Work Started On CCC Encampment Winter Quarters

Require About 45 Days To Convert Camp at Lake Into Winter Headquarters.

Preliminary work at the state of Lake Brownwood on the present barracks there in winter quarters and construction of six or eight additional camps to accommodate a 250-CCC camp was started Wednesday under the direction of Assistant R. J. Harrison.

A crew of six men is being used for preliminary work begun yesterday but a full crew will be by Lieutenant Harrison Friday. He has asked all interested parties who are interested in the job to meet him at Brownwood at 10 o'clock this morning.

Part of the material for the construction has been delivered to the ground by the end of the week. The material was purchased from Higginbotham Bros. company, of Brownwood.

The local station was considered such a success and said to fill a great need by the department and as a result similar stations, built on the Brownwood specifications, will be constructed throughout the state. The plans and specifications have been sent from Brownwood to the highway patrol office at Austin and together with the highway department this division will erect the stations.

They will all be locked but all patrolmen will have keys that will fit all the padlocks. This makes it easy for all to operate and at no time will a patrolman be where he cannot weigh a loaded truck. The stations will all be painted with the regulation highway department colors and will be grey.

The stations will be monuments for highway patrolmen that have been killed in action or while on duty. The names of the patrolmen will be painted on the front of each box. The local box has been named in honor of E. B. Wheeler, one of the patrolmen slain in April by Clyde Barrow and Bonnie Parker near Garrettsville, Texas.

There is a state law which requires the patrolmen to weigh any truck that they think is overloaded, the maximum being 7,000 lbs. There is also a law that states a truck can be taken two miles by the officer for weighing and the local scales are so located that they are within two miles of all highways leading into Brownwood.

The equipment consists of two small scales, each capable of weighing one wheel of a truck at a time, this being the system used by the patrol.

SCALE STATION HERE FIRST OF SERIES IN OPERATION BY STATE

Brownwood boasts the first of a series of "scale stations" to be built by the state highway patrol for weighing loaded trucks. This station was built by the maintenance department of the state highway department and was built upon specifications devised by engineers of the department.

This station, the first of its kind was built after Highway Patrolman Bruce asked the department to devise some method of weighing loaded trucks in this district. The department instructed him to find some suitable method of making the weights. He and Division Engineer Leo Ehlinger devised the complete equipment.

The station, located in the triangle of highways No. 10 and 129 a short distance east of Brownwood, is made of concrete. It consists of a concrete platform to park the truck and also a concrete box which contains the scales. The box is kept locked but is accessible to all highway patrolmen.

The local station was considered such a success and said to fill a great need by the department and as a result similar stations, built on the Brownwood specifications, will be constructed throughout the state. Accused Of Nation's Worst Crime

This man, practically without aid, conceived and carried out the most shocking crime in recent history—kidnaping and slaying of Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr.—police and federal agents charge. He is Bruno Richard Hauptmann, 35, former German army machine gunner, an alien unlawfully in the U. S., arriving 11 years ago as a stowaway. CONTINUANCE OF GOVERNMENT CATTLE PURCHASING PROGRAM IN BROWN COUNTY REQUESTED

CONTINUATION of the federal government's drought relief cattle purchasing program was the object of a mass meeting Thursday morning of Brown county cattlemen, business men and citizens held in the district court room. Information had been received by county officials that after this week the cattle purchasing program would be discontinued and because of the dire necessity of additional relief to drought stricken stockmen Thursday's meeting was called to map out a campaign to induce the government to continue the program.

A committee of five, Courtney Gray, C. W. Lehmburg, E. M. Davis, John T. Yantis and Modie Glass, was appointed to send a telegram to Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace. This telegram, pointing out the seriousness of drought conditions in Brown county and the necessity of continued relief for stockmen, was sent to Mr. Wallace Thursday noon.

The telegram follows: Hon. Henry A. Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

"Fourteen hundred and fifty-two cattle producers of Brown county, Texas, listed 16,473 cattle for government purchase. To date only 7,432 have been purchased by the government from 775 producers. Drought conditions in Brown and adjoining counties most serious. No rains since May. Grass exhausted and practically no feed raised and none available. Water over entire area, both surface and wells, rapidly failing. Unless relief program continues thousands of cattle will die within next few weeks. Unserviced producers more critical condition now than when program started. Large mass meeting of cattle producers and citizens named undersigned committee to appeal for continuation of cattle purchasing program in Brown county until all producers who have listed stock have been served."

Signed,
COURTNEY GRAY,
County Judge.
C. W. LEHMBERG,
County Drought Director.
E. M. DAVIS,
State Senator-elect.
JOHN T. YANTIS, Banker.
MODIE GLASS, Stockman.

In addition to sending the telegram to Secretary Wallace the committee planned to notify Senators Morris Sheppard and Tom Connally, Vice-President John Garner, Congressman Thomas L. Blanton and Charles L. South, congressman-elect, of the action taken at today's meeting and to ask these men to aid in getting the cattle purchasing program in Brown and adjoining counties continued. The committee also expected to notify county judges in adjoining counties of the action taken here and to insist that similar action be taken by them.

Shortly after the mass meeting adjourned Thursday morning County Agent C. W. Lehmburg was notified by C. E. Boyett, county re-

WORKMEN REPAIRING DAMAGED FLOOD GATE AT LAKE BROWNWOOD

Repair work on the gate tower and conduits at Lake Brownwood, begun last Saturday, is being rushed feverishly this week by a crew of men working under the supervision of G. W. Wilson and Everett Sheldon, gate engineers sent to Brownwood by Phillips and Davies, manufacturers of the floodgates, of Kenton, Ohio. Skeet Hall is directing the work for the water district.

