Weeks after the murder of the former Beatle, John Lennon, gun control agitators are still clamoring for a ban on all handguns. They are giving the nation a re-run of the well known contention which is heard every time a prominent person is shot...that "here is a crime which would not have happened if handguns had not been available."

It is amazing that they keep harping upon the weapon rather than the murderer. And it's no less amazing that they believe it would be possible to keep guns out of the hands of killers. The Lennon murder itself is proof that gun control can't be achieved. The Sullivan Law of New York, which is rated as the nation's strictest, did not prevent this murder.

Of course the most important consideration in this issue is common sense. Even the gun control cranks must understand that crimes are committed by people, not by guns or knives or clubs or any other weapons. Furthermore, they must understand also that anyone who intends to kill can find an adequate selection of weapons even if a handgun is not available.

Instead of gun control, the country needs to think more in terms of killer control, which itself begins with a return to basic morality, as told in the ten commandments and once observed in American justice. There was a time in our past when a known murderer was not set free because of some mistake in his arrest or prosecution. The present condition urgently needs to be changed, and for two reasons. First the knowledge that punishment will be certain and severe will prevent many persons from killing, and secondly there will be fewer killers in circulation because many previous offenders have been removed from society.

The nation's problem simply is a too soft-hearted public which is shocked by the old and effective standards of justice. They forget too soon about the victim of murder and then object to the "cruel and inhuman" punishment the killer deserves. As a result many vicious criminals soon return to society, and are even more inclined to crime than before. Having been through it before, they have less fear of justice. This same laxity also has a bad effect on the first time killer. He is less hesitant about murder because he sees so much crime go unpunished.

As regards severity of punishment, it's likely that the public would approve much tougher standards for the more serious crimes while reserving some of its sympathy for lesser offenses. To guard against under-sentencing, the penalties for many crimes ought to be mandatory. For instance, we can easily think of many murders for which the death penalty is the only just one. Likewise severity of penalty ought to be increased in many lesser crimes. When punishment becomes more certain and more severe we can be certain that crime will decrease.

As regards the cry-baby claim that punishment is cruel and inhuman, the only answer is that it is avoidable by the simple means of observing the law. A motorist has no one but himself to blame for a speeding fine. He knew in advance that he invited trouble if he exceeded the speed limit. Also, a killer has no one but himself to blame if he is given the death penalty for murder. He was forewarned that he forfeits his life if he takes another.

Realizing that there are certain mitigating circumstances in murder, as well as other crimes, it seems

VFD Adds Foam Inductor

With the addition of a foam inductor to their list of equipment, Muenster Firemen expect to be more efficient in fighting oil and gasoline fires.

The item was given to the fire department a short time ago by a group of owners and operators of oil leases in the Muenster area. The donors are Jimmy Jack Bifle, Richard Grewing, Don Hartman, Walter Stein of Dallas and owners of the Martin Trubenbach Lease.

The firemen's principle concern is in oil field fires, however, they are also better prepared for accidents such as wrecked tank trucks or gasoline fires in cars.

A year end report from Fire Chief Harvey Schmitt reveals that the firemen answered 57 fire calls in 1980, of which 36 were in the rural area and 21 in the city.

Grass fires accounted for 35 of the calls, and the tinder-dry condition during the heat and drought of July-August brought on 22 calls.

Other than the 35 grass fires, the calls were for 8 building fires, 1 oil tank fire, 6 vehicle fires, and 4 vehicle accidents. Others were false alarms and miscellaneous small fires.

Largest fires of the year were a mobile home at Henry Hacker, barn fires at Bruno Fleitman and H.N. Fuhman, vehicle fires at Endres Motor and Lloyd Trubenbach and a dust explosion at Muenster Mill.

The Muenster Fire Department has 26 active members as of Jan. 1, 1981. They and their years of membership are listed as follows. Don Abney 3, Clinton Endres 7, Jim Endres 1, Ronnie Felderhoff 3, Clyde Fisher 17, Mike Frost 5, Jim Gehrig 5, Alvin Hartman 29, Jerry Hennigan 3, Ervin Henschel 12, Steve Henschel 1, Andy Knabe 3, Henry Knabe 8, Herbie Knabe 16, Waylen Poole 1, Harvey Schmitt 16, Ed Schneider 26, Chris Sicking 3, Rex Simmons 3, Rick Stewart 12, Tom Swirczynski 8, Bob Vogel 16, Jim Vogel 13, Jim Voth 13, Bob D. Walterscheid 15, John Yosten 14, Henry Pels, who died during the year, was a 26 year member.

Registration for Draft in Progress

Draft registration time has arrived once again for another segment of this nation's young men. Males born in 1962 will register at post offices throughout the country from Jan. 5 to 10.

This is a registration for potential military service in case Congress decides that mandatory service is necessary.

This registration will be very similar to the one conducted last summer.

Draft registration at the beginning of this week was met in larger cities by some resistance in the form of protest by opponents of the registration. This resistance was met in one situation by a counter-protest by a World War II Army Colonel.

Other protest has stemmed from the fact that only males are required to register, which is claimed by some to be unconstitutional.

But for the most part, it seems the majority of people have been cooperative since statistics show more than 95 percent of eligible males have already signed up.

Other news reporters have said that the greatest advantage to early registration is the time it will save in case of an emergency.

In the case of such an emergency, government officials say they believe they can have troops ready in one month.

Without early registration, it is said it would be a month before the first person even registered.

Family Doctors Are In Short Supply

By Teresa Rainwater

Enterprise Staff Writer
Cooke County has twelve primary-care physicians, a 2,100 to 1 patient to doctor ratio. Most doctors say they would call an 800 to 1 ratio "ideal."

A recent study by the United States Public Health Service reveals that the Lone Star State is in need of at least 549 more primary-care physicians.

"Primary-care" specialties include family-practice medicine, obstetrics, gynecology, pediatrics and general internal medicine. Much of the need for such physicians is due to the inequitable distribution of doctors in the state.

There are less than 3,000 family practitioners in Texas.

A recent newsletter from the University of Texas Health Science Center at Dallas reports that there are 57 counties in Texas in need of family physicians. The most critical need is in small towns that have no medical care or have only one or two physicians burdened with impossible patient loads. Rural areas suffer from lack of nearby medical services with distances up to 80 miles or more to any type of hospital or doctor.

According to Dr. Marion Zetman, Chairman of the Division of Community Medicine at Southwestern Medical School in Dallas,

West Texans have to travel the greatest distances for medical care. Even in the larger cities and densely populated areas of the state, some persons must travel long distances. Zetman said a recent study in Dallas revealed that "some residents of Southeast Dallas travel from one to 250 miles to a physician."

The Texas Medical Association in 1980 reported 14,734 practicing physicians in Texas. With the state's population at 11,196,760, those figures signify a patient to doctor ratio of 759 to 1.

While those figures seem to reflect an adequate number of physicians, data compiled by the Office of Medical Information in Dallas show that 22 of Texas' 254 counties had no primary-care physician as of June 1980.

Even some larger counties reported a need for more primary-care physicians. Bexar County, which has San Antonio as its county seat, for example, needed approximately 100 additional primary-care doctors.

The need for primary-care physicians is even further exemplified by the number of practicing physicians in the "super specialties": such as general surgery, radiology, neurology, anesthesiology, and ophthalmology. Of the total number of doctors in Texas, 57 percent are in medical specialties. That leaves only 6,373 of the state's prac-

City Council Approves Rate Hike, Annex

An ordinance to increase water and sewer rates in Muenster was approved Monday by the Muenster City Council following a hearing at which no objections were voiced. Purpose of the raise was to adjust for inflation, and more so to get a head start on financing the new water well scheduled for drilling this summer.

The increase starts with a raise of the minimum charge from $4 to $6 for the first thousand gallons of water used. If the volume exceeds a thousand gallons, the next 9000 gallons will be charged at a rate of $1.00 per thousand, an increase of 25 cents over the current charge of 75 cents per thousand. After 10,000 gallons the rate will be $1.10 per thousand, an increase of 30 cents over the current rate of 80 cents per thousand. Applying the new and old rates, the charge for average consumption of 15,000 gallons would be increased from $14.75 to $20.50.

