APPLICATIONS FOR FSA LOANS TAKEN

R. K. French, Brown county supervisor for the Farm Security Administration, announced Wednesday that applications for rural rehabilitation loans for the next crop year are now being taken. All types of farming are included in the new, liberalized loan program, so all present or prospective borrowers are urged to begin immediately making plans for the next crop.

"Arrangements should be made now for financing, though the money may not be needed for several months," French said. "Interest charges will not begin until the money is received by the client."

If the most profitable system of management is to be followed, the small grain, fall and winter vegetable or truck crops, and livestock projects must be planned now. Some plans call for machinery purchase-bred sires, and other facilities which must be provided through a community or cooperative service loan. The cooperative type of loan applications is also being received.

French also said that tenure arrangements which favor a program of improvements on the farm are being made by FSA borrowers where possible. Lease form copies providing for improvements are available at the supervisor's office in Citizens National Bank building.

Hubby Says Trip Is No Honeymoon

Wearing her hair in a severe braid-haloed coiffure in contrast to the breeze-tossed locks associated with Hollywood, Mrs. Don Ameche, wife of the popular movie star, is pictured above as she sailed on the Queen Mary for her first visit to Europe. Someone asked her if the six-week jaunt was to be a second honeymoon. "Gosh, no!" interjected her husband. "We just couldn't afford to go before."

Last week, Gill and Evans sold a carload of Polled Herefords, 19 bulls and 17 club calves, to James W. Harrison of Magnolia, Miss., and also a straight carload of registered Polled Hereford bulls to W. R. Ross of Fort Worth.

Monday, the partnership sold a truckload of Polled Herefords, 13 bulls and heifers, to O. F. McBride of Winnboro, Louisiana.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE HILLBILLY, M'CRAW CALLS W. L. O'DANIEL

"The people of Texas do not want a man for governor who upon being asked how he stands on the moral issues turns around and says, 'play a little more music boys,'" declared William McCraw candidate for governor, who spoke to an estimated crowd of 4,000 here Monday night.

He asserted that a race isn't any fun until the fight has started and that W. Lee O'Daniel has started it but a "chamber of commerce hill-billy and a so-called business man isn't what the people need for their chief executive."

"Lee O" has called me a politician, and according to him all politicians should be rubbed out," McCraw said. He drew a comparison between himself as a politician, and O'Daniel as a businessman. He declared that "Lee O" was saying bring industry to Texas at the same time he was bringing Kansas flour to Texas.

McCraw told of his boyhood in Arlington and how he went to work at an early age and knew well the value of a hard-earned dollar. He spoke of learning the printer's trade and being admitted to the bar at the age of 19. He was district attorney at Dallas for three terms and said, "that is a record I'm proud of as well as my record as Attorney General." Being a native Texan and having had to work his way along with the average person, McCraw stated that he is qualified to know and understand the needs of the people of Texas.

"The people want a man who understands government and the needs of the people," McCraw flayed the present administration of the Old Age Assistance and said if the present policy continued that if the old people would be starved to death before they could be helped. He charged the present Old Age Assistance Commission with doing "everything but assisting the old folks."

McCraw's proposal for a Social Security program to care for the blind, the dependent children, and the old age would be financed not by additional taxes, but by taxes from the chain stores and the pipelines. He would seek the cooperation of the legislature to keep this money for the program. He would also tax the oil and gas industries for the additional revenue and declared there would not be a sales tax as long as he was governor.

He would reduce governmental departments and reduce the waste and inefficiency of the departments. He said he was in favor of a Teachers' Retirement Act and improvements in the educational system of Texas. He declared that he would sponsor a Labor Relations Act so Labor could organize itself and industrial conditions be peaceful. In touching on this McCraw declared he would represent the needs of all people—not just one section or a certain group of people.

McCraw said that his record was an open one and one that he was justly proud of for it was a record of proven service and that he would give the people of Texas a constructive program for all the people.

Thomas H. Taylor, chairman of the Brown County Executive Committee, introduced McCraw.

J. Edward Johnson, local attorney, presided and presented Milburn McCarty of Eastland and Pat M. Neff, Jr., of Waco, McCraw workers who met the candidate here.

McCraw said that his record was an open one and one that he was justly proud of for it was a record of proven service and that he would give the people of Texas a constructive program for all the people.

2nd Largest Wheat Crop in History Is Forecast This Week

In its first general crop estimate of the year, the Department of Agriculture this week forecast a wheat crop of 967,412,000 bushels and a corn crop of 2,482,120,000 bushels.

The report made wheat loans mandatory under the new farm program and indicated crops with the exception of wheat, generally under last year but above normal for the past five years.

The report indicated the second largest wheat crop in American history. It forecast an average yield of 13.6 bushels per acre on the 71,069,000 acres for harvest on July 1. Stocks of 1937 wheat on farms was reported at 59,258,000 bushels.

Corn growers planted 92,146,000 acres this year, compared with 96,146,000 in cultivation on July 1, 1937, the Crop Board reported. The indicated yield per acre this year was 26.9 bushels.

Lake Waters Engulf Historic Nevada Hamlet

Like mythical Atlantis, the historic and colorful town of St. Thomas, Nev., is being claimed by water. The above photo shows the upper parts of trees and picturesque houses being gradually engulfed by the slowly rising waters of Lake Mead. For centuries a branch of the Colorado has flowed through the valley, enriching adjacent farm lands. But the waters wasted and men decided to harness the water-power by building Boulder Dam. With the inflow of water from the great drainage area to the north, Lake Mead began to rise. Many of the pioneer residents of St. Thomas remained until the lake lapped at the doorsteps of their homes, then have sacrificed their homes that others might live in greater comfort.

City Comparatively Free of Mosquitoes

John Gray, in charge of the city's mosquito eradication, said that with the exception of one or two neighborhoods, Brownwood is comparatively free of mosquitoes this summer.

