Growth continues at MMH

Progress on the expansion of Muenster Memoriai Hospital for a new drug center there, in association with Beck Management Corp., is being made rapidly to hit the projected completion date of Feb. 1. The new facility, to be called Lakeview Adolescent Center, will be a 20-bed acute care unit for young people recovering from drug and alcohol abuse. Muenster Memorial Hospital will be providing medical, laboratory, records, dietary and laundry services for the program - one of the most progressive drug and alcohol treatment programs in the

State legislators speak out on proposals for new session

The two men who represent Muenster in the Texas Legislature say they have plans and proposals for the 71st session, ranging from improving the situation of rural hospitals to anti-cruising legislation

Sen. Steve Carriker, D-Roby, and Rep. Ric Williamson, D-Weatherford, represent areas that include Muenster. The session began at noon Tuesday.
Carriker on Monday told the Enterprise that an issue of interest to Muenster citizens that he plans to work with is rural health. He supports partnerships between supports partnerships between state, local and private founda-tions that would give loans to medical students to pay for their education, and then would allow education, and then would allow the students to reduce the amount of the loans for each year they worked in rural hospitals. A program of this sort, Carriker said, would help not only medical students, but also rural hospitals that are having difficulties attrac-ting professionals. "This would help get a more stable force in rural hospitals," he said.

Carriker also supports a bill to do away with the teacher career ladder. The career ladder, he said, has been expensive to administer and has not proven to be effective.

He advocates across-the-board pay increases for teachers, he said.

Among other issues, Carriker is working for a program to provide senior citizens with vouchers they could redeem in farmers markets. would help both the elderly and

According to the senator, the biggest problem facing the state legislature is school finance.

"The tax system cannot con-tinue in its present form," Williamson said. "Right now not everybody who owns property pays taxes. The burden hits middle-class, working people with kids the hardest."

Although Williamson said property taxes probabaly will have to be broadened, he does not ad-vocate adopting a state income tax because his constituents are fierce-

Voters to decide bond issue at county college

Cooke County College trustees this week voted their intent to call a $1.2 million bond election in May for major expansion of facilities on the Gainesville facilities on the Gainesville campus.

Trustees will consider hiring a financial adviser at their February meeting, and plan to set the election date for May during their March meeting, said CCC President Dr. Bud Joyner.

Total cost of the expansion project, which will be the first since the college was established in the early 1960s, will be $1.7 million. Of that total, $500,000 will be generated through a small increase generated through a small increase in tuition and student users fees. The $1.2 million will be subject to voter approval and will call for the issuance of general obligation bonds to be paid off over a 10-year period. Plans call for the construction of a new library, renovation of present library into general pur-pose classrooms and offices, and construction of a vocational training and continuing education

Record enrollment levels the past three years have totally exhausted available classroom space and have forced the college to scale down its community-based education programs, Joyner said. There also is inadequate library space, technical and health programs are poorly located because grams are poorly located because of inadequate space, and there is no room for new technical pro-

Should voters approve the bond package, the college district tax rate would increase by an estimated 2.3 cents, from the current 9.6 cents per $100 valuation of property, to about 11.9 cents, should county valuations remain the same. the same.

The average home in Cooke County, valued at $38,604 by Cooke County Appraisal District figures, would mean an increase of $8.87, from $37.21 annually to $46.08 $46.08. A home assessed at $100,000 would see a tax increase of $23 a year.

In order to obtain the $95,000 per year needed to pay off the revenue bonds through student use fees and tuitions, the board voted to raise the building student use fee to $10 per semester per student beginning with the fall of 1989. There also will be an increase in the out-of-district student surcharge from $1 per credit hour to $2 per credit hour. Those items would generate about $65,000 annually. The rest will come from student user fees, such as cosmetology or other lab fees.

Summary of proposed $1.7 million expansion plans at Cooke County College:

*Construct new library and parking. A 13,000-square-foot building will be constructed at an estimated $50 per square foot. About 200 parking spaces will be added, along with equipment and furnishings for the library. Total cost is $850,000.

*Renovate and convert existing library into at least seven general purpose classrooms, three purpose classrooms, three technical program laboratories, and space for faculty and office. Total cost is $240,000. *Construct a vocational training and continuing education center. An 8,500-square-foot facility will be built. It will provide facilities for credit vocational pro-grams, including cosmetology, specialized rooms for credit and non-credit courses, such as art and nutrition, and space for communinutrition, and space for community service programs. This will allow the 600 wing on campus to be used exclusively for the allied health program, which is now spread throughout the campus facilities. Total cost is $475,000.

*Architectural and contigency fees will cost $135,000. Total cost of renovations is $1.7 million.

A Muenster player and three from Lindsay have been named to the Class A All-State Football Team of the Texas Sports Writers Association released this week.