The two large conduits at the lake are being strengthened and new tracks for the two sixteen-ton gates are being installed and with these projects completed, engineers in charge assure that there will be no future trouble at Lake Brownwood. Workmen are chiseling out the upstream entrances of the two big conduits preparatory to installing steel plates in each, the purpose of this being to permanently insure the conduits from damage, because of the tremendous pressure of the water when the gates are opened. Air driven hammers are being used to chisel out the concrete lining of the conduits enough to permit installation of the steel plate.

Workmen also are removing the old tracks on which the big gates ran and will install the new and heavier tracks which engineers say positively will not bend or give way, regardless of what pressure is placed upon them.

Those in charge state that three weeks time will be required to finish the repairs under way. However, it is expected that within a few days the work will be far enough advanced to permit the closing of the floodgates should sufficient rain fall to overtax the capacity of the coffer dam now being used to hold what water is left in the lake basin.

Workmen are virtually working against time and the large crew on the job is putting in ten hours daily in an effort to complete the entire project before rain falls.

13 CCC ENROLEES ALLOTTED COUNTY

Brown county has been allotted a quota of thirteen enrollees for the next period of Conservation Corps camps, according to notice received Wednesday by C. E. Boyett, county relief administrator. The quota may be raised or lowered on further notice.

Mr. Boyett will begin taking applications immediately. Regulations governing enrollments in CCC camps designate that only unmarried American citizens between the ages of 18 and 25, inclusive are eligible for service in CCC camps. These must have dependants and must be willing to allot a substantial amount of the $30 monthly pay to those dependent upon them for support. Young men whose families are on the relief rolls will be given first consideration. If, however, the full quota cannot be obtained from those on the relief rolls, others will be taken. No two boys from the same family will be accepted and all applications must be made voluntarily. Those selected must agree to enlist for a six month period and must furnish their own transportation to camps.

Those who desire to enlist are requested to make their applications at county relief headquarters at an early date. The Brownwood and Brown county detail will be sent to camp between October 1 and 15. Location of the camp to which they will be assigned has not been announced.

Turkey Raisers Expect $200,000 From 1934 Crop

Dry Weather Cuts Crop In Half, But Better Prices Are Expected To Be Result.

Brown and surrounding counties will realize about $200,000 from the 1934 turkey crop it is estimated, although the total is said to be about 50 per cent of the amount for last year. Buyers and growers state that the prevailing conditions this year have made the crop much shorter than last year with a poorer quality of bird being in prospect.

It is said that the feed shortage, brought about by the drought, is one of the main factors in the short crop. A disease early in the spring and the discouragement of last year's low prices are also responsible in a large measure for the shortage.

It is estimated that about 55 cars of turkeys will be shipped from Brownwood this year as compared to 75 cars shipped during the 1933 season. However, the total income will be larger because the prospects for higher prices are very bright at present. It is said that the prices will range from 15 cents to 20 cents per pound this year as compared with an eight cent to 12 cent price of last season.

Not only will the sale of the turkeys mean many dollars to farmers of this section but it will also give employment to hundreds of Brownwood people who work each season in the produce plants, picking turkeys. This source of income will bring many dollars into the pockets of Brownwood people. The price to be paid turkey pickers has not been set for the coming year.

Buyers say that now is the time to begin conditioning the turkeys for the Thanksgiving and Christmas markets. They say that growers should begin now to feed their birds so that they will be fat for selling. They state that wheat should be one of the main feeds at present and that later they should begin feeding corn and a mash containing ground meat.

There are a few quality turkeys in this section, which is considered the largest turkey producing country in the United States, and these will command top prices and will be in great demand by mid-western and eastern buyers.

The market will open about the 10th of November for the first market and then will reopen the first of December for the Christmas market.

Turkey shipment for the entire state last year was 1,546 carloads, which was a decrease from the 1932 shipment of more than 1,700 carloads. A 20 per cent decrease in turkey production is the estimate for the state.

$6,000 IS RECEIVED FOR COUNTY RELIEF

A check for $6,000, representing the last half of the relief allotment for Brown county for the month of September, has been received by C. E. Boyett, county administrator, from the Texas Relief Commission. Part of the amount has already been allotted to work relief now under way in the county.

Officials have been warned to conserve the remainder of the $6,000 check as much as possible in view of the fact that it is not known whether the next allotment will be made on time.

Work relief projects in the county are being cut down and some projects will end this week until additional funds are received.

BROWNWOOD FANS TO SEE HIGH SCHOOL IN ACTION THIS WEEK

Brownwood's three major football outfits, the Lions, Billies and Jackets swing into action on three fronts this week-end with all contests being of the non-conference variety. The Lions and Billies started the ball rolling the past week in games with Thomas Jefferson High School in San Antonio and with Texas Christian University in Brownwood. The high school boys lost a hard fought 8-0 decision to the San Antonio eleven but the showing made by the wearers of the maroon and white was highly pleasing to the Lions' coaches and to Brownwood fans.

The Hill Billies last Friday night dropped a 33-7 decision to the powerful Texas Christian University Horned Frogs, an outfit that usually rates among the toughest in the Southwest Conference. The Christians scored a touchdown in each of the first three quarters and after the Brownwood collegians had scored early in the fourth period the Frogs pushed over two more. The Hill Billy counter was made on a perfect pass, Hickman to Snodgrass, and a fifty yard run by the fleet Snodgrass across the goal. The Frog-Billy battle was featured by the brilliant passing attack unleashed by the T. C. U. eleven.

The Yellow Jackets swing into action Friday night when they invade San Marcos for a clash with the Southwest Texas State Teachers College eleven.

