Annual Buddy Poppy sale benefits needy veterans

Members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW) Post 7782 and its Ladies Auxiliary will be selling Buddy Poppies at several stores in town from 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. from May 25-31.

"VFW by-laws require that the proceeds from our sale of Buddy Poppies must be used to benefit disabled and needy veterans and the widow and orphans of deceased veterans right here in the community," according to Post Commander, James Owens.

In 1923, the VFW was the first veterans organization to promote a nationally organized campaign for the annual distribution of poppies assembled by disabled or hospitalized veterans. That tradition continues today, with more than 18 million poppies assembled by paid, disabled, and hospitalized veterans each year. The members of the VFW and its Ladies Auxiliary raise more than $15 million annually from the sale of Buddy Poppies.

The VFW, founded in 1899, is the nation's oldest major veterans organization. Its more than 2.1 million members include 1.1 million of WWII, 526,000 Vietnam veterans, and some 426,000 Korean War veterans. The remaining members come from American military actions in Haiti, Somalia, the Persian Gulf, Grenada, Panama, and Lebanon, as well as expeditionary and occupation forces.

Summer TAAS testing dates set at Clarendon High

The summer administration of the Texas Assessment of Academic Skills tests, commonly known as TAAS, will be given in July at Clarendon High School. The schedule is as follows: Writing - July 14, Math July 15, and Reading, July 16.

The battery of tests, which are given only at the Exit Level during the summer, are criterion referenced tests used to measure specific skills. These tests are called Exit Level because each student must show mastery on them in order to graduate from high school. TAAS will be offered to all 1997/98 Sophomores, Juniors, and Seniors who have not yet mastered any of the three portions of the test.

Several steps are being taken to assist students who will need to take TAAS this summer. First of all, each student will receive the Working Through TAAS Study Guide: A Student and Family Guide to the Exit Level Texas Assessment of Academic Skills. Please see the related article on the study guides for more information. Students will also have the opportunity to review the week prior to the tests (July 7-13). We will follow this scheduled - Reading - 9:00 a.m. to 10:30 a.m., Math - 10:30 a.m. to 12:00 noon. Parents are encouraged to make arrangements for their students to attend these sessions.

Clarendon High School will also be an Out-of-School / Out of District test site. Any eligible student who is out of school or is enrolled at another district may test at Clarendon. However, they must register first. Registration forms may be obtained by contacting the Clarendon Counselor's Office at 822 W. Fifth or by calling John Taylor, CCISD Counselor at 874-3241.

The registration forms must be received in Iowa City, Iowa, no later than 5:00 p.m. June 15. Clarendon students are not required to register.

Thornberry provision takes first step toward increased Pantex funds

WASHINGTON, DC — The United States House of Representative took the first step toward increased funding for Pantex operations recently with the National Security Committee's approval of a provision that would send to the plant $25 million above and beyond what the Department of Energy had budgeted for the coming fiscal year.

The provision was authored by US Rep. Mac Thornberry, who serves on the Military Procurement Subcommittee which has jurisdiction over the plant.

"One of the things that has happened over the past few years," Thornberry stated, "is that the Department of Energy has given Pantex a number of additional responsibilities without giving them the money needed to carry them out. This funding is intended to help Pantex make up that shortfall and carry out the work they've been asked to perform."

According to Thornberry, these missions include activities related to Defense Programs Mission Work, the Advanced Development and Technologies Program, and the Enhanced Surveillance Program. The funds were approved by the National Security Committee as part of the Defense Authorization Act for 1999. Also included in the bill was $272 million for the plant's general operating budget for the coming fiscal year, as well as just under $5 million for the following two projects: $1.108 million for Stockpile Management Restructuring Initiative and $3.7 million for Sewage Treatment Quality Upgrade.

Thornberry welcomed the Committee's approval of these funds.

Thornberry said that the next step in the legislative process will be consideration by the full House of Representatives.

