A BRIEF THANKSGIVING THOUGHT

Any issue of a newspaper at Thanksgiving-tide would be incomplete without a serious, if brief, attention to the inner meaning and interpretation of the Holiday.

It occurs to us that citizens of this community have more to be thankful for than any other section of the nation; it seems to us that Texans have more to be thankful for than citizens of any other state in the Union; it impresses us that Americans have more—far more—to be thankful for than the peoples of any other nation on earth.

We are prone to look away with longing to the so-called greener fields of other parts of the earth, and yet in this good year of 1933, God's blessings have been showered on us here, as probably not done on any other section of the known world. Our crops were generally good, our health has been better by reason of saner living, our finances have been improving at a rate few other sections have enjoyed. We have had opportunity to work at fair remuneration, and happiness has been discovered within—where we always find it.

God give us vision to properly evaluate the good things we have enjoyed this year; the things we have now and look forward to. God give us the common-sense to fan the flame of happiness within, as we exalt everyday righteousness—and brotherly love—and charity.

God give us thankful hearts, so that we may be prepared for the future whatever weal or woe it holds for us.

POSITIVE ENTHUSIASM AT EIGHTY-ONE

Nothing recently has so thrilled this writer as a three minute radio broadcast over a national hook-up a night or so ago, by Edwin Markham, poet laureate of America. This wonderful man is eighty-one years old, and yet he impresses his hearers as few outstanding men of forty-five can do. He is electric in his personification of enthusiasm, decision, will and interest. His soul young in its intensity speaks out in every sentence and his great interest in everyday life is a gripping thing in one so old in years.

Mr. Markham declares that he writes more than ever, because "there are so many more things to write about," and America is richer by his voluminous contributions to poetic literature in these grand and noble days of his old age and wisdom. Mr. Markham took his first trip by airplane only last week and proves his youthful spirit and empirical mind by his enthusiasm for this modern mode of transportation.

God give us more men of the Edwin Markham type. Enthusiasm at eighty-one is a moving, mighty force.

MUCH ADO ABOUT MONEY

The problems of monetary problems—which in its latest stage is characterized by the start of the United States' vast gold-buying campaign—will unquestionably be brought further into the limelight when Congress meets again.

It has become apparent that the world's business cannot be operated wholly on gold. It may always be the backbone of money—but it cannot live up to the job of being the heart and the tissue and corpuscles, too. It needs an alloy. And silver, the poor man's gold, is eminently fitted for that position.

The monetization of silver, in the opinion of a great many economists, industrialists and agricultural authorities, would be a tremendous step, not only toward recovery, but toward achieving permanent stability. If that is true, the sooner it is achieved, the better.

HITLER'S ONE-CHURCH IDEA

Now comes Adolf Hitler and in his usual modest way proclaims a plan for one church in Germany. He wants the German Catholics and Protestants to unite—the Jews are out, so they don't count—and yet no unity without Jewery would be unity.

However desirable such a state of religious unity is, and in spite of Mr. Hitler's record of success in moulding German sentiment to his will, our guess is that his batting average will suffer a loss in this latest proposal.

All churches merged into one, with differences erased, is as much an ideal state as universal peace. It would be rather odd if Hitler were to get very far toward either objective, as desirable as they are.

No one is rich enough to do without a neighbor.

THE NASHVILLE BANNER DECLINES

In a recent issue the Nashville Banner, one of the old and respected daily papers in the South, announces that it will not accept "hard liquor" advertising. It is presumed that it does accept 3.2 beer advertising.

The rapidity with which the wet forces are revealing their intent to strike down every state prohibition and regulatory law since the repeal of the 18th amendment has been assured, is beginning to alarm certain conservative newspapers that have been passive about the coming of beer.

YOU OWE $2,000

You, the average citizen, are in debt $2,000. So is your wife. So are each of your children and all other relatives. So is everyone else in the country.

A part of this debt you know about. You contracted it as personal obligation. It's entirely your responsibility. But another—and larger part—was contracted for you. The chances are that you don't even realize you owe it—no one is dunning you for payment, and you aren't so much as paying the interest directly.

This latter is the public debt, which composes a substantial proportion of a total national debt in excess of $200,000,000. It's been growing at an accelerated rate during and since the war. You've permitted it to grow. You and your fellow citizens weren't sufficiently interested in government to work for policies standing for economy and efficiency. Or you voted for measures that increased the debt because it was easy to do, and didn't seem to affect you financially at all.

As a result we are paying one of the highest tax rates in history. Millions of our dollars go yearly to meet the interest on debt we permitted government to contract for us. Billions will be required to retire the public bonds we gave our debtors in exchange for their money. And every business, every individual, feels the burden.

CHEAP AT ANY PRICE

An example of what good farm cooperatives can do is afforded by the cotton parity price plan recently put forward by the American Cotton Cooperative Association.