The Hill Billies left Brownwood Thursday morning for El Paso, where Saturday afternoon they meet the School of Mines.

Brownwood High School's Lions remain at home this week for a battle Friday night with Coleman High School. This clash will be staged at Howard Payne park, the only gridiron lighted for night play in the city. Last week Coleman held the vaunted Abilene High Eagles to a 27-0 count and because of this showing the Blue Cats are likely to be plenty troublesome for the proteges of Coaches Keeling and Miller.

Greater London's population amounts to more than 8,202,518.

With an average capacity of 16,000 horsepower each, two turbines, said to be the world's largest, have been built for a government hydroelectric plant in Sweden.

Byrds Oil Test Is Being Watched

An oil test by Shaffner and Wintham on the John Taber place near Byrds has been watched with much interest this week. The test has been drilled to the 2,400-foot level and will likely be drilled in within the next few days. This is an offset to the Bowden No. 1, a producer which was brought in last winter.

S. C. Herring, on the Scott farm north of Brownwood, has been cleaning out the past few days and is preparing to shoot. The well is in the top of the lime with a good showing of oil and gas. This is considered as important new territory.

The Guy W. Moore, et al, well on the Caleb Wilson farm near Jordan Springs, was drilling near the 400-foot level Thursday. This will be a deep test, the contract calling for a 4500-foot depth.

The block of acreage near Zephyr in which Dave Gally and the Danziger Oil & Refining Company, of Fort Worth, are to drill, will be shot within the next week or ten days within the next week or ten days. A well known geologist of Austin has pronounced this well as the most important wildcat in the state as far as geology is concerned.

CLIFTON MINYARD MADE MANAGER OF JOHNSON'S

Clifton Minyard, who has been cashier of the local office of Johnson Storage and Warehouse company, has been made local manager of the Brownwood office, it was announced this week by W. A. Johnson of Fort Worth.

Mr. Minyard has been acting manager since last week, when C. E. Sproul, manager here since January, was transferred to the Oklahoma City office as soliciting agent for Johnson Motor Lines.

Relief administrator, not to purchase any more cattle for the government for shipping. Mr. Boyett, who is receiver for the cattle purchased by the government, stated that he had no hay for feed and that he had been ordered by state relief officials not to purchase any more.

As a result of this Mr. Lehmburg sent word to those buying the cattle not to buy any more for shipping but instructed them to keep on purchasing condemned cattle.

BROWN COUNTY YOUTH DIES OF GUN WOUNDS

Edward Duren, 18, son of A. E. Duren, former county commissioner of Mills county, was found fatally wounded in a pasture at his five miles north of Mullin Monday morning, and died at noon the same day in the Texas Hospital in Brownwood where he was brought immediately after being found. Young Duren had gone hunting in the area near his home and it is believed that he was accidentally shot by a bullet from a small rifle which hit him just above the heart.

He was discovered by members of his family shortly after 9 o'clock Monday morning and was rushed to the hospital in Brownwood. Neighbor heard a shot about 8 p. m. and this with the condition of the youth when found indicated he had been lying wounded in the pasture about an hour before being found. Members of his family said that they had no reason to believe the shooting was other than accidental. They said Duren had been hunting frequently.

Young Duren had lived in the community his entire life. He graduated from Mullin High School last May. He was a nephew of Estelle Duren, of Brownwood.

FALL MOHAIR POOL BEING FORMED HERE

A pool of mohair is being assembled by the Brown County Wool and Mohair Producers Association at the Southwestern Poultry Association's building and will be placed on the market as soon as a full carload is received.

Officials of the association have urged members planning to enter mohair in the pool to do so as soon as possible or notify those in charge of the amount they plan to pool.

It is essential that an entire carload be made up in that the mohair will command a better price and can be handled easier than part of a car. Sealed bids will be received as soon as the carload is obtained.

During his more than 30 years residence in Brownwood Mr. Phillips had been one of the leading carpenters and contractors of the city. He had been a member of the Church of Christ the past fourteen years.

The Bankhead Act

Brown county farmers are wise in recommending the modification of the Bankhead Act. Administration regulatory measure designed to boost the price of cotton through curtailing planting. But modification cannot be made immediately, and must of necessity apply to future crop years. This modification is due to come in some form, if the Bankhead or a similar Act is to be continued through another year. Just what form is to be adopted will be determined, it is to be assumed, only after opinions have been obtained from cotton farmers throughout the cotton growing states.

For this reason, the action of a mass meeting of Brown County farmers in Brownwood Saturday was timely. And the suggestion made has much to merit serious consideration on the part of the Administration. Shorn of the technical features it necessarily suggests, the plan calls for a confiscatory tax on any cotton planted by a farmer in excess of one-third of his total area in cultivation. In other words, under the plan suggested, it would not be profitable for any farmer to plant more than one-third of his farm to cotton. Cotton raised on the other two-thirds of his farm, or any part of it, would be taxed so heavily that it would be unprofitable to produce.

Obviously the Brown County farmers were attempting to strike at the large cotton farmer, who plants thousands of acres to cotton each year. No plantations of this nature are to be found in this immediate section, and whether the larger farms produce any sizeable percentage of the total cotton crop, we do not know.

The plan has one weakness that comes to mind. If it is effective in reducing the amount of cotton produced in America, it might, like the present Bankhead Act, encourage cotton production in other countries to such an extent that America would not be the dominant cotton country. This would force the world price down and make production of cotton even less profitable than it has been during the past few years.