All cans, automobile tires, drainage basins from refrigerators, sinks, bathtubs, and other accessible water collecting places are favorable for breeding of the insects. A careful investigation of such places and of conditions around the house would be profitable. Call 480 to register complaints of mosquitoes or the presence of conditions favorable to their breeding.

The thrasher has been in full swing in this neighborhood the past week with the men sweltering in the intense heat of a drouthy July. But thanks to the modern thrasher that brings along its own chuck wagon, the women haven't had to stand over a hot cook stove cooking for thrasher hands. Grain is turning out fairly well for this locality.

A combine, the first ever to be in this community, cut the wheat on the Crowder farm.

A summer drouth is something we rarely escape. It is on us now in devastating intensity, cutting short the corn and twisting the maize and begonia, blighting some of the best prospects had built.

But now comes our summer meeting, beginning Friday night. Bro. Wharton will be with us for ten days. Could we not pause from the sweltering toll of the day, from the cares of this life which ever beset us, to come together each Lord's day and evening to feast upon spiritual things? To learn from the Word of God, and to be lifted to a higher plane of living?

There will be dinner on the ground both Sundays. Everybody is invited to come. We hope there will be people present from all the surrounding communities and towns.

Are your cows switching flies or making milk?

THE SUMMER slump in milk production is not entirely a natural phenomenon. Cows that are eternally aggravated by flies don't have much time to graze and chew their cud and make milk. Fly time is milk-slump time.

Protect your cows from fly torture with Dr. Hess Fly Spray. This product is both a fly killer and a fly repeller. It kills flies in the stable and it protects cows from flies in the pasture.

Dr. Hess Fly Spray has been tested as a fly killer and a fly repeller. Costs little to use, 1 tablespoonful of milk, per treat, at each milking, pays for the Spray.

Granary Plans
In anticipation of an increased interest in the farm storage of small grains, the Bureau of Agricultural Engineering, U. S. Department of Agriculture, has prepared some new plans for granaries.

Blue print plans of 500, 1,000, 1,800 and 6,400 bushel capacity granaries are available from the Extension Service, Texas A. and M. College, College Station Texas. M. R. Bentley, extension agricultural engineer, said.

Farm storage of small grains will increase, it is expected, because of the large crop and relatively low prices.

Government Classes Cotton
Forms and instructions for use in making request for the free cotton-classing service to be supplied this year for properly organized one-variety groups are now available, according to E. A. Miller, agronomist of the Extension Service of College Station.

The forms and instructions for filing may be obtained from any one of the cotton-classing offices of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. Addresses of Texas offices are P. O. Box 1366, Dallas; P. O. Box 1140, Austin, and 509 U. S. Court House, El Paso.

The classing service as it will be started with the 1938 cotton crop provides free classification of a sample from each bale of cotton produced by a member of a qualified improvement group.

Notification of the grade and staple length according to the U. S. Cotton Standards, will be returned to the grower from whose bale the sample is drawn. The service is not available to individual cotton growers, only to members of organized improvement groups.

Miller urged that one-variety associations that desire the free service for the current crop apply as promptly as possible, so that the Bureau may arrange all details for handling and shipping the samples. Only those communities that will qualify by meeting the rules and regulations of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics will be eligible to receive the classing service, Miller said.

Cooperatives Meet
The Fourth Annual Cooperative Institute, held in connection with the Farmers' Short Course, is expected to bring 175 representatives of some 55 farmers' cooperative associations to Texas A. and M. College for the July 13-14 meeting. Cooperative leaders will discuss practical phases of the cooperative movement, including the improvement of service to the membership, methods of extending the benefits of cooperation and problems of operation.

The program for the Institute has been arranged jointly by the Houston Bank for Cooperatives, the Texas Cooperative Council, the State Department of Agriculture and A. and M. College.

There are more than 100,000 members in the 700 Texas farmers' cooperatives, according to C. E. Bowles, cooperative marketing specialist of the Extension Service.

Cooperative marketing affects almost every farm commodity produced in the state, Bowles said. Associations for zinning cotton, marketing grain, citrus, rice and cotton, and for purchasing farm supplies lead in the number of Texas cooperatives.

A feature of the annual banquet will be that the menu will be made up of products furnished by cooperatives, and will include fruits and vegetables, rice, turkeys, bread and similar items.

Manure for Pastures
"The manure from a dairy cow averages about $24 a year in fertilizer," states Robert R. Lancaster, pasture specialist of the Extension Service of Texas A. and M. College, who has been receiving numerous inquiries as to the use of manure as fertilizer.

A ton of manure is about equal in plant food value to a 100 pound bag of 10-5-10 fertilizer, but more than half of the value of stable manure is lost unless all of the floor to stop drainage. "The investment necessary to construct such a storage place is a wise one," Lancaster said. "The spreading may then be done during rainy weather when harrowing will not injure the pasture and when the fertilizer will be soaked into the ground."

Speak On 4-H Short Course Program

4-H club girls from two West Texas counties appeared on the July 7 program of the Texas A. and M. College Junior Short Course. The meeting was attended by 2,300 club boys and girls as representatives of the more than 50,000 Texas 4-H club members.

The preparation of refreshments from the products grown by 4-H club girls was demonstrated by Billie Louise Spurzler and Ellie McKinney of Schleicher county.

Two Pecos county club girls, Ladye Anne Petsch and Wanda Jo Burcham of the Fort Stockton club, told of their achievements in growing vegetables.

The two methods used by these girls to combat limited rainfall, wind, heat and frosts were sub-irrigation and the use of the frame garden. The girls demonstrated the mixing of cement and sand to form the tile, which was placed under ground to water the vegetables.

The frame gardens enabled the Pecos county representatives to produce lettuce, mustard, radishes, spinach, english peas, beans, parsley, beets, carrots, and swiss chard for from 8 to 10 months out of the year, they reported.

The invitation to appear on the program came from Miss Onah Jacks, state girls' club agent, and Miss Jennie Camp, specialist in home production planning, both of the Texas Extension Service.

Criminal Cases Resumed
Criminal cases were resumed in 35th District Court Monday morning. The current session is scheduled to end July 18.