The plan represents an ambitious and well-considered means of bringing the cotton producer a better income. The greater achievement of the Association is in bringing the plan to public notice and securing support for it. A great amount of favorable press comment has appeared. Economists and public officials have spoken in favor of it, and the outlook for its enactment grows constantly brighter.

That is the sort of thing the cooperative can do well—and it is every bit as important as the work of buying and selling a farm product. Good co-ops occupy a unique position between producer, consumer and government. On the one hand, the farmer knows that they represent his interests and are working to better them—and government officials know that they are strong, well-informed and aggressive. Cooperative executives have had a hand in the making of practically all farm legislation. They are extensively consulted when efforts are made to solve agriculture problems.

A dozen cooperatives, dealing in as many commodities, are doing similar work now. Their members are getting the best service they ever had—service that, as the old saying has it, is cheap at any price. They deserve all the support they are getting, and then some.

Library Notes

By MRS. C. A. BURTON

We are very happy over such a splendid gift of books the past week by Mrs. Emily Gentry Ryan—an eleven volume set of "The World Book" for which we have longed and a copy of "Kazan" by James Oliver Curwood, "The Port of Missing Men" by Meredith Nicholson, and "Ivanhoe" by Scott. This is a lovely Thanksgiving gift for the library by Mrs. Ryan.

Why not each of our friends make us a Christmas gift of a book or books from your library? Think how much that would mean to us. Won't you remember it in your Christmas planning? Some one has aptly said that "Next to friends are good books"—but often a book does for us what a friend can not do because friends are hindered by physical conditions—time and place—and books are not.

The Carnegie Institute of Pittsburgh says, "Impartial observers say, with the exception of those agencies giving actual relief, the public libraries of the United States are perhaps our most important institutions during times of business depression."

The Cincinnati Enquirer makes this statement: "Neither the facilities offered by the schools nor the percentage of the population which goes to college has nearly so much to do with the intelligence of a people as the eagerness they show in using the privilege of their libraries."

William Green of American Federation of Labor says, "A

New Mexico.

Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Chunn and children of Hedley spent Sunday here with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Knowles spent Sunday with her sister at Hedley.

Miss Mary Jo Johnston spent the weekend as a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Weatherly of Jericho.

Mrs. E. L. Kennedy and son Alvin, left Monday for a business trip to Ft. Worth.

public library is a necessary part of the educational equipment of every city." Fannie Hurst, one of the most popular present day writers of fiction—and fiction written with a purpose—is a member of the New York Citizen's Library Committee. She has this to say of libraries: "No community which enjoys easy access to books need become a victim to the inevitable mental atrophy which is the result of intellectual isolation. The best that men of all ages have thought and expressed can, from the shelves of the local library, shed luminous influence over the lives and minds of those to whom good reading is good living."

Watching the selection of books by the school people during an afternoon's work make one realize the splendid foundations for future reading and study that are being laid by the English departments in our schools. Poetry, drama non-fiction, and fiction are being in great demand. These are being read largely because they are a part of the course, but they will leave a lasting impress on the young lives.

ASHTOLA CHURCH NEWS

"I will publish the name of the Lord."

The Methodist and Baptist of Ashtola are combining in a more closely united organization than ever before in a strong effort to fulfill the saying, "The motive and not the result" is all that matters. The Helpers, or young Misses class, are planning to do their part in this hopeful enterprise in both church and daily life.

The officials are: President, Viola Baker; First Vice-President, Mary Grayham; Second Vice-President, Helen Baley; Third Vice-President, Claudia Lockhart. Reporter, Frances Dewey; Song Leader, Davis Hatley; Birthday Calendar Girl, Mary Clyne Parker. Next Sunday there will be a special Thanksgiving program as follows: Song, Doris Hatley. Reading, Frances Dewey. Special Prayer, Mary Graham, Viola Baker.

LESSONS OF THE HARVEST

"And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying, 'Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, When ye come into the land which I give unto you, and shall reap the harvest thereof, then ye shall bring a sheaf of the first fruits of your harvest unto the priests; and ye shall wave the sheaf before the Lord, and he accepted for you: on the morrow after the Sabbath the priest shall wave it.'" Lev. 23:9-11.

It is easy to see the significance of this rite to the Israelites. God was to be associated with everything in their lives, and these offerings were to be brought, first, as a recognition of His goodness, and second, as a reminder of their dependence upon Him. We have outgrown much that was taught to and by the Jews; but we have not outgrown the necessity of associating God with our daily life and acknowledging His as Giver of life and all it holds for us.

Let then, this harvest festival or Thanksgiving season remind us: I. Of the bountiful kindness of God in supplying His creatures' needs. Year by year earth's inhabitants are fed, clothed, warmed. Generations come and go, nations rise and fall, yet God forgets not to send seed-time and harvest, day and night.

II. This season of festival reminds us, too, of the necessary connection between the Divine benevolence and human efforts. Our yearly harvests are the results of God and man working together. It is man with God and God with man, that effects the provisions for human wants.