The charge for sewer service is also increased. As before the charge is based on the customer's average water use during the six winter months, November through April. Usually that average is about half of the volume used in summer months.

The minimum charge is increased from $1.75 to $2.00 for 1000 gallons used and the charge thereafter increases from 30 to 40 cents per 1000 gallons.

Comparative charges on the basis of 8000 gallons of water used would be $3.85 at the old rate and $4.80 at the new rate.

Annexation of four tracts of property to the city was approved Monday night by the Muenster City Council, but it's not official until a surveyor's plat can be presented specifying metes and bounds of the property concerned.

The owners are St. Richard's Villa, Shirley Eldred, Paul Endres and Wendell Richey, all cooperating to make it possible for the villa to be included in the city. The additions will be officially completed when the property dimensions become available for the annexation document.

The city also approved a proposed interim contract to be presented to the Muenster Water Board relative to conducting the Board's business until bonds are sold. The contract will enable the city to pay the project's expenses out of a fund which has been accumulating for several years from increased water rates. The arrangement makes it possible to postpone the sale of bonds, and payment of bond interest for about a year.

Al Hess was re-appointed to the city's zoning board, however Harold Flusche declined re-appointment and a vacancy remains until the next meeting. Others on the board are Sam Endres, Vincent Felderhoff and Earl Fisher.

Good News

Matthew 5:14-16: "You are the light of the world. A city set on a hill cannot be hid. Nor do men light a lamp and put it under a bushel, but on a stand, and it gives light to all in the house. Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works and give glory to your Father who is in heaven."

City Grants Franchise To Telephone Corp.

A franchise to provide telephone service in Muenster for the coming 35 years was granted to Muenster Telephone Corporation Monday night by the Muenster City Council.

The city declined to grant a request for a 50 year franchise on grounds that too many changes of relevant conditions are possible in these modern times. However the city compromised at 35 when told that the figure coincides with the company's financing program.

The previous franchise, for 50 years had been granted in 1930. The company, founded in 1903, operated without a franchise the first 21 years.

Regarding payment of an assessment for services of the Cooke County Appraisal District, the City Council adapted a wait and see attitude, tabling the issue until the next meeting. The reason given is that there have been objections to the budget and charges of the appraisal district, and the city prefers to see what others do.

Complying with the recommendation of its insurance company, the council voted to place barriers on the legs of the city water tower to prevent unauthorized persons from climbing it.

program. It gave him a chance to see first hand the variety of cases a small-town physician encounters, the planning of community health care, and the overall challenge of the continuing education necessary to "keep up" in such a practice. Kralicke said he felt his student left with a confirmed interest in family-practice medicine.

The Lone Star State is in need of at least 549 more primary-care physicians.

Dr. Bill Ross, head of the family-practice program at Southwestern Medical School in Dallas, said that in terms of human needs, doctors who go into family-practice touch the lives of their patients—people who need a physician, a confidant, a friend, a counselor: "Anyone who thinks we don't need more doctors like this in Texas had better open their eyes!"

Editor's note: This article is the first of two parts concerning the importance of family physicians in Texas.

The conclusion in next week's issue will deal with the preceptorship program in greater detail and how the program has been applied locally.

specializing, there is a shortage of family-practitioners in Texas. At present, there is a total of 14 family-practice residency programs in the state. The major goals of many medical school residency programs in Texas are to prepare physicians to practice medicine in small towns and to provide health care for its citizens.

The 65th Legislature, in 1977, mandated the training of family-practice physicians as a major goal for the state. Ann Harrell, assistant director of the Office of Medical Information for the Academy of Family Practice, explained a particular program being used in Texas to help medical students decide if family practice is for them. This "preceptorship program" offers the opportunity for a third or fourth-year medical student to get away from the academic world into a private clinical situation.

Mrs. Harrell said: "The medical student earns academic credit in the preceptorship program while living in a small town working with a family practice physician. This allows the student to see if he or she likes the type of medical practice and living in a small town."

"NATIONAL EDUCATION PROGRAM
Searcy, Arkansas

CARTER'S DEFENSE FORCES

Our national voting time has just passed. But we Americans are always voting on something.

It is the policy of the National Education Program not to come out in defense of a political party or a political candidate. We are sticking with that policy. But we do feel an obligation to present the facts regarding certain trends in our country in order to help our readers decide whether or not they want to support the same trends or whether they feel it is time to work for a change in regard to some trends.

The general state of the economy has deteriorated a great deal in the last decade and we are now facing a serious crisis with a national debt of nearly $900 billion, with a very disastrous rate of inflation, with by far the highest taxes this nation ever paid, with excessive unemployment and with decreasing productivity. It is not my intention at this time to go into details, however, about any of these although they are very important and indicate that we now face the greatest crisis in our history.

Aside from all of these issues perhaps the most vital concern is the state of the nation's defenses. Have our defenses gained strength over the past several years or have they lost strength? The answer is vital to the future of every American and to the future of the nation itself. American voters need to know the facts. Under the circumstances it is probably good to look to our Congressmen for the facts in the case.

Senator Jake Garn of Utah recently spoke on this matter and his comments were carried in the Congressional Record as follows:

"When President Carter took office in 1977 the United States had ten divisions based in the United States. All were rated C-1 which designation meant they were in full combat readiness. Three years later six of these ten divisions were rated C-4, not combat ready. The other four were rated as marginally C-2 or C-3, combat ready. None of these were rated C-1 — fully combat ready.

"The troops of the so-called rapid deployment force come from three divisions, two of which are rated C-4, not combat ready. Indeed Army Chief of Staff, General Edward Meyer has stated publicly that we have a hollow army.

"Twenty percent of the U.S. Navy ships are not combat ready due to manpower shortages. This includes 20 percent of the Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean, 32 percent of the Seventh Fleet in the Western Pacific and even 18 percent of the ships in the Indian Ocean. In at least two instances, Navy captains have refused to sail because their ships were dangerously undermanned by even peacetime standards.

"The Air Force and the Navy suffer severe shortages of pilots and their aircraft have an extremely low rate of readiness. Even the Marine Corps does not rate any of its three divisions as fully combat ready. Today the United States has only 20 percent of the air cargo capability that it needs to support the first 20 days of a national conflict. The bottom line, as the Chairman of the Joint Chief of Staff has noted, is that the size, readiness, and sustainability of U.S. conventional forces cannot insure the success of the strategy they are required to support.

General Richard Ellis, Commander in Chief of the Strategic Air Command has stated that they are incapable of supporting the strategy set for them.

A Tribute to Leonard Endres

The following article, written by the late Dr. T.S. Myrick on August 14, 1954, is published here as a memorial to Len who served Muenster with distinction as mayor and civic leader during the last years of his life.

August 14, 1954
By Dr. T.S. Myrick

About two weeks ago there appeared in the Muenster Enterprise an item about one Leonard J. Endres. This article announced his appointment as general manager of the Armour & Co. plant at Columbus, Ohio, and his 18 years of service with the company.

He is also the father of nine children (six living). "Booby" was born of Meinrad Endres and Kate Fisch. He spent his entire youth in Muenster and often worked in his father's General Merchandise Store that was located where the present Post Office is now in operation.

The old women loved having him wait on them, because he was kind and considerate, and the young ones, of course, because of his good looks.

He was a friend to all, even as a boy, and his common greeting was "Hi, neighbor."

He commenced his career with Armour & Co. in 1936, and he worked in every department of the packing industry: the vaults, the processing division, salesman, and office; and all this time with his star hitched to the general manager-ship of one of the biggest businesses in the world.

After about 16 years of training, Doc was impatient and thought it was about time the company used his talents, but not Booby. He said, "No! I've got to learn how to speak in public." He took instructions under Fr. Langenhorst of Fort Worth, who despite his foreign extraction and his infirmity, is one of the great speakers of all time.

Booby was general manager at Huron, S. Dakota, where his success gave him yet another promotion. He became assistant manager at Omaha, Nebraska, which is the greatest packing center in the world and probably greater than all other packing centers combined. He is now general manager at Columbus, Ohio, and has a few more rungs to climb in his ladder of success, but his is a story of good looks, ability, pleasing personality, but most of all his determination, endurance and hard work to success.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — Last session the Legislature almost passed a bill which would have allowed low-level nuclear waste dumps in Texas.