Auto Collision
Nobody was injured in an accident which occurred late Sunday afternoon at Avenue K and Durham street, when the cars driven by Miss Genevieve McInroe and R. D. Egger collided.

Rally at Early
All county and district candidates have been invited to appear before voters and submit their bids for support at Early Friday night at 8:30. An annual picnic, previously planned, will not be held.

Appointment of Governor James V. Allred to the new Texas Federal District Judgeship by President Roosevelt, announced by the President during his Texas trip, was a bit of a surprise to most Texans, although it had been rumored for almost a year that the young Governor would receive the appointment. Failure of either of the Texas Senators to endorse Allred for the post, together with his own persistent disavowment of ambitions along that line contributed to the uncertainty over the appointment. It is safe to assume, however, that the Governor will get approval of both Senators when his name is placed before the Senate for confirmation.

Governor Allred has enjoyed unusual favor from the White House throughout his administration. He also is known, both in Washington and in Texas, as a close personal and political friend of Vice President Garner. It is possible that Allred received more aid from the Vice President during his first campaign for Governor than many Senatorial candidates are receiving from the President on his present swing around the country.

The appointment will meet with almost universal approval in Texas, in spite of the strong political opponents which the Governor has acquired through his eight active years at Austin as Attorney General and as Governor. Governor Allred is a personable young man who makes friends readily. He has added greatly to the prestige of the Governor's office and of the standing of Texas with the outside world during his term of office. The appointment is a fitting and just reward for a service to the State that has been well performed.

The appointment carries out the President's announced plan of appointing younger men to the Federal bench. His policy, while possibly sacrificing somewhat the maturity of judgment that comes through long legal experience, has the redeeming trait of securing for the Federal bench the life and vigor of youth. In the case of Governor Allred, the President was able to avail himself of a young man who through a number of years of public service has demonstrated his ability to master difficult tasks and to adopt himself readily to new circumstances.

The appointment is a particularly happy one. Governor Allred will render the Federal government, as he has the State, many years of useful service in this new position.

In re-electing Senator Thomas and returning to Congress all of their present Representatives, Oklahoma voters this week probably made the best selections available. All of these gentlemen had the endorsement last week of President Roosevelt on his tour of double-ridden commonwealths. No doubt that was a great advantage in the Tuesday elections. It should be, it is interesting to note that Governor Marland, who rode with President Roosevelt through the State and was a candidate against Senator Thomas, ran third, with Gomer Smith, who was not accorded any privileges during the Presidential visit, in second place.

But what interested Texans most was the fate of those who ran with, apparently, no other qualification than a well-known name. There was some neighborly fear that Oklahoma voters might select Mae West, David Crockett, Daniel Boone, Huey Long, Will Rogers (no relation to the Congressman, who was re-elected), Josh Lee (no kin to the Oklahoma Senator by the same name) or some of the other so-called freak candidates. As well as could be ascertained, there was little upon which to base many of these candidacies other than that the names of the candidates were well known to the voters because someone else had given them prestige or notoriety.

There is a bit of consolation in the fact that all these were defeated—these and some others who ran in a most unusual primary in Oklahoma. That consolation comes from the knowledge that voters, in Oklahoma as in other States, are not so easily tricked as some people imagine. There must be something more than just a name. There must be something behind the name, it seems, to attract the voters. So long as voters insist on looking beyond the name and considering the qualifications, the government is not going entirely to the dogs. And Oklahoma voters are not much different from those in other sections of the country.

The National Board of Fire Underwriters reports that during 1937 further notable progress was made in combating one of the most despicable of all crimes—arson.

Stamping Out The Fire Bug. For the period 1932 to 1936, inclusive, the yearly totals of both arrests and convictions for arson underwent an uninterrupted decline—in spite of increased vigilance by police, prosecuting authorities and insurance company investigators. In other words, the decline meant that the efficiency of this work proved to be a deterrent. A great many people who were tempted to commit arson saw that they couldn't get away with it.

During 1937, there was a slight increase in arrests and convictions over 1936, which is accounted for by the unfavorable economic conditions prevailing during the last half of the year. Even so, it is a noteworthy fact that in 1937 arrests were the lowest for any year of the past ten, excepting 1936, and that the ratio of convictions to acquittals was improved in favor of the former, which testifies to the success and energy of prosecutors.

The 1937 figures tell the story. Arrests rose 6 per cent over the previous year. Convictions increased by more than 21 per cent, and acquittals were less than 5 per cent greater. And the ratio of convictions to acquittals was 80 per cent.

This is good news for America. The arsonist deserves no pity. He works in the dark and every time he strikes, the lives of innocent persons are endangered. Due to the surprise element, the chance of loss of life in arson fires is often abnormally high. The men who are fighting arson are serving us all.

The MARCH OF TIME

A BANNER Feature by the Editors of TIME, The Weekly Newsmagazine

Peripathetic President ...

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt journeyed to Wilmington, Hyde Park, New York City, Washington and Gettysburg last week in a round of activities that included visiting the sick, laying a cornerstone, speeches, dedications and a picnic.

At the grounds of New York City's 1939 World's Fair he laid the cornerstone of the Fair's Federal Building, was introduced by his wife Eleanor to 20,000 convening delegates of the National Education Association. At Gettysburg, on the 73rd anniversary of the battle, he dedicated an "eternal flame" (natural gas).

Twice during the week the President greeted Swedish royalty. He welcomed Crown Prince Gustaf Adolf of Sweden, 55-year-old heir of 80-year-old King Gustaf V, in a sick room at Manhattan's Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center. Three days previously the President had stopped in a heavy rain at Wilmington, Del., to help dedicate a monument by Sculptor Carl Milles to the settling there, three centuries ago, of the first Swedes and Finns in America.

Invited Crown Princess Louise to Hyde Park for Saturday luncheon. Although the President's mother wanted to serve country sausages at the luncheon, the President's wife had her way, and the Crown Princess was fed hot dogs dripping with mustard.

Work Done ...