III. This season and festival reminds us also of the relation between seed time and harvest. God has determined that life shall be lived on this principle: "Whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap." From wheat we get wheat, from tares we get nothing. Put off no longer your sowing time. Set to work diligently. Plow, Sow, Tend. In due time you shall reap.

Sunday is being observed as Bible Day all over the world. Our morning subject will be, "The Bible." Sunday is also Missionary day, and our evening subject will be "Missions."—W. E. Ferrell, Minister, First Christian Church, Clarendon, Texas.

RAILROAD FARES REDUCED DEC. 1ST

The announcement of reduced rates on all railroads operating west of the Mississippi River will undoubtedly be welcomed by the traveling public who appreciate the luxury, comfort, speed and safety of railroad travel, but still must hold expenditures to the minimum.

The Fort Worth and Denver City and Wichita Valley Railways, serving this territory with efficient passenger transportation, joins the other systems in announcing rate reductions that will make railroad travel only the pleasantest and most satisfactory but also as low in cost as any recognized passenger carrier service.

Effective December 1st, The Denver Road announces; a one-third reduction on sleeping and parlor car charges thru the elimination of the surcharge.

On one-way tickets, good in coaches only, the new rate will be 2 cents a mile, or a reduction of 44 and two-fifths per cent. One-way tickets good in all classes of equipment will be sold at 3 cents per mile, or a reduction of 16 and two-thirds per cent.

Round-trip tickets with a ten-day limit, good in all classes of equipment, will be sold at 2 cents per mile each way, or a reduction of 33 and one-third per cent; and round-trip tickets with six-months limit, good in all classes of equipment, will be sold at 2 cent per mile or a reduction of 30 and one-half per cent.

Train travel will undoubtedly be greatly stimulated by these important reductions.

PROCESSING TAX MUST BE PAID BY EVERYONE KILLING HOGS FOR SALE

It has been brought to the attention of the bureau of internal revenue that in many instances farmers and others are slaughtering hogs and selling the products to consumers without payment of the processing tax. This is a violation of the agricultural adjustment act and regulations promulgated thereunder, which provide that any person who slaughters hogs for market must file appropriate returns and pay the processing tax thereon.

The tax applies even in the case of the producer who slaughters his own hogs and sells or otherwise disposes of all or any part of the products.

For the first month the tax rate is fifty cents (50c) per 100

Our Society Pup

Life is an amorous poem or a dirge, according to the singer's temperament.

Somnolence in society is a crime; better chatter like a magpie than blink like an owl.

A epigram is a flashlight of a truth; a witticism, truth laughing at itself.

Write spicy letters, but let them be sweetly so, and not all spice.

Without a little mischief a woman is deemed dull by worldly men, and he who lacks courage is voted a bore by all smart dames.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Cooke, Mrs. W. H. Cooke and Miss Mary Cooke left today for El Paso where they will spend Thanksgiving with Misses Frances and Helen Cooke, who are teaching school there.

Mrs. Ida McMurtry of Amarillo was a week-end guest in the W. H. Patrick home.

Carroll Knorpp, C. T. McMurtry, and W. H. Patrick.

Preceding the program, Mrs. J. R. Porter, club delegate to the convention in Austin, gave a most interesting report.

The breakfast table was laid with attractive dillies and centered with a pretty bouquet of purple asters in a silver vase. Twelve guests were seated at the table.

Varied colored snapdragons made an unusual centerpiece for the luncheon table, where two delectable courses were served to twelve more guests.

The dinner course which was formal, was served at a table laid with an imported cloth and centered with a bouquet of huge yellow chrysanthemums. Place cards, displaying the Thanksgiving motif, marked each place. All three groups had clever, unique programs that were thoroughly enjoyable to all.

Community Sale Proves Real Aid

Nat Woods and C. R. Gamblin have launched a local enterprise that is proving its helpfulness in Donley County. They are holding a Community Auction Sale each Saturday afternoon during the present season at Nat Woods' lot just off Kearney Street, and its need has been attested by instant popularity.

Last Saturday here was around $1400 in cows, horses, household goods and farm implements sold, and it is expected that the volume will increase as more people know about the opportunity to dispose of and buy all kinds of goods. Read the advertisement of this Sale in this issue of The News.

"GOLDEN HARVEST" TO BE THANKSGIVING FEATURE

Paramount's "Golden Harvest" will be shown at the Pastime Theatre Wednesday and Thursday, Nov. 29th and 30th. This is a story of wheat; of Eben Martin and his two sons, Walt (Richard Allen) and Chris (Chester Morris).

Walt stayed home to till his father's increasing mortgage plastered across. Chris found his career in Chicago's giant pit. Falling prices bring foreclosed mortgages, Eben and Will are impoverished almost to desperation; Chris grows almost fabulously wealthy gambling in grain futures. Events overwhelm both into failure. See this magnificent picture for it will be well worth your while.

