10,000 Texas Wheat Growers Eligible for Loans from A. A. A.

An estimated 10,000 Texas wheat growers are eligible this week to receive Agricultural Adjustment Administration loans on their spring and winter crops.

State AAA Administrator E. N. Holmgren stated that growers will be eligible for the loans if their soil depletion acreage does not exceed 105 per cent of their total 1938 soil depletion allotment.

"Loans will be made on spring and winter wheat grading No. 2 and No. 3, or better," Holmgren announced. "Loans also will be made on winter wheat stored in approved elevators or in approved farm storage."

The Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine reported this week that "in most of the wheat growing region west of the Mississippi river, conditions have been unusually favorable for the development of rust."

The Texas crop, the Bureau reported, was not damaged greatly, while Oklahoma is "spotted." Stem rust, the report said, is rather heavy in some local areas and moderately heavy in several others. Much of the wheat, however, will mature before severe damage occurs and the aggregate loss is not expected to be large.

The cost of the actual insurance will be borne by farmers. The government will pay for administration and storage costs.

COUNTY'S BALLOT WILL BE LONGEST IN HISTORY—CONTAINS NAMES OF 108 MEN

Who Done Who Wrong Anyhow?

The elegant lady (Mae West, above) reclined in a chair, a picture that framing her golden curls. The lawyer (Hollywood's Joseph Rosen, taking a deposition from Mae in a suit brought by Mark Linder who claims she "stole" her picture, "She Done Him Wrong," from him without proper payment) slammed the door, started his quizzing. An hour later, a wilted West emerged, said: "I'm the one they did wrong." Said Rosen: "She didn't answer a thing."

Brown county voters will scratch the longest ballot in history—containing 108 names—when they go to the polls in the first Democratic primary July 23. The County Executive committee met Monday afternoon and prepared the ballot, assessed fees for county and district candidates, and discussed plans for conducting this year's elections.

W. P. Vanderveer was appointed precinct chairman at May to fill the vacancy created by the death of John D. Brown. Assessment of fees was made with only one change. ## No Landlord Trouble in City Park

Twice in a month their landlords wouldn't wait for the rent, so two fatherless Cleveland families moved to a pavilion in a municipal park and announced their intention of continuing light house-keeping there until relief funds are available to pay their rent. Mrs. Emma Krus is shown, top, cooking on an improvised stove as her children Robert, 5, and Richard, 7, look on. The lower photo shows Mrs. Jessie Ferguson, mother of the other evicted family, watching over her sons Herbert, 11, and Wilfred, 7, as they sleep on a park bench under the pavilion. Said Mrs. Krus: "It's wonderful for the children."

OIL, GAS OPERATORS WILL MEET SATURDAY

West Central Texas Oil & Gas Association officers and directors will attend an informal meeting and dinner at Brownwood State Park Clubhouse Saturday. Dinner will be served at the clubhouse at 7 o'clock. No formal program has been arranged. J. C. Hunter, Abilene, is president of the organization.

J. E. Whiteside and Roy Ragsdale, Brownwood, are directors in the association.

Oil Activity Good

J. O. Hart and Sons Wednesday morning shut down their W. J. Richman No. 1 in the Fry area, awaiting the placement of pipe. A favorable showing of oil was reached Tuesday at 1295 feet. The well was bailing oil after having been drilled only two feet into the sand at that depth, and indications were that the well will be a good producer.

The well is on the L. L. Evans and L. L. Shead block, Richman tract, of the Moses Little survey No. 40. It is located one-half mile from the Lynch and Reeves pool opened in 1934 by E. T. Green and Sherwood B. Owens. The new well is drilled to the same depth as those in the older pool.

Hypnotic Relief for Childbirth Pain

In preparation for the arrival of her baby, Mrs. Ethel Pardie Gaynor, 45-year-old expectant Los Angeles mother, is shown above in a trance as R. A. Gilbert, hypnotist, gives her a "treatment." Painless childbirth through "hypnotic suggestion" is Gilbert's aim and the treatments are necessary to prepare Mrs. Gaynor for a deeper trance at the crisis. In addition to the obstetrician, three hypnotists, including her husband, will attend the mother during delivery.

HARDWARE FIRM COOPERATING WITH HD CLUB MEMBERS IN CANNING PRECAUTION

With the advent of canning season, Miss Mayesie Malone, Brown county home demonstration agent is stressing the importance of checking cookers and canners in order to destroy dangerous bacteria which may infect foods and cause fatal illness to persons eating them.

To better facilitate the checking, Weakley-Watson-Miller Hardware Co. is conducting a "canning clinic" in their store, to which all home demonstration members in the county are invited. Canners and cookers will be checked free of charge by the store.

"We are happy to cooperate with the club women of the county in this worthwhile movement," declared Walter Watson, of the Weakley-Watson-Miller firm, "and we cordially invite all members to bring their cookers to our store for checking."

In pointing out the necessity of carefully checking the instruments, Miss Malone declared:

"It is very important that the gauges of all pressure cookers and canners be checked at least once each year; often would be better. This is done by the use of a maximum thermometer.

"When the spores of botulinus bacteria are not destroyed in the canning process, they may grow later and produce a toxin in the food. Since a number of cases of botulinus poisoning have been traced to inadequately processed foods, the bacteria have been studied in order to find the temperature and conditions necessary for destroying them. They will not grow in salt solution when more than 9 per cent of salt is present. They are destroyed by processing at 212 F., if the solution is sufficiently acid. With beans, corn and peas, and other nonacid vegetables and meats, they may not be killed at the temperature of boiling water unless the food is heated for six to 10 hours or even longer, but the time may be decreased very much if the higher temperature of the steam pressure cooker is used.

"Since various agents, such as birds and wild blowing dust may carry bacteria from one area to another, it cannot be assumed that any particular locality is free from botulinus bacteria.

"For the purpose of canning, foods are considered in two groups according to the quantity of free acid they contain. The acid foods are fruits, tomatoes, pickled beets, ripe pimientos and rhubarb. The nonacid foods include all other vegetables, such as asparagus, peas, beans, and corn and also meats and poultry.

The acid foods are processed at or near the temperature of boiling water (212 F.) in a boiling water bath, or in a steamer without pressure or in an oven. The acid products may also be canned from the open kettle. Nonacid foods must be processed in a steam pressure cooker or canner at temperatures of 240 F. obtained by applying 10 to 15 pounds of steam pressure.

"The addition of small quantities on juice, to a nonacid vegetable or meat does not change the acidity of the food enough to permit processing in the boiling water bath. This can be done only if enough acid is added to pickle the food. For example beets are a nonacid vegetable and need to be processed under steam pressure, but when they are pickled in vinegar they may be handled as an acid product in the boiling water bath.

"The use of chemical preservatives, such as salicylic acid, sodium benzoate and "canning powders" should be avoided in home canning of any kind of food. These chemicals vary in their effect on the human body, some being more harmful than others. Therefore the safe way for the home canner is to process food adequately with heat and not the use of chemical preservatives.

"Therefore the canning equipment should be checked over to insure safe food for home use."

Objectives of WTCC Soil Contest Listed

Objectives of the new West Texas Chamber of Commerce soil and water utilization contest, which Brown county will enter, have been pointed out as follows:

"The preservation, maintenance and rebuilding of farm and ranch land resources through maximum utilization of soil and water, and the encouragement of agricultural production and conservation thru junior work."

Annual prizes of $500, $300 and $200 will be awarded the counties judged to have made the greatest progress toward the accomplishment of these objectives.

CONCERNS HANDLING FOODS ARE GIVEN A RATING BY INSPECTOR

Although a number of Brownwood eating establishments have become a bit slipshod in sterilizing their dishes, and have been using cracked or chipped dishes and containers, the general condition of the city's dairies, drug stores, bakeries, cafes, groceries and rest rooms is excellent. Such is the report this week by Dr. J. M. Horn, city health officer, and John M. McGhee, inspector, who in the past few weeks have conducted a thorough examination of the city.

