sweetwater. Moore has a depth of tone quality in his strong, clear voice that holds great promise.

Yielding to the requests of numerous friends, among whom she lived for several years, Mrs. Wylie sang two numbers, accompanied at the grand piano by her friend and former accompanist, Mrs. J. L. McMurtry. The two selections were "Friend of Mine," by Sanderson, and "In Luxembourg Gardens," by Manning. Mrs. Wylie spent many of her girlhood years in Clarendon and graduated in voice from Clarendon College in 1909. Her voice has been exceptionally well trained, is powerful but under perfect control at all times and her rendition of the two selections delighted her hearers.

Following the completion of the program the young people were the guests of the young people of the church at an informal reception. Ice cream and cake were served by the ladies of the choir which sponsored the program.

KILLING HOUSES ARE INSPECTED

LOCAL MARKETS KILL HOME-FED BEEF IN SLAUGHTER HOUSES STATE APPROV

Have you ever wondered what the place looks like where your beef and pork is killed—whether it is handled in as sanitary manner as you would wish?

Self-appointed "slaughterhouse inspector," a representative of The News inspected last week three slaughterhouses maintained by S. W. Lowe's market, Russell & Son's market in the Piggly Wiggly store, and Castleberry Brothers' market in the Clifford and Ray grocery store.

Your reporter is pleased to say that he found all of them well-kept, clean and free from the odors that might be expected, especially as two of them were visited in the hottest part of the day. At each house there is an abundance of fresh running water and hose for washing down the killing-floors, which slope into drainage troughs that conduct the waste water away from the houses.

Long chutes from the pens into the houses, where the animals are killed under shelter, hoisted for dressing and then allowed to cool until ready to go into the refrigerator boxes for further chilling. Properly handled meat is allowed to chill long enough to become firm for best cutting into retail cuts.

Lowe's Visited First
The slaughterhouse and feed-pens of S. W. Lowe were the first to be inspected. They are located on his 160-acre farm about seven miles south of Clarendon, where his father and mother live. The slaughter house is large and roomy, has a concrete floor, and was so clean that no odor was noticeable. At some distance from it are the feedlots and barn. In the latter we were shown a great pile of ground feed, ready to convert into choice beef and pork. Mr. Lowe fattens all hogs and cattle killed on the place, and raises many of his hogs. We saw three Duroc Red sows which had recently had litters totalling 36 pigs. But it is necessary to purchase practically all the cattle and hogs killed and these are well-fed and fattened to meet the demands of the customers of Cap Lane, who is in charge of the market department of the store.

Russell & Son's Market
"The meat business is not what it used to be," remarked Fred Russell. And then he said, with a sigh, "Back in 1929 when I was operating three meat markets, I sold over $97,000 worth of meat products right over the counters, and that's a lot of meat." And we agreed with him that it was. But think of how many more pounds of meat $97,000 worth would be now in these days of dirt-cheap good meat products! . . . But to get on with the story: Fred's slaughterhouse is east of Clarendon on his own tract of land, just east of the greenhouse. It was bought four years ago and on it he built a well equipped house on a knoll which a rain washes clean, feedlots and all. Here he fattens all the stuff he kills, buying locally. He, too, raises a good many hogs. His slaughterhouse is screened against flies and is washed regularly after each killing. It was clean and odorless, and gave evidence of conscientious sanitation measures.

At Castleberry Bros.
The Castleberry brothers own their own slaughterhouse site, northwest of Clarendon. On an admirably drained elevation they built, a few years ago, a slaughterhouse which has a glass-smooth concrete floor, is well screened against flies, and like the other two odorless and clean when visited—and it should be said that none of the visits were expected. The News man found them in just every-day condition. Castleberry brothers also fatten their cattle and hogs, buying them from local sources when possible, and keeping some on pasture. They have some fifty-odd head of whitefaces on pasture now.