Other players besides Richard Arlen and Chester Morris are Genevieve Tobin, Roscoe Ates, Julie Hayden, Berton Churchill, and Elizabeth Patterson. The prestige of the author, Nina Wilcox Putnam, cannot be overlooked.

Kieuawa Report

The Kieuawa troop did not have their separate weekly meeting this week. Instead the entire Camp Fire met together and a very interesting talk was given by Miss Shoemaker, a nurse at the Adair Hospital. She told of many ways to keep good health and in the end win many more honor beads. The talk was enjoyed by all the girls present.

The tea given by the troop to the mothers and some of their friends was a great success. The girls had many pieces of their hand work on display, which were shown to the guests after a very entertaining program. The program consisted of several pieces on the piano, a song by La Verne McMurtry and Willie Maude Pratt, the recital of the Camp Fire law, by Helen Louise Green, a poem read by Rosalyn Bass, a violin solo by Virginia Cluck, and an interesting report of the troop's work this last year given by Mary Frances Powell. The following is the formal report given of the troop:

The Kieuawa Camp Fire Troop was reorganized in 1930 and has kept nearly the same membership since that time. This year has been a very successful year and we owe our success to our assistant guardian, Mr. McGowan who has had so many ideas for us. We had $5.50 in the treasury Sept. 1, and have sold soda pop and candy at the foot-ball games and sponsored the Foot-Ball Queen and have made $32.75. We paid half of our dues this year so we have $25.75 now. We are proud of this money and we have an interesting program each week at our meetings and some of our activities have been a Jack-Frost Shower for the shut-ins, a Halloween Party with the Abahahanta Troop as our guests, and an old fashioned hay-ride. We are making a gift for Mary Frances Caraway, who has done so much to keep our troop together, and we hope our mothers and guests will enjoy the tea this afternoon. We have offered our services to the Red Cross drive and are planning to make toys and dress dolls for the children of the poor for our project and, our aim, with the other troops and our Camp Fire friends, is to build our recreation Hall at our Camp before summer. We will need help in this but think it would be fine to have this for our Camp Fire Girls now and for the girls to use for many years to come. Our good times will continue throughout the school year followed by our summer camp where we shall get beads for rewards, and take rank for our efforts.

Doughnut Sale by Camp Fire Girls

The Abahahanta Camp Fire Troop met Tuesday, Nov. 21, at the Sanford home to make final preparations for the doughnuts Saturday in the Broncho shine parlor. The doughnuts were all sold, and the Camp Fire Troop wishes to thank the public for its kindness in helping with the preparations and its patronage at the market.

The next meeting will be at the Evans home on Nov. 28.

Rev. Phillip Groden of Chicago apologized for repeating an old sermon, saying that a burglar had stolen his new one.

"12 Year Old Boy" on Turkey Dinners

Thanksgiving dinners always get in my hair. If I could just eat, it would be O. K. I bet turkey and dressing sure would be good hot, but I dunno, I never ate any hot. By the time Old Uncle Edwin returns thanks, and asks each one at the table in mournful whine, "Now what piece would you like, Cousin Franklin?" or who ever it is he is waiting on, and you can darn sure bet it ain't me until the very last, the turkey is cold. I guess I am just the wrong age; too old to get waited on quick to keep me from squawking, and not old enough to get any respect. Besides, they eat so darn long. When I'm through, Uncle Charlie is still chewing his first bite. He always tries to make people feel sorry for him by saying the doctor told him to be sure and eat slow. If they talked interesting, it would be bad enough, but they never talk about anything except business or how the sausage was made.

But, boy, if the conversation at the table is lagging, when that bunch sits down with that over stuffed feeling they got from eating twice as much as they should have, it is positively sluggish. Somebody is apt to say, "To bad Frank couldn't get here; he says the funniest things." Nobody says anything to that because there is nothing to say. It doesn't get any better, either, and even if it did, I wouldn't enjoy it because I'm always too busy trying to figure how I can slip out.

PALO DURO

Reading from the works of Edna St. Vincent Millay, Selma Robinson, and Dorothy Parker, Miss Eloise Roach gave a symposium of modern light verse at the meeting of the Palo Duro Literary Society last Wednesday evening.