WASHINGTON—Notable among the bills which the President signed last week were: Flood Control ($375,000,000 authorized), empowering the U. S. to take title to all projects it wholly finances; Food and Drugs, requiring more detailed labels, forbidding harmful cosmetics; La Follette Anti-Strike-breaking, amendments prohibiting interstate transport of strikebreakers; Permanent Postmasters, establishing 14,300 life jobs; Wages and Hours, Mt. Olympus National Park.

Among ten more bills which the President vetoed last week were one against Coronado memorial 50c pieces, one against J. G. Bucklin of Rehoboth, Mass., who sought $518,12 for 213 turkey eggs destroyed by WPA blasting.

Wearisome Grind ...

BUTTE, Mont.—Passing through Butte on her way home to Seattle from Brother John's wedding, Anna Roosevelt Boettiger last week said: "I don't think father will run for another term. It's a wearisome grind, campaigning."

To Cold Storage ...

NEW YORK—Mint Director Nellie Taylor Ross, who presides over all U. S. coinage and bullion, last month went to West Point to inspect the vast strong box which she ordered built in a corner of the Military Academy's reservation Semisunken, its obdurate walls made of reinforced concrete. Mrs. Ross' strong box is to hold over a billion and a quarter dollars worth of silver bullion purchased by the Treasury in Manhattan and now overflowing the Assay Office there. Said she, waving her hand at the new vault: "This is just for cold storage."

A billion and a quarter in silver is approximately one million 1,000-oz. bars, each ounce worth $1.29 at the Government's statutory price or 45c on the metal market. A thousand ounces is 62½ lb. To move a million such bars, a fleet of trucks was needed, and last week Mrs. Ross awarded her contract to Peter James Malley, Jr., 38, of Manhattan, son and grandson of Irish truckers, who bid her 15½¢ per bar for the 50-mile haul.

Mr. Malley figures that with 25 trucks, driven by 25 of his men who have never had an accident loading 350 bars on each truck and making one trip per day, he can complete the job in about five months, starting this week. Two coast guardsmen will ride on each truck, but hold-ups are not anticipated because bar silver makes bulky loot, is hard to dispose of.

75 Years After ...

GETTYSBURG, Pennsylvania—The Grand Army of the Republic and the United Confederate Veterans have talked for years of holding a joint reunion. They might have done so but for oldsters who were Billy-be-damned if they would march under The Stars and Stripes or The Stars and Bars. When Blues and Grays tried it 25 years ago, at the 50th anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg, cussing and fist-clapping discouraged subsequent attempts. This year, the U. S. Government stepped in with a healing offer of free transportation. So last week G.A.R. and U.C.V. tried again at Gettysburg. This time they got on beautifully, for the men were exceedingly old, their average age 94.

Searching for eligible invitees, the War Department found only 10,687 living Reds and Yanks, about two Northerners to one Southerner. Oldest was Negro William A. Barnes, 112, of Oakland, Calif., who brought an ample gin supply. Youngest were several of 88, who were 13 (having lied about their age) that afternoon when Pickett's charge lapped the crest of Cemetery Ridge and rolled back crushing the hopes of the Confederacy.

Last week, Confederate John C. Smith, 108, of the 46th Georgia Regiment, told how during the battle he reached into his mouth and removed the bullet that had knocked out two of his teeth, paused again to clap mud on his skull where another bullet knocked it, and fought on. Dr. Capers C. Jones, of Birmingham, Ala., 91, barked at Secretary of War Harry Woodring: "Give me your hand, I ain't going to bite you." Shouted Yankee Daniel Buffon, 92, of Forest Grove, Ore.: "I'm sweet 16 and never been kissed!" Said his harried attendant: "Have I had a time trying to keep track of him!"

And though the spirit was daring, the flesh was weak. Some of them rode in wheel chairs, it looked like their last reunion. Spain will be fortunate if, in 2013, such a reunion can be held on the battlefield of Teruel—with Fascism and Communism as well forgotten as are slavery and abolition.

Second Year ...

TOKYO, Japan.—The still-undeclared war in China, which Japan once confidently predicted would last only a few months, entered its second year last week with Japan still far from her loudly-announced goal of overthrowing Chinese Gen. Chiang Kai-shek's Government.

In fact, the Government of Premier Prince Fumimaro Konohe was forced to pull Japan's belt a little tighter to cope with the gnawing war on her financial stomach.

PEEP SHOW

For Ladies Only—BY MIGNON

—By Lois Farris— (Pinch Hitting for Mignon)

Says Mary: Mary Elaine—

Mary had a little watch She swallowed it one day. And now it's gone Every time that Mary walks Time marches on.

Good manners on vacations bring new friendships—but don't expect friendships to blossom into winter romances.

Thinking time is about over—politicians will be thinned out to one in a hill. Then the BIG Texans and Oklahomans will get behind their officials that have been elected to work for the betterment of their state. Oklahomans and Texans are such swell folk.

Mignon and her best boy friend the postmaster—were among the many a few days ago, who welcomed our President Franklin Delano Roosevelt, when he paid a visit to Oklahoma City ... and heard the first president of the United States to ever make a speech in Oklahoma. She'll be telling you about her sprys ... then the remainder of the week, she is schooling with writers in Oklahoma University.

That long faces that Mignon and I are wearing are not because our favorite candidate was beat, but because our columnist friend "Dusty Roads" was here a few days ago and we missed seeing him. There is another favorite columnist back home again, "Vad."

The other day, while radioing—a fellow said he always drank peroxide while on the beach. While reading—one said that woman who wears shorts may not know how she looks but she probably knows how everybody else does. While visiting—a friend remarked that he lost his oats in a hail storm ... when questioned that he was a business man and not a farmer, he said, "I lost my wild oats."