Be that as it may, what farmers need now is immediate relief from the provisions of the Bankhead Act. Brown County, for example, has been allotted 6,900 bales under the Bankhead Act. Due to the drought, the crop is expected to run not more than 5,000 bales. Some farmers are able to produce cotton slightly in excess of the amount allowed them under the present provisions of the Bankhead Act. They should be relieved from this restriction, and be allowed to produce as much this year as they can.

This Armament Business

Attention has been called to the major industry of war—the sale of armaments, through recent Congressional investigations which have disclosed a startling situation, of which most people had been only vaguely aware. It is the tremendous international business of selling nations on the idea of war or preparation for war, and the methods used in selling armaments to the various nations.

Nothing costs the world so much as a war. In the United States, army and navy maintenance, charges on war bonds, pensions and war incidentals now, even with relief appropriations to be considered, constitute more than 60 per cent of the Federal government's operating expenses. It has been estimated that the World War cost about four hundred billion dollars.

Earlier in the year the magazine Fortune ran an article entitled "Arms and the Men." It was republished in pamphlet form by a large eastern publishing firm, and hundreds of thousands of copies were distributed. The article charges that the motto of the armament dealers is to keep a war going once it is started and to attempt to start new ones in time of peace.

The article does not confine itself to generalities but makes specific charges against famous firms, and mentions names, dates, places, incidents. It points out that the sale of armaments is the only business where a concern likes to see its competitors make sales, because it knows that these sales must inevitably lead to increased business for all concerned. Here's a mythical illustration: "The Republic of Sylvania buys a brace of destroyers from the A Armament Company. The neighboring Republic of Arcady becomes frightened, wonders if Sylvania is planning an invasion. A representative of the B Armament Company shows up, presents his sales talk, contacts high officials and Arcady buys three destroyers. Sylvania retaliates by purchasing two more—and so it goes, with each country trying to out-buy the other."

American manufacturers form a very small percentage of the armament companies. Gigantic foreign concerns really control the situation. So that, regardless of disclosures, there must be an international sentiment against war built up before any good comes. Meanwhile, we will continue to spend 60 per cent of our Federal tax money paying for the last war and preparing for possible future wars—while the armament companies grow richer.

Last year, according to the United States News, the American people paid $1,035,000,000 for medical services; $2,160,000,000 for fuel and light; $3,600,000,000 each for clothing and for home rental. $7,650,000,000 for food and $9,000,000,000! The increase in taxation—local, state and national—is the most startling and menacing economic development since the world war. It was not so long ago that we used to pity the overtaxed European countries, in the belief that we were escaping their experience. Today, with the cost of all forms of government soaring in the face of diminishing taxable assets and earnings, we are very close to the European level.

Recently England, one of the heaviest taxed countries, enjoyed a general tax reduction, made in the interest of industrial recovery. In the United States, unhappily, no such reduction is in prospect.

A great part of the tax money does nothing to encourage industry. Some of it is actually used for projects and experiments which discourage and throttle private initiative. It is a bar, not a spur, to purchasing power.

No lasting recovery, especially in the industrial field, can be expected until material reductions in taxes are an accomplished fact.

Fifty Famous Frontiersmen by ELMO SCOTT WATSON

The Founder of Nashville. EACH one should do what seems to him his duty. As for myself, my station is here, and here I shall stay if every man of you deserts me." So spoke James Robertson, leader of the pioneer colony that had settled on the Cumberland River in Tennessee on Christmas day, 1779. There had been 256 men in the colony at first, but within 60 days 29 had fallen under the tomahawks of the Cherokees. Within a few more months 67 others had perished. Crops had failed and starvation loomed. Some of the settlers began to leave, and finally only 134 of the 256 were left. They tried to get Robertson to abandon his post, and the above was his answer. It was characteristic of this Scotch-Irishman from Virginia who had settled in North Carolina in 1750. That spirit had carried him across the mountains with Daniel Boone in 1759 and had brought him back, after terrible hardships, to North Carolina to lead a party of settlers into the rich Watauga region and later still farther west. The emigration of Robertson's settlers from the Watauga to the banks of the Cumberland in central Tennessee is one of the epics of the frontier. After all he had endured to plant that settlement there, he was not going to give up so easily. So, with his eldest son and two other companions, Robertson made his way to Boonesborough where Daniel Boone lent him powder and lead. He soon had need for it, for 1,000 hostile Cherokees swept down upon the fort at Nashville.

Then it was that Charlotte Reeves Robertson proved herself a worthy mate of the stout-hearted pioneer. In their attempt to capture the horses of the whites the Cherokees left a gap in their ranks. Mrs. Robertson, rifle in hand and crouched in a look-out tower of the fort, seeing the stampede of the horses and the break in the Indian line shouted to the sentry: "Open the gates and set the dogs on 'em!" As the savages drew their tomahawks to fight off the dogs, the settlers fled to safety, whereupon Charlotte Reeves Robertson uttered her "thanks to God who gave to the Indians a dread of dogs and a love of horses."

There were a few more years of Indian fighting and then peace came to Tennessee. With it came honors to James Robertson—Washington made him brigadier general and he was Indian commissioner until his death. He died in 1814 but he had lived to see the colony which he had founded grow into a great commonwealth and enter the sisterhood of states.

TIME FOR THE CENTENNIAL (Ablene Morning News)

The Austin American suggests that the Texas Centennial dates be set so as to avoid unpleasant summer months and dodge a primary election set for the summer of 1936.

By starting the celebration on the first of October, 1936, and continuing it until May of 1937, the months of June, July, August and September can be avoided without doing any special violence to the chronological order of historic events.

