large plaque and a $250 check after tying for first place with Canadian for the coveted Ken Towery Community Service Award. The ENTERPRISE was recognized in this category for its work covering the Highway 287 Project.

The ENTERPRISE won first place among weekly newspapers for Editorial Writing with judges saying the editor shows "the ability to work across entities and keep concerns local." The editorials on the sale of the Medical Center, the one-act play controversy with White Deer, and the city aldermen's stalling of the college baseball program were called "thorough and hard-hitting.'

Christi Ross' "On The Mark" won first place for Humorous Columns with entries about motherhood, a trapped raccoon, and Yankees. Ross also received a third place recognition for her Serious Columns.

The paper picked up a second place plaque for Feature Stories written by Valerie Avery. The judges said her article on the closing of The Grocery Store "could have been a straight news item, but [Avery] recognized it for more and handled it beautifully."

In Advertising, the ENTERPRISE received a third place plaque, and the paper earned honorable mention recognition in the categories of Sports Writing and Feature Photos.

According to newspaper reports, Capt. Dean Wadsworth, a 1948 graduate of Clarendon High School, died in 1963 when his T-28 Trojan was shot down in Vietnam.

Wadsworth (shown right in a picture from the The paper came home with a 1948 Broncho yearbook) was 33 years old and a member of the 1st Air Commando Squadron. The plane was hit and broke apart after completing a bombing about 50 miles southwest of Da Nang.

According to an article in the SAN ANGELO STANDARD-TIMES, Wadsworth's remains will be buried in Moore near San Antonio next month.

Wadsworth, whose name is on the Donley County War Memorial, is remembered as being a class leader in high school. "He was vice president of his senior class and graduated as either valedictorian or salutatorian," said Sam Lowry, who was a year ahead of Wadsworth.

James Owens with the local VFW Post says Wadsworth will probably be included during this Wadsworth's name appears on the year's observation of Memorial Day, but those Donley County War Memorial plans have not yet been made.

DRT recognizes Goodnight as citizen of Republic of Texas

There were pioneer descendants as well as cowboys and Indians on hand when the Claude resident Don Minkley, including "Come Daughters of the Republic of Texas (DRT) paid homage to legendary cattleman Col. Charles Goodnight last Saturday.

A bronze medallion affixed to Goodnight's tombstone was unveiled, proclaiming Goodnight as a "Citizen of the Republic of Texas."

Goodnight was born three days after Texas declared its independence from Mexico on March 2, 1836, and his family moved from Illinois to the young republic in 1845.

The ceremony, which drew a crowd of nearly 100, included a scripture reading and humorous anecdotes of the colonel passed down through the Goodnight family.

Cowboy music selections were sung by To The Bower" - which was reportedly sung on the battlefield of San Jacinto by the Texas Army.

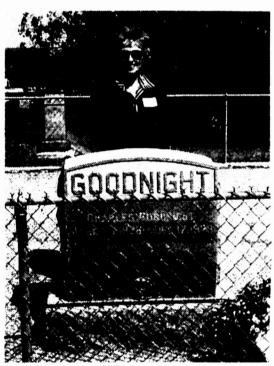

Bill Green from the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum served as principal speaker for the occasion and spoke of Goodnight's life and his role in settling the Panhandle region.

Also in attendance Saturday was Theresa Parker, the granddaughter of Indian chief Quanah Parker.

The DRT was formed in 1891 to preserve the memory of the families and soldiers of the Texas Republic. Today the organization has more than 100 chapters throughout the state.

Saturday's ceremonies were conducted by Clarendon's Ruth Robinson, a great great members of the Aaron Estes Chapter of the DRT niece of Goodnight, told a story passed down in in Midland and the Palo Duro Chapter of the DRT in Amarillo.

Republicans AWOL on tax relief

April 15 has come and gone, and Americans are once again recovering from their annual financial prostate exams from the federal govern-

This time we were supposed to feel much better about it because of all the "tax cuts" which went into effect this year - $500 per child and all that good stuff.

Frankly, I'm sick of these "targeted tax cuts" that our impeached president and our failed congressional leaders keep offering up. America needs tax relief across the board rather than tax cuts for those individuals who live their lives exactly the way Washington wants them to.