You must meet that Smith gal friend of mine. She has an answer for every question—that's why they term her "Miss Information." The worst thing that can be said about her is, some accuse her of being a transom peeper, but then she can't help that 'cause she is 5' 7½. The best thing you can say about her is she possesses a charming personality, is humorous and witty. A clipping now and then from her writings say this:

"General B—(quite elderly) came up and I guided him to Mrs. P's office (Asst. administrator) he remarked he was up near the front and I told him yeah we keep him near the window in case he gets too tired of it all." then—

What is going to be the outcome of the picture, "Gone with the Wind?" Norma Sherear has been selected to play Scarlet—and wants to change the last half of the story. She thinks Scarlet should be made more sympathetic. These southern folk who know southern ways say let the story be as it is—and select an actress to play the real Scarlet—if Norma can't do it.

And to end with a sentimental thought, I find this by an unknown author:

"There is a destiny which makes us brothers— None lives to self alone; All that we send into the lives of others Comes back into our own."

Carnegie Library to Sponsor Book Review

Mrs. H. W. McGhee will review "Elizabeth Ney; Sculptor," by Bride Neill Taylor of Austin, Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the reading room of the Carnegie library.

"Until recently," said Mrs. McGhee, "a veil of mystery has hung over the life of the internationally known sculptress, Elizabeth Ney. As a child, I heard the local tales surrounding her in everything she did. Her story is unbelievable one with which every Texan should be familiar."

"This book is the first attempt at anything like a full-length biography—yet it is tantalizingly incomplete. Mrs. Taylor, who is now dead, has written a memorable book. Mrs. Fowler, Mrs. Armstrong, Mrs. Hart, Mrs. Rosenberg and Mrs. Skinner, substitute librarians, will help Miss Annie Shelton greet out-of-town visitors.

Luggage Lenders ...

CHICAGO—Frank Masterson, 28 an ambitious Chicagoan who entered his father's contracting firm a few years ago, wanted a business of his own. In December a Marshall Field & Co. advertisement of traveling bags piqued his curiosity; he found that plenty of people came to look, few to buy. Luggage, he decided was too expensive to sell readily. He wondered why no one had thought of renting it. Visiting railroad and airline offices, steamship and travel bureaus, he planted an idea: if vacationists could skip on luggage, perhaps they would skip on him, too. In partnership with 37-year-old Austin Wynman, who put up the money, he opened, as a side line, the first U. S. luggage renting service, distributed folders headlined "Rent Your Luggage," urged Chicago vacationists to ask travel agencies about the service. To all agencies he offered a 25% commission.

Last week Frank Masterson looked over his books, then left his father's company to give all his time to his own business. In June, its first full month, Luggage Rental Service catered to 160 clients broke even, doubled its business each week. Its luggage, bought wholesale, now includes 350 pieces of baggage in various grades and colors. Clients pay a $5 deposit and a two-week (minimum) rate, which ranges from $1.25 to $11 per bag. Sample charges: a women's three-piece set, which sells for $45.85 rents for two weeks for $6. In between trips all bags are sterilized and reconditioned so that Masterson expects them to last longer than the 150 days he allowed in figuring depreciation. Although he stresses renting, he has apparently discovered an ingenious method of retailing luggage; so far 10% of his clients have decided to apply rental charges and deposits to purchase of his bags.

Ability to Hold Job And Get It Different Things, Says Writer

By Ruth Millett

Being able to hold a job and landing it are two different things. There isn't time in a brief business interview for a young woman to show a prospective employer just how much she has to offer in the way of brains, ability, determination and fresh ideas.

She is dependent on making a good first impression—founded in great measure on very little things. The young woman just out of school who has applied for several jobs without any luck would do well to react in her own mind each interview.

If there were any mistakes made before, those same mistakes need never be made again.

Probably the ten most pertinent questions that she could ask herself are:

Did I dress in business-like, yet becoming, clothes? Did I look spry and span from head to foot in something as trim, tailored and matter of fact as a suit?

Did I let the employer lead the conversation, answering his questions fully, but never wandering from the subject?

Did I sit straight-backed in the chair he offered me, and look directly at him as we talked—seeing him as a business man, not just a man?

Did I manage to get across an inclusive summary of my training and any—even small—jobs I ever held?

Was I prepared for the interview before I went, knowing as much as I could learn of the business and what was expected of one holding the job I wanted?

Did I resist the impulse of the inexperienced to try to convince him that I could do anything, and was willing to take any kind of job?

Did I manage to seem eager and cheerful, rather than cowed or gloomy?

Did I forego telling the employer my reasons for needing the job, or any other personal details of my life in an effort to make him sympathetic?

When I was told that there was no place for me at present, did I remember to thank the employer graciously for taking the time to talk to me, and to leave without any sign of embarrassment or disappointment?

If I had been that employer how would I have rated the young woman applicant?

Nope, you're wrong. That's not La Garbo at extreme left, or La Dietrich next to her or—well, we might as well tell you. From left to right, Betty Dietrich, who dittoes Garbo; Carole Dietrich, looking like Marlene; Margaret Bryson, who might be Loretta Young; Sylvia La Mar, dead ringer for Joan Crawford; Ezelle Pouille, as sad-faced as Zuzu Pitts, and Virginia Rendel, looking Mae Weston. Walker-Smith Co. Has Sales Meeting Here

Fifteen managers of the branch stores of Walker-Smith Wholesale Grocery Company attended a semi-annual sales meeting here last week. The meeting was conducted by C. Y. In planning policies for the future, a study of business and agricultural conditions of West Texas and New Mexico and that area served by the grocery firm was made and reports from each of the branches and departments was placed before the general meeting for consideration.

The feature of the three-day meeting was a banquet at Lake Brownwood.

Homecoming Date At Coggin Baptist To Be on August 14

The Coggin Avenue Baptist Church will have as its guests former pastors and members of the church at the 30th Anniversary and Homecoming program to be held Sunday, August 14.

Special historical numbers are being planned by the present members. The charter members are to be honored. The four former pastors have been invited to participate. The event is to be an all day affair in commemoration of thirty years active community leadership.

The Reverend W. R. Earp, Dallas, was the first pastor when the church was organized in 1908. He was followed by the Rev. George W. Shafer, Dallas, and for an interval of eighteen months Reverend R. A. Scranton, Waco, served in the pastorate. Eighteen of the church's thirty years of existence was guided by the Reverend W. R. Hornburg. He is now district-missionary, with headquarters office in Fort Worth.