This session the bill will probably sail through, although the waters may get a bit choppy.

And sometime in the future, probably not this year, the Legislature will approve waste dumps for high-level nuclear waste.

In fact, it may be virtually impossible to stop creation of nuclear waste dumps in the Lone Star State because all three of the national dumps have now been closed to out-of-state users.

Illinois just put the final touches on enforcement of its new state law banning out-of-state waste at its site. Earlier, waste dumps in South Carolina and Nevada were closed to out-of-state dumpers, including Texas.

Texas currently produces low-level nuclear waste at hospitals and laboratories. When the nuclear power plants at Bay City and Glenrose are completed, high-level waste will be generated. Facing stark reality, Texans will have to set aside a place to store its nuclear offal.

Not When, But How?
The important question to Texas citizens is not if or when Texas will create the nuclear dump site, but "how?" What legal safeguards will be approved, and will they be sufficient to protect citizen health from radioactivity? For politicians who must vote on the controversial issue, the key question is where to put the dump?

It seems only right that if Texas generates nuclear waste for the benefit of its citizens, then it must accept the responsibility of storing the hazardous nuclear waste somewhere within its borders. But should Texas allow other states to dump their nuclear trash here, possibly to the harm of Texans?

"Bad Ol' Bill"
The nuclear dump bill which passed the House but failed in the Senate last session was regarded by many as one of the worst bills of the lot. The sorest point was a $200 fine for improper dumping or packaging of nuclear waste, which one legislator called "an open invitation to out-of-state waste producers to come dump their trash in Texas."

Considering that $200 is the maximum fine for throwing your beer cans and candy wrappers out the car window, he might have a point. Waste producers who ship their improperly packaged nuclear material by truck through Texas cities and towns ought to be slapped with something more than a fine equal to littering.

"Somewhere in West Texas" is the site most often mentioned for any Texas nuclear dump. Few legislators would be willing to allow a nuclear dump in their home district. Besides the potential for harm to health and life, it is generally assumed that property values in the area will go down. Dump sites might also appear closer to power plants than West Texas. The location will be an intriguing guessing game, and political futures will hinge on the outcome.

Census Decision
Texas may be able to begin the redistricting process this session, thanks to a ruling by the U.S. Supreme Court last week which cleared the way for the Census Bureau to report its population figures to Congress. Justice Potter Stewart had issued an emergency order overriding a lower court prohibition on reporting the statistics. Minority groups have legally challenged the validity of the census statistics and sought to delay their release.

Texas Atty. Gen. Mark White had asked for Stewart's action to prevent delay of release of the Texas statistics.

The Legislature is scheduled to receive the census report sometime in early April, leaving only a scant two months to redistrict Texas before the Legislature adjourns June 1. State law allows a redistricting board to complete any work left unfinished by the Legislature, but the work must be initiated during a regular session of the Legislature. Thus, a two-month delay in reporting the figures to Texas will set back redistricting here by two years.

School Budget
State budget planners have proposed that Texas spend $7.2 million on elementary and secondary education during the next biennium. The bill will be footed by both state and local government.

The Legislative Budget Board also recommended the state can avoid more civil rights lawsuits by appropriating an additional $20 million to predominantly black universities.

A worried Mark White told the board that a $53 million cut in the budget request by two black universities was being viewed by federal officials as a re-entrenchment by the state in its commitment to compliance with civil rights laws.

White predicted that if the budget cuts remained, it would be only a matter of days before a formal accusation of racial discrimination would be filed.

Real, meaningful arms control and reduction is a dream of all who love peace. But to achieve these ends, we must look realistically at possible courses of action.

Experience has proven that unilateral restraint on our part — such as the cancellation of the B-1 bomber — does not motivate the Soviet Union to take reciprocal action. As one top Carter Administration official said, if we arm, the Soviet Union arms. If we fail to arm the Soviets still arm. In fact, over the past decade, the Soviet Union has outspent us by $240 billion on defense. That means the Soviets already are engaged in an arms race, but it's a one-sided race.

The SALT II treaty actually was neither arms control nor arms reduction, because it would have allowed the Soviets to beef up their strategic forces while following the letter of the treaty.

The Soviets view arms limitations talks as hard bargaining sessions. They will press for the deal that is most advantageous to their interests. During the last stages of the SALT II talks, at least, we were simply out-negotiated.

How do we get back on the road toward real arms control? We will never be successful in negotiating with the Soviets unless they believe we have the national will to have a truly strong national defense system. If we will cut back our own defense programs without demanding reciprocity, we have little left to use as bargaining chips.

But our capacity for increasing our defense system actually is much greater than the Soviet Union's. That nation does not have the slack in its industrial capacity to increase its arms production much above its current level. The United States, on the other hand, could sustain a large increase if it possessed the national will. In short, if we were inclined to enter an all-out arms race, we would win. And the Soviets know that. That knowledge is our best chance at achieving real arms reduction.

When the Soviets become convinced that we have the national resolve to build a national defense system that is at least truly equal to theirs, then they will realize it is in their best interests to enter into serious and meaningful negotiations.

Survey data, my mail, and my own conversations with people indicate that the American people have the necessary national will to rebuild our sadly neglected defenses. I expect the new Administration and the new Congress to work together to meet our most pressing needs.

We must begin immediately. Only a truly strong defense will deter the Soviet Union from global aggression. And only a strong U.S. defense will make the Soviets interested in arms reduction.

When we accomplish this, then we can begin the business of hammering swords into plowshares.

A Reader Comments on Transcendental Meditation

Dear Editor:

Belated holiday greetings! I would like to respond to the article, "The Age of Enlightenment," written by Teresa Rainwater in the December 19, 1980 issue of the Muenster Enterprise. In no way do I wish to attack the writer of this article (it was excellently written) but desire to express my viewpoint on Transcendental Meditation from a Biblical perspective.

It's true that TM does not claim to be a religion or cult but an educational institute designed to help people, but in reality it is. TM has changed its image throughout the years that they may have more "open doors" for their movement. In the writings of Maharishi, the present leader of TM, he makes it clear that TM was delivered to man about 5,000 years ago by the Hindu god Krishna.

When a person practices TM, whether the person knows it or not the person is engaging in the practice of Hinduism. To begin practicing TM an individual must go through an initiation ceremony which basically praises the Hindu leaders throughout history who are spoken of as gods. For a Christian to go through this initiation ceremony it is in clear violation of scripture (Leviticus 26:1 and Exodus 20:2-5). There is a large difference between what TM says it is and what in reality it is. TM is basically another religion/cult which is a "tool" of Satan to draw people away from the one true God (Timothy 2:3-6).

Maharishi has described TM as "a path to God" and "fulfillment of every religion." Jesus said, "I am the way, the truth, and the life; no one comes to the Father, but through Me." (John 14:6 and Acts 4:12). Throughout history mankind has sought innumerable ways to reach God and the ways are multiplying as man becomes more desperate and hardened to God's way to salvation—Jesus Christ.

There is one real basic difference between Christianity and all the other religions, cults, and movements in the world. Religion is basically man's attempt to reach God, whatever that way may be. Christianity is different in that God has come down to man, to reach man in Jesus Christ. The scriptures say that all man's efforts are worthless (in regards salvation), and what Jesus Christ did at Calvary is all that counts, in enabling man to get in a right relationship with God (Ephesians 2:8-10).

Though TM does not openly admit it, it is just another man-made system to reach God, and though it may temporarily fulfill some of its promises, only Jesus Christ can provide a truly abundant life. He said, "I came that they might have life and have it abundantly." (John 10:10.)

A Christian should have nothing to do with TM other than to try to show its adherents from a Biblical viewpoint the deception of this religious system. The scriptures say that as we draw nearer the Lord's return, false religious systems and leaders will increase, and as Christians we need to be well grounded in the scripture that we may not be led astray (Matthew 24:4-14). Those who check for counterfeit money don't study counterfeit money but study what real money looks like, so that they can identify counterfeit currency. By way of comparison, a Christian needs to understand the scriptures so that he can identify a false set of beliefs when he comes in contact with them (Timothy 3:16-17). I personally don't know all the details and teachings of TM, but I do know scripture well enough to know that TM is another diversion of Satan to draw people away from the one true God—Jesus Christ (John 17:3). Thank you.