TxDOT noticing more traffic signs vandalized

With the arrival of spring, Texas Department of Transportation (TxDOT) has noted an increase in traffic sign theft and vandalism.

Although the signs are quickly replaced, and no one has been injured due to missing or damaged signs, the costs associated with the crime are high. Damaged signs pose a danger to the traveling public, and the funds spent to replace them could be spent elsewhere.

Statewide, taxpayers spend more than $8 million annually replacing signs damaged by natural disasters, accidents, and vandals.

Wood and metal signs cost approximately $10 per square foot to produce. The costs to install replacement signs vary depending on the amount of time and equipment

WTU parent company receives state's Environmental Award

DALLAS — Central and South West Corporation (CSW), parent company of West Texas Utilities Company (WTU), has been awarded the 1998 Texas Environmental Excellence Award by the Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission (TNRCC). TNRCC recognized CSW earlier this weekend during a special luncheon in Austin attended by Gov. George W. Bush.

TNRCC presents the award annually in a variety of categories to honor individuals, organizations, schools, and businesses that have created successful programs to protect and conserve the Texas environment. CSW's award was in the large business non-technical category for the corporation's renewable energy project in the Davis Mountains in West Texas.

The CSW Renewable Energy Project, begun in 1993, is studying and developing the use of renewable energy as a power generation resource. The project includes: 12,550-kilowatt wind turbines at a 75-acre site near Fort Davis, Texas; three large grid-connected solar arrays totaling 205 kilowatts; and five 2-kilowatt rooftop photovoltaic systems on commercial buildings and residences in the area.

"CSW's Renewable Energy Project in the Davis Mountains serves as the foundation for the corporation's commitment to a long-term renewable energy program," said Gary Gibbs, CSW senior environmental consultant. "CSW's Renewable Energy Project provided considerable insight into the corporation's decision to purchase 75 megawatts of renewable energy from a proposed wind-generation facility that is planned for McCamey, Texas. The wind-generation facility will use 113 wind turbines, each generating 660 kilowatts of electricity at the largest wind-generation facility in Texas."

CSW's overall renewable energy program achieve another milestone in October 1997 with the introduction of the ClearChoice™ "green pricing" pilot program in San Angelo, Texas. By voluntarily participating in this program, WTU customers can ensure that additional amounts of renewable electricity are placed into the Texas electric grid. CSW plans to offer the ClearChoice program throughout the CSW service territory in 1999.

CSW in March also worked with TNRCC by joining Gov. Bush's statewide clean-air effort. CSW committed to voluntarily reduce emissions from its electric generating plants.

Central and South West initially will reduce 3,000 tons of nitrogen oxides (Nox) emissions during the next 12 to 24 months. The corporation also intends to make additional reduction by permitting existing "Grandfathered" generating facilities, either through a proposed program by Gov. Bush's Clean Air Responsibility Enterprise (CARE) Committee or through the state's current emissions permitting program.

CSW's reductions are the largest for electric utilities announced under Gov. Bush's voluntary program.

24 residents, or almost one in four, have no health insurance	Jobs include 12 in service, 10 wholesale or retail, 8 government, 6 manufacturing
13 residents receive food stamps, and 17 live below the poverty level	Of 71 adults old enough to vote, 56 are registered, 30 voted in the last general election

Increase Postal 'Service' Not Rates

The Postal Service (now there's an oxymoron) is raising rates... again. An independent commission approved on Monday the increase in rates which will see the price of a first class stamp go up a penny and the price of mailing a newspaper go up by 4.6 percent.

I have about had it, but then what can I do? Nothing. In theory, I support the idea of the Post Office being run by the federal government since it is a function clearly outlined by the Constitution. However, if they can't deliver the mail, then we owe it to the taxpayers as well as the postal consumers to provide them with a service that can get the job done.

