Two Howze Officers Killed In Plane Crash North Of Muenster

Two Camp Howze officers were killed at about 7 p.m. last Thursday while on a routine training flight when their plane crashed at the E.E. Judy farm, 8 miles north of the city. The officers were Capt. Billie M. Weathers, whose home is in Elkton, Ky., and whose wife lives in San Antonio, and First Lieut. Robert A. Landon of River Rouge, Mich. Both were members of the 692 Field Artillery battalion of the 422 P. A. group headquarters.

First person to reach the scene was J.P. Flusche of this city, who was approximately three-fourths of a mile from the site of the crash at the time. He went to the wreckage and noted that both men were still breathing, though unconscious. The captain had been thrown clear in the crash and the lieutenant was pinned in the wreckage. Complying with army regulations in such matters he left everything as he found it and went back to the Judy home to telephone camp headquarters.

They returned to the field, ambulances and physicians reached the scene in about 15 minutes but the two officers were dead when they arrived.

An aircraft investigation board has been appointed to determine the cause of the accident, and next of kin were notified immediately. According to local reports no one saw the actual crash, nor noticed the plane just previous to the accident.

Next Monday, May 22, has been designated as trash hauling day for Muenster. The project is being sponsored jointly by the city and the Civic League.

The city will furnish the driver and the truck to dispose of the trash and this service will be free to city residents.

Persons are requested to have their rubbish, trash and junk boxed or sacked and placed at the curb or in alleys for convenient pick-up Monday. It is asked that such junk be placed for pick-up on Monday morning, rather than set out during the weekend, so that unsightly objects are not prominently in view for Sunday when a large number of out of town people are in Muenster.

OCCUPANTS OF CARS ESCAPE INJURY IN THREE-WAY CRASH

No serious injuries resulted in a three-way car crash Sunday about midnight when three vehicles collided east of this city near the John Hartman farm, a mile east of Muenster.

The automobiles flurried in the crash-up were the one driven by George Koelzer of this city, going west, which side swiped one driven by Gene Gieb of Lindsay, going east. By the impact the Koelzer Ford was forced over to the south side of the highway where it was struck by a car traveling east, occupied by a soldier, Koelzer and Gieb were apparently blinded by the cars' headlights. Fortunately all vehicles were traveling at a low rate of speed, approximately 25 miles per hour. Occupants sustained only minor bruises and the cars were only slightly damaged.

Greetings From England

A letter arrived at the Enterprise office this week from Cpl. Andrew Yosten, now stationed in England. Excerpts from his message follow:

"I am receiving the Enterprise and was glad to read about Muenster topping the Red Cross quota. The Red Cross is really doing a swell job here in the E.T.O. When on pass, all we have to do is call them for lodging, food or anything. The Red Cross is everywhere. Their coffee and doughnuts can't be beat. Most everything is rationed here but you can rely on the Red Cross for your needs. I like this country, but haven't become accustomed to the money or the driving on the wrong side of the street. The people are very friendly. I hope this finds everyone in Muenster as well as I am. Give my regards to all." Andrew is the son of John Yosten of this city.

Brief Illness Is Fatal Tuesday To Sister Georgia

Requiem Mass Here Wednesday; Burial To Be At Jonesboro, Ark.

Sister M. Georgia, 34, teacher of mathematics and science in the local Sacred Heart School, succumbed to a week's illness at 2:30 a.m. Tuesday in a Sherman hospital. A throat infection, rheumatic fever and complications caused her death.

High Mass of Requiem was held here Wednesday morning at 9 for the repose of her soul and burial is to be at Jonesboro, Ark. Officiating at the mass was Rev. Thomas Buehrler, pastor, while high school students sang the mass and senior boys served as acolytes. Students also received Communion in a body.

Sister Georgia was a native of Illinois. She was born Nov. 12, 1909, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Dust. At the age of 17 she entered religious life at Holy Angels Convent, Jonesboro, Ark., in August, 1927. She made her first profession in July, 1929, and final profession in August, 1933. For five years she served as a teacher on the staff at Holy Angels Academy, then for five years was dietician at Saint Bernard's Hospital, Jonesboro, and taught dietetics to students of the hospital school of nursing. She came to Muenster last year at the opening of the school term.

During her short stay in Muenster Sister Georgia had endeared herself not only to students of the school, but also to their parents and all who knew her. She was gifted with a sunny, jovial disposition, a rare sense of humor and was highly talented in her field of teaching. Early this year she taught a Red Cross nutrition class to ladies of this community. She held both Red Cross Nutrition and Canteen certificates as well as membership in the American Dietetic Association.

Surviving are the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Dust of Poca, Ark., two sisters and four brothers. Two of the brothers are serving in the armed forces.

Sister Georgia became ill last Tuesday and was taken to Saint Vincent's hospital in Sherman on Friday when her condition grew steadily worse. She was placed in an oxygen tent on Sunday, but all efforts to save her life were futile. She passed away quietly at 2:30 a.m. the following Tuesday.