Sincerely yours,
Tom Hess

P.S. I really enjoy reading your paper each week. I think you all are doing a great job.

SAVING TIPS

on electric heating

1. Keep heating equipment at top operating efficiency. Have it checked seasonally by qualified serviceman.
2. Set thermostat at 68° or lower. Lower to 50° - 60° if you'll be away several days.
3. Weatherstrip doors and windows; caulk cracks to prevent drafts and warm air loss.
4. Check the filter every 30 days on forced-air systems. If filter is permanent, clean it by manufacturer's directions; if it's disposable, replace if dirty.
5. Thorough home insulation keeps the warmth in, cuts energy use. Can pay for itself by lowering heating (and cooling) costs.
6. When fireplace is not in use, keep damper closed.
7. On sunny days open draperies, blinds to let in warmth of sun.
8. Open outside doors as little as possible.
9. Keep furniture, draperies away from air outlets and returns so air will flow easily. Clean often.

National FB Convention Scheduled Next Week

More than 125 Texas Farm Bureau members are planning to attend the 62nd annual meeting of the American Farm Bureau Federation Jan. 11-15 in New Orleans.

Texas Farm Bureau will send 19 voting delegates this year — the largest number in history from this state — to help decide national Farm Bureau policies for 1981. Representation is based on membership, which stands at 263,000 in Texas Farm Bureau.

Among the proposals to be considered are the recommendations adopted at the TFB convention in San Antonio in early December. Delegates from the 49 state Farm Bureaus (all except Alaska) and Puerto Rico, who represent the 3.3 million member families in the organization, will participate in the business session on the final two days of the meeting.

Several well-known leaders will address the annual meeting. They include Robert B. Delano, AFBF president; General William C. Westmoreland, honored military man and former head of West Point Military Academy; and Paul A. Volcker, chairman of the Federal Reserve System.

Spectacular entertainment is planned for delegates — Pete Fountain and his jazz band will entertain at the New Orleans Superdome on Tuesday evening, Jan. 13.

TFB President Carrol G. Chaloupka, Dalhart, will head the 19 delegates from Texas, who comprise the present TFB Board of Directors and five former directors. Chaloupka also will preside at a wheat and feed grains conference on Monday afternoon, Jan. 12.

The other, concerning solar power which is fast becoming more and more widespread as a source of energy, will first be devoted to general information on solar power and become more detailed in later issues.

The Enterprise welcomes any comment on these new features which we hope you'll agree are enjoyable as well as informative.

roaming mobile units calls not registered in Muenster. It will allow you to place messages in the machine that can be delivered later. It will allow you to call in a message for someone, to be delivered later. Other services available in the future that is unheard of today.

At the City council meeting Monday night the City Council renewed the telephone franchise for an additional 35 years.

Local telephone service started in Muenster in 1909 with a small wall mounted switchboard in Mrs. Horn's home with Mrs. Horn as the first operator. The Muenster Mutual Telephone Company was founded in 1911, and incorporated in 1927.

50 Year History of Muenster Telephone Corp.

1930 When the first franchise was granted 50 years ago, Mrs. J.S. Horn was the operator of the manual switchboard which was in the living room of her home. There were about 300 telephones in the system at the time. The oil boom had just hit Muenster, the town had just recently been incorporated. The Telephone Company had just recently been incorporated, also in 1927.

1937 Jake Horn Jr. became the first full time repairman. He is Mrs. Horn's son.

1943 Ice storm and tornado left 15 telephones working. Miss Elizabeth Herr started working for the telephone company.

1945 Two army surplus common battery switchboards were installed. This did away with the crank telephones in town. Just pick up the receiver and signal the operator.

1949 A January ice storm hit, and all lines went down to the ground. About 35 telephones close to the telephone office continued to work. Two brothers, Bill and Alvin Fuhrman, were hired to rebuild the lines. Before they were all back on, another ice storm struck and they all went down again. This year operators started to say "Number Please" instead of "Central".

1950 Alvin Fuhrman was drafted into the Army and Bill Fuhrman returned to school in St. Louis. Tom McCulley took over as repairman for Herman Younger. During this time telephone service was returned to Marysville. Tom McCulley quit the telephone company shortly after this and Hugh Jackson was the repairman.

1952 Alvin Fuhrman returned from service and returned to the telephone Company.

1955 A 10-line switchboard was installed in an old bank vault in Forestburg and service extended to 28 subscribers in the town of Forestburg.

1956 Myra was added to the Muenster system in July. A 30-line dial board was installed there with 60 telephones.

1957 Telephone service was extended to Rosston with 30 telephones in that area. It had been 27 years since telephone service there.

1958 The Company exceeded 750 total telephones. 1960 The 10-line dial board in Forestburg was replaced with a 50-line dial board.

1961 The assets of Muenster Telephone Company were purchased by Alvin Fuhrman and Bill Miller as co-owners. June 30th showed a total of 821 telephones.

1962 Telephone offices built at Muenster, Myra and Forestburg. Contracts for the completion of 89.99 miles outside plant were awarded to B.L. Huddleston of Meridan, Mississippi.

Dove hunters did extensive damage to new cables. 149 subscribers received service for the first time.

1963 May 4th, 2 p.m. Saturday afternoon. Muenster was converted to dial operation. Myra and Forestburg were cut-over to new offices a few days earlier. The Muenster system was now 100% dial. The cut-over was made with 970 telephones. Open house on May 19 had 600 people attending.

1964 January, mobile telephone was started with 12 mobile units. The antenna was placed on the City water tower.

1965 Telephone service was returned to the Leo community after 45 years. Six new subscribers on 5 miles of buried cable.

1966 Telephone company was awarded CATV franchise for the City of Muenster.

1968 March 31 showed 1227 telephones including 21 mobile units. May 1, 5 years after dial service started in Muenster and 59 years after local telephone service was started in Muenster, the first live Television program was carried on the TV cable. Cable system had 50 subscribers.

1971 Construction started on all one-party service. All rural lines were buried and central office equipment added to give all one-party service. Direct-Distance Dialing was started on October 17. Mayor Arthur Felderhoff made a direct dialed call to Congressman Graham Purcell in Washington. Rosston exchange was cut into service this year, giving one-party service and direct distance dialing to Rosston and Leo communities.

1974 Telephone company moves into new warehouse facilities.

1976 Governor Dolph Briscoe signed utility commission into law. Addition to Telephone office completed. Telephone company asked for and received its last rate increase.

1977 Muenster Telephone company purchased the Valley View Telephone Company which had 473 subscribers in two exchanges.

1981 Today the Muenster system is serving 2994 telephones with subscribers in 6 exchanges in the south & east part of Cooke County and SW part of Montague county. Muenster has 948 subscribers with 30 mobile telephones. Myra has 112 subscribers, Rosston 98, Forestburg 243, Valley View 410 and Valley View East 184.

Mrs. Bobby Yosten Wins Grand Prize In Recipe Contest

Mrs. Bobby Yosten of Eules is the grand prize winner of a holiday cookbook recipe contest sponsored annually by the Mid-Cities Daily News. Mrs. Yosten and her husband and their children Codi and Terri visit frequently in Muenster with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Al Yosten.

She used a recipe for a coconut cake which she found in the Friends of the Library Cookbook, "Cooking With Friends." It was originally submitted to that project by Mrs. Louise Fisher of Muenster. The only variations used by Mrs. Yosten were frozen coconut instead of packaged shredded coconut, and Mexican vanilla instead of conventional vanilla. The recipe follows:

Cake
2 cups sugar, 5 eggs, separated, 1 stick margarine, 1/2 cup Crisco, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 cup buttermilk, 2 cups coconut, 1 cup chopped pecans, 2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon vanilla
Cream sugar, egg yolks, margarine and Crisco together. Add soda to buttermilk and blend into creamed mixture. Add coconut, pecans and sifted flour. Mix well. Fold in stiffly-beaten egg whites and vanilla. Divide batter into 3 greased and floured layer cake pans. Bake in preheated oven at 350 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes.