This issue is one I have held off commenting on due to the fact that we depend on the Post Office to deliver the Enterprise to our subscribers. UPS, FedEx, and other independent carriers are not really an option for our subscribers since the Post Office has a monopoly on deliveries to Post Office boxes. Unfortunately, Periodical Class mail (newspapers) isn't a very big priority to the Post Office, and as a result delivery times can be exceedingly long.

It takes a week or more for our paper to get from Clarendon to College Station or San Antonio, and deliveries from Texas to California or Arizona are sometimes three or four weeks or more.

Time is a critical factor in delivering the news. When subscribers call our office to complain, it looks as though we are just making excuses when we point a finger at the Post Office. I can assure you the fault sits in the lap of the Post Office. I'm not blaming the individual employees of the Clarendon office. We have a good working relationship with them. But once the mail leaves their hands, it's anybody's guess what will happen to it.

The Enterprise is on the cutting edge of Postal requirements for labeling and sorting. In other words, the bundles we deliver to the Post Office each week are sacked into eighteen separate delivery sections, each newspaper is labeled with a barcoded address, and all papers are sorted into a "walk sequence" order so that postal workers don't even have to think about what they're doing — just put it in PO Box 12, PO Box 13, PO Box 14, etc. Sorting our own mail in this way is a labor intensive task, and the software required to certify the addresses and to generate the barcodes is expensive. Heck, it seems like we do everything for the Post Office except physically deliver our papers for them.

What really bites about this rate increase is the Postal Service has reportedly made billion-dollar profits for the last three years according to the Associated Press. They seem to be flush with cash what with the primetime television commercials they're running and the fancy new office on Western Street in Amarillo.

Former North Dakota publisher and past president of the National Newspaper Association John Andrist recent wrote: "The USPS needed seven to 14 days to deliver my newspaper to Arizona when I went into business in the early 1950s. It still takes seven to 14 days today. Do you know anybody else in the transportation and delivery business that can't do a better job today than they could 45 years ago?"

I can drive to see my brother in College Station in less than a day; the Post Office should be able to take a newspaper to him in two days at the most. Surely in this modern age, the mail can be delivered on time. And certainly the Post Office should be accountable to the taxpayers and to postal customers. But most importantly, postal rates should be based solely one criterion — expeditious delivery of the mail.

Meanwhile in Austin...

Mad Dog Danny Morales is back at it. It was only a matter of time, of course. After the state's bullying of the big tobacco companies, the Texas Attorney General has now declared open season on other legal businesses, putting Microsoft squarely in his cross-hairs.

Morales' office is reportedly expecting to file an antitrust suit against the computer software giant owned by Bill Gates. This move could potentially delay Microsoft's release of their new computer operating system, Windows 98.

Who really stands to lose the most from this lawsuit? It's not Bill Gates, it's the taxpayers and the consumers of Texas. Mad Dog's frivolous lawsuits waste the state's time, resources, and money in the pursuit of political interests. It will stop (or at least delay) consumers from buying the goods they want and demand.

It is interesting to note that Microsoft isn't even based in Texas, but several large computer manufacturers are. The maker of the nation's top performing PCs, Dell Computers, is headquartered in Austin as are other computer manufacturers. Compaq calls this state its home as do computer retailers CompUSA and Computer City. These companies depend on software from Microsoft to sell their hardware. If the state sues Microsoft, Texas' own companies will feel the sting as a delay in Windows 98 could lead to a delay in the purchase of new computers.

We are fortunate that Mad Dog isn't running for re-election this year. Texas deserves an Attorney General who will go after real criminals rather than pursuing one political agenda after another.

Northerners are a fun but gullible people

Being a Southerner at heart, and a Texan by birth-right, you wouldn't think that I enjoy the company of Northern folk. It's a funny thing, but I do. Close friends know that I love a good laugh, and that I especially appreciate a well-placed practical joke. It just seems as if these foreigners always seem to tickle my funny bone.

Just a few weeks ago, my husband and I were checking cattle on the ranch when we noticed a strange sports car parked near our cattle guard. As we drove closer, we noticed the car had Minnesota plates and a very pretty young lady sitting on the hood.