State Inspected
The operators of the three slaughterhouses told The News reporter that their plants were open to public inspection at any time, and that they would really like for the people to know more about the way their meat is handled. Their houses were built at considerable expense to comply with the State law and are conducted at all times just as if an inspector were expected each day. Protection from contamination from all possible sources is, of course, the object of the law requiring a fresh meat retailer, who kills his own meat, to have a slaughter house built, located and conducted according to certain specifications. "So little packing house meat has been shipped into Clarendon in recent years as to make it hardly worth consideration," said a local meat market man. "Market operators are heavy buyers of both locally grown cattle and hogs and locally grown feed on which they are fattened. It is the aim of each of us to give our customers the fattest, ficiest and choicest cuts of meat possible, and all that we have learned about feeding for that kind of meat goes into its production. And we really feel that we are offering our customers a high quality of meats for their tables—properly killed, chilled and handled in a sanitary manner."

Donley Tree Army Writes 'Round Robin'

From the Donley county contingent of the President's "tree army" there came this week to The News a "round robin" which sounds a bit like the boys think they're eating too many potatoes. Veterans of the World War will get an especial "kick" out of it, for they will have no difficulty in recalling the days when they, too, felt that they were getting the short end of a raw deal. The "round robin" addressed to The News reads:

Fort Sill, Okla.,
June 10, 1933

Dear Sirs:

We are writing you some of the truth about Roosevelt's Re-forestation Army and want you to publish it in your paper, please. First of all, we have to be up at 6:30 in the morning. Then we have potatoes and eggs for breakfast, like all morning, and have beans and potatoes for dinner; then hike all the afternoon. We have potatoes and gravy for supper. After supper there is a dice game every twenty-five feet.

We have had enough vaccinations and serums to kill a mule since we have been here. All of us boys are going to be sent to Giles to build some roads—in a camp of 250 men. Hello, home-folks!

(Editor's note to the boys on behalf of the homefolks: It's a little bit hard for us to believe that you feel, all the time, like your letter indicates. We folks back home have our "blue days" when we feel absolutely sunk and that they would have had to do without otherwise. You had no work and couldn't get it, could you? Now you are at work and mother will benefit by it. Write her and tell her how glad you are don't know which way to turn. You boys are experiencing the grip of a routine that you can't control. Somebody is telling you what to do and when to do it—and it doesn't set so well, does it? That's one of the hardest lessons life teaches us. We all have to learn it, even those who kid themselves into thinking that they are their own bosses. They're not. Their business bosses them—sends them to tasks they would rather avoid; gets them up earlier than 6:30 when they'd rather stay in bed; lays out a program that gets to be a "grind" at times. And they feel like griping, too. And do it.

But when they act that way they are no good soldiers. They ought to play the game cheerfully and try to do their bit toward making everybody they come in contact with a little bit happier. There are hundreds of boys who wish they were where you are, boys. You are where you are because your mothers need your help. Will it make them happy to know that you are bellyaching

Library Notes

By MRS. C. A. BURTON

A thrilling boys' story which we are fortunate in having is "South of Zero" by John Hale Meredith of the Clark-Jamison Antarctic Expedition, edited by M. I. Ross and this is the story amongst yourselves about potatoes three times a day and miles of hiking? You are being put into condition for service to your families and your country. Folks who don't have any boys are going to help pay for the work you are doing—and they will be paying for that and other government aid for years to come. That's what the depression is costing us all.

You didn't mean what your letter implied. We are all sure of that. You were just low-spirited, that's all, low as a lizard. Buck up, boys, buck up! We folks back home are betting on your tieing into your job enthusiastically and in an appreciative spirit—thankful that your hard work and plain diet will enable your mothers to have some things that you have the opportunity to help . . . And tell her that you're not rolling dice, because the boys who are doing that are not exactly shooting square with the folks who are paying the bill.

The News will be glad to publish letters from any of you at any time. Write us what you are doing and how you personally feel about your opportunity—or your punishment, if you feel that way about it. Your job, though, is just like any other: you'll get out of it only as much as you put into it. Put the best of yourself into it, and you'll have no regrets.)

of how this boy in his teens made such a remarkable trip. "And then one evening while Grandma was reading out loud about Scott's Last Expedition, a great big idea kind of jumped right off the paper and down my neck. I couldn't hear or see or think about anything else." That is how John Hale Meredith happened to be an extra unexpected member of the crew when the ship sailed from New Zealand. A stoway—but not an ordinary stoway—because he had brought his own rations and his own supplies, and before very many days out he was invited to become a member of the expedition in the "capacities of 2nd assistant Dog Driver, Head Puppy Trainer, Chief of the Rescue Crew and Aid to Mr. Eaton Meteorologist."