When Rev. Hornburg resigned two years ago, Rev. J. M. Bradford, formerly of Dublin, accepted the position here, and has served to the present.

"Temperance" Juleps For July Ideal for Intemperate Weather

A long drink on a long day—the former cold, the latter hot—remains everybody's recipe for cooling off. July is the month when the mercury aims for the sky, so July juleps are in order—to order!

Drinks that the whole family can enjoy together are the kind we like best—and that means they should be made with wholesome, chilly, fruit juices. The citrus juices, which were put up in tidy cans last winter and spring when the crop was at its best, are thirst quenchers that rate an A from both health and taste standpoint. Stock up with several cans of grapefruit juice and orange juice; be sure to try the combination blend of the two favorites. You will have plenty of ice on hand; and mint, berry juice and sugar will help you turn out drinks for the whole family!

Persians Started Julep
"Julep" is from the Persian "Julab" or "gulab," from "gul" for rose and "ab" for water. The use of rose water was abandoned some time ago; then juleps came to mean a special kind of Southern-Colonial drink. Now a "julep" covers a multitude of good, frosty drinks, yet recipes for which are given below.

Mint Citrus-Ade
One-half cup sugar syrup, 4 stalks fresh mint, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 cup canned grapefruit juice, 1/2 cup water, 2 cups ginger ale.

Remove tips from the mint; crush the stalks in the hot sugar syrup (made by stirring 1/2 cup sugar and 1/2 cup water in a saucepan over direct heat until sugar is dissolved). Let tips stand 1/2 hour; strain. Add lemon juice, grapefruit juice and water if necessary. Chill and just before serving add ginger ale. Garnish with additional mint and serve cold.

Ruby Julep

Two-thirds cup sugar syrup, 1 cup canned orange juice or orange-grapefruit juice blend, 3 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 cup canned cranberry juice, 1 cup water.

Mix all together and pour over cracked ice. Serve cold in punch cups or tall glasses.

Grapefruit Sherbet
Make a grapefruit sherbet, according to recipe below. When ready to serve, place a large spoonful or scoop into each glass. Fill up with ginger ale, garnish with mint, and serve.

One tablespoon gelatin, 1/4 cup cold water, 3/4 cup sugar, 1 No. 2 can grapefruit juice, 1/2 cup lemon juice, 1 egg white, 1 cup boiling water.

Plums Provide Basis For Tasty Desserts

A ripe plum is everybody's darling. Raw, mashed or caught in a jam, plums will always have their friends.

Looking for a light dessert without kitchen fuss? Then peel some purple plums, cut in half, remove pits. Place a little moistened cream cheese in each cavity, then lay a half walnut on top of cheese. Place the plums on a bed of cracked ice flat side up, and serve.

Plum Catsup
Seven pounds ripe plums, 1 pint hot water, 4 pounds brown sugar, 1 pint vinegar, 1-8 tablespoons allspice, 1 tablespoon cinnamon, 1 tablespoon ground cloves.

Wash plums, add hot water, cover tightly. Steam until tender. When tender, add sugar, vinegar and spices. Mix well and simmer another half-hour.

Pour into wide necked bottles and seal. Leave pits in catsup, but remove when you open the bottles and serve the catsup. They give a better flavor.

Ripe Plum Marmalade
Three cups (1 1/2 pounds) prepared fruit, 5 cups (2 1/4 pounds) sugar, half-bottle fruit pectin.

To prepare fruit, peel off yellow rind of 1 orange and 1 lemon with sharp knife, leaving as much of white part on fruit as possible. Put yellow rinds through food chopper; add half-cup water and 1-8 teaspoon soda, bring to a boil, cover and simmer 10 minutes.

Cut off tight skin of peeled fruit and slip pulp out of each section. Add pulp and juice to cooked rind. Pit (do not peel) about 1 1/2 pounds fully ripe plums. Cut in small pieces, crush thoroughly and combine with orange mixture.

Measure sugar and prepared fruit into large kettle, filling up last cup with water if necessary. Mix well and bring to a full rolling boil over hottest fire. Stir constantly before and while boiling. Boil gently 5 minutes.

Remove from fire and stir in bottled fruit pectin. Then stir and skim by turns for just 5 minutes to cool lightly and to prevent floating fruit. Pour quickly. Paraffin hot marmalade at once.

Suggested menu for tomorrow: Breakfast: Blackberries and cream, fried cornmeal mush, maple syrup, bacon, coffee, milk. Luncheon: Spinach souffle, hard rolls, whole pears, tea, milk. Dinner: cold meat, plum catsup, creamed potatoes, buttered beets, romaine with French dressing, gooseberry-pie, coffee, milk.

J. Piner Powell will appreciate your vote for County Attorney. Thank You.

Miller Says Three Other Candidates Adopted His Planks

Clarence R. Miller, Dallas textile executive, who is one of the thirteen candidates for governor said in a speech here last week that three of his opponents have adopted bodily his "dot Texas with smokestacks" plank. He continued that it was all right for them to adopt his industrialization plank, but they should go a step further and adopt the labor plank for his platform too.

Miller pointed out that most of the cotton producers of Texas were lost to the foreign market. The high rates of the eastern markets have reduced the operating profits and the increase of rayon substitutes has become of major importance.

Miller proposed that all cotton gins be equipped in canning domestic fruit and vegetable crops, instituting a southwest market for products raised here and utilizing machinery that stands idle several months during the year.

Miller declared that the "liquor people must have written the law which provides sale by the bottle. They sell more of it that way." He asserted that the liquor problem in Texas is now worse than at any time in history.

Ross Prescott Speaks For Candidacy Friday

Speaking to several hundred people from the courthouse lawn here Friday, Representative Ross Prescott, candidate for the State Senate, from the 25th district said:

"This race has grown more bitter than I'd like for it to have grown—but when a man comes out and fights for the plain people, it gets bitter every time." In speaking of the attacks made on his friends, he said, "I'm ready to fight fire with fire."