As introduction to the program, Rhodin Chase played a selection of modern music by Gershwin. Miss Roach then discussed modern light verse and its relationship to music, stating that light verse is to the literature what modern music is to classical music. From Edna St. Vincent Millay's volume of poetry, "A Few Figs and Thistles," which was published in 1923, Miss Roach read "The Second Fig," "I Loved You Wednesday," "The Unexplored," and "How Can I Know." She read "Rime for Clock," "The Old Closet," and "My Grandfather" from the City Child by Selma Robinson. This volume was awarded the prize given by the American Literary Association for the best volume of poetry published in 1931. The members especially enjoyed the selections read from Dorothy Parker's two volumes, "Enough Rope," and "Sunset Gun." Although they were favorably impressed with all of Dorothy Parker's poems which they heard, the selection most enjoyed was:

"It gives me never a qualm or

Senior Report

The Seniors received their rings Thursday, Nov. 22, and what a day of rejoicing it was. The rings had been in town for almost a month, and those who had paid were getting very impatient, but now the Seniors are feeling fine and are as proud of their rings as an old hen is of her chicks. There is quite a bit of argument about the rings of '33 and those of '34, but most of the '33 seniors have admitted that those of '34 are the best looking. Of course here are a few stubborn ones who still contend that their rings are by far the prettiest. The rings which are of yellow gold, are inlaid with white gold and small geometric designs in black. On the top of each ring there is a "C" of Old-English type gold lettering and the word "Clarendon" in gold lettering, both of which have a black background. On the sides are the inscription "1934" with a large torch between the letters. The Seniors prize their rings highly and are wearing them proudly.

ALPHA DELTA PSI

A study of English artists was taken up by twenty four Alpha Deltans at the regular meeting held on Nov. 22.

Dephia Bones gave an interesting sketch of the life and works of Heller, a contemporary musician who is compared with Schubert and Haydn. After the introduction one of Heller's less difficult compositions, "A Curious Story," was played.

Helen Lawler gave a brief account of the life of the late John Galsworthy. One of his late books, "One More River," was reviewed by Kenneth Brown. Louise Smith, talented contralto of Clarendon College, enthralled an appreciative audience with her rendition of a famous classic.

Helen Rodgers gave current data concerning copies of Manchester Guardian Weekly in our library. Elizabeth Dunn responded with an outline of what these English-printed papers contain. The chairman of the program committee, Wanda Mayfield, spoke of the arrangement of future educational programs. Nova Cook will be in charge of the arrangement of future educational programs. Nova Cook will be in charge of the meeting next Wednesday night.

The Society is growing in membership and enthusiasm with each successive meeting. The annual play, which is entitled "Co-Ed Conspiracy," is to be one of the most brilliant in the history of Alpha Delta Psi. Daily practice is now going on under the expert direction of Lorraine Patrick, and expects to present a really successful drama to their friends of Donley county.

Proper Observance of Thanksgiving

The early Puritans in observing the first Thanksgiving had as their first thought not the great Thanksgiving feast; that was only a means of showing their thankfulness. Today, the celebration of Thanksgiving, the dinner, football games, Thanksgiving Dances, etc., have in many cases overshadowed the more important idea of carrying out exactly what the name of the day implies. This is true especially of many High school students. Few pupils ever think of going to Thanksgiving church services, which in this city are held in union, but a far greater number are thinking of the big Thanksgiving game. It is very doubtful if anyone on the side of the defeated team could have much of a spirit of thankfulness; on the contrary, they will probably be filled with a spirit of anger and regret. The day should be celebrated to a certain extent, but High School Pupils should not let the celebration completely swallow the all-important rite of giving thanks for all that they have.

Notes From A Convenient Cuff

All youse so and sos remember I promised you a secret that would make the Winchell green-eyed with jealousy.

One of the town's more eligible young bachelors plans on giving up the joys of single blessedness on Thanksgiving morning. The reason for this departure from singleness is a stude at W. T. S. T. C. The young man, by the way is a newspaper man of Childress. I would like to be the first to wish him all the happiness in the world.

There you are lads and lassies; do I keep my promises?

The members of our gentler sex are camping by the telephone this week until Wednesday night fervently hoping the B. F. will remember to call for that date for the German dance at our hall of the gliding feet where they may effervesce with joy over Joe Norman's interpretation of "Sophisticated Lady," one of our more popular harmonies.

Honorable Edward Cantor, who gives the Will Hays to our jokes on the Ozone, said he got an envelope from his brother with half a grand in it, but couldn't

Junior Report

As a class the Juniors have not done anything but as individuals they have been cramming for their six weeks tests which are over but not forgotten. The only thing the Juniors are ever thankful for over the six weeks tests is that they show that six more weeks of the daily drudgery, known as school, are over. Thursday is Thanksgiving Day and the Juniors as a whole have lots to be thankful for; for instance, that they aren't failing any flatter than they are and that they all in good health despite the constant menace to their well-being which is supplied by the demerits.

Incidentally, the Juniors have two geniuses of whom they are very proud. One is an author and the other a painter and a bright English student. Mr. D. L. Baker, otherwise known as the "eavy of Shakespear," is right there with the pen. He can write poems, novels, or just witty sayings which of course, aren't witty but just dumb. The author, an English student, is none other than Carroll Hudson, who has been drawing a series of pictures concerning the "Last Round-up" and as he finishes with them he gives them to Sarah V. who keeps them well preserved.

retain same, because it had "Return in Five Days," on the envelope.

There is a man in this town whose remarkable similarity to Hobart Bosworth, of stellar fame, always reminds me of that grand old man of the squawkies.