Jack earned his right to all these titles and particularly to that of Chief of the Rescue Crew and Bombay helped, of course. The story of Jack and Bombay, of Mr. Eaton and the Captain, and of all the thrilling, almost unbelievable events of that courageous expedition into the icy wilderness of the Antarctic, as told by Jack in his diary has been put into the story, and published by the Junior Literary Guild.

J. S. O'Brien, surveyor with the Byrd Antarctic Expedition, in his foreword for "South of Zero," says, "The keen eyes of Jack Meredith missed nothing. It is a good job—the most realistic I have ever read." And even those who have not, like Mr. O'Brien, lived through the anxious hours on the ice pack, the long march across the dazzling barrier and the happy hours in winter camp, will feel that they have really done so with Jack and Bombay in the story.

Frank P. Graham of N. C. says, "Close to the source of many events and moments is the fact that a boy and a book got together."

William Green, president of American Federation of labor says, "A public library is a necessary part of the educational equipment of every city."

Lewis E. Lowery, member N. Y. Citizens' Library Committee says, "Such education as I have was derived chiefly from books. A library is everyman's university, and a good book is man's best friend."

A poster in the library says, "Books you have read, pass on to your library—because it, too, is feeling the depression." Do you have some for us?

Prof: "Do you know what happened in 1776?"

Frosh: "1776? Gosh! I can't even remember what happened last night."

WHO IS EDUCATED?

Amidst confusion among various schools of thought regarding present-day education, it is really difficult to find a satisfactory yardstick with which to measure the elusive individual, the educated man.

Many hold the view that no one is truly educated unless he is familiar with the classics, proficient in several languages living and dead, versed in higher mathematics, and so on. Another school, while recognizing the desirability of a classical education when circumstances permit, denies that the classicists have license to lord it over their more practical brethren, or to lay exclusive claim to real education.

In this connection a thought expressed by the Boston philanthropist, Edward A. Filene, is pertinent. He declares that "the educated mind today is the mind which best learns how to use the knowledge in existence, particularly those truths which apply to the thing which he is doing. And that seems to be a very good definition."—Leader, Wellington, Texas.

"SUNDAY SICKNESS"

One of the most important questions the preacher and church officers face today is, "Why are more people sick on the Lord's Day than on the other days of the week?" "Sunday Sickness" is one of the most serious diseases that prey upon church people. It is both endemic and epidemic. It is not peculiar to any one religious body. We saw some diagnosis of and prescription for this disease, and we pass it on to you.

"Sunday Sickness." "The attack comes on suddenly every Sunday; no symptoms are felt on Saturday night; the patient sleeps well, eats a hearty breakfast, but about church time the attack comes on, and continues until church services are over, for the morning. Then the patient feels easy, and eats a hearty dinner. In the afternoon he feels much better, and is able to take a walk, a motor trip or outing and is able to enjoy life and talk politics or on any other subject, but about church time, he gets another attack and stays home. He retires early, sleeps well, wakes up on Monday morning refreshed and is able to go to work and does not have any more symptoms of the dreadful disease until next Sunday."

To those who are suffering from this disease, we offer the following remedy. "On Sunday morning, rise at seven or earlier, use plenty of cold water. Then mix and take internally a dose composed of equal parts of the following ingredients: will, push, energy, determination, self-respect for God's Day, respect for God's Book, and respect for God's House. Stir well, add a little love to make it sweet. Repeat the dose every three minutes until church time unless relief comes sooner. If the day be stormy, an external application of overshoes, rubber coats and umbrellas will be beneficial."

How many times have you been attacked by this disease? Have you not made this excuse to your pastor or church offi-

Scenes At Fastest 500-Mile Race In World History

The 21st International Sweepstakes at Indianapolis May 30, fastest and most thrilling 500-mile automobile race in world history, brought the highest honor of racing to Louis Meyer, winning in 1928 and the only one except Tommy Milton to win the great race twice. He was driving the Tydol Special.