Prescott said that in defense of his legislative activity he had guarded his record "sacredly." He charged Penrose Metcalfe, opponent in the present race, with the defeat of a rural school aid fund, which he (Prescott) supported. This school aid bill would have made changes in the financial set-up for securing school funds.

He declared he supported taxes on gas, oil, sulphur, utilities and insurance—"business which accounts for three-fourths of the wealth in Texas." He charged Senator E. M. Davis, Brownwood, with supporting a sales tax and with saying, "I'd as soon tax cotton $10 a bale as to tax oil 10c a barrel."

Doubles Match

"Double, double toil and trouble" goes the old saying and it worked out when these double doubles appeared at the recent National Intercollegiate championship tennis tournament at Haverford, Pa. They are, left to right, Chicago U.'s Chester Murphy, North Carolina U.'s Carlton and Wilson Rood, and William Murphy, also of Chicago U. The Rood twins toiled but met trouble early and were eliminated. The Murphys, on the other hand, toiled and provided plenty of trouble for their opponents by getting through to the last rounds in the doubles.

Gerald Mann Hits at "Rackets" in Speech

Blasting at the political racket in Texas and pledging the strict enforcement of the laws of Texas, former Secretary of State Gerald C. Mann of Dallas, addressed a crowd on the courthouse lawn Tuesday afternoon in the interest of his candidacy for attorney general.

"I am opposed to all rackets and shall wage a continuous battle against them," Mann declared, "but the worst of all, the one most damaging to our state, is the political racket.

"The political racketeer is the influence-peddling lawyer, the self-styled influential politician, the fixer. When I am attorney general those schemers shall no longer sit enthroned. I want to make our capitol building a symbol of justice where any man may go and get what he is justly entitled to without the aid of any racketeer.

"I'd rather be a real attorney general for only two years than be a vacillating, shifting politician. I'd rather be a one-termer than a two-timer," the dynamic candidate said.

Candidate for State School Head Flays Present Officials

S. R. Lemay, Athens, candidate for State Superintendent of Public Instruction, charged the present administration with inefficiency on a campaign visit here last week and quoted a statement from a joint committee report of the Senate and the House of Representatives:

"A detailed audit could not be made of the equalization fund (of the State Department of Education) expenditures because of the general inadequacy and physical condition of the records . . . due to the absence of essential information."

Lemay has taught in teachers colleges over the state and the University of Texas. He has been superintendent of schools of Athens for the past sixteen years.

Staff Member at SCS Camp Tells Unusual Story of Adoption Following World War

By Captain Morris U. Lively
CCC Company 3816-V

Marion MacDonald, assistant educational adviser of CCC Company 3816-V, had many interesting experiences on his trip to France. His tales of the trip are well liked by his companions.

On the twenty-second day of July, 1918, Marion MacDonald twenty-six years of age, enlisted in the United States army. He was sent first to Camp Travis, where he stayed forty days. From Travis he went to Fort Sill, Oklahoma, where he was assigned to the 126th Field Artillery, 34th Division. After fifteen days in Fort Sill, the 126th Field Artillery was ordered to Camp Upton, Long Island, for gas training. On the twenty-eighth of September, 1918, the 126th Field Artillery sailed from Hoboken on the transport SS Chasmer, a British cattle boat.

The trip across the Atlantic was quiet; but on entering the Irish Sea, the ship was struck by a storm. The Chasmer was with other ships, traveling in a line to ride the storm. The line was led by the SS Otranta, which rumor, said, was commanded by a German sympathizer. During the storm the Chasmer rammed the Otranta stern. Immediately the Chasmer also was rammed stern. The rudder and controls of the Chasmer were lost and the Chasmer had to cast anchor. The Otranta drifted onto less over France and Belgium" he thought. Some of the men of the outfit began to make plans. "Pierre simply has to go with us," each soldier questioned answered. The captain of the battery to which Marion MacDonald was assigned was consulted. His answer was an emphatic "no." Pierre must stay behind.

An old sergeant looked at Pierre. He looked at the bass drum. Pierre was rolled into a knot and measured. The inside of the drum was measured. A drum was never handled with the care with which that drum was handled when it was taken aboard the transport for return to the U. S. A. That drum was set down as though it contained Havilland china, or nitroglycerine. Little Pierre was let out of the drum for food and exercise, and then—"Scram, son, jump in the drum. There's the officer in the day on his inspection."

The 126th Field Artillery was back in the United States. Marion MacDonald's battery were drawn up for inspection. The commanding officer, Captain X, saw Pierre. "Well," he said, "how did you get here?" The sergeant took the captain into their confidence. Captain X thought for a few moments, turned to little Pierre and said, "Son, I am a man of means. My home is childless. You will enliven my home and you will give me a new inter-

Scout Council Gets 25-Year Lease On Gibbons Camp Site

It is announced by G. N. Quirk, Scout Executive of the Comanche Trail Council, that the council has been successful in obtaining a 25-year lease on 25 acres on Brady Creek and the San Saba river, the site that has been used for the annual summer camp for the past several years. Through the interest of the Gibbons family and honoring their father, Uncle Billy Gibbons, who took a great deal of interest in the Scouts during the first year they camped on the ranch, there were no charges for the lease. The lease gives permission to Scouts to camp and hike over the rest of the ranch, which includes 45,000 acres, as long as it is in the name of the Gibbons family or their heirs.

The camp is located in the hill country, 15 miles south of Richland Springs, at the mouth of Brady Creek, on the San Saba river. In discussing this campsite, Quirk stated that in his opinion the swimming pool formed by the low dam across the creek is "one of the safest and most sanitary in Texas." The maximum depth is eleven feet, and the pool is gradually shallower toward the entrance side. The entire bottom is gravel and the water is estimated to change once in two hours.