Muenster's J. Shane Wimmer, a senior, was named to the second team defensive back position.

The highest local honor went to Lindsay Senior John Fangman, who placed first team at the defensive line position. Lindsay's Craig Neu, a senior was named third team lineman, and Lindsay's Mike Dieter rounded out the list at defensive back on the third team roster.

Both Muenster Coach Bill Jump and Lindsay coach Grady Roller sang the praises of the players who were key elements in those teams making the playoff this year. Lindsay made it all the way to the state semi-finals, while Muenster got to the regional finals before "He gets thrown in with the defensive linemen, but we play him at defensive end," Roller said. This past season, Craig had 88 tackles, four fumble recoveries, nine quarterback sacks, and two interceptions.

Mike Dieter, at 5 ft. 11 in. and 170 lbs., had quickness that helped him during his high school playing years, Roller said. "He reads his keys real well," he said. "He knocked down a lot of balls Please See STATE, Page 7

Miss Hays and Cochran will meet the board of directors of the Denton County Historical Society to work out the status of the organization. Cochran said the board has already approved inclusion of the group within the society, but all operations of the chapter, such as the group's treasury, will remain independent. By becoming part of the society, the group could gain immediate tax-exempt status and could bring a greater awareness of the project to other historians in the area, he said.

Contact with state and federal representatives has been very official society of the society, and donations are currently being accepted. Contact with state and federal representatives has been very positive, and a decision concerning the operation of the farm could be made by March, Miss Hays said. The Department of Parks and Wildlife, which would be in charge of maintenance and operation of the history farm, should it become a reality, has a wide range of options in its preservations, she said. The department could choose anything from moving the buildings and equipment to another location all the way to developing a full-time living history museum, Miss Hays said.

Since there is a possibility the decisions could come quickly, it's points, pulled in 10 rebounds and recorded eight assists. Walterscheid received help aplenty from junior teammate LaBecah Hess who hit for 9 along with senior ace Lisa Hamric with 9. The senior trio of Vickie Schmitt, Noelle Hesse and Jennifer Fuhrmann scored 8, 7 and 6 respectively. Debbie Schmitt rounded out the scoring with 2. The Tigerettes returned to district competition Tuesday evening and overpowered a weak Lutheran team by a 89-16 count. The Tigerettes jumped out to a 22-3 first period lead and a 61-3 halftime advantage. With the starters only playing 13 minutes of the contest, the reserves were involved in most of the action.

Noelle Hesse scored 15 points, dished out six assists and recorded 11 steals in limited action. Michelle Walter, Lisa Hamric and Amy Walterscheid each hit for 12. LaBecah Hess scored 9; Amy Bayer, Jennifer Fuhrmann and Vickie Schmitt each hit for 6. Debbie Schmitt scored 5 and was followed by Janel Flusche, Janie Fisher and Vickie Bayer with 2 each. Fuhrmann controlled the boards as she pulled down 10.

Next action for the Tigerettes will be at Oakridge Friday at 6 p.m. The Oakridge boys and girls are currently in first place in the TAPS District II standings. Directions for Oakridge are: 35W to 820S to the Lancaster/Rosedale exit. Turn left on Rosedale and exit. Turn left on Rosedale and travel to 303 W. Pioneer PKY.

Greenbugs can cause economic damage to 3- to 4-inch tall small grain when a population goes above 100 per foot of drill row. If small grain is 6 to 10 inches tall, the infestation can go as high as 200 per foot of drill row before economic damage occurs.

200 per foot of drill row before economic damage occurs.

Greenbug damage can show up as yellowed circular spots of dead plants. However, many of the yellowing spots in fields are from wet weather. So check individual fields before treatment.

One way of checking infested plants for greenbugs is to mark off

One way of checking infested plants for greenbugs is to mark off a foot of drill row, and slap plants vigorously to dislodge greenbugs onto the ground where they can be counted. Placing a white piece of paper or a piece of plastic under plants before the aphids are dislodged will also help in counting the number of aphids.

Greenbug numbers increase fast when the temperature is about 50 degrees at night and about 72 degrees in the day. During this range of temperature, insects that normally feed on greenbugs are not active, but greenbugs can still give birth to young aphids and will continue to feed on plants. If the temperature goes below 40 degrees, aphids stop feeding, cease all activity and fall to the ground for protection from the cold. When warm weather returns, the aphids crawl back upon the plant and start feeding again. Greenbug numbers increase fast and start feeding again.

When damaging infestation occurs and treatment is needed, several wheat producers have gotten good control with the use of one of the following chemicals; Cygon, DiSyston, Ethyl or Methyl Parathion, Malathion or Thimet. Use these chemicals according to