The race set the amazing record of 104.162 miles per hour average, despite the fact that the cars carried two men and were limited to 15 gallons gasoline carriage, necessitating several stops. This average required terrific speeds on parts of the 2 1/2 mile oval—speeds that are "The fact that I had no tire trouble enabled me to set the new speed record," Louis Meyer said at the close of the Race. "I want to express my appreciation for the building of tires that stand up under the terrible punishment." He was using tires built by Firestone—which were equipment chose by all those who placed in this race, and have been on the winning cars for 4 years.

At the Speedway the "pits" where the cars are serviced are a center of activity and interest.

success in private or community affairs.

Spring is in the offing, and with Spring comes an awakening to new life and renewed life. Will we be gardeners and help cultivate our communities into more prosperous and pleasant places in which to live? We can if we will. But first we must plant seed, which is spending our dollars in the stores at home, by patronizing the professional people of the home town, by employing home-unemployed, whenever possible.

Wagner's Leghorns Will Make 225 Egg Average This Year, Observers Believe

(From Dalhart Texan)

W. B. Wagner's English White Leghorn pullets, bought as chicks May 10, 1932, and coming into production last October will make a flock average egg production of 225 eggs this year, it is believed. One pullet in seven months has laid 169 eggs. The average farm hen lays 72 eggs yearly.

Wagner has reduced his flock from 94 to 75 recently. When he had 94 eggs were selling for 7 cents and with low feed prices he figured a hen that laid more than ten eggs monthly was paying her way. Now feeds are higher and eggs are six cents, so that each hen must lay more than ten eggs to be self-supporting. By trap-nesting Wagner keeps all boarders out.

Wagner has just completed an expansion program, the first step toward a commercial breeding and egg plant. His 75 pullets will be eligible for pedigrees Nov. 1, 1933. He is getting 15 pedigreed cockerels for 1934 breeding. Chicks from this flock will then have individual pedigrees—a record on both their father and mother.

By this fall Mr. Wagner will have 350 laying hens. He will continue trap-nesting to build up more pedigreed pullets.

The man who succeeds in business is no great wonder. He merely went ahead and got the business while the other fellows sat around and said it couldn't be done.

The Conoco program may be heard by local listeners who tune in on stations WFAA or WOAI Wednesday night at 8:30 o'clock.

A delegation of citizens will go to Amarillo today and another to Pampa Friday to meetings called by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce at which a representative will explain the conditions under which projects of various kinds may be aided with self-liquidating loans. It is confidently believed that the modest loan which will be required for the municipal auditorium will be obtained without difficulty.

Sandefer Speaks—

belief in the merit of the law. "They have told you that there is more drunkenness now than before the days of the 18th Amendment. That is not true. I have studied at first hand, looked at it with my own eyes, the handling of liquor in all of the principal nations of the earth. I say to you that in none of them is there anything to equal prohibition as it was under the 18th amendment during the first ten years. The liquor interests have used the conditions brought about by the depression shamefully; they have laid the blame for the depression at the door of prohibition and they have made the people believe them.

"But let's look at testimony as to the effect of prohibition on the laboring classes during the first ten years of prohibition. Samuel Crowther, not a friend of the 18th Amendment to begin with, found to his astonishment that during the ten years wage-earners have saved 15 to 30 billions of dollars more than they had ever saved prior to that time. That staggering amount of money was taken away from the liquor business."

Dr. Sandefer said that he had the statement of 330 college presidents regarding the oft-asserted increase of drinking among college students. Only three of the 330 presidents said that drinking had increased. "Three thousand public school superintendents say the same thing," he said.

He compared the number of deaths in auto accidents per auto in England, where there is no prohibition with the auto population of the United States. "In 1931 England had 1,500,000 autos which caused 6,000 deaths, and 200,000 inquiries. In 1931 the United States had 26,500,000 autos. If we had had deaths and accidents proportional to England's there would have been 113,400 deaths and 3,400,000 injuries! And yet there are plenty of people who believe that highway driving will be no more dangerous with legal liquor than it has been under the 18th Amendment," said the speaker.

the memory of unswerving loyalty to the Democratic party and its principles.