The site has a traditional background. Many Indian battles have been fought in the forks of the two streams. Many Indian relics are to be found in and near the camp. Indian sign paintings are on two bluffs, which have been visited by many students of archaeology. The old Chisholm Trail crossed the San Saba above the camp on the San Saba river. Such places as the Marion MacDonald states that Captain X adopted Pierre. Recently Marion received a card which told that Pierre had graduated a short time ago from an American university.

Richland Springs caverns, Smugglers Draw, Cold Springs, Honeycomb Cave, etc., are in hiking distance of the camp. Many Scouts see their first wild deer and turkey while attending camp. Mr. Quirk said.

Last summer a total of more than 300 boys from the council attended the camp, which is operated in two one-week sessions each summer. Camp dates this year are: July 12th to 19th—July 20th to 27th.

Special events which have already been planned for this summer's camp include a memorial service honoring "Uncle" Billy Gibbons, which will be held Sunday, July 23rd.

A special entertainment feature of each period will be the "battle of the flours," a mock military engagement in which all the Scouts in camp participate and which involves the use of paper bags containing flour as ammunition.

Senator Davis Will Close Campaign Here

Supporters of Senator E. M. Davis, candidate for reelection from the 25th Senatorial District are planning a final rally in behalf of his candidacy at the courthouse Monday evening at 8 o'clock.

A local band will open the program with a concert at eight and Senator Davis will deliver his address at 8:30.

A large crowd is anticipated by members of the Davis Committee as many people from surrounding towns having signified their intentions of being present.

Agriculture Dep't Planning Granaries

The Bureau of Agricultural Engineering, U. S. Department of Agriculture, has prepared some new plans for granaries in anticipation of an increased interest in the farm storage of small grains.

M. R. Bentley, extension agricultural engineer, said that blue print plans of 500, 1,000, 1,800, 6,400 bushel capacity granaries are available from the Extension Service, Texas A. & M. College, College Station, Texas.

It is expected farm storage of small grains will increase, because of the large crop and relatively low prices.

Improvement Noted In Range Pastures

According to the monthly livestock and range report of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, issued Wednesday, material improvement in range conditions and prospects for summer grazing took place during June, in the dry sections of Northwest and West Texas. During the month of June almost general rains fell over arid. There are some places still suffering from the lack of moisture following the droughty period. In the extreme northwestern portion of the Panhandle adjacent to the New Mexico and Oklahoma borders this dry condition still exists. It will take several years of good moisture to bring back normal range conditions.

The ranges deteriorated in the plateau and South Texas areas due to the lack of proper moisture. The range feeds are still good in the plateau area, however mostly poor in the south portion. Of July 1, 1938, all ranges stood at 85 percent normal or four points above the 10-year average July 1 condition, and is 8 points above the condition on the same date a year ago.

Cattle conditions in Texas continued above average on July 1 and grass-fat cattle are available for market in practically all areas.

Prevention of Oil Field Accidents Is Studied at Meeting

G. M. Kintz, Dallas, representative of the Bureau of Mines, lectured here Wednesday night on oil field accidents and prevention methods.

The Brownwood district of the Community Natural Gas Company sponsored the program at their quarterly safety meeting. Managers and employees and representatives of the oil and gas industry, and from other public utilities firms were present.

Serum for Typhoid Is Administered to Nursery Enrollees

The second shot of typhoid serum was administered thirty-nine children attending the WPA Nursery School, 807 Melwood Avenue, Tuesday afternoon. Next Tuesday afternoon, the third and final shot will be given the children. Mrs. G. W. Glover, supervisor of the project, said.

Forty-five of the children were inoculated with diphtheria serum in February. The serum was obtained from the State Department of Health by Dr. H. L. Lobstein, Community Center nurses administered the serum.

About 29 children attend the school each day. The school was included among the projects to continue another year by the district WPA office. The children are graduated from the school at the age of five years and for that reason many who received the diphtheria serum did not receive the typhoid treatment.

Dry Weather Is Aid In Fighting Menace Of Texas Boll Weevil

With the continuance of the hot, dry weather the damage to the cotton by the boll weevil will be greatly reduced.

Although the numbers decreasing, in the middle coastal area the flea hoppers continue to do damage in all fields that have not been dusted. In the black lands east of Dallas, in Kent, Dickens and Crosby counties there has been an increase in the number of fleas. Disasters was made, and pointers on adequate prevention methods were given during the program.

crease of flea hoppers. In the vicinity of Kaufman county the infestation at forty-three locations averaged 24 hoppers per 100 buds, with a maximum of 63. When the figures reach 20 or 25 per 100 buds, control measures should be considered.

In Central Texas there has been an increase in boll weevil infestation, due to the activities of the young first generation weevils, however it is lower at this time than the same period of the last three years. In Jackson county the infestation averages 78 percent, while in North Texas no weevils have been found in the fields examined.

Recent Regulations Affecting Testing Of Milk Effective

New regulations will go into effect September 1 for uniform methods of testing milk and cream for butter fat content. This was assured Texas milk producers and testers Saturday with the promulgation by J. E. McDonald, Commissioner of Agriculture, of official rules and regulations governing the Babcock test for butter fat.

"Elimination of discrepancies in butter fat tests will result primarily in savings to producers and also to distributors," Mr. McDonald said.

The commissioner stated that manuals outlining the complete methods of procedure in the Babcock test, with illustrations of standard equipment, will be provided for licensed testers throughout the state.

This is the first time uniform procedure has been completely outlined for the benefit of both producer and tester in printed form.

Feed and Hatchery Company Observes First Anniversary

Logan Feed and Hatchery Company observed its first year of business in Brownwood July 1. J. H. Logan purchased the J. E. Hill Feed and Hatchery business July 1, 1937. He came to Brownwood from Colorado, Texas, bringing his wife and son, Jimmy, with him.

In the period that Logan Feed and Hatchery has been in business they have bought $2019.56 worth of eggs for hatching purposes. However a larger amount was bought for commercial purposes. More than 187,000 baby chicks were hatched and 129,000 chicks were sold from this total hatching. This is a rather outstanding record for they started incubation January 21 and closed June 10. Mr. Logan said