Proprietors of places scored on sterilization and broken containers have promised complete cooperation and correction, the inspectors stated. Local dairies are in A-1 condition. Cafe kitchens are exceptionally clean, and no food was found exposed or spoiled.

Much improvement also has been noted in the bakeries, some of which formerly were in rather a bad condition. With proper screening and flooring, however, the condition has been corrected.

The State Health Department is now drafting a new food and drug law to present to the next legislature for consideration. The present law, written 27 years ago, is woefully inadequate in many phases. Texas has had a comprehensive milk law only since last year. In the past two years, only one tubercular cow has been found in Brown county.

OFFICERS CRACK DOWN ON LIQUOR VIOLATORS

In what officers call "the most drastic liquor control action in Brownwood in 20 years," a permanent injunction ordering the B. & W. Cafe, 105 East Broadway, closed for a period of one year, unless a supersedeas bond of $2,800 is posted and accepted by the court, was issued Saturday by District Judge E. J. Miller, and seven other similar cases have been filed on the court docket in the form of temporary restraining orders and injunctions.

The seven remaining injunctions have been set to come before the court July 7. They ask that premises named be closed on the grounds that they constitute "common nuisances."

In the injunction acted on Saturday, in which the B. & W. Cafe was ordered closed, I. B. Burns and I. B. Burns, Jr., were named as operators, and Mrs. Kathryn A. Fain, Lubbock, and W. T. Fain, named as owners of the property.

The seven remaining injunctions ask that the premises be closed for one year unless bond of not less than $1,000 be posted and accepted. Persons and places named in the group include:

J. R. Woodbridge, Charlie Emerson and T. E. Stevens, named as operators of Shorty's Cafe, 408 Center, and Ada S. Jennings and J. W. Jennings, owners of the property.

Jack Lester and Mrs. Jack Lester, operators at 1215 Willis street of a business known as Jack Lester's place, The National Loan and Investment Company, represented by the Secretary of the State of Texas, was named as owner of the place.

Bill Hodges, D. P. Roach and Curley Davis were named operators of a place near Adams Branch and South Broadway, with Charles Day designated as owners of the property.

Bertha Wilder and Odell Stevens were named operators, and Mrs. G. E. Brandon owner of a place near Pisk and the F. W. & R. G. Railroad.

Mrs. A. F. Shelton and A. F. Shelton were designated operators, and Mrs. Kathryn A. Fain the owner of building in which the White House Cafe, East Bsker and Brown streets, is located.

Guy Meadows and Mrs. Guy Meadows were listed as operators, and Mrs. E. Schneider as owner of Club Cafe building, 105 S. Broadway.

C. H. Bryant and Mrs. C. H. Bryant were named operators, and A. C. Estes the owner of a place at 1713 Houston street.

Beckham Case

Copy of the opinion of the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals in the case of Tol G. Beckham, reversing and remanding the case for a new trial, has been received by local attorneys.

The appellate court criticized the trial court for permitting introduction of testimony showing ill feeling and threats of R. D. Woods against the deceased, Raymond Thompson. Woods, a son-in-law of Beckham, was under separate indictment in connection with the killing of Thompson. The appellate court also scored the failure of the trial court to give instructions to the jury to determine whether an open knife alleged to have been found in Thompson's hand at the time he was fatally shot by Beckham, was a deadly weapon, in connection with the claim of self defense.

No date for a third hearing in th case has been set by the district court.

Are your cows switching flies or making milk?
THE SUMMER slump in milk production is not entirely a natural phenomenon. Cows that are eternally aggravated by flies don't have much time to graze and chew their cud and make milk. Fly time is milk-slump time.

Protect your cows from fly torture with Dr. Hess Fly Spray. This product is both a fly killer and a fly repeller. It kills flies in the stable and it protects cows from flies in the pasture.

Dr. Hess Fly Spray has been tested as a fly killer and a fly repeller. Costs little to use. 1 tablespoonful of milk, per test, at each milking, pays for the spray.

Bob Stuart Speaks Here Monday in Behalf of Candidacy

Professional politicians and chronic office-holders were denounced by Robert A. (Bob) Stuart of Fort Worth in an address in Brownwood Monday night in interest of his candidacy for railroad commissioner. He said that Texas cannot expect to go forward until some of the "ins" are put out at Austin and some of the "outs" are put in. He spoke in front of the Southern Hotel.

"My opponent, C. V. Terrell, has been railroad commissioner for 14 years and he now asks that you make it 20," said Stuart. "He has been on the taxpayers' payroll for 52 years and has drawn $250,000 from Texas in salary and expenses. I am the only man in the race who can defeat him and I am going to do it. He really is just drawing a $7,500-yearly pension because he was absent from his desk 194 days last year and the days he was present all he did was to enter orders that drove capital and industry out of Texas."

"Mr. Terrell is against the old age assistance—I am for it one hundred per cent—and he fired a man who made a talk in favor of it. When I am your railroad commissioner I'll save enough oil and gas that is now being wasted to raise enough capital for Texas to abolish its ad valorem tax and have enough left for old age assistance."

Stuart said he sought the office of railroad commissioner upon his record as district attorney of Tarrant county, state senator for six years, holder of three Federal Housing Administration positions to which he was appointed by President Roosevelt and as president of the board of the Seven Texas State Teachers Colleges, a position he now holds.

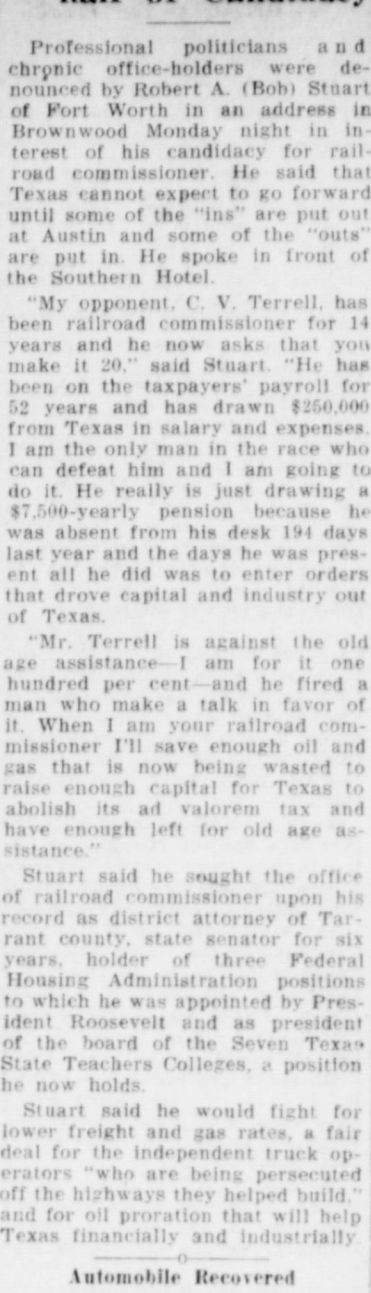

Stuart said he would fight for lower freight and gas rates, a fair deal for the independent truck operators "who are being prosecuted off the highways they helped build," and for oil proration that will help Texas financially and industrially.

BROWNWOOD BANNER

Established 1878. Published every Thursday by Brownwood Publishing Co., Inc., 112 East Lee Street. Telephone 112. Mail Address, P. O. Box 419, Brownwood, Texas. Subscription price in Brown and adjoining counties, $1 per year; elsewhere, $1.50. Entered at the Postoffice at Brownwood, Texas, as second class mail matter. WENDELL MAYES, Editor JOHN BLAKE, Business Mgr.

Any error made in advertisements will be corrected upon being brought to the attention of the publishers, and the liability of this paper is limited to the amount of space consumed by the error in the advertisement.

The Federal government has made a discovery that long since has been an accepted maxim in business—that expansion of business is best accomplished, or at least most easily accelerated, through newspaper advertising. And it is significant that this discovery was not made through research by some insignificant federal bureau, but in the more important field of actual experience.