The body lay in state at Waldo Funeral Home, Sherman, until 2:15 in the afternoon when it was taken by hearse to Dallas and from there by train to Jonesboro. Accompanying the body was Sister Anastasia, local mother superior.

On Tuesday afternoon the student body of the high school, the sisters and pastors went to Sherman to recite the rosary and pay their final respects to a dear friend and a beloved teacher. Six students, Clifford Otto, Alvin Fuhrmann, Billie Joe Miller, Norbert Mages, Thomas Gremminger and Alphonse Koelzer, served as casket bearers from the funeral home to the hearse.

Funeral arrangements at Jonesboro were still incomplete Wednesday, pending word from relatives.

A large number of Muensterites went to Sherman for the rosary service including Mrs. E.P. Buckley, Miss Lena Kleiss, Mrs. J. M. Weinzapfel and Mrs. Hubert Felderhoff and daughter, Marie. Cars for the trip were provided by Ben Seyler, Hubert Felderhoff, Mrs. Joe Felderhoff, Weinzapfel, John Fisher, A.A. Otto, H. J. Fuhrmann, J.B. Wilde and Buckley.

This Friday Is Field Day At Denton Station

The regular Field Day that has been postponed for the last two years will be held this year at Denton this Friday, May 19, beginning at 10 a.m. County Agent Albert Brient has announced.

A great amount of information valuable to farmers will be available at the session, according to Mr. Brient. There will also be an opportunity to inspect and get full particulars on all small grain crops, and experimental work with soybeans, soil building crops and pastures. The meeting will be held at the Denton Experiment Station.

Pvt. William Knabe left Wednesday to return to Fort Sam Houston after spending the week-end and a three day pass here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Knabe and family.

Almost simultaneously with the beginning of a special recruiting campaign, the WAC's announce a new uniform for off duty wear. A crease resistant rayon shantung, extra broad shoulders, inverted pleats, and various other features expected to appeal to feminine taste. That's for this summer, and next winter's uniform will likewise be snazzier.

The ladies, bless 'em! Regardless of war or army custom they continue to exercise their yen for fine raiment. And why not? Because they are willing to be GI Josephines for the greater part of the day is no reason why they should be denied the satisfaction of sprucing up on their own time.

You can bet there will be plenty of beeing, both good natured and caustic, from the GI Joes on this concession to their fair helpers. That's a GI privilege. But deep down in their hearts they're going to approve. They prefer their ladies trim and crisp and neat — easy on the eye. There's even chance the new uniforms will be morale boosters to both sexes.

A person's attitude toward this bit of official favoritism depends very much upon his general attitude toward the WAC's. Men who maintain that the army is no place for women, or those who resent the ease with which many of the girls have acquired high ratings, will welcome this as another reason to gripe.

On the other side there are those who appreciate that the women voluntarily accepted regulations and tasks they do not like to help get an unpleasant job done, also that the majority of them could be doing similar work free of army regulations as civilian employees at much higher pay. That makes a difference. As long as we continue to regard national defense as a man's duty we must give a lady credit for her help. Her service is beyond the call of duty.

However, Con would be one to favor a change in the official attitude. He would like to see every citizen regardless of sex subject to call for duty during war, assuming that military duty be interpreted to include war production as well as armed service and the family status of women be considered in their draft status. Under such an arrangement the army could get all the women it needs for typists, clerks and other lighter jobs. It could eliminate the high cost of civilian salaries, both men's and women's. It could hold down exorbitant war plant wages and prevent strikes. Problems haunting us today could be solved with remarkable ease by the simple expedient of applying the army pay scale and military law to all branches of war activity.

The idea doesn't exactly harmonize with our conception of freedom but at least it seems more practical than the other extreme we have drifted to — allowing citizens to abuse freedom.

An instructor in the motors department here was impressed by the meticulous care and economy German prisoners of war show in their work. Some of the PW's are detailed to help on repair and cleanup around the shops.

Cleaning a fuel sediment bowl one prisoner drained off the clear gasoline and poured it back into the bowl when he put the assembly together again. Another placed a pan under an oil leak to save every possible drop. All of them are careful to clean and put tools in their proper places immediately after using.

Similar reports come from the prisoners' quarters. Garbage at their mess halls is down to a minimum. Items of any value whatever are seldom found in their trash.

The contrast with our own men is so obvious as to become embarrassing. Average American soldiers never think of saving a cup full of gasoline or oil nor of giving special attention to their equipment. They don't eat all the food they put on their plates nor save the little things that may be useful later. Reared in an atmosphere of abundance they are accustomed to assume there is more where this came from. And army life unfortunately, seems to have intensified the trait more than correct it.

Besides giving an idea of comparative economies in the two nations this contrast suggests that we are winning the war by sheer weight of equipment and man power, not by efficiency and training.

