MAKING Smart CLOTHES

It's fun to own a print dress early in the season—a dress you can wear under a fur coat now and under your light spring coat later. The Butterick Pattern we have sketched here is a perfect dress for print—because it is so simple, giving all attention to the interesting design of the print. If you can sew, you will be thrilled to find that you can own this dress for a very few dollars. And—a fashion hint. Bright-colored prints on dark grounds are very smart this year—not only for the early season but continuing on into spring and summer. Navy and black and bright deep blue are all excellent background ones. And remember—bright colors on dark grounds have a tendency to make you look much slimmer.

This is a Butterick Pattern and may be purchased at your local department store.

A social event which is expected to make the recent English royal wedding seem like a garden party will embrace more than 5,000 American communities on the night of January 30, when the entire nation will celebrate President Roosevelt's fifty-third birthday anniversary with dances for the benefit of infantile paralysis victims throughout the country. More than four million persons and every important orchestra in the country are expected to take part. Above (center) is a typical Birthday Ball gathering, assembled under the auspices of Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas at Kansas City last year. Inset (upper right) shows some New York social regitrites laying plans for the Waldorf Astoria Birthday Ball in New York City. The girls pictured here, hospital attaches, were stricken with 137 co-workers during their heroic fight against the recent epidemic in Los Angeles. Seventy cents of every dollar raised this year will be retained by local communities to rehabilitate infantile paralysis victims. Thirty per cent will be turned over to a Birthday Ball Commission for Infantile Paralysis Research, appointed by the President, and under the chairmanship of Col. Henry L. Deberry, who is also national chairman of the 1935 Birthday Ball.

COTTON REDUCTION PROGRAM FOR 1935 GETTING UNDER WAY

"With the appointment of the new State Review and Allotment Board and the reorganization of the Cotton Control Associations in the various counties, the cotton reduction program for 1935 has begun," A. L. Smith, chairman of the State Review and Allotment Board, said in College Station this week.

"Articles of Association for the cotton production control associations have been sent to the farm demonstration agent in each county, and the reorganization of the associations is proceeding rapidly. One important change from last year's plan is to be noted. Cotton producing communities which consisted of not less than 200 producer units last year must consist of not less than 500 producer units this year," Mr. Smith said. "These communities will be designated by the farm demonstration agent on the basis of the number of producer units on which cotton production was reported in the applications for allotment and tax exemption certificates in 1934. There shall be one community committee consisting of three members for each community designated. A county having less than 500 producer units will have one community committee."

"Any producer is eligible to sign a 1935 contract who is an owner, cash tenant, standing or fixed-rent tenant, or managing-share tenant jointly with the landlord, and who operates or controls a farm on which cotton was planted in 1933 or 1934 and on which cotton will be planted in 1935 and which was not covered by a 1934-1935 reduction contract.

"Any producer is also eligible who is operating a farm on which cotton was not planted in 1933 or 1934 because such farm was then planted to perennial crops in a regular rotation or because such farm was covered by an agreement with the Government to eradicate pink boll worm, but on which cotton was planted during the period 1928 to 1932 and on which cotton will be planted in 1935."

COUNTY AGENT TELLS OF BENEFIT OF MEAL AS FEED FOR STOCK

By C. W. LEHMBERG
 County Agent

Since the early days of the Cotton Oil Industry, plantation mules throughout the South have eaten cottonseed meal and hulls.

During more recent years, college experiment stations have demonstrated the fact that cottonseed meal fed to horses and mules in an amount of one to two pounds daily is a useful and valuable supplement to farm feeds which are usually low in protein. Animals receiving cottonseed meal in their rations are maintained in better flesh and vigor and shed their hair earlier in the spring.

Recognizing the value of definite information regarding the use of cottonseed meal for horses and mules, the A. & M. College of Texas has carried on a test for the past three years in which a mixed lot of horses and mules of various ages was used. In a summary of the results of this test—recently reported in Bulletin No. 492 published by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station—it is stated that there has not been a single instance of injurious effect from feeding the cottonseed meal to mares, weanlings, artillery horses, work horses and mules. The further statement is made that the results of the study indicates that 1 or 2 pounds of cotton seed meal will be a useful and valuable supplement to the rations commonly fed to horses and mules in the South. Where some roughage is available the following rations are suggested:

Ration No. 1
 Corn, or corn meal, grain sorghum heads or crushed grain sorghums, wheat or barley—5 pounds
 Cottonseed meal—1 pound
 Hay or bundle stover—12 pounds

Ration No. 2
 Cottonseed meal—3 pounds
 Hay or bundle stover—6 pounds
 Cottonseed hulls—6 pounds

Where no roughage is available the following rations are suggested:

Ground oats, corn, grain sorghums, wheat or barley—3 pounds
 Cottonseed meal—2 pounds

Cottonseed hulls—10 pounds.
 Or cottonseed meal—3 pounds.
 Cottonseed hulls—12 pounds.