The Federal government has found that the Federal Home Loan Banks throughout the country, in those sections where they have used newspaper advertising, have "obtained exceptional expansion of their business by cooperative advertising in newspapers."

The statement was contained in the Federal Home Loan Bank Review, published in Washington in the interest of the home loan banks. Presumably it is published for the guidance of the home loan banks, and hopefully, we trust that the advice contained in the article is taken seriously, for any boost in newspaper advertising, even though far afield, is encouraging. The article contains sound advice and potent suggestions for others as well as home loan bankers, however. For example:

"The public in the campaign areas has become much more aware of the facilities and advantages of savings and loan associations, and an unusually large number of new savings accounts have been opened and many new home loans have been made.

"These campaigns reveal that effective cooperative advertising, like other advertising of other financial institutions, is cumulative in its effect. A well planned, consistent program over a period of months succeeds, where sporadic and intensive campaigns of shorter duration have failed."

There is a lesson for many of us in those observations.

A more definite program designed to reduce traffic fatalities on Texas highways should result from the organization of the Texas Traffic Safety Council. The new organization was formed at a statewide safety convention in Fort Worth recently, held under the sponsorship of Governor Allred's Traffic Safety Committee.

The Governor's committee has done some valuable preliminary groundwork, and has during the past twelve months made Texas definitely conscious of the need for positive action in this line. The Traffic Safety Council, a permanent organization, is better suited to carry the safety program through to completion, and, not being tied up with any political administration, can perpetuate itself so long as the need for its work exists.

One of the first activities of the safety council will be to follow the preliminary work of the Governor's committee, and seek safety legislation. This legislation is outlined by The Texas Weekly under the following heads: (1) Amendment to the Texas drivers license law to provide for a more effective means of suspending and revoking licenses and to provide for a small license fee in order to create a fund for properly applying the law; (2) adoption of the Uniform Vehicle Code recommended by the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety; (3) standardization of all traffic control devices throughout the State; (4) adoption of the Uniform Motor Vehicle Safety Responsibility Act as recommended by the national conference; (5) provision for inspection by the State Highway Patrol of all motor vehicle equipment operated in Texas; and (6) creation of a Committee on Traffic Control and Highway Safety in the Legislature so that systematic and careful study can be given all proposed legislative measures dealing with traffic control and highway safety.

While this program may not entirely get the job done—the job is a reduction in the number of traffic deaths in Texas—it is a start in the right direction and something to work from. The traffic safety council has a big job, and in this work it will have the cooperation of all governmental and civic agencies.

Most important newspaper news that has come out of Texas in a decade was the announcement this week from Dallas that Karl Hobbittelle and associates have purchased the Dallas Dispatch and the Dallas Journal, and will combine these two Dallas afternoon newspapers July 1. The resulting newspaper will be published six afternoons a week, with no Sunday edition, and will be known as the Dispatch-Journal. Associated with Mr. Hobbittelle in the new enterprise will be Alfred O. Andersson, who established the Dispatch some thirty years ago, and others.

Had the consolidation been accomplished through other circumstances, the net result would have been one less newspaper in the Dallas field, for in fact Dallas will be served by fewer afternoon newspapers than heretofore. But the entering of such a well known Texas figure as Karl Hobbittelle into the publishing business makes the transaction something more than a move to eliminate one newspaper in an overcrowded field, and gives the resulting consolidated newspaper a background and an impetus that could not otherwise have resulted from a merger of two publishing businesses.

Mr. Hobbittelle is best known, of course, as the Texas leader in the amusement field, being head of various companies which control most of the better theatres in Texas. But he is also well and favorably known as a civic leader, and in recent years his continued and effective work for the general good has given him a place in the public mind that seem to make him eminently suited to the duties that will be his in the publishing field. Thus there is basis for the statement, made in the announcement of the sale, that the Dispatch-Journal will be a new newspaper for Dallas. And, more important, there is basis for the thought and hope that the resulting new newspaper will be a factor in building and developing Dallas and Texas.

The MARCH OF TIME

A BANNER Feature by the Editors of TIME, The Weekly Newsmagazine

Floors & Ceilings . . .

WASHINGTON—After 19 busy days and nights, conferees of the House and Senate last week compromised on the Wage-Hours Bill to put a floor under Labor's pay and a ceiling over its working week. Agreed upon was the House plan to empower the Labor Department to go into the States and see to it that goods for interstate commerce are legally produced.

Basically, the Bill provides for a minimum wage of 25c per hour and a 44-hour week during the first year following its enactment, a gradual increase in wages and decrease in hours during succeeding years, up to 40c per hour and a 40-hour week after the seventh year.

When the Bill becomes effective (120 days after enactment) the Labor Department's proposed $10,000,000 Wage-Hour Administrator would begin to examine wages and hours in all industries in interstate commerce to see where and when wages should be raised and hours reduced toward the 40-40 ratio. He would appoint up to 750 boards, representing industry, labor and the consuming public, to make these studies and give him recommendations. If the administrator should not like the findings of any board, he could veto them, create another board.

To collect pay awarded by the boards, employees could sue their employers in the Federal Courts. Liability: double the wages due plus legal costs. Penalties upon employers who break the law: A fine up to $10,000 for the first offense; six months in jail, or the fine, or both, for a second offense.

Geography alone would not be admitted as a ruling factor, thus blurring the issue over a "differential" for the South which has caused much debate. Factors to be considered by the boards would be local economic conditions, comparative transport costs, size of units in the industry.

Summer Sideshows . . .

WASHINGTON—When not making laws, members of Congress keep their names and causes before the public by investigations; but because this is an election year and Congressmen will be mending political fences at home, there will be fewer investigations than usual. Outstanding investigations which loomed last week were:

A $50,000 TVA probe by a joint committee headed by Ohio's Senator Vic Donahey. Because Vic Donahey knows he is not a born inquisitor, his committee has retained a paid inquisitor, 52-year-old Francis Biddle, a Philadelphia lawyer who followed Franklin Roosevelt through Groton and Harvard into the New Deal, served as chairman of NLRB in the NRA days. An ardent New Dealer, Mr. Biddle is hardly likely to bring much comfort to the private utilities which TVA opposes.

Reds and Nazis and other "un-American activities" will be the quarry of Texas Representative Martin Dies (rhymes with "pies"), who will have six House colleagues and an appropriation of $25,000. To get his inquiry voted, Martin Dies (whose hatred of communists is his political stock-in-trade in Texas) enlisted the support of Representative Samuel Dickstein (whose hatred of Nazis is his political stock-in-trade on Manhattan's lower East Side). But when the committee was picked, Sam Dickstein was left off it.

Monopoly. By far the year's most significant inquiry will be that of a National Economic Committee, set up by the Senate last week in response to a special message from President Roosevelt in April. The committee's province, as set forth in the resolution sponsored by Wyoming's Senator O'Mahoney, will be:

"To make a full and complete study and investigation . . . of the concentration of economic power in and financial control over production and distribution of goods and services.

"The causes of such concentration and control and their effect upon competition . . .

"The effect of the existing price system and the price policies of industry upon the general level of trade, upon employment, and upon long-term profits and upon consumption.

"The effect of existing tax, patent and other Governmental policies upon competition, price levels, labor employment, profits and consumption . . .

The National Economic committee represents the next move in a basic administration policy to extend Government control (and perhaps "planning") further towards the roots of U. S. Business; it gives SEC, the Federal Trade Commission and other branches of the administration the full inquisitorial power of Congress, otherwise denied them by law, plus control of the inquiry's money; it assures the New Deal an unlimited supply of raw political ore from which to coin votes for the November election; it imposes upon Franklin Roosevelt heavy responsibility for the manner in which the broadest, deepest business investigation ever voted by Congress shall be conducted.

"I Won't Play" . . .

