Bad joke lands student in jail

A 17-year-old male was arrested last Thursday after making threats in class at Clarendon High School.

According to Donley County Sheriff Jimmy Thompson, the student said he was going to wear a trench coat and kill a bunch of people at the school.

The young man was arrested and charged with making terroristic threats, a Class A misdemeanor.

"Making threats - even in jest - is discouraged given all that's going on in the country these days," said Sheriff Thompson. "Anything like this that happens, it will be thoroughly investigated and charges will be filed."

Thompson said the student was just "popping off" and did not have the means to carry out his threat.

CHS Principal Larry Jeffers said that threatening people is never something to joke about, particularly now when everyone is so nervous about the events in Colorado. The school took action, he said, because officials felt they had to do something to show they take the matter seriously.

"He is a good student and a good kid," Jeffers said. "He just made a really bad judgement."

Jeffers said the high school held an assembly to reassure the student body that Clarendon High School is a safe place. "We're too good a school to allow this to go on," he said. Students feel safe at CHS according to Jeffers.

The student, whose name cannot be released, is currently free on bond.

Producers say 'yes' to weevil eradication

AUSTIN - The Texas Department of Agriculture announced last week that cotton producers in the Northern Rolling Plains Boll Weevil Eradication Zone have voted to establish a boll weevil eradication program in the 14-county zone.

Final results were 785 in favor and 325 opposed to establishing an eradication program.

In addition, producers in the zone voted to set a maximum annual assessment for the program not to exceed $15 per planted row acre for irrigated cotton and $10 per planted row acre for dryland cotton.

To officially establish a boll weevil eradication program in the Northern Rolling Plains Zone and set an assessment, the proposition had to be approved by a two-thirds vote, or those voting in favor needed to farm more than 50 percent of the zone's acreage.

"Producers in the Northern Rolling Plains have shown they want an eradication program," said Agriculture Commissioner Susan Combs. "We look forward to working with them and the Texas Boll Weevil Eradication Foundation in eliminating this costly pest in Texas."

The Texas Department of Agriculture issued 1,975 ballots to cotton producers in the zone who were eligible to vote in the referendum. Some 1,121 valid ballots were postmarked by the April 22 deadline and were counted.

Cotton producers also elected John Inman of Childress County to represent the Northern Rolling Plains Zone on the statewide board of directors for the Texas Boll Weevil Eradication Foundation, Inc.

Inman is a cotton producer and has been serving as the Commissioner-appointed director for the zone.

The zone consists of approximately 340,000 acres in 14 counties: Gray, Wheeler, Donley, Collingsworth, Hall, Childress, Cottle, King, Hardeman, Wilbarger, Wichita, Clay, Foard, and portions of Archer.

Open Forum

Open Forums have been being held all week at Clarendon College to allow people to visit with the five finalists to be the school's next president.

Monday, Dr. James Taylor (left) from South Plains College was on campus. Dr. John Pruitt from North Texas Community College was on hand, and Dr. Myles Shelton of Hill College was slated for Wednesday.

Dr. Janet Smith of Hopkinsville Community College and Dr. Alan Rasco of the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board will be here Thursday and Friday mornings respectively.

Four Hedley students head to state UIL competition

Juniors Lowell Ellerbrook and Rachel Howard lead the Hedley High Science Team to its second consecutive berth in the UIL state academic meet. The team placed first and second in Region 1 last week in Levelland.

This year's state meet is in Austin at the University of Texas campus on May 7-8.

Ellerbrook won the individual Region 1 science championship and also placed first in the chemistry and physics categories of the test. Howard was a close second in overall score, and sophomore Lana Wallendorff made up the third member of the team that easily outdistanced runner-up Garden City.

Ellerbrook also finished third in the mathematics competition to qualify for state competition in that event. Senior Jason Myers and Wallendorff made up the rest of the math team, which placed third overall in team competition. This was the best finish for a math team in school history. Rachel Bennett competed in Accounting for Hedley at the regional meet.

"It means a lot for our young people to step up and be the best at something," said Bruce Howard, Hedley science teacher and UIL academic coordinator. "These kids are quality kids, and the whole county should be proud of them. They've helped put us on the map."