Considering the value of cottonseed meal as a feed and the cost of a ration composed partly of cottonseed meal as compared to the cost of grain rations it may be well for those who have to buy feed to use the above suggested rations.

This list is published solely for the purpose of assisting those who have to buy feed and to direct their attention to the kind of rations that will bring the highest returns in energy produced, for the money invested.

A SIMPLE EXPERIMENT

DIG a hole in the earth twelve inches wide, by twelve inches long and twelve inches deep. Completely fill the excavation with loose earth and then begin pouring water into it. You will be amazed at the amount of water such an opening will consume.

The ordinary grave will hold at least ten barrels of water after the loose earth has been replaced in it, and that is exactly what happens the first rainy season that comes after burial.

When thoughts like these come, it is comforting to know that the body of some loved one is sleeping secure and undisturbed in a water-proof

Where Rescue Came in Air Crash

Stamped indelibly on the memories of four men are the events that occurred in the territory shown on this map. The quartet, three flyers and a passenger, were marooned far up the side of Pipe Mountain, N. Y., in the Adirondacks, when a 14-passenger American Air Lines plane crashed after going off its Syracuse-Albany route in a snowstorm. They were rescued 50 hours later in sub-zero weather after their shattered craft and their campfire had been sighted by Pilot Dean Smith, left.

WILL HISTORY REPEAT ITSELF IN 1935?

EXCESSIVE production of corn may be expected in the fall of 1935 unless a large percentage of the farmers agree to hold plantings for the year within reasonable limits. It is pointed out by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. The normal response to severe, though temporary feed shortages and high feed prices occasioned by severe drought is a planting of a larger than average acreage to corn the following year. At the same time, yields per acre usually return to normal and a record crop with low feed prices results. Then, after a year or two, livestock production, particularly of hogs, becomes excessive, and livestock prices also are forced down. For example in 1935 following the severe drought year of 1934, farmers increased their corn plantings by over ten million acres. The yield per acre followed the usual trend and returned to two bushels above average. As indicated in the above graph, a record crop resulted. On December 1, 1935, the price of corn was 25 cents per bushel as compared with approximately 45 cents per bushel the preceding year. By 1937, hog production had been greatly stimulated and prices were lower. The 1935 corn-hog production adjustment program offered by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration provides farmers with an opportunity for avoiding a similar reaction to the current drought situation. And in compliance with law, I give this notice by publication, in the English language once each week for three consecutive weeks immediately preceding said day of sale, in the Brownwood Banner, a newspaper published in said Brown County. Witness my hand, this 4th day of January, 1935. W. E. HALLMARK, Sheriff of Brown County, Texas.

1935 COTTON QUOTA WILL BE 10,500,000 BALES, WALLACE SAYS

The 1935 national quotas of cotton production under the Bankhead cotton control act will be 10,500,000 bales of 500 pounds, it was announced in Washington by Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace.

of lint cotton issued in 1934 now in the hands of the producers. It is improbable that all of the certificates carried over from the 1934 season will be issued in 1935.

In accordance with terms of the Bankhead act, the statement continues, some exemption certificates will be available for producers on farms not previously engaged in cotton production.

State figures under the new national quota will not be announced for some time.

Small Raisers Not Mentioned Members of Congress from the cotton-growing States, fearing a large crop next year, have been active for a change in the program to reduce the total production below what the AAA had intended.

The base cotton acreage of the country is about 45,000,000 acres and if all producers took advantage of the Secretary's offer to reduce 35 per cent it would mean a crop of approximately 19,000,000 bales based upon the ten-year average yield of 179 pounds per acre.

Under the national quota the 10,500,000 bales may be ginned tax free, but in addition are certificates covering 700,000 bales carry-over, making a total of 11,200,000 bales.

NOTICE Bids will be received at my office up to February 11th, 1935, on 250 feet 2 1/2 inch fire hose. W. H. Thompson, City Manager.

Peach trees that are going into new orchards on land released from cotton in Van Zandt county are being protected from rabbits by the use of paper cylinders. Albertas and Georgia Belles are favorites for planting in this county and 2100 more trees went into the ground in December.

Raising 720 pounds of cucumbers, subirrigated with tile, and bringing 65 gallons of them for pickles, encouraged Mrs. Paul Johnson of Hale county to lay another 75 feet of concrete tile for subirrigation over which to plant watermelons. Results were 70 large, sweet, juicy watermelons and many smaller ones.