My taxes went down this year a total of eight dollars. That was due to a slight decline in income rather than any tax breaks coming my way. Eight dollars - boy, was I excited when I got that refund! I couldn't decide what to do first. Should I get myself an order of chicken strips, or should I get half a tank of gas for the truck? Decisions, decisions.

The Republicans - the supposed party of lower taxes - seem to be AWOL on this issue. They are neglecting the heritage of the Reagan Revolution. In trying to be the "get along" guys to assure their re-election each year, the GOP seems set on a course of compromising our freedoms away and watching the size of the federal government continue to in-

Representative Ron Paul summed it up best during an interview with REASON magazine. Predicting what will happen in the current Congress, the Texas Republican said: "There's a 99.9 percent chance that it [the federal government] will expand. We'll go up in taxes; we'll go up in regulations; and we'll see a continued attack on our personal liberties. There's been no reversal in those trends. I think spending is going to go up tremendously. But there will be a 'compromise.' Conservatives will get their type of spending, and liberals will get theirs."

Without a doubt, it would be hard for the Republicans to pass any broad based tax cut or significantly reduce the size of government if the impeached president - or his heir apparent for that matter - is in the White House. But by the same token, the Republicans don't have to surrender at every turn and give the liberals what they want.

If Republicans intend to have a future in either Congress or the White House, they would do well to start acting like a majority party. They should stop being intimidated by the national media and liberal activists who call them "mean." Above all, they should dust off the legacy of Ronald Reagan and march forward with a clear commitment to limited government and reduced taxes.

Currently, the lowest income tax bracket - for those making enough to have to pay taxes - is 15 percent. When you add in Social Security and Medicare payroll taxes, the "introductory" amount the government coerces from workers in this country is 30.3 percent - nearly a third. If you work hard, you will be bumped into higher levels of giving with 43.3 percent being the next step up. I love this country. While people are pulling themselves up by their bootstraps, the invisible foot of government is kicking them in the pants.

To be true to their heritage, Republicans should set for themselves the goal of reducing all Americans' net "contributions" to the federal kitty to one-tenth of personal income. To quote a song I once heard, "If ten percent is good enough for Jesus, it ought to be good enough for Uncle Sam." Amen to that.

Meanwhile...

After celebrating Sun Day and Moon Day early this week, everyone should be all set to celebrate Earth Day on Thursday. Perhaps in the coming weeks, we can also celebrate Mercury, Venus, Mars, and the rest of the solar system. Thursday was also "Leave Our Sons At Home or Make Them Go To School Day." A day more commonly known in feminist circles as "Take Our Daughters To Work Day."

Lost in all the touchy-feely liberal celebrations is a day of real importance. That day is San Jacinto Day.

It was 163 years ago Wednesday that Gen. Sam Houston won one of the most decisive victories in history in a battle that lasted less than 20 minutes. With the defeat of Santa Anna, the independence of the Republic of Texas and the freedom of all Texans and Tejanos were secured.

It is a shame that we hardly even commemorate this day, choosing instead to focus on saving a prairie dog or taking little girls out of the

'On your mark, get set... make a baby!"

The race is on. And oh boy, is it some kind of first baby of the race. Couples around the world are - umm, gearing up and getting into position to create the first babies of the new millenium.

This race has gotten so much publicity that hotels in major cities have been offering "Baby Making" specials. Go figure!

Even though couples are taking basal temperatures and watching menstrual cycles, the feat of having the first baby of the millennium is solely up to Mother Nature. Ask any woman who has watched her due date come and go. Mother Nature is the only one in control.

Maybe the excited couples are hoping their Grand Prize baby will bring more home than a little joy. All babies are sent home from the hospital with a goody bag. New Year's Day babies often have their photos in the local newspaper and may be given a gift basket by the chamber of commerce or even a savings bond from the hospital. Perhaps the millenium will win a college scholarship, free diapers, formula and baby food, and even a new minivan for mom and dad. See why so many people are entering the baby race?

Giving birth is stressful enough, but to do so while trying to beat a deadline? Pregnant women are bad enough, but a pregnant woman - in pain whose husband, geared with a video camera, is screaming, "Hurry, hurry, no pain, no gain!" I don't think I'd want to be a labor and delivery nurse on New Year's Eve.