According to Howard Region 1 extends over the entire panhandle area plus the southwest part of the state. There are teams from near El Paso and as far away as Big Bend. Overall there are 76 teams in the region.

And the winners are...

Hedley students attend national conference

Business Professionals of America members Rachel Howard and Susan Grecian along with BPA Advisors Colynn Harrison and Shauna Monroe of Hedley High School attended the BPA 1999 National Leadership Conference, "Freedom to Excel," in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, April 23-27.

HHS conference attendees joined over 4,000 other conference delegates from across the nation to participate in national level business skill competitions, workshops, general sessions, and the national officer candidate campaigns and elections.

Besides having the opportunity to excel, they experienced "Philadelphia Freedom" as they visited the historic sites marking the birth of our nation. Sites visited were the Liberty Bell, Independence Hall, South Street for a Philly cheesesteak sandwich, Penn's Landing, Lancaster County in Pennsylvania, Valley Forge, and various other historical sites in the Philadelphia area.

The group also visited New York City where they arrived on the Staten Island Ferry and saw the traditional tourist sites such as Radio City Music Hall, Macy's, Central Park, the Empire State Building, the World Trade

WT professor to address Clarendonian Stage

The Clarendon Archaeological Society will have as its speaker Dr. Gerald Schultz, professor at WTAMU, on Monday, May 10.

Dr. Schultz is the foremost authority on the "Clarendonian Stage," a particular type of fossilized specimens first found in Donley County. In Donley County the Ogallala

Formation is well exposed along the tops of the divides north of the Salt Fork in the Goldston area, and shows beds of greenish to grayish clays as well as sands and silts in various degrees of consolidation. These beds date back to the early Pliocene Age, 10 to 11 million years ago. In these beds were found the fossils of 3-toed horses, mastodons, a species of camel, giant turtles the size of a pickup, and numerous other oddities.

Many hundreds of these fossils would have been lost to erosion and weathering back in the 1930's had it not been for the hard work of Will Chamberlain, Sr. Mr. Chamberlain, Continued on page three.

*Second Amendment

More laws not the answer

If you couldn't predict a flurry of gun control proposals coming out of the tragedy in Littleton, Colorado, then you probably couldn't predict the sun coming up tomorrow.

True to form, anti-gun activists have pounced on the events at Columbine High School and seized the moment to call for more and more federal regulations.

Our impeached president, in the process of feeling the pain of the people of Littleton, has called for a background check before someone can purchase explosives. That's just great, Billy.

As usual, the impeached president's idea is not one that has been carefully thought through. How do you define explosives? Dynamite isn't necessarily the common ingredient in homemade explosives. Will you require a background check on everyone buying a sack of fertilizer and a couple of gallons of diesel? For that matter, all-purpose flour, under the right conditions can be explosive. How about hair spray or WD-40?

This past Sunday on NBC's Meet the Press, author Dave Grossman proclaimed: "Anyone who gives guns to children and allows the unlimited access is guilty of a criminal act."

Well, I guess that makes my dad a criminal. My brother and I had guns, and we had access to our guns as well as our father's guns. I suspect a lot of other people in this part of the country have or had that same access. Of course we didn't kill anybody, but that doesn't matter according to Mr. Grossman.

He went on to say, "While only 0.0006 percent of children with access to guns commit crimes, that is still unacceptable." So in other words, since 99.9994 percent of children with access to guns are not committing crimes, we must convict their parents of a criminal act. Well, that makes a lot of sense.

It is that same logic which would require gun manufacturers to put child safety locks on firearms and strictly prohibit access to firearms to people age 18 or over. The really good question would be why can you buy a handgun at age 18 when you can't buy a beer until you're 21? But I digress.

Where are the defenders of the Second Amendment in this debate? Well, the NRA - God bless 'em - was forced to cut short its annual conference in Denver because of protests. I'm sure that Charleton Heston and company didn't want this tragedy to happen. Nonetheless, the NRA is treated as though it sanctions this type of violence.

And once again the Republicans are simply devoid of any leadership on this subject. Rather than draw a line in the sand and say "More federal regulations are not the answer," many of the congressional GOP leaders are "open to ideas" about how to stop this behavior. Rep. Mac Thornberry is the only congressman I've heard say that the government is not the solution to the problem.