Frosting
2 8 oz. pkgs. cream cheese 1/2 stick margarine, 1 lb. box powdered sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla, pinch of salt
Combine softened cream cheese and margarine; beat until creamy. Add powdered sugar, vanilla and salt. Mix until smooth. Spread between layers, over top and side of cake. May sprinkle layers with additional coconut if desired.

For winning the top prize in the contest, Mrs. Bobby Yosten received an outdoor Ducane Gas Grill given by Lone Star Gas Co.

Candle. Claude and Mark gave the Readings and Doyle gave the special petitions written by the family. At the Offertory Mrs. Wayne Klement described the gifts presented at the altar. Grandchildren Kevin and Donna Wolf, Chris and Misty Klement, Susan, Brenda and Darren Jones presented Offertory gifts. Mrs. Larry Jones offered the family's traditional baptismal gown; Mrs. Billy Don Wolf presented her mother's "Mother's Ring"; Dea Swirczynski offered the original wedding picture; and Billy Don Wolf presented a jar of milk, indicative of the couple's way of life for the past 40 years.

At the Communion Meditation, Wayne Klement read his original poem in tribute. Anthony Luke was organist and Mrs. Emily Klement, a cousin, sang

Clyde Richard Gets Religion

My old pal Clyde Richard was the meekest kid in the world. Everybody said so. Adults could sense his presence long before he came in sight. Hardened men would cross the street to avoid him. Women treated his mother like she had just had a death in the family.

My contact with this remarkable boy was through a country Baptist church, where we were both members of the Booster Band.

The job of a Booster Band member, as nearly as I could ever make it out, was to eat cake, drink punch and sing songs for the benefit of the adults, some of whom slept through our performances. Sleeping, however, was a tough proposition with Clyde Richard around.

Our theme song was "Booster, Booster, be a booster. Come join our Booster Band," repeated several times in slightly different time. It was custom-made for Clyde Richard, who invariably bawled out, "Rooster, Rooster, be a rooster. Come join our Chicken Band."

Nothing could prevent his performance. If his parents refused to let him be in the Booster Band, he would sing along anyway, from the audience, which was a whole lot worse. If they left him at home, which they were deathly afraid to do lest he burn the house down, he would walk across the mountain and sing through the window.

We had another song, a holdover from the war that went, "I'm too young to fly over Germany, March in the infantry, Shoot the artillery, But I'm in the King's army." This song had pantomimes; when we were flying over Germany, we got to flap our arms. Clyde Richard was big on flapping. In fact, he would beat the people on either side of him unmercifully. Our teacher, who was Clyde Richard's aunt, always tried to make sure he didn't get lined up next to one of the smaller girls.

When we were marching in the infantry, we got to march in place. The teacher always tried to put Clyde Richard in a different spot each Sunday, for fear that he would stomp a hole through the floor if allowed to work on the same spot continuously.

We also got to shoot the artillery, of course, and this part was Clyde Richard's crowning glory. He would make a tremendous explosion noise, complete with a recoil designed to knock over three or four little girls and a bench or two. Then he would finish it all off with the screams of dying Germans.

The congregation toughed it out for about three months before our Booster Band got the ax.

Clyde Richard's suffering parents got the notion that if they could somehow get him to join the church, and actually become a registered Baptist, he would automatically go to acting more or less like a human being. They kept at him until he finally promised that, on a certain Sunday morning, he would join.

He and I generally slipped off to play until we heard the final hymn being sung, but on the fatal Sunday I got caught making my escape and he ran off into the woods alone.

When the last hymn started, I could see his parents craning their necks trying to locate him. His daddy was turning very red and he was muttering to himself.

It was summertime and the windows were open.

I saw Clyde Richard come drag-footing up to a window that opened between the front row and the choir. Everybody else saw him, too, and the singing faltered slightly as everybody nudged their neighbor as if to say, "There he is! What you reckon the little heathen will do this time?"

Then he climbed through the window — about there, the singing almost died out — and shuffled over to the preacher, who wasn't at all certain what he should do with such an irregularity. He soon recovered his composure, however, and had Clyde Richard lined up to receive the customary right hand of Christian fellowship. It didn't happen, though, because Clyde Richard, having fulfilled his promise as he saw it, went back out the window before the first shaker could get to him.

We used to baptize in a long water hole in the Sabannah River. When Clyde Richard's time to be baptized came, he was the only candidate; none of the other sinners were tough enough to be in the same group with him.

While the preacher was reciting the baptismal ceremony, Clyde Richard was trying to catch a fish he saw in the water. So intent was he on that fish that the preacher took him by surprise when he popped a handkerchief over his face and put him under. He kicked one foot clear up out of the water and fought so that he nearly made the preacher fall.

They finally got straightened out, and the preacher was doing his best to restore dignity and somehow keep everybody from hearing the cussing Clyde Richard was doing, which, of course, was what they most wanted to hear. The songleader (Clyde Richard's uncle) jumped up and started in on "Shall We Gather At The River" in as loud a voice as he could manage. He gave it up when Clyde Richard turned and went swimming off down the Sabannah.

His daddy hit the bank at a high lope. I saw him stop in a sumac thicket and cut a club-sized switch. I can testify that if a boy can be made to change his ways, or can be beaten to death with a sumac trunk, the saga of Clyde Richard would've ended right there. Neither of those things being true, Clyde Richard went on to become a living legend. Sort of like Jesse James.

"Come join our chicken band."

Drought Goes On

The drought of 1980 continues into 1981. Steve Moster's moisture readings of the past week were all dry, just as they were for the last three weeks of December. The last recorded rain was 1.73 inches on December 7, 8 and 9, and the last before then was 1.30 in November. All this adds to a full month of dry weather following two months of skimpy rainfall. Adequate moisture dates back to Oct. 1980, and the total rainfall for '80 was 27.14 inches. Low and high temperature readings of the past week as recorded by Steve Moster, have been near normal, as follows, Jan. 1, 40 and 66; Jan. 2, 29 and 66; Jan. 3, 30 and 60; Jan. 4, 24 and 48; Jan. 5, 30 and 47; Jan. 6, 44 and 62; Jan. 7, 27 and 56.

SOLAR FACTS

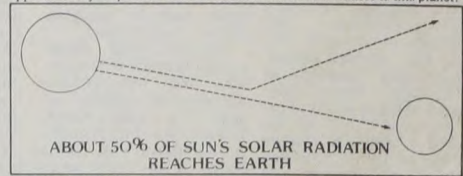

by Robert E. Lewis

A LOOK AT SOLAR ENERGY

Solar energy is the heat that comes from the sun. This energy is produced at the sun's core, which can be likened to a gigantic thermonuclear furnace. Every second this thermonuclear furnace converts more than 4 million tons of the sun's matter into energy. This energy is then radiated throughout the universe in the form of heat and light.

While our planet receives just a small portion of the sun's total energy output, we are unable to capture all of the solar energy that reaches the earth's atmosphere.

One-third of the sun's radiation is reflected back to space from the clouds and atmospheric dust. Another 10 to 15 percent is absorbed by the atmosphere's water vapor, carbon dioxide and ozone. That leaves us with approximately 50 percent of the total solar radiation available to this planet.

Even though the earth's surface captures only one-half of the available solar radiation, the potential of this energy source is astounding. If we could fully utilize all of the sunshine falling on the earth's surface during a single day, the entire world's energy needs could be satisfied for 15 years!

To better use the sunlight that is available to us requires concentrating the sun's rays. Although we often think of sunlight as being intensely bright and hot, the sun does not actually deliver much energy to any single spot at any particular moment. In addition, the amount of solar energy radiated to any one place on earth depends on the time of day, season, latitude and weather conditions.

Solar energy technology, then, is based on developing devices that can concentrate the sun's rays so they can be harnessed for domestic energy use.

In the United States, modern research on ways to use solar energy began during the 1930s. In 1954, scientists formed the Association of Applied Solar Energy to investigate methods of employing the sun's energy for domestic use.

By the 1960s, solar-energy homes were appearing around the country. And in 1974, following the fuel shortages and price escalations caused by the Arab Oil Embargo, Congress called for a vigorous solar energy research program to further develop this promising technology.