NEW YORK—Warning to the heart of Franklin Roosevelt were words from the British Economist, Lord Josiah Stamp, who visited the U. S. for a few days last week "to find out what the length of your depression will be." Said Lord Stamp: "We are anxious to learn the reaction of business here toward Roosevelt's gestures toward your business. I think there is a good deal of 'I won't play' among our businessmen, and we do hope business here gets over that attitude . . . You should remember that the personality of your President is not an argument. It has only an artistic or emotional bearing.

Not so pleasing to the ears of the President, who faces elections in the fall, was Lord Stamp's remark: ". . . You can't possibly recover within the next six months."

Crop Crisis . . .

WASHINGTON—With farm prices already 20 percent under last year, and bumper crops impending in almost every State, not since 1932 has the outlook for the U. S. farmer seemed more ominous than now. The Department of Agriculture's definitive June 1 estimate of 1938 crops, released last week, was not quite so bad as had been anticipated, but had enough to spur Secretary Henry Wallace's efforts to perfect a new wheat-loan program.

Wheat. In 1935 U. S. farmers harvested 1,908,837,000 bu. of wheat, dumped their surplus into warring Europe, wound up the year with handsome profits. Never before or since has the annual yield topped a billion bushels. But last week's estimate placed the 1938 yield between 1,920,833,000 and 1,945,223,000 bu., on top of a 200,000,000-bu. carry-over. Annual U. S. consumption is about half this stupendous total. With light crops in England, Italy and North Africa, there is a slim chance the U. S. may export a sizable share of its surplus.

Cotton. Although U. S. cotton growers planted only 25,000,000 acres this year, compared with 34,000,000 in 1937, they are expected to harvest a bumper crop of some 13,000,000 bales and already have a carryover of heavily that much. Last fortnight cotton prices slumped to all-time lows, since then have partially recovered—mainly on rumors of crop-damage from heavy rains in the cotton belt, minor floods in the dust bowl. While 1938 exports are up slightly from last year, U. S. cotton mills have cut production and world consumption for this season is down 13 percent. In all likelihood cotton growers this summer will need Government help more than ever.

Corn. After last year's huge corn harvest (2,644,995,000 bu.), midwestern farmers were asked to plant 18 percent fewer acres. But many ignored the request. By this fall, it is estimated that the corn crop will be average, but that last year's surplus will total 309,000,000 bu.—30 percent above normal.

Open Grave . . .

CANTON, China—For over 1,000 years, Canton has been the great port of South China. A municipal paradox, the city's wide, clean boulevards lined with modern apartments and shops run parallel with filthy, unpaved alleys, so narrow that three people cannot walk abreast, lined with squalid one-story hovels. Fully one-third of the city's 1,000,000 Chinese live on dirty, water-logged sampans, jam-packed along the river fronts. But by last week, half of Canton's population had fled, its broad avenues were piled high with debris, thousands of hovels were leveled and the city looked like a human slaughterhouse. Japanese bombers apparently operating from an off-sea base near the Portuguese colony of Macao, for the third successive week, had been bombing Canton in almost daily raids. To Canton's sympathy of stench was added that of dead, decaying flesh, intensified by sweltering heat. Rescue workers, handkerchiefs over their nostrils, scurried in the ruins to drag out the injured. They could not account for the total casualties. The city is like an open grave in which the living and dead are mixed inextricably, cabled one harried newspaperman. Lowest estimates put the number of dead at over 3,000, the injured at 7,000.

Farm objects bombing Canton are: demoralization of the civilian population (successful); destruction of the city's military defenses and crushing the southern terminus of the Hankow-Canton railway. China's main pipeline for supplies now pouring in through British Crown Colony of Hong Kong, 90 miles south of Canton (unsuccessful).

At week's end the Canton bombings slackened as Chinese anti-aircraft batteries found their range and 14 U. S.-made planes arrived to aid the Chinese defenses.

Second Chaco? . . .

LIMA, Peru—With the dispute between Bolivia and Paraguay over the steamy Gran Chaco region still unsettled after three years' armistice, another long-disputed area last week loomed as a second Chaco. For almost 400 years the people of Ecuador and Peru have been squabbling over the Oriente, a dark, roadless, city-less jungle, which lies east of the Pacific Andes, and sprawls between the two little nations. The territory, about the size of New York City, is now divided by a temporary demarcation line, pending final settlement under U. S. direction.

Fortnight ago Peruvian and Ecuadorian soldiers tangled around the border mark and the two nations exchanged heated remonstrances. The entire Cabinet of army officers, under Ecuador's military Dictator-General G. Alberto Enriquez, resigned in a body to take their place in the army, were replaced last week with civilian ministers. All week mobs roamed the plazas of Quito, Ecuador's little capital, chanting "Down With Peru! Long Live Ecuador!"

Peru's Foreign Minister Carlos Concha was calmer: "In Peru we have not yet lost our heads. Our country is in a process of prosperous development and the Government heads would have to be completely mad to think of war." Nevertheless, Peru's President-General Oscar R. Benavides pushed additional troops into the disputed Oriente jungle at week's end, concentrated army planes on the fringe to balance the Ecuadorian soldiers reported moving up to their side of the dividing line.

Ad-of-the-Week . . .

ST. JOSEPH, Mo.—In the St. Joseph News-Press last week appeared this ad: "Brave man wanted to carry home. Funeral expenses guaranteed. Crowley Shows, 6th, Atchison, all next week."

Studies . . .

BOSTON—To a committee which had urged him to run for Lieutenant Governor of Massachusetts, President Roosevelt's Son-Secretary James last week sent regrets and a "No, thank you." He said he had a "desire, through study and experience, to develop further my knowledge of governmental affairs before considering the possibility of elective office. I hope that the future will afford me an opportunity to complete my studies at

PEEP SHOW

For Ladies Only BY MIGNON

WORDS

Words are like bright winged humming birds Nectar filled, and colorful as gold Brightly plumed and quick, they flutter out And fly away to places yet untold.

Or like disease they spread a cancerous growth Malicious, ugly, poisonous to hear Filthy carriers of doom to those Upon whose minds they prey with black winned fear.

Lovely words like CLEAN and LOVE and GOD Stay with us like an ever blooming tree Imbed themselves within the human heart And sweeten every life that holds the three.

How we should think . . . before we speak, for words once loosened, fly with the wind like barbed poisonous arrows or as pollen to a flower. Gossip cannot pour from a clean fine mind any more than spoiled milk can be poured from a clean, sanitary pitcher. When a pitcher is empty and set in a dusty corner it soon collects dust, grime, flies and filth. So does an empty head.

A mind so crowded with lovely and beautiful thoughts of the marvels all about us does not have room for gossip. One of the wisest men I ever knew once told me, "Make your mind a store-house of loveliness and nothing can take it from you."

Pete Derosier, French-Canadian poet and camp cook cutie, has a sweet doggerel in this month's "Shining Lines;" it reads—

The Worm De worm she is a funny thing; He got no leg, nor arm, no wing. She got no leg, but he can walk; He got a mou't, but he can't talk; She walk wit no leg on de groun'; Back and 'fort,' and don't turn roum'; He built so close down to de dirt. If she fall down, he don't get hurt; And wen she whoa an' back he go, 'Wher' is hees head, I lak to know?'

Three more things that depend almost wholly on faith are love, political statements and hash says Mrs. F. Honsinger.

First hand and to offer my contribution to the welfare of my fellow citizens . . .

Initiation . . .

NEW YORK—Winthrop Rockefeller, 26, fourth son of John D. Rockefeller Jr., was initiated last week into the Circus Saints & Sinners Club (devoted to the care of retired circus performers), forced to wear costumes depicting the life of a Rockefeller from babyhood to old age. Announcer Tex O'Rourke, master of ceremonies, supplied a running commentary: "He worked hard and long in the Texas oilfields until, at the end of one week, he rose to vice president. After attaining this position, he took a year's vacation."