America must learn to solve its problems without turning to the government every time something bad happens. If the American people give up even a little bit of their freedom in order to "solve a problem," eventually our problem will be that we have no freedom left.

And speaking of giving up your freedom...

THE ENTERPRISE received a press release this week from the national headquarters of The American Legion calling on Congress to send a flag-protection amendment to the states for ratification. It seems that this idea just isn't going to die.

Laws protecting the flag have been consistently struck down by the Supreme Court as unconstitutional. The solution then, according to groups like The American Legion, is to amend the Constitution. But whether we as a people like it or not, desecrating Old Glory is a form of political expression and is therefore protected under the First Amendment.

The Constitution has not lasted this long because the American people amended it every time they got a wild hair. We already flirted with changing that prestigious document on a whim earlier this century with Prohibition. It didn't work and had to be changed again about a decade later.

Amending the Constitution for the express purpose of limiting the freedoms granted under the Bill of Rights should be one of the most offensive proposals in the public arena. It would be akin to enacting an amendment that limits freedom of religion to only followers of the Judeo-Christian belief system and bans the practice of Islam or Buddhism.

To protect the flag at the expense of the freedom it represents is too high a price for America to pay.

Happy Mother's Day to a very special mom

She's not my birth mother, nor is she a blood relative. I haven't even known her for ten years. Yet, I feel like I've known her all my life.

The first time I met her was a cold snowy November day. She greeted me with a big bear hug and a heartwarming grin.

Little did I know that day, that this woman would become my mother-in-law.

This weekend is Mother's Day, and often mothers-in-law are overlooked by the spouses of their precious children.

Mothers-in-law have been given a bad image. Popular media treats them like horned beasts who do nothing but bring destruction and mayhem.

The stereotype is far from the truth about most mothers-in-law. Although, I do have close friends who rank their spouse's mother right up there on the likeness scale with hemorrhoids, eating liver, flat tires, and catching the flu.

Not my mother-in-law, though. I now have two moms.

We are quite different people. She has the patience of Job while I am quite impatient. She always remembers birthdays and anniversaries. I'm still struggling to recall my husband's and daughter's birthdays.

My mother-in-law is such a terrific person that she didn't even get upset when I arranged to have calf fries served at our wedding rehearsal dinner. When I told everyone they were eating chicken nuggets rather than bovine gonads, she just chuckled.

My husband's mother is a gem. I know I'll never be able to cook cream puffs like she does or keep a spotless, not to forget always dusted, home. Her energy surpasses mine, too. She's up before dawn each day exercising, doing laundry, and writing letters to family and friends.

I tried keeping up with her once. I was up at four a.m. and fell asleep in the middle of a conversation at nine a.m.

Happy Mother's Day to my second Mom. Although we are quite different, we are alike in so many ways. We may have different accents and tastes, but we manage just fine. She's still trying to convince me that Maid-Rites are good eating, and I'm attempting to teach her where "over yonder" is. Oh well, we've got time to work on those things.

Until then, thank you for raising a great son. You taught him to do dishes, vacuum, and clean the toilet. I appreciate it greatly! Now, can you help me to teach him how to put the toilet lid down? Just a thought....

Nominations for academies uplifting part of the job

One of the more uplifting parts of my job in Congress is being able to nominate young people to our Nation's military service academies. It's also something with which a lot of people are not that familiar.

I recently hosted a pair of meetings to give students and their parents more information about the service academies, what they have to offer, and what those interested in attending need to do to apply. Representatives from West Point, the Naval Academy, and the Air Force Academy were on hand to speak and answer questions, and a good number of students and their parents turned out for each.

As a member of Congress, I can nominate up to five students for each service academy. This number varies depending on how many students from the 13th District are attending an academy at the time of nomination.

Applications for nomination are due in to me by November 1 of a student's senior year. I then pass these nominations onto the service academies. They make the final decisions on who is eventually selected. Those who are selected get their education for free. In return, they agree to serve in the military for a minimum of five years after graduation.

Obviously, service academies aren't for everyone. But for young people who are looking for a top-notch education and a chance to serve their country, I think it's an opportunity that can't be beat.

If you'd like more information on military service academies and how to go about being nominated, please contact me at either my Wichita Falls or Amarillo office, or through my website at www.house.gov/thornberry/.