Texas hopes hundreds of thousands of visitors from other states and from foreign lands will come to the celebration. Fall is the season par excellence in Texas. Our winter is for the most part mild and beautiful. Eliminating the three disagreeable months of the year would serve to put the weather man on his best behavior and impress the visitors with the joys of the salubrious Texas autumn and winter. If it were decided to hold the Centennial over into the spring of 1937, Texas would be in position to show the world one of the grandest springtimes they ever saw. The variety and beauty of the Texas wildflowers should not be missed by the state's guests.

The problem of dates will have to be worked out. Every Texan has an interest in the centennial on patriotic as well as financial grounds. The taxpayers already have put up some money; before it is over, they will be called on to put up a lot more. They don't want any mistakes made in dates.

Pruned and staked tomato vines in the garden of Mrs. W. B. Harkness, pantry demonstrator of the Kaufman home demonstration club, bore heavily; pruned but not staked the production was not so satisfactory; neither pruned nor staked the production was practically naught.

A 30 bushel to the acre yield from corn planted every other row with intensive cultivation designed to kill Johnson grass was obtained by W. F. Green of Mound in Coryell county, contrasting handsomely with the 20 bushel yield of the corn planted on every row on similar land.

Channing—All 4-H club boys carrying on pig demonstrations have not been put out of business by the drought in Hartley county as the record of Ernest Gailford will prove, according to E. R. Duke, farm demonstration agent. A purebred Hampshire gilt was given to Ernest two years ago by the Shelton estate with the understanding that he would turn back two gilts at the age of six months to pay for the original gilt. The gilt raised six gilts and one barrow in the first litter and the Shelton estate was paid with two of the gilts. One was farmed out with a neighbor on the same plan and three were bred. The three gilts which were retained have raised 24 pigs this

Things to Remember About Fall Gardens

Carrot and lettuce seed should be started in a small plant bed in a protected spot. In three or four weeks the plants will be large enough for transplanting to the permanent location in the garden. Carrots are often troublesome in the garden but they can be practically avoided by planting Swiss chard and the Shogun or licorice type of turnip which is practically immune to bug damage.

Young worms which attack young plants can be killed by the use of a spraying mixture thoroughly tested by the U. S. Department of Agriculture: 1-2 pound of Paris green and 1 pound of fish oil soap to 16 gallons of water. This spray can be applied to almost all vegetables that insects are feeding upon and will effect a safe control. There is not enough poison in the mixture to cause any damage to the human body, but it will kill the bugs.

Sprouting of Irish potatoes is prevented and insured by treating them with a chemical known as ethylene chlorhydrin. The seed are treated in the ordinary way about eight weeks before they are to be planted and then are dipped in a solution made by mixing one pint of ethylene chlorhydrin in four gallons of water. The potatoes should remain in the water just long enough to become thoroughly wet. A quart of ethylene chlorhydrin will treat ten bushels of Irish potatoes. As soon as the potatoes are treated, they should be planted immediately.

An average family of five needs at least a half-acre garden.

The FFA of the Williams chapter accompanied by their adviser, Mr. E. W. Scott, attended an officers training school held at the Brownwood Junior high school Friday night, September 21.

This meeting was held for the purpose of training F. F. A. officers so that they will be more efficient in their work.

Mr. A. J. Spangler, the district supervisor, delivered a short but very instructive talk about Future Farmer work. After his address the officers were divided into sections so that they received instructions in their particular field of work.

There were seven school represented and twenty-six Future Farmers participated in the exercises and received the instructions.

The next meeting will be held October 17.

WILLIAMS

The agriculture boys of Williams met Monday morning to organize and elect officers. They used the greatest of care in choosing them. The officers are as follows: Ray Williams, president; Clifton Armstrong, vice president; Tillman Kingsbury, secretary; Jack Jones, treasurer; Bill Looney, watchdog; Otis Halman, song leader; Nolan Jones, reporter; Frank Winzer, parliamentarian.

We think these boys will fill these offices with the best of their ability.

Plans have been made to visit the Dallas fair on Future Farmers Day.

OFFICERS TRAINING SCHOOL

Twenty-five officers of Future Farmers of America organizations and seven vocational agriculture teachers representing seven schools attended the first of a series of officers' training schools at Junior High School, Brownwood, Friday night of last week. A. J. Spangler, of Stephenville, area adviser, was in charge of the meeting.

Schools represented were Pioneer, Williams, Bangs, Rising Star, May, Santa Anna and Brownwood.

Chapter officers met in three groups of study—the presidents and vice-presidents in one group, the secretaries and treasurers in another section and chapter reporters in still another division.

The Heart of Texas has been recently divided and the new district is known as the Brownwood District. With more compact districts much more can be accomplished, Mr. Spangler, the area adviser, states.

Morris Burial Association Has Most Successful Year

After one year of operation the Morris Burial Association has 3,000 members. This association was started here as a burial benefit by the Austin-Morris Funeral Home. The purpose of the association is to furnish a benefit at the time when it is most needed—at death.

The association is headed by Roy H. Morris, as president and Sam W. Morris as secretary-treasurer. These two are the only two officers of the association which has its headquarters at the Austin-Morris Furniture Company. An average of 150 new members is being secured each week.

Sam Morris said that the many advantages of the association were responsible for the growth of the association. He said that its advantages were what were making it so popular and this, coupled with the nominal cost of membership were the guiding factors in placing it in its present position.

First Year Records.
During the first year of operation the association made only three assessments to members for burial benefit. These covered 12 claims for funerals through this section of the state. The fourth assessment has been made at present and it is believed that a number of claims can be paid from this assessment without making another in the near future.

According to government statistics for Brown county the number of deaths per year will merit approximately five assessments. This counts one expense assessment and four death assessments. This average was taken from figures compiled by the government over a number of years.