Our Professor of Sociology is, according to your scribe's personal opinion, a remarkable smart man, especially with regard to the opposite sex. He could give Dorothy Dix of newspaper fame a few pointers on the cattiness—of our feminine felines.

Our master of ceremonies at the local talkies is procuring some remarkably good shows for the next few weeks, but I'll never rest easy until he gets "Too Much Harmony."

ON THE DESERT

Husband to wife on first morning in the desert: "Quick, darling, come and see this wonderful mirage."

Wife, peering intently: "I'm sorry, dear, but I don't see a thing; but let's hurry and have our breakfast, then go swim in that beautiful lake."

Jr. High Report

The Jr. High and South Ward were favored with a very good program Thursday afternoon. This program was sponsored by Les Beaux Arts Club and consisted of a number of famous paintings represented by living models. Students were chosen from Mrs. Goodner's English classes to announce the pictures. Those out of the sixth were Billie Headrick and Billie Patman. Seventh grade, Phoebe Ann Buntin, Jane Kerbow, Mildred Atterberry, Opal Chilton, Ethlyn Drennon, Claude McGowan, Homer Tucker, J. D. Swift, and John M. Bass. Eighth grade, Jeanne McDonald and Ruth Hedgpeh. There are also several of the Jr. High students representing some of the pictures. The program as a whole was very good and the students all enjoyed it very much.

Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock four girls met at the home of Edna Thomas to study, but a lot of studying they did. They rapidly devoured a sack of peanuts and didn't report such a pleasant night afterward. They tried to work jig saw puzzles, but failed. The girls were Zelda Ruth Nored, Ruth Hedgpeh, Jean Piercy, and the hostess, Edna Thomas. They reported an enjoyable evening.

Well, Thanksgiving is here again. Just 312 years ago the Pilgrims celebrated the first Thanksgiving. There was a big feast and a lot of celebration because they had weathered the hardships a whole year. They had a few Indians there to help them celebrate. Every since then, we

We should praise Miss Roach for her determination. She is determined that we learn those demonstrative pronouns and adjectives. Good luck, Miss Roach; we fear you'll need it.

SEVENTH GRADE REPORT

The seventh grade wrote themes Friday and there were some very good ones, for Mrs. Goodner had a hard time selecting them for the news paper.

One selection was the old Christmas in the South by Lalar Belle Wilkerson and the other was the Silk Industry by Jelly McGowan.

The seventh grade are proud of their themes so look them up and read them.

Is The Small Town Passing?

A question often asked and one that has an important bearing on every state and the resources of many individuals and corporations

By R. L. THORNTON, President Mercantile National Bank, Dallas

Fifteen to twenty-five years ago, in bad road days, the smaller towns all over Texas—towns less than the county seat towns—did a flourishing business. Then, with the advent of good roads and the novelty and efficiency of the automobile, the business of many of the small towns began to dwindle and some of them have almost passed out of business existence.

The blacksmith shop has given way to the filling station; the horse-drawn carriage to the auto; the church house, as a gathering place in part, to the picture show. And so, the change in human amusement and activity.

Yet, we are still people with the same or better average rate of human intelligence and about as good as we ever were—still spending most of what we make for the things we need and want.

The old free credit business in the main has changed to either a thirty-day or cash business. We go on getting along better or worse—some that were better are now worse and some that were worse are now better—and many of the old patrons of the "old day" store have passed on and a "new day" generation have taken their places, are doing the making of the money and the spending of it.

ONCE again with the arrival of autumn the whole countryside is transformed into a series of gorgeous pictures of vivid coloring. Although the turning of the leaves sounds the death knell of summer, nature is kind and autumn is born in all its brilliancy.

All signs point to the advent of the fall season. The call of the hunter echoes from the woods and the staccato crack of the rifle and boom of the shot gun ring out through the clear air. Even the small animals respond to the urge of the season and may be seen scurrying here and there storing up food supplies for the coming winter.

take advantage of the season before it closes, for the time is not long till the splendor of the trees in their mantles of gold and crimson will be gone, not to return until another year has passed. The imagination of the poet is stirred by the rapidly changing season and the philosopher becomes inspired with new thought.

merchants of the larger trading centers advertised, told the smaller town folks all about their bargains of price, style and fitness to a greater degree than ever before, and the smaller town folks liked that. It was, in a way, something new to them, that is, advertising in a different way and more thrilling way. Then what happened. The small town store, losing its business, ceased to carry what the people wanted—reduced its stocks and simply surrendered, so to speak, saying that this town is through for good and the auto and good roads have ruined this town and my business. Some of the better small town merchants went to the larger trade centers, and the county seat town raised the same complaint in part, saying their customers with autos and good roads had gone on to the cities where still more glamour and greater entertainment, greater stores and more fun existed, all of which, in part, has happened.