Thinking that the woman might have had car trouble, we stopped and asked her if everything was all right. She said everything was fine and how she was just taking a break from driving back from L.A. (She told us she was a model and was out in California on some photo shoot). She was recording the evening's beautiful sunset with her camcorder when all the cattle rushed in around us. Miss Minnesota Model screamed and climbed even higher on her car hood. With this move, I realized just how much fun I could have with the situation.

"Will the cows bite me?" Miss Model asked. "It depends on what you do," I replied. I grabbed a couple of cake cubes off the back of the ranch pick-up and fed one of the cows. "You see, cattle have this instinct. They can smell fear, and that's when you can get really hurt," I said with a devilish grin.

"Oh, our cows in Minnesota aren't anything like that. They don't even look like yours, either. All of ours are black and white," she replied. "Yep, it gets so hot down here that the white part turns black on these special cows," I said. "It's something like a permanent tan," I said, not thinking she would take me serious.

Her Minnesota reply: "Don't they make sunblock for cows?"

Call me mean-spirited, or just downright ornery, but the opportunity was just too good to pass up.

I've spent a lot of time with Yankees. Heck, I even attended one of their colleges up there. My freshman year in college, I met this guy from Virginia. We had a couple of classes together and got to become good friends. One day he asked me about what it was like to grow up in Texas. When I told him that I came from a ranching family, his eyes lit up and I really think that he saw dollar signs. (Us Texans know that just because you raise cattle and horses, it doesn't mean that you are rich. Depending on Mother Nature and the Chicago Board of Trade is not an easy way of life).

It dawned on me what this guy was thinking, so I decided to play along.

"So, do you have your own helicopter landing pad at your house, like they do on Dallas?" he asked.

"Yep, it's behind the butane tanks (our concrete slab of a basketball court could double as a landing pad), then the airplane landing strip is just to the west of the barns (where the tornado cleared the mesquite brush would work nicely)."

"Does that mean that you guys are millionaires?" he asked.

"Sure am, (when you add up the cost of out-buildings, equipment, stock and of course those bank loans, we surely qualified.) Why do you ask?" I said.

"No particular reason." As a direct result of my good-natured joke, I ate really well for about a month. My Virginia friend would always take me out to dinner. I guess he thought he had found himself a gold mine. Oh well, it beat eating cafeteria food!

A few years ago, I was on a business trip in Maine. New Englanders are nice people but are very gullible. One client asked if we rode horses and still carried guns.

"Yes sir, we do," I answered, while trying not to laugh. "You just never know when the savages will act up and attack us."

"Have you known anyone that was ever scalped?" Tears started to flood my eyes, as I was desperately trying to hold in my need to laugh. It got so bad that I had to leave the table.

A fellow Texan on the trip took over and said, "Sir, you have to excuse her. That's how she lost her momma." I guess all Texans love a good joke.

Just last week my husband and his co-worker were eating lunch in one of the little area cafe. A couple, who must have been traveling Interstate 40, stopped in and sat down in the booth next to them. Not sure what to order, the couple struck up a conversation with my husband. They told him they were from Illinois and were heading home after spending several months in Arizona.

My husband, Ryan, told them that the chicken fried steak was a good choice to order. Following his advice, the couple ordered their meal and continued to visit with Ryan. The meal arrived, and the lady commented on how she didn't realize soup came with her meal. Ryan thought this was strange but didn't tell her any different.

The lady ate her small bowl of soup and raved about how different it was. I guess she didn't know they served white gravy on the side at that restaurant!

With my fun escapades with those who live north of the Mason-Dixon Line, I know that I'll never be asked to be an Ambassador for Texas. That's okay though. I'll probably continue to have more fun with my own way.

Stopping people running red lights a Federal responsibility?

Just when we thought the federal government couldn't get any more involved in our lives, along comes the Secretary of Transportation with a federal plan to crack down on people who run red lights across the country.