Judge Cole's eyes filled with tears as he said to The News reporter, "I have marveled at the great number of friends that my effort to secure this appointment has revealed to me. I have always said just exactly what I think. I have been rough and gruff about it many times when I should not have been so. And yet, when the special investigator who was sent by the administration to check up on me talked with 75 of my fellow citizens and associates, the latter not only in Clarendon but in Amarillo, Wichita Falls, Ft. Worth and even back in Johnson county, he found all of them—he told me—eager to say nice things about me. I appreciate my friends more than ever before, particularly because I realize now that they have not judged me by my rough-shod way of expressing my opinions."

Judge Cole has been a law partner with J. R. Porter since June, 1929, and was a member of the firm of Cole and Simpson until E. A. Simpson moved to Amarillo, in 1927.

His office will be in Ft. Worth, but he states that his family will continue to live in Clarendon, "where Mrs. Cole will be closer to the grand-children and daughters, and where she and Mrs. McMillian, her mother, have so many warm friends," he said.

The News joins Judge Cole's many friends in heartfelt congratulations over his appointment and the hope that he will find the work and its associates highly enjoyable.

Oilers Lead—

run, the game ending 6-1 in favor of the Lion Cubs. Like the Friday game, it was one that gave the spectators their money's worth.

On Tuesday the Legion and the Highway teams met in their first game together. Neither team had won a game in the series. Runs were fairly plentiful and scattered all through the game, with both teams apparently evenly matched—in fact it took ten innings to decide which was the worst team. The score standing 10-10 at the end of the ninth inning. In the tenth the Legion went wild and chalked up three more runs for a win of 13-10.

Wednesday two upper-deck teams met—the Oilers, still smarting over the drubbing given them by the Cubs, and the Druggists, good ball-players and willing to admit it. The game did not turn out so well for the druggists, the score reading like a basketball score, 24-13 for the Oilers. But a new element entered into that particular game, of which more will be said later on in this story.

So far 17 of the 30 scheduled games have been played and it's too early to forecast, which is all the better. No one would like to know now who will win the series—the games are too interesting. But the next week of playing will begin to narrow chances down to the upper-deckers and the scramble will be on for second and third place. And in a struggle like that going on now, it will be something to win second or third place.

The New Element

Mention has been made of a "new element" that entered into the game between the Oilers and Druggists. It was a new type of soft-ball, called the "in-seam" ball, used for the first time instead of the "out-seam" ball heretofore used. The in-seam ball is an exceptionally "lively" ball, bouncing higher when it hits the ground and capable of being hit much farther than the out-seam ball which has been used heretofore.

Serious objection to the new ball which is being raised by both players and spectators, who claim that its extreme liveliness decreases the opportunity for the type of fast and accurate fielding which has been a feature of the games with the old type ball. When a safe hit is made it usually means runs for everybody on bases unless there are two outs and the hit ball is caught. The baseball fans prefer a game that is an exhibition of fast and accurate fielding and the chief objection to the new ball is that it lessens the chance for that kind of playing. It would be all right if used on a regulation size diamond, but combination of a ball that can be batted out of the park easily and a midget diamond is not popular with many of the players and fans.

Baptists	5	3	2	60.0

COUNTY FORCED TO USE LOCALLY MADE COFFINS

According to reports from the Commissioners' Court of Donley County, the use of undertakers' services and caskets has been discontinued in the interest of economy for the present. In years before the low level of county finances and general business, the county paid an average of about $40 for burial of its wards, and there were few such calls back in those days. In recent months, there have been frequent calls and the Court with no surplus funds has been forced to cast about for a less expensive funeral for those unfortunate enough to be unable to care for such expenses.

Under the new plan adopted the Court will get a neat, serviceable coffin built by a local plating mill at around twelve dollars each, and the relatives and friends of the deceased will be required to furnish the conveyances for the interment.

Shepherd, and interment was made in the Citizens Cemetery, under direction of Buntin and Son, morticians. Pallbearers were O. C. Watson, Henry Williams, W. C. Stewart, C. W. Taylor, C. J.