In response to a call from Lona Shawyer, that delightful old pal of mine who thrives on boots and jingles, ropes and white faces, branding irons and all tales of the campfires quite as much as I do, I dashed off to Oklahoma City to hear her review my latest brain child, "Prairie Moods" at the Book Exchange at 507 N. Hudson. Aside from being so happy to see Lona again and the enjoyment it gave me to hear her interpretation of the book, I had a swell time just browsing in this unique shop. Mrs. E. H. Gates and her sister operate the shop which contains over a hundred thousand books. I was happier than a flea on an angora cat, if you know what I mean. Old and rare books . . . new books, Oklahoma books, Texas lore and tales of the Southwest that would make any book lover a-tingle just to look about them. The window had been worked out by Shawyer and the sisters together and was a most attractive display of Southwestern material. They push the writers and the books of the southwest. The window contained everything from a pair of horns from a Texas longhorn, to an old coffee mill like Dad used to grind as a signal that our dates were staying so late he'd be getting the breakfast coffee . . . What a delightful job Lona has, and I looked almost bilious I was so envious of her getting to be there every Tuesday at three, which is her regular date to review somebody's nice new book. A gal who has lived close to old trails under lowhung stars, and listened to a nightbird's lullaby like Lona has, can really get into the mood of a book on the southwest. You're missing something if you haven't been down to the Book Exchange on Tuesday.

No Hits—No Runs—One Error!!! I have left the H out of Theresa And therefore deserve a scold But a gal like me, never dreamed that she Coulda had a H. Ain't I bold? Speaking of Theresa reminds me that I saw her Tuesday night when the Oklahoma Writers were entertained at the lovely home of Mr. and Mrs. John Daugherty in Oklahoma City. It was a farewell and "happy journey" party for Dora Aylodelte, author of the best seller, "Trumpets Calling" who left the next day for the McDowell Colony at Peterboro, N. H., and it was a bang-up affair, if you ask me. Since the story was laid in the strip and the town mentioned was Enid, all the Enid folks came down like a gust of rose petals in a summer shower. There was Mrs. Major who we decided had majored in daughters for there were four along with her and each seemed sweeter than the other and kept us all beaming trying to decide which was our favorite. There was Bess Truitt who had a clever tribute to Dora and there was a masterpiece of a telegram from Helen McMahon. There were gobs of folks there but all I can do is to tell you the prize winners in the poetry contest . . . Hang take a column . . . it is far too short!

First in lyric, Miss Rebecca L. Finch; second, Miss Josephine Hawks, Oklahoma City, and third, Miss Gwen Hendrickson, Enid. First in free verse, Mrs. Daniel Delly, Choctaw; second, Mrs. Mary W. Nation, and third, Mrs. Cooper Langford, Oklahoma City.

Q. Why was Houston's order to destroy the Alamo and withdraw from San Antonio never executed? A. Grant had removed all the horses for the Matamoros expedition and none were available for removing the artillery or other government property, without which it probably was deemed inadvisable to move the garrison from San Antonio by those in command, who took orders or ignored them as they deemed best. Houston charged that the failure was due to the "connivance of the council."

Q. Why did Cos turn back with his men and John Santa Anna's attack on the Alamo despite the terms on which they had been paroled? A. With his paroled force Cos met Santa Anna and his army on their way to San Antonio and was ordered by the Mexican general to ignore the conditions of the parole and return with the Mexican army to San Antonio.

Q. What artillery was used by the Texans at the Battle of the Alamo? A. The Texans had fourteen artillery pieces that had been captured from Cos, and these were the same kind of smooth-bore, muzzle-loading cannons with which the Mexicans were attacking.

Q. What position as to safety did Santa Anna have at the Battle of the Alamo? A. According to Almonite, of Santa Anna's staff, Santa Anna assigned the post of greatest danger to Cos, and to himself that of greatest safety—command of the reserves. In case Cos failed to capture the fort, Santa Anna, was to lead the advance, but when Cos failed, General Amador, not Santa Anna, led the troops to victory. General Castillon was in command of the immediate assault.

Q. Did Santa Anna enter the Alamo fort during the engagement? A. A half hour after the firing ceased, and not until then, Santa Anna entered the walls and asked to be shown the bodies of Travis, Bowie, and Crockett. He then ordered the bodies of all the Mexicans removed and that wood be brought to burn the bodies of the Texans.

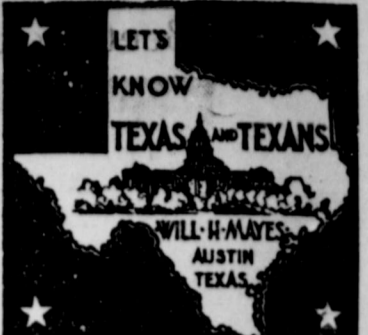

Q. How were the Texas bodies incinerated? A. The pyre, as ordered by Santa Anna, consisted of alternate layers of mesquite wood and bodies of the Texans.

Q. What were the losses on both sides at the Alamo? A. The entire force of 183 Texans was killed, the wounded being slaughtered after the capture. Santa Anna first reported "about 70 men killed and 300 wounded, among whom are 25 officers." In his Memoirs he later stated, "they put out of battle more than a thousand, dead and wounded." The generally accepted report of Sergeant Francisco Becerra was: "Our loss in front of the Alamo was represented at two thousand killed, and more than three hundred wounded."

Q. How many men did Houston find at Gonzales when he reached there, March 2, 1836? A. The entire force was 374 men, about fifty of whom were mounted. These were under command of Edward Burleson, James C. Neill, Alexander Somervell, and Sidney Sherman, with his company of Kentuckians. This comprised the Texas fighting force with the exception of the Matamoros expeditioners, whose cooperation with an organized regular army could not be counted on. Those at Gonzales, with the possible exception of the Kentucky company, were without organization or military discipline.

Q. What steps did Houston take to remedy existing conditions? A. He assembled the men, read the orders he had received from the committee on military affairs of the Washington convention, explained the reasons why help might not be expected from Fannin's force, and proceeded to organize the regiment. Edward Burleson was elected colonel, Sidney Sherman lieutenant colonel and Alexander Somervell major.

Q. Where was Fort Tenochtitlan, Texas? A. It was a Mexican garrison in what is now Burleson County near the line of Milam County, established in 1830-31, around which grew an important settlement prior to the Texas revolution.

In this column answers will be given to inquiries as to Texas history and other matters pertaining to the State and its people. Address inquiries to Will H. Mayes, Austin, Texas.

Beet Field Vigilantes Organize

With right arms held high, vigilantes of the Michigan beet fields are pictured above as they took a secret oath to serve in the "regiment of rough riders" who will drive "radical labor agitators" out of Lenawee county. Made up of 16 motorized companies of at least 25 men each, the regiment was formed in answer to threats of the Agricultural Workers' Union, an A. F. of L. affiliate, to call a strike in the beet fields. The sugar beet industry is the most important in the southern Michigan county.

Wilson Named Head Of Fire Department

W. D. Wilson was elected president of the Brownwood Volunteer Fire Department at a meeting Tuesday night. Reports from the state convention at Amarillo last week were presented by delegates who attended.

Other officers named at the meeting are as follows: John Taylor, first vice-president; W. P. Denny, second vice-president; Charles Alford, first assistant chief; Pryor Martin, second assistant chief; R. A. Snider, treasurer; Homer Andrews, secretary; L. P. Dempsey, captain No. 1; Modie Wells, lieutenant No. 1; Norman Chaney, captain No. 2; David Goats, lieutenant No. 2; Mrs. W. D. Wilson, Mother of Fire Department; Rev. L. A. Boone, chaplain; Jimmy Wayne Pike, mascot.

Assistant Scoutmaster Sanders of No. 46, Mullin, was in the office recently to report that his Scouts can be counted on for some more good acrobatic stunts during campfire time.

Scoutmaster F. M. Wood, No. 29, Carbon, expects to have Assistant Scoutmaster T. G. Jackson with him and their Scouts this year in camp. Comanche will be well represented to this year according to S. M. Cauley. Members of Troop No. 5 with their Scoutmaster A. R. Hochhalter will work out some good camp photography.