The three assessments made for the first year include one very abnormal month for deaths. The average for this county for the month of July is shown as about 10 deaths. However during that month Brown county suffered 30 deaths which compares with any January, this being one of the heaviest months for deaths in the year.

According to the secretary of the association, the assessments are not made on each mortuary claim but only when the amount in the treasury falls below the minimum figure. When this occurs each member is notified and the reserve is again rebuilt until the payments take away most of the total amount.

The company keeps a maximum claim in the treasury at all times. When the amount goes below this then another assessment is made. By operating in this manner the association gives each of its members absolute protection at an exceedingly low cost.

Financial Statement.
According to part of the financial statement mailed each member at the end of the first year, there was a balance on hand from assessment No. 2 of $134.42 which showed a deficiency. The total collected on assessment No. 3 was $657.90 for a total of $792.32. From this amount five mortuary claims were paid, each being for $150 and this brought the total to only $72.32.

This statement was mailed with the notice of the fourth assessment. Payment in this manner keeps the amount above the minimum and enables the association to pay all claims promptly. Another advantage of such a payment plan is that the person or family upon which an assessment is made might be forced to be one of the next to share in the payment of a benefit. Unlike most mutual insurance companies the firm has all its by-laws printed on the membership certificate. These set forth clearly the requirements of the members and of the association. It also shows the premium payments and the age limits for each class of membership. There are only 16 articles in the regulations and by-laws that govern operation of the association.

These go into detail to define the duties of officers, name the officials, ways of obtaining membership, classes of membership, notification upon death of a member, payment without assessment from accrued surplus, change from one class to another, change of address, notice for assessment and penalty to fail to remit, naming one expense assessment and several other items.

Classes of Membership.
There are five classes of membership which pay from $40 upon death to $150 which is the maximum payment. The classes are: Class A, $150, ages 12 years to 40 years, 40 cents per assessment; 50 to 60 years, 60 cents; 60 to 70 years, 75 cents and 10 to 75 years, $1.00.

Class B, $125. This graduates in ages as the above class with the assessments being, in order as above, 30 cents, 45 cents, 55 cents, 65 cents.

Class C, $100, same as class A with payments as follows, 25 cents, 40 cents, 50 cents and 60 cents.

Class D, benefit $80, ages six to 12 years, assessment 15 cents.

Class E members, $40, including ages one to six years, 10 cents.

The certificates include entire families and in one family there may be several class members that are included in each assessment. Upon becoming a member of the association each person signs a certificate that he is in good health at the time it is made. If it is later proven or shown that the person deliberately misled the officials of the company in making the statement he loses the benefit that would accrue from such a claim.

"We have the statement signed for the benefit of the remainder of our members, and by so doing we believe that we can keep all undesirable risks out of the association," Morris stated.

Not an Insurance Company.
"I want to impress upon the people that this is not in any way an insurance company and especially is it not a mutual insurance company, although assessment collections are made in a similar manner. There is no profit and it is only for death benefit that it is operated. It is so figured that it will pay the cost of burial but will not take the place of insurance."

"We have been trying to impress upon the public and prospective members this one point and I believe that we have been successful in doing so," Mr. Morris declared.

He said further, "We now have the Morris vault service that is included in the funerals of members of the association as well as in all funerals that we conduct. This added service, coupled with the many benefits of the burial association makes it one of the best offers to Brownwood and Brown county citizens today."

"This is not a new plan by any means and it has been tried and proven throughout the entire country. Today there are in Texas, associations of this nature which have been in constant operation for 27 years. Thousands of claim payments and thousands of members at present attest to the merits of the plan and its advantages," he concluded.

Morris Perfects New Burial Vault

After more than 25 years of study and experimentation, Roy Morris has completed and perfected a revolutionary step in burial. It is said that his invention is the first advancement in the grave box in more than 40 years. He has completed a burial vault of metal that will take the place of the old fashioned pine box and can be manufactured cheaply enough to be given as a service with funerals.

The vault is being used by Austin-Morris Funeral Home and has been in use by them since the first of March. They have abandoned the use of the outside pine box completely. In speaking of the vaults, Sam Morris, head of the firm, said that the innovation had been completed for some time but due to the illness of Mr. Roy Morris it was not gotten to the point of practical use until recently. Several of the new models are on display in the show rooms of that funeral home.

Result of Years' Work.
Mr. Morris spent more than a quarter of a century testing metals and other materials in his efforts to find a cheap method of manufacture for steel vaults. He found what he was seeking some several years ago but was not ready to place the product upon the market until tests were completed. The new vault was subjected to all kinds of rough treatment. It was left out in the open for two years and subjected to the weather changes. It was believed that by leaving the metal exposed it would be given a much more rigid test than if it was buried. The vault, after the testing period was almost as good as new. The inventor thought that the wide range in temperature above the ground would show contraction and expansion more than under the ground. Sun, wind and rain would also be a testing factor above the ground and the only one of these under ground would be water.

In speaking of the invention Sam Morris said that for many years one box was used for burial. Then the outside pine box was added to the funeral, then came the steel vaults and sealed caskets. These were something new but their cost made them prohibitive to the average citizen. Today the pine box is still universally used.

Embalming, an old art out of recent general practice, was started, he said, by the Egyptians but they used a far different method than that used by the modern funeral director. It took from 40 to 70 days for them to embalm a body and today it is a process of comparatively short time. This was the next step in funeral advancement.

Made of Light Metal.
Construction is so that it is believed the vault will last for more than 50 years. It is thought that it will remain in the ground for that time without becoming decomposed. The vaults are made from government tested metal that has withstood tests far greater than is believed will ever be given a vault in actual use.