Always observe proper etiquette when in cyberspace

By Eric Spellmann

Nobody likes rude behavior, even on the Internet. But countless etiquette breaches occur in cyberspace every day. By following a few, simple suggestions, you can insure that your online reputation is not sullied.

Before we begin, though, you need to become familiar with some of the lingo. First, "netiquette" is the combination of the words "Net" (as in Internet) and "Etiquette." Netiquette is a set of rules for behaving properly online.

Another term to familiarize yourself with is "flame." It can be used as both a noun and a verb. A "flame" is a personal attack. For instance, if you and I were e-mailing back and forth and I happened to disagree with you, I might say so. But if I insulted you or called you names, I have "flamed" you. The message, itself, is called a "flame." If the argument continues and worsens, you have a "flame war."

Now that you know the lingo, here are my five rules of Netiquette:

1. Be careful with sarcasm. Most people never intend to flame someone. However, misused sarcasm can easily lead to a flame war if the sender is not careful. As an example, let's say that you and I were sitting face-to-face. If I looked at you, grinning, and said, "You're an idiot," you would probably laugh at me and say something witty back. However, things are different if I send the same message via e-mail: "You're an idiot."

Looking at that statement there is no way for you to know that I was kidding. You have no way of knowing that I was grinning when I typed it. Also, keep in mind that different cultures have different forms of humor and sarcasm. What may be funny to you may be offensive to them. American humor is not necessarily "world" humor.

One way to "flame-proof" your messages is to use the smiley. The previous flame-bait sentence would now read: "You're an idiot. :)"

That last colon and parenthesis form a "smiley face" if you turn your head to the left. The smiley simply means, "I'm kidding, don't take this seriously."

2. Lurk before you leap. The most common place for a breach of netiquette is on a mailing list or in a chat-room. Remember, that mailing lists allow you to communicate with hundreds, or even thousands, of people at a time. Your statements will be read and judged by these people. One wrong word could mean a deluge of complaints in your e-mail box or on your screen. If you are new to a mailing list or chat-room, you should be a lurker. Not to be confused with a "stalker", a lurker is someone that sits back and watches everybody else for a while, only joining in once they get a feel for the conversation. Lurking is a good thing.

3. Advertise correctly. Let me say this just once: The only appropriate place online to advertise your product or service is on the World Wide Web. Unless directly solicited by the customer, all other venues are considered a serious offense. You should never send out unsolicited bulk e-mail to anyone. Not only will you destroy your professional reputation, you will most likely have your Internet access cancelled as well. Bulk e-mail is called "Spam."

4. Grammar and Spelling count. People that receive your e-mail or visit your website will never see the diplomas on your wall or hear you speak. All they will be able to judge you by is your grammar and choice of words. If all of your correspondence is misspelled or full of typos, the receiver will think you don't pay attention to detail. Worse, they might question your education altogether.

5. Forgive other's netiquette breaches. As we're taught in Sunday school, you should forgive far more than you should accuse. New people start using the Internet every day, and yes, they will make mistakes. Instead of coming down on them, why not offer to hold their hand in their online journey. Not only will you make a friend, you will be building the online community our kids will someday inherit.

See you in Cyberspace!

Local student helps WT newspaper win awards

The West Texas A&M University student newspaper, the Prairie, picked up 10 awards at the Texas Intercollegiate Press Association competition April 9-10 in Kerrville.

Beth Barbee, a senior mass communication/public relations major from Clarendon and Prairie sports editor last year, won a first-place award for a sports-page design-tabloid.

"These awards are important for the students because they're rewarded for their hard work. They can list these honors on their resumes when they hunt for jobs," Wohlfarth said. "It gives WTAMU's journalism program some added prestige, too. I'm very proud of the Prairie staffers who won these awards and others, too, who contributed to the overall excellence of the staff."

Three teams reach Houston

By Sue Church, County FCS Agent
Retired and Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) was the first team to report that they had logged enough miles to reach the county's goal which is walking to Houston (535 miles). Two other teams, Donley County State Bank Loaners and Nook Knockouts, reported they, too, had reached Houston and were well on their way to South Padre Island.
Emmett Autry, a member of the RSVP team, logged 67.3 miles for the week. Carol Hall kept up her weekly standard by walking 50 miles. All 18 teams reported over 5700 miles for the first five weeks of the eight-week campaign.