"I said a postmaster was slightly disconcerted recently at the following note which a rural carrier found in a mail box on his route: "Dear Mailman — Attached is a check for $5 for which you will kindly get me a stamp to make our driver a legal means of transportation for the purpose"

MOSAICS of Sacred Heart High

We dedicate this column this week to one who came to serve us only a few months ago, one who served us only a little while, but one whom we learned to love sincerely in this short time.

Less than nine months ago Sister M. Georgia came to Muenster. It was on Sept. 13, the first day of the current school year that we met Sister Georgia for the first time. From that day until the last day that she taught us, our love and esteem for her grew until now her sudden departure from our midst has left a vacancy which it will be hard to fill.

We will miss Sister Georgia. We will miss her as a teacher whom we all loved. We will miss her sunny smile each morning and at each class. We will miss her cheerfulness and humor which she brought with her wherever she was. In short, we will miss her but we will not forget her and will remember her in daily Holy Mass and Communion.

MOOS OF THE MOMENT
 BY UNCLE BOB
 of the Kraft Dairy Farm Service

One of the most interesting developments in dairying, in the past few years, is the subject of rapid milking. Almost all of the agricultural schools and extension services have been conducting experiments on rapid milking and they're pretty enthusiastic about the results. The experiments seem to show that you can get more milk by this new method.

In Circular 283, Missouri tells why this is so. The circular also describes the three steps in rapid milking. These apply whether you use a milking machine or milk by hand.

The steps are: (1) Massage the cow's udder in the process of washing with warm water. (2) Start milking one minute later, removing the milk in 3 to 4 minutes. Strip rapidly. (3) Stop milking as soon as the milk stops flowing.

The increased flow of milk and the shortening of milking-time are advantages any time. They are especially important in war-time.

So, if you would like to have more detailed information on the how and why of rapid milking, I suggest that you write for Circular 283, Agricultural Extension Service, University of Missouri, Columbia, Missouri.*

Now, if we could just talk the cows into growing spigots instead of udders, we'd be all set. But the cows no spigot da English.

Two booklets issued by Texas A&M College give some highly useful information on feeding dairy cows. These are Extension Bulletins No. 15 and No. B-69. They point out that profitable dairying depends on an ample supply of good, cheap feed, and that silage is the best substitute for pasture.

Bulletin B-69 says that in normal years over the most of Texas at least three tons of silage per cow should be put down. In dry years six tons is recommended. Dry weather to date this spring suggests that it is worthwhile to plan for plenty of silage for 1944.

Speaking of supplementary grain feeding, these bulletins point out that the kind of grain mixture to use depends on the kind of feed that can be grown and the kind of roughage the cow is getting.

The publications contain tables showing how much and what kind of supplementary feeding to use. To get these bulletins write the Extension Service at Texas A&M College, College Station, Texas.

Another booklet that belongs in your collection is Minnesota's

Extension Bulletin No. 218. It gives some very helpful facts and suggestions on supplementary summer feeding.

For example, it points out that a cow on good pasture can gather and digest from 100 to 160 pounds of grass daily. A cow consuming 155 pounds of grass a day will have enough feed to produce slightly more than one pound of butterfat a day.

Thus, it is pretty obvious that the cow producing more than a pound of fat a day will need some supplementary feeding, while the cow which produces less should have none. To get this bulletin, write Extension Service, University of Minnesota, St. Paul, Minnesota.*

One nice thing about being a cow is that you can eat all day without having to spend any ration points.

Which reminds me of a very fine booklet on pasture improvement and management by Illinois. This booklet offers helpful advice on nearly every subject concerning pastures.

Particularly important right now is the warning it contains against overgrazing. To prevent this, it suggests alternate grazing. This means dividing the pasture so that the animals may graze one half thoroughly before moving on to the other half.

After the first half has recovered, the animals may be brought back, while the second half recuperates. The booklet also suggests that you clip your pastures with a mower whenever weeds threaten to smother out the pasture growth. Write for Circular 465, Extension Service, University of Illinois, Urbana, Ill.*

A person can get so absorbed in the amount of feed a cow needs that it's sort of easy to forget that she needs plenty of water, too. In fact, a shortage of water will cut down the flow of milk faster than anything else. So be sure your cows are getting plenty of cool, clean water. They need anywhere from 15 to 30 gallons a day.

And put a little chocolate in mine.

*NOTE: There usually is a 5c charge for pamphlets mailed to non-residents of a state, but possibly your own state has a free pamphlet on the same subject. Ask your county agent.

A recent letter from Cpl. Albert Hoelker, still somewhere in the South Pacific, reports that he is well and busy. He wrote that the Enterprise arrives as regularly as mail and that it is like another letter from home. "Nights are very chill, but days are warm in the tropics and we're eating a new fashioned type of egg — without shells — and they are terrible. The kind of news I can write about is very slim here, but I do enjoy hearing from folks at home. Give all my best regards," he concluded.