The vault is made of light metal chemically treated on the outside then this covered with another rust resisting compound. It is made over a wooden framework that is also chemically treated. The vault has a sealing quality not found in other vaults. It is sealed before it is placed in the ground and, not like other vaults which depend upon weight for sealing it is chemically sealed and is completely water-tight.

Austin-Morris has a plant where the vaults are constructed. All inspections are being made at the funeral home where the construction is explained by attendants, and there is no admittance at the plant.

Mr. Morris became an undertaker in 1908 and since that time he has been seeking for some means of giving protection to all bodies, such as could not be given by a pine box. From his studies he has evolved the present box. He said that the horror of burial of bodies in water filled graves which would let moisture into the bodies before 12 hours was one of the factors in his study.

A Revolutionary Step In BURIAL!

COMPLETED and PERFECTED

It is with pardonable pride and satisfaction that we announce to you a new service — a service that protects your loved ones after the funeral service is over — when you must return home and realize that you have left them out yonder in the cemetery, you, and we can now know that the body of your loved one whom you have intrusted to our care in those last trying hours, is fully protected from the ordinary ravages of the grave.

This has not been possible up to the completion of our new service, for one reason — the old style wooden box in which the casket is placed — it is responsible for the ruin in a short time of the finest casket and the undoing of the best mortician's work. It lets in water during wet weather; and all kinds of rodents that infest cemeteries will also harbor in the grave as soon as the box decays, which at best is not very long.

But now this is all ended — with the service we render, for we do not use the old style wooden box under any circumstances. Where the funeral arrangements are with Austin-Morris Co., regardless of the amount expended, you get this protection.

That's why we say it is with pardonable pride and satisfaction we make this announcement, for regardless of the amount you feel able to expend, when you call us to render this last service you can now know that we are prepared to give a service so complete that it really protects the body of your loved one after the grave is filled.

Greatest Advance- ment In Handling Funerals In Many Years

Something like 75 years ago the custom of placing the coffin or casket in an outside wooden box became general and was accepted as a step forward, and was better than just placing the casket in the ground with no protection, but this wooden box also made it possible for more water to collect in and around the casket, and also furnished more space for rodents that infest all cemeteries to harbor and nest.

Through all these years until now there has been no real advancement in this particular part of funeral services, the old wooden box is the same. We are the first funeral home ever to definitely quit using the wooden box on all funerals. When you consider that up to now go out of every 100 funerals conducted the body was placed in a wooden box you can see that we are really taking a step forward when we render a service that definitely does away with this wooden box, and render this service to all alike regardless of circumstances.

You can only appreciate the difference this service makes when you are called upon to follow that loved one to the cemetery, but do not wait until that time to investigate this service and what it may mean to you.

A View of The New Morris Burial Vault

The vault pictured above is now used to replace the "PINE GRAVE BOX," in every funeral service that is conducted by Austin-Morris. We believe that everyone is entitled to better protection for the casket and body of their loved ones, than is provided in the "Pine Grave Box." Therefore, after years of testing and proving, we offer to the public a grave service that gives real protection from the ravages of the grave.

Because the elements of corruption are present in the earth and waters beneath the surface of the earth, the ordinary methods of interment do violence to the sensibilities of the human heart. But when dark nights follow dark days, there is no haunting doubts in the minds of those whose loving foresightness placed casket and content in the "MORRIS VAULT."

"A SERVICE TO HUMANITY"

Rigid Tests Given New Burial Vault Economy

Many rigid tests have been made to determine the protective value of the MORRIS VAULT SERVICE. From the original model, to the completed vault that is now in our service, there have been many tests made to determine the strength, durability and security of the Morris Vault. The ravages of the grave were considered in every test. This vault must be WATERPROOF; IT MUST BE VERMIN PROOF; IT MUST BE TERMITE PROOF, before it would serve the public for us.

Without fear or overstating our claims we are sure we have all these features in the "MORRIS VAULT SERVICE."

The "Morris Vault Service" is available to all alike. No class distinction is made. This service is used in every funeral that Austin-Morris conducts. PRICE places no limitation on this SERVICE. We are proud to offer such services.

RANGERS TO TAKE PART OBSERVATION OF BIRTHDAY STATE, MAJOR BLACK SAYS

picturesque and famed fighting law enforcement body, the Rangers, will be well represented in the Texas Centennial celebration by George B. Black, Comanche, major of the Ex-Rangers, who was in Brownwood Monday. The major said he plans to go to Dallas immediately to discuss the proposed plan with the committee.

It is the intention to have the history of the time rangers depicted to the visitors. He has been planning for such an extensive time and if the committee gives its consent to such a plan, it will begin immediately to complete his plan.

The proposed plan by Major Black to have history, relics, uniforms, equipment and other things that was used by the rangers. The history of the rangers is closely interwoven with the history of Texas as the state goes back more than 100 years.

Development of the state and the history are directly the result of the efforts of the rangers. The small band of rangers patrolled one of the largest areas to be covered by one man, an area as large as some countries.

Life was made adventurous by both Indians and rangers. The outlaws from all over the country flocked to the state as large as some and kept law and order. When beset in their own land as a result the rangers had upon to combat one of the most dangerous groups in his- tory.

The Ex-Rangers Association will in all probability be in Dallas so that visitors to the Centennial may see some of the early force as the history of their deeds. Texas Rangers of the old days are the most picturesque force ever known. They were a state as large as some and kept law and order. Just being settled, which was by both Indians and outlaws old Rangers have carved themselves a place in the history of Texas and propo- sition should be given in celebration of the Centennial."