The county currently has 132 walkers registered in the program. Walk Across Texas has been so well received within the county that we hope local residents have established a heart-healthy habit that will continue for each participant beyond the eight weeks. Next year maybe we can double the number of teams. Way to go Donley County!

CHS doubles tennis team places fourth in Abilene

The first day of the regional tennis tournament in Abilene on Wednesday, April 28, proved to be a grueling one for Clarendon's doubles team of Travis Woodard and Greg Wootten.

The Clarendon duo drew Reagan County's Lozano and Sosa for their first round match. Woodard and Wootten won the first set 6-3, but dropped the second set 4-6.

The third set proved to be a nail biter as the Bronco team battled to a 7-5 victory.

Woodard and Wootten faced the Jim Ned team of Aldridge and Egger in the second round and dropped the first set 3-6. The Clarendon team regrouped and fought back to win the next two sets and the match 7-5, 6-3.

"I think the guys came out a little tight the first day. Greg, who is just a freshman, was a little nervous about his first regional trip," said Head Tennis Coach Ruben Osuna.

"The teams we drew were tough and gave us all we wanted. The guys just did a great job of battling back when they needed to the most," said Osuna.

Thursday's matches proved to be a little tougher for the pair.

The number one seeded team, Hemphill and Jackson of Wall, who eventually became the 1999 regional champions, defeated Woodard and Wootten 6-4, 6-2 in the semifinal round.

The Bronco duo played Livengood and Rosenquist of Stamford, the number two seed in the tournament, in the third place match. The Stamford pair defeated Woodard and Wootten 7-5, 6-2, to give Clarendon the fourth place finish.

"The guys went up 4-0 in the first set and jumped out to a great lead. Then Travis, Greg, and I agree that for whatever reason they just let the match slip away.

"I'm extremely proud of these two. They played hard from start to finish, and you can't ask for more than that," said Coach Osuna.

Senior Khalil Abdullah represented Clarendon in the boys' singles division. Abdullah was eliminated in the first round by Cade Park of Forsan 6-4, 6-1.

"Khalil played his best tennis all year at the tournament. It was just unfortunate that he drew the number three seed for his first match. He and I really feel good about the way he played. Khalil had a good season and improved the whole way through," said Osuna.

Monroe heads to state track meet

Dustin Monroe, a junior at Hedley High School, is headed for the Texas University Interscholastic League State Track & Field Meet to be held on the campus of the University of Texas in Austin May 14 and 15.

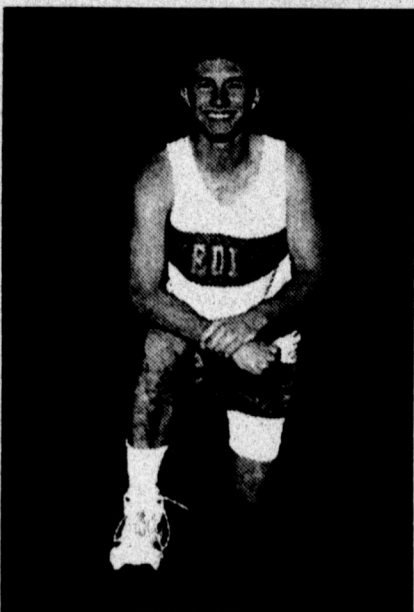

Monroe (pictured right) earned his berth at the state meet by placing first in the long jump at the Regional 1-A Track and Field Meet on the campus of South Plains College in Levelland on April 30 and May 1. His winning jump was 22'. Winning second was Robby Alexander of Roscoe with a jump of 21' 7", and third was Jared Aven of Hart with a jump of 21' 5".

Monroe also placed third in the triple jump with a distance of 43' 1". Placing first in the triple jump was Jason Powell of Rotan with 46' 10", and second place went to Tyson McKinney of Spur with 44' 1".

Monroe scored a total of 16 points and Hedley High School placed 12th in the meet out of 68 schools. Roscoe placed first in the boys division with 53, Rankin was second with 44, and Wink was third with 41 points.