With New Year's Day being both a holiday and a Saturday, hospitals may be caught off-guard if the proposed baby boom is true. Hospitals could even be immobilized with the "Chicken Little" Y2K computer crash. Pregnant women everywhere, crashed computers, anxious husbands, and overworked doctors and nurses... whew! There won't be any happy people anywhere.

Even though all calendars and sonograms may insinuate a millennium baby, less than ten percent of all expectant mothers deliver on their due date. And don't expect your doctor to induce or perform C-section in order for you to have the first baby of the new millennium. And speaking from personal experience, it doesn't help to physically threaten your doctor, either. Big tears and shoulder shaking sobs won't get you anything but a follow-up ap-

Kosovo threatens our military capabilities

Issue

Update

with Mac Thomberry

I opposed our military getting involved in Kosovo and have real concerns now about how we're going to pick-up its cost.

According to the Congressional Budget Office, our military has spent around $600 million on the operation so far and could end up spending over $1 billion a month until it stops. That money has got to come from someplace. This week, Congress will debate where that someplace will be.

There are basically three options to choose from. One, we could take the money out of the $300 billion more in 1998 than it did in 1992. hudget surplus, which is expected to be around $2.6. trillion over the next 10 years. It is critical that we don't further damage our ability to respond to other threats — which is why, if we've got to pay for the situation in Kosovo, I think it makes more sense to cut the fat out of a federal bureaucracy that's too bloated to begin with than to carve muscle out of a military that has got-

Four new teams join up with Walk Across Texas

By Sue Church, County FCS Agent There are now eighteen teams participating in the Walk Across Texas (WAT)

Campaign for Donley County. The new teams and their captains are: A+ Walkers - Diane Chamberlain; Something More Pacers - Ann Alexander; Wondergirls +1 - Medina Gribble; Walking Champs - Elizabeth Simmons.

To date over 3500 miles have been logged by these teams. The top three walkers are Carol Hall, Emmett Autrey and Kathy Carmichael. Although the teams have not been asked to keep track of weight lost, Ann Alexander reports that she is going to be a new person when these eight weeks are over. This week she walked 35 miles and has set the goal to lose some weight. To prove it she has taken some "before" pictures. Way to go, Ann! Also, the Retired and Senior Volunteer Program team has reported a total of 9 pounds lost over the last three weeks. Good job!

Call the Donley County Extension Office at 874-2141 if you have a team that would like to join the county in Walking Across Texas.

National Volunteer Week is April Senior Citizens volunteers truly provide the magic that makes our program work. Our volunteers bake cakes and pies, work fund raisers, sell chances, file, make afghans, deliver meals, do maintenance, hand out flyers, unload the food bank truck, wash the van, do dishes, work the front desk, set up the dining room, wrap silverware, carry lunch trays, attend board meetings, answer the telephone, make crafts, and do anything else that the Center needs done.

Every month there are approximately 25 people who volunteer at the Donley County Senior Citizens just in the Home Delivery program. During the month of March our workers accumulated over 300 hours! Our volunteers are dependable. They are loyal, supportive, and untiring. They give the gift of their time unselfishly out of true concern and love. The Donley County Senior Citizens staff wants to express our heartfelt gratitude to each one of our volunteers. Our program would not be possible without

Clarendon College student spotlight James Lee Potts

College students are involved in many extra-curricular activities, but for one Clarendon College student these activities could lead to political aspirations.

James Lee Potts is currently servng on the Hedley City Council.

When Potts' aunt, Kari Lindsey, resigned from the Hedley City Council, the eighteen-year- old was asked to fill the position.

"At first I didn't know if I wanted to do it," said Potts. "It has been an experience and a lot of fun.'

Potts, who serves on the City Council along with four other members plus the town Mayor, says that since being on the council, he has been involved in many important decisions during the monthly meetings. "In January we hired a new constable," Potts said. "It was the most important decision I have been involved in." Despite his political position as a not most important."

The sophomore student obviously views his classwork as being toward the top of his priority list. He currently maintains a 4.0 GPA and is active in Phi Theta Kappa, a national honor society for junior colleges, as well as serving as a peer tutor for the science department. He was recently named the Clarendon College Outstanding Student of the Year in Biology and the Outstanding Sophomore Student in Chemistry.

After graduating from Clarendon College, Potts plans to attend West Texas A&M University to pursue his bachelor degree in chemistry and then go on to medical school.