His plan essentially would form a public-private partnership between Washington, businesses, and local communities to educate people about the dangers of running red lights. The program will include such measures as increased police enforcement and putting cameras up at stoplights to take pictures of those who break the law.

Now, people who run red lights are a problem. And having Washington work with local communities is a lot better than having them come in and tell people what to do — as has happened so often in the past. But somehow I question whether the Founding Fathers would have envisioned traffic enforcement as a federal responsibility when they drafted the Constitution in 1789. And while you can argue that the world has changed a great deal since then, you can also make the case that the need for limited government is as great now as it was 200 years ago.

The federal government is bigger than it's ever been in our history. In 1996 alone, the bureaucracy issued nearly 5,000 new rules and regulations — the highest ever. Federal regulations cost the typical family nearly $7,000 each year.

There's been a lot of talk about making the federal government smaller and smarter. But smart government doesn't just mean trying to do everything better. It also means not trying to do everything. When it comes to putting cameras in traffic lights, I'm afraid that's what the Secretary of Transportation is trying to do.

Letter grateful for increased police protection during Bob Wills Days

Dear Editor: "This last Bob Wills Day was the best one I've seen in years. It was nicer, safer, more civilized, and cleaner." These are words we have heard more than once in the past week. In fact one lady said this was the first time in years that she had felt safe in her own home by herself over Bob Wills weekend. Always before she had wanted someone to stay with her.

This is certainly good news. Everybody should feel safe at home alone in our town. The bad news is her rights as an American citizen and as a citizen of Turkey, Texas, have been violated for years and for this we, the citizens of Turkey, should be ashamed. We would like to take this time to express our appreciation to the City Council of Turkey for providing the law enforcement that was here, and we would especially like to express our gratitude to all of the law enforcement people from Motley, Briscoe, Hall, Childress, Lubbock, Donley, and Collingsworth counties for their help. If we have left anyone out it was not intentional. There really are many people who truly appreciate you and the sacrifices you make.

Hedley BPA Chapter presents check to Shamrock Islanders

Members of the Hedley High School Chapter of Business Professionals of America recently presented the Shamrock Islanders with a check for $300. BPA is a student organization for high school business education students much like FFA is for agricultural science students. Hedley chartered their chapter in the Fall of 1993 and has numerous activities they participate in during the school year. This year they joined with the City of Hedley and sponsored Santa Claus at the elementary Christmas parties at Hedley School. They also had a candle fund-raiser and wanted to help the Islanders.

Special Olympics is the national project for BPA and every chapter is encouraged to get involved on the local level. This past October HHS chapter members helped the Islanders with their booth in the ARC Halloween Festival at Wheeler and had a great time.

The Islanders are coached by Jean Reeves and the Hedley High School Chapter of BPA is sponsored by Colynn Harrison and Shauna Monroe

The University Interscholastic League Scholar Award is presented to seniors who will graduate at the top of their class and who have been active participants in UIL academic, music, or athletic contests.

Hedley High School presented this prestigious award to James Lee Potts on Monday evening May 11th at their annual awards banquet. James Lee is the son of James Edward and Timber Lee Potts of Hedley. James Lee has been a four-year starter on the Hedley High varsity basketball team and was voted to the first team all district team in 1998. He also was selected to participate in two all-star competitions in basketball this year. James Lee is also the leading member of Hedley's science team which captured the regional science title two weeks ago.

"The purpose of the award is to honor those students whose academic and extracurricular achievements have been exemplary," said Dr. Bill Farney, UIL Director.

"This award program is one of the most unique in the nation," added Farney. "We feel it is important to recognize students whose self-discipline and integrity in competition are a model to others and a valuable asset to future citizenship."

"It would pay for every high school student I know to watch how James Lee Potts works at whatever he does," says Bruce Howard, Potts' science team sponsor. "He never gives less than his best, whether he is working a science problem or shooting a basketball. It is unfortunately too rare to find that kind of dedication to improvement."