Monroe will compete on Saturday, May 15, at 9:00 a.m. in the first Texas UIL State Track & Field Meet to be held in the newly constructed track and field stadium at UT. He is coached by head football and track coach Roger Chase and is the son of Danny and Shauna Monroe.

Athletes compete at regional meet

Four Clarendon athletes competed at the regional track meet held in Abilene on Friday and Saturday, April 30 and May 1.

Senior Kim Alexander capped off her high school career with a fifth place finish in the shot put. Alexander threw 35' 8 1/2" to complete the 1999 season.

"Kim competed with all her might, like she's done throughout her high school years. Getting fifth place was about where our realistic expectations were set. We'd hoped that Kim might come through with an extraordinary burst of power, but it didn't happen. I'm extremely proud of her for competing at the regional level for four straight years," said Head Girls Coach Steve Schmidt.

Junior Hunter Spier also competed in the shot put event. Spier threw the shot 42' 6" but did not make the final eight.

Junior Zack Butts ran in the 400-meter dash. Butts clocked in at 53.7 in the preliminaries.

Sophomore G. J. Martindale just missed the final eight by placing ninth in the triple jump with a 41' 4" effort.

"Hopefully these guys saw that with just a little bit more work we could have done a little better and made the finals. I hope that their effort inspires them and other individuals to work harder so that we can bring even more events to the meet next year. I was really proud of these three guys' efforts," said Head Boys Track Coach Mike Ray.

I would like to thank the voters who supported me in the May 1, 1999, election. Your support and vote of confidence was appreciated.

call before you dig

It may seem like a simple task, but it can save your life. If you dig into a natural gas line, you could cause a fire or explosion. With more than a million miles of pipeline in the country, there's only one way to dig safely. Call 1-800-545-6005 two days before you plan to dig.

KN Energy clearly marks where gas lines are located, and where you shouldn't dig. Calling for locations of natural gas facilities is more than just a good idea - it's the law.

And if you ever smell natural gas, leave the area immediately. Don't operate any equipment, don't flip any electrical switches. Simply get away and call KN from another location.

Please take the time to call before you dig. Your family will understand if you forget to pick up the milk.

The Lion's Tale

By Allen Estlack

Clarendon Lions Club had their regular Tuesday noon meeting on May 4 with Boss Lion Jimmy Blackerby conducting the meeting in due form.

We had 15 members and no guests. Our program was the history presentation that will be competing at the state meet this weekend.

Valerie Taylor is the first junior high student to win in her division. Lindsay Green and Larmie Cruz presented a skit about bringing electricity to rural Donley County. Valerie's presentation was about Marie Curie. These were exceptional presentations. Lyndal Gillen-Goetze was the teacher who directed these students.

Clayton Ferris provided the music. Alan Graham catered the meal that was very good.

Horse Club to meet

The 4-H Horse Club will meet on Thursday, May 6, at 5:00 p.m. at the Burton Memorial Library. For more information please call Jody at 874-3062.

WATCH OUT FOR THE MUDSLIDE!

THE NEW PECAN MUDSLIDE TREAT.

We loaded it with a thick layer of rich hot fudge and delicious caramel. Then we add tasty crushed pecans, followed by a generous helping of creamy DQ soft serve. And to top it all off, we add even more thick hot fudge and caramel, then sprinkle it with even more pecans.

The new Pecan Mudslide. It's definitely worth sliding in for.

HOWARDWICK RESPONDS

In response to a political ad run recently, the City of Howardwick has the following statement.