Today, the use of solar energy to heat our homes is a part of modern living. More than 40,000 homes around the country currently use solar energy systems to provide substantial portions of their heating needs. Some of these solar heating systems rely on hardware and mechanical equipment to collect and distribute heat (active systems). Others rely only on building's architectural design elements and its orientation toward the sun (passive systems).

By the year 2000, more than 20 million American homes and untold thousands of commercial buildings will be using solar energy systems to meet their energy needs.

In future columns, we will explore the various ways that solar energy is being used in our daily lives. This will include discussions of solar concepts, types of solar energy systems, new solar products and materials, legislative and community programs involving solar energy, and a look at some of the ways to convert a traditional home into a solar home.

In the meantime, you can learn more about harnessing solar energy by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to:

SH Sweeps Twin Bill with MHS

Sacred Heart basketball teams stepped to the front of local rivalry Friday night by taking both ends of a double header program with Muenster High. Both games were decisive, The Tigers winning 43-28 and the Tigerettes 47-32.

Despite the one sided scores, the games were lively and interest was intense in the packed house of enthusiastic supporters. Referring to an emotional atmosphere Coach Nix of the Hornets said that players and fans of both sides are to be commended for their sportsmanship.

The Hornets made a good start, leading 10-9 at the first quarter and practically sealed their doom in a terrible second period, which ended 25-14 favoring the Tigers. After that the Tigers gained 3 in the third and 1 in the fourth for leads of 32-18 and 43-28. The big problem, Nix said, was poor shooting. The Hornets' normal percentage of over 30 on field goals dropped to under 20. On the other hand Coach LeBrasseur credits the strong Tiger defense for the score.

Monte Endres with 20 rebounds and Gene Fuhrman with 14 were king pins of the Tiger defense. And the scorers were Endres 17, Fuhrman 5, Greg Walterscheid 10, Kirk Mollenkopf 7, Brian Bednorz 4.

The Hornet point makers were Kevin Felderhoff, Ricky Winn and Steve Luke, each 8, and Tim Schneider 4.

The Tigerettes were at their season's best, in the opinion of Coach LeBrasseur, as they gained in all periods for leads of 16-10, 26-19, 34-24 and 47-32.

The Muenster High scorers were Charlotte Fleitman 11, Sandy Wimmer 8, Stephanie Richey 4, Carla Walterscheid 3, Kyla Hale 2, Peggy Winn 2, Mary Winn 2.

Top SH scorers were Carol Walterscheid 16, Susan Walterscheid 9, Anne Felderhoff 6.

Is it good? It was. Getting set for a rebound in case of a miss are Kevin Felderhoff, Larry Fleitman and Steve Luke of MHS; Greg Walterscheid, Monte Endres and Brian Bednorz of Sacred Heart. Janie Hartman photo

Clydesdales Will Visit Muenster

The world renowned Clydesdales of the Anheuser Busch Company will be on display Thursday, January 15, 1 to 5 p.m. east of the A-OK Motel in Muenster.

A Budweiser tradition for more than 40 years, the Clydesdales travel some 40,000 miles annually for over 400 public appearances, ranging from regional to national events.

Each Clydesdale weighs over a ton and stands at least 18 hands high. The eight horses that pull the 3 1/2 ton wagon wear custom-made black and brass harnesses, valued at $30,000.

The public is invited to see—and photograph—the gentle giants, as they are called, during their visit, which is made possible through the efforts of Gilbert Endres Distributing company, area distributor of Anheuser-Busch beers.

In case of bad weather, the Clydesdales will be shown at the Hadley Ranch arena on Highway 373 north of Muenster.

MHS Varsity Splits 2 in Valley View

Muenster High teams lost two of their three contests at Valley View. The Hornets won their first district game of the season, for a present standing of 1-2 and the Hornets dropped their third district game.

A big first half did the job for the varsity girls. They led 6-2 at the first quarter and 20-4 at the second, and then survived as Valley View trimmed their lead by 9 points in the second half. Scores of the third and fourth quarters were 22-12 and 36-29. Point makers were Stephanie Richey 12, Kyla Hale 8, Charlotte Fleitman 8, Sherri Hess 7, Carla Walterscheid 1.

The Hornet effort was a disaster, with practically everything going sour. MHS was in foul trouble early and lost Fleitman, Winn and Luke soon after intermission, whereas Felderhoff survived with 4 fouls. And the situation was worsened by two technical calls on coach Nix. As a result the Eagles had abundant free throw opportunities, and scored on 19 of the 30. Meanwhile the Hornets had a tragic record of 5 free throws out of 14 tries.

Muenster started with a 13-10 first period lead and was outscored the rest of the way with VV leading by counts of 26-20, 39-30 and 50-43. Hornet scorers were Ricky Winn 16, Steve Luke 7, Larry Fleitman 7, Kevin Felderhoff 4, Glenn Fisher 4, Wayne Carroll 3.

Valley View's JV girls gained in all periods but the second as the scores read 6-1, 10-5, 18-12 and 22-4. Jill Wimmer hit 10 for MHS, Nancy Walterscheid added 2, Shellie Zimmerer 1 and Connie Lutkenhaus.

Next on the MHS schedule is at Forestburg Friday night. Varsity boys and girls will play, but there will be no junior varsity games.

Tigers Nip Perrin, Tigerettes Lose

Sacred Heart's Tigers racked up a well earned win Tuesday night at Perrin and the Tigerettes, varsity and junior varsity, lost a pair.

The boys found themselves trailing 14-8 and 28-25 in the first and second quarters and changed from a zone defense to a full floor man to man press. It helped, and the tigers took over, gaining to a lead of 45-34 at the third and a win of 58-44. They stalled 5 minutes out of the last quarter. Considering all, the team did an outstanding job, Coach Le Brasseur said.

Scorers were Monte Endres 17, also 14 rebounds, Kirk Mollenkopf 16, Brian Bednorz 14, also 6 steals, Brian Herr 4, also 4 steals, Gene Fuhrman 2, Troy Wolf 1.

The varsity Tigerettes made a bad start, trailing 33-17 at half time. During the last two periods they led the scoring but it was too late and they lost 63-48. Nevertheless Coach Jon was pleased with their effort. The competition was strong, with a 15-5 record to date.

Scorers were Carol Walterscheid 16, Tammy Henschel 13, Susan Walterscheid 9, Virginia Bartush 4, Shellie Walterscheid 2, Ann Felderhoff 2, Angie Bartush 2.

JV Tigerettes had a bad first period, trailing 8-2, and almost broke even in the second and third, the scores reading 24-8 and 19-12, but the last period was another deficit and the final count was 31-16. SH scorers were Karla Hartman 6, Mary Lynn Hartman 5, Jennie Felderhoff 2, Laurie Endres 2, Sara Stoffels 1.

Next on the Sacred Heart schedule is a 3 game program with Perrin on the local court. It starts with a junior varsity boys game at 6, then the two varsity games.

Transplanted Texan Back Home to Collect Antique cars

By Bernie Fette
Enterprise Staff Writer

Whenever Claude Lehnertz isn't serving up some of the best barbecue in the United States, he can probably be found indulging himself in one of his many hobbies. Among them, collecting antique cars.

Claude Lehnertz is the son of Mrs. Agnes Lehnertz of Muenster and the youngest of eight brothers and one sister all of whom served in the armed forces.

He not only collects antique cars, but antique guns as well. He is also a part-owner with some of his brothers in the Longhorn BBQ Inc. in Spokane, Wash., a restaurant which, by the way, was selected as one of the best in the country a few years ago. According to his mother, "He likes to stay busy."

But Lehnertz himself said, "I just like to tinker," explaining his interest in the hobby. "I've been fascinated by these cars about five years now."

Lehnertz recently stopped in Muenster to visit his mother...and to check out a few cars.

"There are more cars in this part of the country than there are in the northwest," he said. "That's because of the population. There are just more people down here, so there are more cars."

There were three cars Lehnertz was planning to buy from a dealer in Florida. So rather than have them transported all the way up to Spokane, he decided he'd drive them himself because "They're fun to drive," he said.

Although it's a hobby, Lehnertz said he realizes the market for antique cars is getting very big, a 25-year-old car rates as an antique, he said.

During his visit here, Lehnertz had three old Fords: a '54, a '55, and a '56. "If just two of those were T-birds that old," he said, "you'd probably be talking about $30,000 worth of cars."