All Scouts who want to pass swimming and Life Saving Merit Badges, also Junior and Senior Red Cross work will have an excellent opportunity to do so under the instruction of waterfront man, Scoutmaster "Toots" Gilliam.

NOTICE: We are in the market for some Donkeys to be used in camp. We want the kind that will not go on a "sit down strike." Get in touch with the Scout office if you can give us any information about same.

be well represented in camp since a number of boys are depositing their camp fee in the bank under the supervision of the cashier, Assistant Scoutmaster Brown. This report was brought in by Scoutmaster of the Troop, C. L. Burns. Scoutmaster Orville Bradley of Brownwood reports that there will be almost a hundred percent attendance of active Scouts from Troop 2 in camp. Charles Rutherford, Scoutmaster of No. 115, Rising Star and his Scouts say that they are all ready to win all the trophies in camp this year. "Everything is coming along in fine shape for camp," says Bill Jessop, Scoutmaster Troop 6, Eastland. We wonder what he and Scoutmaster Jack Dwyer of No. 103 are going to do to each other this year.

The Drum and Bugle Corps composed of Scouts from Dublin troops 22 and 24 will be out in full force. They recently took part in the Safety Parade in Fort Worth.

The boys of Troop 39, Stephenville, H. V. Collins, Scoutmaster, are working hard to have the best attendance at camp in the history of the troop. Scoutmaster J. R. Banes, Breckenridge, says that they are also working for a large attendance.

Joe I. Bacon, vocational agriculture teacher and a good Scouter of San Saba will be with the members of Troop No. 36 as their leader this year. These boys are excellent Archers and will be ready to compete with any and all Scouts in the Archery meets at camp.

Ex-Kaiser Blesses Wedding of Grandson and Duchess Kira

Many Trips Are Ruined by Old Tires

NEW RUBBER ELIMINATES WORRY ABOUT POSSIBLE ACCIDENT ON ROAD

Advent of summer is responsible for ruining the temper and disposition of many an otherwise peaceful motorist.

At least that's the opinion of D. C. Pratt local dealer for the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, and when you've heard his explanation, it sounds logical. "The explanation is simple," said Mr. Pratt. "In the first place summer brings those nice warm days everyone has been longing for all winter. When the warm days come the average motorist gets the urge to get off the crowded streets of the town or city, and take a nice trip through the country. And that's where the trouble starts if—and this is a big "if"—he hasn't carefully checked his tires before starting.

"A lot of car owners will get the old bug out the first warm Sunday, shine it all up, have the engine checked over, then set the wife and kids and start out for an afternoon's drive, without even thinking about tires, or if they do think about them, decide they'll probably be okay for another few thousand miles anyway.

"That's where they make their big mistake. Old, thin, worn tires are the kind that usually fall first. Heat is the natural enemy of tire life and the highways get pretty hot these days. First thing the motorist knows one of his old tires has failed, possibly sending the car into the ditch or into the line of oncoming traffic, with serious results. In any case, a tire failure means delay, inconvenience and ruined tempers.

"Answer, of course, is to replace old tires with brand new ones. Then the car owner is assured of the best possible performance during the summer, with maximum protection against tire failure. And, too, if he gets tires with center traction, such as the Goodyear G-3 or R-1, he also has maximum protection against dangerous skids in event the pavement is made slippery by rain."

Fort Worth Co. Low Bidder on Road Job

Ernest Loyd Construction Company of Fort Worth was low bidder for the application of asphalt seal coat on Highway 23, from the junction of Highways 7 and 10 north of Brownwood to a point one-half mile south of May.

The contract, announced by the Highway Commission, is a part of a $2,324,945 construction program which includes 28 projects over the state. The Brown county job, together with ten miles of seal coating to be placed on Highway 187 northeast of Cisco, will cost $12,387.

The railroads contribute more than seven million dollars annually to the Federal government in the way of reduced rates on government traffic because of land grants made seventy years ago.

Cooks Council

By FRANCIS PECK
Home Institute

WE'RE OUT to make a law—a brand new one that we'd like to see tacked on back doors all over the land—"KEEP OUT OF THE KITCHEN". A steaming kitchen is no place for the lady of the house these gorgeous summer afternoons. She ought to be out of doors soaking up the sunshine while it's in its prime. Just the same, folks must be fed. So we propose a few quick tricks that will cut kitchen hours to a minimum and still make for good substantial eating. Try serving a steaming cup of soup as a come-on to jack up jaded appetites, then plan the rest of your meal around this swift and simple pattern. A meal like this now, will pay handsome dividends in leisure hours:

Consommé Madrilène with Lemon Slice Garnish
Cooked Macaroni in Cream Sauce With Cheese in a Crisp Bacon Ring
Cole Slaw
Pure Apple Butter
Custard Rolls
Red Raspberry Sundae
Coffee

Need a nice dessert to spring on your family one of these summer evenings? Try this Swedish Charlotte and see how your dining room dependents take to it. To begin with, you'll need a sponge cake cut in two or three slices depending on the thickness of the cake. Now made for the county encampment to be held at Lake Brownwood State Park in August. An ice cream supper will be given July 2, on the Methodist church lawn sponsored by the club girls. Everyone is invited to come and help the girls.

don't be daunted if the day is hot. Just send Junior packing to the bakery or pick up a cake yourself when you do the daily shopping. Cut the cake and cover the first layer with a coating of jelly whip made by beating together stiff two unbeaten egg whites and 1/2 glassful Currant Jelly. Plant a layer of fresh peach slices (you'll need a cupful to do the job well) in the jelly, top with the second layer of cake and cover the whole cake with the leavings of the jelly whip. Bake in a slow oven, about 300° F. for 15 minutes until delicately browned. It's grand cooled, sliced, served with coffee.

Improve on the crepe suzette idea with Mincemeat. Make paper thin French pancakes—three per single serving—butter lavishly and mound a heaping teaspoonful of steaming Mincemeat on top of each. Roll or fold, and set ablaze in brandy if you're so inclined. For a hot bite with cold drinks, try mixing a package of cream cheese with a tablespoonful of Prepared Yellow Mustard and spread on sheer slices of bologna. Top with crisp cut slices of stuffed olives, roll up and wrap each tidbit in a slice of bacon, fastening ends with toothpicks. Broil until crisp and brown.

THE 34 members gave nine varied public demonstrations, sang Christmas carols to shut-ins, bought clothing for needy school children, fed poor families, organized six vocal and instrumental groups and held seven public educational discussions.

COLLEGE GRADUATES' PROSPECTS FOR JOBS REPORTED FAVORABLE

Minneapolis, June 15.—Despite the decline in general business activity this spring there are still favorable employment prospects for this year's graduating classes of 261 American institutions of higher learning, King Merritt, vice president of Investors Syndicate, reported recently.

Although the job outlook this June is not quite as hopeful as a year ago, nearly forty per cent of the men's, women's and coeducational institutions replying reported job prospects the same as those in 1937. Around twenty per cent of the replies put present prospects the same as job chances in 1929.

"Business administration, general business and teaching," explained Mr. Merritt, "this year, unlike in 1937, outdistance engineering, agriculture, selling, and home economics likewise rank higher in volume of jobs offered than they did a year ago. Investment banking, journalism and law, however, continue near the foot of the list.

"Character as a prime qualification for a job was named twice as often by prospective employers as it was a year ago, but scholarship and personality still rank first and second, respectively, in the qualities being sought in possible employees.

Candidates Speak
Sizeable crowds heard two candidates for state offices make their requests for votes Saturday at the courthouse. The candidates were Jerry Sadler of Longview, candidate for state railroad commissioner, and Robert W. Calvert of Hillsboro, candidate for attorney general.

"In volume of recruiting among this year's graduates, General Electric Company, Firestone, Proctor & Gamble, Westinghouse Electrical & Manufacturing Co., Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., Du Pont, International Harvester and various subsidiaries of American Telephone are leading," Mr. Merritt said.