Potts will graduate valedictorian of Hedley High May 22nd.

needed. People are reminded that in Texas it is against the law to possess a sign without a permit, and the state does not sell signs or issue permits to possess them. In addition, if the loss to TxDOT is more than $1,500, it is a felony.

Counties included in TxDOT's Childress district include: Briscoe, Childress, Cottle, Collingsworth, Dickens, Donley, Foard, Hall, Hardeman, King, Knox, Motley, and Wheeler.

Band Boosters elect new officers for coming school year

There were 18 people in attendance at a regular meeting of the Band Boosters, Tuesday, April 28. It was wonderful to see so many parents and community members come out for this meeting. As most of you know, the main purpose of this meeting was to elect new officers. Your new 1998-99 Band Booster officers are: President Julie Hartman, Vice President Debbie Roberts, and for another year Treasurer Rhonda Newhouse and Secretary Carol Holden.

Discussion of the Scholarship Fund revealed that this has been a very successful year; the new scholarship letter is being credited for much of this success. Each semester a scholarship in the amount of $200.00 is given to a student chosen by the committee. It was voted on and agreed that $200.00 would remain the amount given until we felt the scholarship fund was more prosperous and we could increase the amounts or possibly the number of scholarships awarded.

Mr. Baker will be bringing a proposal to the next school board meeting to purchase a trailer for the band. The trailer will be used to carry all the band equipment, instruments, and uniforms. The Band Boosters are behind this 100 percent. We voted to delay the building of the trophy case and put $1,000 toward the purchase of the trailer.

Mr. Baker has been asked once again by the Fourth of July parade committee if the school band will perform in the parade. Mr. Baker would very much like the band to represent the school in the parade, but he has not had much success in past years. Therefore, Smiley Johnson made the suggestion that the band play at the beginning of the parade and that they not march. Everyone present seemed to like this idea. If your student would be interested, or if you would be interested in playing in the parade, please contact Mr. Baker at your earliest convenience.

There was much discussion about the meetings. Since as a rule the only people who attend the meetings, due to scheduling, are the Executive Committee, it was voted on and agreed that we have three meetings a year. The first meeting to be in August to discuss all Fall events, the second to be in January or February to discuss band competitions, and the last to be in April to elect new officers and to discuss summer events. It is hoped that this will make it easier for parents and community members to attend the meetings.

This has been a great year for the band and one of the most successful with all the accomplishments they've had this year. We are looking forward to an even better year next year. With your continued help and support, we can achieve this goal and make it the best year yet.

Property Tax Protest and Appeal Procedures

The law gives property owners the right to protest actions concerning their property tax appraisals. You may follow these procedures if you have a concern about:

- *the market or special appraised value placed on your property;
- *the unequal appraisal of your property;
- *the inclusion of your property on the appraisal roll;
- *exemptions that may apply to you;
- *qualification for an agricultural appraisal;
- *the taxable status of your property;
- *which local governments should be taxing your property;
- *the ownership of property;
- *the change of use of land receiving special appraisal;
- *you think the appraisal district has done something else that adversely affected you.

Your Appraisal District staff urges you to review the value records of your property at any time prior to the day of the Appraisal Review Board Hearings tentatively set for July 17, 1998, in the Donley County Courthouse Annex. Some protests result from errors or misconceptions which we are pleased to correct.

Review by the Appraisal Review Board: If you can't resolve your problem informally with the county appraisal district (CAD) staff, you may have your case heard by the appraisal review board.

The appraisal review board (ARB) is an independent board of citizens that reviews problems with appraisals and other concerns listed above. It has the power to order the appraisal district to make the necessary changes to solve problems. If you file a written request for an ARB hearing (called a notice a protest) before the deadline, the ARB will set your case for a hearing. You'll receive written notification of the time, date, and place of the hearing. Prior to your hearing, you may ask to review the evidence the CAD will use to uphold their determination. The CAD may ask you for a copy of the evidence you plan to present. The hearing will be informal. You and the appraisal district representative will be asked to present evidence about your case. The ARB will make its decision based on the evidence presented. The CAD has the burden of establishing the property's value by a preponderance of the evidence presented. You can get a copy of a protest form from the appraisal district office at the Donley County Courthouse Annex, P O Box 1220, Clarendon 79226; phone 806-874-2744.