Bids and specifications will be received at my office up to and inclusive of Sept. 22nd, 1934, for one year's supply of oil for use at pump station.

Price desired on 1st, 2nd, and 3rd grade oil.

DON MARTIN FISHING TRIP IS ENJOYED BY BROWN COUNTY GROUP

By TOM KELLUM
I have realized a dream I have cherished for several years. I have fished the waters of Lake Don Martin in Old Mexico.

The lake proper is situated just below the junction of the Sabinas and Salado rivers, which head in the mountains west of the lake. Don Martin (pronounced Marteen) Lake is ten miles wide and eighteen miles long and is a paradise for fishermen. It is literally teeming with fish—black bass predominate but phenomenal catches of catfish and perch are reported daily.

Mr. Weldon Lancaster, Mr. W. E. Bruce and myself left Brownwood on the morning of September 6 at 4 o'clock and arrived at Eagle Pass about 12 o'clock. We lost about two hours in Pedras Negras getting our passports, etc. Then drove to Nuevo Rosita and spent the night and drove on to the lake next morning.

Every courtesy was extended to us by the officials at the lake and I assure you that catching fish is a minor problem, if you can cast a plug in the water you can catch fish. The laws at the lake are rigid and are enforced. If you think you can go there and be a fish hog, you are going to be disappointed. You are allowed to retain five bass per day caught in the lake, and each person is allowed to carry away 20 fish. There is no restriction, however, on the number of fish you catch and carefully release. If you get tired of hooking and releasing bass, you can drive up on the Sabinas river, put a chunk of bait on your casting rod, and I'll guarantee the catfish will give you plenty of entertainment.

The average man is under the impression that when you go to Mexico you are taking your life in your hands, but that is a mistake. You will receive more courtesy across the Rio Grande than you will on this side. Mexico extends a welcome to visiting tourists. They are proud of their country and justly so, for they have a wonderful country, with unlimited possibilities for the ranchman, miner and farmer.

If you wish to go fishing there, from here, I would suggest that you go via San Antonio to Laredo, where you will be routed to the lake. A fishing license that is good anywhere in the republic will cost you four pesos which is $1.15 in U. S. money. A fishing permit for Lake Don Martin will cost you eight pesos or $2.32. Camping at the lake is very reasonable for a cabin. It will cost you $1.00 U. S. money to bond your car at Laredo. Your passport will cost you 60c U. S. You can get ice, provisions, etc., at the lake also. Mr. Geo. S. Coury is concession manager at the lake. He is a splendid gentleman and will do everything in his power to make your visit a pleasant one.

Fishing will be good there for years to come, because they are taking early steps to protect the fish, and they will always have an abundance of water from their feeder streams.

We drove from the lake down the Salado river and on to Monterrey, through a wonderful farming country but no rice is grown in that part of the country. You can always depend on plenty of water and good fishing. There is no closed season on fish at the lake.

$2,000 Fire Damage To Brownwood Home

Approximately $2,000 damage was done by fire to a rock and brick residence at 1104 Holcomb street last Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The house was occupied by H. C. Buhler and family and was owned by the North Texas Building & Loan Association. The estimated damage to the residence was $1,500 with $500 damage being done to the furniture and belongings of Mr. and Mrs. Buhler. The loss on the house was covered by insurance but there was no insurance on the furniture.

Origin of the fire has not been determined but it is believed that a short in electrical wiring caused the blaze. Neither Mr. Buhler nor his wife was at home at the time of the fire. The roof and most of the interior of the house was burned but the rock and brick walls were left standing. Part of the furniture was saved.

Sentinels of Electric Service Which Mean... DEPENDABILITY

YOUR electric light and power service is always dependable because in the beginning the Texas Power & Light Company recognized that transmission lines only could provide dependable service every minute of the day, year in and year out. Small and inefficient local plants were displaced by these transmission lines, which connect large and efficient generating stations.

Your company has grown and expanded to meet the ever-increasing requirements of the community for dependable, adequate and economical service. Most every home in town uses many times the electricity today that it used a few years ago... and pays little, if any, more for this enlarged service.

What a difference electric service plays in the comfort and efficiency of the home! Today's inexpensive electric light bulbs are a far cry from the old-fashioned bulbs which gave little light and consumed much electricity. Dependable electric service has made possible the development and perfection of the many electric appliances now regarded as necessities in homes everywhere.

Dependable... Yes. Adequate... Yes. Economical... Yes. Your electric service is all of these because your company has kept abreast of the times... it has spared nothing to make your service the best.

Transmission Lines are Sentinels of Dependable Service

ONE GALLON could lift a 500-ton locomotive 8 stories!

15% to 20% More Smooth Power Shown in Auto Test

To lift 500 tons of solid steel 8 stories—there's a job calling for giant power! And giant power there is in the new powerful Sinclair H-C Gasoline! A single gallon of this motor fuel actually could lift a 500-ton locomotive 8 stories—if its potential energy could be fully utilized.

In a recent road test, where the new H-C was tried out against 12 other well-known gasolines, the results were as follows: The new H-C gave from 15% to 20% more smooth power. It also accelerated from 15% to 20% quicker than the other gasolines and gave from 1 to 3 more miles per gallon!

Ask the Sinclair dealer for a folder which fully explains how one gallon of the new H-C could lift a 500-ton locomotive 8 stories.

99 Million Foot-Pounds per gallon

NOTE: For best results with the new Sinclair H-C, use either Sinclair Opaline Motor Oil or Pennsylvania Motor Oil—now sold by all Sinclair dealers in Tamper-Proof cans.