"American institutions of higher learning—our replies and interviews represent institutions having more than half of the total enrollment of colleges and universities—this year are making greater efforts than ever before to obtain positions for both men and women graduates, which explain promising employment prospects despite present business conditions," Mr. Merritt continued.

"Nearly 62 per cent of the 261 institutions replying to the questionnaire said that more than half of their graduates in June are expected to be on payrolls before the end of summer. Within a few months after graduation, 49.9 per cent of these schools expect to have more than 70 per cent of their graduates at work.

"About forty per cent (39.96) reported employment prospects for this year's graduating classes below those of a year ago, while about the same percentage (39.47) estimated job chances the same as a year ago. Seven and eight-tenths per cent reported prospects greater than last year, while 12.77 per cent did not answer this query.

"Approximately thirty-six per cent (35.93) of the replies put graduates' employment chances below those of June, 1929, but 16.78 per cent reported prospects of positions greater and 19.14 per cent the same as nine years ago. More than ten per cent answered "don't know," and 17.96 per cent did not reply to that question. Back in 1929 many institutions had no semblance of a placement bureau and thereafter were unable to make comparisons, but that situation is rapidly changing.

"One hundred and nineteen institutions offer a course or series of lectures on how to go about getting a job, such as instruction in composing an application, writing a 'situation wanted' ad, and making contacts. Sixty-nine institutions make no such attempts. Fifty others give varying degrees of assistance, ranging from furnishing information to a long list of prospective employers to arranging formal and informal conferences with personnel experts and industrialists.

"In 118 instances business, including business administration and general business, was listed as the field showing the greatest demand for graduates from employers this year. Some replies listed eight or

FARM NEWS

Cotton Allotments Increased By AAA Amendments
Amendments to the new farm act provide a reserve of 4 percent which will be added to the cotton acreage allotment of each state and that farm cotton allotments in necessary cases shall be raised to a minimum level, according to Geo. Slaughter, Wharton, chairman of the Texas Agricultural Conservation Committee.

The total increase in allotments due to the amendments may exceed 2 million acres, he said. The original acreage allotment for 1935 was 28,299,999 acres. In Texas the additional allotment will amount to around 289,999 acres.

The 4 percent reserve will be used to assure minimum allotments to small cotton farms, provide additional acreages for farms on which allotments were materially reduced because of an unusually large number of small farms in the county, and to provide representative allotments to counties or farms which otherwise would receive allotments which are low in comparison with the amounts allotted to producers in similar areas and in comparison with their usual cotton acreages.

The amendments also provide that if the allotment to any farm is less than 50 percent of the sum of the 1937 cotton acreage plus diverted acres, the allotment shall be increased to 50 percent, provided that the increase does not bring the allotment up to more than 40 percent of the tilled land on the farm.

TAXES WERE PAID WITH WHEAT
It would have taken 2,086,257 bushels to pay Lone Star Gas System's 1937 tax bill!
Based on average 1937 Price of $1.00 per Bushel

THIS is a lot of wheat—nearly 1/10 of the entire 1935 crop harvested in the 58 Texas counties in which Lone Star Gas System operates. To move these 2,086,257 bushels to the tax collector's office to pay the $4 different kinds of city, county, district, state and federal taxes would require 1,780 freight cars forming a train 13.8 miles long! So you see taxes are a very great factor in our operating expenses. Last year they amounted to 23.3% of operating and maintenance costs!

Taxes charged against this system have been increased 42% during the last four years and our rates are not up proportionately. This has created difficult conditions for us in maintaining our record of dependability when less and less of your gas dollar has been left to pay for the essentials of service.

Community Natural Gas Co.
In spite of greatly increased taxes and regulatory expenses Lone Star Gas Service still remains the cheapest item on your household budget. One cent's worth of gas will operate a gas refrigerator from 8 to 10 hours or cook a good dinner for three people.

ON TEXAS FARMS

MAY FARMER ENTHUSIASTIC OVER PASTURE FURROWS

"The morning after the recent rain here, twelve or fifteen of my neighbors came out to inspect my pasture furrows. All the furrows were standing more than two-thirds full of water and not a drop was lost off my treated pasture." Such is the statement of SCS cooperators, E. M. Killion who lives near May, Texas.

Mr. Killion recently furrowed thirty-seven acres of pasture land on six foot centers and contour ridged an additional seven acres. After observing the effects of the furrows in conserving water he has requested that lines be run on other areas suitable for treatment, according to SCS. Camp Technicians.

Pasture furrows, on tracts suited to this type of treatment, are giving excellent results in this section. Rapid resodding of desirable grasses, combined with the enormous amounts of water conserved and the added advantage of requiring practically no maintenance, makes pasture furrows one of the best types of pasture treatment yet developed.

Recent Cooperators who have been installing pasture furrows similar to the work done on Mr. Killion's farm are, K. O. Mathews, S. B. Cannon, T. W. Oden and Mrs. L. A. Nunn.

CONSERVATION MEASURES AID GRASS YIELD

"I am sure that proper soil and water conservation measures on pasture land will double the grass yield. In fact I know it can be done because I've seen it done right here." This is T. M. Coke's summary of the benefits derived from pasture work done by him in cooperation with the local SCS camp.

"The tallest, thickest growing and most desirable grass on the place is on the ridged portions and I have noticed that most of the seed from buffalo and mesquite grass is grown next to the ridge where most water is held," Mr. Coke added.

So well pleased with contour ridges is Mr. Coke that he is making preparations to contour furrow 10 acres of new area and intends to put 2 or 3 additional furrows between ridges already built. This will tend to distribute the run-off more equally over the ground and will, in the opinion of observers, result in the quicker spread of desirable grasses. Mr. C. Jacobs, located just south of Brownwood is also enthusiastic about the results secured from the contour listing done on his place last year, and in cooperation with the SCS is preparing to do ten additional acres in the near future.

Grande Valley have provided their own handling, processing, and sales service through cooperatives, which have become so efficient that they have cut the cost of packing in half. A number of purchasing associations are in operation, especially in Northwest Texas, where they supply members with materials needed in production.

Cotton, turkeys, poultry, dairy products, livestock, wool and truck crops are among the farm products listed by Bowles as being marketed cooperatively.

One of the items in the new farm act deals with cooperative marketing, and Bowles believes that AAA legislation will enable farmers to make additional gains in cooperative dealings.

Deduction Rates On Excess Planting of General Crops Lowered

Farmers who have planted in excess of their general crop acreage allotments will be benefited by a recent amendment to the new farm act which lowered the deduction rate for overplanting the general crops allotment. Geo. Slaughter, Wharton, chairman of the Texas Agricultural Conservation Committee, said after a meeting of the group at Texas A. and M. College.

The amendment, which will allow many Texas farmers who planted general crops before receiving their allotment to qualify under the 1938 Agricultural Conservation Program, reduced the deduction for overplanting from 8 to 5 times the payment rate.

This means, Slaughter said, that where the rate of payment for a farm was $1 an acre, and a farmer overplanted 10 acres, his payment would be reduced by 5 times $1 or $5 an acre, or $50 for the 10 acres. Under the amendment, the deduction on the same farm would be 5 times $1, or $5 an acre, a total of $50 for the 10 acres. Thus the total payment for the farm would be increased by $50.

Slaughter emphasized that the amendment applied to general soil depleting crops, such as corn, and not to cotton, which is under the quota plan. In the case of wheat, the deduction for exceeding the combined wheat and general crop acreage allotment would be made at a rate per acre equal to 5 times the wheat payment rate.

"The carry-over of the principal feed crops is such that if two-thirds of the farms take part in the conservation program and do not plant in excess of their acreage allotments, and the rest plant 19 percent more than usual, the total supply of feed next fall will be about 10 percent above normal, assuming that average yields are obtained," Slaughter pointed out. "In view of this situation, the committee urges farmers who have not already completed plantings of grain feed crops to keep their plantings within the acreage allotments whenever this is practicable."