Note: You shouldn't try to contact ARB members outside of the hearing. The law requires ARB members to sign an affidavit saying that they haven't talked about your case before the ARB hears it.

Review by the District Court: After it decides your case, the ARB must send you a copy of its order by certified mail. If you're not satisfied with the decision you have the right to appeal to district court. If you choose to go to court, you must start the process by filing a petition within 45 days of the date you receive the ARB's order.

Tax Payment: If you appeal and your case is pending, you must pay the lesser of the amount of taxes due on the portion of the taxable value not in dispute or the amount of taxes due on the property under the order from which the appeal is taken.

More information: You can get more information by contacting your appraisal district at the Donley County Courthouse Annex, P O Box 1220, Clarendon 79226; phone 806-874-2744. You can also get a pamphlet describing how to prepare a protest from the appraisal district or from the State Comptroller's Property Tax Division at P O Box 13528, Austin, TX 78711-3528.

DEADLINE FOR FILING PROTESTS WITH THE ARB*

Usual Deadline: On or before May 31 (or 30 days after a notice of appraised value was mailed to you, whichever is later).

Late protests are allowed if you miss the usual deadline for good cause. Good cause is some reason beyond your control, like a medical emergency. The ARB decides whether you have good cause. Late protests are due the day before the appraisal review board approves records for the year. Contact your appraisal district for more information.

Special Deadlines: For change of use (the appraisal district informed you that you are losing agricultural appraisal because you changed the use of your land), the deadline is before the 30th day after the notice of determination was mailed to you.

For ARB changes (the ARB has informed you of a change that increases your tax liability and the change didn't result from a protest you filed), the deadline is before the 30th day after the notice of the determination was mailed to you.

If you believe the appraisal district or ARB should have sent you a notice and did not, you may file a protest until the day before taxes become delinquent (usually Feb. 1). The ARB decides whether it will hear your case based on evidence about whether a required notice was mailed to you.

*The deadline is postponed to the next business day if it falls on a weekend or holiday.

Students can get extra help on TAAS test skills

Additional help is now available to students who do not pass one or more parts of the statewide assessment, the Texas Assessment of Academic Skills (TAAS). The Texas Education Agency has developed TAAS Study Guides to help students strengthen their reading, mathematics, writing, science, and social studies skills measured by TAAS.

The study guides have been created for third grade through exit level (high school). The exit level guide, "Working Through TAAS," was delivered to public schools in May so that student who did not pass the exit Level TAAS, a requirement for graduation from all Texas public high schools, are the first to benefit from these materials. Study guides for third through eighth grades will be available later this spring or summer.

Mike Moses, Commissioner of Education, said, "The activities in the study guides cover the same skills that are taught in school and are tested on TAAS. The guides help students and their parents understand each skill, realize why it is important, and see how it relates to everyday life."

The guides may be used to help reinforce the skills of all students, including those who have performed successfully on TAAS. Moses said, "We believe that the best foundation for successful performance on TAAS is a curriculum that provides students many opportunities to read for meaning, solve mathematical problems in a variety of real life contexts, and write for a variety of purposes and audiences. The TAAS Study Guides, based on this same foundation, provide material that can be easily used inside or outside the classroom."

All high school students who do not pass one or more parts of TAAS will receive a free study guide from their school after the Spring 1998 testing. Other high school students or their parents may obtain copies for the study guides for $5.00 per guide by calling 1-888-35-STUDY.

The guides for Grades 3 through 8 will be available summer 1998. Local information about the Study Guides can be obtained by calling the Clarendon CISD Counselor's Office at 874-3241.