- "I have lived here 18 years. I have been mayor in the past, and I am familiar with laws for a town of this size."
 H.C. Clark was appointed mayor in May 1992, served through 1993, and was elected in 1993 and served through 1995. Several laws have been deleted and enacted since that time.
- "I was the first one who started getting grants for the city, being the dumpsters and an $18,000 chipper shredder, co-owned by Howardwick and Hedley."
 In June 1994, the City of Clarendon submitted a grant proposal to the TNRC under that agency's FY94 Comprehensive Waste Reduction, Recycling, and Composting Grant Program. The application proposed to implement a comprehensive waste reduction and recycling program to serve the Cities of Clarendon, Hedley, and Howardwick. The application had been developed with the assistance of the Cities of Hedley and Howardwick and was submitted to the TNRC with the consent and support of those two communities.
- "I will continue grant application for the betterment of the community and for the citizens."
 The city of Howardwick is still continuing grant applications for the betterment of the community and the citizens through a grant committee formed in 1996.
- "All projects of the city will be done by fair and equitable bidding."
 The City of Howardwick took bids on six projects during the years of 1997 through 1999. All bid records are on file at City Hall for public viewing.
- "I will continue searching for a method of road improvement."
 There is nothing on file for 1993-1995 showing any applications made for grants for road improvement.
- "Make improvements in park and community building."
 By filling the only public swimming pool in Donley County with dirt? How could this be an improvement to the community?
- "Upgrading fire department so the residents get better insurance savings plus better protection, faster response."
 If all homeowner's insurance policies have the physical address along with the mailing address, insurance rates would be different. (STATE LAW)
 The fire department response call to a fire on 4-25-99 was 3 minutes.
- "As of March 1999 report to Council from fire department, a candidate for alderman has in her profiles she is a member of the fire department. Her name does not appear on this list."
 Records on file show that Mr. and Mrs. Mike Ariola joined the fire department 9-11-96 and 9-17-96 respectively
- "Council meetings will be conducted according to Roberts Rule of Parliamentary Procedure. If you have an item on the agenda, you will get to state your case without interruption from citizens or city secretary."
 Regulating Talk: Too much talking is the most common cause of lengthy meetings. Talking can assume a variety of forms-bickering or tiresome exchanges of personal opinions among council members, endless speeches by citizens appearing before the council; or unnecessarily long and detailed reports by staff.
 Nearly all of these problems can be overcome by tactful action on the part of the presiding officer. If citizens addressing the council ramble on and on, the mayor may have no choice but to tell them to confine their remarks to the subject that hand and conclude as quickly as possible. If the problem is created by a talkative council member, a simple statement to the effect that "It's getting late and we must move along" usually will suffice, though private visits by the mayor may be needed to handle chronic talkers.
 * Source: Texas Municipal League Handbook
 The city secretary is doing her job.
- "Bills will be discussed individually in council meeting with any explanation if needed to any interested person or group."
 The elected councilmen are working for you. Questions are always welcomed. It's your tax dollar.
- "We pay approximately $40.00 per month for warning sirens and only one works as of last year. I think it is the mayor's responsibility to keep the warning sirens maintained and in working condition."
 The constant power surges trip siren relays, effects fuses and telephone lines, and causes interruption of siren service. Yes, it is the mayor's responsibility.
- "The city employees will have one boss and it will be me, not a husband and wife operation."
 For every successful married man, there is a wife behind him; and for every successful married woman, there is a husband behind her. City employees only have one boss, the mayor.
- "I will guarantee the city office will not be closed as much as in the past."
 City offices have been closed due to family illnesses. With one employee at city hall, we feel that families come first. The business of the city has not been neglected.
- "Bring back conservative management to the City of Howardwick."
 When did we lose it? Unaware it left.
- "I do not play an active roll in any organization and have the time to productively run a mayor's office."
 The mayor's office has been and still is being productively run. Being in other organizations helps the mayor be in the public and find out the public's opinion.

Sixty-two percent of the registered voters voted in the May 1 election. The public has spoken. The mayor and alderman welcome the community to participate at all meetings. We have plenty of room.

'South Pacific' as performed by the Clarendon College Fine Arts Department last weekend was an extraordinary musical event which showcased the vocal and dramatic talents of area students. Shown here are Jason Archuleta of Clarendon and Jody McQueen of Memphis.

Golf team competes in regional tourney

The Bronco "A" golf team competed in the regional tournament on Monday and Tuesday, April 26 and 27, in Abilene. The team competed well as they have all year, and placed 12th overall with a score of 670. The Broncos shot 30-40 strokes better than in any other tournament this season. "The boys competed well all season. I am proud of what they have done this year. Especially because of some of the weather conditions we have had to play in. With everybody coming back, we should be the district favorite next year," said Coach Greg Mouser.

Members of the team and their scores were Chris Linquist, 81, 82; Colt Floyd, 81, 94; David Hall, 86, 91; Sam Holton, 87, 81; and Kelly Linquist, 94, 81.