But from the way he talks about cars as a hobby as well as a good investment, you'd hardly think Lehnertz was in it for the money since he just "likes to tinker," as he said.

In fact there is one car Lehnertz owns which he may never sell. Recently he bought a 1955 Ford coupe which has only 12,000 miles on it—original miles.

The car is in what he calls "showroom condition." Other cars which are that old and still in showroom condition would sell for at least $6,000 or $7,000, according to Lehnertz. And although he buys and sells an average of six to eight cars a year, that '55 is one he said he will probably never get rid of.

He said some people are interested in owning an old car for purely nostalgic reasons. "Some people may have ridden in one as a kid, so they just decide to get one, but they're also very economical."

But as the hobby becomes more popular across the country, he said, the cars as well as parts are becoming increasingly hard to find.

Lehnertz said acquiring an antique car that has all its original parts intact is a real find in itself. But if parts are needed, they can sometimes be found at junkyards. "Swap meets" are also good ways to find parts as well as the increasing number of antique car clubs which are starting all over the country.

While the '55s and '56s continue to increase in value, there are some other cars which Lehnertz sees as becoming valuable as well. "If Chrysler decided tomorrow that they're closing down, their cars would go up in price right away," he said. Anytime a car manufacturer discontinues a certain model, the convertible for example, that model immediately becomes more valuable and popular.

Between collecting guns, cars and helping to manage an award-winning restaurant, filling up idle time should be no problem. But maybe Lehnertz should develop yet another hobby: inventing. Maybe inventing a day which contains more than 24 hours would be a good place to start.

W-2 Form Should Be Received By February 2

Employees who have not received their Wage and Tax Statements (Form W-2) from their employers must still file their tax returns by April 15, the Internal Revenue Service advises.

To avoid delays in receiving the W-2, employees should furnish their employers with a current address, the IRS says. If employees do not receive the statement by February 2, they should first contact their employer. After February 15, 1981, the employee should ask for help by calling the IRS toll-free number listed in the telephone directory.

The IRS reminds taxpayers that they must have a W-2 form from every employer they worked for during the year. Even if an employee is unable to get a W-2 before the filing deadline of April 15, a timely return must be filed. Report all income and attach a statement explaining the missing wage and tax information, the IRS says.

Shown above are three cars which belong to Claude Lehnertz of Spokane, Wash. Lehnertz, the son of Mrs. Agnes Lehnertz of Muenster is a dealer in antique guns as well as guns.

"Operation Blessing" Helping Across America

It's not that unusual for a toddler to fall down. But Aileen, 2, falls more often than most children. She has cerebral palsy.

Until recently, Aileen desperately needed corrective shoes. Her mother couldn't afford them.

Nor could her mother afford to buy carpeting for her Seattle-area home. So when Aileen fell, she hit a cement floor.

Now, some of these things are in the past, thanks to The Christian Broadcasting Network's "Operation Blessing."

A phone call to the Seattle area "Operation Blessing" center was all it took. Corrective shoes and clothing were purchased for Aileen, and a crib and carpeting were donated to the family.

Aileen's story is typical of what's happening all across America as a result of "Operation Blessing," a unique program launched in November 1978 by Dr. M.G. (Pat) Robertson, CBN president and popular host of "The 700 Club", CBN's magazine-style daily television show.

"Operation Blessing," supervised by 700 Club Co-host Ben Kinchlow, is a link between people in need and people who can meet that need. This is done through The 700 Club's nationwide telephone counseling centers, working with local churches in communities throughout the 50 states.

"As far as we know, there's nothing else being done quite like this," said Kinchlow. "At least, not a totally volunteer undertaking of this scope."

"In doing this, we're just trying to obey Jesus. Over and over again, Jesus urges us—commands us—to 'love our neighbor'; to be His hands and feet here on earth. For the Christian, loving involves giving. It means caring—caring enough to do something. We're doing something. Not as much as we'd like, but what we can. It's a start."

More than 5,000 local churches nationwide cooperate with The 700 Club counseling centers, providing the personal ministry backup to CBN's television ministry.

These churches, and others, are getting involved in "Operation Blessing," Kinchlow said. CBN is making available matching funds to participating congregations, he added. The ministry, through "Operation Blessing," is matching-dollar-for-dollar whatever amount of cash a church sets aside for helping those in its community through "Operation Blessing."

"We are in no way in competition with local churches," said Kinchlow. "We work with local churches. We are simply an extension. We reach into areas where they may not be able to reach."

"Operation Blessing" stories abound. People have been helped in cities across America, from Hawaii to Maine. For instance: In Milwaukee, Wis., 543 families were fed on Thanksgiving through "Operation Blessing" donations and a local food drive.

In Tucson, Ariz., a widow was given $270 to prevent her from being evicted from her trailer home.

In Austin, Tex., a single parent with two children, one of whom is an amputee, received $1,000 to help with medical bills.

In Virginia Beach, Va., an elderly woman with virtually no income and without heat or food prayed that God would meet her need. Through "Operation Blessing," fuel for heat, gas for her cooking stove, and food were provided for her. "I didn't think people did things like this anymore," she said, weeping.

In Philadelphia, Pa., a grocer called The 700 Club counseling center to offer $30 worth of groceries to a needy family. Soon after his call, a family in need of food called the center. The grocer ended up taking a whole truckload of groceries to the family and buying new shoes for all five children.

In Detroit, a woman with 9 children called The 700 Club counseling center in desperate need of a car. At the same time, a family 70 miles away called to say they had a car they wanted to give away. "Operation Blessing" brought the two together.

The 700 Club, an internationally syndicated production of The Christian Broadcasting Network, features guests whose lives have been changed by God; news analysis with a biblical perspective; music; video features and live interviews via satellite from around the world; current authors and newsmakers; and cooking tips. It is aired Monday through Friday in most of the nation on 162 TV stations and on more than 1,800 cable television systems.

700 Club Host Pat Robertson and Co-host Ben Kinchlow explore subjects ranging from spiritual awakenings to timely issues such as energy, inflation, a world unrest, and moral questions. Produced in 60- and 90-minute versions, The 700 Club recently switched from "talk-show" style to a lively magazine format.

Forestburg News

by Myrt Denham

It is a little late into the New Year but I do want to wish all of you a very Happy, Prosperous and Healthy New Year. Most of all a Healthy one. Good health is one of the most important things we can have. Without it all else doesn't count for to much - except our faith in God.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Rich of Citrus Grove, California flew into D/FW to spend the Christmas Holidays with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Willie Kuykendall. Mrs. Rich is the former Lois Kuykendall.

Our neighbor, Jack Carter, has been on the sick list. He spent two days in the Bowie Hospital just before Christmas. The doctors then released him into the endearing care of wife, Vesta Lee.

Just learned that Mrs. Jewell (Smith) Casteel of Saint Jo died on Sat. Dec. 20 at Saint Richard's Villa in Muenster. Funeral services were held on Mon. Dec. 22 and burial was in the Perryman Cemetery. Mrs. Casteel was a sister to Mrs. Lenora Moore of Forestburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Covington and family have just recently moved into the house in the Burg owned by Mr. and Mrs. Mark Landers. Mark and Hattie are still residents of Pleasant Haven Home in Nocona.

Christmas on Sunday Dec. 28 was held at the Ray Jackson home. Those present for dinner and gift exchange were: Mrs. Quida McCandless and Todd of Floydada, Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Brogdon of Miami, Tex., Bill Jackson of Decatur, Mr. and Mrs. Randy Bird of Paradise, Mr. and Mrs. Jack C. Dill and Vatori, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dill and children and Mr. and Mrs. Larry Dill and son all of the Burg.

Mrs. Ross (Lucille) Littell reports that she and Ross had one of the nicest Christmas seasons in years. On Sun. the 28 the Littells and Mrs. Gretell Fanning had their Christmas in Wichita Falls with Mr. and Mrs. Hal Walling. Others present were Mr. and Mrs. Steve White and Ann of Dallas, the Wallings' son Craig and wife, and their daughter Lynn and daughter.

Due to some error on my part - or elsewhere - we must apologize to Mr. and Mrs. Tolbert Fanning of Stoney Point for not including them on the list of those who attended the Big Christmas Party at the Howard Sockwell home Thur. p.m. Dec. 11.