I know county seat towns that sold more goods in dollars twenty to thirty years ago than they do today. All these changes have affected banking in these respective towns and communities, for as the business of a town ebbs and flows, so flows the business of the banks of that town.

Paved streets, big lighted streets, big fire departments, all of which we like, must be paid for by merchants and other taxpayers and have a direct bearing on the expense of doing business, and are reflected in the prices of goods sold.

So, many of the larger cities are now overmerchandised with an ever-increasing overhead cost of doing business, and, too, haven't purchasers about finished their "joy riding" and now ready to come back home? If merchants will invite them back with "up-to-now" modern stocks and modern methods of doing business, fun and entertainment, won't the same auto that carried them away bring them back? And can't they come back over the same good roads they went away over. The purchasers have begun to learn that it takes money to run an auto 20 to 100 miles. Let alone wear and tear. He has begun to learn that high city taxes and high costs of doing business are also placed on the price ticket of the article he buys.

He has also begun to learn that there is not now nearly so much advantage with the quantity buyer as there used to be. The buyer is now an educated buyer. The radio, the newspapers and the merchants themselves have taught him a lot more about merchandise than he ever knew before. So, hasn't all of this created a new opportunity for the smaller town merchant of equal merchandising ability and with equal or proportionately equal capital?

My own view is that we are running over many green fields looking for greener ones. The capable smaller or county-seat town merchant has many basic advantages in cost of doing business. He is closer to and understands the wants and necessities of his trade territory. The question of small and quick deliveries is now solved. He sits close to the seat of our fundamental purchasing power. If he is a merchandiser he can sell the best quality at as low a price as that article can be profitably sold anywhere. To illustrate that the small town has not gone, though many would-be merchants have passed on and cut:

According to statistics compiled by the U. S. Department of Commerce, 80.2 per cent of the merchandise bought at retail by the people of the United States was bought in towns and hamlets of 10,000 and less. Doesn't this surprise you when you take into consideration the thousands of large trading centers of 10,000 and over in the United States? After all, it's the masses that are doing the great majority of our buying.

Enterprising merchants and business men built most all the towns and cities of this country. This same type, that is the New Day, up-to-date, wide-awake merchants and business men, can rebuild them and will, for there is opportunity there and men seek

Why Children Need a Liquid Laxative

The temporary relief children get from some synthetic, habit-forming cathartic may cause bowel strain, and even set-up irritation in the kidneys. A properly prepared liquid laxative brings a perfect movement. There is no discomfort at the time and no weakness after. You don't have to give the child "a double dose" a day or two later.

Can constipation be corrected in children? "Yes!" say medical men. "Yes!" say many mothers who have followed this sensible medical advice: 1. Select a good liquid laxative. 2. Give the dose you find suited to the system. 3. Gradually reduce the dose until the bowels are moving regularly without aid.

An approved liquid laxative (one that is widely used for children) is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. The mild laxative action of this excellent preparation is the best form of help for children—and grown-ups, too. The dose can be regulated for any age or need.

opportunity and dare the world for it. So, my thought is the country town has not passed, but as the country rights its economic wrongs, sees the light of a sounder economic day, the smaller town will perform its sound economic function by serving those that it is best equipped to serve in every line, just as the cities serve, and not until then will we reach our maximum of a well-balanced prosperity, for it takes prosperous hamlets, prosperous towns and prosperous cities to make up a well-balanced prosperous country.

applied on the agreements now in effect on the changes noted. Following is a letter Judge Lowe received from M. A. Stainer, engineer of Maintenance of Way for the Denver lines, which confirms the agreement whereby the county is saved thousands of dollars:

"Confirming our conversation in my office today, this to advise you that it will be satisfactory to us for the County to pay direct, such local labor as we recruit from Donley County in carrying out our obligations of the contract for construction of State Highway No. 5 through your County. Where the County is obligated to pay the Railway Company a fixed sum for certain items, the Railway Company will credit the county on these obligations with the amount of labor the county has furnished at the rate in effect on the railway for similar labor at the time this labor is performed."

While in Austin Judge Lowe appeared before the highway department and made application for the designation of Highway 88, South from Clarendon to Turkey, and a state highway North from Hedley to McLean, but found the department not disposed to make any new designations at the present time on account of the lack of funds for construction and maintenance work. These applications will come up for hearing when the highway funds are more plentiful.

Appearing before the Texas Rehabilitation and Relief Commission, Judge Lowe also made application for labor and materials to the sum of $25,000 for a bridge across Salt Fork North of Hedley. The labor item seems to be favorably considered but the matter of purchasing materials at present is holding this and other like projects up, but may later be approved, according to letter received by Judge Lowe from Project Engineer E. A. Baugh at the Austin headquarters:

"Referring to your project entitled Salt Fork Bridge this is to advise you that we will not be able at the present time to furnish materials to the amount of ten thousand dollars for your project in the files pending information from Washington concerning the purchasing of materials."