IT IDENTIFIES the brewers who have pledged their support "to the duly constituted authorities for the elimination of anti-social conditions in the sale of beer."

It identifies the brewers who, through The Brewers' Code of Practice, have pledged themselves to the promotion of practical moderation and sobriety.

These brewers ask, with all thoughtful citizens, for adequate enforcement of existing laws... to close outlets operating illegally... to prevent the sale of beer to minors... or after legal hours... or to persons who have drunk to excess.

These brewers ask the public to support and encourage the great body of retailers who sell beer as law-abiding citizens and who operate legal, respectable premises.

Plenty of Brawn

Making his first bid for an honor which few Americans have won, powerfully built Joe Burke of Bridgeboro, N. J., is shown the day he completed his training for the Diamond Sculls at the British Royal Henley Regatta on the Thames. Burke, as the nation's No. 1 sculler, demonstrates his championship grip before sailing on the Normandie.

SOONER STATE WOMAN JUDGED BEST RURAL WRITER IN CONTEST

Mrs. Edna Eaton Wilson, a farmer's wife of Ripley, Okla., has been judged the best country newspaper correspondent of 1935. It was announced today by Wheeler McMillen, editorial director of the Country Home Magazine, which sponsors the annual award to crossroads writers.

Mrs. Wilson, who writes a column of farm and community news for the weekly Gazette in nearby Stillwater, helps her husband operate their 270 acre dairy farm, together with their four sons. She is described by Otis Wile, editor of the Gazette, as the pride of his staff. And what correspondent isn't, he says, "whose copy doesn't have to be pencilled and who always finds something of human interest in the farm community."

As the national winner Mrs. Wilson will receive $500 in cash, and a free trip to New York, Washington and White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., where she will be a guest at the convention of the National Editorial Association. She also will be interviewed over a coast-to-coast NBC network by James W. Barrett, director of the Press-Radio Bureau.

Mrs. Wilson sums up her journalistic creed briefly:

"I am interested in writing the good things about my neighbors and have not written of their scandals. The duty of the country correspondent, I think, is to sell her neighborhood and not to sell it short."

Mrs. Wilson was born in what used to be the old Creek Indian nation in 1901, her parents having been '89ers who went to Oklahoma as homesteaders in that year. She went to Oklahoma A. and M. College in Stillwater for two years and then taught school in Lone Jack district of Pawnee county. She has been corresponding for the Gazette since 1925.

She was naturally elated when

Scouts New Shortstop

Mark Griffith is positive that he has a new shortstop in Thomas Griffith Cronin, infant son of his adopted daughter, Mrs. Joe Cronin, wife of the manager of the Boston Red Sox. The president of the Nats scouted the prospect at Garfield hospital, Washington.

informed that she had won the national country correspondence award, but said "the folks were not so much surprised as they were that time my raisin bread won the blue ribbon at the Payne County Fair."

The winning correspondence was chosen from several thousand clippings submitted by country newspaper editors as the writing of their best rural reporters. The judges, in addition to Mr. McMillen, included Miss Gertrude B. Lane, editor of the Woman's Home Companion, W. L. Chenery, editor of Collier's, and Sumner Blossom, editor of the American Magazine.

The award was inaugurated several years ago by the Country Home Magazine, a national farm publication, in an effort to give recognition to what the editors regard as an important phase of American journalism.

The second largest award, of $200, goes to Mrs. Blanche Pease, who writes for the Atkinson, Neb., Graphic. Other cash prize winners are Clara Mack, Wayland, N. Y., Register; Anthony Grebene, Cook, Minn., Herald News; Mrs. E. W. Colgrove, Mott, N. D., Pioneer Press; and Mrs. Ferris Braucht, Osceola, Ia., Tribune.

In addition, certificates of merit will be awarded to the best entry from each state, in co-operation with the National Editorial Association.

Excerpts from the writings of Mrs. Wilson, the national winner, follow:

"G. E. Shaw is the first one we knew to be happy about the April

"Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Todd spent the weekend in Jennings at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Perkins. The Todds returned Sunday evening and brought hens to lay eggs, seed potatoes to plant and young berry plants to trade for something. The Todds were married but a few months ago and are just now getting set up for themselves."

"Five-year-old Bobby Lozier called at the H. C. Wilson home Monday when the dairy cleaning work was in progress. 'Now,' said Bobby, 'Hubert ought to rig up a thing for the cows to wipe their feet on as they come in the door of this nice barn, and make them learn to use it. It would sure save a lot of work.'"

"DON'T FORGET TO BE VACCINATED," URGES STATE HEALTH DOCTOR

No matter how busy you are just now planning your vacation, looking up road maps, camping sites and equipment stored since last summer, Dr. Geo. W. Cox, state health officer, advises all Texans to add one extra item to their list of things to be done before vacation starts.

The advice: "If you have not been vaccinated against typhoid fever within the last year or two, go to your family physician and have him give you the three 'shots' that will protect you against the disease. It takes several weeks for the protective treatment to establish itself throughout the system, so it is an undue risk to wait until just before starting your vacation to attend to typhoid vaccination. Begin the treatment without further delay," Dr. Cox admonished.

"Typhoid fever is much less of a menace than it was a number of years ago. But it still is the cause of much unnecessary sickness. Typhoid fever is contracted through the mouth. You either eat or drink the germs. Typhoid is transmittable through the use of water, milk or other foods that are contaminated by typhoid germs passed on by someone ill with the disease or someone who has had the disease.

"Vigilant protection of public and private water supplies from pollution, pasteurization of milk, protection of food supplies from contamination and such sanitary precautions have reduced greatly the incidence of typhoid fever in Texas.

"But there are certain other sources of danger that cannot be reached by public precautionary measures. Certain persons who have had typhoid fever continue to pass the germs that cause the disease long after they have recovered from the illness—these persons are called typhoid 'carriers.' When they are careless in the personal habits they are likely to leave typhoid germs on any food they touch. In recent years some of the more serious outbreaks of typhoid over the state have been due to careless carriers.

"There are other sources of typhoid: a stream or spring along the highway may be clear and sparkling but that is no guarantee the water is free from contamination. Milk may be a source of danger. If unsure of the safety of your milk or water supply, it is a good health practice to always boil them before using. The Texas State Department of Health can warn you against sources of infection—but vaccination is the only sure way against contraction.

County School Board Holds Meeting This Week in Brownwood

Portrait Painting in "Code"
In the West Highland Museum, Fort William, Scotland, is one of the strangest portraits ever painted. It looks like nothing but a mess of colored paint; but when a metal cylinder of the right size and shape is placed at a certain spot on the canvas, the reflection mirrored on the cylinder becomes a portrait of Bonnie Prince Charlie, the famous pretender to the British throne in the 18th century.

Lafayette Isn't Here, Anymore

The smoldering hulk above was once the French Line's 25,000 ton luxury motorship, Lafayette, one of the most popular vessels in transatlantic service. When an engineer attempted to light one of her oil burners, the fire blazed back into the Lafayette's oil tanks and in a few moments the ship was in flames. The entire fire-fighting force of LeHavre, where she was in drydock, could not bring the fire under control. A number of firemen, trapped by flames, were saved by an electric winch which took them off. In the photo above, note the streams of water being played against the ship's side.

The meeting was attended by M. Grosvenor, Blanket, Early, May, Alvis Richmond, Will H. Simmons, Zephyr, Indian Creek and Brooksmith; nine grades, Clio; eight grades, Concord and Winchell, seven grades—McDaniel, Mukewater, Chapel Hill and Woodland Heights.

No Honking in Italy
In many Italian cities it is forbidden to blow any kind of auto horn within city limits. Records show that there has been a considerable drop in accidents involving pedestrians, since drivers who cannot "honk" are inclined to go much more slowly through towns.

Children on Leashes
Some farms perched on the cliffs of Norway's fjords are in such a precarious position that babies and small children must be tethered so that in playing about the front yard they will not fall a few thousand feet into the sea.