Mrs. Elaine Truitt of Argyle celebrated her "39th" plus birthday Tues. Dec. 30. Celebrating birthdays in January are: Mrs. Betty Reynolds - Jan 2; K.J. "Wassie" Reynolds - Jan 2; Howard Sockwell - Jan 7; Gladys Barclay - Jan 8; Vesta Lee Carter - Jan. 12; Millie Reynolds - Jan. 17; Ruth Smith - Jan 19.

Mr. and Mrs. Bennett Reynolds visited with Mrs. Joe Denham in the Bellmire Home in Bowie Sunday afternoon Dec. 28.

Mrs. Leroy (Betty) Upshaw of Mallard says she is steadily improving from her broken hip. Her granddaughter Nancy of Paris, Texas spent over a week with her - lending a helping hand. Nancy is the daughter of the former Vickie Upshaw.

At a Christmas party recently a story was told on Clifford Hudspeth. Seems whenever he and Merle go to a new town somewhere Clifford gets the telephone directory to see how many Hudspeth reside there and calls them to find out if they are related to him. On a trip to San Antonio sometime back he called one Hudspeth resident to find out if they were related and the lady answered him saying, "No Suh, I don't believe we's any kin!"

50 Japanese Kids Want Invitations To Visit in Texas

I would like to visit you this summer. I and 49 other LABO Japanese kids hope to visit Texas, learn how you live, and make friends with you. But we can't come unless 50 Texas families invite us to stay with them.

Most of our Moms and Dads have been saving money since we were born just so we could come on a LABO Exchange trip. We are between the ages of 12 and 22 and have been learning all about American customs in our LABO clubs.

We will come to Texas the last of July and leave the last part of August. We want to be a part of your family and help with the chores. Our instructor said that Texas families were not to plan extra activities just for us, but I would really like to see a rodeo!

If you would like to have one of us stay at your house, you are supposed to call your County Extension Agent.

P.S. Do you really ride horses and wear jeans?

Fifty Japanese young people are making plans to visit Texas the summer of 1981. Above as the letter shows, the young people look forward to the opportunity of visiting the United States and of learning about other cultures. They will be coming during the last of July and will leave at the end of August.

Host families will be responsible for sharing their homes for about four weeks. Host will assume costs of room and board for the exchange. Host families need to have a child or children ages 12-22. Several families in Cooke County have hosted international exchanges in the past and have felt that it is a rewarding and memorable experience.

If you would be interested in hosting a Japanese exchange, please contact the County Extension Office, 665-4931 or 665-1966.

Topdress wheat now.

Get it off to a fast start this spring.

If you didn't get all your nitrogen down preplant, a topdress application to make up the difference will give your wheat a real boost. Not only will you get increased yield, but your wheat will have a higher protein content... higher quality.

A topdress application of nitrogen is especially important if you have pastured your wheat. The added nitrogen will make it "bounce back" in the spring.

We have the nitrogen you need, so come in today for your supplies. We can also arrange for custom application if you wish.

reasonable to consider them in assessing punishment. However there are also many crimes which deserve the limit of punishment.

These changes in law, along with less interference with police in seeking out criminals, are the primary steps in dealing with crime. It's high time to understand that society needs to get control over the criminal rather than the weapon.

Along with their wailing, the anti-handgun people still fail to explain how their proposal can help the situation. They should know that when the guns become illegal they will be surrendered only by law abiding people. Killers will still have their guns. "When guns are outlawed, only outlaws will have guns." Isn't it rather ridiculous to assume that the ban on guns would have an effect on criminals? On the contrary, that would make conditions worse than ever.

An ironic thought: on pretense of disarming criminals, law abiding people are disarmed, and criminals will have a greater percentage of the guns than ever before.

Cub Scout News

The search for a cubmaster for Muenster's pack 664 is still underway. With a survey in the schools to begin this week to discover prospective Cubs and Scouts, the need for a cubmaster is even more apparent.

Mrs. Lupe Evans will be in charge of the survey to seek out boys who are interested in joining the scouting program in Muenster. The results of the survey will be used in April during the annual Cub Scout rally for new members and leaders.

Based on the overall essential of good character, a prospective cubmaster should have some experience and ability to work with groups and parents. He or she should have a desire to spend time and energy required and be genuinely interested in the boys and the quality of the scouting program.

Cub Scouting is for all boys in the third grade, or 8, 9 or 10 year old boys, and offers opportunity for family activities, as well as activities to teach the boys good personal habits, to strengthen the ability of the boys to get along with and respect others, and to encourage good sportsmanship and pride in growing strong in mind and in body.

Cub Scouts learn by doing and they learn to do their best, to give goodwill with a smile, and to extend a helping hand.

For Lack of an Hour

By Karen Jones

He was sitting on the curb
With his eyes cast down,
And I saw a crumpled paper
Lying near him on the ground.
"What's the matter, son?" I asked
"Is there something I can do?"
Cause it wasn't hard to tell
That he was feeling pretty blue.

He slowly raised his head
And a tear ran down his cheek
He swallowed hard and then
My little friend began to speak...

"I've waited for this day so long
To make my dream come true
I came to be a Cub Scout
And wear their uniform of blue.
I've saved up all my money
I worked all summer long
So I could buy my uniform
But everything's gone wrong!
There were lots of little boys
Who were anxious just like me,
But we had to have some leaders and some helpers too, you see.

All the daddys stayed at home
And the mothers looked away
When they asked for volunteers
Who would help to save the day.
Oh I know the mothers work, and they're pretty tired, and such,
But the dens would not be big,
and one hour's not too much".

Then he sighed and wiped his tears
As he slowly walked away.
He had Almost been a Cub Scout
But his dream had died that day.

In-Service Holiday

Students of Muenster Public School will have a holiday next Monday while teachers attend an in-service session starting the second semester of the school year.

The first semester is ending with shorter class days for tests on Thursday and Friday. Hours are 9 to 3:30 on Thursday and 9 to 2 on Friday.

Telethon To Benefit Rehab Center

The eleventh annual telethon benefitting the West Texas Rehabilitation Center will be broadcast on January 10, 1981 at 7 p.m. on 15 television and 11 radio stations.

Beginning the center's year-long funding program, the telethon will feature stars of country and western music and of the Big Band Era.

Hosting the telethon again this year will be Rex Allen. Some of the stars will be Rex Allen, Jr. and his special project for the 1981 telethon, the Colonial Rehab Rangers. Also in the country and western line-up will be Jeannie C. Riley, Montie Montana, Sammi Smith, James Drury, Margo Smith, Tex Williams and The Lone Star Travelers.

From the Big Band Era such entertainers as Johnny Desmond, Helen O'Connell and Rosemary Clooney will appear with some contemporary songs as well as some nostalgic ones.

The Rehab telethon is the largest regional telethon in the nation. The 1981 budget of more than $3 million, mainly from donations, will enable more than 8,000 handicapped children and adults to receive treatment without charge.

The West Texas Rehabilitation Center has campuses in San Angelo, Abilene and Snyder.

Whopper Turnip

Championship honor for the season's biggest turnip is claimed by Mrs. Bertha Pick. The specimen, displayed by Pat Fisher last week, weighs 4.65 lb. and measures 23 3/4 inches in circumference. Pat thinks that generous watering by Steve Klement was largely accountable for the oversize.

Campers, agencies will soon get info on parks in Texas

COLLEGE STATION — Information on all local, state, regional and national parks — current fees, facilities and even new types of outdoor recreation that have evolved during the last 20 years — will soon be available to vacationers. The information will help park officials across the country better determine visitation trends over the last two decades and will provide park planners data for determining future park use, says the author of the study.

The Texas A&M University Department of Recreation and Parks is documenting the information for agencies that plan and determine growth patterns of not only the larger national parks, but also the smaller local, state and regional parks.

Gardening on the Contour

U.S.D.A. Bullentin No. 179
If you have a problem of rainwater running through your garden from land around you, or if your garden is on a slope and the water rushes off and is lost to the plants, taking the soil with it, you may want to try gardening on the contour.

This bullentin tells how to lay out a garden on the contour, handle outside water, and methods you can use on steep slopes to control erosion.