THE PALO DURO CANYON

By Jeanne McDonald

The Palo Duro Canyon is situated in the Panhandle of Texas. If one knew anything about the topography of the Panhandle, he would think it a queer place for a canyon, for it drops a sheer eight hundred feet out of the plains, which stretch for miles in every direction.

One can hardly realize he is at the canyon until almost in it. At the entrance, the canyon drops a hundred or more feet to a small, grassy plateau. Then it drops several hundred more feet to the bottom. It is over a hundred miles long. The sides are brilliantly colored and are very rugged. The colors are bright red, orange, different shades of brown, and in the hazy distance blues and purples. There are some very beautiful and unusual formations, such as the famous Light House, which certainly resembles one.

Along the bottom of the canyon runs the Red River. The banks are very steep, much more so than one would think standing on top looking down. The bottom is rough also and is full of brush and cacti. There are several ranches along the canyon, which run their cattle in it. They also cut the grass for hay. Some say that deer, bear, and perhaps other wild animals live in it, but no one knows.

Scientists are rather at a loss to explain this great freak of Mother Nature. They think that some great upheaval, such as raised the Rocky Mountains, also made the Palo Duro.

The canyon is now being converted into a National Park by the Civilian Conservation Corps. It is expected to attract visitors from all over the world, as the Grand Canyon does. In fact some compare it to the Grand Canyon, saying it is just as beautiful, on a smaller scale.

FIRST MARINE CORPS BIRTHDAY DATES BACK TO COLONIAL DAYS

Bridging a span of nearly 160 years, modern U. S. Marines are shown taking over the duties performed by sea soldiers of colonial times during a birthday celebration at Philadelphia, where a Corps of Marines was first established on November 10, 1775. The background represents the Tun Tavern, their first recruiting rendezvous, and the rattlesnake flag, a forerunner of Old Glory.

Tracing their history back to the American Revolution, the U. S. Marines will observe the 158th anniversary of their Corps on November 10.

Long before Old Ironsides sailed the seas, years before the national capital was established at Washington, Marines were fighting their country's battles on land and on sea. It is a proud boast of the Marine Corps that it was authorized by an act of the Continental Congress in 1775 nearly eight months before the Declaration of Independence was signed.

Men From Every State
Every State of the Union has contributed its sons to the Corps. Enrolled in its ranks are men from the western prairie lands, from the thickly-populated centers of the East, from the Gulf to the Great Lakes and from coast to coast. The Marines enroll men who hail from every State, for they belong to the nation.

Traditionally a seafaring fighting force, the youth of the nation is chiefly attracted to this branch of the service by the prospect of duty aboard battleships or cruisers, or the lure of distant lands over far seas, to which the sea soldiers often voyage in the service of their country.

That they are essentially soldiers of the sea is attested by the rules laid down by the Continental Congress when they authorized the first two battalions, and specified: "That particular care be taken that no persons be appointed to office or enlisted into said battalions, but such as are good seamen, or so acquainted with maritime affairs as to be able to serve by sea when required."

From the first day the sea soldiers were recruited for service on ships of the Continental Navy, to the present time, when their far-flung outposts reach to China, Hawaii, the Philippines and elsewhere, the achievements of the Corps reflect closely the history of the public.

In the battles of the Revolution, the War of 1812, the Mexican, Civil, Spanish and World Wars, the Marines bore a gallant part. Every crisis that America has faced has given the sea soldiers a chance to make history, and in addition many special tasks have been assigned to them.

They fought gallantly, afloat and ashore, in the war against Tripolitan pirates, and took part in the famous sea duel between the U. S. S. Constitution and the British frigate Guerriere.

They have stalked Indians through the forests of our own country, stormed the barrier forts in Korea, battled Boxers in China, chased seal poachers in Alaska, engaged in numerous skirmishes against revolutionists in many countries, and did their heroic bit in scores of campaigns.

It was their service in Mexico and Tripoli that furnished a theme for the Marines' Hymn, "From the Halls of Montezuma to the Shores of Tripoli."

Flintlocks and Fighting tops
Back in the days of flintlocks and fighting tops, the sea soldiers wore green coats, white waistcoats, and buff-colored trousers that disappeared in leggings reaching above the knees. A three-cornered hat, perched on a white wig, completed the uniform.

Many of the ornate uniforms decorations disappeared early in the last century, but the Marine of today in his smart blue uniform is still a colorful figure.

The stiff leather collar worn by the Marines several decades ago, won for them the nickname, "Leatherneck," a term which the sea soldiers greatly prefer to other more or less picturesque titles which have since come in vogue.

Times, customs and manners have changed, but the Marines have kept pace with the develop-

The modern sea soldier is quite at home aboard the floating fortresses of steel and machinery which now guard our shores against possible invaders. On their birthday, Marines all over the world will pause to glance back over their record of service to the country. "Semper Paratus," or always faithful, is their motto. It has never changed.
